The apostle Paul calls followers of Jesus to renew their minds and to offer themselves as living sacrifices to him (Rm 12:1-2). Similarly, the apostle Peter calls believers to prepare their minds for action (1Pt 1:13). These exhortations form the foundation for learning to think Christianly about life and about the world. This is the beginning of worldview thinking.

Immersed in our pluralistic and secular society, Christians often find it difficult to think carefully and coherently about how the Christian faith affects all aspects of life. We fail to connect what we hear on Sunday with what we do on Monday. This disconnect especially affects our consideration of the deepest questions regarding the purpose and nature of human life. At stake is the way we understand the world God has called us to serve.

Christians around the globe recognize there is a great spiritual battle raging for the hearts and minds of men and women. Believers find themselves in a cosmic struggle between Christian truth and a morally indifferent culture. This study Bible is intended to help Christians make progress in developing a Christian worldview that will help them learn to think in a Christian manner and to live out the truth of the Christian faith.

The reality is that everyone has a worldview. Some worldviews are incoherent, attempting to bring together a smorgasbord of options from a collection of different worldviews. An examined and thoughtful worldview, however, is more than a private personal viewpoint; it is a comprehensive life system that seeks to answer the basic questions of life. A Christian worldview is not just one's personal faith expression, not just a theory; it is an all-encompassing way of life, applicable to all spheres of life.

More than a century ago, James Orr, in The Christian View of God and the World, contended that there is a definite Christian view of all things, which has a character, coherence, and unity of its own, and stands in sharp contrast with counter theories and speculations. The notes and articles found in this study Bible are based on a Christian view of things that bears not only upon the spiritual sphere, but also on the whole of life and thought.

Those who have worked together over the past five years to bring together this project join us in praying that the Lord will use this reference work to help Christians hear afresh the words of Jesus from what is known as the Great Commandment (Mt 22:36-40). In this passage, we learn that Jesus calls on his followers to love God not only with hearts and souls, but also with our minds. The words of Jesus refer to a wholehearted devotion to God with every aspect of our being, from whatever angle we choose to consider it—emotionally, volitionally, or cognitively. This kind of love for God results in taking every thought captive to make it obedient to Christ (2Co 10:5), a total devotion to Christian thinking and living. We pray that the CSB Worldview Study Bible will serve Christians well, enabling them to see life from a Christian vantage point, thinking with the mind of Christ.

There are more than 125 contributors to this work, who serve at more than fifty different institutions, organizations, and churches. They come from North America and other parts of the globe. Coming from these diverse backgrounds, they share a commitment to the inspiration, truthfulness, and authority of God's Word as well as to the importance of developing a Christian worldview.

At the core of a Christian worldview is the truth that Jesus Christ's life and death revealed God's love for the world. Moreover, his sinless sacrifice delivered sinners from their alienation and reconciled and restored sinners from estrangement to full fellowship and inheritance in the household of God. Jesus's death on the cross for the sins of the world is the basis for the call to everyone everywhere to place their faith in him to be reconciled to God. Central to this Christian worldview message is the resurrection of Jesus Christ (1Co 15:3-4). The resurrection establishes Jesus's lordship and deity, as well as guaranteeing the salvation of sinners (Rm 1:3-4; 4:24-25). The resurrection provides new life for believers, enabling them to see, think, and live anew.

The contributors to this study Bible also recognize that developing a Christian worldview is an ever-advancing process in which Christian convictions increasingly shape our participation in culture. Thus a Christian worldview offers a new way of thinking, seeing, and doing based on a new way of being.

In this sense, this study Bible is distinctive. It is not only a study Bible that offers an exposition on the verses and themes of Scripture, but also includes numerous articles that consider many implications and applications of the Bible's teaching for all aspects of life. Together these study notes and articles attempt to amplify the meaning of the biblical and theological foundations of a Christian worldview, seeking to help believers take every thought captive to Jesus Christ. The notes and articles begin with the affirmation of God as Creator and Redeemer, recognizing that Christian worldview thinking is not only soteriological, but also cosmological as well. The contributors share a commitment to the sovereignty of the triune God over the whole cosmos, in all spheres and kingdoms, visible and invisible, which is the essence of Christian worldview thinking. It is the prayer of each contributor to this project that all of us and all who read and study this Bible will be grown in the grace and us and all who read and study this Bible will be grown in the grace and knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ and continue to make progress in learning to take every thought captive to the lordship of Jesus Christ in order to serve and edify others, which is a high calling indeed.

We want to thank Thom Rainer and the leadership team at LifeWay Christian Resources and B&H Publishers for their support during the time that this project has been developed. We express our thanksgiving and our gratitude for many through the years who have helped us to develop a deeper understanding of the meaning and implications of a Christian worldview and trust that this work reflects faithfully their influence on our lives. We offer our gratitude for each contributor, and particularly we offer thanks to Con Campbell, Eric Tully, Ray Clendenen, and Jeremy Howard for their participation in this effort. Ultimately, we trust that this work will help to encourage and edify believers, will strengthen the church, will support the advancement of the gospel to the nations, and will bring glory to our great and majestic God.

Soli Deo Gloria

INTRODUCTION TO THE CHRISTIAN STANDARD BIBLE®

The Bible is God's revelation to humanity. It is our only source for completely reliable information about God, what happens when we die, and where history is headed. The Bible reveals these things because it is God's inspired Word, inerrant in the original manuscripts. Bible translation brings God's Word from the ancient languages (Hebrew, Greek, and Aramaic) into today's world. In dependence on God's Spirit to accomplish this sacred task, the CSB Translation Oversight Committee and Holman Bible Publishers present the Christian Standard Bible.

TEXTUAL BASE OF THE CSB

The textual base for the New Testament (NT) is the Nestle-Aland Novum Testamentum Graece, 28th edition, and the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament, 5th corrected edition. The text for the Old Testament (OT) is the Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia, 5th edition.

Where there are significant differences among Hebrew, Aramaic, or Greek manuscripts, the translators follow what they believe is the original reading and indicate the main alternative(s) in footnotes. The CSBuses the traditional verse divisions found in most Protestant Bibles.

GOALS OF THIS TRANSLATION

- Provide English-speaking people worldwide with an accurate translation in contemporary English.
- Provide an accurate translation for personal study, sermon preparation, private devotions, and memorization.
- Provide a text that is clear and understandable, suitable for public reading, and shareable so that all may access its life-giving message.
- Affirm the authority of Scripture and champion its absolute truth against skeptical viewpoints.

TRANSLATION PHILOSOPHY OF THE CHRISTIAN STANDARD BIBLE

Most discussions of Bible translations speak of two opposite approaches: formal equivalence and dynamic equivalence. This terminology is meaningful, but Bible translations cannot be neatly sorted into these two categories. There is room for another category of translation philosophy that capitalizes on the strengths of the other two.

1. Formal Equivalence:

Often called “word-for-word” (or “literal”) translation, the principle of formal equivalence seeks as nearly as possible to preserve the structure of the original language. It seeks to represent each word of the original text with an exact equivalent word in the translation so that the reader can see word for word what the original human author wrote. The merits of this approach include its consistency with the conviction that the Holy Spirit did inspire the very words of Scripture in the original manuscripts. It also provides the English Bible student some access to the structure of the text in the original language. Formal equivalence can achieve accuracy to the degree that English has an exact equivalent for each word and that the grammatical patterns of the original language can be reproduced in understandable English. However, it can sometimes result in awkward, if not incomprehensible, English or in a misunderstanding of the author’s intent. The literal rendering of ancient idioms is especially difficult.

2. Dynamic or Functional Equivalence:

Often called “thought-for-thought” translation, the principle of dynamic equivalence rejects as misguided the attempt to preserve the structure of the original language. It proceeds by extracting the meaning of a text from its form and then translating that meaning so that it makes the same impact on modern readers that the ancient text made on its original readers. Strengths of this approach include a high degree of clarity and readability, especially in places where the original is difficult to render word for word. It also acknowledges that accurate and effective translation may require interpretation. However, the meaning of a text cannot always be neatly separated from its form, nor can it always be precisely determined. A biblical author may have intended multiple meanings, but these may be lost with the elimination of normal structures. In striving for readability, dynamic equivalence also sometimes overlooks and loses some of the less prominent elements of meaning. Furthermore, lack of formal correspondence to the original makes it difficult to verify accuracy and thus can affect the usefulness of the translation for in-depth Bible study.

3. Optimal Equivalence:

In practice, translations are seldom if ever purely formal or dynamic but favor one theory of Bible translation or the other to varying degrees. Optimal equivalence as a translation philosophy recognizes that form cannot always be neatly separated from meaning and should not be changed unless comprehension demands it. The primary goal of translation is to convey the sense of the original with as much clarity as the original text and the translation language permit. Optimal equivalence appreciates the goals of formal equivalence but also recognizes its limitations.

Optimal equivalence starts with an exhaustive analysis of the text at every level (word, phrase, clause, sentence, discourse) in the original language to determine its original meaning and intention (or purpose). Then, relying on the latest and best language tools and experts, the nearest corresponding semantic and linguistic equivalents are used to convey as much of the information and intention of the original text with as much clarity and readability as possible. This process assures the maximum transfer of both the words and the thoughts contained in the original.

The CSB uses optimal equivalence as its translation philosophy. In the many places throughout the Bible where a word-for-word rendering is understandable, a literal translation is used. When a word-for-word rendering might obscure the meaning for a modern audience, a more dynamic translation is used. The Christian Standard Bible places equal value on fidelity to the original and readability for a modern audience, resulting in a translation that achieves both goals.

THE GENDER LANGUAGE USE IN BIBLE TRANSLATION

The goal of the translators of the Christian Standard Bible has not been to promote a cultural ideology but to translate the Bible faithfully. Recognizing modern usage of English, the CSB regularly translates the plural of the Greek word ανθρωπος (“man”) as “people” instead of “men,” and occasionally the singular as “one,” “someone,” or “everyone,” when the supporting pronouns in the original languages validate such a translation. While the CSB avoids using “he” or “him” unnecessarily, the translation does not restructure sentences to avoid them when they are in the text.

HISTORY OF THE CSB

After several years of preliminary development, Holman Bible Publishers, the oldest Bible publisher in North America, assembled an international, interdenominational team of one hundred scholars, editors, stylists, and proofreaders, all of whom were committed to biblical inerrancy. Outside consultants and reviewers contributed valuable suggestions from their areas of expertise. Working from the original languages, an executive team of translators edited, polished, and reviewed the final manuscript, which was first published as the Holman Christian Standard Bible (HCSB) in 2004.

A standing committee was also formed to maintain the HCSB translation and look for ways to improve readability without compromising accuracy. As with the original translation team, the committee that prepared this revision of the HCSB, renamed the Christian Standard Bible, is international and interdenominational, comprising evangelical scholars who honor the inspiration and authority of God's written Word.

TRADITIONAL FEATURES FOUND IN THE CSB

In keeping with a long line of Bible publications, the CSB has retained a number of features found in traditional Bibles:

1. Traditional theological vocabulary (for example, justification, sanctification, redemption) has been retained since such terms have no other translation equivalent that adequately communicates their exact meaning.

2. Traditional spellings of names and places found in most Bibles have been used to make the CSBcompatible with most Bible study tools.

3. Some editions of the CSBwill print the words of Christ in red letters to help readers easily locate the spoken words of the Lord Jesus Christ.

4. Descriptive headings, printed above each section of Scripture, help readers quickly identify the contents of that section.

5. OT passages quoted in the NT are indicated. In the CSB, they are set in boldface type.

HOW THE NAMES OF GOD ARE TRANSLATED

The Christian Standard Bible consistently translates the Hebrew names for God as follows:

HEBREW ORIGINAL:	CSB ENGLISH:
Elohim	God
YHWH (Yahweh)	LORD
Adonai	Lord

Adonai Yahweh	Lord GOD
Yahweh Sabaoth	LORD of Armies
El Shaddai	God Almighty

FOOTNOTES

Footnotes are used to show readers how the original biblical language has been understood in the CSB.

1. Old Testament (OT) Textual Footnotes

OT textual notes show important differences among Hebrew (Hb) manuscripts and ancient OT versions, such as the Septuagint and the Vulgate. See the list of abbreviations on page XIX for a list of other ancient versions used.

Some OT textual notes (like NT textual notes) give only an alternate textual reading. However, other OT textual notes also give the support for the reading chosen by the editors as well as for the alternate textual reading. For example, the CSBtext of Psalm 12:7 reads,

> You, LORD, will guard us;
> you will protect us[A] from this generation forever.

The textual footnote for this verse reads,

[A] 12:7 Some Hb mss, LXX; other Hb mss read him

The textual note in this example means that there are two different readings found in the Hebrew manuscripts: some manuscripts read us and others read him. The CSBtranslators chose the reading us, which is also found in the Septuagint (LXX), and placed the other Hebrew reading him in the footnote.

Two other kinds OT textual notes are

Alt Hb tradition reads ____
: a variation given by scribes in the Hebrew manuscript tradition (known as Kethiv/Qere and Tiqqune Sopherim readings)

Hb uncertain
: when it is unclear what the original Hebrew text was

2. New Testament (NT) Textual Footnotes

NT textual notes indicate significant differences among Greek manuscripts (mss) and are normally indicated in one of three ways:

Other mss read _____
Other mss add _____
Other mss omit _____

In the NT, some textual footnotes that use the word “add” or “omit” also have square brackets before and after the corresponding verses in the biblical text. Examples of this use of square brackets are Mark 16:9-20 and John 7:53–8:11.

3. Other Kinds of Footnotes

Lit _____	a more literal rendering in English of the Hebrew, Aramaic, or Greek text
Or _____	an alternate or less likely English translation of the same Hebrew, Aramaic, or Greek text =	an abbreviation for “it means” or “it is equivalent to”
Hb, Aramaic, Gk	the actual Hebrew, Aramaic, or Greek word is given using equivalent English letters
Hb obscure	the existing Hebrew text is especially difficult to translate
emend(ed) to _____	the original Hebrew text is so difficult to translate that competent scholars have conjectured or inferred a restoration of the original text based on the context, probable root meanings of the words, and uses in comparative languages

In some editions of the CSB, additional footnotes clarify the meaning of certain biblical texts or explain biblical history, persons, customs, places, activities, and measurements. Cross references are given for parallel passages or passages with similar wording, and in the NT, for passages quoted from the OT.

AN INTRODUCTION TO A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW

I can't forget the shoes. Piles and piles of them filled the room. Of all the gruesome images I saw at the Holocaust Museum in Washington, DC, that room filled with shoes from Jewish victims is the one thing I can't forget. I think about the people who once owned those shoes, and I mourn the human lives lost in a vortex of unspeakable evil.

The tragedy of the Holocaust reminds me of something I heard as a high school student: ideas have consequences. Adolf Hitler did not come out of nowhere. Before there was the Holocaust, decades of philosophical theories advocating superior races were presented, nationalistic laws were written, and the use of eugenics to weed out inferior peoples arose. Throw in a dash of "survival of the fittest" from Darwinism and perhaps the pursuit of raw power from nihilism and eventually humankind was poised to arrive in the concentration camp—a horrifying concoction built on various falsehoods.

Ideas do indeed have consequences. But sometimes those consequences are beautiful, as in the early days of Christianity when plagues would sweep through cities in the Roman Empire. While many Roman citizens chose to abandon family and friends and flee the city to escape contamination, early Christians stayed behind to nurse the sick. Because of their belief in a Savior who sacrificed himself for others, they were content to give their lives as well.

CHRISTIANITY IN A WORLD OF -ISMS

Capitalism. Socialism. Postmodernism. Consumerism. Relativism. Pluralism. All sorts of -isms exist in our world, each representing a different outlook on humanity, each with different opinions about the way societies should function and how people should behave. Each of these began with an idea.

Some Christians shrug off any effort to study philosophies and "isms." They say things like, "I don't worry myself with what other people think about the world. I just read my Bible and try to do what it says." This line of thinking sounds humble and restrained, but it is far from the mentality of a missionary. If we are to be biblical Christians, we must read the Bible in order to read the culture. It's important that we as a sent people evaluate the -isms of this world in light of God's unchanging revelation. In other words, we read the Bible first so we will know how to read world news next.

We also read the Bible to know how to engage people around us with the gospel. To be good missionaries, we need to have our own minds formed by the Scriptures, and at the same time, we need to understand how people think—the people we've been called to reach. That's why we need to be familiar with the big questions of life and the big debates in our world.

THREE REASONS A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW MATTERS

A worldview is the lens through which a person looks at the world. At the center of a worldview are the ultimate beliefs an individual holds, foundational convictions that seem so obvious that the one holding them seldom thinks much about them. Each of us has a view of the world. And so do the people around us —even if they've never given much thought to it.

I have terrible eyesight and have needed corrective lenses since I was in the first grade. Every morning, I put contacts into my eyes so I can see clearly. A worldview is like a contact lens: it's the way we view the world. I don't give a lot of thought to my contacts throughout the day. I don't look at them when they're in my eyes. I look through them and see the world. Similarly, we look through worldviews and interpret the world around us.

1. A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW MATTERS BECAUSE IT SETS US APART FROM THE WORLD (RM 12:1-2).

"Christians must be different from the world." Whenever we hear this statement in sermons or read it in books, we usually think about our behavior, right? We nod our heads and think, Yes, our actions must set us apart!

But there's another application of this statement that is equally important. Christians must be different from the world in the way we think. Our thinking must also set us apart. Yes, our actions ought to make us stand out from the world. But at an even deeper level, our thought processes should be different as well because actions follow thoughts.

Let's take a look at Romans 12:1-2, a turning point in the apostle Paul's letter to the Romans."Therefore, brothers and sisters, in view of the mercies of God, I urge you to present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God; this is your true worship. Do not be conformed to this age, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, so that you may discern what is the good, pleasing, and perfect will of God."

In chapter 12, Paul launched into specific instructions about how to live. In other words, in light of all that has gone before, in light of God's promises and the salvation he has provided through his Son, we Christians are told to "present [our] bodies as a living sacrifice."

You may question the use of the word “bodies” here. Aren’t we talking about worldviews? Doesn’t that involve our minds? Yes. And notice how spiritual transformation includes both. In verse 1, Paul wrote that we must offer our bodies. In verse 2, he wrote that we must be transformed by the renewing of our minds. Mind and matter. Physical and immaterial. Thinking and behavior. Paul didn’t just say, “Think rightly.” Neither did he simply say, “Behave rightly.” Paul knew the gospel transforms both our thoughts and our actions.

If we are to keep from being conformed to this age, we’ve got to understand the connection between thoughts and deeds. Paul connected them, and so should we.

What does it look like to be conformed to this age? To think in a worldly fashion? The Bible has the answers. It shows us not only what a Christian worldview looks like, but also wrong worldviews and how they lead us astray.

In the book of Job, we see how a false worldview results in false comfort. Job was a righteous man who went through a severe trial. Along the way, he was “comforted” by his friends, each of whom accused Job of having sinned. The friends shared a worldview that said, “Everything happens because of cause and effect. Do bad things, and bad things will happen to you. Do good things, and good things will happen to you.” This worldview was the lens through which they viewed Job’s suffering. The book of Job challenges this perspective in light of an all-powerful, all-wise God who permits things to happen that are beyond our understanding.

Consider Ecclesiastes in the OT. Much of this book expresses the worldview of “life under the sun,” a life without meaning and purpose in the face of death. The author does end the book with an affirmation of a biblical worldview, but much of the poetry is written from the perspective that death is the only thing we humans can anticipate. Though he had amassed great wealth and power, the author knew everything was indeed meaningless apart from the existence of God. And in reflecting on “life under the sun,” he wrote a book that helps us understand the mind-set and worldview of someone who lives as though this life is all there is.

Or consider Paul’s lengthy discourse on the resurrection of Christ in 1 Corinthians 15. “If the dead are not raised, Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die,” he wrote in verse 32. In other words, a life of hedonism—the pursuit of pleasure—is acceptable unless the claims at the center of Christianity are true. If Christ has been raised, then there is something more important than immediate pleasure and comfort. Paul contrasted a hedonistic philosophy with Christianity.

The Bible consistently presents a Christian view of the world. Along the way,

The Bible consistently presents a Christian view of the world. Along the way, the biblical authors interacted with and contradicted unbiblical worldviews. We ought to be skilled in doing the same. Developing a Christian worldview will keep us from being conformed to this world.

There is a missional orientation to our nonconformity. Worldviews matter because people matter. Seeking to understand someone with whom we disagree is a way of loving our neighbor. It doesn't mean we accept every point of view as valid, right, or helpful. Neither does it mean we paper over our differences. We must never conform. But it does mean that we will listen and learn like missionaries seeking to understand the culture we are trying to reach. If we are to "present [our] bodies as a living sacrifice," we must live in light of the mercies of God, understand our role as Christ's ambassadors to the world, and answer his call to bear witness to him and his work.

2. A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW MATTERS BECAUSE IT AIDS OUR SPIRITUAL TRANSFORMATION (RM 12:2A).

A Christian worldview is important because it sets us apart from the world. But there's another reason why a Christian worldview matters: thinking as a Christian is part of the process of sanctification (being made holy). It is an important part of embracing our new identity in Christ. Notice Romans 12:2 "Do not be conformed to this age, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind."

This verse points us back to Romans 1, where Paul laid out the dire situation of humanity before a holy God. There he wrote, "For though they knew God, they did not glorify him as God or show gratitude. Instead, their thinking became worthless, and their senseless hearts were darkened. Claiming to be wise, they became fools. . . . They exchanged the truth of God for a lie" (Rm 1:21-22,25).

This passage shows us what happens when we exchange the truth of God for lies. Our minds are darkened, and then we engage in sinful behavior—as is evidenced in Paul's list of sinful attitudes and actions: greed, envy, murder, sexual immorality, etc. (vv. 29-31).

But in Romans 12, the situation is gloriously reversed! Because of Christ's work, our minds are being renewed. No longer are we senseless sinners living in the dark. Instead, we are redeemed people living in the light of Christ's resurrection. We also live in the light of his regenerating work in our hearts. Through the Spirit, God is changing us, conforming us—not to the world but into the image of his Son. By the mercies of God, we have been given a new identity.

What we think about ourselves matters. It also affects the way we see the world. That's why thinking as a Christian is a key part of your identity as a world. That's why thinking as a Christian is a key part of your identity as a follower of Christ. If we have been called the children of God, then surely our new identity should affect the way we think and act.

As a parent, I am proud of my son when I see him growing and maturing. There have been times when, out of a sense of responsibility and love, he has left his toys to go check on his little sister. It warms my heart to see my nine-year-old showing signs of maturity as he grows. In the same way, God is pleased to see us thinking and acting as his children. We bring him pleasure through our obedience (Rm 12:2)—even though we often falter, stumble, and fall. It's true that we don't always think clearly. Our sanctification is indeed a process, and it is still incomplete. Yet God delights in seeing his children love him with their minds. He loves to see us embrace the new identity he has given us.

Worldviews provide answers to the fundamental questions of life. How did we get here? Why are we here? Who is in control of the world? Where are we going? What has gone wrong with the planet? What is the solution? People may not ask these questions consciously, but the way they answer such things in their own minds will shape the way they live.

Consider the example of a schoolteacher who goes to work every day convinced that the biggest problem in the world is ignorance. Lack of education leads to crime and is the source of human sorrow. If the world's biggest problem is ignorance, what is the solution? Education, of course! Salvation comes through learning.

A Christian teacher, by contrast, will see that ignorance may contribute to human suffering, but it's not the ultimate cause of the problem. According to the Bible, human sorrow comes from sin—our rebellion against God. Sin is the big problem, and salvation through Christ's atoning death and resurrection is the solution. At the end of the day, the solution is Jesus, not more education.

The answers to worldview questions lead to different outlooks on life. The way you diagnose the world's problem necessarily affects what you believe to be the solution. That's why it's important to have our minds renewed by the power of the Spirit as we study the Scriptures together. We must see the world through the eyes of biblical revelation.

The psalmist wrote, "The revelation of your words brings light and gives understanding to the inexperienced" (Ps 119:130). Ultimately, if we have understanding, it's not just because we have attained a natural level of maturity but because we've benefited from God's revelation. Being transformed by the renewing of your mind won't happen apart from God's Spirit working through God's Word. We need the Spirit to illuminate the meaning of the Bible so that we are able to find our place in God's great story of redemption.

3. A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW MATTERS BECAUSE IT HELPS US KNOW HOW TO LIVE (RM 12:2B).

Romans 12:2 makes it plain what the purpose of our spiritual transformation is. It allows us to "discern what is the good, pleasing, and perfect will of God."

I mentioned earlier how a worldview is like having contact lenses. What if I put on my contact lenses in the morning and then went back to bed to stare at the ceiling all day? That would be pointless. A waste of my lenses. The purpose of wearing contacts is to see clearly throughout the day as I go about the tasks assigned to me. In the same way, the point of developing a Christian worldview is not so I can stare into space, comforted by my good vision. The point of seeing is that I then walk in a biblical way, according to my new identity in Christ.

Sometimes Christians wish the Bible were simpler, a quick and easy guide that lays out every step of obedience. To be sure, the Bible has lots of do's and don'ts. But God didn't choose to detail specific commands for every possible situation we might find ourselves in.

What the Bible does give us is a grand narrative that focuses our attention on Jesus Christ and his gospel. In this story of redemption, we glean principles for living according to our new identity in him. Once we understand our general role in the plan and providence of God, we are called to exercise biblical wisdom in making everyday decisions.

God left us with something better than a simple list of commands. He gave us renewed minds that—through the power of his Spirit—will be able to discern what actions we should take. He is seeking to transform us so that we can determine God's will in particular situations where explicit instructions are not spelled out in Scripture.

Knowing how to apply the Bible in specific situations is one of the goals of developing a Christian worldview. We see an example of this in 1 Chronicles 12, where we find a list of King David's supporters. As the author listed the soldiers, he wrote of one tribe, "From the Issacharites, who understood the times and knew what Israel should do" (v. 32). In the context of this passage, this tribe's understanding was that David should be made king over all Israel. They knew what Israel should do because they "understood the times" and who was the rightful king.

In a similar way, we as Christians must understand the times in order to know what to do. We believe Jesus is the rightful King over all the world. And this truth necessarily influences our actions. A Christian worldview is developed in light of who God is and what he has done to reconcile the world to himself.

CONCLUSION

What does it mean to live according to our new identity in Christ? First, we must demolish strongholds and false ideas as we cast down the idols we make of ourselves (2Co 10:4-5). Then, in ongoing repentance and faith, we seek to view the world through biblical eyes. We are the citizens of Christ's kingdom. We are those who have been reborn by his Spirit and are inching ever so slowly toward maturity, driven by our hope in the final resurrection.

The more we think as Christians, the more we will have the heart of Christ. That's why we are called to summon others on behalf of the King.

THE CRISIS OF THE CHRISTIAN MIND

In 1995, Thomas Cahill released the provocatively titled book, How the Irish Saved Civilization. Cahill contended that "Ireland had one moment of unblemished glory . . . as the Roman Empire fell, as all through Europe matted, unwashed barbarians descended on the Roman cities, looting artifacts and burning books, the Irish, who were just learning to read and write, took up the great labor of copying all of Western literature" (p. 3).

Missionary-minded Irish monks later brought what had been preserved on their isolated island back to the continent, re-founding European civilization. And that, Cahill concludes, is how the Irish saved civilization.

But there is more at hand in Cahill's study than meets the eye. Beyond the loss of Latin literature and the development of the great national European literatures that an illiterate Europe would not have established, Cahill notes that something else would have perished in the West had it not been for the Irish: "the habits of the mind that encourage thought."

WHY WOULD THIS MATTER?

Cahill continues his assessment: "When Islam began its medieval expansion, it would have encountered scant resistance to its plans—just scattered tribes of animists, ready for a new identity" (pp. 193-194). Without a robust mind to engage the onslaught—and a Christian one at that—the West would have been under the crescent instead of the cross.

The habits of the mind have never mattered more than they do today. As Winston Churchill presciently stated in his address to Harvard University in 1943, "The empires of the future are the empires of the mind." Oxford theologian Alister McGrath, reflecting on Churchill's address, notes that Churchill's point was that a great transition was taking place in Western culture, with immense implications for all who live in it. The powers of the new world would not be nation-states, as with empires past, but ideologies. It would now be ideas, not nations, that would captivate and conquer in the future. The starting point for the conquest of the world would now be the human mind (The Twilight of Atheism, p. xi).

But this time, we may need more than the Irish to save us.

"We may talk of 'conquering' the world for Christ. But what sort of 'conquest' do we mean?" asks John Stott. "Not a victory by force of arms. . . . This is a battle of ideas" (Your Mind Matters: The Place of the Mind in the Christian Life, pp. 20-21). Yet there are surprisingly few warriors. Those who follow Christ have too often retreated into personal piety and good works, or as one BBC commentator said, Christians have too often offered mere "feelings" and "philanthropy." Speaking specifically to the challenge raised by Islam, he added that what is needed was more "hard thinking" applied to the issues of the day.

What remains to be seen is whether there will be any hard thinkers to do the work. The peril of our day is that when a Christian mind is most needed, Christians express little need for the mind, and as a result, even less resolve to develop it. There is even a perception that an undeveloped mind is more virtuous than one prepared for battle. Richard Hofstadter, in his Pulitzer Prize-winning book, Anti-Intellectualism in American Life, identified "the evangelical spirit" as one of the prime sources of American anti-intellectualism. He points out that for many Christians, humble ignorance is a far more noble quality than a cultivated mind (pp. 55-80).

Such devaluation of the intellect is a recent development within the annals of Christian history. While Christians have long struggled with the role and place of reason, that the mind itself mattered has been unquestioned until now. Even the early church father Tertullian (ca AD 160–220)—who had little use for philosophy and was famed for his question, "What indeed has Athens to do with Jerusalem?"—never questioned the importance of the mind (On the Proscription of Heretics 6, 3:246). Tertullian's conviction was that Greek philosophy had little to offer in terms of informing the contours of Christian thought, akin to the apostle Paul's quip to the Corinthian church that the foolishness of God is wiser than the wisdom of men (1Co 1:25). But Tertullian, as well as Paul, would have held in complete disdain any anti-intellectualism that celebrated an undeveloped mind.

Deep within the worldview of the biblical authors, and equally within the minds of the earliest church fathers, was the understanding that to be fully human is to think. To this day we call ourselves a race of Homo sapiens, which means "thinking beings." This is not simply a scientific classification; it is a spiritual one. We were made in God's image, and one of the most precious and noble dynamics within that image is the ability to think. It is one of the most sacred reflections of the divine image. It is also foundational to our interaction with God. As God himself implored through the prophet Isaiah, "Come, let us settle this" (Is 1:18).

Jesus made it clear that our minds are integral to life lived in relationship with God. When summarizing human devotion to God as involving heart, soul, and

God. When summarizing human devotion to God as involving heart, soul, and strength, Jesus added "and mind" to the original wording of Deuteronomy. It's as though he wanted there to be no doubt that when contemplating the comprehensive nature of commitment and relationship with God, our intellect would not be overlooked. The apostle Paul contended that our very transformation as Christians is dependent on whether our minds are engaged in an ongoing process of renewal in light of Christ (Rm 12:2-3).

This is all the more reason to be stunned by the words of Harry Blamires, a student of C. S. Lewis at Oxford, who claimed that "there is no longer a Christian mind." A Christian ethic, a Christian practice, a Christian spirituality, yes—but not a Christian mind (The Christian Mind: How Should a Christian Think?, p. 3). More recently, historian Mark Noll concurred, suggesting that the scandal of the evangelical mind is that there is not much of an evangelical mind. "If evangelicals do not take seriously the larger world of the intellect, we say, in effect, that we want our minds to be shaped by the conventions of our modern universities and the assumptions of Madison Avenue, instead of by God and the servants of God" (The Scandal of the Evangelical Mind, p. 34).

Even if we do not lose our own minds, we will certainly lose the minds of others. This is the double-edged threat of our day; apart from developing and thinking with a Christian mind-set, we will either be taken captive by the myriad of worldviews contending for our attention, or we will fail to make the Christian voice heard and considered above the din. Either we begin to think or we lose the fight.

It is essential to develop our minds in light of a biblical worldview that is then used to think Christianly about the world. From this we will be able to respond to the culture in which we live, and we will be better equipped to help the culture to respond to the Christ we follow. This was the clarion call of the apostle Paul, who reminded the Corinthian church that "we do not wage war according to the flesh, since the weapons of our warfare are not of the flesh, . . . We demolish arguments and every proud thing that is raised up against the knowledge of God, as we take every thought captive to obey Christ" (2Co 10:3-5).

James Emery White

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW AND WHY DOES IT MATTER?

Is there anything you can think of which is indispensable to your personal identity? Perhaps your hometown, family, or friends come to mind. While these are important aspects of what it means to be you, they do not travel physically with you everywhere you go. They are not present during those private moments while you are sitting in your room. But one thing sticks closer to you than your own reputation: it is your worldview.

The term worldview has been around for a long time. First employed by philosopher Immanuel Kant, the concept of worldview (from the German word Weltanschauung) took on new significance for Christians with the publication of James Orr's book, The Christian View of God and the World. But it has only been recently that Christians have taken interest in worldview studies as an essential task in the mandate to become serious Christian thinkers.

There are two main ways in which people employ the term worldview. One is philosophical; the other, sociological.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL DEFINITION

Although numerous good definitions for worldview might be offered for the philosophical sense of the term, I find the late philosopher Ronald Nash's concise wording to be superior: "A worldview is a conceptual scheme by which we consciously or unconsciously. . . interpret and judge reality." Notice the total scope indicated by the language. Our worldview acts upon both our conscious and unconscious impressions about everything around us.

If you have ever met someone who had a blind spot (anything from continuous body odor to an annoying personal habit), you know that we humans are not always aware of our own weaknesses. Our blind spots extend to our beliefs about reality, and since we are incapable of going it alone on our own wisdom, or even the collective wisdom of a community (with corporate blind spots), we must rely on an objective truth teller. This truth teller is God, the Creator of reality. He alone can steady our rudder in the sea of competing worldviews.

In broad terms, a worldview that is Christian examines cultural data and locates them within a pattern of belief that is consistent with the sacred text of Scripture, but also with the broader Christian intellectual tradition. In other words, whenever we encounter an idea, we ask whether the issue relates variously to how God created the world, how humans through sin have corrupted variously to how God created the world, how humans through sin have corrupted the world, or how the world through the work of Jesus Christ is in the process of being redeemed and restored.

Developing a Christian worldview is important for the Christ-follower because it tempers the way we interact with and assess the fallen world in which we live. Some Christians fall into the trap of being shocked about beliefs that secular persons express on a given issue. We must remember that worldviews serve the function of eyeglasses, helping a person to focus on the world around him in a meaningful way. Think of a trip to your local optometrist's office: you are asked to stare at a chart without the aid of corrective lenses. With each new lens, you are asked to choose either A or B. By the time you are finished, you see clearly. Without help, you may struggle to see at all.

THE SOCIOLOGICAL DEFINITION

The sociological definition of worldview recognizes that all conceptual systems are embedded in the culture. Think about the old Palmolive commercial on television: in it, a woman sits in a salon while getting her nails done. Her stylist, Madge, sits across from her, praising how wonderful Palmolive dishwashing liquid is and how gentle it is on the hands. Inevitably, the woman says to Madge, "I can't wait to try Palmolive!" Madge looks down at the woman's hands, which are immersed in a tub of liquid: "You're already soaking in it."

For all of the discussions Christians hold about "engaging culture," the reality is that long before we started thinking strategy, culture had already engaged us. Our society has a worldview all its own, which operates on our open imaginations, desires, and wills constantly. Worldviews also act like filters: they are totalizing and jealous. They are variously subtle, overt, systemic, systematic, faithful, or insidious.

A synonym for worldview is ideology. As Karl Marx wrote in Das Kapital, at the heart of every ideology is the following idea: "They do not know it, but they are doing it [anyway]." Ideology is unaware of its own presuppositions. Those in its sway naively believe that their way of thinking is the product of reason or science—when in fact deeply hidden background beliefs are at work.

For this reason, it is both right and wrong to speak of a "Christian worldview." If by that expression one means to say that biblical theology provides a comprehensive way of thinking and living, then yes, by all means we want to affirm the term. On the other hand, it is crucial not to confuse Christianity with being just another worldview standing alongside other culturally embedded worldviews.

As Yale scholar Lamin Sanneh has argued, whenever the question "Whose religion is Christianity?" is asked, the answer comes back: no one culture holds sway over Christianity; it transcends every time, culture, race, and nationality. In this sense, it is unique among other world religions. The gospel stands outside a culture, critiquing it with the resources of the biblical text, and always addressing its sinful desires and deepest aspirations. As theologian Harry Lee Poe observes, "Every culture has a question that only the Bible can answer. Listen for the question."

CHRISTIANS AND HOLISTIC THINKING

If you are not sensitive about the centrality of worldviews to the way people live, you will be an uninformed—and potentially dangerous—Christian evangelist. Unfortunately, too many well-meaning Christians have tried to share their faith with a non-Christian only to offend unnecessarily the person they are trying to reach. In other cases, a simple evangelistic inquiry turns ugly when the non-Christian turns out to be an articulate and intelligent defender of their own beliefs. Frankly, if you as a Christ-follower fail to understand the importance of worldviews, you might well do more harm than good.

This remark is not meant to frighten anyone away from being passionate about sharing the good news of Jesus Christ with the world. Nor am I trying to say that sharing one's faith is a task reserved only for Christian intellectuals. The gospel message is simple and clear, and it can be accepted with childlike faith. Still, every believer has a responsibility to be a disciple of Jesus Christ, a task that our Lord himself referred to as an issue of not only the heart but of the mind (Mt 22:37). Biblical worldview thinking, like discipleship, is a lifelong art that must be consistently practiced and studied, to be done well.

Worldview thinking opposes compartmentalization. There are not spiritual truths that can be divorced from daily life. Everything must be integrated into a whole. As Howard Ahmanson has so ably put it, "We worship a God who creates universes for a living. He did not set the sun, moon, and stars in their courses and then retire to go into full time Christian ministry."

Christ is Lord over everything. It is all one whole. Our job is to find out how to fit all of the pieces together in a broken world. In short, everything matters if anything matters at all. Minds awake, through faith and discipleship, can make real progress in understanding both how we should think and live in this confusing and wonderful world.

BIBLICAL INTERPRETATION

Rightly understanding the Bible is foundational for building a Christian worldview. God gave us his Word that we might "view" appropriately God's world, God himself, and God's purposes for us. He wants us to think well and live well (Dt 6:4-9; Mt 7:24), but we cannot think or live what we do not understand. Thus, sound biblical interpretation is foundational for anyone who wants to live under the lordship of Christ. In 2 Timothy 2:15 we read, "Be diligent to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who doesn't need to be ashamed, correctly teaching the word of truth." This means that sound interpretation is laudable, that misinterpretation is possible, and that interpreters are held accountable.

BIBLICAL INTERPRETATION: A "CONVERSATION"

Think of biblical interpretation as playing part in a conversation, for in the Bible God has chosen human language as the medium through which to communicate with us. John Calvin said that God has talked "baby talk" to us, getting on our level to communicate in a medium we could understand and to which we might respond. When someone speaks to us, we want to listen, understand, and respond to what that person is saying. This integrated paradigm fits well how Scripture speaks about our interaction with God's Word.

"Understanding" stands at the heart of biblical interpretation, but we are not simply after intellectual knowledge. Rather, biblical interpretation should be approached relationally, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit as we cultivate a posture of listening to God, grasping what he wants us to know, and living out his will. In Ezra's day, when the law of God was read before the people, they "listened attentively to the book of the law" (Neh 8:3), the Levites "explained the law to the people . . . translating and giving the meaning so that the people could understand what was read" (8:7-8), and the people responded to the words of the law with mourning and celebration (8:9-12).

LEARNING TO LISTEN

We must listen well, for we cannot understand or live what we do not hear. Since we are dealing with a written text, we could also use the image of "seeing" what is in the text. So biblical interpretation begins with a close reading of the text, and it helps to read a text multiple times, perhaps in various translations, to hear or see the contours, the nuances of the particulars in a passage. This means we need to slow down and read carefully. We should also pray, "Open my eyes so that I may contemplate wondrous things from your instruction" (Ps 119:18).

UNDERSTANDING WORDS IN CONTEXT

Once we have begun to hear or see the various aspects of the text, we need sound practices to understand the significance of what we are encountering, and this means we will be working with words. Since God has given us his Word in words, our interpretation will be governed in part by the way words work.

First, words work through representation, the collection of letters functioning as a symbol that represents something. For example, the Hebrew word for "bread" is לֶחֶם (lechem). You have to understand that that particular group of letters, in that order, refer to bread in order to interpret the word—and the passage—correctly. So as we encounter the words in a given Bible translation, we need to get at the Hebrew or Greek words behind the word or words we are studying.

Second, words are flexible. As we study biblical words (or the words of any language), we find that most words have a range of possible meanings or things they represent. This is called a "semantic range." Thus, an important aspect of biblical interpretation involves getting at the various possible meanings of a word. In English, for instance, the word "hand" has a broad semantic range: the word could refer to "help," "applause," a worker on a ranch, the minute hand on a clock, and about a dozen other actions or items. In Greek, χάρις (charis) has a number of different meanings, including "grace," "thanks," "gift," "attractiveness," "charm," or "favor." So interpretation involves seeking to understand, among the various possible meanings of a word at a particular time and place, how an author intended a word to be understood. At Ephesians 2:8, for instance, χάρις should be translated in terms of God's "grace" or "gracious care": "For you are saved by grace through faith, and this is not from yourselves; it is God's gift." We seek to grasp the appropriate meaning of a word based on how the author uses the word in context.

This brings us to a third and final point concerning how words work: words work on the basis of context. Context refers to circumstances that form the setting for a passage of Scripture by which that passage can be rightly understood. At least four types of context affect our understanding of a text.

1. HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Historical context refers to events recorded in Scripture or events that form the backdrop for the biblical story. For instance, at 2 Samuel 6, King David, along with thirty thousand warriors, is moving the ark of the covenant to Jerusalem.

The ark has been placed on a cart; the cart hits a pothole; the ark begins to tip over; Uzzah reaches out to steady it; and Uzzah is struck dead by God. Read apart from historical context, this passage may lead someone to understand God as capricious for zapping a person who was just trying to help! Yet, one cannot interpret well the death of Uzzah apart from the giving of the law in broader Jewish history. In Numbers 4 we read that God had given specific instructions for the transport of the ark (and other artifacts of the tabernacle), specifically instructing the priests that anyone who touched the ark would die. In short, Uzzah died because David did not know and carry out the law's clear instructions.

2. CULTURAL CONTEXT

Cultural context has to do with attitudes, patterns of behavior, or expressions of a particular society, which affect right understanding of a passage. In Acts 4 the priests and Sadducees confronted Peter and John because "they were teaching the people and proclaiming in Jesus the resurrection of the dead." Why was that a problem? From the broader culture of the time, we understand that the priests —most of whom were Sadducees—did not believe in resurrection. So, teaching about the resurrection contradicted their teaching and authority. No wonder they were upset.

3. LITERARY CONTEXT

Literary context involves how a word or passage fits and functions in a book or a group of books, or in the Bible as a whole. No word works well in isolation. For instance, at the most immediate level of literary context, biblical interpretation involves dynamics of grammar and syntax. At 2 Corinthians 3:3 Paul speaks of the Corinthian church figuratively, saying that they are a "letter" of recommendation before a watching world. The Greek word Χριστοῦ (Christou) is in the genitive case and could be interpreted in various ways. Is Paul saying that the Corinthians are a letter "about Christ," or that they are a letter "of Christ," that is, with Christ as the source or originator of the letter? Based on the immediate context, the latter is probably correct, since the broader passage focuses on the "production" of this letter. Good commentaries can help us understand grammar and broader issues of context.

4. Theological Context

Theological context refers to how a word or passage fits in the tapestry of theological themes in the story of the Bible as a whole. For example, when Paul says that Jesus is "our Passover lamb" in 1 Corinthians 5:7, we have to read his statement in light of the inauguration of the Passover celebration in Exodus 12, as well as Jesus's death at Passover during the final days of his ministry on earth (Jn 13:1).

THE GOAL OF INTERPRETATION

Biblical interpretation does not end with listening and understanding, for the goal of biblical interpretation has always been responding to Scripture. We are not seeking to master the text but to be mastered by it. As we live faithfully in biblical community, we are part of that extended interpretive community founded by Jesus. He taught us to interpret and live the Scriptures in light of himself, his ministry, his death, and his resurrection (e.g., Lk 24:25-27). We must read the Scriptures under the lordship of Christ, seeking to live out his purposes for us in the world.

George H. Guthrie

BIBLICAL INSPIRATION AND INERRANCY

The Bible is uniquely inspired by God. This truth has unified the church through the centuries. Like the early Jewish communities, the early church accepted the divine inspiration of the OT. They accepted the same books as in the Jewish canon of the first century, though they are arranged in a different order in the Christian canon.

The church also believes that God inspired the twenty-seven books of the NT. Though some of the books were disputed initially and many writings of the second through the fourth centuries were excluded, eventually the church recognized the canon as we now have it.

INSPIRATION IN SCRIPTURE

The doctrine of divine inspiration comes from the Bible itself. Paul wrote, "All Scripture is inspired by God" (2Tm 3:16). The word inspired means "God breathed." It stresses God's initiative, investing the books with unique power and relevance. The apostle Peter also affirmed inspiration, claiming that the Holy Spirit moved the ancient writers to write what God intended (1Pt 1:10-12). These texts refer primarily to the OT, but Peter includes some NT books as well, identifying Paul's writings as Scripture (2Pt 3:16).

Historically, the church has also affirmed that the "God-breathed" Scriptures are inerrant. Though the word inerrancy was not always used, the idea now embraced by it predominated. The term inerrancy came into vogue in the early 1900s, in response to skeptical challenges to the integrity and, therefore, the authority of Scripture. It is best to combine the doctrines of inspiration and inerrancy.

WHAT IS INSPIRATION?

Inspiration/Inerrancy may be defined this way: "God so orchestrated the circumstances of the writing of Holy Scripture that every word participates in its context to communicate exactly what God intends. Since the words come from God, they are inerrant. That is, they are authoritative in what they teach and accurate in what they record. They are the ultimate authority for the believer's faith and practice."

Several important implications occur here. First, God orchestrated the circumstances of writing. God used various personalities (at least thirty-nine writers) reflecting on different circumstances (over a period of fifteen hundred years). The personalities of writers are not violated; rather, they are highlighted. Reading the Bible in the original languages dramatically reveals differences in style of writing and literary devices. Each book was written with a specific historical context in its background. God did not dictate the Bible. Rather, individuals wrote exactly what and how they wished. Yet God orchestrated the various events and personalities to produce exactly what he wanted (Lk 1:1-4).

Second, every word of Scripture has significance. Inspiration is plenary verbal. Words function in literary contexts to bring meaning. While no word of Scripture can be isolated from its context and have God-inspired meaning, every context would be shaped differently without the precise words used. Thus, each word was selected by both the human writer and the Holy Spirit to communicate God's truth.

Third, the Bible is authoritative in what it teaches and accurate in what it records. Biblical truth is developed in intricate literary processes. Sections of narrative and biography, in particular, describe events necessary to build the truth Scripture develops by employing them, but the Bible does not always affirm them as true. Such is the case with the "wisdom" shared by Job's three friends. The writer accurately described their speeches, but the friends are wrong in applying their thoughts to Job's situation. The Bible is authoritative in that it accurately records these events and words. What the Bible teaches, however, has supreme authority. The reader must carefully study to determine what the Bible actually teaches.

Fourth, the Bible has authority in faith and practice. It shapes what we believe and how we live.

Fifth, the inerrancy of the Bible refers to the original manuscripts of the various texts. Over time, as people copied the manuscripts, some variant readings occurred. Scholars know where (and what texts) and how the variations likely occurred. Variations occur in handwritten materials in every type of literature. One cannot expect copies to be inerrant, given the human tendency to miscopy on occasion. Scholars have found approximately five thousand, eight hundred manuscripts of the NT alone (most are of parts of books), and there are many variant readings among them. Through the process of textual criticism, however, we can construct the most likely readings of the original manuscripts.

OBJECTIONS TO INERRANCY

Sometimes people question biblical inerrancy because they claim we do not have the original manuscripts and therefore it is a meaningless issue. In response, several points should be made.

First, even in modern times people want to be quoted on what they actually said or wrote, not on how people quote (or misquote) them. Each appeals to the original versions of their texts. The same should be true of the Bible.

Second, most likely we do have the readings of the original manuscripts. It is unlikely that we have the texts actually penned by Paul, for example, but we do have multiple accurate witnesses to it.

Third, with all the manuscripts available, no doctrine or significant aspect of Christian truth is at stake. No doctrine depends on one biblical reference by itself.

JESUS ON SCRIPTURE

There are various ways of describing and defending inspiration and inerrancy. Corresponding to various epistemologies, scholars have taken different approaches to affirming the integrity of the Bible, each with merit and success. For example, rationalists will defend the Bible because it makes the most sense of reality to the mind. It is rational. Presuppositionalists will look to the consistent logic and non-contradictory nature of Scripture to affirm it. Empiricalists will focus on the resurrection of Jesus and the correspondence to historical verification principles to affirm the Bible. History, in that view, is the way to determine the real events of the past. Experientialists will point to the personal and corporate changes of life that correspond to the Bible's teaching about godliness. Thus, they find it true in their own experiences.

The most fruitful approach is to look to the teaching of Jesus. His resurrection verifies his claim to deity; therefore, what he taught must be accepted as true. Jesus affirmed every portion of Scripture as accurate and infallible (Jn 10:35; Mt 5:17-18). He also referred to major persons and historical events, even affirming those that are most troubling to skeptical minds. As examples of these events, see the Creation of Humans (Gn 2–3; Mt 19:4); Cain Murdering Abel (Gn 4; Mt 23:35); The Flood and Noah (Gn 7; Mt 24:37); The Flood (Gn 7; Lk 17:27); The Destruction of Sodom (Gn 19; Lk 17:29); The Burning Bush (Ex 3:6; Mt 22:32); Lifting Up the Serpent of Brass (Nm 21:9; Jn 3:14); Healing of Naaman by Elisha (2Kg 5; Lk 4:27); and Jonah's Ministry to Nineveh (Jnh 3:5; Mt 12:41). As examples of persons, see Adam and Eve (Mt 19:4); Cain and Abel (Mt 23:35); Lot (Lk 17:28); David (Mt 12:3); Queen of Sheba (Mt 12:42); Solomon (Mt 12:3); and Naaman (Lk 4:27).

Jesus based arguments on the precise nature of words and language in the OT. For example, in Matthew 22:32 he explained that God is the God of the living—even though those he mentioned as living were deceased from man's viewpoint. In Matthew 22:44 he shed light on the complex relationship between David and the heir and Messiah he anticipated. Jesus predicted that God will continue to inspire through his apostles, thus predicting the inspiration of NT books (Jn 14:26; 16:13).

Because of challenges to the integrity of the Bible and the need to teach truths to successive generations, conservative theologians have been forced to formalize their views of inspiration. Today, the most widely accepted statement is the 1978 Chicago Statement of Biblical Inerrancy; it's the product of hundreds of conservative thinkers.

The doctrine of biblical inerrancy has multiple positive implications. Two are noteworthy but representative of others.

IN THE BELIEVER'S LIFE

The believer must have confidence that in the Bible "thus says the Lord." A clear and strong bibliology provides that basis.

IN THE HERMENEUTICAL/EXEGETICAL TASK

The person who has a predisposition of inerrancy often approaches the text differently. Without twisting the text or fabricating conclusions, the biblical inerrantist has two primary motivations. First, he wishes to discern accurately what God desires of his creation, seeking to know God's will and to walk with him joyfully. Second, he wants to discern the meaning of the text. Those who expect errors often find them, frequently shortcutting the exegetical process by not seeking resolutions. Those who expect harmony and accuracy search to find how the text has integrity. Without abusing the Bible, they often find resolutions to difficulties and reinforce their faith in Scripture and the God who gave it.

WHAT IS A HUMAN?

America's founders explained their rebellion against the British crown by appealing to a particular view of the human: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness" (Declaration of Independence).

Today there is little agreement about what human rights, dignity, and equality entail, and few remember just how tedious these concepts have proven to be. Throughout most of history, some lives were considered dispensable, and oppression was justified by aspirations to power, claims of ethnic or familial superiority, and economic disparities.

Humans come from different cultures, genders, and ethnicities. We do not possess the same abilities. These obvious differences make the answers to the important questions about life anything but self-evident.

Do allhumans have value, or just some?

Are we distinct from the animals?

Is dignity shared by every member of the human race, or is it dependent on gender, ethnicity, or abilities?

Is our humanity fixed, or is it culturally determined?

As important as determining how people should behave is settling on what people are. Different visions about what it means to be human compete in the marketplace of ideas. These notions, when lived out in the real world, have serious consequences for individuals, communities, nations, and entire cultures.

HUMANITY AND OTHER WORLDVIEWS

Non-Christian worldviews fail to ground the concepts of human dignity, value, and universal rights. Naturalistic worldviews such as atheism, Marxism, and secularism deny anything that is spiritual or metaphysical. Because all that is has resulted from natural, mindless physical processes, spiritual beliefs are fantasies that, like all human behaviors, result from chemical processes occurring in the brain.

In this view of reality, no Creator exists to endow special status to humans. Therefore, there is nothing intrinsic about humans that establishes their equality, dignity, or value. Instead, for naturalistic worldviews, there are only extrinsic realities, like appearance and abilities, to distinguish us from other humans, or even from "other animals."

Transcendental worldviews, such as Hinduism, certain forms of Buddhism, and New Age, understand all living things to be part of the impersonal spiritual oneness that is ultimate reality. Many of these religions hold to reincarnation, in which to be human is to be merely an expression of life trapped in the cycle of birth and rebirth along the journey to losing individual existence and rejoining the universal oneness to which we all ultimately belong. Humans, according to transcendental worldviews, are "divine" but ultimately not distinct from—and certainly no more valuable than—any other living thing.

Postmodernists deny that humans are able to know who we are. According to this view, everyone is trapped by perspectives shaped by culture. Categories that describe human nature, behavior, or roles—such as male, female, intelligent, leader, upper class, impoverished, antisocial, married, productive, etc.—are socially determined. In its more pessimistic forms, postmodernism despairs that humans can ever find meaning and purpose. In its less pessimistic forms, postmodernism ends in relativism, in which no individual or culture is allowed to judge any other.

Islam understands God to be so remote and far removed from anything in the universe that he cannot share his attributes. In Islam, humans only relate to God in service. Because God has not given of himself in creating humans, human dignity depends on obedience. Thus, the follower of God and the non-follower do not share equal rights or value.

HUMANITY AND A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW

The Old and New Testaments, however, present an entirely different vision of what it means to be human. First, the creation of humans is the pinnacle of the biblical creation narrative. Of all the things God made, only humans bear his image. Many atheist thinkers, like Friedrich Nietzsche, recognized that only the biblical vision of imago Dei (the image of God) grounds universal human dignity, value, and rights.

Biblical scholars offer three different, but complementary views of the imago Dei. The functional view suggests that humans resemble God in what we are able to do. Like God, humans create, reason, love, and imagine. This theory describes what results from the imago Dei more than it does what the imago Dei is. For example, someone unable to reason or create due to injury or disability still bears God's image.

The relational view emphasizes the Trinitarian nature of God as the key to understanding humanity. The Bible describes the eternal community that exists between the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Unlike in Islam, where the idea of God as Trinity is considered idolatrous blasphemy, God doesn't merely do relationships. He is, by nature, a relationship.

The representative view clarifies the unique role God bestowed on humans in the world. They are to rule over all he made, filling and subduing the earth, effectively continuing the creative work from which God rested (Gn 1:26-31). That God, the Sovereign, made humans sovereign over his world is unique to Christianity.

Unlike most other religious and cultural frameworks of the ancient world, the biblical creation story describes both male and female as representatives of God. Before we meet Eve, the first woman, the Bible is explicit that the status of image bearer applies to both genders (Gn 1:27), and it is a role not shared with the animal kingdom. Still, the Genesis account does not present male and female as identical. They are complementary. Alone, man is unable to accomplish his God-given task of filling and subduing the earth (Gn 2:18). With woman, God provides a helper for man uniquely suitable and distinct from man (Gn 2:20-24).

The significance of the imago Dei is underscored by how the Bible describes the fall of humanity. Not only are humans separated from God and each other by sin, but the entire creation is in "the bondage to decay" (Rm 8:21). Thorns, pain, frustration, and death infect the cosmos because of Adam's disobedience.

Finally and ultimately, human dignity is secured by the incarnation. That God became man in the person of Jesus Christ, C.S. Lewis wrote in Miracles, "was the central event in the history of the earth—the very thing that the whole story has been about."

HUMANITY REDEEMED

Among the earliest and most persistent heresies condemned by the church is Gnosticism, which teaches that anything physical, including the human body, is evil. When mixed with Christianity, Gnosticism proclaimed that God could not have taken on human flesh without being corrupted. In response, the church upheld that Jesus Christ was both fully God and fully man. Jesus physically rose from the dead, Paul proclaimed, or else our faith is "worthless" (1Co 15:17).

If Jesus was not corrupted by taking on the flesh of humanity, then our humanity can be made new. The NT authors describe the effect of Christ's work with "re" words: redeem, restore, reconcile, and renew. "Re" words imply the reversal of the corruption of sin. In Christ, the dignity, value, and rights given to humanity by God are restored, not lost. As Thomas Howard wrote, "The Incarnation takes all that properly belongs to our humanity and delivers it back to us, redeemed. . . . All the dancing and feasting and processing and singing and building and sculpting and baking and merrymaking that belong to us, and that were stolen away into the service of false gods, are returned to us in the Gospel" (Evangelical is Not Enough: Worship of God in Liturgy and Sacrament, Ignatius Press, 1984, pp. 36-37).

John Stonestreet

SPEAKING TO A NON-CHRISTIAN ABOUT JESUS

Abraham Kuyper once said that there is not a square inch of creation where Jesus, as the sovereign Lord, does not declare, “That is mine.” When Christians share the gospel of the kingdom with unbelievers, this is in part what we are sharing with them. Jesus Christ owns it all by right as Creator; he is the agent by which all things came into existence (Jn 1:3; Col 1:16; Heb 1:2). He also owns it all by right as Redeemer; he has purchased sinners from every nation with his blood (Ac 20:28; 1Co 6:20; 7:23; Heb 9:12; 1Pt 1:18-19; Rv 5:9). Every Christian has the privilege and responsibility of sharing the fullness of Christ with unbelievers and bringing the message of his lordship over all creation and his loving redemption to all peoples.

As Christians share the message of Jesus in the marketplace, academy, and neighborhood, they bear witness to God’s purposes in creation and to his love in redemption through Jesus Christ. In the Bible the church utilized many ways to communicate the message of Christ to unbelievers: proclamation (Ac 2:14-42), persuasion (Ac 28:23), teaching (Ac 19:9), and conversation (Jn 3:1-21; Ac 8:26-40).

Rather than provide a formula or step-by-step method of how to speak to a non-Christian about Jesus, this article will establish some key biblical principles to guide Christians in how they can share Christ with unbelievers. Effectively speaking to unbelievers about Jesus involves sharing Christ personally through testimony, appropriately in context, substantially through content, and powerfully through the Holy Spirit.

PERSONALLY THROUGH TESTIMONY

One of the most effective means of sharing Jesus with unbelievers is through personal testimony. The apostle John highlights “the word of their testimony” as one dimension to Christian witness in the world and a key factor in Christian victory over the enemy (Rv 12:11). The testimonial connects with people’s universal interest in personal stories and communicates powerfully the message of Christ through the transformed lives of those who know him. The apostles were eyewitnesses to the glory of Jesus in his earthly life, death on a cross, and of his resurrection. Jesus commissioned them and the church to be his witnesses “to the ends of the earth” (Ac 1:8). In Acts, Peter and John exemplify the compelling nature of personal testimony when, even in the face of opposition, they could not “stop speaking about what [they] have seen and heard” (Ac 4:20).

they could not "stop speaking about what [they] have seen and heard" (Ac 4:20). The message of Jesus Christ changes lives and prepares those he transforms to be living witnesses to the power and mercy of God to redeem lost sinners. In this way, he uniquely suits us to be his ambassadors in a world without Christ. Each Christian has a personal testimony to share concerning God's love in Jesus.

The NT speaks of the power of personal testimony through ordinary people whose lives had been radically altered by Jesus. In his earthly ministry, he transformed the lives of many who became great witnesses for him. Jesus cast out multiple demons from a man in the country of the Gerasenes. Understandably, the man did not want to leave Jesus but follow him in his travels. Jesus, however, said to him, "'Go home to your own people, and report to them how much the Lord has done for you and how he has had mercy on you.' So he went out and began to proclaim in the Decapolis how much Jesus had done for him, and they were all amazed" (Mk 5:19-20). Jesus encountered the woman of Samaria at a well in midday and demonstrated his messiahship and divine status by declaration and supernatural knowledge of her life. Due to her conversion and subsequent testimony, many believed in Jesus. John 4:39 tells us, "Now many Samaritans from that town believed in him because of what the woman said when she testified, 'He told me everything I ever did.'" In like manner, God desires to use every Christian to share the "word of their testimony" with unbelievers.

Christians can learn from examples in the NT that personal testimony involves being prepared to share about our lives before Christ, the circumstances of our conversions to Christ, and what our lives were like after coming to know him. Paul was real, open, and honest about what Christ had done for him (Ac 21:40–22:22; 1Co 15:9-10; Gl 1:13-17). Most importantly, he centered his own personal story in Jesus Christ so that the gospel was made plain and the essential elements of Jesus Christ's person and work were revealed. The Christian testimony is an important means to share Christ fully with others. God does not hold believers accountable for the response they get from unbelievers; only he can change the heart. Christ gives us a stewardship of the gospel, however, and calls us to bear witness to him personally through testimony, appropriately in context, substantially through content, and powerfully through the Holy Spirit.

APPROPRIATELY IN CONTEXT

Christians should share Jesus appropriately in context with unbelievers. Knowledge of the background, culture, and worldview of one's audience assists Christians in meaningfully sharing about Christ. Demographics are changing and peoples from all over the world are now neighbors to evangelical churches across America, especially in the larger urban centers. Christians, therefore, must increase their "CIQ"—Cultural Intelligence Quotient—in order to successfully and meaningfully share Jesus with others.

Paul adapted his method of sharing Christ with unbelievers based on the audience. When Paul entered the synagogues, he preached Christ (the Messiah) to the Jews from the Hebrew Scriptures; he sought to persuade them that Jesus is the Messiah (Ac 9:19-22; 18:4; 28:23). This method also extended to God-fearers, those who were not ethnic Jews but converts to Judaism who had some knowledge of the Hebrew Scriptures. Philip approached the God-fearing Ethiopian in this manner when the man was reading Isaiah 53 (Ac 8:26-40). Philip asked the Ethiopian if he understood what he was reading. Then using Isaiah 53, Philip preached Christ to the eunuch, who was subsequently baptized as evidence of his repentance from sin and faith in Jesus Christ.

It is always appropriate to use Scripture passages when speaking to unbelievers about Jesus, especially to those who have been exposed to varying expressions of Christianity. World-renowned evangelist Billy Graham often prefaced his evangelistic preaching points with "the Bible says." It is through Scripture that we know Jesus Christ—both who he is and what he came to do. God reveals in the Bible the message he charges us to bear to an unbelieving world.

Paul adapted his method (but not his message) when he shared Christ with Greeks. In Acts 17, Paul addressed a group of Greek intellectuals who had no understanding of the Hebrew Scriptures and limited knowledge of the new Christian witness. Paul took as his departure point the statue dedicated to an unknown god and proclaimed to them the identity of the One true and living God. Paul established foundational truths about God as Creator and provider of all humankind, the nature of idolatry and sin, and then the universal call of God to repentance and faith in Christ. Missionaries today use a similar method in evangelizing unreached people groups; it's called Creation to Christ, and in it key stories are told from the Old Testament to the New Testament, culminating with a central focus on the person and work of Jesus.

Sharing Christ in today's world involves understanding the worldview of the people we are seeking to reach. Paul said in 1 Corinthians 9:22, "I have become all things to all people, so that I may by every possible means save some." The post-Christian and pluralistic West, including North America, increasingly reflects similarities with the Greco-Roman environment of Paul's day. The Christian's task, therefore, involves an ability to talk with people where they are without compromising the message of the cross. The next section will provide without compromising the message of the cross. The next section will provide some biblical handles to move through the message of the gospel with unbelievers.

SUBSTANTIALLY THROUGH CONTENT

A clear presentation of the gospel of Jesus Christ will involve a reference point to God as Creator and Judge, humanity's fall into sin and the resulting consequences, the love of God expressed in the sending of his Son to die for the sins of the world and thereby provide redemption for his fallen creation, the glorious resurrection of Christ, and God's willingness to receive into his family all who repent from their sins and believe in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

When speaking to unbelievers about Jesus, we must remember that they must first sense their need for Christ before seeking a solution. Essential elements of the gospel message include a clear statement of God as Creator who holds all people accountable, and a clear presentation of the universality of sin that helps people see their need for salvation. "For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Rm 3:23). All are born dead in sin and are thus under the just judgment of a holy God (Eph 2:2-3). All are captive under sin, having no human means of escape (Gl 3:22). God has declared that "there is no one righteous, not even one" (Rm 3:10). "No one seeks after God" (Rm 3:11). As a result, "the wages of sin" are both physical and spiritual "death," involving an eternal separation from God (Rm 6:23). All people apart from Christ have no hope and are "without God in world" (Eph 2:12). As a result, no person can save themself through "good works" or religion (Rm 3:19-20). Salvation is not achieved through what humans do but by resting in the faith of what God has done for humankind through Jesus Christ (Eph 2:8-9). No other way of salvation exists—only Jesus Christ (Ac 4:12; Jn 14:6).

In order to faithfully and effectively share Christ with unbelievers, Christians must share certain facts about Jesus and the gospel message. In Scripture we often find brief summary statements of the gospel that can aid us in presenting the core of the gospel. For instance, Paul offers this brief and substantial Christ-centered summary in 1 Corinthians 15:3-4: "For I passed on to you as most important what I also received: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures."

Nearly all people acknowledge the historical figure of Jesus, though there is much misunderstanding concerning him. To begin a conversation with an unbeliever, Christians can follow the example of Jesus with his disciples and ask people what they think about Jesus Christ (Mt 16:13-15). Jesus is the divine Son of God, and as such, equal with God. He became man in order to live the perfectly righteous life that we failed to live and to die a substitutionary death in the place of guilty sinners, diverting to himself the just judgment of the holy God against our sin. Jesus Christ primarily came to die in our place, taking the wrath of God against sin in himself in order to inaugurate his work of new creation (Rm 3:24-25; 2Co 5:17). He who knew no sin became sin "so that in him we might become the righteousness of God" (2Co 5:21). The cross is central to explaining the good news of God's salvation and communicating all of the essential elements of Jesus Christ's identity.

Ultimately, Christians must share the message of the cross and resurrection in order to effectively share Jesus with others. Every conversation about Christ should drive quickly to the cross and resurrection. Paul focused on "Jesus Christ and him crucified" as the core of his gospel message to unbelievers and so should we (1Co 2:2). The cross presents Jesus Christ as a justice-seeking and justice-satisfying God. In a generation increasingly consumed with a passion for social justice, the message of the cross speaks of God's justice. God is perfectly just and demands a just and equal payment for the rebellion of humankind from humankind. The Father sent the Son in the power of the Holy Spirit to satisfy God's righteous justice against the rebellion of man through the Son's death on a cross and subsequent resurrection. In doing so, he has demonstrated his love by quenching his divine wrath and now offers the fruits of his mercy to all who will receive it as a gift by faith (Rm 6:23).

Our witness to Christ explains that his cross and resurrection eternally uphold and proclaim the message of God's justice, mercy, and victory. The cross puts the love of God on full display and the resurrection, his power. Some draw the conclusion that because "God is love" (1Jn 4:8), he would never punish sinners. The cross of Jesus Christ, however, demonstrates God's love in that "while we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Rm 5:8). He thus compassionately offers a rescue plan to the undeserving. The love of God is expressed through the death of Christ without compromising the justice of his divine holiness against sin. God provided a sin-bearer, his divine Son, in order to meet his holy demands against sinners (Is 53:4-6). In meeting his own demands through the cross of Christ, he provides a great redemption and victory over sin, death, and the devil through the resurrection.

As the cornerstone of Christian hope, the resurrection must factor into conversations about Jesus Christ. The resurrection culminates Christ's work of redemption and authenticates his messianic sonship (Rm 1:4). It reminds us that those who trust in him will be raised to eternal life. The message of the church those who trust in him will be raised to eternal life. The message of the church is, “He is risen!” The resurrection of Jesus distinguishes the Christian faith from all other world religions and their grave-bound founders. Belief in the resurrection is essential for a confession that leads to salvation (Rm 10:9).

Paul states in Romans 1:16 that “the gospel . . . is the power of God for salvation to everyone who believes, first to the Jew, and also to the Greek.” The gospel is centered in the person and work of Jesus Christ and is the agent of salvation for those who believe. Our testimonies should be a conduit for the gospel. The gospel is good news, but we must understand and communicate the nature and substance of the good news in ways appropriate to our context.

POWERFULLY THROUGH THE HOLY SPIRIT

God calls Christians to engage in a supernatural task to utilize all of who we are to share all of who he is. He gives us his Holy Spirit to effectively empower us to speak to others about Jesus. Christ commands his followers to bear witness to him to the ends of the earth and gives us the power through the Holy Spirit to accomplish this fundamental task; “But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come on you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth” (Ac 1:8).

Without God’s power through the Holy Spirit at work in them, Christians would never desire or attempt to proclaim the gospel of Jesus Christ. Evidence of the filling of the Spirit is bold proclamation of Jesus (Ac 4:31). The Spirit, whom Joel promised for Jewish believers, is the same Spirit poured out on believing Gentiles: “This is what is written: The Messiah would suffer and rise from the dead the third day, and repentance for forgiveness of sins would be proclaimed in his name to all the nations, beginning at Jerusalem. You are witnesses of these things. And look, I am sending you what my Father promised. As for you, stay in the city until you are empowered from on high” (Lk 24:46-49).

Christians are completely dependent on the Holy Spirit to give us power, understanding, sensitivity, and wisdom to share Christ fruitfully with others. We are also dependent on the Holy Spirit to apply the message to the human heart. Christ told his disciples that the Holy Spirit “will convict the world about sin, righteousness, and judgment” (Jn 16:8). As we speak to unbelievers about Jesus, let us be mindful to share him personally through testimony, appropriately in context, substantially through content, and powerfully through the Holy Spirit.

GENESIS

INTRODUCTION

The book of Genesis is the great book of beginnings in the Bible. True to the meanings of its Hebrew and Greek names (Hb bere'shith, "In Beginning" [based on 1:1]; Gk Geneseos, "Of Birth" [based on 2:4]), Genesis permits us to view the beginning of a multitude of realities that shape our daily existence: the creation of the universe and the planet earth; the origins of plant and animal life; and the origins of humans, marriage, families, nations, industry, artistic expression, religious ritual, prophecy, sin, law, crime, conflict, punishment, and death.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Since pre-Christian times authorship of the Torah, the five books that include the book of Genesis, has been attributed to Moses, an enormously influential Israelite leader from the second millennium BC with an aristocratic Egyptian background. Even though Genesis is technically anonymous, both the Old and New Testaments unanimously recognize Moses as the Torah's author (Jos 8:35; 23:6; 1Kg 2:3; 8:9; 2Kg 14:6; 23:25; 2Ch 23:18; 25:4; 30:16; 34:14; 35:12; Ezr 3:2; 6:18; Neh 8:1; 9:14; Dn 9:11,13; Mal 4:4; Mk 12:19,26; Lk 2:22; 20:28; 24:44; Jn 1:17,45; 7:19; Ac 13:39; 15:21; 28:23; Rm 10:5; 1Co 9:9; Heb 10:28). At the same time, evidence in Genesis suggests that minor editorial changes dating to ancient times have been inserted into the text. Examples include the mention of "Dan" (14:14), a city that was not named until the days of the judges (Jdg 18:29), and the use of a phrase that assumed the existence of Israelite kings (Gn 36:31).

BACKGROUND: The Torah (a Hebrew term for law) was seen as one unit until at least the second century BC Sometime prior to the birth of Christ, the Torah was divided into five separate books, later referred to as the Pentateuch (lit "five vessels"). Genesis, the first book of the Torah, provides both the universal history of humankind and the patriarchal history of the nation of Israel. The first section (chaps. 1–11) is a general history commonly called the "primeval history," showing how all humanity descended from one couple and became sinners. The second section (chaps. 12–50) is a more specific history commonly referred to as the "patriarchal history," focusing on the covenant God made with Abraham and his descendants: Isaac, Jacob, and Jacob's twelve sons. Genesis unfolds God's plan to bless and redeem humanity through Abraham's descendants. The book concludes with the events that led to the Israelites being in the land of Egypt.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Genesis lays the groundwork for everything else we read and experience in Scripture. Through Genesis we understand where we came from, how we got in the fallen state we are in, and the beginnings of God's gracious work on our behalf. Genesis unfolds God's original purpose for humanity.

Genesis provides the foundation from which we understand God's covenant with Israel that was established with the giving of the Law. For the Israelite community, the stories of the origins of humanity, sin, and the covenant relationship with God helped them understand why God gave them the Law.

STRUCTURE

Genesis is chiefly a narrative. From a narrative standpoint, God is the only true hero of the Bible, and the book of Genesis has the distinct privilege of introducing him. God is the first subject of a verb in the book and is mentioned more frequently than any other character in the Bible. The content of the first eleven chapters is distinct from the patriarchal stories in chapters 12–50. The primary literary device is the catchphrase “these are the family records.” The phrase is broader in meaning than simply “generation,” and refers more to a narrative account. This was a common practice in ancient Near East writings. This phrase also serves as a link between the key person in the previous narrative and the one anticipated in the next section. Genesis could be described as historical genealogy, which ties together creation and human history in one continuum.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Genesis reveals God first as Creator. He is righteous in his commands, and he judges when humankind disobeys him. Genesis further reveals God as the One who makes his covenant with undeserving people (see Gn 15:1-6). The first promise of Christ is given in Genesis 3:15; the Spirit of God is mentioned in Genesis 1:2 and 6:3.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Genesis shows the glory of humanity by emphasizing that mankind alone of all creation was made in “the image of God” (Gn 1:27). On the other hand, Genesis shows the shame of humanity by recounting three incidents involving the whole race: the fall, the flood, and Babel. All three events portray humans as sinners in need of a Savior.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Genesis introduces critical truths about salvation developed in later parts of Scripture. In particular, the incident of the death of a ram instead of Isaac points to a substitutionary understanding of sacrifice. Further, the New Testament makes much of Abram as a pattern of salvation for all the redeemed: “Abram believed the LORD, and he credited it to him as righteousness” (Gn 15:6).

THE CREATION

1 In the beginning † God created the heavens and the earth. † †
2 Now the earth was formless and empty, † darkness covered the surface of the watery depths, and the Spirit of God was hovering over the surface of the waters. † 3 Then God said, "Let there be light," † and there was light. 4 God saw that the light was good, and God separated the light from the darkness. 5 God called the light “day,” and the darkness he called “night.” There was an evening, and there was a morning: one day.

6 Then God said, “Let there be an expanse between the waters, separating water from water.” † 7 So God made the expanse and separated the water under the expanse from the water above the expanse. † And it was so. 8 God called the expanse “sky.” † Evening came and then morning: the second day.
9 Then God said, “Let the water under the sky be gathered into one place, † and let the dry land appear.” And it was so. 10 God called the dry land “earth,” and the gathering of the water he called “seas.” And God saw that it was good. 11 Then God said, “Let the earth produce vegetation: seed-bearing plants and fruit trees on the earth bearing fruit with seed in it according to their kinds.” † And it was so. 12 The earth produced vegetation: seed-bearing plants according to their kinds and trees bearing fruit with seed in it according to their kinds. And God saw that it was good. 13 Evening came and then morning: the third day.
14 Then God said, “Let there be lights in the expanse of the sky to separate the day from the night. They will serve as signs † for seasons † and for days and years. † 15 They will be lights in the expanse of the sky to provide light on the earth.” And it was so. 16 God made the two great lights — the greater light to rule over the day and the lesser light to rule over the night — as well as the stars. † 17 God placed them in the expanse of the sky to provide light on the earth, 18 to rule the day and the night, and to separate light from darkness. † And God saw that it was good. 19 Evening came and then morning: the fourth day.
20 Then God said, “Let the water swarm with † living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth across the expanse of the sky.” 21 So God created the large sea-creatures † and every living creature that moves and swarms in the water, † according to their kinds. He also created every winged creature according to its kind. And God saw that it was good. 22 God blessed them: “Be fruitful, multiply, and fill the waters of the seas, and let the birds multiply on the earth.” † 23 Evening came and then morning: the fifth day.
24 Then God said, “Let the earth produce living creatures according to their kinds: livestock, creatures that crawl, and the wildlife of the earth according to their kinds." And it was so. [25] So God made the wildlife of the earth according to their kinds, the livestock according to their kinds, and all the creatures that crawl on the ground according to their kinds. And God saw that it was good.

MODELS FOR RELATING SCRIPTURE AND SCIENCE

Both the Scriptures and science have a story to tell. From the creeds and systematic theology that result from study of Scripture, we have the metanarrative (grand, all-encompassing story) of God as Creator who prepared and sustains a pleasant world for humans. Both that world and its inhabitants have come under a curse due to sin, the Bible teaches, but history will end in the triumphant return of Christ as King of kings and Lord of lords.

The current metanarrative of science is the story of the Big Bang, drawing on evidence from physics that suggests that about 13.7 billion years ago space and time appeared instantaneously from nothing in an infinitely small and infinitely hot singularity. As the universe expanded and cooled, there appeared atoms, stars, galaxies, planets, life, and finally humans.

CONCORDISM AND NONCONCORDISM

The many approaches that biblical and scientific scholars have used to relate Scripture and science can be collected into two overarching approaches: concordism and nonconcordism.

Concordism is derived from the word "concord," which means harmony or agreement between persons, groups, or things. Scholars who favor concordism believe that exegesis (interpretation) of the Scriptures reveals a message that is in harmony with correct understandings of modern science. This means that any time the Bible addresses a science-related issue, it does so with full accuracy. Concordism is sometimes expressed in terms of the two books of God (nature and Scripture), which will be in harmony when both are properly interpreted.

The nonconcordist model does not see a harmony between the biblical testimony and the well-supported conclusions of science. Nonconcordists believe this lack of harmony is due to the fact that in Scripture God never sought to speak in terms of literally correct science but instead chose to speak in accordance with ancient non-scientific ways of describing nature. Nonconcordists who are not Christians would likely say that the Bible tried but failed to speak accurately about scientific topics. In the first approach, the Bible's failure to speak with scientific accuracy is taken as the expected result of God speaking in a comprehensible manner to people living prior to the scientific revolution. In the second approach, the Bible's failure to speak with scientific accuracy is seen as proof that the Bible does not have a divine author—a skeptical viewpoint that unreasonably expects God to speak in accordance with his full knowledge rather than using "baby talk" when speaking to finite, historically-situated humans.

VARIETIES OF CONCORDISM

There are many types of concordism, with a major dividing issue being the meaning of the Hebrew word for "day" (yom) in Genesis (1:3,8,13,19,23,31; 2:2). One group, known as creation science or young earth creationism (YEC), interprets yom in Genesis to mean a literal twenty-four-hour day. This stance is closely tied to "evening" and "morning" being referenced alongside each use of "day" in the opening creation narrative. Advocates of the young-earth view attempt to find harmony between this exegesis and the narrative of science. The YEC approach requires major modification to the standard scientific understanding of the fields of astronomy, physics, biology, and geology. Australian-born Ken Ham promotes YEC through his organization, Answers in Genesis. One of their staple beliefs is that science must be submitted to a literal reading of Genesis.

Another group, known as creationism or old earth creationism (OEC), adopts a different understanding of the word yom, which leads them to conclude that in the Genesis creation accounts it refers to a period of time longer than twenty-four hours. According to the OEC approach, each creation day was a long period of time that involved many acts of creation by God. The non-literal use of "day" in Genesis 2:4, where it refers to the "day" in which God "made the earth and the heavens," is a key textual basis for claiming that "day" does not always refer to a twenty-four-hour period. The OEC approach sees more harmony with standard scientific understanding of the history of the universe than does the YEC approach, though it resists the naturalistic presuppositions that often creep into popular science theories. Canadian-born astronomer Hugh Ross is a leading promoter of OEC through his organization, Reasons to Believe. Staple beliefs of this and other OEC organizations include that science is not made futile by our fall into sin and that the Bible actually contains allusions or hints to scientific truths such as the Big Bang and an ancient earth.

VARIETIES OF NONCONCORDISM

The nonconcordist approach results from a different exegesis of the Scriptures, which states that the Bible's intention is not to teach science but that the Bible uses the language of science and natural history to aid our understanding of spiritual truths.

The framework view is a nonconcordist approach that proposes that the days of Genesis are literary devices used to convey important truths about purpose and ultimate origin. In this view, God's creative activity as recounted in Genesis is arranged in a topical, non-sequential manner and does not intend to make any claims about the age of the universe. The six creation days form a symmetrically arranged, topical account of creation, set in two triads with similar activities in each triad. God is seen creating three kingdoms in the first triad: Day One (Gn 1:3-5), light; Day Two (Gn 1:6-8), sea and sky; and Day Three (Gn 1:9-13), earth and plants. In the second triad, God populates these kingdoms with their rulers: Day Four (Gn 1:14-19), luminaries; Day Five (Gn 1:20-23), fish and birds; and Day Six (Gn 1:24-31), animals and mankind. Finally, Day Seven (Gn 2:1-3) is a Sabbath for the Creator King. Some see this triad arrangement in the seven-lamp menorah of the Jewish temple (Ex 25:31-40).

In summary, the framework view holds that the narrative of Genesis is not meant to provide a literal scientific account of God's creative methods, nor the time frame in which he created. Rather, it asserts that Genesis was intended to combat polytheism and pantheism. The message is that God is the Creator of all things; questions about how or when he created are seen as irrelevant. The late American theologian and OT scholar Meredith G. Kline was a proponent of the framework view.

Another nonconcordist approach is called complementarity, which states that science and theology complement each other to provide a complete picture of reality. Science and theology do not rival each other but, when properly interpreted, provide valid information about the same thing. Science may have a rational narrative for the history of the universe, for instance, but cannot explain why the laws underlying this narrative are fine-tuned for humans. The spiritual truth of the creation narrative in Genesis completes this picture of nature by providing a framework to understand the fine-tuning in terms of the creative and providential work of a loving God. English physicist and theologian John Polkinghorne promoted complementarity in his writings.

SUMMARY

Each of the above models of relating Scripture and science are held by devout Christians. Some scholars even hold views that draw on several of the models. This side of eternity, we will probably never acquire enough knowledge to know indisputably the best way to relate these two great ways of knowing (Scripture and science). As Paul says in 1 Corinthians 13:12, “For now we see only a reflection as in a mirror, but then face to face. Now [we] know in part, but then [we] will know fully, as [we are] fully known.”

1:1 The Bible starts appropriately: In the beginning. The universe (the heavens and the earth) has not always existed. Rather, it came to be because an all-powerful God created it (see “The Role of Presuppositions in Knowledge,” p. 1330). This God is not an impersonal force or energy but a personal being who speaks (vv. 3,6,9,11,14,20,24,26), sees (vv. 4,10,12,18,21,25), and acts purposefully here in Genesis 1 and throughout Scripture (see “Monism, Pantheism, and Panentheism,” p. 1335). These actions contrast God with idols, which are mute, blind, and powerless (Is 44:9-20; Hab 2:18-19). Other ancient creation stories and related texts from the ancient Near East share some common elements with Genesis 1:

the mention of waters, stars, and sea creatures, as well as reference to divine acts of naming and separating. Nevertheless, the account here is distinct from these texts in several ways: (1) God exists outside of creation; he is not a member of the natural order; (2) God acts with absolute power and authority; there is no primeval battle between the gods as exists in many ancient Near Eastern accounts; (3) God makes everything "good" whereas in the ancient Near Eastern accounts, sin, struggle, and death exist from the beginning; (4) God acts alone as there is no other god; and (5) there is a mention of "the Spirit of God" in verse 2. See also "The Existence of God," p. 849.

Genesis is part of the larger work known as the Pentateuch (Gn through Dt). This work not only speaks of "the beginning" but also of things that will happen "in the last days" (lit Gn 49:1; Nm 24:14; Dt 4:30; 31:29). Although most of what the Pentateuch discusses takes place during the time period that spans creation (Gn 1) to Moses's death (Dt 34), its prophetic vision extends all the way to "the last days," which center on the coming of the Messiah (Gn 49:8-12; Nm 24:17). In another passage that looks forward to the end, the Pentateuch celebrates that "the LORD will reign forever and ever" (Ex 15:18). Thus, the vision of the Pentateuch is broad, encompassing things from start to end.

1:25-31 The climax of these seven days was the creation of man (see "What Is a Human?" p.XXXIII). Whereas "God saw that it was good" on the previous days, after creating man he saw that it was very good. Unlike the other living things that were made according to their kinds, humanity was created in the image of God (see "Imago Dei and the Distinctiveness of Humans," p. 27). This special status and dignity distinguishes humans from animals and the rest of creation. We were made to embody God's qualities and to do his work on the earth (see "A Biblical Basis for Science," p. 601; "The Bible and Creation Care," p. 24). In many ancient Near Eastern texts, humanity is viewed negatively as an afterthought or intended to serve the gods as slaves (see "Chief Purpose of Humanity," p. 1464). Human sexuality is designed by God, who created them male and female (see "Purpose and Parameters of Sexual Relations," p. 1397; "Is Gender a Choice?" p. 17).

2 So the heavens and the earth and everything in them were completed. †
2 On the seventh † day God had completed his work that he had done, and he rested † on the seventh day from all his work that he had done. † 3 God blessed the seventh day and declared it holy, for on it he rested † from all his work of creation. † †

CREATION: WHY AN OLD EARTH VIEW IS DEFENSIBLE

Along with old earth creationists (OEC), I believe the best correlation of biblical teaching and scientific evidence is that the earth is very old but that Adam was created relatively recently. I also hold that theistic evolution (or "evolutionary creation" [EC], a preferred term for some) imperils not only the doctrines of creation, human nature, and the fall into sin, but also our understanding of the Bible itself. Therefore, I believe both old and young earth creationists (YEC) should treat one another with respect and not divide over the age question. We should join together in resisting pressure from fellow evangelicals to incorporate evolution into creationism in particular and Christian theology in general. In what follows I outline why Christians need not be dogmatic about the age of the earth, and why OEC is certainly defensible.

1. LEADING YECS TODAY ACCEPT THE SAME SCIENTIFIC THEORIES AS DO OECS.

Most laypeople are unaware that today's leading YECs generally affirm the reliability of the major scientific theories undergirding belief in an old earth—but reinterpret them to fit within a recent creation. Examples include continental drift (implying one pre-flood supercontinent) and plate tectonics, Big Bang expansion of the universe, the reliability of the order of the fossilized strata, and even the general trustworthiness of radiometric dating. The events described by these theories are understood to have occurred just several thousand years ago, with the flood generally understood to have catastrophically accelerated these processes (e.g., Andrew Snelling, director of research at Answers in Genesis).

Though rejecting human evolution and universal common descent, many leading YECs rather surprisingly also hold that broad speciation has occurred (beyond the taxonomic ranks of species, genus, and even family). To fit short timescales, these speciation rates are understood to have exceeded dramatically what mainstream evolutionists accept. Ironically, OECs have been far more resistant to the notion of evolutionary change, typically opting instead for God's direct supernatural creation of new species over time.

2. LEADING YECS ALSO EMPLOY THE SAME APPROACH AS OECS IN RELATING BIBLICAL TEACHING TO SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERIES.

Though both creationist groups contend they interpret science in light of the Bible, their actual practice is more complicated. Ever since Galileo, conservative Christians have assumed the Bible is inerrant when rightly interpreted and never conflicts with truth (including scientific). Thus, scientific theories appearing to contradict traditional biblical interpretations are rejected. If over time evidence mounts supporting the scientific theory, Christians have typically explored ways in which the theory might partially be true in relation to the Bible. One example is how Christian astronomers during Galileo's day suggested all the planets orbited the sun, but the sun orbited the earth—thus retaining their biblical interpretation of a non-moving, earth-centered universe. YEC examples include interpreting Genesis 1 to suggest the earth's land was originally created as one supercontinent. If historically a scientific theory is eventually believed to be confirmed (the trickiest part!), Christians have typically amended their original biblical interpretation. One example is how after considerable resistance to believe strange fossil discoveries came from extinct animals, some YECs reinterpreted the book of Job to refer to dinosaurs living with humans.

Happily, only twice have scientific theory and biblical interpretation collided in a major way such that the entire church was affected for more than a century. The first was the struggle over Copernican astronomy, whether the Bible really taught a stationary earth at the center of the universe. The church eventually became convinced it had misread numerous passages (e.g., Jos 10:12-13), as if they were written in scientific rather than everyday language. The second science-theology conflict has been over Darwinism. OECs and YECs alike continue to reject human evolution and universal common descent, believing them irreconcilable with biblical teaching. Evolutionary creationists, on the other hand, fully accept Darwinism and thereby reinterpret major Christian doctrines—often to include rejection of biblical inerrancy.

3. OECS CONSTITUTED THE FIRST LINE OF RESISTANCE TO DARWINISM IN ITS FIRST CENTURY.

The reason was simple: most Bible-believing Christians were OECs. It's true that the majority Christian position was YEC prior to the nineteenth century, but in those days most did not believe in dinosaurs. The age of the earth had not been seriously debated because, just as during the time of Galileo, the church had simply not faced growing evidence contrary to the tradition. But unlike Copernicanism or Darwinism, the church overwhelmingly adopted OEC without major controversy. Thus, at the onset of the Darwinian controversy, the vast majority of anti-evolutionists for the next century were OECs. These included the Southern Baptists' first seminary professors, the fundamentalists, and the anti-evolutionists at the Scopes Trial. The remarkable rise to dominance of YEC occurred in the second half of the twentieth century.

4. YECS SHARE NO MONOLITHIC AGREEMENT ON THE RELEVANT BIBLE AND SCIENCE ISSUES.

Of course, OECs don't either, but the perception sometimes is that YEC is the clear teaching of the Bible—if people would just accept it. Several examples must suffice here. For centuries biblical interpreters had noted that the Genesis creation days are structured such that they begin with "Then God said" and end with "and there was evening and morning, day x." Yet before the first creation day (Gn 1:3), the heavens and the earth are already created (vv. 1-2). Thus, even some YECs today hold to an ancient universe. Also long noted is that twenty-four hour days depend on the earth's axial rotation as it orbits the sun. But the "time" bearers, including the sun, are not created until day four (Gn 1:14-19). How, then, can one definitively assert the "days" were twenty-four hours in length? Some YECs, therefore, taught the sun was created on day one but was invisible until day four. YECs also have not agreed ever since discovery of fossilized strata which parts of the geologic column were caused by the flood. And some YECs then and more recently (Henry M. Morris) assumed dinosaurs were intentionally left off the ark to die.

5. HAPPILY, MOST YECS DO NOT PROMOTE THE IDEA THAT OEC IS HERETICAL.

Some YEC ministries suggest OEC is deeply evil, but most YECs do not. Unfortunately, some OECs ridicule or suggest YEC should be abandoned. But OECs and YECs should humbly recognize the complexity of the issues. Both sides face interpretive difficulties. For example, even if Christ died to save humans and not animals (Rm 5:12-21), OECs should respectfully appreciate how the notion of pre-fall animal death troubles many YECs. And YECs who adopt widespread speciation in response to science should stop referring to OECs as evolutionists.

OECs and YECs would be much wiser to consider their shared convictions about an inerrant Bible, God's supernatural creation of Adam and Eve as the progenitors of the human race, the historic fall of Adam, and much more. OECs and YECs would do well to redirect energies from fighting one another to resisting the rapidly growing influence of EC among evangelicals. No doubt ECs may be warm-hearted followers of Christ and deserve to be treated with respect, but their aggressive promotion of certain doctrines are matters of deep concern. If acceptance of Darwinism entails believing human minds, bodies, morals, and even belief in God resulted from our descent from lower life forms, then OECs and YECs must kindly draw a line.

CREATION: A YOUNG EARTH PERSPECTIVE

The Young Earth approach to Genesis 1–11 derives its position from the belief that the created universe is significantly younger than the 13.5 billion years postulated by conventional geology and astronomy. It was the traditional view held by Jews and Christians until the nineteenth century and asserts that the earth and universe are no older than ten thousand years. It holds that Adam and Eve were the first humans, specially created by God on the sixth day of the earth's existence and that Scripture contains an accurate lineage from them to Christ.

This view agrees with most other evangelical approaches in the basic theological foundation provided by Genesis 1–11. The differences are in the interpretation of certain parts of the biblical text related to the mechanism and timing of the creation. In other words, the Young Earth model generally agrees with most other evangelical approaches on the "Who?" and "Why?" of creation but takes different positions on the questions of “How?” and “When?”

The most basic question is this: Could God have created the universe in six, twenty-four-hour days? The answer is, of course, yes. The task is to determine how the biblical account of creation can support this assumption and explain the numerous supposed conflicts with the naturalistic paradigm.

THE BIBLICAL ACCOUNT

A straightforward reading of the biblical text describes the creation of the universe by God occurring over six days followed by a seventh day set aside for rest (Gn 1:1–2:3; Ex 20:11). God declared that all his creation was “good” and that with the addition of humanity, it was “very good” (Gn 1:10,12,18,21,25,31).

Genesis depicts God uniquely creating a man and a woman, the first humans, in his own image and likeness (Gn 1:26-27). They were innocent of sin until they willfully rejected God’s direct instructions (Gn 3:1-19). This event was the fall of mankind, and it sent shock waves throughout all creation (Gn 3:14-19; Rm 8:20-21). The remainder of the Bible shows God’s progressive revealing of his character and will in his plan to restore his relationship with a sinful humanity and to undo the consequences of sin throughout his creation, the culmination of which occurs in Revelation 21 and 22.

THE YOUNG EARTH APPROACH

This approach recognizes that both the biblical text and the data of science can instructively inform each other. Nevertheless, it gives priority to a straightforward reading of the biblical text. It views Genesis 1–11 as simple history, not allegory, poetry, or saga. The Young Earth position sets itself apart from other approaches in three major areas: biblical history, theological framework, and scientific interpretation.

BIBLICAL HISTORY

First, while acknowledging some similarities with the creation myth genre, the Young Earth perspective states that the biblical text nowhere indicates that it is anything but history. The seamless historical narrative structure of Genesis as a whole speaks for itself.

Second, the “days” of creation are understood as literal days with no need to postulate that they represent long periods of time or are allegorical progressive periods. The Hebrew term for “day” (yom) is characteristically used to describe a twenty-four-hour day, particularly when it is enumerated as in Genesis 1. In the biblical account, the creation days are defined as comprising a cycle of dark and light or “evening and morning” (Gn 1:3-5). Further, the six literal days of creation are presented as the model for the human week of work (Ex 20:10-12). The seven-day week has no astronomical basis as do the day, the month, and the year: the week was established by God as a model for humans to follow.

Third, the Young Earth approach holds that Adam and Eve are historical individuals and not literary representatives of an advanced species of hominids. Jesus describes Adam and Eve as historical figures being created at the “beginning,” and not millions of years after Genesis 1:1 (Mt 19:4; Mk 10:6). Adam is included as one of the historical ancestors of Jesus in his genealogy as recorded by Luke (3:37). Eve is referenced by the apostle Paul as being created after Adam (1Tm 2:13). Paul summarizes God’s work at creation: “From one man he has made every nationality to live over the whole earth and has determined their appointed times and the boundaries of where they live” (Ac 17:26). Paul also draws a crucial parallel between the sin of one man (Adam), resulting in universal death, and the obedience of one man (Jesus, the “second” Adam), bringing the promise of eternal life to all (Rm 5:12-15; 1Co 15:21,45).

THEOLOGICAL FRAMEWORK

Genesis 1–11 was inspired by God to provide the theological framework for the rest of the Bible as well as all human history. The creation story clearly emphasizes the sovereignty of God as Creator, Sustainer, and Overseer of the universe. The elements of the created world form the foundation for human society and family, human stewardship of God’s creation, and the value of work and rest in the human regular timetable. The origin of sin and death is described as direct rebellion against God while God’s intention and plan to intervene and redeem humanity is introduced (Gn 3:15).

The timing and relationship of these events are important emphases in the biblical account. The Young Earth approach explains why physical death is a defining feature of the world. The straightforward reading of the text provides a chronological basis for the effects of the first sin on humanity and creation. Death was the result of sin (Gn 3:15-17; Rm 5:12). After the fall, all creation was subjected to a downward spiral of rust, rot, decay, and death. God's perfect creation was no longer the land of the living but became the land of the dying. This makes sense if, as Jesus says, the creation of Adam and Eve occurred "in the beginning" (Mt 19:4) and their son Abel's death at "the foundation of the world" (Lk 11:50-51). If the fall was not an event soon after the creation, how could the deaths of living things occur for millions of years before sin entered?

SCIENTIFIC INTERPRETATION

While the Young Earth approach accepts the priority of the biblical text in understanding creation, it is not anti-science. Scientific study of the past is understood to be more akin to forensic science that seeks the most reasonable interpretation of existing data. Scientists who hold to a Young Earth view are conducting research to determine the plausibility of their position. They are exploring scientific data that call into question the prevailing view of an ancient universe (e.g., the existence of short-period comets, the large amount of interplanetary dust, the small number of supernova, rotational rates of spiral galaxies) and an ancient earth (discordant radioactive dates of ancient rocks).

Noah's flood (Gn 6–9) was described by Jesus (Mt 24:37-39) and by Peter (1Pt 3:20; 2Pt 3:5-6) as a historical event. Young Earth scientists are demonstrating that the vast, thick layers of marine rocks and fossils which blanket every continent are best understood as the result of catastrophic formation in a short period of time, not over millions of years. For example, it is now known that unless an organism is buried quickly (even if it contains hard tissues), it has little if any chance of becoming fossilized. Fossils are a testimony to the rapid formation of rocks, not to the necessity of millions of years. Charles Darwin believed fossils would eventually prove his theory of evolution, but they have proven its most serious challenge because of the sudden appearance of fully formed organisms deep in the fossil record and the lack of predicted intermediate forms between fossil organisms. The Young Earth approach does not just take a critical approach to conventional theories; it works to demonstrate that scientific data is best understood within the literal framework of Genesis.

Understanding the origin of the universe and the earth's biology and geology is like interpreting the clues of a crime scene. Who did it? When and how did it happen? As in every mystery story, a number of theories seem to interpret the evidence correctly. Which one is true? The appearance of an eyewitness often helps provide a key that leads to the answer. The Young Earth approach claims that a straightforward reading of God's eyewitness testimony to creation provides the clearest starting point for understanding the foundational truths he is revealing to us.

2:24 That this is a foundational statement on monogamous marriage between one man and one woman can be seen in two ways. First, Jesus quotes this passage in Matthew 19:5 when the Pharisees, referencing Deuteronomy 24:1-4, ask about divorce. Jesus’s response is that Deuteronomy 24 permitted divorce because of the hardness of hearts (Mt 19:8), but lifelong, monogamous, heterosexual marriage was designed by God in the beginning. Jesus also clearly implies here that this design has not changed. Furthermore, if Genesis 1–2 contain the ideal for marriage, then instances of polygamy found later in the OT are also deviations from the original ideal. Second, the context and language of Genesis 2:24 suggest that it has broader application than merely to Adam and Eve. After all, Adam did not leave his father and mother, for he had neither. Therefore, the author of the Pentateuch, Moses, wrote this verse about marriage in general. In marriage, the man and woman become one flesh, a union stronger than blood or family ties. THE TEMPTATION AND THE FALL

3 Now the serpent was the most cunning of all the wild animals that the LORD God had made. He said to the woman, “Did God really say, ‘You can’t eat from any tree in the garden’? ” †

2 The woman said to the serpent, “We may eat the fruit from the trees in the garden. 3 But about the fruit of the tree in the middle of the garden, God said, ‘You must not eat it or touch it, or you will die.’ ” †
4 “No! You will not die,” the serpent said to the woman. † 5 “In fact, God knows that when † you eat it your eyes will be opened and you will be like God, † knowing good and evil.” 6 The woman saw that the tree was good for food and delightful to look at, and that it was desirable for obtaining wisdom. So she took some of its fruit and ate it; she also gave some to her husband, who was with her, and he ate it. † 7 Then the eyes of both of them were opened, and they knew they were naked; so they sewed fig leaves together and made coverings for themselves.

SIN’S CONSEQUENCES

8 Then the man and his wife heard the sound of the LORD God walking in the garden at the time of the evening breeze, † and they hid from the LORD God among the trees of the garden. † 9 So the LORD God called out to the man and said to him, “Where are you? ” 10 And he said, “I heard you † in the garden, and I was afraid because I was naked, so I hid.”
11 Then he asked, “Who told you that you were naked? Did you eat from the tree that I commanded you not to eat from? ” 12 The man replied, † “The woman you gave to be with me — she gave me some fruit from the tree, and I ate.”
13 So the LORD God asked the woman, “What is this you have done? ”
And the woman said, “The serpent deceived me, and I ate.” † 14 So the LORD God said to the serpent:

Because you have done this,
you are cursed more than any livestock and more than any wild animal.
You will move on your belly and eat dust all the days of your life. † 15 I will put hostility between you and the woman, and between your offspring and her offspring.

He will strike your head, and you will strike his heel. †

16 He said to the woman:

I will intensify your labor pains;
you will bear children with painful effort. †
Your desire † will be for your husband, yet he will rule over you.

17 And he said to the man, “Because you listened to your wife and ate from the tree about which I commanded you, ‘Do not eat from it’:

FALL AND REDEMPTION

The fall of humanity refers to the first act of human disobedience, enacted by Adam and Eve and recorded in Genesis 3. Prior to their rebellion our first parents had unbroken fellowship with God, unparalleled intimacy with each other, and undisturbed enjoyment in their Edenic environment. There has never been a time such as theirs when humans exercised biblical dominion over creation, complemented each other so completely, and joyously lived every moment under the rule of God. But there will be.

The Bible envisions a day when these broken relationships will be forever restored. God’s people will inherit a new earth that bears abundant food apart from the sweat of their brows and without the threat of thorns (Rv 22:3). They will never feel pain or cause others to experience hurt of any kind as their tears are eternally wiped away (21:4). Death will no longer haunt the living. Gentle lambs will rest side by side with formerly carnivorous wolves (Is 11:6). Best of all, God will dwell with his people (Rv 22:3). Nothing unclean will be allowed to enter the new creation. There will be no trees that lure or serpents that trick. Worship, not worry, will characterize the family of God in a world without end.

THE FALL AND SIN

The Christian worldview is premised on these two realities: currently God’s good world is spoiled by human sin (fall), but sinful humans are made fit to enjoy God forever through placing faith in Jesus Christ (redemption).

Critics of the Christian worldview tend to dismiss the idea of the fall by minimizing the reality of human sinfulness. They likewise set aside the doctrine of redemption by maximizing their expectations of human progress. Sin is thus reduced to social constructs and self-help becomes the means of salvation. In one sense the denial of sin is another manifestation of sin. Just as Adam and Eve tried to hide their wrongs from the God who sees all things (Gn 3:8), humans habitually maintain their innocence in spite of the biblical claim to the contrary (Rm 3:23).

There is another reason why people reject the biblical teaching about the fall. It is because the world continues to work—sort of. After the fall, Adam and Eve’s oldest son proved remarkably adept at navigating through life even though he was guilty of murdering his own brother (Gn 4:8). Cain married a woman, and loved his son (Gn 4:17). The curse of the ground notwithstanding, Cain became a farmer and then a city builder (4:3,17). Cain’s descendants were known for their creative prowess, including advancements in shepherding livestock, playing musical instruments, and developing sturdy weaponry (4:20-22). Put simply, even fallen people in a fallen world manage to contribute to human progress, by the grace of God.

On the other hand, even morally upright people manage to confirm the human predicament. Noah is such a man who, in the midst of a moral sewer, managed to find favor in God's eyes (Gn 6:8). His craftsmanship is demonstrated through his ability to build an ark that withstood the most destructive storm ever. His attention to detail spared not only his life but also that of his family and the entire animal kingdom (6:14-22). Nevertheless, in spite of God's grace toward him, Noah later became drunk and passed out naked in his tent (9:20-21). When he awoke, he cursed generations yet to be born (9:24). This is hardly the behavior one would expect from the man through whom God rescued the world, but Noah's life confirms that "there is no one righteous, not even one" (Rm 3:10).

The doctrine of the fall asserts that while most of us are not as bad as we could be, none of us is as good as we should be either. Humans retain the image of God, which accounts for any semblance of goodness and enables progress (Gn 1:26-27; 9:6). Nevertheless, life is not as it should be in this fallen world.

Theologians have differed over the means by which Adam's sin has been passed down to every person, but the reality of death provides sufficient confirmation that no one is exempt (Rm 5:12). Though Charles Manson and Billy Graham took completely different paths with their lives, both are subject to the death sentence—as are you and me. The Bible thus describes our common plight: we are "dead" in our "trespasses and sins" and we are "by nature children under wrath" (Eph 2:1,3).

REDEMPTION AS REVERSAL

Redemption is the reversal of the fall. In part, this reversal means that those who were spiritually dead are made alive (Eph 2:4), and those who were children of wrath are now children of God (1Jn 3:1).

Though the Bible recognizes that fallen people may make positive contributions to the world as a whole, it is also clear that no one can contribute anything positive to their own redemption (Rm 3:23-28). The only person qualified to undo the effects of the fall is Jesus Christ who, as the eternal Son of God incarnate through the Virgin Mary, was exempted from inheriting Adam's sin. This is not to say that he was not tempted as he lived in a fallen world and as he experienced genuine struggles that all humans face (Heb 2:14-18). He was tempted as we are, but never sinned (2Co 5:21; Heb 4:15; 1Pt 2:22). Thus, he alone is the One who can make sinful humans fit to worship a holy God (Ac 4:12). Even the death of Jesus was not the result of any sin he committed but was, rather, the most gracious act of love ever displayed: he took upon himself the sins of the world so that all who believe in him will be saved (Rm 5:6-11).

The doctrine of redemption extends even beyond the matter of individual salvation. During his lifetime, Jesus provided abundant proof of his ability to completely restore a fallen world. He demonstrated his lordship over heaven when he calmed the storms on the sea (Mk 4:35-41); he demonstrated his lordship over hell when he exorcised demons from a troubled man (5:1-20); he demonstrated his lordship over life when he healed a woman of her incurable disease (5:24-34); and he demonstrated his lordship over death when he raised a young girl from the dead (5:35-43). With these and countless other miracles (Jn 20:30-31; 21:25), Jesus provided ample reason for us to conclude that this troubled world is not our home. He himself will, however, make all things new (Rv 21:5).

The final book of the Bible is therefore a fitting end to the story of the fall with its triumphant declaration of full redemption: "Then he showed me the river of the water of life, clear as crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb down the middle of the city's main street. The tree of life was on each side of the river, bearing twelve kinds of fruit, producing its fruit every month. The leaves of the tree are for healing the nations, and there will no longer be any curse. The throne of God and of the Lamb will be in the city, and his servants will worship him. They will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads. Night will be no more; people will not need the light of a lamp or the light of the sun, because the Lord God will give them light, and they will reign forever and ever" (Rv 22:1-5).

FALL AND REDEMPTION IN THE CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW

The Christian worldview thus includes both fall and redemption. To exclude the former is to deny the reality of sin; to exclude the latter is to deny the ultimate reality of Christ's work.

Living in a fallen world means that Christians will experience trials and tribulations, and they will continue to struggle with their own temptations and sin. We are forgiven, but God is not finished with us yet (Php 1:6). Consequently, longing for a better world, even a perfect world, is not a form of escapism. Rather, it is the Christian's rightful anticipation of a promise made by the One who justly pronounced a curse on this world (Gn 3; Rm 8:20-22) and then lovingly took that curse upon himself in order to redeem people for his glory.

3:6-7 Adam and Eve's sin had disastrous consequences. Just as God had said (2:17), their eating from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil resulted in death ("you are dust, and you will return to dust," 3:19).

This sin also subjected their descendants, the entire human race, to death (Rm 5:12; 1Co 15:22). Moreover, Adam and Eve's relationship with God and with one another became distorted. When they heard God walking in the garden, they hid from him because they were afraid (3:8-10). Their intimacy with one another was also ruined, as shown by the coverings they made for themselves (v. 7). Additionally, their charge to "be fruitful, multiply, fill the earth, and subdue it" (1:28) became much more difficult and painful to fulfill (3:16-19). Creation has been plagued with sin, death, and distorted relationships ever since.

3:15 The human race has hope because of God's promise of an offspring of the woman who will defeat the serpent, the devil. Although the Hebrew word translated offspring (zera') can be used for either an individual or for a group, the reference to this one with the singular pronoun he suggests that an individual descendant of Eve is intended here. This offspring will deal a fatal blow to the serpent (He will strike your head; see "Satan and Demons," p. 1611), though he also will be wounded by it (you will strike his heel).

CAIN MURDERS ABEL

4 The man was intimate with his wife Eve, and she conceived and gave birth to Cain. She said, "I have had a male child with the LORD's help." † 2 She also gave birth to his brother Abel. Now Abel became a shepherd of flocks, but Cain worked the ground. 3 In the course of time Cain presented some of the land's produce as an offering to the LORD. † 4 And Abel also presented an offering — some of the firstborn of his flock and their fat portions. † The LORD had regard for Abel and his offering, † 5 but he did not have regard for Cain and his offering. Cain was furious, and he looked despondent. †

6 Then the LORD said to Cain, "Why are you furious? † And why do you look despondent? † 7 If you do what is right, won't you be accepted? But if you do not do what is right, sin is crouching at the door. Its desire is for you, but you must rule over it." †

8 Cain said to his brother Abel, "Let's go out to the field." † And while they were in the field, Cain attacked his brother Abel and killed him. †

9 Then the LORD said to Cain, "Where is your brother Abel? "
"I don't know," he replied. "Am I my brother's guardian? "

10 Then he said, "What have you done? Your brother's blood cries out to me from the ground! † 11 So now you are cursed, alienated from the ground that opened its mouth to receive your brother's blood you have shed. † 12 If you work the ground, it will never again give you its yield. You will be a restless wanderer on the earth." †

13 But Cain answered the LORD, “My punishment † is too great to bear! 14 Since you are banishing me today from the face of the earth, and I must hide from your presence and become a restless wanderer on the earth, whoever finds me will kill me.” †

15 Then the LORD replied to him, “In that case, † whoever kills Cain will suffer vengeance seven times over.” † And he placed a mark † on Cain so that whoever found him would not kill him. 16 Then Cain went out from the LORD’s presence and lived in the land of Nod, east of Eden.

THE LINE OF CAIN

17 Cain was intimate with his wife, and she conceived and gave birth to Enoch. Then Cain became the builder of a city, and he named the city Enoch after his son. 18 Irad was born to Enoch, Irad fathered Mehujael, Mehujael fathered Methushael, and Methushael fathered Lamech. 19 Lamech took two wives for himself, one named Adah and the other named Zillah. 20 Adah bore Jabal; he was the father of the nomadic herdsmen. † 21 His brother was named Jubal; he was the father of all who play the lyre and the flute. 22 Zillah bore Tubal-cain, who made all kinds of bronze and iron tools. Tubal-cain’s sister was Naamah.
23 Lamech said to his wives:

Adah and Zillah, hear my voice;
wives of Lamech, pay attention to my words.
For I killed a man for wounding me, a young man for striking me.
24 If Cain is to be avenged seven times over, then for Lamech it will be seventy-seven times!

25 Adam was intimate with his wife again, and she gave birth to a son and named him Seth, for she said, “God has given † me another child † in place of Abel, since Cain killed him.” 26 A son was born to Seth † also, and he named him Enosh. At that time people began to call on the name of the LORD. †

4:2-5 Laws relating to sacrifice, such as would be given to Israel later (see Lv 1–7), did not yet exist. What seems to have distinguished Abel's offering from Cain's was that Abel gave his best (the firstborn of his flock and their fat portions), whereas Cain only gave some of the land's produce—not the firstfruits (see Ex 23:16,19). God did not merely observe the offering itself but also the person giving it (The LORD had regard for Abel and his offering . . . not . . . for Cain and his; see also 1Sm 16:7; Heb 11:4). It is unlikely that Cain's offering was rejected merely because it was not an animal sacrifice, since some offerings mandated later were not animals either (see the grain offering in Lv 2).

4:6-10,23-24 Through Cain's murder of his brother, sin was manifested in shocking fashion. Clearly sin was not limited to Adam and Eve but had infected their offspring as well. Violence was also characteristic of Cain's descendant, Lamech, who killed a man in retaliation and threatened vengeance on any who would trouble him.

THE LINE OF SETH

5 This is the document containing the family † records † of Adam. † On the day that God created man, † he made him in the likeness of God; 2 he created them male and female. When they were created, he blessed them and called them mankind. †

3 Adam was 130 years old when he fathered a son in his likeness, according to his image, and named him Seth. 4 Adam lived 800 years after he fathered Seth, and he fathered other sons and daughters. 5 So Adam's life lasted 930 years; then he died.

6 Seth was 105 years old when he fathered Enosh. 7 Seth lived 807 years after he fathered Enosh, and he fathered other sons and daughters.

BIRTH CONTROL AND PROCREATION TECHNOLOGY

Artificial birth control and reproductive technologies have emerged out of the modern world's ability to control significant dimensions of human life. In terms of a biblical assessment, the first thing we must note is that the Bible nowhere directly addresses these issues.

When Scripture does not directly speak to contemporary ethical issues, we must rely on biblical worldview assumptions that are applicable to the issues. In the case of birth control and reproductive technologies we face three major worldview issues to which the Bible does speak: the meaning and purpose of sex, the meaning of children and parenting, and the value of human life. From these larger contours of biblical teaching we are able to address the specific matters in view.

BIBLICAL WORLDVIEW ASSUMPTIONS

Both birth control and reproductive technologies push us to explore the meaning and purpose of sex. From Scripture it is clear that sex is a good gift of our Maker. After God created humans, male and female, in his image and gave to them the command to "be fruitful, multiply, fill the earth" (Gn 1:28), he looked at all that he had made, "And it was very good" (Gn 1:31). This good gift was given to humans for very specific purposes, and sex is to be experienced in accordance with these.

First, sex consummates a marriage. "This is why a man leaves his father and mother and bonds with his wife, and they become one flesh" (Gn 2:24). The "one flesh" relationship refers to sexual union, and it completes the other dimensions that make a marriage: change of status recognized by the community and state, and a commitment or covenant made before God and people.

Second, sex is a good gift of God for procreation. It leads to the bringing of children into the world, for "God created man in his own image . . . he created them male and female. God blessed them, and God said to them, 'Be fruitful, multiply, fill the earth'" (Gn 1:27-28).

Third, sex is an expression of love as evidenced in the Song of Songs (2:3-6; 8:6-7) and in Paul's admonition to spouses to love as Christ loved the church (Eph 5:25-31).

Fourth, God ordained sex as a means of pleasure, for pleasure is not the invention of the devil, but is in its rightful place a wonderful gift of our Maker (Sg 4:10-14; Pr 5:18-19; Gn 26:8). It points to the ultimate pleasure that comes from being united to God through Christ. These four purposes of sex are designed by God to be held together and can only come together in the context of a marriage covenant between a man and a woman.

Birth control and reproductive technologies also raise questions about the meaning of children and parenting. There is a tendency in our fallen state, and particularly in contemporary culture, to view children as a means to our own satisfaction. Thus, how we "produce" them and for what purposes is deemed to lie in our own hands. But Scripture is clear that children are not a means to an end to fulfill parental aspirations and designs. We do not own our children as objects; rather, we are stewards to nurture their holistic development, for "Sons are indeed a heritage from the LORD, offspring, a reward" (Ps 127:3).

A final issue raised by birth control and reproductive technologies is the value of human life, including life in the womb. Human life from conception to death has value, dignity, and sacredness because we are made in the image of God. We are thus called to preserve, not destroy it (Gn 9:6), and to maintain human dignity even through our words (Jms 3:9). Thus, we are never to use methods of preventing procreation or methods of conceiving human life that destroy it or impinge on its dignity and sacredness.

These three biblical teachings—the meaning and purposes of sex, the meaning of children and parenting, and the value of human life—are essential ingredients of a biblical worldview. And while God's Word does not directly address the issues of birth control and reproductive technologies, there is much ethical guidance from these worldview commitments.

APPLICATION TO BIRTH CONTROL

The Roman Catholic Church has traditionally rejected all forms of artificial birth control on the grounds that procreation is the primary purpose of sex and that every sexual act must be oriented toward this end. While it is true that procreation is one of the purposes of sex, we've noted that Scripture actually teaches four main purposes. Nevertheless, every sexual act should be in the context of procreation, meaning between a married couple that is able and willing to bear the potential fruit that can come from intercourse. But, the fact that sex is for more than procreation at least opens the possibility for contraception—as long as it is in the context of honoring life.

A biblical grounding for artificial birth control also comes from the fact that the procreative mandate of Genesis 1:28 is given in the context of the larger cultural mandate. This cultural mandate calls for humans to steward and work with God's good creation. Thus, we are called to "Fill the earth, and subdue it. Rule the fish of the sea, the birds of the sky, and every creature that crawls on the earth" (Gn 1:28). This cultural mandate calls for taking care of the garden (Gn 2:15) and naming the animals (Gn 2:19-20). Thus, humans have a task of stewarding life in God's good creation, and this entails working with nature, not merely submitting to it. God is ultimately in control of the natural world, including procreation, but he grants to us a stewardship over the created world that can legitimately include birth control.

Any utilization of birth control methods must meet the criteria of the biblical worldview we earlier noted. It must be in the context of the major purposes of sex, including recognition that sex is inherently procreative. Thus, there must be a readiness to joyfully accept the gift of new life should it occur. Any methods that destroy human life or demean the sanctity of human life must be rejected. Hence, abortion is not an acceptable means of birth control.

APPLICATION TO REPRODUCTIVE TECHNOLOGIES

In recent decades various new means of conception have been developed and are widely used. These have emerged with the increase of infertility, as somewhere between 10 to 16 percent of all couples are unable to or have great difficulty in conceiving. They also reflect the modern world's attempt to control and design life according to human desires. The technologies include artificial insemination (or gamete donation, which can include female egg donations), in vitro fertilization, surrogacy, and potentially cloning.

Artificial insemination by a husband is merely aiding the bringing together of sperm and egg of husband and wife in a one-flesh union. But artificial insemination by a donor and egg donation separates procreation from that one flesh bond. The offspring is a result of the gametes of two people who are not joined together in marriage meeting. It not only separates what God has joined together (lovemaking and baby making), but also creates anonymous biological parenthood that can cause harm to the child.

In vitro fertilization brings together the sperm and egg in a petri dish before the resulting embryo is then placed into the cervix of a woman. Generally multiple embryos are formed in this process, with several implanted, some potentially frozen for later use, and others discarded. Such a process destroys human embryonic life and is contrary to the biblical worldview. Couples can avoid this by asking the fertility clinic to fertilize only a few and then utilize all the embryos. This may lessen the chances of pregnancy, but such choices are part of faithfulness to God's designs.

In vitro fertilization also opens up another potential: so-called designer babies whereby it is meant that one might choose the sex of the child, potential characteristics of the child, or may even form a new child for the sake of saving an existing child through blood transfusion or tissue transplant. Producing designer babies, even for what seems a good and desirable end, goes contrary to the nature of parenting and children. It undermines the dignity of human life.

Surrogacy is having children for another, usually bringing together the gametes of two people who are not married to each other. Cloning, not yet achieved in humans, is an asexual form of reproduction. It would be accomplished by removing the nucleus from a female ovum and then inserting a new nucleus into the ovum, thereby beginning a process of embryonic development that would produce an exact duplicate of the nucleus donor. In both surrogacy and cloning, procreation is separated from the one-flesh union of husband and wife. It undermines the dignity of the child. Procreation is thus turned into manufacturing children for parental desires, rather than seeing them as gifts of God placed into our care.

The above mentioned biblical worldview affirmations give significant direction for believers. Not all reproductive technologies must be rejected, but we need biblical worldview teaching and discerning wisdom to guide us to follow God's designs for human life.

DENNIS P. HOLLINGER

IS GENDER A CHOICE?

Sex and gender are commonly differentiated, with sex referring to the biological components of maleness and femaleness, and gender referring to their psychological and cultural components.

More precisely, the biological components of sex resolve into four facets: (1) chromosomes, with the prototypical male having one X and one Y chromosome and the female having two X chromosomes; (2) gonads and the hormones they produce, with males having testes and females ovaries; (3) sexual anatomy, with male external structures including the penis and scrotum and internal structures including vas deferens and prostate, while females externally have a clitoris and labia and internal structures including the vagina, uterus, and fallopian tubes; (4) secondary sex characteristics, including for males denser, coarser body and facial hair, larger stature and greater muscle mass, while females manifest enlarged breasts, wider hips, less body hair and less muscle mass.

The psychological/cultural complements of gender resolve into at least three separate facets: (1) gender identity, the subjective sense of being a man or woman; (2) sexual orientation, with the prototypical male experiencing only erotic attraction to females and the female to males; and (3) gender role, the person's adoption of cultural expectations for maleness/masculinity or femaleness/femininity.

Given the complexity of the seven factors and their development, it is remarkable that so many adults align consistently on all seven factors, thus experiencing a somewhat uncomplicated sense of being a woman or a man. But some individuals deviate from the norms in one or more of the seven areas, as the following examples illustrate: (1) Some individuals inherit extra chromosomes (e.g., XXY and XYY, conditions with attendant complications).

(2) Some persons experience incomplete gonadal development, and others develop gonads of mixed testicular and ovarian tissues (e.g., true hermaphroditism).

(3) Malfunctioning gonads or a hormonally abnormal uterine environment may result in problematic anatomical development (e.g., Androgen Insensitivity Syndrome; micropenis; ambiguous genitalia [such as enlarged clitoris and labia that are mistaken upon birth as a penis and scrotum] that are sometimes called Intersex conditions); further, environmental events may create problems (e.g., a botched circumcision that amputates a penis).

(4) Hormonal problems can result in minimized or exaggerated secondary sex characteristics.

(5) Certain individuals report emphatic gender identification in contrast with their biological sex (transgenderism).

(6) Three to five percent of the population report consistent, stable erotic attraction (orientation) toward persons of the same sex or to both sexes in varying degrees; others report stable attractions in other directions (e.g., pedophiles).

(7) Some individuals are drawn to gender-atypical roles; further, cultures vary widely in their prescribed gender roles, including their clarity and rigidity.

Scientific evidence exists for some biological contribution to the three gender variables and for some psychosocial contribution to the four biological aspects of sex, though we are uncertain how determinative these contributions are or how they interact with human choice.

IS SEX OR GENDER A CHOICE?

Christians begin by recognizing that God is the Creator and we are not, that humans are of two sexes by creational intent ("he created them male and female," Gn 1:27), and that our sexuality is intended as a gift to be first received with gratitude and humility, and then to be formed responsibly by our parents and our choices. God exists eternally in Trinitarian community, and in his divine image we exist as embodied women and men in community and charged under the authority of our Lord with the proper stewardship of these gifts of sex and gender. Given that our sin blinds us at times to understanding what is good, we affirm with gratitude God's moral guidance of this stewardship.

Our sexuality is a gift given for purposes beyond our individual existence: maleness and femaleness typically sets the foundation for marriage, a covenantal union of one man and one woman that includes full sexual intimacy often resulting in the procreation of children and the extension of multigenerational families. Sexuality is a gift with relational and community entailments; the husband and wife are gifts to each other.

Christians do not insist that every biological or psychological given is God's eternal will. Because of sin, neither humanity nor the world around us is as God intended. We are disordered. Thus, we cannot take our experience as God's intent. Where cruelty or immorality is a cultural norm (e.g., the practice of female genital mutilation in certain African and Islamic cultures, or the Hindu practice of settee, the burning to death of a widow at the cremation of her husband's body), we seek to produce cultural change.

Further, we recognize our finite limitations in interpreting God's special revelation. For example, in the realm of gender roles, reasonable Christians recognize that there is room for responsible choice; many would support the young woman who wants to study business leadership or the young father who chooses homemaking in support of his wife's career given her higher earning power. Neither choice, however, denies the unique callings of men and women.

There is legitimacy to seeking to correct disorders in the realm of physical sexual characteristics as well. As we would support surgical correction of a child's cleft palette, so we would support reattachment of a severed penis, surgical breast reduction for a woman whose very heavy breasts contribute to muscular and spinal pain, or testosterone-enhancing treatments for a chromosomally and anatomically male teenager with delayed puberty and development of male secondary sex characteristics.

But more radical options are now possible. The question of whether sex or gender is a choice is challenging today because our technological prowess allows us to intervene medically or psychologically in ways once impossible. Such options present us with dilemmas. What of cases like the homosexual transsexual who, though born biologically female, undergoes sexual reassignment surgery to remove her ovaries and construct an artificial penis, takes testosterone, and develops male secondary sex characteristics, reports psychological identification as a man, adopts culturally masculine roles, yet desires sex with other men? In this case, six of the seven dimensions of sex/gender have been deviated from the presumptive norm with only the chromosomes unchanged. What do we make of her/his argument that "LGBT identity is congruent with how I have always felt and how God has made me"?

Biblical Christians in humble and full submission to Christ will accept the gift of their sexuality along with biblical norms for expression of that sexuality. But we live in a secular culture that rejects the Creator and his creational intent. This, in turn, leads to the rejection of any norms governing behavior and of the idea that departures from these norms constitute disorders in any objective sense. In the area of sexuality, we have seen steady shifts in the official mental health diagnostic criteria defining what constitute sexual disorders. Many behavioral or arousal patterns that were once regarded as "deviant" have been normalized; this includes non-heterosexual orientation and "fetishes."

Even more fundamentally, a materialistic worldview that assumes that chance alone determines life outcomes robs us of any deep sense of meaning or the good. With only a vague aspiration of genetic propagation and evolutionary progress as a guide, brute assertion of human will against cruel chance may be all that is left. This can lead to a broad societal embrace of something like the original temptation placed before Adam and Eve at the time of the fall, that through exercising one's choice in violation of norms, "you will be like God, knowing good and evil" (Gn 3:5).

We are living at a time when some fit the apostle Paul's harsh description in Romans 1 of persons who exchange "the glory of the immortal God for images resembling mortal man" (1:23) with the result that "they did not think it worthwhile to acknowledge God" (1:28). As a possible example of such a prioritization of human will, the American Psychological Association's (www.apa.org) 2009 report on Appropriate Therapeutic Response to Sexual Orientation contrasted two perspectives: (1) a Christian religious understanding of personal identity grounded in external and transcendent norms, against (2) LGBT affirmation: psychological approaches of "living with a sense of wholeness in one's experiential self . . . [a] perspective [that] gives priority to the unfolding of developmental processes, including self-awareness and personal identity" (p. 26). The Christian stance of personal submission to God's will indeed contrasts with an insistence that personal identity is best established by achieving congruence first with "one's experiential self."

Christians recognize that as a result of our disorder and that of our world due to humanity's choice to sin, we experience discord in many ways: between physical sex and the sexual prototypes, between facets of our sex and gender, between our personal inclinations and cultural standards, between biblical norms and our personal inclinations (or cultural standards), and others. Resolution of such discord may take many forms, requiring us as humble stewards to make complex choices. There are times to intervene medically or psychologically to correct disorders, following Christ's model as Healer. There are times to violate prevailing gender roles at God's calling; for instance, we have positive precedents in biblical stories of women who were prophetesses, judges, or who participated in acts of war.

More troubling are cases like transsexualism in which one's gender identity is discordant with the clear testimony of biological sex. Many today reject viewing this condition as a disorder in favor of celebrating it as part of human diversity. But in the Christian perspective incorporating God's creational intent, such conditions must be seen as disorders. Indeed, all human life is disordered because of sin. Our overarching call is to pursue conformity of our lives (body and soul) to God's revealed will (1Tm 4:1-5) and to seek his sovereign healing of our brokenness in confidence of our ultimate healing in eternity.

While it can prove difficult to discern the proper response in complex cases, the simple prioritization of the experiential self and a facile manipulation of biological sex must be rejected even as we seek compassionate responses to persons suffering with an objective disorder. We must resist the illusion that the ultimate determination of sex and gender is ours to make autonomously. There are many choices to be made about how we live out our sexuality in godliness. But in the deepest sense, our choices that shape sex and gender should first reflect humble submission to God's choices for us.

The reign of death is emphasized through the repetition of the phrase then he died throughout this genealogy (vv. 5,8,11,14,17,20,27,31). This phrase, however, is not used of Enoch, who walked with God; then he was not there because God took him. This exception gives hope that there is deliverance from death for those who walk with God.

SONS OF GOD AND DAUGHTERS OF MANKIND

6 When mankind began to multiply on the earth and daughters were born to them, 2 the sons of God † saw that the daughters of mankind were beautiful, and they took any they chose as wives † for themselves. † 3 And the LORD said, "My Spirit will not remain † with † mankind forever, † because they are corrupt. † † Their days will be 120 years." 4 The Nephilim † were on the earth both in those days and afterward, when the sons of God came to the daughters of mankind, who bore children to them. They were the powerful men of old, the famous men.

JUDGMENT DECREED

5 When the LORD saw that human wickedness was widespread on the earth and that every inclination of the human mind was nothing but evil all the time, † 6 the LORD regretted that he had made man on the earth, † and he was deeply grieved. † 7 Then the LORD said, “I will wipe mankind, whom I created, off the face of the earth, together with the animals, creatures that crawl, and birds of the sky — for I regret that I made them.” 8 Noah, however, found favor with the LORD. †

GOD WARNS NOAH

9 These are the family records † of Noah. Noah was a righteous man, † blameless among his contemporaries; † Noah walked with God. † 10 And Noah fathered three sons: Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

11 Now the earth was corrupt in God’s sight, and the earth was filled with wickedness. † 12 God saw how corrupt the earth was, for every creature had corrupted its way on the earth. † 13 Then God said to Noah, “I have decided to put an end to every creature, for the earth is filled with wickedness because of them; therefore I am going to destroy them along with the earth.

14 “Make yourself an ark of gopher † wood. Make rooms in the ark, and cover it with pitch inside and outside. 15 This is how you are to make it: The ark will be 450 feet long, 75 feet wide, and 45 feet high. † 16 You are to make a roof, † finishing the sides of the ark to within eighteen inches † of the roof. You are to put a door in the side of the ark. Make it with lower, middle, and upper decks.

17 “Understand that I am bringing a flood — floodwaters on the earth † to destroy every creature under heaven with the breath of life in it. Everything on earth will perish. 18 But I will establish my covenant with you, † and you will enter the ark with your sons, your wife, and your sons’ wives. 19 You are also to bring into the ark two of all the living creatures, male and female, to keep them alive with you. 20 Two of everything — from the birds according to their kinds, from the livestock according to their kinds, and from the animals that crawl on the ground according to their kinds — will come to you so that you can keep them alive. 21 Take with you every kind of food that is eaten; gather it as food for you and for them.” 22 And Noah did this. He did everything that God had commanded him. †

6:1-4 These verses are difficult and have generated various interpretations. What is clear is that they describe the increase of human population on earth. Though some hold that the sons of God refer to angels (see Jb 1:6; 2:1) who somehow married human women, the immediate context (Gn 5:1-4; see also Lk 3:38) and the mention of marriage (see Gn 2:24; Mt 22:30) suggest instead that the sons of God refer to humans from the line of Seth. If so, their mistake (5:2) was like Eve's (3:6) and relates to later prohibitions against intermarriage (see notes on 24:2-9 and Dt 7:1-6). Another interpretive challenge is the meaning of their days will be 120 years, which has been taken as a reference to decreased human lifespan henceforth or alternatively to the amount of time God determined to allow before sending the flood. Still another interpretive challenge is the identity of the Nephilim, who are mentioned only one other time in Numbers 13:33. Both passages describe them as powerful men, but little else can be known about them with certainty.

6:5-13 Sin had affected the entire human race. It had corrupted minds and manifested itself in rampant wickedness. This grieved the heart of God so much that he decided to destroy them with a flood. There was one exception though: Noah, who was a righteous man and blameless. Like his forefather Enoch (5:24), Noah walked with God and was saved from death.

6:17 Gn 6–9 is not the only ancient account of a widespread flood that wiped out humanity. Other flood stories from the ancient Near East have been discovered, such as the one contained in Epic of Gilgamesh. When these are compared more closely to Gn 6–9, however, significant differences emerge. For example, whereas here God brought the flood as just punishment for man's sin, the other flood stories describe selfish gods bringing about a flood out of annoyance with the human race, which had increased and become overly disruptive to the gods. Such differences show the distinctiveness of the biblical account, even though the accounts concern the same general subject matter. The mere existence of these other flood stories is significant extra-biblical evidence that such a flood really occurred.

6:18 In addition to sparing Noah and his family from the flood, God promised to establish his covenant with Noah. This covenant is described in 9:8-17.

ENTERING THE ARK

7 Then the LORD said to Noah, "Enter the ark, you and all your household, for I have seen that you alone are righteous before me in this generation. † 2 You are to take with you seven pairs, a male and its female, of all the clean animals, † and two of the animals that are not clean, a male and its female, 3 and seven pairs, male and female, of the birds of the sky — in order to keep offspring alive throughout the earth. 4 Seven days from now
I will make it rain on the earth forty days and forty nights, and every living thing
I have made I will wipe off the face of the earth." 5 And Noah did everything that the LORD commanded him. †

6 Noah was six hundred years old when the flood came and water covered the earth. 7 So Noah, his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives entered the ark because of the floodwaters. 8 From the clean animals, unclean animals, birds, and every creature that crawls on the ground, 9 two of each, male and female, came to Noah and entered the ark, just as God had commanded him. 10 Seven days later the floodwaters came on the earth.

THE FLOOD

11 In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, on the seventeenth day of the month, on that day all the sources of the vast watery depths burst open, † the floodgates of the sky were opened, † 12 and the rain fell on the earth forty days and forty nights. 13 On that same day Noah along with his sons Shem, Ham, and Japheth, Noah's wife, and his three sons' wives entered the ark with him.

ANIMAL RIGHTS

Few social issues of our day have become as celebrated as so-called animal rights. Chiefly the concern of philosophers only a few decades ago, the movement now boasts a sizeable following of A-list celebrities and generally youthful converts eager to proclaim the purported evils of meat-eating, hide-wearing, hunting, and laboratory animal research. The core contention is not that animals used for these purposes ought to be treated compassionately, but rather that they should not be used at all. Animal liberation is a moral imperative for animal rights activists.

THE BASIS FOR ANIMAL LIBERATION

Animal liberationists view the dividing-line between humans and animals as arbitrary and unjust. In their way of thinking, to bear a right or an interest worthy of protection one must have "moral standing," and they assert that any species that has the capacity to suffer or experience pain ("sentience") qualifies. Many animals (not just humans) appear sentient, so with respect to moral status, animal liberationists proclaim a radical equality wherein, as prominent activist Ingrid Newkirk has stated, "a rat is a pig is a dog is a boy" (quoted by Katie McCabe in "Who Will Live, Who Will Die?" Washingtonian, August 1, 1986, p. 115).

THE VALUE OF ANIMALS

At the heart of animal rights lies a kernel of truth. Animals are due moral consideration—not because they are sentient, but because they are creatures of God and he cares for them. Created by him and for him (Col 1:16), they belong to him (Ps 24:1), and he rejoices in them (Ps 104:31). He pronounced them good and blessed them apart from humans (Gn 1:21-22,25); thus, they have value beyond what may be attributed to their utility for human ends. Such value is further seen by God's preservation of every kind of wildlife during the flood (Gn 7:14-16) and in his concern for the "many animals" of Nineveh (Jnh 4:11).

That God cares about animals is also evident in his provision for their needs. The psalmist declares, “All eyes look to you, and you give them their food at the proper time. You open your hand and satisfy the desire of every living thing” (Ps 145:15-16). For the herbivore, God “causes grass to grow” (Ps 104:14) and to the lion he delivers the prey (Ps 104:21). To the bird he gives the tree for shelter and as a stage from which to sing (Ps 104:12,16-17) and to the sea creature Leviathan, he provides an environment suited to its playful disposition (Ps 104:26). God knows the needs of his creatures, and he provides accordingly.

As God values animals and concerns himself with their well-being, he demands that we do the same. Scripture thus declares, “The righteous cares about his animal’s health, but even the merciful acts of the wicked are cruel” (Pr 12:10). Tending to the needs of animals only when it aligns with self-interest misses the mark. Instead, care that is morally praiseworthy reflects genuine compassion for the beast, and here again God provides the example for “his compassion rests on all he has made” (Ps 145:9). Obligations extend not just to animals we call our own, so God commands that livestock belonging to friend or foe be treated mercifully (Ex 23:4-5; Dt 22:1-4). The ox in the ditch is to be rescued and stray animals taken in and cared for until they can be returned to their owner. In these situations, obligations exist even when human interests are not at stake. Wild animals are due our concern, and Scripture mandates that the feral hen brooding a clutch be left alone (Dt 22:6-7) and that fields, vineyards, and groves be regularly fallowed in provision for the beasts that roam (Ex 23:11).

ANIMALS AND HUMAN WORTH

While affirming the moral value of animals, the Bible provides no support for the claim of their equality with humans. Indeed, it refutes that notion. Like the animals, we have been fashioned from the earth and infused with the breath of life (Gn 1:30; 2:7), but we alone have been made in the image of God (Gn 1:26-27) and are rendered creatures of his special concern. Jesus testified to our favored status: “Aren’t five sparrows sold for two pennies? Yet not one of them is forgotten in God’s sight. Indeed, the hairs of your head are all counted. Don’t be afraid; you are worth more than many sparrows” (Lk 12:6-7). By God’s accounting, animal life has value, but human life is of greater worth; thus, God demands that it be treated with an elevated measure of respect.

In Scripture, the differential in respect due animal and human life is readily apparent. For example, the passerby encountering the wild hen is permitted to take her chicks but kidnapping a child is a capital offense (Ex 21:16). Similarly, we may with God’s blessing kill and consume animals posing no threat to human life (Gn 9:3; Rm 14:2-3), but on account of our image-bearing status, the shedding of innocent human blood is strongly condemned (Gn 9:6; Ex 21:12). Thus, Cain sins greatly in killing Abel (Gn 4:10) and David also in ordering the death of Uriah (2Sm 11:15-27), but Jesus commits no transgression in directing a great catch of fish or in preparing from the netted bounty breakfast for his disciples (Jn 21:1-13). In God’s moral order, human life is in a category of its own.

HUMANS’ DOMINION AS A BLESSING

In affirming the unique moral status of humans, Scripture offers to balance animal rights ideology. The biblical proclamation of human headship over creation is a matter of divine purpose and blessing. “God blessed [Adam and Eve], and God said to them, ‘Be fruitful, multiply, fill the earth, and subdue it. Rule the fish of the sea, the birds of the sky, and every creature that crawls on the earth’” (Gn 1:28). Frequently, proponents of animal rights read into this dominion mandate a license for animal abuse, as if to subdue (kabash) and rule (radah) can only mean that humans are called to function as merciless tyrants. This is a misrepresentation of the biblical teaching. The dominion mandate was established before humanity’s fall into sin and after God had already indicated his intention for the animals to flourish (Gn 1:22). In other words, our function as vice-regents over creation comes part and parcel with God’s plan to bless all creation.

Under human stewardship the creation is intended to flourish, yet because of the curse wrought by sin, its present condition is one of futility and corruption (Gn 3; Rm 8:20-21). The mandate to rule remains after the fall, but it is not immune to the perverting effects of sin and with the Noahic covenant its provisions were expanded by God to include eating meat (Gn 9:3-4). Dominion can indeed manifest as cruelty in this present age, but as Scripture presents it, the solution lies not in the abdication of human authority, as animal liberationists propose, but in our redemption through Christ. "The creation eagerly waits with anticipation for God's sons to be revealed" in the sure hope that it will be "set free from the bondage to decay [and corruption] into the glorious freedom of God's children" (Rm 8:19-21).

Judged in light of Scripture, the ideological commitments underlying the animal rights movement can be a false morality. Its ethic is a product of a secular philosophy that looks no further than nature for the ground of moral value. True goodness and justice find their source not in the creation but in the Creator in whom "there is absolutely no darkness" (1Jn 1:5). "All his ways are just" (Dt 32:4). God has made humans creatures of special worth. He has assigned us the responsibility to care for his creation and the privilege to employ its resources. It is in that context that we bear a duty toward animals and their welfare.

ERIK CLARY

14 They entered it with all the wildlife according to their kinds, all livestock according to their kinds, all the creatures that crawl on the earth according to their kinds, every flying creature — all the birds and every winged creature — according to their kinds. 15 Two of every creature that has the breath of life in it came to Noah and entered the ark. 16 Those that entered, male and female of every creature, entered just as God had commanded him. Then the LORD shut him in.
17 The flood continued for forty days on the earth; the water increased and lifted up the ark so that it rose above the earth. 18 The water surged and increased greatly on the earth, and the ark floated on the surface of the water. 19 Then the water surged even higher on the earth, and all the high mountains under the whole sky were covered. 20 The mountains were covered as the water surged above them more than twenty feet. † 21 Every creature perished — those that crawl on the earth, birds, livestock, wildlife, and those that swarm † on the earth, as well as all mankind. 22 Everything with the breath of the spirit of life in its nostrils † — everything on dry land died. 23 He wiped out every living thing that was on the face of the earth, from mankind to livestock, to creatures that crawl, to the birds of the sky, and they were wiped off the earth. Only Noah was left, and those that were with him in the ark. † 24 And the water surged on the earth 150 days.

THE FLOOD RECEDES

8 God remembered Noah, † as well as all the wildlife and all the livestock that were with him in the ark. God caused a wind † to pass over the earth, † and the water began to subside. 2 The sources of the watery depths and the floodgates of the sky were closed, and the rain from the sky stopped. † 3 The water steadily receded from the earth, and by the end of 150 days the water had decreased significantly. † 4 The ark came to rest in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month, on the mountains of Ararat. †
5 The water continued to recede until the tenth month; in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains were visible. 6 After forty days
Noah opened the window of the ark that he had made, 7 and he sent out a raven.
It went back and forth until the water had dried up from the earth. 8 Then he sent out a dove to see whether the water on the earth's surface had gone down, 9 but the dove found no resting place for its foot. It returned to him in the ark because water covered the surface of the whole earth. He reached out and brought it into the ark to himself.

THE BIBLE AND CREATION CARE

The biblical story begins with God and his creative work. God spoke the universe into existence. He separated light from darkness, day from night, water under the expanse from water above it, and water from land. Then he caused vegetation to grow on the dry ground. He filled the waters with fish, the sky with flying creatures, and the earth with a variety of living things, each created according to its kind. He blessed the creatures he had made and commanded them to fill their domain (Gn 1:22). Then, as the pinnacle of his creative work, he made humanity (male and female) in his image and likeness and commanded them to fill the earth and rule over all the creatures he had made and blessed (Gn 1:26-28). Rather than caring for it himself, God entrusted the care of his creation to humans. He placed the man and woman "in the garden of Eden to work it and watch over it" (Gn 2:15). It was a world of order, harmony, and blessing for all created things.

But then order was turned to chaos, harmony to turmoil, blessing to curse, and life to death. Creation's caretakers chose to believe the serpent, a creature, rather than God; they ate the fruit from the one tree from which God had forbidden them to eat (Gn 3:1-6). God cursed the ground as his judgment on these rebels. He removed them from the garden and promised them that death would be their end. Nevertheless, he did not rescind the command to rule over the earth and to care for the creation. Instead, he said that their creation care would be more difficult; their work would now be characterized as "painful labor . . . until [they returned] to the ground, since [they] were taken from it. For [they were] dust, and [they would] return to dust" (Gn 3:17-19).

As humanity multiplied on the earth they became more corrupt and filled with wickedness (Gn 3:1-5). God was "deeply grieved" (Gn 6:6). He sent judgment on the earth in the form of a flood, in order to "wipe mankind, whom [he] created, off the face of the earth, together with the animals, creatures that crawl, and birds of the sky" (Gn 6:7). But God delivered Noah and his family and representatives of every kind of living creature. When the flood waters receded and the inhabitants of the ark returned to the dry ground, God reiterated his purpose for humanity when he said to Noah and his family, "Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth" (Gn 9:1). God made a covenant with all living creatures and the earth itself, in which he promised never again to destroy all life on the planet (Gn 9:11). This covenant had a sign, a rainbow, which God established as a reminder of the everlasting covenant between him and "all the living creatures on earth" (Gn 9:16). The everlasting covenant presupposes an everlasting earth, cared for by those created in God's image and likeness.

In the incarnation, in Jesus of Nazareth, the eternal Son of God entered creation. The Creator took on flesh and resided in the world he had made (Jn 1:14). In so doing, he revealed God to the world and became its Savior (Jn 1:14-18,29). Christ's work of redemption is not merely good news for humans. The salvific plan of God is cosmic in scope.

The apostle Paul explains that creation has been longing for its redemption since the day it was cursed. Human creation care cannot remove the curse. That can only be done by the Creator, and he has promised to do so in the restoration of all things, in the redemption of all creation: "Creation eagerly waits with anticipation . . . in the hope that the creation itself will also be set free from the bondage to decay into the glorious freedom of God's children" (Rm 8:19-21). Creation's redemption is tied to humanity's redemption. Creation groans as it looks forward to its liberation. God's love for the world means that the world will be redeemed by the work of the Savior (Jn 3:16).

In his letter to the Colossians, Paul asserts that Jesus Christ is "the image of the invisible God" (Col 1:15), the One who created "everything" (Col 1:16), and the One who came "to have first place in everything" through his resurrection from the dead (Col 1:18). Paul concludes: "For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile everything to himself, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross" (Col 1:19-20). In the God-man, the Creator entered creation in order to redeem creation. As the head of his body, the church, Christ cares for his creation through his followers (Col 1:18).

The biblical story concludes with the promise of a new creation. In his vision of the completion of the work of redemption, John sees a new heaven and a new earth coming down to the earth from heaven. He also hears a voice from the throne of God: "Look, God's dwelling is with humanity, and he will live with them. They will be his peoples, and God himself will be with them and will be their God. He will wipe away every tear from their eyes. Death will be no more; grief, crying, and pain will be no more, because the previous things have passed away" (Rv 21:3-4). When redemption is completed, the curse and all its effects will be removed, the earth will be made new, and the Creator will make the creation his home forever (cp. Is 65:17-25). Then, forever, humans will serve God by caring for the world that he made.

Humanity has been given the responsibility to serve God by caring for his creation, the place in which God will make his home eternally. Creation care is a stewardship given to us. It is a biblical mandate that predates the fall and has never been repealed. The fall makes our care more difficult, but it does not remove our responsibility. One indication of the seriousness of this responsibility is seen in the declaration of the Judge that those who destroy the earth will be judged. In Revelation 11:18, according to the song of the twenty-four elders, in the day of God's wrath, "the time has come for the dead to be judged and to give the reward to your servants the prophets, to the saints, and to those who fear your name, both small and great, and the time has come to destroy those who destroy the earth." Destruction of the planet is not merely accomplished by active and willful rebellion. Passivity, too, is failure to care for the earth and is tantamount to destroying it.

Several practical implications follow. (1) Creation care is a gospel concern for it is a life issue. Healthy human and animal life depends on a good environment that includes clean air and water and one in which disease and decay are controlled. (2) In James 1:27, the apostle describes “pure and undefiled religion” as looking “after orphans and widows in their distress” and keeping “oneself unstained from the world.” Later, he characterizes a faith that does not provide clothes and daily food for the needy as “dead” faith (Jms 2:15-17). Surely, providing clean air and water is as important as providing food and clothes. (3) Since no one knows when the end will come (Mt 24:36-44), caring for the creation benefits all inhabitants of the planet. Extending lifetimes and improving life’s quality is good stewardship.

10 So Noah waited seven more days and sent out the dove from the ark again. 11 When the dove came to him at evening, there was a plucked olive leaf in its beak. So Noah knew that the water on the earth’s surface had gone down. 12 After he had waited another seven days, he sent out the dove, but it did not return to him again. 13 In the six hundred and first year, † in the first month, on the first day of the month, the water that had covered the earth was dried up. Then Noah removed the ark’s cover and saw that the surface of the ground was drying. 14 By the twenty-seventh day of the second month, the earth was dry.

THE LORD’S PROMISE

15 Then God spoke to Noah, 16 “Come out of the ark, you, your wife, your sons, and your sons’ wives with you. 17 Bring out all the living creatures † that are with you — birds, livestock, those that crawl on the earth — and they will spread over the earth and be fruitful and multiply on the earth.” † 18 So Noah, along with his sons, his wife, and his sons’ wives, came out. 19 All the animals, all the creatures that crawl, and all the flying creatures — everything that moves on the earth — came out of the ark by their families.

20 Then Noah built an altar to the LORD. He took some of every kind of clean animal and every kind of clean bird and offered burnt offerings on the altar. 21 When the LORD smelled the pleasing aroma, † he said to himself, “I will never again curse the ground † because of human beings, even though the inclination of the human heart is evil from youth onward. † And I will never again strike down every living thing as I have done. †

22 As long as the earth endures, seedtime and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, and day and night will not cease.” †

GOD'S COVENANT WITH NOAH

9 God blessed Noah and his sons and said to them, "Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth. † 2 The fear and terror of you will be in every living creature on the earth, every bird of the sky, every creature that crawls on the ground, and all the fish of the sea. They are placed under your authority. † 3 Every creature that lives and moves will be food for you; † as I gave the green plants, I have given you everything. † 4 However, you must not eat meat with its lifeblood in it. † 5 And I will require a penalty for your lifeblood; † I will require it from any animal † and from any human; if someone murders a fellow human, I will require that person's life. † †

6 Whoever sheds human blood, by humans his blood will be shed, † for God made humans in his image. †

7 But you, be fruitful and multiply; spread out over the earth and multiply on it." †
8 Then God said to Noah and his sons with him, 9 "Understand that I am establishing my covenant † with you and your descendants after you, 10 and with every living creature that is with you — birds, livestock, and all wildlife of the earth that are with you — all the animals of the earth that came out of the ark. 11 I establish my covenant with you that never again will every creature be wiped out by floodwaters; there will never again be a flood to destroy the earth." †
12 And God said, "This is the sign of the covenant † I am making between me and you and every living creature with you, a covenant for all future generations:
13 I have placed my bow in the clouds, † and it will be a sign of the covenant between me and the earth. 14 Whenever I form clouds over the earth and the bow appears in the clouds, 15 I will remember my covenant † between me and you and all the living creatures: † water will never again become a flood to destroy every creature. 16 The bow will be in the clouds, and I will look at it and remember the permanent covenant † between God and all the living creatures † on earth." 17 God said to Noah, "This is the sign of the covenant that I have established between me and every creature on earth."

PROPHECIES ABOUT NOAH'S FAMILY

18 Noah's sons who came out of the ark were Shem, Ham, and Japheth. Ham was the father of Canaan. 19 These three were Noah's sons, and from them the whole earth was populated. †

20 Noah, as a man of the soil, began by planting † a vineyard. 21 He drank some of the wine, became drunk, and uncovered himself inside his tent. 22 Ham, the father of Canaan, saw his father naked and told his two brothers outside. † 23 Then Shem and Japheth took a cloak and placed it over both their shoulders, and walking backward, they covered their father's nakedness. Their faces were turned away, and they did not see their father naked.

24 When Noah awoke from his drinking and learned what his youngest son had done to him, 25 he said:

Canaan is cursed. †
He will be the lowest of slaves to his brothers. †

26 He also said:

Blessed be the LORD, the God of Shem; Let Canaan be † Shem's slave.
27 Let God extend Japheth; † let Japheth dwell in the tents of Shem;
let Canaan be Shem's slave.

28 Now Noah lived 350 years after the flood. 29 So Noah's life lasted 950 years; then he died.

9:1 God blessed Noah and his sons and said, "Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth," just as he had instructed Adam and Eve. It is as though God restarts the human race through Noah's family. The sin problem, however, has not been solved: still "the inclination of the human heart is evil from youth onward" (8:21).

9:1-17 God initiated a covenant (Hb berit) with Noah and all living creatures (vv. 9-10). A covenant is a binding agreement defining a relationship between two parties and that requires obligations from at least one of them. In the present covenant, God's promise is that he will not destroy the whole earth again by means of a flood. Because God has revealed that his intentions are that all living creatures should live and flourish, Noah and his descendants are expected to respond by respecting and valuing life (9:3-5; see "Animal Rights," p. 21). Human life is so precious that the penalty for murder must be death (9:6; see "Biblical View of Crime and Punishment," p. 105; "Birth Control and Procreation Technology," p. 15; "A Biblical Assessment of Abortion," p. 718). Covenants often required a public posting or a periodic reading of the obligations in order to remind the parties of their responsibilities. In the Bible, God usually gives a sign to accompany a covenant as a reminder that it is in effect and will (or should be) faithfully observed. In the covenant with Noah the sign is a (rain)bow in the sky. Other well-known covenants in the Bible include the covenant between God and Abram (Gn 15:18), the covenant between God and Israel (Ex 19:4-6; 20:1-17), the covenant between God and David (2Sm 7; 23:5), and the new covenant between God and Israel (Jr 31:31-34). Other examples of covenants include the covenant between David and Jonathan (1Sm 18:3) and covenants between nations, such as were forbidden between Israel and the Canaanites (Ex 23:32; 34:12).

9:20-21 Despite Noah's righteousness (6:9), 8:21 indicated that the flood had not solved man's sin problem. Noah too was a sinner, as shown by his drunkenness (9:21). His failure parallels that of his ancestors, Adam and Eve. Both failures involve planting (2:8; 9:20), partaking of fruit in some way (3:6; 9:21), nakedness (3:7; 9:21), and curse (3:14,17; 9:25).

9:22-27 Whereas his older brothers, Shem and Japheth, covered their father's nakedness (see also Ex 20:26), Ham did not protect his father's dignity. As a result, Noah cursed one of Ham's sons, Canaan. It seems this curse was fulfilled many generations later through God's punishment of the Canaanites for their idolatry (see 10:15-19; 15:16).

THE TABLE OF NATIONS

10 These are the family records † of Noah's sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth. They also had sons after the flood.

2 Japheth's sons: † Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras. 3 Gomer's sons: Ashkenaz, Riphath, and Togarmah. 4 And Javan's sons: Elishah, Tarshish, † Kittim, and Dodanim. † 5 From these descendants, the peoples of the coasts and islands spread out into their lands according to their clans in their nations, each with its own language.

6 Ham’s sons: † Cush, Mizraim, Put, and Canaan. 7 Cush’s sons: Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, and Sabteca. And Raamah’s sons: Sheba and Dedan.
8 Cush fathered Nimrod, who began to be powerful in the land. 9 He was a powerful hunter in the sight of the LORD. That is why it is said, “Like Nimrod, a powerful hunter in the sight of the LORD.” 10 His kingdom started with Babylon, † Erech, † Accad, † and Calneh, † in the land of Shinar. † † 11
From that land he went to Assyria † and built Nineveh, Rehoboth-ir, Calah, 12 and Resen, between Nineveh and the great city Calah.
13 Mizraim † † fathered the people of Lud, Anam, Lehab, Naphtuh, 14 Pathrus, Casluh (the Philistines came from them), and Caphtor. † 15 Canaan fathered Sidon his firstborn and Heth, 16 as well as the Jebusites, the Amorites, the Girgashites, † 17 the Hivites, the Arkites, the Sinites, 18 the Arvadites, the Zemarites, and the Hamathites. Afterward the Canaanite clans scattered. 19 The Canaanite border went from Sidon going toward Gerar as far as Gaza, and going toward Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim as far as Lasha.
20 These are Ham’s sons by their clans, according to their languages, in their lands and their nations.
21 And Shem, Japheth’s older brother, also had sons. Shem was the father of all the sons of Eber. † 22 Shem’s sons † were Elam, Asshur, Arpachshad, Lud, and Aram.
23 Aram’s sons: Uz, Hul, Gether, and Mash.
24 Arpachshad fathered † Shelah, † and Shelah fathered Eber. 25 Eber had two sons. One was named Peleg, † for during his days the earth was divided; † his brother was named Joktan. 26 And Joktan fathered Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, 27 Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, 28 Obal, Abimael, Sheba, 29 Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these were Joktan’s sons. 30 Their settlements extended from Mesha to Sephar, the eastern hill country.
31 These are Shem’s sons by their clans, according to their languages, in their lands and their nations.
32 These are the clans of Noah’s sons, according to their family records, in their nations. The nations on earth spread out from these after the flood. † 10:32 The genealogy in this chapter explains the origin of various clans and nations, as descended from Noah's three sons. In accordance with God's command (1:28, 9:1,7), the human race was in the process of being fruitful, multiplying, and filling the earth. The listing here also serves as a backdrop for the incident involving the tower of Babylon and the call of Abram (Gn 11–12). Several of Israel's future enemies are traced to Ham's line: Egypt (Mizraim, v. 6), Babylon (v. 10; see also 11:9), Assyria (v. 11), and the Canaanites (vv. 15-19).

THE TOWER OF BABYLON

11 The whole earth had the same language and vocabulary. † 2 As people † migrated from the east, † they found a valley in the land of Shinar and settled there. † 3 They said to each other, "Come, let us make oven-fired bricks." (They used brick for stone and asphalt † for mortar.) 4 And they said, "Come, let us build ourselves a city and a tower with its top in the sky. † Let us make a name for ourselves; otherwise, we will be scattered throughout the earth."

5 Then the LORD came down † to look over the city and the tower that the humans † were building. 6 The LORD said, "If they have begun to do this as one people all having the same language, then nothing they plan to do will be impossible for them. 7 Come, let's go down there and confuse their language so that they will not understand one another's speech."

IMAGO DEI AND THE DISTINCTIVENESS OF HUMANS

Both land animals and the first humans, Adam and Eve, were created by God on the sixth day (Gn 1:24-31). Both were made of or from the earth (Gn 1:24; 2:7). Both have "breath of life" from God (Gn 2:7; 6:17; 7:15,22). Both originally ate vegetables and fruits (Gn 2:16). Nevertheless, humans are distinctive because they were created in the image of God (imago Dei), as clearly stated in Genesis 1:27: "God created man in his own image; he created him in the image of God; he created them male and female." Throughout church history, emphasis has been placed on three main aspects that distinguish humans from animals: rule, relationship, and reason.

RULE

As God was about to create the first human couple in his own image, he already intended to have them rule over all animals (Gn 1:26). As soon as God created them according to his image, he commanded them to do what he intended: “Rule the fish of the sea, the birds of the sky, and every creature that crawls on the earth” (Gn 1:28). The fact that humans were appointed by God to be his representatives who reign over the animal kingdom is one of the distinctive features of being human, as clearly taught in the creation account. To be created in God’s image is to be bestowed with superior and sovereign authority to rule over the inferior beings, namely, animals.

RELATIONSHIP

That God created both male and female in his own image implies a relational nature in the image. That God said, “Let us make . . . in our image, according to our likeness” (three times, first person plural), strongly indicates a form of relationality in God’s being (Gn 1:26). This “our” language does not refer to other heavenly beings because the following verse immediately says that God created humans in “his own image,” that is, they are made in “the image of God” (Gn 1:27). God’s image of “plurality-singularity” expresses itself in his own distinctive creatures, namely, male and female (Gn 1:27). Two distinct persons yet one, they both “become one flesh” (Gn 2:24).

This form of personal unity between human male and female is never applied to animals. Though animals and humans both receive life from the same source, humans alone were described as having “the breath of life” breathed into their nostrils (Gn 2:7). This relationship of divine-human intimacy, found throughout Scripture, makes humans distinct from animals. Humans have the created capacity to relate to God so that they can experience, know, and love him in a personal way.

REASON

Animals cannot acquire the mind that humans have because the latter have minds made in God’s image. Humans are able to obtain vast and varied knowledge, to gain wisdom, to develop insights, to seek creative imagination and express it, and to experience continuing mind transformation (Rm 12:2). Human rational capability, moreover, includes and implies moral responsibility to God. Christians are to know the mind of God so that they may live according to the will of God. The way to know the mind of God is by having the mind of Christ (1Co 2:16; Php 2:5).

RESEMBLANCE-REPRESENTATION

These three aspects constitute the classic view of what it means to be made in “God’s image.” The following expounds another recent view, though not entirely innovative, concerning the image of God. According to the view of Resemblance-Representation, being made in God’s image simply means that humans resemble and represent God. Resembling God, then, means that humans are “patterned” after God; we are like him. Both man and woman are similar to, but not the same as, God. We are created to be images reflecting the original; we are to represent God himself.

A closer look at the uses of “image” and “likeness” in the Bible provides a significant clue about what it means to be like God for a purpose. In the Bible, the terms “image” and “likeness” (selem and demut in Hb; eikon and homoioma in Gk) are often used interchangeably or synonymously. We may categorize them into three types of meanings pertinent to our discussion: First, the “image” or “likeness” of God refers to humans who were created by God to be like God (Gn 1:26-27; 5:1; 9:6; 1Co 11:7; Jms 3:9). Second, the “image(s)” or “likeness(es)” of gods refers to the idols that were created by humans to resemble and to revere the various created beings (e.g., Lv 26:1; Dt 4:16; 27:15; Ac 17:29; Rm 1:23). Third, the true image of the only real God, namely, his Son Jesus Christ (Rm 8:29; 2Co 4:4; Col 1:15).

God did not want his people to create images or idols to represent him, yet he created humans to be like him. Unfortunately, the first humans decided to be "like God" by directly disobeying God's command (Gn 3:2-7). Since then, the "image of God" in humans has been functionally, relationally, and rationally distorted—though not entirely lost (Gn 3:16-19,22-24; 9:6; cp. Rm 3:23; 3:9). They wanted to be like God in their own way, which led them to punishment and banishment from God's presence. In spite of this hopeless and helpless condition, God, in his grace, had prepared the way to restore his image by way of his Son.

THE IMAGE OF GOD IN CHRIST

As we put side by side the first meaning of the "image of God" (humans) with the third meaning of the "image of God" (Christ), we come close to the central message. Jesus and all other humans bear the image. But there is a qualitative difference between him and us. We are sinners, but Jesus is the Son. Humans are created or made in God's image, while Jesus is God's image, uncreated (2Co 4:4; Col 1:15). Jesus embodies and emanates the true and pure divine essence. As Hebrews 1:3 described the Son, he "is the radiance of God's glory, and the exact expression of his nature." Nevertheless, our common image bearing indicates that Jesus is the ideal human. He fulfills God's intention for humanity. And as the ideal human, he is the pattern that we should follow. That is, we are to be like Christ and we are to be conformed to Christ. As Scripture affirms, "Those he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image [eikon] of his Son" (Rm 8:29).

THE IMAGE OF GOD IN THE CHRISTIAN

By patterning ourselves after Jesus, we become like God in the way he intends. United to Jesus through faith, we have been created anew, being renewed in the image of God (2Co 5:17; Eph 4:24; Col 3:10). Furthermore, we are created anew for a purpose: "for good works, which God prepared ahead of time for us to do" (Eph 2:10). This new purpose entails a number of implications.

First, we love Christ wholeheartedly. The call to follow Jesus is to love him wholeheartedly (Lk 14:24). As we continue to comprehend "the length and width, height and depth" of Christ's surpassing love, Christians will be "filled with all the fullness of God" (Eph 3:18-19). Consequently, we manifest God's fullness in and through our lives.

Second, we learn from Christ faithfully. Christians learned about him, heard from him, and were taught by him because "the truth is in Jesus" (Eph 4:21). By learning from Jesus, their minds are progressively renewed and the image of God is thus restored "in righteousness and purity of the truth" (Eph 4:20,23-24).

Ultimately, to be like Christ is to conform to his image of glory: "We all, with unveiled faces, are looking as in a mirror . . . and are being transformed into the same image [eikon] from glory to glory" (2Co 3:18a). This is the ultimate glorification that God promises to those whom he has chosen to conform to the image of his Son: "Those he predestined, he also called; and those he called, he also justified; and those he justified, he also glorified" (Rm 8:30). To be in God's image is to be conformed to Christ's image. This is the highest calling and privilege humans may know.

LANGUAGE AND MEANING

Some people think if you know a word's definition and you know what the related grammar is, then you know the meaning. But discerning meaning involves recognizing a complex interaction between words, grammar, context, literary genre, style, background, and solid interpretive method.

The pursuit of meaning also must have the proper goal in mind, affirming the referents within the expressions of an author in the text one is studying. True meaning is not about what possible meaning a text can generate, because a text without a context can generate many meanings given the fluidity of words and a multiplicity of readings. Nor is meaning about what is in the mind of the author when he writes, since meaning is not about psychoanalysis. Finding meaning, rather, is about seeking what the writer sought to communicate through linguistic signs.

LANGUE AND PAROLE

Linguistics has long distinguished between langue and parole. These French terms designate a language system on the one hand (langue) and a specific utterance on the other (parole). An analogy used by Ferdinand de Saussure is that langue is like the rules of chess, while parole is a specific game. Thus langue is about possible meaning, while parole is about specific meaning. Obviously there is an interaction between what language is capable of meaning and what a specific utterance means in a given theological, literary, social, and historical context. The process of discerning this difference involves the act of interpretation.

MEANING AND SIGNIFICANCE

It is also important to distinguish meaning from significance. Meaning is specific (even when it is intended to be generic or representative as in many psalms or proverbs). Significance can shift as it involves meaning applied in new contexts or as it is read canonically. So, certain OT texts lose their direct applicability once NT realities supersede them. Thus laws of cleanliness that once applied to God's people, especially in light of temple service, no longer apply because of how the NT no longer endorses such categories and because there is no temple to which such laws apply.

GIVEN ALL OF THESE VARIABLES, HOW DOES ONE WORK TOWARD DISCOVERING MEANING?

1. CONSIDER WHAT THE TEXT MAY MEAN.

One needs to be aware of what the language will permit in terms of meaning. Words and grammar can yield only so many possibilities. Commentators often wrestle with the options as they work their way toward explaining what a text means. In doing so, they are not trying to confuse people; they are recognizing what the text could be saying before deciding what it does say. Meaning is not always immediately transparent. If it were, we would not need to debate what a text means. Meaning has to be recognized and validated by discussing why certain meanings work and other possible meanings do not.

2. LITERARY GENRE, AUTHORIAL STYLE, HISTORICAL BACKGROUND, AND SPECIFIC CONTEXT ALL COME INTO PLAY IN MOVING TOWARD SPECIFIC MEANING.

Interpretation of meaning involves interaction between all these elements. Any one of these factors, or a combination of them, may generate an adequate interpretation.

Genre. For example, the moment we recognize we are reading an apocalyptic text, we know that the spiritual world can be depicted through symbols in that genre—which is why we get strange creatures and images in apocalyptic texts. The goal, then, is to determine what the symbol represents. A psalm or hymnic genre lifts up notes of praise, or laments particular experiences, that can give expression to the common experiences of God's people.

Style. Sometimes style is a factor for consideration. John's Gospel is known for its use of double entendre. So, when reading John we might entertain the possibility of a double meaning more readily than when reading the work of other Gospel writers. When John speaks of being "born again" or "from above" in John 3:3 (both are possible; see CSB footnote), he may have both ideas in mind rather than intending only one.

Background. The multiple possibilities here lead to debate as to when and whether a particular background is in mind. An uncontroversial example involves Jesus's use of a little child in response to the disciples' debate over who is the greatest (Lk 9). Children had little or no social status in the ancient world. They were not valued until they were of use to the family. So, Jesus's use of the image of a child immediately communicates that a person's value is not derived from social status.

Context. By far the most important factor for determining meaning is the specific context. Context involves some of the features already noted. But beyond these are the words used, and the relationships between words, to convey meaning. When Jesus speaks of plucking out one's eye if it causes lust, it is clear he is not speaking literally. Otherwise, an individual could only lust twice before becoming blind. So the context, along with Jesus's penchant for rhetorical vividness, produces a meaning that addresses the importance of not using one's eyes lustfully.

3. THE APPEAL TO THEOLOGY TO DETERMINE MEANING IS COMPLEX BECAUSE SCRIPTURE IS CAPABLE OF ADDRESSING TOPICS FROM DISTINCT ANGLES AND DISTINCT CONTEXTS.

Scripture often provides complementary information rather than simply repeating itself. Thus, multiple Gospel accounts of the same event may involve different details. These details open fresh perspectives on the event. According to Mark, Jesus cries out a quote from Psalm 22:1 to express that God is forsaking him while he is on the cross. Yet according to Luke, at a later moment, Jesus affirms his trust of God by appealing to Psalm 31:5. In such cases, one affirms the presence of Christ's varied emotions while on the cross. Another example is how Paul highlights how salvation is secured by faith without works, while James argues that works show the presence of saving faith. Since Paul and James are writing to address different concerns, we may see how the passages complement—rather than contradict—each other.

A tendency to over-harmonize texts risks making each say the same thing. Over-harmonization may result in eliminating a perspective. Thus, careful interpretation involves asking if each writer is making a related point, or instead is addressing a question from a different angle. This means that claiming to "let Scripture interpret Scripture" can be more complex than most realize. Sometimes Scripture simply complements Scripture.

4. THE INTERPRETATION THAT TAKES INTO ACCOUNT THE WIDEST ARRAY OF FACTORS IN A COHERENT FASHION IS LIKELY THE BEST READING.

The most likely meaning emerges when a reading takes into account these various features. Such results are more persuasive than other possibilities. A text cannot mean just anything that a reader can construe it to mean. This does not suggest that we always agree on which potential meaning is most likely. This is why it is necessary to discuss why we support a given reading—to make the case that it is the most likely possibility. This is known as validation. Nevertheless, often only a handful of candidates will possibly reflect what the text means. It is important to be reflective about how we observe meaning in the text because no one is a perfect interpreter. Interpretation within community, in dialogue with others, is an important check for understanding the text.

11:1-9 Since the previous chapter mentions multiple languages (10:5,20,31), the building of the tower of Babylon (or, "Babel") probably took place sometime during the growth and expansion of the human race just described and not after it. The builders' motives were pride (Let us make a name for ourselves) and rebellion (otherwise, we will be scattered; see 1:28, 9:1,7). God put a stop to their project by confusing their language and dispersing them. Babylon thus had its beginnings as a place where humanity was united in rebellion against God (see also 10:10). This is consistent with other references to Babylon elsewhere in Scripture.

THE CALL OF ABRAM

12 The LORD said to Abram:

Go out from your land,
your relatives,
and your father's house to the land that I will show you. † 2 I will make you into a great nation, †
I will bless you, †
I will make your name great, and you will be a blessing. † 3 I will bless those who bless you, I will curse anyone who treats you with contempt, † and all the peoples † on earth will be blessed † through you. † †

4 So Abram went, as the LORD had told him, and Lot went with him. Abram was seventy-five years old when he left Haran. † 5 He took his wife Sarai, his nephew Lot, all the possessions they had accumulated, and the people they had acquired in Haran, and they set out for the land of Canaan. When they came to the land of Canaan, 6 Abram passed through the land to the site of Shechem, † at the oak of Moreh. (At that time the Canaanites were in the land.) 7 The LORD appeared to Abram and said, "To your offspring † I will give this land." So he built an altar there to the LORD who had appeared to him. 8 From there he moved on to the hill country east of Bethel and pitched his tent, with Bethel on the west and Ai on the east. He built an altar to the LORD there, and he called on the name of the LORD. † 9 Then Abram journeyed by stages to the Negev.

ABRAM IN EGYPT

10 There was a famine in the land, † so Abram went down to Egypt to stay there for a while because the famine in the land was severe. 11 When he was about to enter Egypt, he said to his wife Sarai, "Look, I know what a beautiful woman you are. 12 When the Egyptians see you, they will say, 'This is his wife.' They will kill me but let you live. † 13 Please say you're my sister so it will go well for me because of you, and my life will be spared on your account." 14 When Abram entered Egypt, the Egyptians saw that the woman was very beautiful. 15 Pharaoh's officials saw her and praised her to Pharaoh, so the woman was taken to Pharaoh's household. 16 He treated Abram well because of her, and Abram acquired flocks and herds, male and female donkeys, male and female slaves, and camels.
17 But the LORD struck Pharaoh and his household with severe plagues because of Abram's wife Sarai. † 18 So Pharaoh sent for Abram and said, "What have you done to me? Why didn't you tell me she was your wife? 19 Why did you say, 'She's my sister,' so that I took her as my wife? Now, here is your wife.
Take her and go! " 20 Then Pharaoh gave his men orders about him, and they sent him away with his wife and all he had.

12:1-3 The call of Abram (later called Abraham) was a decisive step forward in the salvation plan of God, which was first announced in 3:15. God promised him a new land, which was inhabited at that time by the Canaanites. Although 11:31-32 could be taken to mean that Abram was called out of Haran, 15:7 makes clear that he was called out of Ur of the Chaldeans. In contrast to the builders of the tower who wanted to make a name for themselves (11:4), God promised Abram that he would make Abram's name great. Through Abram, all the peoples on earth will be blessed (see "God's Purposes in a Christian's Participation in Missions," p. 1191). They are in need of blessing because they are all mired in sin (8:21; 11:1-9). It is through Abram's offspring (Hb zera') that this blessing will come, as was the case in 3:15.

12:11-13 Though Abram exercised great faith in obeying God's command to leave his homeland (vv. 1-4), his faith faltered while in Egypt. God had promised him offspring and protection (vv. 2-3), but Abram nevertheless feared for his life and resorted to deception. Abram's plan was effective in the short-term (v. 16), but God intervened to protect Sarai (later called Sarah) and brought the truth to light (vv. 17-19).

ABRAM AND LOT SEPARATE

13 Abram went up from Egypt to the Negev † — he, his wife, and all he had, and Lot with him. 2 Abram was very rich in livestock, silver, and gold. 3 He went by stages from the Negev to Bethel, to the place between Bethel and Ai where his tent had formerly been, 4 to the site where he had built the altar. And Abram called on the name of the LORD there. †

5 Now Lot, who was traveling with Abram, also had flocks, herds, and tents. 6 But the land was unable to support them as long as they stayed together, for they had so many possessions that they could not stay together, † 7 and there was quarreling between the herdsmen of Abram's livestock and the herdsmen of Lot's livestock. † (At that time the Canaanites and the Perizzites were living in the land.) †

8 So Abram said to Lot, "Please, let's not have quarreling between you and me, or between your herdsmen and my herdsmen, since we are relatives. † 9 Isn't the whole land before you? Separate from me: if you go to the left, I will go to the right; if you go to the right, I will go to the left."

10 Lot looked out and saw that the entire plain † of the Jordan † as far as † Zoar † was well watered everywhere like the LORD's garden † and the land of Egypt. (This was before the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah.) † 11 So Lot chose the entire plain of the Jordan for himself. Then Lot journeyed eastward, and they separated from each other. 12 Abram lived in the land of Canaan, but Lot lived in the cities on the plain and set up his tent near Sodom. 13 (Now the men of Sodom were evil, sinning immensely † against the LORD.) †

14 After Lot had separated from him, the LORD said to Abram, "Look from the place where you are. Look north and south, east and west, †

AND THE EARLY CHAPTERS OF GENESIS

Traditionally, Christians, like the Jews from whom they arose, have read the story of Adam and Eve in the opening chapters of the Bible as describing the first pair of humans from whom all other humans descend. Reading Genesis 1–11 as describing actual events, Christians have concluded (1) humankind is actually one family, with one set of ancestors; (2) God acted supernaturally to form our first parents; and (3) our first ancestors, at the headwaters of the human race, were created morally innocent, and nevertheless were seduced into disobedience and thus brought sin and dysfunction into the world in general and human life in particular.

This is a standard belief in the ancient Christian writers, both those in the East and those in the West. Even though Christians disagree on so many important matters—such as exactly how the first sin affects all people, or how long ago these events happened—they have been united on this basic point, finding it fundamental to their view of the world.

CONTEMPORARY QUESTIONS

Today there are also voices, outside the church and within it, raising questions about whether we should hold this ancient belief any longer. Some ask, How could anything someone else did long ago have any bearing on my life here and now? Even if Adam and Eve really lived, disobeyed God, and were booted out of the garden, what of it? Why should that affect me?

Second, there is the widely acknowledged conclusion that the material in Genesis 1–11 closely parallels what we find in other ancient stories, particularly those from Mesopotamia. Someone might ask, If we do not treat these other stories as history, why should we treat Genesis as such? What makes us think that the Bible writers themselves meant to produce anything unique from those other stories?

Third, we have the dominant theories of the modern sciences. Astrophysicists say that the universe began with a “big bang,” approximately thirteen to fourteen billion years ago. This is or is not a problem for Christians, depending on whether we think Genesis provides a timeline.

A more serious challenge comes from the science of evolutionary biology, with its narrative (as some construe it) of how humans arose through a purely natural process of evolution. Some evolutionary theories make it difficult to speak of the “first” members of a new species. Further, studies of DNA have seemed to imply that we cannot get the genetic diversity we find in the human population unless humanity began with more than two people. Many wonder whether the different people groups of humankind actually arose in separate places, independently of each other—a situation that would mean we are not a unified kind.

WORLDVIEW STAKES

What aspects of the Christian worldview are at stake in this discussion? Certainly there is the matter of whether we can trust the Bible to tell us the true story of who we are and where we came from, and of what has gone wrong—and thus of what God intends to do about it all. Then comes the issue of sin: is it a foreign invader into God’s good world, or is it an inevitable result of chance and time? And what of humans: do our capabilities, which distinguish us from the animal world, come with an obligation to rule that world wisely and lovingly? Is there a pattern for marriage and family life that all humans everywhere should follow? And finally, the Christian worldview traces our hunger for a loving community in which all kinds of people live peaceably and justly to our unified origin as members of one family.

Certainly a first blush reading of Genesis supports the traditional Christian view: we read of how God created the first humans (1:26-27, with 2:5-25 giving a fuller description); their marriage was to be the paradigm for all future sound marriages, and it was the beginning of human families and communities (2:24). Sadly, they disobeyed God and thus brought punishment on themselves and, apparently, all their descendants (Gn 3–4). From Adam and Eve the rest of "the peoples on earth" (12:3) descended (Gn 10–11)—the very peoples who would be blessed by way of Abram and his family. The genealogies in Genesis 5, 10, and 11 bring us from Adam to Abram, the ancestor of Israel.

Many theologians have now come to realize that the Bible has an overarching storyline, which unifies all the different parts. And that storyline serves as the "Big Story" of the world—it is a narrative that tells us who we are, where we came from, what is wrong, and what God is doing about it. This is why Scripture's historicity matters: biblical faith is grounded in the narrative of God's great works of creation and redemption, and not simply in a list of timeless principles.

THE BIBLICAL STORYLINE AND THE EARLY CHAPTERS IN GENESIS

Good thinking about the biblical storyline leads to a deeper appreciation of Scripture as a whole. In Genesis 12:1-3: Abram's family, Israel, was to be the vehicle of God's light to the Gentiles through living faithfully in God's covenant. But what does this require as a foundation, if it is to be true? It requires that all the Gentiles (non-Jews) need God's light because they are estranged from him by something that does not belong in their lives; and it requires that there be something in those Gentiles that can be enlivened to respond to that light, just as in Israel (the Jews). In other words, these Gentiles have a common origin with Israel as humans, a common set of human capacities, and a common need that stems from an invasive event.

That is, this estrangement from God is unnatural; it is out of step with how things ought to be. Something has come into human experience that produced that estrangement; that something is sin (cp. Ec 7:29, "God made people upright, but they pursued many schemes"). It made its entry into human life at such a time and in such a way that it infects everyone, which means that it came in at the beginning.

In the biblical story sin is an alien intruder; it disturbs God's good creation order. This comes through clearly in the way that the Levitical sacrifices deal with sin: they treat it as a defiling element, which ruins human existence and renders people unworthy to be in God's presence. The sacrifices effect "atonement," "redemption," and "ransom," addressing sin as a defiling intruder that incurs God's displeasure (e.g., Lv 16).

The unnaturalness of sin is also evident in how Wisdom books such as Proverbs connect moral goodness with mental savvy—and wickedness is a kind of stupidity or folly (e.g., Pr 12:1). That is, living in line with God's will is sensible, while living out of step with God is foolish.

The notion that humankind is one family, sharing one set of ancestors—ancestors who, at the headwaters of the human race brought sin and dysfunction into the world—is behind all these factors as an unwavering assumption. The NT authors carry along this assumption. Certainly the apostle Paul spoke this way (e.g., Rm 5:12-21; 1Co 15:20-22,44-49), but the most notable example of this assumption comes from Jesus.

Consider Matthew 19:3-9, in which some Pharisees want to "test" Jesus, which probably means that they wanted to ensnare him into taking sides on a debate between their various schools of thought. So they asked him, "'Is it lawfull for a man to divorce his wife on any grounds?' 'Haven't you read . . . that he who created them in the beginning made them male and female, and he also said, "For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two will become one flesh"? So they are no longer two but one flesh. Therefore, what God has joined together, let no one seperate.'"

Jesus's answer ties together Genesis 1:27 and 2:24. Since these people are now one flesh, joined together by God, they should not be separated. The Pharisees then asked why Moses allowed divorce (Mt 19:7, citing Dt 24:1-4), and Jesus explains that it was a concession: "It was not like that from the beginning" (Mt 19:8).

This conversation shows that Jesus viewed the creation account of Genesis 1–2 as setting the ideal for a properly functioning marriage; that was how God intended things to be "from the beginning." The family legislation of Deuteronomy, on the other hand, does not set the ethical norm. It has another function—namely, that of preserving civility in Israel: a function that has become necessary by some change of circumstances introduced since “the beginning.” The obvious candidate for the change is the sin of Adam and Eve, with its consequences for all humans.

Specialists in the apostle Paul’s writings have come to realize how firmly he rooted his arguments in this overarching narrative of the OT—just as Jesus did. From Romans 1:2-6, it is clear that Paul read the OT as the early chapters of the biblical story, which tells of how God chose Abraham’s family through which to work to restore what was damaged by sin. This ends with the anticipation of a new era in which the Gentiles receive the light. Paul links his key term “good news” (or “gospel”) to the announcement that through the death, resurrection, and ascension of Jesus this new era has begun (Rm 1:2-6; Gl 3:8-9; cp. Mk 1:15, see also Mt 28:1-20). As Paul tells us, Christian believers, both Jewish and Gentile, are those in whom God is renewing his image for proper human functioning in their individual, family, and community lives (e.g., Col 3:9-10; 2Cor 3:18). There the fractured family is once again united.

When it comes to comparing Adam and Jesus (Rm 5:12-19; 1Co 15:20-23,42-49), Paul’s argument likewise depends on a literal, historical narrative. That is, someone did something (one man trespassed; Rm 5:15), and as a result something happened (sin, death, and condemnation came into the world of human experience). Then Jesus came to deal with the consequences of it all (by his obedience to make the many righteous). The argument gains its coherence from its sequence of events; it is drastically inadequate to say that Paul is merely making a comparison here. Further, consider the notion that people are “in Adam” or “in Christ”: to be “in” someone is to be a member of that people for whom that someone is the representative. All the evidence we have indicates that only actual persons can function as representatives.

The book of Revelation continues this narrative focus: it portrays the final victory of God’s purposes using Edenic and sanctuary imagery to describe perfected human life in a cleansed creation (Rv 22).

Therefore, if we say that being prone to sin is inherent in being human and having a free will (rather than a horrific aberration brought in at an early stage by someone’s disobedience), then we must say that the Bible writers were wrong in describing atonement the way they did, as addressing defilement as an intruder; and we must say that Jesus was wrong to describe his own death in these terms (e.g., Mk 10:45). Further, this approach makes nonsense of the joyful expectation of Christians that they will one day live in a glorified world from which sin and death have been banished (Rv 21:1-8). No Christian would want to imply that those who dwell in a glorified world will be less human because they no longer sin!

From this it follows that we do not have to know exactly how the sin of our first ancestors affects us; it is enough to say that it has done so. In other words, our intuitive sense that the world is not the way it is supposed to be corresponds to reality. Furthermore, if we acknowledge that the stories from other ancient cultures aimed to explain the world, we can see that the Bible writers aimed to tell the true story of our origins: and the Bible’s story rings true.

SCIENCE AND THE EARLY CHAPTERS OF GENESIS

But does not science undermine our confidence that this is the true story of the world and of God’s purposes for it? To reply, we would have to consider whether “science” could actually do so. If we require beforehand that science conform to a naturalistic worldview, then it will thus conform: but that does not mean it will tell us the truth. If instead we ask good science to account for the whole range of evidence, then it must account for not simply our biological mechanisms, but also the human moral sense and human reasoning, which assume that our minds partake of something transcending our bodily existence.

We ought further to consider how widespread among all groups of people is the craving for peace and justice, and the recognition that something is amiss about human life. And finally, all humans are indeed one common family, with the same capacities and desires. These features distinguish us from the animal world, leaving a gap between humans and animals that no merely natural process can bridge. The story of Adam and Eve, created good, but who disobeyed and brought sin and misery into their own lives and into ours, answers this exactly. It also provides guidance for sound historical and scientific research into human origins and human nature.

Accepting the biblical story brings a further benefit. If we have a good explanation for why things have gone wrong, then we find that the Christian hope that God will put them right one day is a secure comfort as well—a comfort that will help us to enjoy life as God's beloved people, even now.

There is room for Christians to disagree over questions of how strictly to interpret the details of Genesis 1–11, how long ago Adam and Eve lived, what kind of process God might have used to form the first man, and how the first disobedience affects us today. These are important questions that we ought not avoid; yet, at the same time, we must recognize that while we may offer differing answers to them, we all have a right to say with confidence that the early chapters of Genesis provide the true front end for the "Big Story" of the world—so long as we hold fast to these basic notions.

ABRAM RESCUES LOT

14 In those days King Amraphel of Shinar, † King Arioch of Ellasar, King Chedorlaomer of Elam, † and King Tidal of Goiim † 2 waged war against King Bera of Sodom, King Birsha of Gomorrah, King Shinab of Admah, and King Shemeber of Zeboiim, † as well as the king of Bela (that is, Zoar †). 3 All of these came as allies to the Siddim Valley (that is, the Dead Sea †). 4 They were subject to Chedorlaomer for twelve years, but in the thirteenth year they rebelled. 5 In the fourteenth year Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him came and defeated the Rephaim † in Ashteroth-karnaim, the Zuzim in Ham, † the Emim in Shaveh-kiriathaim, 6 and the Horites † in the mountains of Seir, as far as El-paran † by the wilderness. 7 Then they came back to invade

En-mishpat (that is, Kadesh †), and they defeated the whole territory of the Amalekites, as well as the Amorites who lived in Hazazon-tamar. † 8 Then the king of Sodom, the king of Gomorrah, the king of Admah, the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar) went out and lined up for battle in the Siddim Valley 9 against King Chedorlaomer of Elam, King Tidal of Goiim, King Amraphel of Shinar, and King Arioch of Ellasar — four kings against five. 10 Now the Siddim Valley contained many asphalt pits, and as the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, some fell into them, † but the rest fled to the mountains. † 11 The four kings took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah and all their food and went on. 12 They also took Abram's nephew Lot and his possessions, for he was living in Sodom, † and they went on.
13 One of the survivors came and told Abram the Hebrew, † who lived near the oaks belonging to Mamre the Amorite, the brother of Eshcol and the brother of Aner. They were bound by a treaty with † Abram. 14 When Abram heard that his relative had been taken prisoner, he assembled † his 318 trained men, born in his household, † and they went in pursuit as far as Dan. † 15 And he and his servants deployed against them by night, defeated them, and pursued them as far as Hobah to the north of Damascus. 16 He brought back all the goods and also his relative Lot and his goods, as well as the women and the other people.

MELCHIZEDEK'S BLESSING

17 After Abram returned from defeating Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him, the king of Sodom went out to meet him in the Shaveh Valley (that is, the King's Valley †). 18 Melchizedek, king of Salem, † † brought out bread and wine; he was a priest to God Most High. † 19 He blessed him and said:

Abram is blessed by God Most High,
Creator † of heaven and earth, 20 and blessed be God Most High who has handed over your enemies to you.

And Abram gave him a tenth of everything. †
21 Then the king of Sodom said to Abram, "Give me the people, but take the possessions for yourself."

22 But Abram said to the king of Sodom, “I have raised my hand in an oath to the LORD, God Most High, Creator of heaven and earth, 23 that I will not take a thread or sandal strap or anything that belongs to you, so you can never say, ‘I made Abram rich.’ 24 I will take nothing † except what the servants have eaten.
But as for the share of the men who came with me — Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre — they can take their share.”

14:18-20 Abram’s victory led to a seemingly unexpected interaction with Melchizedek, king of Salem and priest to God Most High. After blessing Abram and receiving a tithe from him, this priest-king vanishes from the narrative just as suddenly as he entered it. Despite such a brief appearance, Melchizedek’s importance is confirmed by the only other place in the OT where he is mentioned. In Psalm 110:4, which Jesus cites as referring to himself (see Mt 22:41-45), the Messiah’s priesthood is likened to Melchizedek’s. The author of Hebrews discusses at length these two OT texts that mention Melchizedek since they relate to Jesus’s ministry as a great high priest (Heb 5–7).

THE ABRAHAMIC COVENANT

15 After these events, the word of the LORD came † to Abram in a vision:

Do not be afraid, † Abram.
I am your shield; † your reward will be very great.

2 But Abram said, “Lord GOD, what can you give me, since I am childless and the heir of my house is Eliezer of Damascus?” † 3 Abram continued, “Look, you have given me no offspring, so a slave born in † my house will be my heir.”
4 Now the word of the LORD came to him: “This one will not be your heir; instead, one who comes from your own body † will be your heir.” 5 He took him outside and said, “Look at the sky and count the stars, if you are able to count them.” Then he said to him, “Your offspring will be that numerous.” † 6 Abram believed the LORD, and he credited it to him as righteousness. †

7 He also said to him, “I am the LORD who brought you from Ur of the Chaldeans to give you this land to possess.” †
8 But he said, “Lord GOD, how can I know † that I will possess it? ” 9 He said to him, “Bring me a three-year-old cow, a three-year-old female goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtledove, and a young pigeon.”
10 So he brought all these to him, cut them in half, and laid the pieces opposite each other, but he did not cut the birds † in half. 11 Birds of prey came down on the carcasses, but Abram drove them away. 12 As the sun was setting, a deep sleep † came over Abram, and suddenly great terror and darkness descended on him.
13 Then the LORD said to Abram, † “Know this for certain: Your offspring will be resident aliens † for four hundred years † in a land that does not belong to them and will be enslaved and oppressed. † 14 However, I will judge the nation they serve, † and afterward they will go out with many possessions. † 15 But you will go to your fathers in peace and be buried at a good old age. † 16 In the fourth generation they will return here, for the iniquity of the Amorites has not yet reached its full measure.” † † 17 When the sun had set and it was dark, a smoking fire pot and a flaming torch appeared and passed between the divided animals. 18 On that day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, “I give this land to your offspring, † from the Brook of Egypt † to the great river, the Euphrates River: 19 the land of the Kenites, Kenizzites, Kadmonites, 20 Hethites, Perizzites, Rephaim, 21 Amorites, Canaanites, Girgashites, and Jebusites.”

15:1-6 The delayed fulfillment of God’s promise of offspring (see 12:1-3,7; 13:15-16) resulted in Abram’s complaint here. In the subsequent exchange, God reaffirmed his promise, and Abram believed the LORD. That God credited Abram’s faith to him as righteousness is a lynchpin to Paul’s argument that righteousness is by faith, not works (Rm 4; Gl 3; see "Faith and Reason," p. 1387). Hebrews 11:2-6 implies that faith has always been what pleases God.

15:17-21 God states that Abram's offspring will live in a foreign country and be oppressed there for four hundred years before returning to the land promised to them (vv. 13,16). God's plan for Abram and his offspring thus included a lengthy period of suffering, which itself would be followed by justice and a reward (v. 14). The covenant God makes with Abram is connected with his earlier promises (see 12:1-3,7; 13:14-17). God restates his intention to give the promised land to Abram's offspring (Hb zera'). The smoking fire pot and flaming torch are sometimes used to represent deities in the ancient Near East and here probably represent God. In some ancient Near Eastern ceremonies, a participant might pass between the pieces of an animal as a way of proclaiming a curse on himself should he fail to carry out promises and obligations. He would be saying, in effect, "May I become like this dead animal if I do not fulfill my promise" (see Jr 34:18 for a possible parallel). Here it is God who passes between the divided animals. The importance of this covenant is confirmed by the many passages in Scripture that refer to it (e.g., Ex 2:24; 2Kg 13:23; Ps 105:9; Ac 3:25). For more on covenants, see the note on 9:1-17.

HAGAR AND ISHMAEL

16 Abram's wife Sarai had not borne any children for him, but she owned an Egyptian slave named Hagar. 2 Sarai said to Abram, "Since the LORD has prevented me from bearing children, go to my slave; perhaps through her I can build a family." And Abram agreed to what Sarai said. † 3 So Abram's wife Sarai took Hagar, her Egyptian slave, and gave her to her husband Abram as a wife for him. This happened after Abram had lived in the land of Canaan ten years. 4 He slept with † Hagar, and she became pregnant. When she saw that she was pregnant, her mistress became contemptible to her. 5 Then Sarai said to Abram, "You are responsible for my suffering! † I put my slave in your arms, † and when she saw that she was pregnant, I became contemptible to her. May the LORD judge between me and you." † 6 Abram replied to Sarai, "Here, your slave is in your hands; do whatever you want with her." Then Sarai mistreated her so much that she ran away from her.
7 The angel of the LORD † found her by a spring in the wilderness, the spring on the way to Shur.

ISLAM

Islamic culture is diverse. The unifying factors of this global people group are their common Islamic beliefs and the use of Arabic as the language of prayer. In this article, we will explore three important questions and Islamic answers.

THREE QUESTIONS

1. WHO IS GOD?

Muslims believe the Creator God is a simple, indivisible Spirit who is far above relating to his creation. He has decreed and revealed Islam to be the religion of humanity.

There are problems with both parts of this belief, however. When a Muslim talks about God, his or her concept is different from God as presented by Jesus Christ and the Bible. Allah or "the God" is the only word used to translate the Bible's word for God in Arabic Bibles. Muslims will quickly point out that God has no one with him and that he is beyond having a Son.

In addition to their rejection of the incarnation of Jesus and God's entering into his own creation, they reject the biblical presentation of God who is simultaneously Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. This is regarded as polytheism, or more accurately, Tri-theism. Rather, Islam presents God as the transcendent, remote observer who is sovereign over all things, while the Bible portrays God as transcendent, sovereign, and intimate. These are significant differences related to who God is.

According to Muslims, God planned for humanity to worship through Islam from the beginning. They believe that even today all babies are born with an inclination toward Islam. The essential meaning of Muslim is "one who is submitted to God," and Christians agree that God wants all to submit to him. Nevertheless, we disagree on the plan for submission. The Bible teaches that God laid out a way back to himself before creation. In Islam, God simply forgives sin and lays out a plan for a worshipping community and a life of submission. For Muslims, knowing what God wants people to do is the whole purpose and content of God's revelation, the Qur'an. In the Bible, revelation presents the sovereign God choosing, before creation, to adopt sons and daughters through receiving his own personal self-sacrifice as the slain Lamb. The Bible is the story of God revealing himself to his creation.

2. WHAT IS HUMANITY'S PROBLEM?

Muslims believe that while people sin, these are actions against themselves and not against God. God can simply and mercifully absolve whom he pleases of sin. Sin is not seen as rebellion against him but as a mistake in a person's thoughts, attitudes, or actions.

In Islam, humanity is not damaged by Adam's sin to the extent that people cannot please God in this world. God will judge all human actions and will mercifully grant entrance into paradise to the faithful. Because the Muslim community externally reinforces correct Islamic behavior, many outsiders see the religion as teaching "works based" salvation. This, however, is incorrect. Entering paradise (salvation) is something based solely on God's decision. While he weighs all aspects of life, no action or attitude can assure a Muslim of entry into paradise except for dying in the cause of Islam. This lack of assurance causes most Muslims to think of God with abject fear that he would capriciously reject them. For this reason, Muhammad requested that Muslims pray for him because he did not know if God would allow him into paradise.

3. HOW DOES GOD COMMUNICATE HIS SOLUTION WITH HUMANITY?

The simple answer is through revelation (wahy) in which God's message was delivered to messengers (e.g., Moses, David, Jesus, and Muhammad) as well as hundreds of prophets. Islam teaches that each of the biblical messengers recognized and predicted the ministry of Muhammad. They point to two passages where they claim this happened, but was masked by Christians and Jews. First, God promises the people of Israel a successor to Moses (Dt 18:15-22). The prophet is to be like Moses in that he is raised up from among the family of Israel. Muslims assume, incorrectly, that Muhammad's descent from Ishmael would qualify him for this role. Second, Jesus promises a Comforter to his disciples (Jn 14:16-17; 16:5-11). Muslims claim that there is a scribal error in this passage and that Muhammad was the promised one spoken of by Jesus. The problem with this interpretation is the context. Jesus offered an immediate and constant presence to guide his disciples as he was about to leave them by way of his death and resurrection. Muhammad's birth 600 years later would be no comfort to them at all.

THE WORLDVIEW OF ISLAM

The worldview of Islam is constructed differently from that of Christianity and of the West in general. A major element in the formation of a worldview is the way that cultures make moral decisions. Western culture in general forms moral decisions based on innocence or guilt; Islamic cultures are based in honor or shame. Both types of cultures form moral values, but the basis for considering an action as "the right thing to do" is different. Generally, in the West, to say "it's the right thing to do" means that if you do this, people will see you as blameless and innocent. The parallel in Islamic cultures means that the action will bring honor to your clan—the extended family, nation, or the Islamic community—and will avoid shame. These principles inform and guide Muslims in developing cultural norms, values, and worldview. In short, Islam and Islamic culture is as complex as Christianity and as diverse as Western culture.

As for the place of reason in worldview formation, all Muslims limit the power of rational thought to build their religious communities and culture. This is why qur'anic statements that conflict with historical facts are not a problem for Muslims. In Islam, history is dwarfed in the presence of the Qur'an. This unquestioning attitude has spread to much qur'anic interpretation. Traditional explanations of truth have become very authoritative.

The content of Islamic revelation consists solely of God's decrees and desires. God's character and nature —other than the fact that he is a solitary Spirit—is not the subject of revelation. Furthermore, Islamic inspiration and transmission of the divine message differs from Christian revelation in several ways.

First, the concept of the Word of God is different for Muslims. Whereas the Bible is God's Word revealed to various persons he inspired throughout history, the Qur'an is understood to be the exact copy of a book of divine speech that is recorded in a permanent form, residing with God. The Arabic Qur'an was delivered to Muhammad by the angel Gabriel in a piecemeal fashion. The Qur'an essentially exists only in Arabic. All translations of the Qur'an are merely aids to understanding it.

Second, the content is different. The Bible seeks to reveal God and enable a relationship with him. The Qur'an seeks to reveal that God is one and that identifying someone as his associate is blasphemy. The Qur'an presents God's decrees to create a community that worships him accurately. The third element that an Islamic revealed book contains is witness to the preceding and succeeding messengers and books of revelation.

Finally, the Qur'an precludes the possibility of God becoming flesh and revealing himself personally. Thus, the speech of God is revealed by the angel Gabriel. But in Jesus Christ, God presents himself clearly by providing redemption through the cross and empty tomb.

MICHAEL H. EDENS

8 He said, "Hagar, slave of Sarai, where have you come from and where are you going? "
She replied, "I'm running away from my mistress Sarai."
9 The angel of the LORD said to her, "Go back to your mistress and submit to her authority." 10 The angel of the LORD said to her, "I will greatly multiply your offspring, † and they will be too many to count."

11 The angel of the LORD said to her, "You have conceived and will have a son.
You will name him Ishmael, † for the LORD has heard your cry of affliction. 12
This man will be like a wild donkey. His hand will be against everyone, and everyone's hand will be against him; he will settle near all his relatives." † 13 So she named the LORD who spoke to her: "You are El-roi," † for she said,
"In this place, have I actually seen † the one who sees me?" † 14 That is why the well is called Beer-lahai-roi. † It is between Kadesh and Bered.
15 So Hagar gave birth to Abram's son, and Abram named his son (whom Hagar bore) Ishmael. 16 Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore Ishmael to him.

16:1-16 Sarai's decision to give her slave Hagar to Abram as a wife took place about ten years after God's initial promise of offspring (cp. 12:4 and 16:16). The practice of a barren wife giving a maidservant to her husband is also found in 30:1-5 and is attested in marriage contracts of neighboring cultures of the same general period. Nevertheless, the subsequent narrative indicates that Sarai and Abraham should have continued waiting on God. Contrary to what Sarai thought, her age and barrenness were not insurmountable (17:15-22). In time she would bear a son, Isaac, who is the one through whom the promises would be fulfilled (21:1-13).

COVENANT CIRCUMCISION

17 When Abram was ninety-nine years old, the LORD appeared to him, saying, "I am God Almighty. † Live † in my presence and be blameless. † 2 I will set up my covenant between me and you, and I will multiply you greatly."
3 Then Abram fell facedown and God spoke with him: 4 "As for me, here is my covenant with you: You will become the father of many nations. 5 Your name will no longer be Abram; † your name will be Abraham, † for I will make you the father of many nations. † 6 I will make you extremely fruitful and will make nations and kings come from you. 7 I will confirm my covenant that is between me and you and your future offspring throughout their generations. It is a permanent covenant † to be your God and the God of your offspring after you. † 8 And to you and your future offspring † I will give the land where you are residing — all the land of Canaan — as a permanent possession, † and I will be their God."

9 God also said to Abraham, "As for you, you and your offspring after you throughout their generations are to keep my covenant. 10 This is my covenant between me and you and your offspring after you, which you are to keep: Every one of your males must be circumcised. 11 You must circumcise the flesh of your foreskin to serve as a sign of the covenant between me and you. † † 12 Throughout your generations, every male among you is to be circumcised † at eight days old — every male born in your household or purchased from any foreigner and not your offspring. 13 Whether born in your household or purchased, he must be circumcised. My covenant will be marked in your flesh as a permanent covenant. 14 If any male is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin, that man will be cut off from his people; he has broken my covenant."
15 God said to Abraham, "As for your wife Sarai, do not call her Sarai, for Sarah † will be her name. 16 I will bless her; indeed, I will give you a son by her. † I will bless her, and she will produce nations; kings of peoples will come from her."
17 Abraham fell facedown. Then he laughed † and said to himself, "Can a child be born to a hundred-year-old man? Can Sarah, a ninety-year-old woman, give birth?" 18 So Abraham said to God, "If only Ishmael were acceptable † to you!"
19 But God said, "No. Your wife Sarah will bear you a son, and you will name him Isaac. † I will confirm my covenant with him as a permanent covenant for his future offspring. 20 As for Ishmael, I have heard you. I will certainly bless him; I will make him fruitful and will multiply him greatly. He will father twelve tribal leaders, † and I will make him into a great nation. 21 But I will confirm my covenant with Isaac, whom Sarah will bear to you at this time next year." †
22 When he finished talking with him, God withdrew † from Abraham. † 23 So Abraham took his son Ishmael and those born in his household or purchased — every male among the members of Abraham's household — and he circumcised the flesh of their foreskin on that very day, just as God had said to him. 24 Abraham was ninety-nine years old when the flesh of his foreskin was circumcised, 25 and his son Ishmael was thirteen years old when the flesh of his foreskin was circumcised. 26 On that same day Abraham and his son Ishmael were circumcised. 27 And all the men of his household — whether born in his household or purchased from a foreigner — were circumcised with him.

17:11 Just as the rainbow was the sign of the covenant God made with Noah (9:12), circumcision was a sign of the covenant God made with Abraham in 15:7-21. Circumcision also generally distinguished Israelites from their neighbors (Gn 34:14-15; Ex 12:48; 1Sm 17:26; Ezk 44:9; though see Jr 9:25-26).

ABRAHAM'S THREE VISITORS

18 The LORD appeared to Abraham at the oaks of Mamre † while he was sitting at the entrance of his tent during the heat of the day. 2 He looked up, and he saw three men standing near him. † When he saw them, he ran from the entrance of the tent to meet them, bowed to the ground, 3 and said, "My lord, if I have found favor with you, please do not go on past your servant. 4 Let a little water be brought, that you may wash your feet and rest yourselves under the tree. 5 I will bring a bit of bread so that you may strengthen yourselves. †
This is why you have passed your servant's way. Later, you can continue on."
"Yes," they replied, "do as you have said."
6 So Abraham hurried into the tent and said to Sarah, "Quick! Knead three measures † of fine flour and make bread." † 7 Abraham ran to the herd and got a tender, choice calf. He gave it to a young man, who hurried to prepare it. 8 Then Abraham took curds † and milk, as well as the calf that he had prepared, and set them before the men. He served † them as they ate under the tree.

SARAH LAUGHS

9 "Where is your wife Sarah? " they asked him.
"There, in the tent," he answered.

10 The LORD said, “I will certainly come back to you in about a year’s time, and your wife Sarah will have a son!” † Now Sarah was listening at the entrance of the tent behind him.

11 Abraham and Sarah were old and getting on in years. † Sarah had passed the age of childbearing. † † 12 So she laughed to herself: “After I am worn out and my lord is old, will I have delight?” †

13 But the LORD asked Abraham, “Why did Sarah laugh, saying, ‘Can I really have a baby when I’m old?’ 14 Is anything impossible for the LORD? † At the appointed time I will come back to you, and in about a year she will have a son.”

15 Sarah denied it. “I did not laugh,” she said, because she was afraid.
But he replied, “No, you did laugh.”

ABRAHAM’S PLEA FOR SODOM

16 The men got up from there and looked out over Sodom, and Abraham was walking with them to see them off. 17 Then the LORD said, “Should I hide what I am about to do from Abraham? † 18 Abraham is to become a great and powerful nation, and all the nations of the earth will be blessed through him. †

19 For I have chosen † him so that he will command his children and his house after him to keep the way of the LORD by doing what is right and just. This is how the LORD will fulfill to Abraham what he promised him.” 20 Then the LORD said, “The outcry against Sodom and Gomorrah is immense, and their sin is extremely serious. 21 I will go down † to see if what they have done justifies the cry that has come up to me. If not, I will find out.”

22 The men turned from there and went toward Sodom † while Abraham remained standing before the LORD. † 23 Abraham stepped forward and said, “Will you really sweep away the righteous with the wicked? † 24 What if there are fifty righteous people in the city? Will you really sweep it away instead of sparing the place for the sake of the fifty righteous people who are in it? 25 You could not possibly do such a thing: to kill the righteous with the wicked, treating the righteous and the wicked alike. You could not possibly do that! Won’t the Judge of the whole earth do what is just?” †

26 The LORD said, “If I find fifty righteous people in the city of Sodom, I will spare the whole place for their sake.” †
27 Then Abraham answered, “Since I have ventured to speak to my lord — even though I am dust and ashes — 28 suppose the fifty righteous lack five. Will you destroy the whole city for lack of five? ”
He replied, “I will not destroy it if I find forty-five there.”
29 Then he spoke to him again, “Suppose forty are found there? ”
He answered, “I will not do it on account of forty.”
30 Then he said, “Let my lord not be angry, and I will speak further. Suppose thirty are found there? ”
He answered, “I will not do it if I find thirty there.”
31 Then he said, “Since I have ventured to speak to my lord, suppose twenty are found there? ”
He replied, “I will not destroy it on account of twenty.”
32 Then he said, “Let my lord not be angry, and I will speak one more time. † Suppose ten are found there? ”
He answered, “I will not destroy it on account of ten.” 33 When the LORD had finished speaking with Abraham, he departed, and Abraham returned to his place.

18:9-15 As he had done in 17:15-17, God promised that Abraham and Sarah would have a son, despite their old age. The idea was so preposterous to them that in both instances one of them laughed (17:17; 18:12-13). But nothing is impossible for the Lord.

18:17 This remarkable question implies that God felt compelled to reveal to Abraham what he was about to do to Sodom and Gomorrah. It shows their close relationship (see Am 3:7; Ps 25:14), which is confirmed by other passages that call Abraham a “friend of God” (2Ch 20:7; Is 41:8; Jms 2:23).

18:23-33 Abraham based his intercession on an appeal to God’s justice: Will you really sweep away the righteous with the wicked? (see Nm 16:22 for Moses’s similar appeal following Korah’s rebellion). What follows is an exchange in which Abraham first asks God to spare Sodom if fifty righteous people can be found in the city. As Abraham continues to decrease this already small number, God affirms that he will spare the city if these even smaller numbers of righteous people can be found there. In answer to Abraham’s original question, the clear implication is that God does not sweep away the righteous with the wicked and that he does not treat “the righteous and the wicked alike” (v. 25).

THE DESTRUCTION OF SODOM AND GOMORRAH

19 The two angels entered Sodom † in the evening as Lot was sitting in Sodom's gateway. When Lot saw them, he got up to meet them. He bowed with his face to the ground 2 and said, "My lords, turn aside to your servant's house, wash your feet, and spend the night. Then you can get up early and go on your way."
"No," they said. "We would rather spend the night in the square." 3 But he urged them so strongly that they followed him and went into his house. He prepared a feast and baked unleavened bread for them, and they ate.
4 Before they went to bed, the men of the city of Sodom, both young and old, the whole population, surrounded the house. 5 They called out to Lot and said,
"Where are the men who came to you tonight? Send them out to us so we can have sex with them! " † 6 Lot went out to them at the entrance and shut the door behind him. 7 He said,
"Don't do this evil, my brothers. 8 Look, I've got two daughters who haven't been intimate with a man. † I'll bring them out to you, and you can do whatever you want † to them. However, don't do anything to these men, because they have come under the protection of my roof." 9 "Get out of the way! " they said, adding, "This one came here as an alien, but he's acting like a judge! † Now we'll do more harm to you than to them." They put pressure on Lot and came up to break down the door. 10 But the angels † reached out, brought Lot into the house with them, and shut the door. 11 They struck the men who were at the entrance of the house, both young and old, with blindness † so that they were unable to find the entrance. † 12 Then the angels said to Lot, "Do you have anyone else here: a son-in-law, your sons and daughters, or anyone else in the city who belongs to you? Get them out of this place, 13 for we are about to destroy this place because the outcry against its people is so great before the LORD, that the LORD has sent us to destroy it." † 14 So Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law, who were going to marry † his daughters. "Get up," he said. "Get out of this place, for the LORD is about to destroy the city! " † But his sons-in-law thought he was joking.

15 At daybreak the angels urged Lot on: “Get up! Take your wife and your two daughters who are here, or you will be swept away in the punishment † of the city.” 16 But he hesitated. Because of the LORD’s compassion for him, the men grabbed his hand, his wife’s hand, and the hands of his two daughters. They brought him out and left him outside the city.
17 As soon as the angels got them outside, one of them † said, “Run for your lives! Don’t look back and don’t stop anywhere on the plain! Run to the mountains, or you will be swept away! ” 18 But Lot said to them, “No, my lords † — please. 19 Your servant has indeed found favor with you, and you have shown me great kindness by saving my life.
But I can’t run to the mountains; the disaster will overtake me, and I will die. 20 Look, this town is close enough for me to flee to. It is a small place. Please let me run to it — it’s only a small place, isn’t it? — so that I can survive.” 21 And he said to him, “All right, † I’ll grant your request † about this matter too and will not demolish the town you mentioned. 22 Hurry up! Run to it, for I cannot do anything until you get there.” Therefore the name of the city is Zoar. † †
23 The sun had risen over the land when Lot reached Zoar. 24 Then out of the sky the LORD rained on Sodom and Gomorrah burning sulfur from the LORD. † 25 He demolished these cities, the entire plain, all the inhabitants of the cities, and whatever grew on the ground. 26 But Lot’s wife looked back and became a pillar of salt. †
27 Early in the morning Abraham went to the place where he had stood before the LORD. † 28 He looked down toward Sodom and Gomorrah and all the land of the plain, and he saw that smoke was going up from the land like the smoke of a furnace. 29 So it was, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, he remembered Abraham and brought Lot out of the middle of the upheaval when he demolished the cities where Lot had lived.

THE ORIGIN OF MOAB AND AMMON

30 Lot departed from Zoar and lived in the mountains along with his two daughters, because he was afraid to live in Zoar. Instead, he and his two daughters lived in a cave. 31 Then the firstborn said to the younger, “Our father is old, and there is no man in the land to sleep with us as is the custom of all the land. 32 Come, let's get our father to drink wine so that we can sleep with him and preserve our father's line." 33 So they got their father to drink wine that night, and the firstborn came and slept with her father; he did not know when she lay down or when she got up.

34 The next day the firstborn said to the younger, "Look, I slept with my father last night. Let's get him to drink wine again tonight so you can go sleep with him and we can preserve our father's line." 35 That night they again got their father to drink wine, and the younger went and slept with him; he did not know when she lay down or when she got up.
36 So both of Lot's daughters became pregnant by their father. 37 The firstborn gave birth to a son and named him Moab. † He is the father of the Moabites of today. † 38 The younger also gave birth to a son, and she named him Benammi. † He is the father of the Ammonites of today. †

19:4-5 The sin of Sodom was characterized earlier as being "extremely serious" (18:20; see also 13:13). These verses suggest that Sodom's sin included homosexual relations (see also Jd 1:7), even brazenly so (see also Is 3:9). The pervasiveness of this sin in Sodom is indicated by the phrase both young and old, the whole population. Later, Ezekiel states that Sodom's sin also included pride and mistreatment of the poor and needy (Ezk 16:49-50). See "Engaging LGBT Advocates," p. 1392.

19:24-29 Though Abraham never said why he was trying to bargain down to ten righteous people (18:23-33), God knew he was concerned for his nephew Lot and his family. In an act of mercy, God brought Lot out of the middle of the upheaval even though the conditions for sparing the city had not been met. Thus, God destroyed the wicked, but saved Lot and his daughters for Abraham's sake. The utter destruction of Sodom is referred to repeatedly in Scripture as an example of the severity of God's judgment (e.g. Dt 29:23; Is 1:9; Jr 49:18; Mt 10:15; Lk 17:29; 2Pt 2:6). Sodom is also an example of extreme sinfulness (e.g., Dt 32:32; Is 1:10; Jr 23:14; Ezk 16:46-56; Rv 11:8).

19:36-38 The Moabites and Ammonites would become enemies of Israel, as many OT passages attest (e.g., Nm 24:17; Jdg 3:12-30; 2Ch 20; Ps 83:5-8; Jr 48:1–49:6).

SARAH RESCUED FROM ABIMELECH

20 From there Abraham traveled to the region of the Negev and settled between Kadesh and Shur. While he was staying in Gerar, † 2

Abraham said about his wife Sarah, “She is my sister.” † So King Abimelech of Gerar had Sarah brought to him.
3 But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night and said to him, “You are about to die because of the woman you have taken, for she is a married woman.” †
4 Now Abimelech had not approached her, so he said, “Lord, would you destroy a nation even though it is innocent? 5 Didn’t he himself say to me, ‘She is my sister’? And she herself said, ‘He is my brother.’ I did this with a clear conscience † and clean † hands.”
6 Then God said to him in the dream, “Yes, I know that you did this with a clear conscience. † I have also kept you from sinning against me. Therefore I have not let you touch her. 7 Now return the man’s wife, for he is a prophet, † and he will pray for you and you will live. But if you do not return her, know that you will certainly die, you and all who are yours.”
8 Early in the morning Abimelech got up, called all his servants together, and personally † told them all these things, and the men were terrified.
9 Then Abimelech called Abraham in and said to him, “What have you done to us? How did I sin against you that you have brought such enormous guilt on me and on my kingdom? You have done things to me that should never be done.” †
10 Abimelech also asked Abraham, “What made you do this? ”
11 Abraham replied, “I thought, ‘There is absolutely no fear of God in this place. † They will kill me because of my wife.’ 12 Besides, she really is my sister, the daughter of my father though not the daughter of my mother, and she became my wife. 13 So when God had me wander from my father’s house, † I said to her: Show your loyalty to me wherever we go and say about me: ‘He’s my brother.’ ” †
14 Then Abimelech took flocks and herds and male and female slaves, gave them to Abraham, and returned his wife Sarah to him. 15 Abimelech said, “Look, my land is before you. † Settle wherever you want.” † 16 And he said to Sarah, “Look, I am giving your brother one thousand pieces of silver. It is a verification of your honor † to all who are with you. You are fully vindicated.”

17 Then Abraham prayed to God, † and God healed Abimelech, his wife, and his female slaves so that they could bear children, 18 for the LORD had completely closed all the wombs in Abimelech's household on account of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

20:1-3 Similar to what had happened in Egypt in 12:10-20, Abraham lied about his wife Sarah while in Gerar. In both instances, Abraham's deception is motivated by fear for his life (12:12; 20:11), and the truth comes out when God intervenes to protect Sarah (12:17; 20:3). As was the case previously, Abraham's faith faltered on this issue, despite God's promises (12:2-3; 15:1; 17:15-16).

20:11 Abraham underestimated the character of the people of Gerar. He had thought that There is absolutely no fear of God in this place. On the contrary, Abimelech had acted with a clear conscience and clean hands, as God himself had confirmed. Furthermore, Abimelech's servants were terrified when they heard about the dream, and Abimelech himself was indignant at Abraham because of his lie.

THE BIRTH OF ISAAC

21 The LORD came to Sarah as he had said, and the LORD did for Sarah what he had promised. † 2 Sarah became pregnant and bore a son to Abraham in his old age, at the appointed time God had told him. † 3 Abraham named his son who was born to him — the one Sarah bore to him — Isaac. † 4
When his son Isaac was eight days old, Abraham circumcised him, as God had commanded him. † 5 Abraham was a hundred years old when his son Isaac was born to him. †

6 Sarah said, "God has made me laugh, and everyone who hears will laugh with me." † † 7 She also said, "Who would have told Abraham that Sarah would nurse children? Yet I have borne a son for him † in his old age."

HAGAR AND ISHMAEL SENT AWAY

8 The child grew and was weaned, and Abraham held a great feast on the day Isaac was weaned. 9 But Sarah saw the son mocking — the one Hagar the Egyptian had borne to Abraham. † 10 So she said to Abraham, "Drive out this slave with her son, for the son of this slave will not be a coheir with my son Isaac! " †

11 This was very distressing to † Abraham because of his son. 12 But God said to Abraham, “Do not be distressed † about the boy and about your slave.
Whatever Sarah says to you, listen to her, because your offspring will be traced through Isaac, † 13 and I will also make a nation of the slave’s son † because he is your offspring.”
14 Early in the morning Abraham got up, took bread and a waterskin, put them on Hagar’s shoulders, and sent her and the boy away. She left and wandered in the Wilderness of Beer-sheba. 15 When the water in the skin was gone, she left the boy under one of the bushes 16 and went and sat at a distance, about a bowshot away, for she said, “I can’t bear to watch the boy die! ” While she sat at a distance, she † wept loudly. † 17 God heard the boy crying, and the † angel of God called to Hagar from heaven and said to her, “What’s wrong, Hagar? Don’t be afraid, for God has heard the boy crying from the place where he is. 18 Get up, help the boy up, and grasp his hand, for I will make him a great nation.” 19 Then God opened her eyes, † and she saw a well. So she went and filled the waterskin and gave the boy a drink. 20 God was with the boy, and he grew; he settled in the wilderness and became an archer. 21 He settled in the Wilderness of Paran, and his mother got a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

ABRAHAM’S COVENANT WITH ABIMELECH

22 At that time Abimelech, accompanied by Phicol the commander of his army, † said to Abraham, “God is with you in everything you do. † 23 Swear to me by God here and now, that you will not break an agreement with me or with my children and descendants. As I have been loyal to you, so you will be loyal to me and to the country where you are a resident alien.”
24 And Abraham said, “I swear it.” 25 But Abraham complained to Abimelech because of the well that Abimelech’s servants had seized. † 26 Abimelech replied, “I don’t know who did this thing. You didn’t report anything to me, so I hadn’t heard about it until today.” 27 Abraham took flocks and herds and gave them to Abimelech, and the two of them made a covenant. † 28 Abraham separated seven ewe lambs from the flock. 29 And Abimelech said to Abraham, “Why have you separated these seven ewe lambs? ”

30 He replied, “You are to accept the seven ewe lambs from me so that this act † will serve as my witness that I dug this well.” 31 Therefore that place was called Beer-sheba † † because it was there that the two of them swore an oath. 32 After they had made a covenant at Beer-sheba, Abimelech and Phicol, the commander of his army, left and returned to the land of the Philistines.

33 Abraham planted a tamarisk tree in Beer-sheba, and there he called on the name of the LORD, the Everlasting God. † 34 And Abraham lived as an alien in the land of the Philistines for many days.

21:1-7 Twenty-five years after the initial calling and promises (12:1-4), God fulfilled his word to Abraham and Sarah. There was a lengthy period of waiting, but he had done as he had said, as he had promised. Sarah was barren (11:30) and past the age of childbearing at ninety years old (17:17; 18:11), but God was true to his word. What is impossible to the human mind, even to the point of being laughable (17:17; 18:12; 21:6), is not impossible for the Lord (18:14).

21:12 God’s covenant promises to Abraham would be fulfilled through Isaac, not Ishmael (see also 17:19,21; Rm 9:7; Heb 11:18). Ishmael’s mocking of his half brother (v. 9) seems to match his mother Hagar’s contempt for Sarah previously (16:4; see also Gl 4:29). As was the case before (16:5-6), Sarah was provoked, and her desire to expel Hagar and Ishmael was confirmed by God (21:10-12). Sarah’s conflicts with her Egyptian slave, along with Abraham and Sarah’s troublesome stay in Egypt earlier (12:10-20), foreshadow Israel’s conflicts and troubles as slaves to the Egyptians as recorded in the book of Exodus.

THE SACRIFICE OF ISAAC

22 After these things God tested Abraham † and said to him, “Abraham! ”
“Here I am,” he answered.

2 “Take your son,” he said, “your only son Isaac, whom you love, † go to the land of Moriah, † and offer him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains I will tell you about.”

3 So Abraham got up early in the morning, † saddled his donkey, and took with him two of his young men and his son Isaac. He split wood for a burnt offering and set out to go to the place God had told him about. 4 On the third day † Abraham looked up and saw the place in the distance. 5 Then Abraham said to his young men, “Stay here with the donkey. The boy and I will go over there to worship; then we’ll come back to you.” 6 Abraham took the wood for the burnt offering and laid it on his son Isaac. † In his hand he took the fire and the knife, † and the two of them walked on together.

7 Then Isaac spoke to his father Abraham and said, “My father.”

And he replied, “Here I am, my son.”

Isaac said, “The fire and the wood are here, but where is the lamb for the burnt offering? ”

8 Abraham answered, “God himself will provide † † the lamb for the burnt offering, my son.” Then the two of them walked on together.

9 When they arrived at the place that God had told him about, Abraham built the altar there and arranged the wood. He bound his son Isaac † and placed him on the altar † on top of the wood. 10 Then Abraham reached out and took the knife to slaughter his son.

11 But the angel of the LORD called to him from heaven and said, “Abraham, Abraham! ”

He replied, “Here I am.”

12 Then he said, “Do not lay a hand on the boy or do anything to him. For now I know that you fear God, since you have not withheld your only son from me.” †

13 Abraham looked up and saw a ram † caught in the thicket by its horns. So Abraham went and took the ram and offered it as a burnt offering in place of his son. 14 And Abraham named that place The LORD Will Provide, † so today it is said: “It will be provided † on the LORD’s mountain.”

15 Then the angel of the LORD called to Abraham a second time from heaven 16 and said, “By myself I have sworn,” † this is the LORD’s declaration: “Because you have done this thing and have not withheld your only son, 17 I will indeed bless you † and make your offspring as numerous as the stars of the sky † and the sand on the seashore. † Your offspring will possess the city gates of their enemies. † 18 And all the nations of the earth will be blessed † by your offspring † because you have obeyed my command.”

19 Abraham went back to his young men, and they got up and went together to Beer-sheba. And Abraham settled in Beer-sheba.

REBEKAH'S FAMILY

20 Now after these things Abraham was told, "Milcah also has borne sons to your brother Nahor: † 21 Uz his firstborn, his brother Buz, Kemuel the father of Aram, 22 Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph, and Bethuel." 23 And Bethuel fathered Rebekah. † Milcah bore these eight to Nahor, Abraham's brother. 24 His concubine, whose name was Reumah, also bore Tebah, Gaham, Tahash, and Maacah.

22:1-5 The biblical author, Moses, reveals to his readers that what is about to happen is a test. Abraham did not know this and was faced with the command to sacrifice Isaac as a burnt offering. Isaac's dearness to Abraham is emphasized through the descriptors your son, your only son, whom you love. Moreover, Isaac was the son promised by God, the one through whom the covenant promises would be fulfilled (17:19,21; 21:12). Despite the heartbreaking and mind-boggling nature of the command, Abraham got up early in the morning to carry it out. His words to the young men that he and Isaac would go worship, and then we'll come back to you suggest that he still believed God's covenant promises and that Isaac would somehow return (see Heb 11:19). In any case, God's instructions were to be obeyed, and the resolution of the apparent contradiction was left to God. Sure enough, Abraham was stopped from slaying Isaac at the last moment, and God provided a ram as a burnt offering in place of his son (vv. 12-14)—just as Abraham had believed (v. 8).

22:15-18 Abraham's obedience to the point of being willing to sacrifice his beloved son resulted in God strongly reaffirming the earlier promises (12:2-3; 13:14-17; 15:5; 17:2-8,16; 18:18). The fact that God here swore to fulfill them is cited elsewhere in Scripture (e.g., 26:3; Ex 32:13; Dt 4:31; Mc 7:20; Heb 6:13-18).

SARAH'S BURIAL

23 Now Sarah lived 127 years; these were all the years of her life. 2 Sarah died in Kiriath-arba (that is, Hebron †) in the land of Canaan, and Abraham went to mourn for Sarah and to weep for her.

3 Then Abraham got up from beside his dead wife and spoke to the Hethites: 4 "I am an alien residing among you. † Give me burial property among you so that I can bury my dead.” † †

5 The Hethites replied to Abraham, † 6 “Listen to us, my lord. You are a prince of God † among us. Bury your dead in our finest burial place. † None of us will withhold from you his burial place for burying your dead.”

7 Then Abraham rose and bowed down to the Hethites, the people of the land. 8 He said to them, “If you are willing for me to bury my dead, listen to me and ask Ephron son of Zohar on my behalf 9 to give me the cave of Machpelah that belongs to him; it is at the end of his field. Let him give it to me in your presence, for the full price, as burial property.”

10 Ephron was sitting among the Hethites. So in the hearing † of all the Hethites who came to the gate of his city, † Ephron the Hethite answered Abraham: 11 “No, my lord. Listen to me. I give you the field, and I give you the cave that is in it. I give it to you in the sight † of my people. Bury your dead.”

12 Abraham bowed down to the people of the land 13 and said to Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land, “Listen to me, if you please. Let me pay the price of the field. Accept it from me, and let me bury my dead there.”

14 Ephron answered Abraham and said to him, 15 “My lord, listen to me. Land worth four hundred shekels of silver † — what is that between you and me? Bury your dead.” 16 Abraham agreed with Ephron, and Abraham weighed out to Ephron the silver that he had agreed to in the hearing of the Hethites: four hundred standard shekels † of silver. † 17 So Ephron’s field † at Machpelah near Mamre — the field with its cave and all the trees anywhere within the boundaries of the field — became 18 Abraham’s possession in the sight of all the Hethites who came to the gate of his city. 19 After this, Abraham buried his wife Sarah in the cave of the field at Machpelah near Mamre (that is, Hebron) in the land of Canaan. 20 The field with its cave passed from the Hethites to Abraham † as burial property.

23:1-20 God’s promise to give Abraham this land was not yet fulfilled, and he was still an alien (a foreign resident) in it (see also 28:4; Heb 11:9). Following Sarah’s death, Abraham was allowed to purchase a small portion of the land from Ephron the Hethite. His insistence on paying the full price for Ephron's field at Machphelah near Mamre is reminiscent of his unwillingness to receive a gift from the king of Sodom (14:21-24; see also David's insistence to pay such a price for the threshing floor of Ornan in 1Ch 21:22-24). If Abraham had accepted the land as a gift, later generations may have had a claim to take it back. Abraham wants to have the land as a permanent possession that can be passed down to his descendants. The cave in this field would be used as a burial plot for Abraham, Isaac, Rebekah, Jacob, and Leah too (25:9; 49:29-32).

A WIFE FOR ISAAC

24 Abraham was now old, getting on in years, † † and the LORD had blessed him in everything. 2 Abraham said to his servant, the elder of his household who managed all he owned, "Place your hand under my thigh, †
3 and I will have you swear by the LORD, God of heaven and God of earth, that you will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites among whom I live, † 4 but will go to my land and my family to take a wife for my son Isaac."
5 The servant said to him, "Suppose the woman is unwilling to follow me to this land? Should I have your son go back to the land you came from? "
6 Abraham answered him, "Make sure that you don't take my son back there. 7 The LORD, the God of heaven, † who took me from my father's house and from my native land, † who spoke to me and swore to me, 'I will give this land to your offspring' † — he will send his angel before you, † and you can take a wife for my son from there. 8 If the woman is unwilling to follow you, then you are free from this oath to me, † but don't let my son go back there." 9 So the servant placed his hand under his master Abraham's thigh and swore an oath to him concerning this matter.
10 The servant took ten of his master's camels, and with all kinds of his master's goods in hand, he went to Aram-naharaim, to Nahor's town. 11 At evening, the time when women went out to draw water, he made the camels kneel beside a well outside the town.
12 "LORD, God of my master Abraham," he prayed, "make this happen for me today, † and show kindness to my master Abraham. 13 I am standing here † at the spring where the daughters of the men of the town are coming out to draw water. 14 Let the girl to whom I say, 'Please lower your water jug so that I may drink,' and who responds, 'Drink, and I'll water your camels also' — let her be the one you have appointed for your servant Isaac. By this I will know that you have shown kindness to my master."

15 Before he had finished speaking, there was Rebekah — daughter of Bethuel son of Milcah, † the wife of Abraham's brother Nahor — coming with a jug on her shoulder. 16 Now the girl was very beautiful, † a virgin — no man had been intimate with her. She went down to the spring, filled her jug, and came up. 17 Then the servant ran to meet her and said, "Please let me have a little water from your jug."
18 She replied, "Drink, my lord." She quickly lowered her jug to her hand and gave him a drink. 19 When she had finished giving him a drink, she said, "I'll also draw water for your camels until they have had enough to drink." † 20 She quickly emptied her jug into the trough and hurried to the well again to draw water. She drew water for all his camels 21 while the man silently watched her to see whether or not the LORD had made his journey a success.
22 As the camels finished drinking, the man took a gold ring weighing half a shekel, and for her wrists two bracelets weighing ten shekels of gold. 23 "Whose daughter are you?" he asked. "Please tell me, is there room in your father's house for us to spend the night?"
24 She answered him, "I am the daughter of Bethuel son of Milcah, whom she bore to Nahor." 25 She also said to him, "We have plenty of straw and feed and a place to spend the night."
26 Then the man knelt low, worshiped the LORD, † 27 and said, "Blessed be the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who has not withheld his kindness and faithfulness from my master. † As for me, the LORD has led me on the journey to the house of my master's relatives."
28 The girl ran and told her mother's household about these things. 29 Now Rebekah had a brother named Laban, † and Laban ran out to the man at the spring. 30 As soon as he had seen the ring and the bracelets on his sister's wrists, and when he had heard his sister Rebekah's words — "The man said this to me!" — he went to the man. He was standing there by the camels at the spring.
31 Laban said, "Come, you who are blessed by the LORD. † Why are you standing out here? I have prepared the house and a place for the camels." 32 So the man came to the house, and the camels were unloaded. † Straw and feed were given to the camels, and water was brought to wash his feet and the feet of the men with him.

33 A meal was set before him, but he said, “I will not eat until I have said what I have to say.”
So Laban said, “Please speak.”
34 “I am Abraham’s servant,” he said. 35 “The LORD has greatly blessed my master, and he has become rich. He has given him flocks and herds, silver and gold, male and female slaves, and camels and donkeys. 36 Sarah, my master’s wife, bore a son to my master in her † old age, † and he has given him everything he owns. † 37 My master put me under this oath: ‘You will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites in whose land I live 38 but will go to my father’s family and to my clan to take a wife for my son.’ 39 But I said to my master, ‘Suppose the woman will not come back with me?’ 40 He said to me, ‘The LORD before whom I have walked † will send his angel with you and make your journey a success, and you will take a wife for my son from my clan and from my father’s family. 41 Then you will be free from my oath if you go to my family and they do not give her to you — you will be free from my oath.’
42 “Today when I came to the spring, I prayed: LORD, God of my master Abraham, if only you will make my journey successful! 43 I am standing here at a spring. Let the young woman † who comes out to draw water, and I say to her, ‘Please let me drink a little water from your jug,’ 44 and who responds to me, ‘Drink, and I’ll draw water for your camels also’ — let her be the woman the LORD has appointed for my master’s son.
45 “Before I had finished praying silently, † there was Rebekah coming with her jug on her shoulder, and she went down to the spring and drew water. So I said to her, ‘Please let me have a drink.’ 46 She quickly lowered her jug from her shoulder and said, ‘Drink, and I’ll water your camels also.’ So I drank, and she also watered the camels. 47 Then I asked her, ‘Whose daughter are you?’ She responded, ‘The daughter of Bethuel son of Nahor, whom Milcah bore to him.’ So I put the ring on her nose † and the bracelets on her wrists. 48 Then I knelt low, worshiped the LORD, and blessed the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who guided me on the right way to take the granddaughter of my master’s brother for his son. 49 Now, if you are going to show kindness and faithfulness to my master, † tell me; if not, tell me, and I will go elsewhere." † 50 Laban and Bethuel answered, "This is from the LORD; we have no choice in the matter. † † 51 Rebekah is here in front of you. Take her and go, and let her be a wife for your master's son, just as the LORD has spoken." 52 When Abraham's servant heard their words, he bowed to the ground before the LORD. 53 Then he brought out objects of silver and gold, and garments, and gave them to Rebekah. He also gave precious gifts to her brother and her mother.

54 Then he and the men with him ate and drank and spent the night.
When they got up in the morning, he said, "Send me to my master."
55 But her brother and mother said, "Let the girl stay with us for about ten days. † Then she † can go." 56 But he responded to them, "Do not delay me, since the LORD has made my journey a success. Send me away so that I may go to my master."
57 So they said, "Let's call the girl and ask her opinion." †
58 They called Rebekah and said to her, "Will you go with this man? "
She replied, "I will go." 59 So they sent away their sister Rebekah with the one who had nursed and raised her, † † and Abraham's servant and his men.
60 They blessed Rebekah, saying to her:

Our sister, may you become thousands upon ten thousands. † May your offspring possess the city gates of their † enemies. †

61 Then Rebekah and her female servants got up, mounted the camels, and followed the man. So the servant took Rebekah and left.
62 Now Isaac was returning from Beer-lahai-roi, † † for he was living in the Negev region. 63 In the early evening Isaac went out to walk † in the field, and looking up he saw camels coming. 64 Rebekah looked up, and when she saw Isaac, she got down from her camel 65 and asked the servant, "Who is that man in the field coming to meet us? "

The servant answered, “It is my master.” So she took her veil and covered herself. 66 Then the servant told Isaac everything he had done.
67 And Isaac brought her into the tent of his mother Sarah and took Rebekah to be his wife. Isaac loved her, and he was comforted after his mother’s death. †

24:1 Just as God had promised Abraham years ago that he would bless him (12:2), so he had blessed him in everything.

24:2-9 Isaac’s need for a wife is not merely a family matter but is linked to the fulfillment of the covenant established with Abraham, which included having many descendants and becoming a great nation (12:2; 13:16). Abraham himself seemed aware of this when he expressed his confidence that God would send his angel before the servant and provide a wife for Isaac from their relatives. The full significance of the servant’s placing his hand under Abraham’s thigh is unclear, though the context indicates that it related to the taking of the oath. Abraham’s command that you will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites parallels the command given later to the Israelites in Deuteronomy 7:1-4, which explains such marriages were prohibited because the Canaanites were idolaters and would influence Israel toward idolatry. Abraham also indicated that Isaac was not to be taken back to Abraham’s homeland because God had called Abraham away from that land so that he and his descendants might possess another land (24:5-7; see also 12:1,7).

24:12-61 Upon arriving, Abraham’s servant prayed that God would give him success and that the woman he had chosen for Isaac would respond generously to his request in a particular way. While he was still praying, Rebekah came to the well and responded to his request just as he specified moments ago (vv. 15-21,45-46). After learning that Rebekah was one of Abraham’s relatives, he praised God for guiding him on the right way. The servant gave Rebekah a gold ring as well as other gifts as a bride price. This exchange of goods was intended to help provide for a woman in her marriage, especially in the event that she was abandoned or widowed (see also 34:12; 1Sm 18:25). The family agreed to the marriage arrangement, and Rebekah returned with Abraham’s servant. In accordance with his master’s faith and in answer to his prayer, God had given him success.

ABRAHAM’S OTHER WIFE AND SONS

25 Abraham had taken † another wife, whose name was Keturah, † 2 and she bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. 3 Jokshan fathered Sheba and Dedan. Dedan’s sons were the Asshurim, Letushim, and Leummim. [4] And Midian's sons were Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abida, and Eldaah. All these were sons of Keturah. [5] Abraham gave everything he owned to Isaac. † [6] But Abraham gave gifts to the sons of his concubines, and while he was still alive he sent them eastward, away from his son Isaac, to the land of the East. †

ABRAHAM'S DEATH

[7] This is the length of Abraham's life: † 175 years. [8] He took his last breath and died at a good old age, † old and contented, † and he was gathered to his people. † [9] His sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah † near Mamre, in the field of Ephron son of Zohar the Hethite. [10] This was the field that Abraham bought from the Hethites. † Abraham was buried there with his wife Sarah. [11] After Abraham's death, God blessed his son Isaac, who lived near Beer-lahai-roi. †

ISHMAEL'S FAMILY RECORDS

[12] These are the family records † of Abraham's son Ishmael, † whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's slave, bore to Abraham. [13] These are the names of Ishmael's sons; their names according to the family records are Nebaioth, Ishmael's firstborn, then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, [14] Mishma, Dumah, Massa, [15] Hadad, Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. [16] These are Ishmael's sons, and these are their names by their settlements and encampments: twelve leaders † † of their clans. † [17] This is the length † of Ishmael's life: 137 years. He took his last breath and died, and was gathered to his people. [18] And they † settled from Havilah to Shur, which is opposite Egypt as you go toward Asshur. † He † stayed near † all his relatives. †

THE BIRTH OF JACOB AND ESAU

[19] These are the family records of Isaac son of Abraham. Abraham fathered Isaac. † [20] Isaac was forty years old when he took as his wife Rebekah † daughter of Bethuel the Aramean from Paddan-aram † and sister of Laban the Aramean. † [21] Isaac prayed to the LORD on behalf of his wife because she was childless. † The LORD was receptive to his prayer, and his wife Rebekah conceived. † 22 But the children inside her struggled with each other, and she said, “Why is this happening to me? ” † So she went to inquire of the LORD. † 23 And the LORD said to her:

Two nations are in your womb;
two peoples will come from you and be separated.
One people will be stronger than the other, † and the older will serve the younger. †

24 When her time came to give birth, there were indeed twins in her womb. 25 The first one came out red-looking, † covered with hair † like a fur coat, and they named him Esau. † 26 After this, his brother came out grasping Esau’s heel with his hand. † So he was named Jacob. † † Isaac was sixty years old when they were born.

ESAU SELLS HIS BIRTHRIGHT

27 When the boys grew up, Esau became an expert hunter, an outdoorsman, † but Jacob was a quiet man who stayed at home. † 28 Isaac loved Esau because he had a taste for wild game, but Rebekah loved Jacob. † 29 Once when Jacob was cooking a stew, Esau came in from the field exhausted.
30 He said to Jacob, “Let me eat some of that red stuff, because I’m exhausted.” That is why he was also named Edom. †
31 Jacob replied, “First sell me your birthright.”
32 “Look,” said Esau, “I’m about to die, so what good is a birthright to me? ”
33 Jacob said, “Swear to me first.” So he swore to Jacob and sold his birthright to him. 34 Then Jacob gave bread and lentil stew to Esau; he ate, drank, got up, and went away. So Esau despised his birthright. †

25:5,11 As God had said in 21:12, Abraham's "offspring will be traced through Isaac," and the covenant would be confirmed with him (17:19,21). In line with these things, Abraham gave his inheritance to Isaac, and God blessed . . . Isaac (26:3,12,24; see also 12:2; 22:17).

25:21 Isaac's response to the barrenness of Rebekah stands out in that Isaac prayed to the LORD on behalf of his wife. Sarai and Rachel dealt with their barrenness by resorting to their own ideas of building a family through their maidservants (16:2; 30:1-3). Isaac's response was rewarded through God's answer to his prayer.

25:22-26 The struggling of Jacob and Esau while still in the womb foreshadows their sibling rivalry to come. Incidentally, the reference to them here as the children (lit "the sons") affirms the personhood of these unborn children. Like her husband did in another situation (v. 21), Rebekah went to God about the concern. He revealed that her twins would be fathers of two nations, and the older son would serve the younger. This parallels God's blessing of Isaac, who himself was younger than Ishmael (see also Rm 9:6-13). Jacob's birth and name, which means "he grasps the heel" or "he supplants," foreshadow his character in the subsequent narrative (see 27:36).

25:29-34 Jacob's acquisition of Esau's birthright revealed the character of each man. Esau was driven by physical desires; he was impulsive and short sighted (see also Heb 12:16). Jacob was crafty, self-centered, and manipulative. The birthright was a special privilege generally given to the firstborn son, though there are a number of examples showing that other customs also existed (cp. 1Ch 5:1-2). Because the firstborn had additional responsibilities—such as caring for extended family—he was usually given a double share of the material inheritance in order to have the necessary resources (cp. Dt 21:17).

THE PROMISE REAFFIRMED TO ISAAC

26 There was another famine in the land in addition to the one that had occurred in Abraham's time. † And Isaac went to Abimelech, king of the Philistines, at Gerar. † 2 The LORD appeared to him and said, "Do not go down to Egypt. Live in the land that I tell you about; 3 stay in this land as an alien, and I will be with you and bless you. † For I will give all these lands to you and your offspring, † and I will confirm the oath that I swore to your father Abraham. † 4 I will make your offspring as numerous as the stars of the sky, I will give your offspring all these lands, and all the nations of the earth will be blessed † by your offspring, † 5 because Abraham listened to me and kept my mandate, my commands, my statutes, and my instructions." † 6 So Isaac settled in Gerar.

ISAAC'S DECEPTION

7 When the men of the place asked about his wife, he said, “She is my sister,” † for he was afraid to say “my wife,” thinking, † “The men of the place will kill me on account of Rebekah, for she is a beautiful woman.” † 8 When Isaac had been there for some time, Abimelech king of the Philistines looked down from the window and was surprised to see † Isaac caressing his wife Rebekah.
9 Abimelech sent for Isaac and said, “So she is really your wife! How could you say, ‘She is my sister’? ”
Isaac answered him, “Because I thought I might die on account of her.”
10 Then Abimelech said, “What is this you’ve done to us? One of the people could easily have slept with your wife, and you would have brought guilt on us.” † 11 So Abimelech warned all the people, “Whoever harms this man or his wife will certainly be put to death.”

CONFLICTS OVER WELLS

12 Isaac sowed seed in that land, and in that year he reaped † a hundred times what was sown. The LORD blessed him, † 13 and the man became rich and kept getting richer until he was very wealthy. 14 He had flocks of sheep, herds of cattle, and many slaves, and the Philistines were envious of him. 15 Philistines stopped up all the wells that his father’s servants had dug in the days of his father Abraham, † filling them with dirt. 16 And Abimelech said to Isaac, “Leave us, for you are much too powerful for us.” †
17 So Isaac left there, camped in the Gerar Valley, and lived there. 18 Isaac reopened the wells that had been dug in the days of his father Abraham and that the Philistines had stopped up after Abraham died. He gave them the same names his father had given them. 19 Then Isaac’s servants dug in the valley and found a well of spring † water there. 20 But the herdsmen of Gerar quarreled with Isaac’s herdsmen and said, “The water is ours! ” So he named the well Esek † because they argued with him. † 21 Then they dug another well and quarreled over that one also, so he named it Sitnah. † 22 He moved from there and dug another, and they did not quarrel over it. He named it Rehoboth † and said, “For now the LORD has made space for us, and we will be fruitful in the land.”

THE LORD APPEARS TO ISAAC

23 From there he went up to Beer-sheba, 24 and the LORD appeared to him that night and said, “I am the God of your father Abraham. † Do not be afraid, for I am with you. † I will bless you and multiply your offspring because of my servant Abraham.”
25 So he built an altar there, † called on the name of the LORD, and pitched his tent there. Isaac’s servants also dug a well there. †

COVENANT WITH ABIMELECH

26 Now Abimelech came to him from Gerar with Ahuzzath his adviser and Phicol the commander of his army. † 27 Isaac said to them, “Why have you come to me? You hated me and sent me away from you.” 28 They replied, “We have clearly seen how the LORD has been with you. We think there should be an oath between two parties — between us and you. Let us make a covenant with you: 29 You will not harm us, just as we have not harmed you but have done only what was good to you, sending you away in peace. You are now blessed by the LORD.” † 30 So he prepared a banquet for them, and they ate and drank. 31 They got up early in the morning and swore an oath to each other. † † Isaac sent them on their way, and they left him in peace. 32 On that same day Isaac’s servants came to tell him about the well they had dug, saying to him, “We have found water! ” † 33 He called it Sheba. † Therefore the name of the city is still Beersheba † † today.

ESAU’S WIVES

26:2-5 As promised (see 17:19,21), God's covenant with Abraham was continued with Isaac. The reaffirmation here includes many of the same elements as before, such as blessing, land, and numerous offspring (see also v. 24).

26:7-11 As his father Abraham had done (12:10-20; 20:1-18), Isaac lied about his relationship to his wife because he feared for his life. He too underestimated the character of the people of Gerar (20:4-6,9-11). Both men lied despite God's promises of blessing, numerous offspring, and land (12:1-3).

26:12-24 Isaac's unwillingness to quarrel with the Philistines and his deference to them regarding the wells parallels Abram's earlier unwillingness to dispute with Lot about the settlement of the land in Genesis 13. This demonstrated faith in God's ability to fulfill his promises rather than a reliance on schemes. In each instance God reaffirmed the covenant (13:14-17; 26:23-24), which itself was followed by the building of an altar (13:18; 26:25). This parallel pattern also includes the respective preceding passages in Genesis 12 and 26:1-11, which deal with the covenant, a famine, and lying about one's wife.

26:34-35 Esau's marriage to these two Hethite women is presented in a negative light (see also 27:46), just as marriage to Canaanite women was in 24:3,37. Both groups (and others as well) are mentioned in the prohibitions of Deuteronomy 7:1-4.

THE STOLEN BLESSING

27 When Isaac was old and his eyes were so weak that he could not see, † he called his older son Esau and said to him, "My son."
And he answered, "Here I am."
2 He said, "Look, I am old and do not know the day of my death. 3 So now take your hunting gear, your quiver and bow, and go out in the field to hunt some game for me. † 4 Then make me a delicious meal that I love and bring it to me to eat, so that I can bless you before I die." † 5 Now Rebekah was listening to what Isaac said to his son Esau. So while Esau went to the field to hunt some game to bring in, 6 Rebekah said to her son Jacob, "Listen! I heard your father talking with your brother Esau. He said, 7 'Bring me game and make a delicious meal for me to eat so that I can bless you in the LORD's presence before I die.' 8 Now, my son, listen to me and do what I tell you. 9 Go to the flock and bring me two choice young goats, and I will make them into a delicious meal for your father — the kind he loves. 10 Then take it to your father to eat so that he may bless you before he dies." 11 Jacob answered Rebekah his mother, "Look, my brother Esau is a hairy man, but I am a man with smooth skin. † 12 Suppose my father touches me. Then I will be revealed to him as a deceiver and bring a curse rather than a blessing on myself."

13 His mother said to him, "Your curse be on me, my son. Just obey me and go get them for me."
14 So he went and got the goats and brought them to his mother, and his mother made the delicious food his father loved. 15 Then Rebekah took the best clothes of her older son Esau, which were in the house, and had her younger son Jacob wear them. 16 She put the skins of the young goats on his hands and the smooth part of his neck. 17 Then she handed the delicious food and the bread she had made to her son Jacob.
18 When he came to his father, he said, "My father."
And he answered, "Here I am. Who are you, my son? "
19 Jacob replied to his father, "I am Esau, your firstborn. I have done as you told me. Please sit up and eat some of my game so that you may bless me."
20 But Isaac said to his son, "How did you ever find it so quickly, my son? "
He replied, "Because the LORD your God made it happen for me."
21 Then Isaac said to Jacob, "Please come closer so I can touch you, my son. Are you really my son Esau or not? "
22 So Jacob came closer to his father Isaac. When he touched him, he said, "The voice is the voice of Jacob, but the hands are the hands of Esau." 23 He did not recognize him, because his hands were hairy like those of his brother Esau; so he blessed him. 24 Again he asked, "Are you really my son Esau? "
And he replied, "I am."
25 Then he said, "Bring it closer to me, and let me eat some of my son's game so that I can bless you." Jacob brought it closer to him, and he ate; he brought him wine, and he drank.
26 Then his father Isaac said to him, "Please come closer and kiss me, my son."
27 So he came closer and kissed him. When Isaac smelled † his clothes, he blessed him and said:

Ah, the smell of my son is like the smell of a field that the LORD has blessed.
28 May God give to you — from the dew of the sky † and from the richness of the land † — an abundance of grain and new wine. †

29 May peoples serve you † and nations bow in worship to you.
Be master over your relatives;
may your mother's sons bow in worship to you.
Those who curse you will be cursed, and those who bless you will be blessed. †

30 As soon as Isaac had finished blessing Jacob and Jacob had left the presence of his father Isaac, his brother Esau arrived from his hunting. 31 He had also made some delicious food and brought it to his father. He said to his father, "Let my father get up and eat some of his son's game, so that you may bless me."
32 But his father Isaac said to him, "Who are you? "
He answered, "I am Esau your firstborn son."
33 Isaac began to tremble uncontrollably. "Who was it then," he said, "who hunted game and brought it to me? I ate it all before you came in, and I blessed him. Indeed, he will be blessed! "
34 When Esau heard his father's words, he cried out with a loud and bitter cry and said to his father, "Bless me too, my father! " †
35 But he replied, "Your brother came deceitfully and took your blessing."
36 So he said, "Isn't he rightly named Jacob? † † For he has cheated me twice now. He took my birthright, and look, now he has taken my blessing." Then he asked, "Haven't you saved a blessing for me? "
37 But Isaac answered Esau, "Look, I have made him a master over you, have given him all of his relatives as his servants, and have sustained him with grain and new wine. What then can I do for you, my son? "
38 Esau said to his father, "Do you have only one blessing, my father? Bless me too, my father! " And Esau wept loudly. †
39 His father Isaac answered him,

Look, your dwelling place will be away from the richness of the land, away from the dew of the sky above.
40 You will live by your sword, and you will serve your brother.
But when you rebel, † you will break his yoke from your neck.

ESAU'S ANGER

41 Esau held a grudge against Jacob because of the blessing his father had given him. And Esau determined in his heart: "The days of mourning for my father are approaching; then I will kill my brother Jacob." 42 When the words of her older son Esau were reported to Rebekah, she summoned her younger son Jacob and said to him, "Listen, your brother Esau is consoling himself by planning to kill you. 43 So now, my son, listen to me. Flee at once to my brother Laban in Haran, 44 and stay with him for a few days until your brother's anger subsides — 45 until your brother's rage turns away from you and he forgets what you have done to him. Then I will send for you and bring you back from there. Why should I lose you both in one day? " 46 So Rebekah said to Isaac, "I'm sick of my life because of these Hethite girls. † If Jacob marries someone from around here, † like these Hethite girls, what good is my life? " †

27:1-10 Isaac's plan to bless Esau (cp. Gn 48:9-20) was countered by Rebekah's plot for Jacob to get the blessing. The drawing up of these two competing sides is in keeping with the parental favoritism already mentioned (25:28). More importantly, this blessing related to the continuance of the covenant first made with Abraham and then passed down through Isaac to Jacob (cp. 25:23).

27:18-24 Jacob's character as a supplanter (and a deceiver) is on full display here (see the notes on 25:22-26 and 25:29-34).

27:27-29 Despite some suspenseful moments, Rebekah and Jacob's scheme worked, and Jacob received the blessing from his father. Those who curse you will be cursed, and those who bless you will be blessed links this blessing to the covenant with Abraham (see 12:3) and to messianic prophecy in Numbers 24:9 (see the note on Nm 24:7-9). Furthermore, the reference to rule over peoples, nations, and his mother's sons links the same blessing to the previous word to Rebekah in 25:23 and to messianic prophecy in 49:8,10. Thus, God's covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob included not only the promise of numerous offspring but also the promise of an individual messianic offspring, in accordance with 3:15. It is he who will bring blessing to all families and nations of the earth (12:3; 18:18; 22:18; 26:4; see also Lk 1:55; Ac 3:25; Gl 3:16,19).

27:41–28:4 Jacob had supplanted his brother Esau twice (v. 36), and Esau planned to kill him after their father died (cp. 4:3-8). Upon learning of this, Rebekah parlayed Jacob's legitimate need for a wife and Isaac's disapproval of Esau's Hethite wives (26:34-35) such that Isaac sent Jacob away to her brother Laban's house in Paddan-aram to get married. In doing so, Isaac invoked the covenant that God made with Abraham, including its blessings of numerous descendants and possession of the land.

JACOB'S DEPARTURE

28 So Isaac summoned Jacob, blessed him, and commanded him, "Do not marry a Canaanite girl. 2 Go at once to Paddan-aram, to the house of Bethuel, your mother's father. Marry one of the daughters of Laban, your mother's brother. 3 May God Almighty bless you and make you fruitful and multiply you † so that you become an assembly of peoples. † 4 May God give you and your offspring the blessing of Abraham † so that you may possess the land where you live as a foreigner, the land God gave to Abraham." † 5 So Isaac sent Jacob to Paddan-aram, to Laban son of Bethuel the Aramean, the brother of Rebekah, the mother of Jacob and Esau.
6 Esau noticed that Isaac blessed Jacob and sent him to Paddan-aram to get a wife there. When he blessed him, Isaac commanded Jacob, "Do not marry a Canaanite girl." 7 And Jacob listened to his father and mother and went to Paddan-aram. 8 Esau realized that his father Isaac disapproved of the Canaanite women, † 9 so Esau went to Ishmael and married, in addition to his other wives, Mahalath daughter of Ishmael, Abraham's son. She was the sister of Nebaioth.

JACOB AT BETHEL

10 Jacob left Beer-sheba and went toward Haran. 11 He reached a certain place and spent the night there because the sun had set. He took one of the stones from the place, put it there at his head, and lay down in that place. 12 And he dreamed: † A stairway was set on the ground with its top reaching the sky, and God's angels were going up and down on it. † 13 The LORD was standing there beside him, † saying, "I am the LORD, † the God of your father Abraham and the God of Isaac. I will give you and your offspring the land on which you are lying. 14 Your offspring will be like the dust of the earth, † and you will spread out toward the west, the east, the north, and the south. All the peoples on earth will be blessed through you and your offspring. † 15 Look, I am with you and will watch over you wherever you go. I will bring you back to this land, † for I will not leave you until I have done what I have promised you." 16 When Jacob awoke from his sleep, he said, "Surely the LORD is in this place, and I did not know it." † 17 He was afraid and said, "What an awesome place this is! This is none other than the house of God. This is the gate of heaven."

18 Early in the morning Jacob took the stone that was near his head and set it up as a marker. He poured oil on top of it 19 and named the place Bethel, † though previously the city was named Luz. † 20 Then Jacob made a vow: † "If God will be with me and watch over me during this journey I'm making, if he provides me with food to eat and clothing to wear, 21 and if I return safely to my father's family, † then the LORD will be my God. † 22 This stone that I have set up as a marker will be God's house, and I will give to you a tenth of all that you give me." †

28:3 Gn 1:28 28:3 Gn 48:4 28:4 Gn 12:1-3 28:4 Gn 12:7; 15:18 28:8 Gn 24:3; 26:34-35; 27:46 28:12 Gn 41:1; Nm 12:6; Jb 33:15-16 28:12 Jn 1:51 28:13 Gn 15:7; Ex 6:8 28:14 Gn 13:16 28:14 Gn 12:3 28:15 Gn 48:21; Dt 30:3; 1Kg 8:34; Zph 3:20 28:16 Ex 3:4-6; Jos 5:13-15; Ps 139:7-12 28:19 Gn 35:6; 48:3; Jdg 1:23,26 28:20 Gn 31:13 28:21 Gn 33:18; Jdg 11:31; 2Sm 15:7-9 28:21 Dt 26:17 28:22 Gn 14:20; Lv 27:30; Dt 14:22

28:6-9 Another difference between Esau and Jacob was the kind of women they married. Whereas Jacob would marry within his own people, Esau married two Canaanite women (see also 26:34-35) and an Ishmaelite woman. Likewise, his father Isaac married within his own people (24:2-4,37-38), whereas his uncle Ishmael probably married an Egyptian (21:21). The driving force behind this distinction was not ultimately ethnicity (e.g., Rahab; see Mt 1:5) but participation in the covenant and worship of God (Dt 7:1-4; 2Co 6:14-18). For Isaac and Jacob, this also meant not marrying any of the women among whom they lived and overcoming the challenge of distance in order to find wives.

28:10-22 For the first time, Jacob had an encounter with God through a dream of a stairway connecting heaven and earth (see Jn 1:51). Up to this point, his life had been characterized by supplanting his brother using whatever means he saw fit. The only time Jacob had even mentioned God was as part of a lie to his father Isaac about how he had supposedly hunted game and prepared it so quickly (27:20). Nevertheless, God graciously affirmed his covenant with Jacob, including a promise of the land as well as offspring through which all the peoples on earth will be blessed. This continues the earlier covenant promises made to Abraham and Isaac (see also vv. 3-4; Rm 9:11-13). The Lord also promised to bring Jacob back home, to which Jacob responds with a vow (31:13; 35:1-7).

JACOB MEETS RACHEL

29 Jacob resumed his journey † and went to the eastern country. † † 2 He looked and saw a well in a field. Three flocks of sheep were lying there beside it because the sheep were watered from this well. But a large stone covered the opening of the well. 3 The shepherds would roll the stone from the opening of the well and water the sheep when all the flocks † were gathered there. Then they would return the stone to its place over the well's opening.
4 Jacob asked the men at the well, "My brothers! Where are you from?"
"We're from Haran," they answered.

5 “Do you know Laban grandson of Nahor? ” Jacob asked them.
They answered, “We know him.”
6 “Is he well? ” Jacob asked.
“Yes,” they said, “and here is his daughter Rachel, coming with his sheep.”
7 Then Jacob said, “Look, it is still broad daylight. It’s not time for the animals to be gathered. Water the flock, then go out and let them graze.”
8 But they replied, “We can’t until all the flocks have been gathered and the stone is rolled from the well’s opening. Then we will water the sheep.”
9 While he was still speaking with them, Rachel came with her father’s sheep, for she was a shepherdess. 10 As soon as Jacob saw his uncle Laban’s daughter Rachel with his sheep, † he went up and rolled the stone from the opening and watered his uncle Laban’s sheep. 11 Then Jacob kissed Rachel and wept loudly. † 12 He told Rachel that he was her father’s relative, Rebekah’s son. She ran and told her father.

JACOB DECEIVED

13 When Laban heard the news about his sister’s son Jacob, he ran to meet him, hugged him, and kissed him. Then he took him to his house, and Jacob told him all that had happened.

14 Laban said to him, “Yes, you are my own flesh and blood.” † †
After Jacob had stayed with him a month, 15 Laban said to him, “Just because you’re my relative, should you work for me for nothing? Tell me what your wages should be.”
16 Now Laban had two daughters: the older was named Leah, and the younger was named Rachel. 17 Leah had tender eyes, but Rachel was shapely and beautiful. 18 Jacob loved Rachel, so he answered Laban, “I’ll work for you seven years for your younger daughter Rachel.” †
19 Laban replied, “Better that I give her to you than to some other man. Stay with me.” 20 So Jacob worked seven years for Rachel, and they seemed like only a few days to him because of his love for her.
21 Then Jacob said to Laban, “Since my time is complete, give me my wife, so I can sleep with † her.” 22 So Laban invited all the men of the place and sponsored a feast. 23 That evening, Laban took his daughter Leah and gave her to Jacob, and he slept with her. 24 And Laban gave his slave Zilpah to his daughter Leah as her slave.

25 When morning came, there was Leah! So he said to Laban, “What is this you have done to me? Wasn’t it for Rachel that I worked for you? Why have you deceived me? ”
26 Laban answered, “It is not the custom in this place to give the younger daughter in marriage before the firstborn. 27 Complete this week of wedding celebration, and we will also give you this younger one in return for working yet another seven years for me.”
28 And Jacob did just that. He finished the week of celebration, and Laban gave him his daughter Rachel as his wife. 29 And Laban gave his slave Bilhah to his daughter Rachel as her slave. 30 Jacob slept with Rachel also, and indeed, he loved Rachel more than Leah. And he worked for Laban another seven years. †

JACOB’S SONS

31 When the LORD saw that Leah was unloved, † he opened her womb; † but Rachel was unable to conceive. † 32 Leah conceived, gave birth to a son, and named him Reuben, † for she said, “The LORD has seen my affliction; † surely my husband will love me now.”
33 She conceived again, gave birth to a son, and said, “The LORD heard that I am unloved and has given me this son also.” So she named him Simeon. †
34 She conceived again, gave birth to a son, and said, “At last, my husband will become attached to me because I have borne three sons for him.” Therefore he was named Levi. †
35 And she conceived again, gave birth to a son, and said, “This time I will praise the LORD.” Therefore she named him Judah. † † Then Leah stopped having children.

29:18-30 Jacob, who had been a supplanter and deceiver, got a taste of his own medicine from his uncle Laban. There are several parallels between Laban's deception of Jacob and Jacob's earlier deception of his father Isaac, such as a meal (27:25; 29:22), impaired vision of the deceived (27:1; 29:23), and substitution of one sibling for another. These correspondences are ironic and indicate that Jacob would not be able to manipulate Laban as he had his family back home. Moreover, his stay was supposed to last a few days (27:44), but it had already lasted fourteen years and would last a total of 20 years (31:38,41).

29:30–30:24 The favoritism and competition between Jacob and Esau was perpetuated with Leah and Rachel. Just as Isaac favored Esau and Rebekah favored Jacob (25:28), Jacob favored Rachel. The Lord got involved and enabled the unloved Leah to conceive. Leah longed to win the affection and love of Jacob through bearing him children. She saw Rachel as having taken her husband. Rachel, on the other hand, envied her sister because of the children she was bearing to Jacob. Rachel described herself as having wrestled with her sister and won. Rachel's desperation to have children was shown through pressuring Jacob, giving her maid to Jacob as a wife, and her acquisition of mandrakes. Eventually God did enable Rachel to conceive and bear Joseph.

30 When Rachel saw that she was not bearing Jacob any children, she envied her sister. "Give me sons, or I will die! " † she said to Jacob.
2 Jacob became angry with Rachel and said, "Am I in God's place, who has withheld offspring † from you? " 3 Then she said, "Here is my maid Bilhah. Go sleep with her, and she'll bear children for me † † so that through her I too can build a family." 4 So Rachel gave her slave Bilhah to Jacob as a wife, and he slept with her. 5 Bilhah conceived and bore Jacob a son. 6 Rachel said, "God has vindicated me; yes, he has heard me and given me a son," so she named him Dan. † 7 Rachel's slave Bilhah conceived again and bore Jacob a second son. 8 Rachel said, "In my wrestlings with God, † I have wrestled with my sister and won," and she named him Naphtali. †
9 When Leah saw that she had stopped having children, she took her slave Zilpah and gave her to Jacob as a wife. 10 Leah's slave Zilpah bore Jacob a son.
11 Then Leah said, "What good fortune! " † and she named him Gad. † 12 When Leah's slave Zilpah bore Jacob a second son, 13 Leah said, "I am happy that the women call me happy," † so she named him Asher. † 14 Reuben went out during the wheat harvest and found some mandrakes in the field. † When he brought them to his mother Leah, Rachel asked, "Please give me some of your son's mandrakes."

15 But Leah replied to her, “Isn’t it enough that you have taken my husband?
Now you also want to take my son’s mandrakes? ” “Well then,” Rachel said, “he can sleep with you tonight in exchange for your son’s mandrakes.”
16 When Jacob came in from the field that evening, Leah went out to meet him and said, “You must come with me, for I have hired you with my son’s mandrakes.” So Jacob slept with her that night.
17 God listened to Leah, and she conceived and bore Jacob a fifth son. 18 Leah said, “God has rewarded me for giving my slave to my husband,” and she named him Issachar. † 19 Then Leah conceived again and bore Jacob a sixth son. 20 “God has given me a good gift,” Leah said. “This time my husband will honor me because I have borne six sons for him,” and she named him Zebulun. † 21 Later, Leah bore a daughter and named her Dinah.
22 Then God remembered Rachel. He listened to her and opened her womb. † 23 She conceived and bore a son, and she said, “God has taken away my disgrace.” † 24 She named him Joseph † and said, “May the LORD add another son to me.” †

JACOB’S FLOCKS MULTIPLY

25 After Rachel gave birth to Joseph, Jacob said to Laban, “Send me on my way so that I can return to my homeland. 26 Give me my wives and my children that I have worked for, and let me go. † You know how hard I have worked for you.”
27 But Laban said to him, “If I have found favor with you, stay. I have learned by divination that the LORD has blessed me because of you.” 28 Then Laban said, “Name your wages, and I will pay them.” † 29 So Jacob said to him, “You know how I have served you and how your herds have fared with me. † 30 For you had very little before I came, but now your wealth has increased. The LORD has blessed you because of me. And now, when will I also do something for my own family? ” 31 Laban asked, “What should I give you? ”
And Jacob said, “You don’t need to give me anything. If you do this one thing for me, I will continue to shepherd and keep your flock. 32 Let me go through all your sheep today and remove every sheep that is speckled or spotted, every dark-colored sheep among the lambs, and the spotted and speckled among the female goats. Such will be my wages. 33 In the future when you come to check on my wages, my honesty will testify for me. If I have any female goats that are not speckled or spotted, or any lambs that are not black, they will be considered stolen."

34 "Good," said Laban. "Let it be as you have said."
35 That day Laban removed the streaked and spotted male goats and all the speckled and spotted female goats — every one that had any white on it — and every dark-colored one among the lambs, and he placed his sons in charge of them. 36 He put a three-day journey between himself and Jacob. Jacob, meanwhile, was shepherding the rest of Laban's flock.
37 Jacob then took branches of fresh poplar, almond, and plane wood, and peeled the bark, exposing white stripes on the branches. 38 He set the peeled branches in the troughs in front of the sheep — in the water channels where the sheep came to drink. And the sheep bred when they came to drink. 39 The flocks bred in front of the branches and bore streaked, speckled, and spotted young. †
40 Jacob separated the lambs and made the flocks face the streaked sheep and the completely dark sheep in Laban's flocks. Then he set his own stock apart and didn't put them with Laban's sheep.
41 Whenever the stronger of the flock were breeding, Jacob placed the branches in the troughs, in full view of the flocks, and they would breed in front of the branches. 42 As for the weaklings of the flocks, he did not put out the branches. So it turned out that the weak sheep belonged to Laban and the stronger ones to Jacob. 43 And the man became very rich. † He had many flocks, female and male slaves, and camels and donkeys. †

30:37-42 In order to keep Jacob from going home, Laban agreed that sheep and goats that were streaked, speckled, and spotted as well as dark-colored lambs would be Jacob's (vv. 32-35). How Jacob's practice of positioning peeled branches in the watering troughs worked is not explained here, but the important thing was that God was giving Laban's flocks to him (31:8-12).

30:43–31:2 Like Abraham and Isaac, Jacob became very rich (see 12:16; 26:13-14), and others became envious.

JACOB SEPARATES FROM LABAN

31 Now Jacob heard what Laban's sons were saying: "Jacob has taken all that was our father's and has built this wealth from what belonged to our father." 2 And Jacob saw from Laban's face that his attitude toward him was not the same as before.
3 The LORD said to him, "Go back to the land of your fathers and to your family, and I will be with you." † 4 Jacob had Rachel and Leah called to the field where his flocks were. 5 He said to them, "I can see from your father's face that his attitude toward me is not the same as before, but the God of my father has been with me. 6 You know that with all my strength I have served your father † 7 and that he has cheated me and changed my wages ten times. But God has not let him harm me. 8 If he said, 'The spotted sheep will be your wages,' then all the sheep were born spotted. If he said, 'The streaked sheep will be your wages,' then all the sheep were born streaked. † 9 God has taken away your father's herds and given them to me.
10 "When the flocks were breeding, I saw in a dream that the streaked, spotted, and speckled males were mating with the females. 11 In that dream the angel of God said to me, 'Jacob! ' and I said, 'Here I am.' 12 And he said, 'Look up and see: all the males that are mating with the flocks are streaked, spotted, and speckled, for I have seen all that Laban has been doing to you. †

WHERE DID OTHER RELIGIONS COME FROM?

The Bible never states how non-biblical religions got their start. Genesis begins with the one true God. There certainly were people who lived in defiance of him (e.g., Cain and Lamech in Gn 4), but there is no account therein of people making substitutes for God. We know that Abraham's family had worshiped other gods in Ur (Jos 24:2), but when Abraham met Melchizedek (Gn 14:20), he turned out to be a priest of El Elyon, “God Most High,” an expression that in this case clearly refers to Abraham’s God (Dn 4:2,34; Nm 24:16; Ps 78:35). We finally see mention of idols as they are brought up by Jacob’s entourage (Gn 31:19; 35:4), but by then owning such objects is already an established pagan custom.

We see a major eruption of idolatry in Exodus 32—and it concerns the people of Israel themselves and the golden calf. The Bible assumes that the nations worshiped false gods, but they are only mentioned when they directly affect the Hebrews. Scripture’s concern is to trace the history of God’s covenant people, and it does not immediately pay attention to other nations that do not worship him. Similarly, when we learn more about Canaanite religion, it is not in the context of condemnation of Baal worship per se (though it is certainly implied), but as a prohibition for God’s people to worship him alone (Nm 25:1-5). So, there is no biblical narration of the historical origin of idolatry.

The Bible does make it clear that the reason for false religion was for people to seek independence from God, or, more bluntly, to be their own gods. This attitude characterized the fall (Gn 3), when the serpent claimed that Adam and Eve could become like God and they were lured by the idea. The apostle Paul elaborates on this theme in Romans 1. He states that humans could know that there was a transcendent Creator who should receive their worship and gratitude. Yet they worshiped the creation instead. They applauded each other’s genius, committed acts contrary to nature, and recruited others to join them.

This suggests a puzzle: if people wanted to rid themselves of God, why did they start to worship other gods and spirits? We will attempt to solve this puzzle in four steps.

1. FIRST, ONE CANNOT EXCISE FROM HUMAN NATURE OUR NEED TO WORSHIP.

This fact was brought out clearly in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries during debates on the evolution of religion. Many scholars reasoned that the earliest religious beliefs must have been “primitive,” consisting of the recognition of a magic force pervading the world or the veneration of ancestor ghosts. These scholars sought to prove their thesis by pointing to modern tribal cultures having little material sophistication, who practiced appeasement of spirits and magic rituals; they assumed that their religion was akin to that of earliest humankind.

These scholars, however, did not differentiate among those cultures that accurately reflect the earliest cultures and those that had clearly diverged from a previous pattern. Subsequently, scholars such as Andrew Lang and Wilhelm Schmidt demonstrated that those cultures that were closest to original human culture actually held to monotheism along with a high standard of morality.

2. WE LIVE IN A WORLD THAT WAS CREATED BY GOD, AND ITS VERY NATURE LEADS US TO RECOGNIZE THE REALITY OF THE ONE WHO MADE IT.

Many people come to this conclusion simply by an intuition based on the grandeur of the universe, its beauty and complexity, from the smallest level of subatomic particles to the largest realm of galaxies. These reflections can also be expressed rationally by means of the classic arguments for God’s existence, that unless there is a God, this universe could not exist.

3. SOME PROMINENT ATHEISTS HAVE CONCEDED THAT THEY SOMETIMES FEEL A NEED FOR A DIVINE BEING IN THEIR LIVES.

For example, in the area of morality, we may have to choose between satisfying our own interests and doing what is right. Even people who do not believe in God as the Author of moral standards will usually still attempt to act morally. And so they are confronted with the fact that at times they have rationalized themselves into breaking the rules. In moments of clarity they may recognize that they have acted immorally or sinfully, and their wrongdoings affect other people as well as their own identities, consciences, and souls. Aware of their shortcomings and knowing that as humans they are unable to undo them, they must seek a superior being to forgive what they have done.

Anyone who goes through life with his eyes open recognizes that it is impossible to steer the ship of one's own life. A person may claim that God is unnecessary, but it is a very different thing to maintain that stance when one's own child is sick, his crops fail, his marriage crumbles, or his life is in danger. In such times one realizes that he is not truly in control, so he takes recourse to spiritual powers.

4. BUT TO WHICH POWERS WILL ONE TURN?

A person could pray to God, but he appears remote and not as someone with whom one can negotiate toward a desired outcome. On the other hand, in an animistic or polytheistic context, the powers are often weak and subject to manipulation; they come with the false promise that if one meets certain conditions, the desired solution will occur. So, even if the outcome should be negative, the person who turns to these powers feels he is somehow in control since the lack of success was his fault.

The monotheism of the earliest humans required a high level of behavior, but with little ritual attached to it. People made offerings as thanks and acts of devotion to God, but God did not need to be fed or persuaded to be good, and carrying out these simple ceremonies lay entirely in the hands of householders and patriarchs.

But as soon as people shifted away from worshiping the one true God toward gods with less knowledge and power, religion could become a profitable business. There arose experts, such as shamans or priests, on how to negotiate properly with the spiritual world. They claimed exclusive rights to the rituals, which they carried out mechanically, and bound people to their religion with fear.

SUMMARY

While the Bible does not give us the history of false religion, it makes clear that the motivation for it was the quest for human autonomy. Nevertheless, the story of the Bible does offer all people reconciliation to the true God through the gift of his Son, Jesus Christ. Through Christ, true worship of God is made possible for all people, regardless of their spiritual history.

WINFRIED CORDUAN

13 I am the God of Bethel, where you poured oil on the stone marker and made a solemn vow to me. † Get up, leave this land, and return to your native land.' " 14 Then Rachel and Leah answered him, "Do we have any portion or inheritance in our father's family? 15 Are we not regarded by him as outsiders? For he has sold us † and has certainly spent our purchase price. 16 In fact, all the wealth that God has taken away from our father belongs to us and to our children. So do whatever God has said to you."
17 So Jacob got up and put his children and wives on the camels. 18 He took all the livestock and possessions he had acquired in Paddan-aram, and he drove his herds to go to the land of Canaan, to his father Isaac. 19 When Laban had gone to shear his sheep, Rachel stole her father's household idols. † 20 And Jacob deceived † Laban the Aramean, not telling him that he was fleeing. 21 He fled with all his possessions, crossed the Euphrates, and headed for † the hill country of Gilead.

LABAN OVERTAKES JACOB

22 On the third day Laban was told that Jacob had fled. 23 So he took his relatives with him, pursued Jacob for seven days, and overtook him in the hill country of Gilead. 24 But God came to Laban the Aramean in a dream at night. "Watch yourself! " God warned him. "Don't say anything to Jacob, either good or bad." †

25 When Laban overtook Jacob, Jacob had pitched his tent in the hill country, and Laban and his relatives also pitched their tents in the hill country of Gilead. 26 Laban said to Jacob, "What have you done? You have deceived me and taken my daughters away like prisoners of war! 27 Why did you secretly flee from me, deceive me, and not tell me? I would have sent you away with joy and singing, with tambourines and lyres, 28 but you didn't even let me kiss my grandchildren and my daughters. You have acted foolishly. 29 I could do you great harm, but last night the God of your father said to me: 'Watch yourself! Don't say anything to Jacob, either good or bad.' 30 Now you have gone off because you long for your father's family — but why have you stolen my gods? " †

31 Jacob answered, "I was afraid, for I thought you would take your daughters from me by force. 32 If you find your gods with anyone here, he will not live! † Before our relatives, point out anything that is yours and take it." Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen the idols.

33 So Laban went into Jacob's tent, Leah's tent, and the tents of the two concubines, † but he found nothing. When he left Leah's tent, he went into Rachel's tent. 34 Now Rachel had taken Laban's household idols, put them in the saddlebag of the camel, and sat on them. Laban searched the whole tent but found nothing.

35 She said to her father, "Don't be angry, my lord, that I cannot stand up in your presence; † I am having my period." So Laban searched, but could not find the household idols.

JACOB'S COVENANT WITH LABAN

36 Then Jacob became incensed and brought charges against Laban. “What is my crime?” he said to Laban. “What is my sin, that you have pursued me? 37 You’ve searched all my possessions! Have you found anything of yours? † Put it here before my relatives and yours, and let them decide between the two of us.
38 I’ve been with you these twenty years. Your ewes and female goats have not miscarried, and I have not eaten the rams from your flock. 39 I did not bring you any of the flock torn by wild beasts; I myself bore the loss. You demanded payment from me for what was stolen by day or by night. 40 There I was — the heat consumed me by day and the frost by night, and sleep fled from my eyes. 41 For twenty years in your household I served you — fourteen years for your two daughters and six years for your flocks † — and you have changed my wages ten times! 42 If the God of my father, the God of Abraham, the Fear of Isaac, had not been with me, certainly now you would have sent me off empty-handed.
But God has seen my affliction and my hard work, † and he issued his verdict last night.”
43 Then Laban answered Jacob, “The daughters are my daughters; the sons, my sons; and the flocks, my flocks! Everything you see is mine! But what can I do today for these daughters of mine or for the children they have borne? 44 Come now, let’s make a covenant, you and I. † Let it be a witness between the two of us.”
45 So Jacob picked out a stone and set it up as a marker. † 46 Then Jacob said to his relatives, “Gather stones.” And they took stones and made a mound, then ate there by the mound. 47 Laban named the mound Jegar-sahadutha, but Jacob named it Galeed. †
48 Then Laban said, “This mound is a witness between you and me today.”
Therefore the place was called Galeed 49 and also Mizpah, † † for he said, “May the LORD watch between you and me when we are out of each other’s sight. 50 If you mistreat my daughters or take other wives, though no one is with us, understand that God will be a witness between you and me.” † 51 Laban also said to Jacob, “Look at this mound and the marker I have set up between you and me. 52 This mound is a witness and the marker is a witness that I will not pass beyond this mound to you, and you will not pass beyond this mound and this marker to do me harm. 53 The God of Abraham, and the gods † of Nahor —

the gods of their father † — will judge between us." And Jacob swore by the Fear of his father Isaac. 54 Then Jacob offered a sacrifice on the mountain and invited his relatives to eat a meal. So they ate a meal and spent the night on the mountain. 55 Laban got up early in the morning, kissed his grandchildren and daughters, and blessed them. Then Laban left to return home.

31:3 As promised in 28:15, God was leading Jacob to return home with the assurance that he would be with him.

31:5-9 Earlier in life, Jacob had been the one cheating others for his own gain, but his time with Laban was one in which he was the one being cheated. Nevertheless, in the midst of such circumstances he experienced God's presence, provision, and protection (v. 29; see also 30:27). Also, instead of taking things that weren't rightfully his (see 27:36), Jacob had served with all his strength (30:26; 31:38-42) and was honest (30:33).

31:19,31-34 Laban earlier had mentioned that he used divination (30:27), and here he is also shown to be an idolater. These household idols (Hb teraphim) were his gods. Their precise nature is uncertain, though several passages seem to link them with divination (1Sm 15:23; 2Kg 23:24; Ezk 21:21; Zch 10:2). The idols would have been valuable to Laban. Rachel's theft of these may have been done in spite or motivated by an interest in inheritance, but either way this act reflects negatively upon her. See "Polytheism in Biblical Times," p. 653.

31:44-55 Jacob and Laban make a covenant, a binding agreement that defines a relationship between two parties and that requires obligations from at least one of them. Well-known covenants in the Bible typically involved God as one of the parties, but covenants can also be made between humans—as is the case here and in 1 Samuel 18:3 (see also the note on Gn 9:1-17). This covenant between Jacob and Laban involved a commitment by Jacob not to mistreat Laban's daughters or to take other wives. The two men agreed not to pass beyond Mizpah to harm one another. With that, Jacob had finally separated himself from Laban.

PREPARING TO MEET ESAU

32 Jacob went on his way, and God's angels met him. † 2 When he saw them, Jacob said, "This is God's camp." So he called that place Mahanaim. † †

3 Jacob sent messengers ahead of him to his brother Esau in the land of Seir, the territory of Edom. 4 He commanded them, "You are to say to my lord Esau, 'This is what your servant Jacob says. I have been staying with Laban and have been delayed until now. 5 I have oxen, donkeys, flocks, and male and female slaves. I have sent this message to inform my lord, in order to seek your favor.’ ” †

6 When the messengers returned to Jacob, they said, “We went to your brother Esau; he is coming to meet you — and he has four hundred men with him.” † 7 Jacob was greatly afraid and distressed; he divided the people with him into two camps, along with the flocks, herds, and camels. 8 He thought, “If Esau comes to one camp and attacks it, the remaining one can escape.” †
9 Then Jacob said, “God of my father Abraham and God of my father Isaac, † the LORD who said to me, ‘Go back to your land and to your family, and I will cause you to prosper,’ † 10 I am unworthy of all the kindness and faithfulness you have shown your servant. Indeed, I crossed over the Jordan with my staff, and now I have become two camps. 11 Please rescue me from my brother Esau, for I am afraid of him; otherwise, he may come and attack me, the mothers, and their children. 12 You have said, ‘I will cause you to prosper, and I will make your offspring like the sand of the sea, too numerous to be counted.’ ” †
13 He spent the night there and took part of what he had brought with him as a gift for his brother Esau: † 14 two hundred female goats, twenty male goats, two hundred ewes, twenty rams, 15 thirty milk camels with their young, forty cows, ten bulls, twenty female donkeys, and ten male donkeys. 16 He entrusted them to his slaves as separate herds and said to them, “Go on ahead of me, and leave some distance between the herds.”
17 And he told the first one: “When my brother Esau meets you and asks, ‘Who do you belong to? Where are you going? And whose animals are these ahead of you? ’ 18 then tell him, ‘They belong to your servant Jacob. They are a gift sent to my lord Esau. And look, he is behind us.’ ”
19 He also told the second one, the third, and everyone who was walking behind the animals, “Say the same thing to Esau when you find him. 20 You are also to say, ‘Look, your servant Jacob is right behind us.’ ” For he thought, “I want to appease Esau with the gift that is going ahead of me. After that, I can face him, and perhaps he will forgive me.”
21 So the gift was sent on ahead of him while he remained in the camp that night. 22 During the night Jacob got up and took his two wives, his two slave women, and his eleven sons, and crossed the ford of Jabbok. † 23 He took them and sent them across the stream, along with all his possessions.

JACOB WRESTLES WITH GOD

24 Jacob was left alone, and a man wrestled with him until daybreak. † 25 When the man saw that he could not defeat him, he struck Jacob's hip socket as they wrestled and dislocated his hip. 26 Then he said to Jacob, "Let me go, for it is daybreak."

But Jacob said, "I will not let you go unless you bless me."

27 "What is your name? " the man asked.

"Jacob," he replied.

28 "Your name will no longer be Jacob," † he said. "It will be Israel † because you have struggled with God † and with men and have prevailed."

29 Then Jacob asked him, "Please tell me your name."

But he answered, "Why do you ask my name? " † And he blessed him there.

30 Jacob then named the place Peniel, † "For I have seen God face to face," he said, "yet my life has been spared." † 31 The sun shone on him as he passed by Penuel † † — limping because of his hip. 32 That is why, still today, the Israelites don't eat the thigh muscle that is at the hip socket: because he struck Jacob's hip socket at the thigh muscle. †

32:2 = Two Camps 32:28 In Hb, the name Israel sounds like "he struggled (with) God." 32:30 = Face of God 32:31 Variant of Peniel 32:32 Or tendon

32:1-2 Just as Jacob had encountered angels at Bethel when leaving the land (28:12), so he encountered angels again at Mahanaim when returning (see "A Biblical View of Angels," p. 1531).

32:3-8 Though Jacob was free of Laban, his troubles were not over because he still had to deal with his estranged brother Esau. The last time they had seen each other was twenty years prior (31:41), and back then Esau had wanted to kill Jacob for stealing their father's blessing (27:41). Jacob sent messengers to his brother to seek his favor, but Esau's actions led Jacob to prepare for an attack.

32:9-12 Jacob's prayer was one of humility (I am unworthy of all the kindness and faithfulness you have shown), which contrasts with how he had acted toward Esau earlier in life. Jacob's petition to be delivered from Esau was based on what God himself had said: Go back to your land and to your family, and I will cause you to prosper . . . I will make your offspring like the sand of the sea.

32:23-32 Jacob's wrestling match with a man (Hs 12:4 calls him an angel) was a microcosm of his whole life, which consisted of struggles with Esau, Laban, and God. The fact that he prevailed was not because of his strength, but in spite of his weakness and through the mercy of God. The Lord had protected him from Laban (30:27; 31:5-9,24,29,42), and he would also be faithful to his word in delivering Jacob from Esau (32:11). Regarding seeing God, see also the notes on Exodus 24:9-11 and Judges 6:11-16.

JACOB MEETS ESAU

33 Now Jacob looked up and saw Esau coming toward him with four hundred men. So he divided the children among Leah, Rachel, and the two slave women. 2 He put the slaves and their children first, Leah and her children next, and Rachel and Joseph last. 3 He himself went on ahead and bowed to the ground † seven times until he approached his brother.

4 But Esau ran to meet him, hugged him, threw his arms around him, and kissed him. Then they wept. † 5 When Esau looked up and saw the women and children, he asked, "Who are these with you? "

He answered, "The children God has graciously given your servant." † 6 Then the slaves and their children approached him and bowed down. 7 Leah and her children also approached and bowed down, and then Joseph and Rachel approached and bowed down.

8 So Esau said, "What do you mean by this whole procession † I met? " †

"To find favor with you, my lord," † he answered.

9 "I have enough, my brother," Esau replied. "Keep what you have."

10 But Jacob said, "No, please! If I have found favor with you, take this gift from me. For indeed, I have seen your face, and it is like seeing God's face, since you have accepted me. 11 Please take my present that was brought to you, because God has been gracious to me and I have everything I need." So Jacob urged him until he accepted.

12 Then Esau said, "Let's move on, and I'll go ahead of you."

13 Jacob replied, "My lord knows that the children are weak, and I have nursing flocks and herds. If they are driven hard for one day, the whole herd will die. 14 Let my lord go ahead of his servant. I will continue on slowly, at a pace suited to the livestock and the children, until I come to my lord at Seir."

15 Esau said, "Let me leave some of my people with you."

But he replied, "Why do that? Please indulge me, † my lord." †

16 That day Esau started on his way back to Seir, 17 but Jacob went to Succoth. He built a house for himself and shelters for his livestock; that is why the place was called Succoth. † †

18 After Jacob came from Paddan-aram, he arrived safely † at Shechem † in the land of Canaan and camped in front of the city. 19 He purchased a section of the field where he had pitched his tent from the sons of Hamor, Shechem's father, for a hundred pieces of silver. † † 20 And he set up an altar there and called it God, the God of Israel. †

33:4-11 Just as Jacob had prayed (32:11), he was delivered from Esau—and more. Not only did Esau not attack Jacob, he ran to meet him, hugged him, threw his arms around him, and kissed him. The four hundred men Esau brought with him were actually meant to escort his brother's traveling company. This reversal may be compared to Laban's treatment of Jacob, which was initially welcoming ("he ran to meet him, hugged him, and kissed him" in 29:13) but turned out to be exploitative. Esau's surprising response to Jacob should be attributed to God's answer to prayer rather than to Jacob's attempts to appease Esau (32:13-21). Both brothers had changed. In Jacob's case, he no longer tried to take things but humbly sought favor (32:5,20) and insisted on giving a gift. The Hebrew word for present in verse 11 is the same word translated "blessing" in 27:12,35-36,38,41.

DINAH DEFILED

34 Leah's daughter † Dinah, whom Leah bore to Jacob, went out to see some of the young women of the area. 2 When Shechem — son of Hamor the Hivite, who was the region's chieftain — saw her, he took her and raped her. 3 He became infatuated with Jacob's daughter Dinah. He loved the young girl and spoke tenderly to her. † 4 "Get me this girl as a wife," † he told his father.

5 Jacob heard that Shechem had defiled his daughter Dinah, but since his sons were with his livestock in the field, he remained silent until they returned. 6 Meanwhile, Shechem's father Hamor came to speak with Jacob. 7 Jacob's sons returned from the field when they heard about the incident and were deeply grieved and very angry. For Shechem had committed an outrage against Israel by raping Jacob's daughter, † and such a thing should not be done.

8 Hamor said to Jacob's sons, "My son Shechem has his heart set on your † daughter. Please give her to him as a wife. 9 Intermarry with us; give your daughters to us, and take our daughters for yourselves. 10 Live with us. The land is before you. Settle here, move about, and acquire property in it.” 11 Then Shechem said to Dinah’s father and brothers, “Grant me this favor, † and I’ll give you whatever you say. 12 Demand of me a high compensation † and gift; I’ll give you whatever you ask me. Just give the girl to be my wife! ” 13 But Jacob’s sons answered Shechem and his father Hamor deceitfully because he had defiled their sister Dinah. 14 “We cannot do this thing,” they said to them. “Giving our sister to an uncircumcised man is a disgrace to us. 15 We will agree with you only on this condition: if all your males are circumcised as we are. † 16 Then we will give you our daughters, take your daughters for ourselves, live with you, and become one people. 17 But if you will not listen to us and be circumcised, then we will take our daughter and go.” 18 Their words seemed good to Hamor and his son Shechem. 19 The young man did not delay doing this, because he was delighted with Jacob’s daughter. Now he was the most important in all his father’s family. 20 So Hamor and his son Shechem went to the gate of their city † and spoke to the men of their city.

21 “These men are peaceful toward us,” they said. “Let them live in our land and move about in it, for indeed, the region is large enough for them. Let us take their daughters as our wives and give our daughters to them. 22 But the men will agree to live with us and be one people only on this condition: if all our men are circumcised as they are. 23 Won’t their livestock, their possessions, and all their animals become ours? Only let us agree with them, and they will live with us.”
24 All the men † who had come to the city gates listened to Hamor and his son Shechem, and all those men were circumcised. 25 On the third day, when they were still in pain, two of Jacob’s sons, Simeon and Levi, † Dinah’s brothers, took their swords, went into the unsuspecting city, and killed every male. 26
They killed Hamor and his son Shechem with their swords, took Dinah from Shechem’s house, and went away. 27 Jacob’s sons came to the slaughter and plundered the city because their sister had been defiled. 28 They took their flocks, herds, donkeys, and whatever was in the city and in the field. 29 They captured all their possessions, dependents, and wives and plundered everything in the houses.

30 Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, “You have brought trouble on me, † making me odious to the inhabitants of the land, † the Canaanites and the Perizzites. † We are few in number; if they unite against me and attack me, I and my household will be destroyed.” †
31 But they answered, “Should he treat our sister like a prostitute? ”

34:9 The sons of Israel had no interest in intermarriage with the pagan Canaanites in this instance, and such marriages would be expressly forbidden in Deuteronomy 7:3-4.

34:13-17 Evidently, the sons of Israel had observed circumcision as God had commanded Abraham and his descendants (17:9-11), and it distinguished them from the people of Shechem.

34:24-31 Simeon and Levi’s vengeful killing not only of Hamor but also of the men of Shechem was displeasing to Jacob, who would remember their act later when speaking about the future of his sons (49:5-7).

RETURN TO BETHEL

35 God said to Jacob, “Get up! Go to Bethel and settle there. † Build an altar there to the God who appeared to you when you fled from your brother Esau.” †
2 So Jacob said to his family and all who were with him, “Get rid of the foreign gods that are among you. † Purify yourselves and change your clothes. † 3 We must get up and go to Bethel. I will build an altar there to the God who answered me in my day of distress. † He has been with me everywhere I have gone.” † 4 Then they gave Jacob all their foreign gods and their earrings, and Jacob hid them under the oak near Shechem. 5 When they set out, a terror from God came over the cities around them, and they did not pursue Jacob’s sons. † 6 So Jacob and all who were with him came to Luz (that is, Bethel †) in the land of Canaan.
7 Jacob built an altar there and called the place El-bethel † because it was there that God had revealed himself to him when he was fleeing from his brother.
8 Deborah, the one who had nursed and raised Rebekah, † † died and was buried under the oak south of Bethel. So Jacob named it Allon-bacuth. †

9 God appeared to Jacob again after he returned from Paddan-aram, and he blessed him. 10 God said to him, “Your name is Jacob; you will no longer be named Jacob, but your name will be Israel.” † So he named him Israel. 11 God also said to him, “I am God Almighty. † Be fruitful and multiply. † A nation, indeed an assembly of nations, will come from you, † and kings will descend from you. † † 12 I will give to you the land that I gave to Abraham and Isaac. †
And I will give the land to your future descendants.” 13 Then God withdrew † † from him at the place where he had spoken to him.
14 Jacob set up a marker at the place where he had spoken to him — a stone marker. He poured a drink offering on it and anointed it with oil. † 15 Jacob named the place where God had spoken with him Bethel.

RACHEL’S DEATH

16 They set out from Bethel. When they were still some distance from Ephrath, Rachel began to give birth, and her labor was difficult. 17 During her difficult labor, the midwife said to her, “Don’t be afraid, for you have another son.” † 18
With her last breath — for she was dying — she named him Ben-oni, † but his father called him Benjamin. † 19 So Rachel died and was buried on the way to Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem †). 20 Jacob set up a marker on her grave; it is the marker at Rachel’s grave still today.

ISRAEL’S SONS

21 Israel set out again and pitched his tent beyond the Tower of Eder. † 22
While Israel was living in that region, Reuben went in and slept with his father’s concubine Bilhah, and Israel heard about it. †
Jacob had twelve sons: †

23 Leah’s sons were Reuben (Jacob’s firstborn), Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun.
24 Rachel’s sons were Joseph and Benjamin.

25 The sons of Rachel's slave Bilhah were Dan and Naphtali.
26 The sons of Leah's slave Zilpah were Gad and Asher.

These are the sons of Jacob, who were born to him in Paddan-aram.

ISAAC'S DEATH

27 Jacob came to his father Isaac at Mamre † in Kiriath-arba (that is, Hebron †), where Abraham and Isaac had stayed. 28 Isaac lived 180 years. 29 He took his last breath and died, and was gathered to his people, † old and full of days. His sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

35:1-7 Jacob's actions of getting rid of foreign gods and building an altar indicate that indeed LORD is his God. Where the idols came from is not entirely clear, though some have suggested they were from the recent plundering of Shechem (34:29). True to his word given at Bethel in 28:15, God had watched over Jacob and led him homeward and back to Bethel. Earlier, Jacob had vowed that if God would protect and provide for him, "then the LORD will be my God," and "this stone that I have set up as a marker will be God's house, and I will give to [him] a tenth of all that [he] give[s] me" (28:21-22). Years later, Jacob recognized the faithfulness of God in that he answered in his day of distress and has been with him everywhere he has gone.

35:9-12 The Lord reaffirmed Jacob's name change and the covenant promises.

35:22 As would be the case for Simeon and Levi, Reuben's misdeed would be remembered later when Jacob spoke of his future (49:3-4). Through sleeping with Bilhah, Reuben had forfeited his privileges as the firstborn. Simeon and Levi would have been next in line, but they had already disqualified themselves by the slaughter at Shechem (34:24-31; 49:5-7). The next option was Judah (see 29:31-35), who would receive the special privilege of being part of the line of the Messiah (49:8-12). The promise that kings would come from the family line was part of the covenant made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (17:6,16; 35:11). One of these would be an eschatological king (see the footnote on 49:1) and would have the "obedience of the peoples" (49:10).

ESAU'S FAMILY

36 These are the family records † of Esau (that is, Edom †). 2 Esau took his wives from the Canaanite women: Adah daughter of Elon the Hethite, † Oholibamah daughter of Anah and granddaughter † of Zibeon the Hivite, 3 and Basemath daughter of Ishmael and sister of Nebaioth. † 4 Adah bore Eliphaz to Esau, Basemath bore Reuel, 5 and Oholibamah bore Jeush, Jalam, and Korah. These were Esau's sons, who were born to him in the land of Canaan.
6 Esau took his wives, sons, daughters, and all the people of his household, as well as his herds, all his livestock, and all the property he had acquired in Canaan; he went to a land away from his brother Jacob. 7 For their possessions were too many for them to live together, † and because of their herds, the land where they stayed could not support them. † 8 So Esau (that is, Edom) lived in the mountains of Seir. †

37:3-11 Joseph's brothers hated him because of their father's favoritism. In this way, the patterns of parental favoritism (25:28) and of brotherly conflict continued (4:1-8; 21:9; 25:22-27). The latter made the fulfillment of Joseph's dreams of his brothers bowing down to him all the more unlikely. Nevertheless, these dreams would come true (42:6,9; 43:26-28). Their significance is not limited to what happened between Joseph and his siblings but also is linked to the blessing given to Jacob of rule over his brothers and the nations in 27:29: "May peoples serve you and nations bow in worship to you. Be master over your relatives; may your mother's sons bow in worship to you." Rule over Israel and the nations (by an individual offspring) was thus part of the covenant made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Such rule was displayed in part through Joseph but would be fulfilled by a messianic king from the tribe of Judah (49:8-10).

36:31 Kings would come from the line of Edom (Esau) also (cp. the promise to Abraham, 17:6; Sarah, 7:16; and Jacob 35:11) but not until the days of Saul and David centuries later.

JOSEPH'S DREAMS

37 Jacob lived in the land where his father had stayed, the land of Canaan. † 2 These are the family records of Jacob.
At seventeen years of age, Joseph tended sheep with his brothers. The young man was working with the sons of Bilhah and Zilpah, his father's wives, † and he brought a bad report about them to their father. †
3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than his other sons because Joseph was a son born to him in his old age, † and he made a robe of many colors † for him. 4 When his brothers saw that their father loved him more than all his brothers, they hated him and could not bring themselves to speak peaceably to him.
5 Then Joseph had a dream. When he told it to his brothers, they hated him even more. 6 He said to them, "Listen to this dream I had: 7 There we were, binding sheaves of grain in the field. Suddenly my sheaf stood up, and your sheaves gathered around it and bowed down to my sheaf." †
8 "Are you really going to reign over us?" his brothers asked him. "Are you really going to rule us?" So they hated him even more because of his dream and what he had said.
9 Then he had another dream and told it to his brothers. "Look," he said, "I had another dream, and this time the sun, moon, and eleven stars were bowing down to me.”

10 He told his father and brothers, and his father rebuked him. “What kind of dream is this that you have had?” he said. “Am I and your mother and your brothers really going to come and bow down to the ground before you?” 11 His brothers were jealous of him, † but his father kept the matter in mind. †

JOSEPH SOLD INTO SLAVERY

12 His brothers had gone to pasture their father’s flocks at Shechem. 13 Israel said to Joseph, “Your brothers, you know, are pasturing the flocks at Shechem.
Get ready. I’m sending you to them.”
“I’m ready,” Joseph replied.
14 Then Israel said to him, “Go and see how your brothers and the flocks are doing, and bring word back to me.” So he sent him from the Hebron † Valley, and he went to Shechem.
15 A man found him there, wandering in the field, and asked him, “What are you looking for?”
16 “I’m looking for my brothers,” Joseph said. “Can you tell me where they are pasturing their flocks?”
17 “They’ve moved on from here,” the man said. “I heard them say, ‘Let’s go to Dothan.’ ” † So Joseph set out after his brothers and found them at Dothan.
18 They saw him in the distance, and before he had reached them, they plotted to kill him. † 19 They said to one another, “Oh, look, here comes that dream expert! † 20 So now, come on, let’s kill him and throw him into one of the pits. † We can say that a vicious animal ate him. Then we’ll see what becomes of his dreams!”
21 When Reuben heard this, he tried to save him from them. † He said, “Let’s not take his life.” † 22 Reuben also said to them, “Don’t shed blood. Throw him into this pit in the wilderness, but don’t lay a hand on him” — intending to rescue him from them and return him to his father.
23 When Joseph came to his brothers, they stripped off Joseph’s robe, the robe of many colors that he had on. 24 Then they took him and threw him into the pit.
The pit was empty, without water.

25 They sat down to eat a meal, † and when they looked up, there was a caravan of Ishmaelites coming from Gilead. † Their camels were carrying aromatic gum, balsam, and resin, going down to Egypt. † 26 Judah said to his brothers, “What do we gain if we kill our brother and cover up his blood? 27 Come on, let’s sell him to the Ishmaelites and not lay a hand on him, for he is our brother, our own flesh,” and his brothers agreed. 28 When Midianite † traders passed by, his brothers pulled Joseph out of the pit and sold him for twenty pieces of silver to the Ishmaelites, who took Joseph to Egypt. † 29 When Reuben returned to the pit and saw that Joseph was not there, he tore his clothes. † 30 He went back to his brothers and said, “The boy is gone! What am I going to do?” † 31 So they took Joseph’s robe, slaughtered a male goat, and dipped the robe in its blood. 32 They sent the robe of many colors to their father and said, “We found this. Examine it. Is it your son’s robe or not?” 33 His father recognized it. “It is my son’s robe,” he said. “A vicious animal has devoured him. Joseph has been torn to pieces!” † 34 Then Jacob tore his clothes, put sackcloth around his waist, and mourned for his son many days. 35
All his sons and daughters tried to comfort him, but he refused to be comforted.
“No,” he said. “I will go down to Sheol to my son, mourning.” And his father wept for him.
36 Meanwhile, the Midianites sold Joseph in Egypt to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh and the captain of the guards.

JUDAH AND TAMAR

38 At that time Judah left his brothers and settled near an Adullamite † named Hirah. 2 There Judah saw the daughter of a Canaanite named Shua; he took her as a wife and slept with her. 3 She conceived and gave birth to a son, and he named him Er. † 4 She conceived again, gave birth to a son, and named him Onan. 5 She gave birth to another son and named him Shelah. It was at Chezib that † † she gave birth to him.

6 Judah got a wife for Er, his firstborn, and her name was Tamar. 7 Now Er, Judah's firstborn, was evil in the LORD's sight, and the LORD put him to death. † 8 Then Judah said to Onan, "Sleep with your brother's wife. Perform your duty as her brother-in-law † and produce offspring for your brother." † 9 But Onan knew that the offspring would not be his, so whenever he slept with his brother's wife, he released his semen on the ground so that he would not produce offspring for his brother. 10 What he did was evil in the LORD's sight, so he put him to death also.
11 Then Judah said to his daughter-in-law Tamar, "Remain a widow in your father's house until my son Shelah grows up." † For he thought, "He might die too, like his brothers." So Tamar went to live in her father's house.
12 After a long time † Judah's wife, the daughter of Shua, died. When Judah had finished mourning, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite went up to Timnah † to his sheepshearers. 13 Tamar was told, "Your father-in-law is going up to Timnah to shear his sheep." 14 So she took off her widow's clothes, veiled her face, † covered herself, and sat at the entrance to Enaim, † which is on the way to Timnah. For she saw that, though Shelah had grown up, she had not been given to him as a wife. 15 When Judah saw her, he thought she was a prostitute, for she had covered her face.
16 He went over to her and said, "Come, let me sleep with you," for he did not know that she was his daughter-in-law. †
She said, "What will you give me for sleeping with me? "
17 "I will send you a young goat from my flock," he replied.
But she said, "Only if you leave something with me until you send it."
18 "What should I give you? " he asked.
She answered, "Your signet ring, your cord, and the staff in your hand." So he gave them to her and slept with her, and she became pregnant by him. 19 She got up and left, then removed her veil and put her widow's clothes back on.
20 When Judah sent the young goat by his friend the Adullamite in order to get back the items he had left with the woman, he could not find her. 21 He asked the men of the place, “Where is the cult prostitute who was beside the road at Enaim? ” “There has been no cult prostitute here,” they answered.

22 So the Adullamite returned to Judah, saying, “I couldn’t find her, and besides, the men of the place said, ‘There has been no cult prostitute here.’ ”
23 Judah replied, “Let her keep the items for herself; otherwise we will become a laughingstock. After all, I did send this young goat, but you couldn’t find her.”
24 About three months later Judah was told, “Your daughter-in-law, Tamar, has been acting like a prostitute, and now she is pregnant.”
“Bring her out,” Judah said, “and let her be burned to death! ” †
25 As she was being brought out, she sent her father-in-law this message: “I am pregnant by the man to whom these items belong.” And she added, “Examine them. Whose signet ring, cord, and staff are these? ”
26 Judah recognized them and said, “She is more in the right † than I, † since I did not give her to my son Shelah.” And he did not know her intimately again.
27 When the time came for her to give birth, there were twins in her womb. 28 As she was giving birth, one of them put out his hand, and the midwife took it and tied a scarlet thread around it, announcing, “This one came out first.” 29 But then he pulled his hand back, out came his brother, and she said, “What a breakout you have made for yourself! ” So he was named Perez. † † 30 Then his brother, who had the scarlet thread tied to his hand, came out, and was named Zerah. †

38:1-26 This chapter centering on Judah interrupts the focus on Joseph in the narrative context. Judah’s older brothers, Reuben, Simeon, and Levi, had disqualified themselves from receiving firstborn privileges (34:24-31; 35:22; 49:3-7). Judah was next, and his role in selling Joseph to the Ishmaelites reflected some measure of influence among his brothers (37:26-27). Judah, however, left his brothers, married a Canaanite, did not fulfill a promise to his daughter-in-law Tamar, slept with her thinking that she was a prostitute, and called for her death because of her resulting pregnancy. In the course of the narrative, however, Judah is humbled and says, She is more in the right than I. Later, he demonstrates that he has changed when he is a positive influence and a good leader (43:3-10; 44:14-34), even offering himself as a substitute for Benjamin (44:33).

38:6-10 The practice of marrying the childless widow of one’s deceased brother is called levirate marriage.

It was probably primarily intended to benefit the departed husband rather than the surviving widow. In this way, there would be an heir for the part of the inheritance belonging to the deceased; thus, it would not be lost by going to others instead. This is described in further detail in Deuteronomy 25:5-10 (see also Ru 3–4).

JOSEPH IN POTIPHAR'S HOUSE

39 Now Joseph had been taken to Egypt. An Egyptian named Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh and the captain of the guards, bought him from the Ishmaelites † who had brought him there. 2 The LORD was with Joseph, † and he became a successful man, serving † in the household of his Egyptian master. 3 When his master saw that the LORD was with him and that the LORD made everything he did successful, † 4 Joseph found favor † with his master and became his personal attendant. Potiphar also put him in charge of his household and placed all that he owned under his authority. † 5 From the time that he put him in charge of his household and of all that he owned, the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house because of Joseph. † The LORD's blessing was on all that he owned, in his house and in his fields. 6 He left all that he owned under Joseph's authority; † he did not concern himself with anything except the food he ate.

Now Joseph was well-built and handsome. † 7 After some time † his master's wife looked longingly at Joseph and said, "Sleep with me."

8 But he refused. "Look," he said to his master's wife, "with me here my master does not concern himself with anything in his house, and he has put all that he owns under my authority. † 9 No one in this house is greater than I am. He has withheld nothing from me except you, because you are his wife. So how could I do this immense evil, and how could I sin against God?" †

10 Although she spoke to Joseph day after day, he refused to go to bed with her. † 11 Now one day he went into the house to do his work, and none of the household servants were there. † 12 She grabbed him by his garment and said, "Sleep with me!" But leaving his garment in her hand, he escaped and ran outside. 13 When she saw that he had left his garment with her and had run outside, 14 she called her household servants. "Look," she said to them, "my husband brought a Hebrew man to make fools of us. He came to me so he could sleep with me, and I screamed as loud as I could. 15 When he heard me screaming for help, † he left his garment beside me and ran outside."

16 She put Joseph's garment beside her until his master came home. 17 Then she told him the same story: "The Hebrew slave you brought to us came to make a fool of me, 18 but when I screamed for help, † he left his garment beside me and ran outside."
19 When his master heard the story his wife told him — "These are the things your slave did to me" — he was furious 20 and had him thrown into prison, † where the king's prisoners were confined. So Joseph was there in prison.

JOSEPH IN PRISON

21 But the LORD was with Joseph and extended kindness to him. † He granted him favor with the prison warden. † 22 The warden put all the prisoners who were in the prison under Joseph's authority, † and he was responsible for everything that was done there. 23 The warden did not bother with anything under Joseph's authority, † because the LORD was with him, and the LORD made everything that he did successful. †

39:2-3,21-23 This chapter says four times that the LORD was with Joseph. The result was that he was successful both in Potiphar's house and in the prison. He also found favor in both the eyes of Potiphar and of the prison warden, and thus was entrusted with extensive responsibility in each place. God was with Joseph despite his being sold into slavery by his brothers, falsely accused of sexual misconduct, and then unjustly thrown into prison. The Lord also brought about good things through these difficult circumstances (50:20).

39:8-9 Although he lived long before the giving of the law through Moses, Joseph recognized that sleeping with his master's wife would be a great evil and a sin against God. Earlier, Abimelech, the king of Gerar, likewise recognized that adultery is a sin (20:3-10). Other mentions of sin thus far in Genesis are found in relation to Cain (4:7) and Sodom (18:20). As Romans 5:13 says, sin was in the world before the law.

JOSEPH INTERPRETS TWO PRISONERS' DREAMS

40 After this, the king of Egypt's cupbearer † and baker offended their master, the king of Egypt. 2 Pharaoh was angry with his two officers, the chief cupbearer and the chief baker, 3 and put them in custody in the house of the captain of the guards † in the prison where Joseph was confined. 4 The captain of the guards assigned Joseph to them as their personal attendant, and they were in custody for some time. † 5 The king of Egypt's cupbearer and baker, who were confined in the prison, each had a dream. Both had a dream on the same night, and each dream had its own meaning. 6 When Joseph came to them in the morning, he saw that they looked distraught. 7 So he asked Pharaoh's officers who were in custody with him in his master's house, "Why do you look so sad today?" † 8 "We had dreams," they said to him, "but there is no one to interpret them." Then Joseph said to them, "Don't interpretations belong to God? Tell me your dreams." † 9 So the chief cupbearer told his dream to Joseph: "In my dream there was a vine in front of me. 10 On the vine were three branches. As soon as it budded, its blossoms came out and its clusters ripened into grapes. 11 Pharaoh's cup was in my hand, and I took the grapes, squeezed them into Pharaoh's cup, and placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand." 12 "This is its interpretation," † Joseph said to him. "The three branches are three days. 13 In just three days Pharaoh will lift up your head † and restore you to your position. You will put Pharaoh's cup in his hand the way you used to when you were his cupbearer. 14 But when all goes well for you, remember that I was with you. Please show kindness to me by mentioning me to Pharaoh, and get me out of this prison. 15 For I was kidnapped from the land of the Hebrews, † and even here I have done nothing that they should put me in the dungeon." † †
16 When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was positive, he said to Joseph, "I also had a dream. Three baskets of white bread were on my head. 17
In the top basket were all sorts of baked goods for Pharaoh, but the birds were eating them out of the basket on my head."
18 "This is its interpretation," Joseph replied. "The three baskets are three days.
19 In just three days Pharaoh will lift up your head — from off you — and hang you on a tree. † Then the birds will eat the flesh from your body.” † 20 On the third day, which was Pharaoh’s birthday, he gave a feast for all his servants. He elevated † the chief cupbearer and the chief baker among his servants. † 21 Pharaoh restored the chief cupbearer to his position as cupbearer, and he placed the cup in Pharaoh’s hand. 22 But Pharaoh hanged † the chief baker, just as Joseph had explained to them. 23 Yet the chief cupbearer did not remember Joseph; he forgot him. †

40:5-19 Once again, dreams play a key role in the Joseph narrative. Whereas before Joseph had two dreams about his eventual rule over his brothers (37:5-11), this time he interpreted the two dreams of the cupbearer and the baker. Joseph emphasized here, as he would again (41:16), that it was not by his own wisdom that he did this, for interpretations belong to God.

40:23–41:1 Though Joseph asked the cupbearer to mention him to Pharaoh and help him get out of prison (40:14-15), the cupbearer did not do so. Through this neglect, Joseph’s imprisonment was prolonged for two more years. This delay, however, led to Joseph being recommended to interpret Pharaoh’s dreams (41:8-13). The delayed recognition of a good deed parallels that of Mordecai in the book of Esther (Est 2:21-23; 6:1-3). Both instances illustrate the sovereign wisdom and goodness of God.

JOSEPH INTERPRETS PHARAOH’S DREAMS

41 At the end of two years Pharaoh had a dream: He was standing beside the Nile, † 2 when seven healthy-looking, well-fed cows came up from the Nile and began to graze among the reeds. 3 After them, seven other cows, sickly and thin, came up from the Nile and stood beside those cows along the bank of the Nile. 4 The sickly, thin cows ate the healthy, well-fed cows. Then Pharaoh woke up. 5 He fell asleep and dreamed a second time: Seven heads of grain, plump and good, came up on one stalk. 6 After them, seven heads of grain, thin and scorched by the east wind, sprouted up. 7 The thin heads of grain swallowed up the seven plump, full ones. Then Pharaoh woke up, and it was only a dream.
8 When morning came, he was troubled, † so he summoned all the magicians of Egypt and all its wise men. † Pharaoh told them his dreams, but no one could interpret them for him.

9 Then the chief cupbearer said to Pharaoh, “Today I remember my faults. 10 Pharaoh was angry with his servants, and he put me and the chief baker in the custody of the captain of the guards. 11 He and I had dreams on the same night; each dream had its own meaning. 12 Now a young Hebrew, a slave of the captain of the guards, was with us there. We told him our dreams, he interpreted our dreams for us, and each had its own interpretation. 13 It turned out just the way he interpreted them to us: I was restored to my position, and the other man was hanged.” † 14 Then Pharaoh sent for Joseph, and they quickly brought him from the dungeon. † † He shaved, changed his clothes, and went to Pharaoh. † 15 Pharaoh said to Joseph, “I have had a dream, and no one can interpret it. But I have heard it said about you that you can hear a dream and interpret it.” † 16 “I am not able to,” † Joseph answered Pharaoh. “It is God who will give Pharaoh a favorable answer.” † † 17 So Pharaoh said to Joseph: “In my dream I was standing on the bank of the Nile, 18 when seven well-fed, healthy-looking cows came up from the Nile and grazed among the reeds. 19 After them, seven other cows — weak, very sickly, and thin — came up. I’ve never seen such sickly ones as these in all the land of Egypt. 20 Then the thin, sickly cows ate the first seven well-fed cows. 21 When they had devoured them, you could not tell that they had devoured them; their appearance was as bad as it had been before. Then I woke up. 22 In my dream I also saw seven heads of grain, full and good, coming up on one stalk. 23 After them, seven heads of grain — withered, thin, and scorched by the east wind — sprouted up. 24 The thin heads of grain swallowed the seven good ones. I told this to the magicians, but no one can tell me what it means.” † 25 Then Joseph said to Pharaoh, “Pharaoh’s dreams mean the same thing. God has revealed to Pharaoh what he is about to do. † 26 The seven good cows are seven years, and the seven good heads are seven years. The dreams mean the same thing. 27 The seven thin, sickly cows that came up after them are seven years, and the seven worthless, scorched heads of grain are seven years of famine. †
28 “It is just as I told Pharaoh: God has shown Pharaoh what he is about to do.
29 Seven years of great abundance are coming throughout the land of Egypt. 30

After them, seven years of famine will take place, and all the abundance in the land of Egypt will be forgotten. The famine will devastate the land. † 31 The abundance in the land will not be remembered because of the famine that follows it, for the famine will be very severe. 32 Since the dream was given twice to Pharaoh, it means that the matter has been determined by God, and he will carry it out soon.

33 "So now, let Pharaoh look for a discerning and wise man and set him over the land of Egypt. 34 Let Pharaoh do this: Let him appoint overseers over the land and take a fifth of the harvest of the land of Egypt during the seven years of abundance. 35 Let them gather all the excess food during these good years that are coming. Under Pharaoh's authority, store the grain in the cities, so they may preserve it as food. 36 The food will be a reserve for the land during the seven years of famine that will take place in the land of Egypt. Then the country will not be wiped out by the famine."

JOSEPH EXALTED

37 The proposal pleased Pharaoh and all his servants, 38 and he said to them, "Can we find anyone like this, a man who has God's spirit † in him? " † 39 So Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Since God has made all this known to you, there is no one as discerning and wise as you are. 40 You will be over my house, and all my people will obey your commands. † † Only I, as king, † will be greater than you." 41 Pharaoh also said to Joseph, "See, I am placing you over all the land of Egypt." 42 Pharaoh removed his signet ring from his hand and put it on Joseph's hand, clothed him with fine linen garments, and placed a gold chain around his neck. † 43 He had Joseph ride in his second chariot, and servants called out before him, "Make way! " † So he placed him over all the land of Egypt. 44 Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I am Pharaoh and no one will be able to raise his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt without your permission." 45 Pharaoh gave Joseph the name Zaphenath-paneah and gave him a wife, Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest at On. † And Joseph went throughout † the land of Egypt.

JOSEPH'S ADMINISTRATION

46 Joseph was thirty years old when he entered the service of Pharaoh king of Egypt. Joseph left Pharaoh's presence and traveled throughout the land of Egypt.
47 During the seven years of abundance the land produced outstanding harvests.

48 Joseph gathered all the excess food in the land of Egypt during the seven years and put it in the cities. He put the food in every city from the fields around it. 49 So Joseph stored up grain in such abundance — like the sand of the sea — that he stopped measuring it because it was beyond measure.

50 Two sons were born to Joseph before the years of famine arrived. † Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest at On, bore them to him. 51 Joseph named the firstborn Manasseh † and said, "God has made me forget all my hardship and my whole family." 52 And the second son he named Ephraim † and said, "God has made me fruitful in the land of my affliction."

53 Then the seven years of abundance in the land of Egypt came to an end, 54 and the seven years of famine began, just as Joseph had said. There was famine in every land, but in the whole land of Egypt there was food. 55 When the whole land of Egypt was stricken with famine, the people cried out to Pharaoh for food. Pharaoh told all Egypt, "Go to Joseph and do whatever he tells you." 56 Now the famine had spread across the whole region, so Joseph opened all the storehouses and sold grain to the Egyptians, for the famine was severe in the land of Egypt. 57 Every land came to Joseph in Egypt to buy grain, for the famine was severe in every land. †

41:8 These Egyptian magicians and wise men, despite whatever spiritual power they may have had through evil spirits, were unable to interpret Pharaoh's dream. They were thus inferior to Joseph, in whom dwelt the Spirit of God (v. 38)—just as future Egyptian magicians would be inferior to Moses and Aaron (Ex 8:18-19; 9:11; see also Dn 2:2). The clear implication is that the power of God is far greater than all other spiritual powers, especially evil ones.

41:16 As in 40:8, Joseph downplayed his own inherent ability to interpret dreams and gave proper credit to God. His words resemble those of Daniel in Daniel 2:20-23,27-30.

41:25-45 Joseph interpreted another pair of dreams, this time for Pharaoh. Because of his interpretation and his proposal regarding the famine, Joseph was described as a man who has God's spirit in him, who was discerning and wise (see also Ps 105:22). Whereas earlier he had hoped merely to be released from prison (40:14-15), the additional two-year delay and his interpretation of Pharaoh's dreams led to his release and exaltation to the second highest position in Egypt. This exaltation, in fact, would be a key factor in the fulfillment of Joseph's own dreams (37:5-10; 42:6; 43:26-28).

41:51-57 The naming of Joseph's boys gives a rare glimpse into Joseph's suffering from his own perspective. He referred to all my hardship and called Egypt the land of my affliction. Despite these troubles, he recognized that God had made him fruitful. Furthermore, Joseph's wise planning for the famine saved the lives of both Egyptians and the surrounding peoples, including his own family (42:1-3). The international scope of his ministry is reminiscent of 12:3 ("all the peoples on earth will be blessed through you") and foreshadows the messianic fulfillment of this prophecy (see 49:8-12).

JOSEPH'S BROTHERS IN EGYPT

42 When Jacob learned that there was grain in Egypt, † he said to his sons, "Why do you keep looking at each other? 2 Listen," he went on, "I have heard there is grain in Egypt. Go down there and buy some for us so that we will live and not die." † 3 So ten of Joseph's brothers went down to buy grain from Egypt. 4 But Jacob did not send Joseph's brother Benjamin with his brothers, for he thought, "Something might happen to him."

5 The sons of Israel were among those who came to buy grain, for the famine was in the land of Canaan. 6 Joseph was in charge of the country; he sold grain to all its people. His brothers came and bowed down before him with their faces to the ground. † 7 When Joseph saw his brothers, he recognized them, but he treated them like strangers and spoke harshly to them.

"Where do you come from? " he asked.

"From the land of Canaan to buy food," they replied.

8 Although Joseph recognized his brothers, they did not recognize him. 9 Joseph remembered his dreams about them † and said to them, "You are spies. You have come to see the weakness † of the land."

10 "No, my lord. Your servants have come to buy food," they said. 11 "We are all sons of one man. We are honest; your servants are not spies."

12 "No," he said to them. "You have come to see the weakness of the land."

13 But they replied, "We, your servants, were twelve brothers, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan. The youngest is now † with our father, and one is no longer living."

14 Then Joseph said to them, "I have spoken: † 'You are spies! ' 15 This is how you will be tested: As surely as Pharaoh lives, you will not leave this place unless your youngest brother comes here. 16 Send one from among you to get your brother. The rest of you will be imprisoned so that your words can be tested to see if they are true. If they are not, then as surely as Pharaoh lives, you are spies! ” 17 So Joseph imprisoned them together for three days.

18 On the third day Joseph said to them, “I fear God † — do this and you will live. 19 If you are honest, let one of you † be confined to the guardhouse, while the rest of you go and take grain to relieve the hunger of your households. 20 Bring your youngest brother to me so that your words can be confirmed; then you won’t die.” And they consented to this.
21 Then they said to each other, “Obviously, we are being punished for what we did to our brother. We saw his deep distress when he pleaded with us, but we would not listen. That is why this trouble has come to us.” †
22 But Reuben replied: “Didn’t I tell you not to harm the boy? † But you wouldn’t listen. Now we must account for his blood! ” †
23 They did not realize that Joseph understood them, since there was an interpreter between them. 24 He turned away from them and wept. When he turned back and spoke to them, he took Simeon from them and had him bound before their eyes. 25 Joseph then gave orders to fill their containers with grain, return each man’s silver to his sack, and give them provisions for their journey. This order was carried out. 26 They loaded the grain on their donkeys and left there.

THE BROTHERS RETURN HOME

27 At the place where they lodged for the night, one of them opened his sack to get feed for his donkey, and he saw his silver there at the top of his bag. 28 He said to his brothers, “My silver has been returned! It’s here in my bag.” Their hearts sank. Trembling, they turned to one another and said, “What is this that God has done to us? ”
29 When they reached their father Jacob in the land of Canaan, they told him all that had happened to them: 30 “The man who is the lord of the country spoke harshly to us and accused us of spying on the country. 31 But we told him: We are honest and not spies. 32 We were twelve brothers, sons of the same † father. One is no longer living, and the youngest is now with our father in the land of Canaan. 33 The man who is the lord of the country said to us, ‘This is how I will know if you are honest: Leave one brother with me, take food to relieve the hunger of your households, and go. 34 Bring back your youngest brother to me, and I will know that you are not spies but honest men. I will then give your brother back to you, and you can trade in the country.' "

35 As they began emptying their sacks, there in each man's sack was his bag of silver! When they and their father saw their bags of silver, they were afraid.
36 Their father Jacob said to them, "It's me that you make childless. Joseph is gone, and Simeon is gone. Now you want to take Benjamin. Everything happens to me! "
37 Then Reuben said to his father, "You can kill my two sons if I don't bring him back to you. Put him in my care, † and I will return him to you."
38 But Jacob answered, "My son will not go down with you, for his brother is dead and he alone is left. † If anything happens to him on your journey, you will bring my gray hairs down to Sheol in sorrow." †

42:6,9 Joseph's dreams about his brothers bowing down to him had come true (see 37:5-10; 43:26-28). The complexity of the sequence of events leading up to this is a testimony to the sovereignty of God.

42:14-20 Joseph's request to see Benjamin, the youngest brother, may have been motivated by a desire to know how his full brother was being treated by their half brothers. Benjamin was favored by Jacob (v. 4), just as Joseph had been. For Joseph, this led to his brothers' jealousy and mistreatment of him.

42:21-23 Joseph's brothers recognized that what they had done to him years ago was wrong. It was deeply moving for Joseph, who communicated through an interpreter, to hear this confession of guilt concerning what he had suffered at their hands.

42:33-34 Joseph's repeated questioning of his brothers' honesty (see also vv. 16,19) is fitting given their earlier lie about his supposed death by a vicious animal (37:20,31-33; see also 42:13).

42:37-38 Once again, Reuben's plans were thwarted (see 37:21-22,29-30; 42:22).

DECISION TO RETURN TO EGYPT

43 Now the famine in the land was severe. † 2 When they had used up the grain they had brought back from Egypt, their father said to them, "Go back and buy us a little food."
3 But Judah said to him, "The man specifically warned us: 'You will not see me again unless your brother is with you.' 4 If you will send our brother with us, we will go down and buy food for you. 5 But if you will not send him, we will not go, for the man said to us, 'You will not see me again unless your brother is with you.' " †

6 “Why have you caused me so much trouble?” Israel asked. “Why did you tell the man that you had another brother?” 7 They answered, “The man kept asking about us and our family: ‘Is your father still alive? Do you have another brother?’ And we answered him accordingly.
How could we know that he would say, ‘Bring your brother here’?” 8 Then Judah said to his father Israel, “Send the boy with me. We will be on our way so that we may live and not die — neither we, nor you, nor our dependents.
9 I will be responsible for him. You can hold me personally accountable! † If I do not bring him back to you and set him before you, I will be guilty before you forever. † 10 If we had not delayed, we could have come back twice by now.” 11 Then their father Israel said to them, “If it must be so, then do this: Put some of the best products of the land in your packs and take them down to the man as a gift — a little balsam and a little honey, aromatic gum and resin, pistachios and almonds. † 12 Take twice as much silver with you. Return the silver that was returned to you in the top of your bags. Perhaps it was a mistake. 13 Take your brother also, and go back at once to the man. 14 May God Almighty cause the man to be merciful to you so that he will release your other brother and Benjamin to you. As for me, if I am deprived of my sons, then I am deprived.” †

THE RETURN TO EGYPT

15 The men took this gift, double the amount of silver, and Benjamin. They immediately went down to Egypt and stood before Joseph.
16 When Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to his steward, “Take the men to my house. Slaughter an animal and prepare it, for they will eat with me at noon.” 17 The man did as Joseph had said and brought them to Joseph’s house.
18 But the men were afraid because they were taken to Joseph’s house. They said, “We have been brought here because of the silver that was returned in our bags the first time. They intend to overpower us, seize us, make us slaves, and take our donkeys.” 19 So they approached Joseph’s steward † and spoke to him at the doorway of the house.
20 They said, “My lord, we really did come down here the first time only to buy food. 21 When we came to the place where we lodged for the night and opened our bags of grain, each one’s silver was at the top of his bag! † It was the full amount of our silver, and we have brought it back with us. 22 We have brought additional silver with us to buy food. We don't know who put our silver in the bags."

23 Then the steward said, "May you be well. Don't be afraid. Your God and the God of your father must have put treasure in your bags. I received your silver." Then he brought Simeon out to them. 24 The steward brought the men into Joseph's house, gave them water to wash their feet, † and got feed for their donkeys. 25 Since the men had heard that they were going to eat a meal there, they prepared their gift for Joseph's arrival at noon. 26 When Joseph came home, they brought him the gift they had carried into the house, and they bowed to the ground before him.
27 He asked if they were well, and he said, "How is your elderly father that you told me about? Is he still alive?"
28 They answered, "Your servant our father is well. He is still alive." And they knelt low and paid homage to him.
29 When he looked up and saw his brother Benjamin, his mother's son, he asked, "Is this your youngest brother that you told me about?" Then he said, "May God be gracious to you, my son." 30 Joseph hurried out because he was overcome with emotion for his brother, and he was about to weep. He went into an inner room and wept there. 31 Then he washed his face and came out. Regaining his composure, † he said, "Serve the meal."
32 They served him by himself, his brothers by themselves, and the Egyptians who were eating with him by themselves, because Egyptians could not eat with Hebrews, since that is detestable to them. † 33 They were seated before him in order by age, from the firstborn to the youngest. The men looked at each other in astonishment. 34 Portions were served to them from Joseph's table, and Benjamin's portion was five times larger than any of theirs. † They drank and became drunk with Joseph.

43:3-10 Reuben's pledge to Jacob had been rejected (42:37-38), but Judah's was accepted. This parallels the earlier situation in which Reuben's plan to save Joseph from his brothers was thwarted, whereas Judah's proposal to sell him was accepted by them (37:21-30).

43:12,15 Jacob instructed his sons to act honestly regarding the silver that was returned, and they obeyed.

43:20-23 Joseph's reason for returning his brothers' payment for the grain is not explained explicitly (42:25-28,35). Perhaps Joseph did not want to charge his brothers. The steward's response did not reveal Joseph's involvement but encouraged his brothers to see the returned payment as a gift from the God of their father.

43:32 This brief comment that eating with the Hebrews would be detestable to the Egyptians not only gives a small insight into Egyptian culture of that time but also indicates an animosity between the two groups (see also 12:10-20; 16:1-6; 21:8-21). This tension is brought up again through similar statements in 46:34 and Exodus 8:26.

JOSEPH'S FINAL TEST

44 Joseph commanded his steward, "Fill the men's bags with as much food as they can carry, and put each one's silver at the top of his bag. † 2 Put my cup, the silver one, at the top of the youngest one's bag, along with the silver for his grain." So he did as Joseph told him.
3 At morning light, the men were sent off with their donkeys. 4 They had not gone very far from the city when Joseph said to his steward, "Get up. Pursue the men, and when you overtake them, say to them, 'Why have you repaid evil for good? 5 Isn't this the cup that my master drinks from and uses for divination? †
What you have done is wrong! ' "
6 When he overtook them, he said these words to them. 7 They said to him, "Why does my lord say these things? Your servants could not possibly do such a thing. 8 We even brought back to you from the land of Canaan the silver we found at the top of our bags. How could we steal silver or gold from your master's house? 9 If it is found with one of us, your servants, he must die, and the rest of us will become my lord's slaves." † 10 The steward replied, "What you have said is right, but only the one who is found to have it will be my slave, and the rest of you will be blameless." 11 So each one quickly lowered his sack to the ground and opened it. 12 The steward searched, beginning with the oldest and ending with the youngest, and the cup was found in Benjamin's sack. 13 Then they tore their clothes, † and each one loaded his donkey and returned to the city.
14 When Judah and his brothers reached Joseph's house, he was still there. They fell to the ground before him. † 15 "What is this you have done? " Joseph said to them. "Didn't you know that a man like me could uncover the truth by divination? "

16 “What can we say to my lord? ” Judah replied. “How can we plead? How can we justify ourselves? God has exposed your servants’ iniquity. We are now my lord’s slaves — both we and the one in whose possession the cup was found.”
17 Then Joseph said, “I swear that I will not do this. The man in whose possession the cup was found will be my slave. The rest of you can go in peace to your father.”

JUDAH’S PLEA FOR BENJAMIN

18 But Judah approached him and said, “My lord, please let your servant speak personally to my lord. † Do not be angry with your servant, for you are like Pharaoh. † 19 My lord asked his servants, ‘Do you have a father or a brother? ’ 20 and we answered my lord, ‘We have an elderly father and a younger brother, the child of his old age. † The boy’s brother is dead. He is the only one of his mother’s sons left, and his father loves him.’ 21 Then you said to your servants, ‘Bring him to me so that I can see him.’ † 22 But we said to my lord, ‘The boy cannot leave his father. If he were to leave, his father would die.’ 23 Then you said to your servants, ‘If your younger brother does not come down with you, you will not see me again.’ †
24 “This is what happened when we went back to your servant my father: We reported to him the words of my lord. 25 But our father said, ‘Go again, and buy us a little food.’ † 26 We told him, ‘We cannot go down unless our younger brother goes with us. If our younger brother isn’t with us, we cannot see the man.’ 27 Your servant my father said to us, ‘You know that my wife bore me two sons. 28 One is gone from me — I said he must have been torn to pieces — and I have never seen him again. † 29 If you also take this one from me and anything happens to him, you will bring my gray hairs down to Sheol in sorrow.’ †
30 “So if I come to your servant my father and the boy is not with us — his life is wrapped up with the boy’s life — 31 when he sees that the boy is not with us, he will die. Then your servants will have brought the gray hairs of your servant our father down to Sheol in sorrow. 32 Your servant became accountable to my father for the boy, saying, ‘If I do not return him to you, I will always bear the guilt for sinning against you, my father.’ † 33 Now please let your servant remain here as my lord's slave, in place of the boy. Let him go back with his brothers. 34 For how can I go back to my father without the boy? I could not bear to see the grief that would overwhelm my father."

44:1-13 Joseph's scheme to secretly put his silver cup in Benjamin's bag worked perfectly. After his steward pursued the brothers and accused them of stealing, they promised that the guilty party must die, while the rest of them became Joseph's slaves. Without knowing it, they were implicating both Benjamin and themselves.

44:17-34 Joseph's intent to enslave Benjamin only led to Judah's lengthy plea. As was the case in 43:3-10, Judah exercised leadership positively as he explained how precious Benjamin was to his father. His selfless offer of himself as a substitute for Benjamin demonstrated a remarkable transformation from his earlier days when he suggested to his brothers that they sell Joseph to the Ishmaelites (37:26-27) and when he mistreated his daughter-in-law Tamar, slept with her unwittingly, and called for her death (38:11-24).

JOSEPH REVEALS HIS IDENTITY

45 Joseph could no longer keep his composure in front of all his attendants, † so he called out, "Send everyone away from me! " No one was with him when he revealed his identity to his brothers. † 2 But he wept so loudly that the Egyptians heard it, and also Pharaoh's household heard it. 3 Joseph said to his brothers, "I am Joseph! Is my father still living? " But they could not answer him because they were terrified in his presence.

4 Then Joseph said to his brothers, "Please, come near me," and they came near. "I am Joseph, your brother," he said, "the one you sold into Egypt. † 5 And now don't be grieved or angry with yourselves for selling me here, because God sent me ahead of you to preserve life. † 6 For the famine has been in the land these two years, and there will be five more years without plowing or harvesting. 7 God sent me ahead of you to establish you as a remnant within the land and to keep you alive by a great deliverance. † 8 Therefore it was not you who sent me here, but God. He has made me a father to Pharaoh, lord of his entire household, and ruler over all the land of Egypt.

9 "Return quickly to my father and say to him, 'This is what your son Joseph says: "God has made me lord of all Egypt. Come down to me without delay. 10 You can settle in the land of Goshen † and be near me — you, your children, and your grandchildren, your flocks, your herds, and all you have. 11 There I will sustain you, for there will be five more years of famine. Otherwise, you, your household, and everything you have will become destitute.” ’ † 12 Look! Your eyes and the eyes of my brother Benjamin can see that I’m † the one speaking to you. 13 Tell my father about all my glory in Egypt and about all you have seen. And bring my father here quickly.” †

14 Then Joseph threw his arms around his brother Benjamin and wept, and Benjamin wept on his shoulder. 15 Joseph kissed each of his brothers as he wept, † and afterward his brothers talked with him.

THE RETURN FOR JACOB

16 When the news reached Pharaoh’s palace, “Joseph’s brothers have come,” Pharaoh and his servants were pleased. 17 Pharaoh said to Joseph, “Tell your brothers, ‘Do this: Load your animals and go on back to the land of Canaan. 18 Get your father and your families, and come back to me. I will give you the best of the land of Egypt, and you can eat from the richness of the land.’ 19 You are also commanded to tell them, ‘Do this: Take wagons from the land of Egypt for your dependents and your wives and bring your father here. † 20 Do not be concerned about your belongings, for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours.’ ” †

21 The sons of Israel did this. Joseph gave them wagons as Pharaoh had commanded, and he gave them provisions for the journey. 22 He gave each of the brothers changes of clothes, † but he gave Benjamin three hundred pieces of silver and five changes of clothes. † 23 He sent his father the following: ten donkeys carrying the best products of Egypt and ten female donkeys carrying grain, food, and provisions for his father on the journey. 24 So Joseph sent his brothers on their way, and as they were leaving, he said to them, “Don’t argue † on the way.”

25 So they went up from Egypt and came to their father Jacob in the land of Canaan. 26 They said, “Joseph is still alive, and he is ruler over all the land of Egypt! ” Jacob was stunned, † for he did not believe them. 27 But when they told Jacob all that Joseph had said to them, and when he saw the wagons that Joseph had sent to transport him, the spirit of their father Jacob revived.

28 Then Israel said, “Enough! My son Joseph is still alive. I will go to see him before I die.”

45:4-8 Joseph’s mercy toward his brothers was rooted in his recognition that God had been working for his own good purposes through their evil intentions (see also 50:20). It is true that his brothers had wrongly sold him into Egypt, but the bigger picture was that God sent him ahead of them to preserve life. The Lord knew about the famine long beforehand and sent Joseph to prepare for their sake. Joseph’s confidence in the sovereignty of God shines through his statement, It was not you who sent me here, but God.

45:12,26 Upon discovering Joseph’s true identity, his brothers were terrified (v. 3), and Joseph continued to assure them that it was indeed him. Likewise, Jacob, long under the false impression that Joseph was dead (see 37:33-35), was stunned to hear that he was alive in Egypt.

JACOB LEAVES FOR EGYPT

46 Israel set out with all that he had and came to Beer-sheba, † and he offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. 2 That night God spoke to Israel in a vision: † “Jacob, Jacob! ” he said.
And Jacob replied, “Here I am.”
3 God said, “I am God, the God of your father. Do not be afraid to go down to Egypt, for I will make you into a great nation there. † 4 I will go down with you to Egypt, and I will also bring you back. † Joseph will close your eyes when you die.” † †
5 Jacob left Beer-sheba. The sons of Israel took their father Jacob in the wagons Pharaoh had sent to carry him, † along with their dependents and their wives. 6 They also took their cattle and possessions they had acquired in the land of Canaan. Then Jacob and all his offspring with him came to Egypt. † 7 His sons and grandsons, his daughters and granddaughters, indeed all his offspring, he brought with him to Egypt.

JACOB’S FAMILY

8 These are the names of the sons of Israel who came to Egypt † — Jacob and his sons:

Jacob’s firstborn: Reuben.

9 Reuben’s sons: † Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

10 Simeon’s sons: † Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman.

11 Levi’s sons: † Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

12 Judah’s sons: Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah; but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan.

The sons † of Perez were Hezron and Hamul.

13 Issachar’s sons: † Tola, Puvah, † Jashub, † and Shimron.

14 Zebulun’s sons: Sered, Elon, and Jahleel.

15 These were Leah’s sons born to Jacob in Paddan-aram, as well as his daughter Dinah. The total number of persons: † thirty-three.

16 Gad’s sons: Ziphion, Haggi, Shuni, Ezbon, Eri, Arodi, and Areli.

17 Asher’s sons: † Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, Beriah, and their sister Serah.

Beriah’s sons were Heber and Malchiel.

18 These were the sons of Zilpah — whom Laban gave to his daughter Leah — that she bore to Jacob: sixteen persons.

19 The sons of Jacob’s wife Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin.

20 Manasseh and Ephraim were born to Joseph in the land of Egypt. They were born to him by Asenath daughter of Potiphera, a priest at On. †

21 Benjamin’s sons: † Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppim, Huppim, and Ard.

22 These were Rachel’s sons who were born to Jacob:
fourteen persons.

23 Dan’s son: † Hushim.

24 Naphtali’s sons: † Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and Shillem.

25 These were the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban gave to his daughter Rachel. † She bore to Jacob: seven persons.

26 The total number of persons belonging to Jacob — his direct descendants, † not including the wives of Jacob’s sons — who came to Egypt: sixty-six.

27 And Joseph’s sons who were born to him in Egypt: two persons.
All those of Jacob’s household who came to Egypt:
seventy † persons. †

JACOB ARRIVES IN EGYPT

28 Now Jacob had sent Judah ahead of him to Joseph to prepare for his arrival † at Goshen. † When they came to the land of Goshen, 29 Joseph hitched the horses to his chariot and went up to Goshen to meet his father Israel. Joseph presented himself to him, threw his arms around him, and wept for a long time. †
30 Then Israel said to Joseph, “I’m ready to die now because I have seen your face and you are still alive! ”
31 Joseph said to his brothers and to his father’s family, “I will go up and inform Pharaoh, telling him, ‘My brothers and my father’s family, who were in the land of Canaan, have come to me. † 32 The men are shepherds; they also raise livestock. They have brought their flocks and herds and all that they have.’ 33 When Pharaoh addresses you and asks, ‘What is your occupation? ’ 34 you are to say, ‘Your servants, both we and our fathers, have raised livestock † from our youth until now.’ Then you will be allowed to settle in the land of Goshen, since all shepherds are detestable to Egyptians.” †

46:2-4 God reassured Jacob that leaving the land promised to him for Egypt was the right thing to do. He reaffirmed the covenantal promise that I will make you into a great nation (see 12:2) and pledged that they would be brought back. Their sojourn "as foreigners in a land that does not belong to them" had been foretold in 15:13.

46:28-34 As Joseph had suggested (45:10), his family arrived in Goshen, with Judah leading the way. Joseph instructed his brothers to tell Pharaoh that they were shepherds so that they would be allowed to settle there (see the note on 43:32). They followed his instructions, and all went as planned (47:2-6). Goshen was the best part of the land and apparently was associated with the land of Rameses (v. 11; see also Ex 1:11).

PHARAOH WELCOMES JACOB

47 So Joseph went and informed Pharaoh: "My father and my brothers, with their flocks and herds and all that they own, have come from the land of Canaan and are now in the land of Goshen." † 2 He took five of his brothers and presented them to Pharaoh. † 3 And Pharaoh asked his brothers, "What is your occupation? "
They said to Pharaoh, "Your servants, both we and our fathers, are shepherds." † 4 And they said to Pharaoh, "We have come to stay in the land for a while because there is no grazing land for your servants' sheep, since the famine in the land of Canaan has been severe. † So now, please let your servants settle in the land of Goshen." 5 Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Now that your father and brothers have come to you, 6 the land of Egypt is open before you; settle your father and brothers in the best part of the land. † They can live in the land of Goshen. If you know of any capable men among them, put them in charge of my livestock." † 7 Joseph then brought his father Jacob and presented him to Pharaoh, and Jacob blessed Pharaoh. 8 Pharaoh said to Jacob, "How many years have you lived? " 9 Jacob said to Pharaoh, "My pilgrimage † has lasted 130 years. My years have been few and hard, † and they have not reached the years of my fathers during their pilgrimages." † 10 So Jacob blessed Pharaoh and departed from Pharaoh's presence.

11 Then Joseph settled his father and brothers in the land of Egypt and gave them property in the best part of the land, the land of Rameses, † as Pharaoh had commanded. 12 And Joseph provided his father, his brothers, and all his father's family with food for their dependents. †

THE LAND BECOMES PHARAOH'S

13 But there was no food in the entire region, for the famine was very severe. The land of Egypt and the land of Canaan were exhausted by the famine. 14 Joseph collected all the silver to be found in the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan in exchange for the grain they were purchasing, and he brought the silver to Pharaoh's palace. † 15 When the silver from the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan was gone, all the Egyptians came to Joseph and said, "Give us food. Why should we die here in front of you? The silver is gone! "

16 But Joseph said, "Give me your livestock. Since the silver is gone, I will give you food in exchange for your livestock." 17 So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and he gave them food in exchange for the horses, the flocks of sheep, the herds of cattle, and the donkeys. That year he provided them with food in exchange for all their livestock.

18 When that year was over, they came the next year and said to him, "We cannot hide from our lord that the silver is gone and that all our livestock belongs to our lord. There is nothing left for our lord except our bodies and our land. 19 Why should we die here in front of you — both us and our land? Buy us and our land in exchange for food. Then we with our land will become Pharaoh's slaves. Give us seed so that we can live and not die, and so that the land won't become desolate."

20 In this way, Joseph acquired all the land in Egypt for Pharaoh, because every Egyptian sold his field since the famine was so severe for them. The land became Pharaoh's, 21 and Joseph moved the people to the cities † from one end of Egypt to the other. 22 The only land he did not acquire belonged to the priests, for they had an allowance from Pharaoh. They ate from their allowance that Pharaoh gave them; therefore they did not sell their land.

23 Joseph said to the people, "Understand today that I have acquired you and your land for Pharaoh. Here is seed for you. Sow it in the land. 24 At harvest, you are to give a fifth of it to Pharaoh, † and four-fifths will be yours as seed for the field and as food for yourselves, your households, and your dependents."

25 "You have saved our lives," they said. "We have found favor with our lord and will be Pharaoh's slaves." 26 So Joseph made it a law, still in effect today in the land of Egypt, that a fifth of the produce belongs to Pharaoh. Only the priests' land does not belong to Pharaoh.

ISRAEL SETTLES IN GOSHEN

27 Israel settled in the land of Egypt, in the region of Goshen. They acquired property in it and became fruitful and very numerous. † 28 Now Jacob lived in the land of Egypt 17 years, and his life span was 147 years. 29 When the time approached for him to die, † he called his son Joseph and said to him, "If I have found favor with you, put your hand under my thigh † and promise me that you will deal with me in kindness and faithfulness. † Do not bury me in Egypt. 30 When I rest with my fathers, carry me away from Egypt and bury me in their burial place." †
Joseph answered, "I will do what you have asked."
31 And Jacob said, "Swear to me." So Joseph swore to him. Then Israel bowed in thanks at the head of his bed. † †

47:9 Jacob referred to his life and those of his fathers as pilgrimages. The same Hebrew word is used several times to describe the land promised to them (17:8; 28:4; 37:1). This agrees with Heb 11:9-10: "[Abraham] stayed as a foreigner in the land of promise, living in tents as did Isaac and Jacob . . . he was looking forward to the city . . . , whose architect . . . "

47:22 Like later Israelite priests, Egyptian priests received some special treatment and were supported financially by others.

47:25 The biblical narrative continues to portray Joseph as someone who saved lives (see also vv. 15,19; 41:36; 42:2; 45:5,7).

47:27 That Israel became fruitful and very numerous while in Egypt shows God's faithfulness to his promise to multiply them (13:16; 15:5). It also recalls his earlier commands to Adam (1:28) and to Noah

(9:1). The large size of their population would play a role in their eventual enslavement by the Egyptians (Ex 1:7).

47:29-30 Joseph swore to his father Jacob that he would be buried with his fathers, and Jacob indeed would be buried in the cave at Machpelah in the field near Mamre, where Abraham, Sarah, Isaac, Rebekah, and Leah were buried (49:29-33; 50:13).

JACOB BLESSES EPHRAIM AND MANASSEH

48 Some time after this, Joseph was told, "Your father is weaker." So he set out with his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim. 2 When Jacob was told, "Your son Joseph has come to you," Israel summoned his strength and sat up in bed.

3 Jacob said to Joseph, "God Almighty † appeared to me at Luz † in the land of Canaan and blessed me. 4 He said to me, 'I will make you fruitful and numerous; I will make many nations come from you, and I will give this land as a permanent possession † to your future descendants.' † 5 Your two sons † born to you in the land of Egypt before I came to you in Egypt are now mine. † Ephraim and Manasseh belong to me just as Reuben and Simeon do. 6 Children born to you after them will be yours and will be recorded under the names of their brothers with regard to their inheritance. 7 When I was returning from Paddan, to my sorrow Rachel died along the way, † some distance from Ephrath in the land of Canaan. I buried her there along the way to Ephrath" (that is, Bethlehem).

8 When Israel saw Joseph's sons, he said, "Who are these? "

9 And Joseph said to his father, "They are my sons God has given me here."

So Israel said, "Bring them to me and I will bless them." † 10 Now his eyesight was poor because of old age; he could hardly † see. † Joseph brought them to him, and he kissed and embraced them. † 11 Israel said to Joseph, "I never expected to see your face again, but now God has even let me see your offspring." 12 Then Joseph took them from his father's knees and bowed with his face to the ground. †

EPHRAIM'S GREATER BLESSING

Ephraim, the younger, and crossing his hands, put his left on Manasseh's head, although Manasseh was the firstborn. † 15 Then he blessed Joseph and said:

The God before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, † the God who has been my shepherd † all my life to this day, 16 the angel who has redeemed me from all harm † — may he bless these boys.
And may they be called by my name and the names of my fathers Abraham and Isaac, † and may they grow to be numerous within the land.

17 When Joseph saw that his father had placed his right hand on Ephraim's head, he thought it was a mistake † and took his father's hand to move it from Ephraim's head to Manasseh's. 18 Joseph said to his father, "Not that way, my father! This one is the firstborn. Put your right hand on his head."
19 But his father refused and said, "I know, my son, I know! He too will become a tribe, † and he too will be great; nevertheless, his younger brother will be greater than he, and his offspring will become a populous nation." † 20 So he blessed them that day, putting Ephraim before Manasseh when he said, "The nation Israel will invoke blessings by you, saying, 'May God make you like Ephraim and Manasseh.' "
21 Israel said to Joseph, "Look, I am about to die, but God will be with you and will bring you back to the land of your fathers. † 22 Over and above what I am giving your brothers, I am giving you the one mountain slope † that I took from the Amorites with my sword and bow." †

48:5 Jacob's inclusion of Joseph's sons among his own would later be reflected in Ephraim and Manasseh each becoming a tribe like the other sons of Jacob (e.g., Nm 1).

48:13-20 The births of Joseph's two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, were described in 41:50-52. Jacob's greater blessing of the younger Ephraim compared to the firstborn Manasseh continues the pattern of a younger brother surpassing a firstborn son, as seen with Cain and Abel, Ishmael and Isaac, Esau and Jacob, and Reuben and Judah. These examples demonstrate God's nonconformity to human expectation and convention.

JACOB'S LAST WORDS

49 Then Jacob called his sons and said, "Gather around, and I will tell you what will happen to you in the days to come. † †

2 Come together and listen, sons of Jacob; listen to your father Israel:

3 Reuben, you are my firstborn, † my strength and the firstfruits of my virility, † excelling in prominence, excelling in power.
4 Turbulent as water, you will not excel, because you got into your father's bed † and you defiled it — he † got into my bed.

5 Simeon and Levi are brothers; their knives are vicious weapons. †
6 May I never enter their council; may I never join their assembly.
For in their anger they kill men, and on a whim they hamstring oxen.
7 Their anger is cursed, for it is strong, and their fury, for it is cruel!
I will disperse them throughout Jacob and scatter them throughout Israel. †

8 Judah, your brothers will praise you. †
Your hand will be on the necks of your enemies; your father's sons will bow down to you. † 9 Judah is a young lion † — my son, you return from the kill.
He crouches; he lies down like a lion or a lioness — who dares to rouse him?
10 The scepter will not depart from Judah or the staff from between his feet until he whose right it is comes † † and the obedience of the peoples belongs to him. † 11 He ties his donkey to a vine, and the colt of his donkey to the choice vine.

He washes his clothes in wine and his robes in the blood of grapes.
12 His eyes are darker than wine, and his teeth are whiter than milk.

13 Zebulun will live by the seashore and will be a harbor for ships, and his territory will be next to Sidon. †

14 Issachar is a strong donkey lying down between the saddlebags. † 15 He saw that his resting place was good and that the land was pleasant, so he leaned his shoulder to bear a load and became a forced laborer. †

16 Dan will judge his people † as one of the tribes of Israel.
17 Dan will be a snake by the road, a viper beside the path, that bites the horse's heels
so that its rider falls backward.

18 I wait for your salvation, LORD.

19 Gad will be attacked by raiders, but he will attack their heels. †

20 Asher's † food will be rich, and he will produce royal delicacies. †

21 Naphtali is a doe set free that bears beautiful fawns. †

22 Joseph is a fruitful vine, a fruitful vine beside a spring; its branches † climb over the wall. †
23 The archers attacked him, shot at him, and were hostile toward him.
24 Yet his bow remained steady, and his strong arms were made agile by the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob, † by the name of † the Shepherd, † the Rock of Israel, † 25 by the God of your father who helps you, and by the Almighty who blesses you with blessings of the heavens above, blessings of the deep that lies below,

and blessings of the breasts and the womb.
26 The blessings of your father excel the blessings of my ancestors † and † the bounty of the ancient hills. † † May they rest on the head of Joseph,
on the brow of the prince of his brothers.

27 Benjamin is a wolf; he tears his prey.
In the morning he devours the prey, and in the evening he divides the plunder." †

28 These are the tribes of Israel, twelve in all, and this is what their father said to them. He blessed them, and he blessed each one with a suitable blessing.

JACOB'S BURIAL INSTRUCTIONS

29 Then he commanded them: "I am about to be gathered to my people. † Bury me with my fathers † in the cave in the field of Ephron the Hethite. † 30 The cave is in the field of Machpelah near Mamre, in the land of Canaan. This is the field Abraham purchased from Ephron the Hethite as burial property. † 31 Abraham and his wife Sarah are buried there, † Isaac and his wife Rebekah are buried there, † and I buried Leah there. † 32 The field and the cave in it were purchased from the Hethites." 33 When Jacob had finished giving charges to his sons, he drew his feet into the bed, took his last breath, and was gathered to his people.

49:1 This verse begins a key chapter in Genesis and in the Pentateuch as a whole. It contains one of the Pentateuch's four major poetic sections (vv. 2-27), the others being Exodus 15:1-18; Numbers 23:7-10,18-24 and 24:3-9,15-19; and Deuteronomy 32–33. Each of these sections consists of lengthier portions of poetry than are found elsewhere in the Pentateuch, and three of them involve the main character in the narrative calling an audience together to declare what will happen in the last days. That the Hebrew phrase used here does not merely refer to the future generally (as in the days to come could be taken to mean) is supported by its consistent usage elsewhere in the OT to refer to "the last days" (e.g., Is 2:2; Jr 48:47; 49:39; Ezk 38:16; Dn 10:14; Hs 3:5). Such an eschatological understanding of this phrase fits with the important messianic prophecy that follows in verses 8-12 (see also the note on 1:1).

49:8-12 Following Jacob's verse 1 declaration of what will happen "in the days to come" (see previous note) is a key messianic prophecy. From the line of Judah, who had played a leading role in the preceding narrative (43:3-10; 44:14-34; 46:28), will come a ruler, who will reign over his brothers and other peoples (vv. 8,10; 37:5-10; 41:40-44,56-57). Such rule by a descendant of Abraham had already been predicted in 27:29, had been pictured in part through Joseph, and would be fulfilled by the Messiah (see also 3:15; 12:3). Other details of this prophecy, such as his being compared to a lion, his association with a donkey and its colt, and his clothes being wet with wine and the blood of grapes connect this passage with messianic passages elsewhere (respectively, Nm 24:9; Zch 9:9; Is 63:1-6).

49:29-33 This is what Jacob had requested earlier in 47:29-31, and Joseph had sworn to carry it out.

JACOB'S BURIAL

50 Then Joseph, leaning over his father's face, wept and kissed him. 2 He commanded his servants who were physicians to embalm his father. So they embalmed Israel. 3 They took forty days to complete this, for embalming takes that long, and the Egyptians mourned for him seventy days. †
4 When the days of mourning were over, Joseph said to Pharaoh's household, "If I have found favor with you, please tell † Pharaoh that 5 my father made me take an oath, † saying, 'I am about to die. You must bury me there in the tomb that I made for myself in the land of Canaan.' † Now let me go and bury my father. Then I will return."
6 So Pharaoh said, "Go and bury your father in keeping with your oath."
7 Then Joseph went to bury his father, and all Pharaoh's servants, the elders of his household, and all the elders of the land of Egypt went with him, 8 along with all Joseph's family, his brothers, and his father's family. Only their dependents, their flocks, and their herds were left in the land of Goshen. 9 Horses and chariots went up with him; it was a very impressive procession. 10 When they reached the threshing floor of Atad, which is across the Jordan, they lamented and wept loudly, and Joseph mourned seven days for his father. 11 When the Canaanite inhabitants of the land saw the mourning at the threshing floor of Atad, they said, "This is a solemn mourning on the part of the Egyptians.” Therefore the place is named Abel-mizraim. † It is across the Jordan.

12 So Jacob’s sons did for him what he had commanded them. 13 They carried him to the land of Canaan and buried him in the cave at Machpelah in the field near Mamre, which Abraham had purchased as burial property from Ephron the Hethite. † 14 After Joseph buried his father, he returned to Egypt with his brothers and all who had gone with him to bury his father.

JOSEPH’S KINDNESS

15 When Joseph’s brothers saw that their father was dead, they said to one another, “If Joseph is holding a grudge against us, he will certainly repay us for all the suffering we caused him.” †
16 So they sent this message to Joseph, “Before he died your father gave a command: 17 ‘Say this to Joseph: Please forgive your brothers’ transgression and their sin — the suffering they caused you.’ Therefore, please forgive the transgression of the servants of the God of your father.” Joseph wept † when their message came to him. 18 His brothers also came to him, bowed down before him, and said, “We are your slaves! ”
19 But Joseph said to them, “Don’t be afraid. Am I in the place of God? † 20 You planned evil against me; God planned it for good to bring about the present result — the survival of many people. † 21 Therefore don’t be afraid. I will take care of you and your children.” † And he comforted them and spoke kindly to them. †

JOSEPH’S DEATH

22 Joseph and his father’s family remained in Egypt. Joseph lived 110 years.

THE CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW AND THE OVERCOMING OF EVIL

Jesus acknowledges that the world has a problem. When John writes that memorable phrase, "Jesus wept" (Jn 11:35), he provides a powerful glimpse of the God, who created the universe as "very good" (Gn 1:31), experiencing in the flesh the evil of this world that is under the curse of sin. And even though Jesus was about to demonstrate his divine authority by raising Lazarus from the dead, his reaction to the evil of death is one of utter sorrow.

The Teacher wrote that he looked out into the world at everything "under the sun"—that is, everything apart from God—and he saw such great evil, oppression, and suffering that he concluded it would be better never to have existed at all if this life is all that a person could expect to live (Ec 3:16–4:3). He clearly observed the problem of evil—that this world is a place in which people and circumstances have gone terribly wrong. In it justice and righteousness are noticeably lacking.

Not all worldviews, however, entail a belief in real good and real evil. According to some beliefs, such as eastern pantheistic monism (found in Buddhism and Hinduism), good and evil are illusions. Atheistic materialism holds that there is no absolute standard of good and evil, since there is nothing at work in the universe besides natural, physical processes, which are amoral, or neutral. "Good" and "evil" may be illusory projections of an ignorant mind, but they are not grounded in any objective reality.

In the Christian worldview, God's essential nature is good (Ps 119:68; Lk 18:19), and his inherent goodness provides the standard for what we understand to be "good." Anything that lacks God's goodness is "evil." We know what is good and evil because God created us with the capacity to know it. If a person doubts God's goodness due to the observation of evil's presence in the world, then he must establish how he can even comprehend what is "good" and "evil." The skeptic's frustration with evil implies that he actually believes in the absolute concepts of good and evil. Yet, since his worldview cannot provide philosophical grounding for them, he denies these concepts. But such denial is inconsistent with our experience of evil in this life.

REAL EVIL AND A REAL PROBLEM

According to atheistic materialism, everything in the universe is dancing to the tune of its DNA, as Richard Dawkins suggests. The singer sings, the artist creates, the murderer murders, and the rapist rapes. Nothing is "good" or "evil" in this view: everything is just the way it is, because each person is biologically determined to do whatever his or her genes tells them to do. According to Nancy Pearcey and Randy Thornhill of the University of New Mexico and Craig Palmer of the University of Colorado, then, one can "advance the startling thesis that rape is not a pathology but an evolutionary adaptation—a strategy for maximizing reproductive success." Rape is "a natural, biological phenomenon that is a product of the human evolutionary heritage," just like "the leopard's spots and the giraffe's elongated neck" (Nancy R. Pearcey, Darwin's Dirty Secret, http://www.leaderu.com/orgs/arn/pearcey/np_world-rape0300.htm). Although atheists generally deny that there is an absolute moral law, deep down most will agree that rape and murder are truly wrong.

So atheists are aware of the existence of evil, but this creates more of a problem for them than for the Christian. If we are purely the result of DNA, there is no immortal soul, and death is the end of our existence, then all of our human sensibilities and attempts to relieve the suffering of the world are useless and absurd. As William Lane Craig states, "If life ends at the grave, then it makes no difference whether one has lived as a Stalin or as a saint. Since one's destiny is ultimately unrelated to one's behavior, you may as well just live as you please" (William Lane Craig, Reasonable Faith. Wheaton: IL, Moody Press, 1984, 60–61). The fact that many atheists pursue meaningful and altruistic lives illustrates the impossibility of living consistently within such a worldview.

Jesus, on the other hand, understands that evil is a real problem that cannot be ignored or denied. Death is not just the dance of our DNA. Death is the enemy (1Co 15:26). Jesus teaches that evil affects all of us through death (Lk 13:1-5). And it is Jesus's confrontation of actual evil that provides a real solution offering hope to mankind.

REAL HOPE

REAL HOPE

Hope acknowledges that there is a problem in the world, but at the same time hope confidently holds out for something better to come. The uniqueness of the Christian worldview resides in the hope provided through the resurrection of Jesus Christ. “Death is the ultimate weapon of the tyrant; resurrection does not make a covenant with death, it overthrows it” (N.T. Wright. The Resurrection of the Son of God. Minneapolis, MN: Fortress Press, 2003, 730).

Suffering, pain, and ultimately death are not part of the way things should be; rather, they are the consequences of evil (Rm 6:23). The resurrection is a clear defeat of these consequences. Peter explains in Acts 2:24, that “God raised [Jesus Christ] up, ending the pains of death, because it was not possible for him to be held by death.” Paul declares the impotence of death’s sting and its shattered victory (1Co 15:55-57).

Jesus gives us hope because, by his resurrection, he overthrows death and demonstrates that God’s good creation will be restored (1Co 15:20-22,42-44). Things will be as they should be. Our painful comprehension of evil and our hopeful longing for goodness are neither vain nor illusory. They are evidence that we are created by a good and mighty God. There is no other worldview that can compete with what Christianity has to offer: a grounding of real evil, a definitive defeat of that evil, and real hope for mankind through the actual restoration of goodness, as seen in the resurrection.

50:2-3 Embalming preserved the bodies of the deceased, and evidence of this practice can be found dating as early as 2600 BC. Besides Jacob and Joseph (v. 26), who were probably embalmed because of their status and close relationship to Pharaoh, there is no other reference to such embalming in the OT. The Egyptians typically associated embalming with their pagan religious beliefs about the afterlife, but there is no evidence for these associations with the embalmings of Jacob and Joseph. They knew they were distinct from the Egyptians (see 46:4,34; 48:21; 50:24), and they both called for oaths to ensure that their bodies would not be finally laid to rest in Egypt (47:29-31; 50:24-26; Ex 13:19).

50:20 Joseph’s forgiveness of his brothers sprung from his faith in God’s sovereignty, wisdom, and goodness (see also 45:4-8; Rm 8:28). To be sure, they had planned evil against him, but God planned it for good. Joseph had suffered greatly (41:51-52) during this process in which “the word of the LORD tested him" (Ps 105:19), but the outcome was the survival of many people. Joseph's words here and in 45:5 are an implicit affirmation of both divine sovereignty and human free will. See "A Biblical View of History," p. 525.

EXODUS

INTRODUCTION

The title “Exodus” is an anglicized version of a Greek word that means “departure” in recognition of one of the book’s major events—the departure of God’s people from Egypt. Exodus could be considered the central book in the OT because it records God’s act of saving the Israelites and establishing them as a covenant community, a nation chosen to serve and represent him. Exodus describe the enslavement and oppression of the Israelites; the preparation and call of Moses; the conflict between Yahweh the God of Israel and the gods of Egypt (represented by Pharaoh); the exodus of the Israelites; their establishment as a nation in covenant with the Lord; their rebellion; and the Lord’s provision for their ongoing relationship, symbolized by his presence at the tabernacle they built for him.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The book of Exodus does not state who its author was. It does refer to occasions when Moses made a written record of events that took place and what God had said (17:14; 24:4,7; 34:27-28). The book also contains references to preserving and passing on information. Along with the other four books of the Pentateuch, it has long been considered to be primarily the work of Moses. Moses could have written Exodus at any time during a forty-year time span: after the Israelites finished constructing and dedicating the tabernacle at Mount Sinai, at the start of their second year after leaving Egypt (1445 BC), and before his death in the land of Moab (about 1406 BC).

BACKGROUND: Exodus picks up where the Genesis narrative ended with the death of Joseph around 1805 BC. It quickly moves us forward almost three hundred years to a time when the circumstances of Jacob’s descendants had changed in Egypt. The Israelites were serving as slaves during Egypt’s Eighteenth Dynasty, probably under the pharaohs Thutmose and Amenhotep II. The Hebrew slaves experienced a miraculous deliverance by God’s hand through his servant-leader Moses. The Israelite slavery ended in 1446 BC. The book of Exodus records the events surrounding the exodus from Egypt and the Israelites’ first year in the wilderness, including the giving of the law.

The date of the exodus is disputed, but biblical evidence favors 1446 BC. First Kings 6:1 states that the exodus occurred 480 years before Solomon’s fourth year as king, established by biblical data combined with Assyrian chronology to be 966 BC. In Judges 11:26, Jephthah said that Israel had been living in regions of Palestine for three hundred years. Jephthah lived around 1100 BC, thus dating the end of the wilderness journey to around 1400 BC.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Exodus provides the high point of redemptive history in the OT. Many patterns and concepts from Exodus receive attention, further development, and fulfillment elsewhere in Scripture, especially in the past, present, and future work of the Lord Jesus. These include rescue from oppression, provision of sustenance, God’s faithfulness to his promises, the self-revelation of God, knowledge of God resulting from his actions, the presence of God, his glory, efforts required to preserve the knowledge of God, a new identity for people that is based on God’s actions, provision for worship, provision for life in community, connection between the reputation of God and his relationship with a group of people, obedience and rebellion, intercession, and gracious forgiveness.

STRUCTURE

Exodus is considered a part of the Law, but it is more historical narrative than law. The book is structured around the life and travels of Moses. Sandwiched between the narratives of chapters 1–18 and 32–40 are the establishment of the covenant (chaps. 19–24) and the laws related to the tabernacle and priesthood.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Exodus reveals the Lord as Redeemer. Because of his love and for his name's sake, he takes the initiative to save his people from bondage. Exodus further reveals him as the One who expects his redeemed people to live according to the provisions of the covenant made at Mount Sinai. Christ is prefigured both by Moses and by the Passover lambs. Exodus 31:3; 35:31 mention the Spirit as empowering a person for special service.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Exodus highlights the universality of human evil by showing rebellion against God in a variety of ways. Pharaoh's wickedness (chaps. 4–14) and redeemed Israel's shameful idolatry in the golden calf incident (chap. 32) are perhaps the clearest examples. On the other hand, Exodus shows the great value God puts on humanity through the high price paid at the time of Israel's deliverance from Egypt.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Until Christ's coming and his death on the cross, the exodus was the greatest divine redemptive act. In the exodus God provided a clear picture of substitutionary atonement in the Passover lamb's death: "when I see the blood, I will pass over you" (12:13). This, however, only prefigured the coming One, "the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!" (Jn 1:29).

ISRAEL OPPRESSED IN EGYPT

1 These are the names of the sons of Israel who came to Egypt with Jacob; each came with his family: †

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah;
3 Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin;
4 Dan and Naphtali; Gad and Asher.

5 The total number of Jacob's descendants † was seventy; † † Joseph was already in Egypt.

6 Joseph and all his brothers and all that generation eventually died. † 7 But the Israelites were fruitful, increased rapidly, multiplied, and became extremely numerous † so that the land was filled with them.
8 A new king, who did not know about Joseph, came to power in Egypt. 9 He said to his people, “Look, the Israelite people are more numerous and powerful than we are. † 10 Come, let’s deal shrewdly with them; otherwise they will multiply further, and when war breaks out, they will join our enemies, fight against us, and leave the country.” † 11 So the Egyptians assigned taskmasters over the Israelites to oppress them with forced labor. † They built Pithom and Rameses as supply cities † for Pharaoh. 12 But the more they oppressed them, the more they multiplied and spread so that the Egyptians came to dread † the Israelites. 13 They worked the Israelites ruthlessly † 14 and made their lives bitter with difficult labor in brick and mortar and in all kinds of fieldwork. They ruthlessly imposed all this work on them. †
15 The king of Egypt said to the Hebrew midwives — the first whose name was Shiphrah and the second whose name was Puah — 16 “When you help the Hebrew women give birth, observe them as they deliver. If the child is a son, kill him, but if it’s a daughter, she may live.” 17 The midwives, however, feared God † and did not do as the king of Egypt had told them; † they let the boys live. 18 So the king of Egypt summoned the midwives and asked them, “Why have you done this and let the boys live? ”
19 The midwives said to Pharaoh, “The Hebrew women are not like the Egyptian women, for they are vigorous and give birth before the midwife can get to them.” †
20 So God was good to the midwives, † and the people multiplied and became very numerous. 21 Since the midwives feared God, he gave them families. †
22 Pharaoh then commanded all his people: “You must throw every son born to the Hebrews into the Nile, but let every daughter live.” †

41:1; Ac 7:19

1:1 Exodus picks up where Genesis left off—with the sons of Israel (that is, Jacob) in Egypt. Like Genesis, Exodus is part of the larger work known as the Pentateuch (see the note on Gn 1:1). This book was written by Moses and was considered to be a single work rather than five separate ones (Jos 23:6; 2Ch 25:4; Mk 12:26).

1:1-7 These verses review certain elements of the preceding Genesis narrative (see Gn 46:5-27; 47:27; 50:26) and serve as background for the Israelites' enslavement (vv. 8-11).

1:8-14 The Israelites' enslavement and oppression in a foreign land for four hundred years had been predicted in Genesis 15:13. The suffering of God's people was thus part of his plan, allowing them to grow from a family into a great nation In the midst of this, he continued to bless them (the more they oppressed them, the more they multiplied).

1:15-21 The Hebrew midwives were commended twice as those who feared God (vv. 17,21; see also Ac 5:29). This expression identifies God, rather than Pharaoh, as the object of their faith and loyalty. Pharaoh's cruel method of population control was ultimately futile, since the people multiplied and became very numerous anyway (see also v. 7; Gn 47:27).

MOSES'S BIRTH AND ADOPTION

2 Now a man from the family of Levi married a Levite woman. † 2 The woman became pregnant and gave birth to a son; when she saw that he was beautiful, † she hid him for three months. † 3 But when she could no longer hide him, she got a papyrus basket for him and coated it with asphalt and pitch. She placed the child in it and set it among the reeds by the bank of the Nile. 4 Then his sister † stood at a distance in order to see what would happen to him.
5 Pharaoh's daughter went down to bathe at the Nile while her servant girls walked along the riverbank. She saw the basket among the reeds, sent her slave girl, took it, 6 opened it, and saw him, the child — and there he was, a little boy, crying. She felt sorry for him and said, "This is one of the Hebrew boys."
7 Then his sister said to Pharaoh's daughter, "Should I go and call a Hebrew woman who is nursing to nurse the boy for you? " 8 "Go," Pharaoh's daughter told her. So the girl went and called the boy's mother. 9 Then Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take this child and nurse him for me, and I will pay your wages." So the woman took the boy and nursed him.
10 When the child grew older, she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. She named him Moses, † "Because," she said, "I drew him out of the water."

MOSES IN MIDIAN

11 Years later, † after Moses had grown up, he went out to his own people † and observed their forced labor. † He saw an Egyptian striking a Hebrew, one of his people. 12 Looking all around and seeing no one, he struck the Egyptian dead and hid him in the sand. 13 The next day he went out and saw two Hebrews fighting. He asked the one in the wrong, "Why are you attacking your neighbor? " † 14 "Who made you a commander and judge over us? " the man replied. "Are you planning to kill me as you killed the Egyptian? "
Then Moses became afraid and thought, "What I did is certainly known." 15 When Pharaoh heard about this, he tried to kill Moses. But Moses fled from Pharaoh and went to live in the land of Midian, † and sat down by a well. † 16 Now the priest of Midian † had seven daughters. They came to draw water and filled the troughs to water their father's flock. 17 Then some shepherds arrived and drove them away, but Moses came to their rescue and watered their flock. 18 When they returned to their father Reuel, † † he asked, "Why have you come back so quickly today? " 19 They answered, "An Egyptian rescued us from the shepherds. He even drew water for us and watered the flock." 20 "So where is he? " he asked his daughters. "Why then did you leave the man behind? Invite him to eat dinner." 21 Moses agreed to stay with the man, and he gave his daughter Zipporah † to Moses in marriage. 22 She gave birth to a son whom he named Gershom, † for he said, "I have been a resident alien † in a foreign land." 23 After a long time, the king of Egypt died. The Israelites groaned because of their difficult labor; and they cried out; † and their cry for help because of the difficult labor ascended to God. 24 And God heard their groaning; and God remembered † his covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob; † 25 and God saw the Israelites; and God knew. †

2:1-10 Moses was born during a time in which Pharaoh had commanded the drowning of every newborn Hebrew boy (1:22). Since the Israelites' stay in Egypt lasted 430 years (12:40-41) and Moses was eighty when he went before Pharaoh (7:7), it follows that the Israelites had been in Egypt for about 350 years at the time of Moses's birth. Most of this period is passed over quickly in the narrative. The willingness of Pharaoh's daughter to have a wet nurse is supported by Egyptian records dating from that same general time period.

2:14 This response amounted to a rejection of Moses's leadership (see Ac 7:35).

2:19 Moses evidently looked, dressed, and spoke like an Egyptian—even though he was an Israelite.

2:23-25 The setting into motion of the Israelites' deliverance from Egypt sprung from God's attention to their cries and from his faithfulness to his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (see also 3:6-8). Their painful stay in Egypt was part of his plan, but the time had come for them to depart (Gn 15:13-14).

MOSES AND THE BURNING BUSH

3 Meanwhile, Moses was shepherding the flock of his father-in-law Jethro, † the priest of Midian. He led the flock to the far side of the wilderness and came to Horeb, † the mountain of God. † 2 Then the angel of the LORD appeared to him in a flame of fire within a bush. † As Moses looked, he saw that the bush was on fire but was not consumed. 3 So Moses thought, "I must go over and look at this remarkable sight. Why isn't the bush burning up? "

4 When the LORD saw that he had gone over to look, God called out to him from the bush, "Moses, Moses! "

"Here I am," he answered.

5 "Do not come closer," he said. "Remove the sandals from your feet, for the place where you are standing is holy ground." † 6 Then he continued, "I am the God of your father, † the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob." † Moses hid his face because he was afraid to look at God.

7 Then the LORD said, "I have observed the misery of my people in Egypt, and have heard them crying out † because of their oppressors. I know about their sufferings, 8 and I have come down to rescue them from the power of the Egyptians and to bring them from that land to a good and spacious land, a land flowing with milk and honey † — the territory of the Canaanites, Hethites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites. † 9 So because the Israelites' cry for help has come to me, and I have also seen the way the Egyptians are oppressing † them, 10 therefore, go. I am sending you to Pharaoh so that you may lead my people, the Israelites, out of Egypt."

11 But Moses asked God, "Who am I † that I should go to Pharaoh and that I should bring the Israelites out of Egypt? "

12 He answered, "I will certainly be with you, † and this will be the sign to you that I am the one who sent you: when you bring the people out of Egypt, you will all worship † God at this mountain."

13 Then Moses asked God, "If I go to the Israelites and say to them, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to you,' and they ask me, 'What is his name? ' what should I tell them? "

14 God replied to Moses, "I AM WHO I AM. † † This is what you are to say to the Israelites: I AM has sent me to you." 15 God also said to Moses, "Say this to the Israelites: The LORD, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you. This is my name forever; † this is how I am to be remembered in every generation.

16 "Go and assemble the elders of Israel and say to them: The LORD, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, has appeared to me and said: I have paid close attention to you and to what has been done to you in Egypt. † 17 And I have promised you that I will bring you up from the misery of Egypt † to the land of the Canaanites, Hethites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites — a land flowing with milk and honey. 18 They will listen to what you say. Then you, along with the elders of Israel, must go to the king of Egypt and say to him: The LORD, the God of the Hebrews, has met with us. Now please let us go on a three-day trip into the wilderness so that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God. †

19 "However, I know that the king of Egypt will not allow you to go, even under force from a strong hand. † 20 But when I stretch out my hand and strike Egypt with all my miracles that I will perform in it, after that, he will let you go. †

21 And I will give these people such favor with the Egyptians that when you go, you will not go empty-handed. † 22 Each woman will ask her neighbor and any woman staying in her house for silver and gold jewelry, and clothing, and you will put them on your sons and daughters. So you will plunder the Egyptians." †

3:1-10 Moses was unexpectedly called by God while shepherding in a foreign land. By this time, he had been away from Egypt for forty years (Ac 7:30). Moses was initially intrigued by the fire within a bush (vv. 2-3), but he soon discovered that he was encountering a holy, covenant-keeping God, who was calling him to lead the Israelites out of Egypt. God states again that on the basis of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, he intends to bring them . . . to a good and spacious land, a land flowing with milk and honey. He is fulfilling his promises of descendants, land, and relationship to Abraham (Gn 12:1-3).

3:11-12 Moses responded to God's call with a protest that he was inadequate, and God responded indirectly with both an assurance of his presence and a sign that Moses and the Israelites would return to that same mountain after their escape from Egypt (see 19:1-2). This unusual sign subtly called Moses to faith and obedience.

3:13-15 Moses's second subtle protest dealt with the divine name, which concerns God's character or essence (see Gn 27:36; 1Sm 25:25). For reasons related to Hebrew syntax, God's response, I Am Who I Am (from which the name Yahweh is likely derived) is probably better understood to mean, "I am the one who is with you." He is the God who is present with his people (see v. 12).

3:19-22 The Lord informs Moses (and the reader) that Pharaoh will be unwilling, but his stubbornness will provide an occasion for God to strike Egypt with all [his] miracles. Moreover, the Israelites will plunder the Egyptians peacefully before leaving Egypt (see 11:2; 12:35-36), in fulfillment of what God had said to Abraham long ago: "They will go out with many possessions" (Gn 15:14).

MIRACULOUS SIGNS FOR MOSES

4 Moses answered, "What if they won't believe me and will not obey me but say, 'The LORD did not appear † to you'?"
2 The LORD asked him, "What is that in your hand?"
"A staff," he replied.
3 "Throw it on the ground," he said. So Moses threw it on the ground, it became a snake, and he ran from it. 4 The LORD told Moses, "Stretch out your hand and grab it by the tail." So he stretched out his hand and caught it, and it became a staff in his hand. 5 "This will take place," he continued, "so that they will believe that the LORD, the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has appeared to you." † 6 In addition the LORD said to him, "Put your hand inside your cloak." So he put his hand inside his cloak, and when he took it out, his hand was diseased, resembling snow. † † 7 “Put your hand back inside your cloak,” he said. So he put his hand back inside his cloak, and when he took it out, it had again become like the rest of his skin. † 8 “If they will not believe you and will not respond to the evidence of the first sign, they may believe the evidence of the second sign. 9 And if they don’t believe even these two signs or listen to what you say, take some water from the Nile and pour it on the dry ground. The water you take from the Nile will become blood on the ground.” †

10 But Moses replied to the Lord, “Please, Lord, I have never been eloquent — either in the past or recently or since you have been speaking to your servant — because my mouth and my tongue are sluggish.” † †

11 The Lord said to him, “Who placed a mouth on humans? Who makes a person mute or deaf, seeing or blind? Is it not I, the Lord? † 12 Now go! I will help you speak † and I will teach you what to say.” †

13 Moses said, “Please, Lord, send someone else.” †

14 Then the Lord’s anger burned against Moses, and he said, “Isn’t Aaron the Levite your brother? I know that he can speak well. And also, he is on his way now to meet you. He will rejoice when he sees you. 15 You will speak with him and tell him what to say. † I will help both you and him to speak † and will teach you both what to do. 16 He will speak to the people for you. He will serve as a mouth for you, and you will serve as God to him. 17 And take this staff in your hand that you will perform the signs with.” †

MOSES’S RETURN TO EGYPT

18 Then Moses went back to his father-in-law Jethro and said to him, “Please let me return to my relatives in Egypt and see if they are still living.”
Jethro said to Moses, “Go in peace.”

19 Now in Midian the Lord told Moses, “Return to Egypt, for all the men who wanted to kill you are dead.” † 20 So Moses took his wife and sons, put them on a donkey, and returned to the land of Egypt. And Moses took God’s staff † in his hand.

21 The Lord instructed Moses, “When you go back to Egypt, make sure you do before Pharaoh all the wonders that I have put within your power. But I will harden his heart † † so that he won’t let the people go. 22 And you will say to

Pharaoh: This is what the LORD says: Israel is my firstborn son. † 23 I told you: Let my son go so that he may worship me, but you refused to let him go. Look, I am about to kill your firstborn son! " † 24 On the trip, at an overnight campsite, it happened that the LORD confronted him and intended to put him to death. 25 So Zipporah took a flint, cut off her son's foreskin, threw it at Moses's feet, and said, "You are a bridegroom of blood to me! " † 26 So he let him alone. At that time she said, "You are a bridegroom of blood," referring to the circumcision.

REUNION OF MOSES AND AARON

27 Now the LORD had said to Aaron, "Go and meet Moses in the wilderness." So he went and met him at the mountain of God and kissed him. † 28 Moses told Aaron everything the LORD had sent him to say, and about all the signs he had commanded him to do. 29 Then Moses and Aaron went and assembled all the elders of the Israelites. 30 Aaron repeated everything the LORD had said to Moses and performed the signs before the people. 31 The people believed, and when they heard that the LORD had paid attention † to them and that he had seen their misery, † they knelt low and worshiped.

4:1-9 Moses's third protest expressed his concern: they won't believe me and will not obey me (see also 3:18). The Lord responded by giving him two signs to perform so that they will believe (see vv. 29-31).

4:10-17 Moses's reluctance, which had already become apparent through the preceding, is now fully displayed. Rather than asking questions as he had earlier, he voices his objections directly. First, he objected that he was not a good speaker (see also 6:12,30; Jr 1:6), and then he plainly asked God to send someone else. The Lord's response to the first objection was quite pointed (v. 12), and his anger burned against Moses because of the latter request (v. 14). Nevertheless, God accommodated Moses partially by allowing his brother Aaron to come alongside as a spokesman (see also vv. 27-30). This dialogue illuminates the truth, taught throughout the OT, that success often comes not from skill, resources, or any kind of personal ability, but through God's presence and empowerment.

4:21-23 The plague of the firstborn and the Passover are thus foreshadowed (see Ex 11–12). On the hardening of Pharaoh's heart, see the note on 7:3-5.

4:24-26 This is a notoriously difficult passage. The Lord sought to put Moses to death, perhaps because he had neglected to circumcise his son or because he had killed the Egyptian (2:12). The Hebrew word for feet can also be a euphemism for "genitals." This incident demonstrates God's seriousness about obedience to his commands.

MOSES CONFRONTS PHARAOH

5 Later, Moses and Aaron went in and said to Pharaoh, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: Let my people go, so that they may hold a festival for me in the wilderness." †

2 But Pharaoh responded, "Who is the LORD that I should obey him by letting Israel go? † I don't know † the LORD, and besides, I will not let Israel go." †

3 They answered, "The God of the Hebrews has met with us. Please let us go on a three-day trip into the wilderness so that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God, or else he may strike us with plague or sword."

4 The king of Egypt said to them, "Moses and Aaron, why are you causing the people to neglect their work? Get to your labor! " 5 Pharaoh also said, "Look, the people of the land are so numerous, and you would stop them from their labor." †

FURTHER OPPRESSION OF ISRAEL

6 That day Pharaoh commanded the overseers † of the people as well as their foremen: 7 "Don't continue to supply the people with straw for making bricks, as before. They must go and gather straw for themselves. 8 But require the same quota of bricks from them as they were making before; do not reduce it. For they are slackers — that is why they are crying out, † 'Let us go and sacrifice to our God.' 9 Impose heavier work on the men. Then they will be occupied with it and not pay attention to deceptive words."

10 So the overseers and foremen of the people went out and said to them, "This is what Pharaoh says: † 'I am not giving you straw. 11 Go get straw yourselves wherever you can find it, but there will be no reduction at all in your workload.' " 12 So the people scattered throughout the land of Egypt to gather stubble for straw. 13 The overseers insisted, "Finish your assigned work each day, just as you did when straw was provided." 14 Then the Israelite foremen, whom Pharaoh's slave drivers had set over the people, were beaten † and asked,

“Why haven’t you finished making your prescribed number of bricks yesterday or today, as you did before? ”
15 So the Israelite foremen went in and cried for help to Pharaoh: “Why are you treating your servants this way? 16 No straw has been given to your servants, yet they say to us, ‘Make bricks! ’ Look, your servants are being beaten, but it is your own people who are at fault.”
17 But he said, “You are slackers. Slackers! That is why you are saying, ‘Let us go sacrifice to the LORD.’ 18 Now get to work. No straw will be given to you, but you must produce the same quantity of bricks.”
19 The Israelite foremen saw that they were in trouble when they were told, “You cannot reduce your daily quota of bricks.” 20 When they left Pharaoh, they confronted Moses and Aaron, who stood waiting to meet them.
21 “May the LORD take note of you and judge,” they said to them, “because you have made us reek to Pharaoh and his officials — putting a sword in their hand to kill us! ” †
22 So Moses went back to the LORD and asked, “Lord, why have you caused trouble for this people? And why did you ever send me? † 23 Ever since I went in to Pharaoh to speak in your name he has caused trouble for this people, and you haven’t rescued your people at all.”

5:14–6:1 Things would get worse before they would get better. As God predicted in 3:19-20 and 4:21, Pharaoh was unwilling to let the Israelites go (5:1-2). Furthermore, he accused Moses and Aaron of causing the Israelites to neglect their work (v. 4) and the Israelites themselves of being slackers (vv. 8,17). He refused to give them straw anymore but continued to require them to produce the same quota of bricks as before. The Israelite foremen were beaten for not meeting this quota, and they blamed Moses and Aaron for the worsened situation (see also 6:9). Moses himself recognized this (v. 22), but God reaffirmed that he would use his “strong hand” to get Pharaoh to let Israel go (6:1; 3:19).

6 But the LORD replied to Moses, “Now you will see what I will do to Pharaoh: because of a strong hand he will let them go, and because of a strong hand he will drive them from his land.” †

GOD PROMISES FREEDOM

2 Then God spoke to Moses, telling him, “I am the LORD. 3 I appeared to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob as God Almighty, but I was not known to them by my name ‘the LORD.’ † † 4 I also established my covenant with them to give them the land of Canaan, the land they lived in as aliens. † 5 Furthermore, I have heard the groaning of the Israelites, whom the Egyptians are forcing to work as slaves, and I have remembered † my covenant.

6 “Therefore tell the Israelites: I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from the forced labor of the Egyptians and rescue you from slavery to them. I will redeem you with an outstretched arm † and great acts of judgment. 7 I will take you as my people, † and I will be your God. You will know † that I am the LORD your God, who brought you out from the forced labor of the Egyptians. 8 I will bring you to the land that I swore † † to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and I will give it to you as a possession. I am the LORD.” 9 Moses told this to the Israelites, but they did not listen † to him because of their broken spirit and hard labor.
10 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, 11 “Go and tell Pharaoh king of Egypt to let the Israelites go from his land.”
12 But Moses said in the LORD’s presence: “If the Israelites will not listen to me, then how will Pharaoh listen to me, since I am such a poor speaker?” † †
13 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron and gave them commands concerning both the Israelites and Pharaoh king of Egypt to bring the Israelites out of the land of Egypt.

26 It was this Aaron and Moses whom the LORD told, "Bring the Israelites out of the land of Egypt according to their military divisions." † 27 Moses and Aaron were the ones who spoke to Pharaoh king of Egypt in order to bring the Israelites out of Egypt.

MOSES AND AARON BEFORE PHARAOH

28 On the day the LORD spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, 29 he said to him, "I am the LORD; † tell Pharaoh king of Egypt everything I am telling you."
30 But Moses replied in the LORD's presence, "Since I am such a poor speaker, † how will Pharaoh listen to me? "

6:3 Lord (in small capitals) stands for the personal name of God, which in Hb is Yahweh. There is a long tradition of substituting "Lord" for "Yahweh" out of reverence. 6:8 Lit raised my hand 6:12 Lit I have uncircumcised lips, also in v. 30

6:2-5 Since the name Yahweh (translated as LORD) does appear repeatedly in the narratives of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (e.g., Gn 15:2,7; 26:22; 32:10) and earlier (e.g., 4:26), God may be indicating here that he did not reveal the meaning of this name to the patriarchs as he had done for Moses in 3:13-15. Indeed, he had appeared to them as "God Almighty" on several occasions (Gn 17:1; 35:9-11; 48:3), whereas his appearance to Moses especially emphasized the significance of the name Yahweh (Ex 3:2,16). The same God who made a covenant with the patriarchs was about to bring the Israelites out of Egypt in accordance with it (6:3-8; 2:24; Gn 12:7; 15:18-21).

7 The LORD answered Moses, "See, I have made you like God to Pharaoh, and Aaron your brother will be your prophet. 2 You must say whatever I command you; then Aaron your brother must declare it to Pharaoh so that he will let the Israelites go from his land. 3 But I will harden Pharaoh's heart † and multiply my signs and wonders in the land of Egypt. 4 Pharaoh will not listen to you, but I will put my hand into Egypt and bring the military divisions of my people the Israelites out of the land of Egypt by great acts of judgment. 5 The Egyptians will know that I am the LORD † when I stretch out my hand † against Egypt and bring out the Israelites from among them."

6 So Moses and Aaron did this; they did just as the LORD commanded them.
7 Moses was eighty years old † and Aaron eighty-three when they spoke to Pharaoh.
8 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, 9 "When Pharaoh tells you, 'Perform a miracle,' tell Aaron, 'Take your staff and throw it down before Pharaoh. It will become a serpent.' " † 10 So Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh and did just as the LORD had commanded. Aaron threw down his staff before Pharaoh and his officials, and it became a serpent. 11 But then Pharaoh called the wise men and sorcerers — the magicians † of Egypt, and they also did the same thing by their occult practices. † 12 Each one threw down his staff, and it became a serpent.
But Aaron's staff swallowed their staffs. 13 However, Pharaoh's heart was hard, † and he did not listen to them, as the LORD had said.

THE FIRST PLAGUE: WATER TURNED TO BLOOD

14 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Pharaoh's heart is hard: He refuses to let the people go. 15 Go to Pharaoh in the morning. When you see him walking out to the water, stand ready to meet him by the bank of the Nile. Take in your hand the staff that turned into a snake. † 16 Tell him: The LORD, the God of the Hebrews, has sent me to tell you: Let my people go, so that they may worship † me in the wilderness, but so far you have not listened. 17 This is what the LORD says: Here is how you will know that I am the LORD. Watch. I am about to strike the water in the Nile with the staff in my hand, and it will turn to blood. 18 The fish in the Nile will die, the river will stink, and the Egyptians will be unable to drink water from it." 19 So the LORD said to Moses, "Tell Aaron: Take your staff and stretch out your hand † over the waters of Egypt — over their rivers, canals, ponds, and all their water reservoirs — and they will become blood. There will be blood throughout the land of Egypt, even in wooden and stone containers."

20 Moses and Aaron did just as the LORD had commanded; in the sight of Pharaoh and his officials, he raised the staff and struck the water in the Nile, and all the water in the Nile was turned to blood. † 21 The fish in the Nile died, and the river smelled so bad the Egyptians could not drink water from it. There was blood throughout the land of Egypt.
22 But the magicians of Egypt did the same thing by their occult practices. So Pharaoh's heart was hard, and he would not listen to them, as the LORD had said.
23 Pharaoh turned around, went into his palace, and didn't take even this to heart. 24 All the Egyptians dug around the Nile for water to drink because they could not drink the water from the river. 25 Seven days passed after the LORD struck the Nile.

7:3-5 As God had said in 4:21, he would harden Pharaoh's heart. Indeed, several later passages describe him doing this very thing (see 9:12; 10:1,20,27; 14:4,8). This act of judgment, however understood, did not overrule Pharaoh's free will nor absolve him from responsibility. Other passages say that Pharaoh himself "hardened his heart" (8:15,32; 9:34 additionally calls this a sin) and that he himself "did not listen" (7:13,22; 8:15,19; 9:12) or "let the Israelites go" (8:32; 9:35; 10:20,27). His stubbornness provided an opportunity for God to multiply his signs and wonders in the land of Egypt. These would be great acts of judgment (6:6; see also Gn 15:14), which would result in the Egyptians' acknowledgement of the Lord (v. 5; see also 5:2).

7:8-12 Moses and Aaron performed the miraculous sign of the staff becoming a serpent that God had shown them earlier (4:2-5). That Pharaoh's wise men and sorcerers—the magicians were also able to perform this miracle suggests that they did possess some spiritual power, albeit derived from the occult (see also v. 22; 8:7). Evil spiritual power is real (see Eph 6:12), and the people of God are forbidden from involvement with divination, sorcery, mediums, fortune telling, spells, and the like (Ex 22:18; Lv 19:26; 20:27; Dt 18:10-11). Such power, however, is vastly inferior to the power of God, as implied by Aaron's staff swallowing up their staffs (see also 1 Jn 4:4).

7:20-24 Pharaoh had not acknowledged the Lord (see also 5:2), who declared that the intention of this plague was so that Pharaoh "will know that I am the LORD" (7:17). The turning of the Nile and other waters into blood (vv. 19-20) was fitting in light of Pharaoh's earlier command to drown newborn Hebrew boys in the Nile (1:22). As before (vv. 11-12), the magicians were able to perform this miracle as well (see also 8:7)

THE SECOND PLAGUE: FROGS

8 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Go in to Pharaoh and tell him: This is what the LORD says: Let my people go, so that they may worship me. † 2 But if you refuse to let them go, then I will plague all your territory with frogs. † 3 The Nile will swarm with frogs; they will come up and go into your palace, into your bedroom and on your bed, into the houses of your officials and your people, and into your ovens and kneading bowls. 4 The frogs will come up on you, your people, and all your officials." 5 The LORD then said to Moses, "Tell Aaron: Stretch out your hand with your staff over the rivers, canals, and ponds, and cause the frogs to come up onto the land of Egypt." † 6 When Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, the frogs † came up and covered the land of Egypt. 7 But the magicians did the same thing by their occult practices and brought frogs up onto the land of Egypt.

8 Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Appeal † to the LORD to remove the frogs from me and my people. Then I will let the people go and they can sacrifice to the LORD."
9 Moses said to Pharaoh, "You may have the honor of choosing. When should I appeal on behalf of you, your officials, and your people, that the frogs be taken away from you and your houses, and remain only in the Nile? " 10 "Tomorrow," he answered.
Moses replied, "As you have said, so that you may know there is no one like the LORD our God, † 11 the frogs will go away from you, your houses, your officials, and your people. The frogs will remain only in the Nile." 12 After Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh, Moses cried out to the LORD for help concerning the frogs that he had brought against Pharaoh. 13 The LORD did as Moses had said: the frogs in the houses, courtyards, and fields died. 14 They piled them in countless heaps, and there was a terrible odor in the land. 15 But when Pharaoh saw there was relief, he hardened his heart † and would not listen to them, as the LORD had said.

THE THIRD PLAGUE: GNATS

16 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Tell Aaron: Stretch out your staff and strike the dust of the land, and it will become gnats † throughout the land of Egypt." 17 And they did this. Aaron stretched out his hand with his staff, and when he struck the dust of the land, gnats were on people and animals. All the dust of the land became gnats throughout the land of Egypt. 18 The magicians tried to produce gnats using their occult practices, but they could not. The gnats remained on people and animals. †

19 "This is the finger of God," † the magicians said to Pharaoh. But Pharaoh's heart was hard, and he would not listen to them, as the LORD had said.

THE FOURTH PLAGUE: SWARMS OF FLIES

20 The LORD said to Moses, "Get up early in the morning and present yourself to Pharaoh when you see him going out to the water. Tell him: This is what the LORD says: Let my people go, so that they may worship † me. † 21 But if you will not let my people go, then I will send swarms of flies † against you, your officials, your people, and your houses. The Egyptians' houses will swarm with flies, and so will the land where they live. † 22 But on that day I will give special treatment to the land of Goshen, where my people are living; † no flies will be there. This way you will know that I, the LORD, am in the land. 23 I will make a distinction † between my people and your people. This sign will take place tomorrow."

24 And the LORD did this. Thick swarms of flies went into Pharaoh's palace and his officials' houses. Throughout Egypt the land was ruined because of the swarms of flies. † 25 Then Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Go sacrifice to your God within the country."

26 But Moses said, "It would not be right † to do that, because what we will sacrifice to the LORD our God is detestable to the Egyptians. † If we sacrifice what the Egyptians detest in front of them, won't they stone us? 27 We must go a distance of three days into the wilderness and sacrifice to the LORD our God as he instructs us."

28 Pharaoh responded, "I will let you go and sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness, but don't go very far. Make an appeal † for me."

29 "As soon as I leave you," Moses said, "I will appeal to the LORD, and tomorrow the swarms of flies will depart from Pharaoh, his officials, and his people. But Pharaoh must not act deceptively again by refusing to let the people go and sacrifice to the LORD." 30 Then Moses left Pharaoh's presence and appealed to the LORD. 31 The LORD did as Moses had said: He removed the swarms of flies from Pharaoh, his officials, and his people; not one was left. 32 But Pharaoh hardened his heart this time also and did not let the people go.

8:2 The Egyptians worshiped a frog goddess; therefore, this plague may have been an attack on the Egyptian deity Heket (a giver of life), but it is doubtful whether every frog would be associated with this goddess.

8:9-10 Moses allowed Pharaoh to decide when the plague of frogs would end so that he might know there is no one like the LORD our God, but Pharaoh hardened his heart (v. 15).

8:18-19 This time the magicians could not reproduce the miracle Moses and Aaron performed (see 7:11,22; 8:7). They recognized that the plague of gnats was the work of the finger of God. This expression, used in ancient Egyptian literature of Egyptian gods, shows that the magicians knew that they were powerless before the God of the Israelites. But still, Pharaoh would not listen.

8:22-24 With the plague of the flies and several other plagues, God made a distinction between the Israelites and the Egyptians (see also 9:4-7,26; 10:23; 11:7). The purpose was to make it even clearer to Pharaoh that I, the LORD, am in the land.

THE FIFTH PLAGUE: DEATH OF LIVESTOCK

9 Then the LORD said to Moses, “Go in to Pharaoh and say to him: This is what the LORD, the God of the Hebrews, says: Let my people go, so that they may worship me. 2 But if you refuse to let them go and keep holding them, 3 then the LORD’s hand will bring a severe plague against your livestock in the field — the horses, donkeys, camels, herds, and flocks. 4 But the LORD will make a distinction between the livestock of Israel and the livestock of Egypt, so that nothing of all that the Israelites own will die.” 5 And the LORD set a time, saying, “Tomorrow the LORD will do this thing in the land.” † 6 The LORD did this the next day. All the Egyptian livestock died, † but none among the Israelite livestock died. 7 Pharaoh sent messengers who saw that not a single one of the Israelite livestock was dead. But Pharaoh’s heart was hard, † and he did not let the people go.

THE SIXTH PLAGUE: BOILS

8 Then the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, “Take handfuls of furnace soot, and Moses is to throw it toward heaven in the sight of Pharaoh. 9 It will become fine dust over the entire land of Egypt. It will become festering boils † on people and animals throughout the land of Egypt.” 10 So they took furnace soot and stood before Pharaoh. Moses threw it toward heaven, and it became festering boils on people and animals. 11 The magicians could not stand before Moses because of the boils, for the boils were on the magicians as well as on all the Egyptians. † 12 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh’s heart † and he did not listen to them, as the LORD had told Moses.

THE SEVENTH PLAGUE: HAIL

13 Then the LORD said to Moses, “Get up early in the morning and present yourself to Pharaoh. Tell him: This is what the LORD, the God of the Hebrews says: Let my people go, so that they may worship me. 14 For this time I am about to send all my plagues against you, † your officials, and your people. Then you will know there is no one like me on the whole earth. 15 By now I could have stretched out my hand and struck you and your people with a plague, and you would have been obliterated from the earth. † 16 However, I have let you live for this purpose: to show you my power † and to make my name known on the whole earth. 17 You are still acting arrogantly against † my people by not letting them go. 18 Tomorrow at this time I will rain down the worst hail † that has ever occurred in Egypt from the day it was founded until now. 19 Therefore give orders to bring your livestock and all that you have in the field into shelters. Every person and animal that is in the field and not brought inside will die when the hail falls on them.” 20 Those among Pharaoh’s officials who feared the word of the LORD made their servants and livestock flee to shelters, 21 but those who didn’t take to heart the LORD’s word left their servants and livestock in the field.

22 Then the LORD said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward heaven and let there be hail throughout the land of Egypt — on people and animals and every plant of the field in the land of Egypt.” 23 So Moses stretched out his staff toward heaven, and the LORD sent thunder and hail. † Lightning struck the land, and the LORD rained hail on the land of Egypt. 24 The hail, with lightning flashing through it, was so severe that nothing like it had occurred in the land of Egypt since it had become a nation. 25 Throughout the land of Egypt, the hail struck down everything in the field, both people and animals. The hail beat down every plant of the field and shattered every tree in the field. 26 The only place it didn't hail was in the land of Goshen, where the Israelites were. † 27 Pharaoh sent for Moses and Aaron. "I have sinned this time," he said to them. "The LORD is the righteous † one, and I and my people are the guilty ones. 28 Make an appeal to the LORD. There has been enough of God's thunder and hail. I will let you go; † you don't need to stay any longer."

29 Moses said to him, "When I have left the city, I will spread out my hands † to the LORD. The thunder will cease, and there will be no more hail, so that you may know the earth † † belongs to the LORD. 30 But as for you and your officials, I know that you still do not fear the LORD God."
31 The flax and the barley were destroyed because the barley was ripe † and the flax was budding, † 32 but the wheat and the spelt were not destroyed since they are later crops. †
33 Moses left Pharaoh and the city, and spread out his hands to the LORD. Then the thunder and hail ceased, and rain no longer poured down on the land. 34 When Pharaoh saw that the rain, hail, and thunder had ceased, he sinned again and hardened his heart, he and his officials. 35 So Pharaoh's heart was hard, and he did not let the Israelites go, as the LORD had said through Moses.

9:13-16 This passage resounds with God's surpassing power and his strong desire to make his name known on the whole earth (see also Jos 4:23-24; 1Sm 17:46; 1Kg 8:41-43). If Pharaoh and the Egyptians continued in their rebellion, he would unleash all his plagues against them so that in the end they would know there is no one like him. He also made clear that he could have easily wiped out Pharaoh and the Egyptians already, but Pharaoh's stubbornness was being used as an opportunity to declare the glory of God all over the world (v. 16). Other passages had mentioned God's desire that Israel, Pharaoh, and the Egyptians would know him (e.g., 6:7; 7:5,17), but this verse takes it a significant step further.

THE EIGHTH PLAGUE: LOCUSTS

10 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh, for I have hardened his heart and the hearts of his officials so that I may do these miraculous signs of mine among them, † † 2 and so that you may tell † your son and grandson † how severely I dealt with the Egyptians and performed miraculous signs among them, and you will know that I am the LORD."

3 So Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh and told him, "This is what the LORD, the God of the Hebrews, says: How long will you refuse to humble yourself before me? Let my people go, that they may worship me. † 4 But if you refuse to let my people go, then tomorrow I will bring locusts † into your territory. 5 They will cover the surface of the land so that no one will be able to see the land. They will eat the remainder left † to you that escaped the hail; they will eat every tree you have growing in the fields. 6 They will fill your houses, all your officials' houses, and the houses of all the Egyptians — something your fathers and grandfathers never saw since the time they occupied the land until today." Then he turned and left Pharaoh's presence.
7 Pharaoh's officials asked him, "How long must this man be a snare † to us? Let the men go, so that they may worship the LORD their God. Don't you realize yet that Egypt is devastated? "
8 So Moses and Aaron were brought back to Pharaoh. "Go, worship the LORD your God," Pharaoh said. "But exactly who will be going? "
9 Moses replied, "We will go with our young and with our old; we will go with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds because we must hold the LORD's festival." †
10 He said to them, "The Lord would have to be with you if I would ever let you and your families go! Look out — you're heading for trouble. 11 No, go — just able-bodied men — worship the LORD, since that's what you want." And they were driven from Pharaoh's presence.
12 The LORD then said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt, and the locusts will come up over it and eat every plant in the land, everything that the hail left." 13 So Moses stretched out his staff over the land of Egypt, and the LORD sent an east wind over the land all that day and through the night. By morning the east wind had brought in the locusts. 14 The locusts went up over the entire land of Egypt and settled on the whole territory of Egypt. Never before had there been such a large number of locusts, and there never will be again. † 15 They covered the surface of the whole land so that the land was black, and they consumed all the plants on the ground and all the fruit on the trees that the hail had left. Nothing green was left on the trees or the plants in the field throughout the land of Egypt. †

16 Pharaoh urgently sent for Moses and Aaron and said, “I have sinned against the LORD your God and against you. 17 Please forgive my sin once more and make an appeal to the LORD your God, so that he will just take this death away from me.” 18 Moses left Pharaoh’s presence and appealed to the LORD. †

19 Then the LORD changed the wind to a strong west † wind, and it carried off the locusts and blew them into the Red Sea. † Not a single locust was left in all the territory of Egypt. 20 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh’s heart, † and he did not let the Israelites go.

THE NINTH PLAGUE: DARKNESS

21 Then the LORD said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward heaven, and there will be darkness over the land of Egypt, a darkness that can be felt.” 22 So Moses stretched out his hand toward heaven, and there was thick darkness throughout the land of Egypt for three days. 23 One person could not see another, and for three days they did not move from where they were. Yet all the Israelites had light where they lived. †

24 Pharaoh summoned Moses and said, “Go, worship the LORD. Even your families may go with you; only your flocks and herds must stay behind.”

25 Moses responded, “You must also let us have † sacrifices and burnt offerings to prepare for the LORD our God. 26 Even our livestock must go with us; not a hoof will be left behind because we will take some of them to worship the LORD our God. We will not know what we will use to worship the LORD until we get there.”

27 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh’s heart, † and he was unwilling to let them go. 28 Pharaoh said to him, “Leave me! Make sure you never see my face again, for on the day you see my face, you will die.”

29 “As you have said,” Moses replied, “I will never see your face again.” †

10:1-2 Preceding passages mentioned that the stubbornness of Pharaoh gave an opportunity for the demonstration of God's miraculous signs (3:19-20; 7:3-5; 9:13-16). This passage specifically expresses God's intention that future generations (your son and grandson; see also 12:24-28) might be taught about these things and know that I am the LORD.

10:3 Despite the seven preceding plagues, Pharaoh had repeatedly rejected the Lord's command to Let my people go (7:16; 8:1,20; 9:1,13). Thus far, he had refused to humble himself before the Lord, but his resistance was to no avail.

10:7 Pharaoh's magicians had already acknowledged the Lord's power (8:19), and this time his officials recognized the obvious and appealed to him to let the Israelites go. The recent hailstorm was unprecedented in its severity (9:24) and likewise the threatened locust invasion (v. 6).

10:12-15 The eighth plague was the devastation of innumerable locusts. People in the ancient Near East often viewed locusts as divine punishment and a curse. Several examples of this are found in the Bible (cp. Jl 1:2-14; Am 4:9).

10:22 The ninth plague, darkness, may have targeted one of several Egyptian sun gods. It is difficult to know which Egyptian deity is in view, but the point is that the power of the gods is meaningless in comparison to that of the God of the Israelites.

THE TENTH PLAGUE: DEATH OF THE FIRSTBORN

11 The LORD said † to Moses, "I will bring one more plague on Pharaoh and on Egypt. After that, he will let you go from here. When he lets you go, † he will drive you out of here. 2 Now announce to the people that both men and women should ask their neighbors for silver and gold items." 3 The LORD gave † the people favor with the Egyptians. In addition, Moses himself was very highly regarded † in the land of Egypt by † Pharaoh's officials and the people. †
4 So Moses said, "This is what the LORD says: About midnight I will go throughout Egypt, 5 and every firstborn male in the land of Egypt will die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sits on his throne to the firstborn of the servant girl who is at the grindstones, as well as every firstborn of the livestock. 6 Then there will be a great cry of anguish through all the land of Egypt such as never was before or ever will be again. 7 But against all the Israelites, whether people or animals, not even a dog will snarl, † so that you may know that the LORD makes a distinction between Egypt and Israel. 8 All these officials of yours will come down to me and bow before me, saying: Get out, you and all the people who follow you. † After that, I will get out." And he went out from Pharaoh's presence fiercely angry. †

9 The LORD said to Moses, "Pharaoh will not listen † to you, so that my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt." 10 Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh, but the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, † and he would not let the Israelites go out of his land.

11:1 The tenth plague, the killing of the firstborn, would finally result in Pharaoh letting the Israelites go. This plague had been hinted at earlier when God threatened to take the life of Pharaoh's firstborn son (4:22-23), but it would actually reach not only to Pharaoh's household but to "every firstborn male in the land of Egypt" and even to "every firstborn of the livestock" (v. 5). As was the case before, God would make "a distinction between Egypt and Israel" so that the latter would be left in peace (v. 7; see 8:22-24 9:4-7,26; 10:23).

11:2-3 The Lord had also predicted previously that when the Israelites left Egypt, they would be supplied by the Egyptians (3:21-22; see also 12:35-36).

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PASSOVER

12 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt: 2 "This month is to be the beginning of months for you; it is the first month of your year. † 3 Tell the whole community of Israel that on the tenth day of this month they must each select an animal of the flock according to their fathers' families, one animal per family. 4 If the household is too small for a whole animal, that person and the neighbor nearest his house are to select one based on the combined number of people; you should apportion the animal according to what each will eat. 5 You must have an unblemished † animal, a year-old male; you may take it from either the sheep or the goats. 6 You are to keep it until the fourteenth day of this month; then the whole assembly of the community of Israel will slaughter the animals at twilight. † 7 They must take some of the blood and put it on the two doorposts and the lintel of the houses where they eat them. 8 They are to eat the meat that night; they should eat it, roasted over the fire along with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. † 9 Do not eat any of it raw or cooked in boiling † water, but only roasted † over fire — its head as well as its legs and inner organs. 10 You must not leave any of it until

12 "I will pass through † the land of Egypt on that night and strike every firstborn male in the land of Egypt, both people and animals. I am the LORD; I will execute judgments against all the gods of Egypt. † 13 The blood on the houses where you are staying will be a distinguishing mark for you; when I see the blood, I will pass over you. No plague will be among you to destroy you when I strike the land of Egypt.
14 "This day is to be a memorial for you, and you must celebrate it as a festival to the LORD. You are to celebrate it throughout your generations as a permanent statute. † 15 You must eat unleavened bread for seven days. On the first day you must remove yeast † from your houses. Whoever eats what is leavened from the first day through the seventh day must be cut off † from Israel. 16 You are to hold a sacred assembly † on the first day and another sacred assembly on the seventh day. No work may be done on those days except for preparing what people need to eat — you may do only that.
17 "You are to observe the Festival of Unleavened Bread because on this very day I brought your military divisions out of the land of Egypt. † You must observe this day throughout your generations as a permanent statute. 18 You are to eat unleavened bread in the first month, † from the evening of the fourteenth day of the month until the evening of the twenty-first day. 19 Yeast must not be found in your houses for seven days. If anyone eats something leavened, that person, whether a resident alien or native of the land, must be cut off from the community of Israel. 20 Do not eat anything leavened; eat unleavened bread in all your homes." † 21 Then Moses summoned all the elders of Israel and said to them, "Go, select an animal from the flock according to your families, and slaughter the Passover animal. † 22 Take a cluster of hyssop, dip it in the blood † that is in the basin, and brush the lintel and the two doorposts with some of the blood in the basin. None of you may go out the door of his house until morning. 23 When the LORD passes through to strike Egypt and sees the blood on the lintel and the two doorposts, he will pass over the door and not let the destroyer enter your houses to strike you. † 24 “Keep this command permanently as a statute for you and your descendants.

25 When you enter the land that the LORD will give you as he promised, you are to observe this ceremony. 26 When your children † ask you, ‘What does this ceremony mean to you?’ 27 you are to reply, ‘It is the Passover sacrifice † to the LORD, for he passed over the houses of the Israelites in Egypt when he struck the Egyptians and spared our homes.’ ” So the people knelt low and worshiped.
28 Then the Israelites went and did this; they did just as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron.

THE EXODUS

29 Now at midnight the LORD struck every firstborn male in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat on his throne to the firstborn of the prisoner who was in the dungeon, and every firstborn of the livestock. †
30 During the night Pharaoh got up, he along with all his officials and all the Egyptians, and there was a loud wailing † throughout Egypt because there wasn’t a house without someone dead. 31 He summoned Moses and Aaron during the night and said, “Get out immediately from among my people, both you and the Israelites, and go, worship the LORD as you have said. 32 Take even your flocks and your herds as you asked and leave, and also bless me.”
33 Now the Egyptians pressured the people in order to send them quickly out of the country, for they said, “We’re all going to die!” † 34 So the people took their dough before it was leavened, with their kneading bowls wrapped up in their clothes on their shoulders.
35 The Israelites acted on Moses’s word and asked the Egyptians for silver and gold items and for clothing. † 36 And the LORD gave the people such favor with the Egyptians that they gave them what they requested. In this way they plundered the Egyptians.
37 The Israelites traveled from Rameses to Succoth, † about six hundred thousand † able-bodied men on foot, besides their families. 38 A mixed crowd also went up with them, along with a huge number of livestock, both flocks and herds. 39 The people baked the dough they had brought out of Egypt into unleavened loaves, since it had no yeast; for when they were driven † out of Egypt, they could not delay and had not prepared provisions for themselves.

40 The time that the Israelites lived in Egypt † was 430 years. † 41 At the end of 430 years, on that same day, all the LORD's military divisions went out from the land of Egypt. 42 It was a night of vigil in honor of the LORD, because he would bring them out of the land of Egypt. This same night is in honor of the LORD, a night vigil for all the Israelites throughout their generations. †

PASSOVER INSTRUCTION

43 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "This is the statute of the Passover: no foreigner may eat it. 44 But any slave a man has purchased may eat it, after you have circumcised him. 45 A temporary resident or hired worker may not eat the Passover. † 46 It is to be eaten in one house. You may not take any of the meat outside the house, and you may not break any of its bones. † 47 The whole community of Israel must celebrate † it. 48 If an alien resides among you and wants to observe the LORD's Passover, every male in his household must be circumcised, and then he may participate; † he will become like a native of the land. But no uncircumcised person may eat it. 49 The same law will apply to both the native and the alien † who resides among you."
50 Then all the Israelites did this; they did just as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron. 51 On that same day the LORD brought the Israelites out of the land of Egypt according to their military divisions. †

12:3-11 The correspondence between the Passover animal (a lamb or kid) and Jesus have long been observed. Paul remarked in 1 Corinthians 5:7, "Christ our Passover has been sacrificed." The prophet

Isaiah also likened the Messiah to an innocent lamb (Hb seh) who was killed for the salvation of others (see Is 53:5-9).

12:12 The narrative has focused on the contest between the Lord and Pharaoh (e.g., 5:2; 10:3). It was Pharaoh himself whose heart was hard and who had refused to let the Israelites go, and God had repeatedly demonstrated his superior power through the plagues. He would do so once more in climactic fashion on the Passover. This verse also adds that this would be a judgment against all the gods of Egypt (see also 18:11; Nm 33:4). The Egyptians indeed worshiped other gods, and although they have not been mentioned in the narrative, God declares here that he is superior to them as well. Moreover, these gods are not really gods at all, for as Isaiah 45:5 says, "I am the LORD, and there is no other; there is no God but me" (see also Dt 4:35,39; 6:4).

12:24-27 The Lord intended for both the Passover ritual and its significance to be passed down from generation to generation (see also 10:1-2). See "Christian Perspectives on Children's Education," p. 225.

12:31-32 At long last, Pharaoh had let the Israelites go, as God had promised (see 3:19-20; 6:1; 11:1).

12:40-42 Special mention is made of the length of Israel's stay in Egypt. The 430 years here agrees essentially with what God had predicted to Abraham long ago: his descendants would live in a foreign country and be enslaved for 400 years (Gn 15:13), a duration which may have been intended as an approximate figure.

12:46 This seemingly insignificant detail (see also Nm 9:12; Ps 34:20) is taken up in John 19:31-36 as having prophetic significance that was fulfilled when Jesus's legs were not broken along with those of the men crucified alongside him.

13 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Consecrate every firstborn male † to me, the firstborn from every womb among the Israelites, both man and domestic animal; it is mine."
3 Then Moses said to the people, "Remember this day when you came out of Egypt, out of the place of slavery, for the LORD brought you out of here by the strength of his hand. Nothing leavened may be eaten. † 4 Today, in the month of Abib, † † you are going out. 5 When the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites, Hethites, Amorites, Hivites, and Jebusites, † which he swore to your fathers that he would give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, † you must carry out this ceremony in this month. † 6 For seven days you must eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day there is to be a festival to the LORD.
7 Unleavened bread is to be eaten for those seven days. Nothing leavened may be found among you, and no yeast may be found among you in all your territory.
8 On that day explain to your son, 'This is because of what the LORD did for me when I came out of Egypt.' † 9 Let it serve as a sign for you on your hand and as a reminder on your forehead, † † so that the LORD's instruction may be in your mouth; for the LORD brought you out of Egypt with a strong hand. 10 Keep this statute at its appointed time from year to year.

11 "When the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites, as he swore to you and your fathers, and gives it to you, 12 you are to present to the LORD every firstborn male of the womb. All firstborn offspring of the livestock you own that are males will be the LORD's. 13 You must redeem every firstborn of a donkey with a flock animal, but if you do not redeem it, break its neck. However, you must redeem every firstborn among your sons. †
14 "In the future, when your son † asks you, 'What does this mean?' say to him, 'By the strength of his hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt, out of the place of slavery. 15 When Pharaoh stubbornly refused to let us go, the LORD killed every firstborn male in the land of Egypt, both the firstborn of humans and the firstborn of livestock. That is why I sacrifice to the LORD all the firstborn of the womb that are males, but I redeem all the firstborn of my sons.' 16 So let it be a sign on your hand and a symbol † on your forehead, for the LORD brought us out of Egypt by the strength of his hand." †

THE ROUTE OF THE EXODUS

17 When Pharaoh let the people go, God did not lead them along the road to the land of the Philistines, even though it was nearby; for God said, "The people will change their minds and return to Egypt if they face war." † 18 So he led the people around toward the Red Sea along the road of the wilderness. And the Israelites left the land of Egypt in battle formation. †
19 Moses took the bones of Joseph † with him, because Joseph had made the Israelites swear a solemn oath, saying, "God will certainly come to your aid; then you must take my bones with you from this place."
20 They set out from Succoth and camped at Etham on the edge of the wilderness. 21 The LORD went ahead of them in a pillar of cloud † to lead them on their way during the day and in a pillar of fire to give them light at night, so that they could travel day or night. 22 The pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night never left its place in front of the people.

13:2 The consecration of every firstborn Israelite male to God was based on the fact that they were his because he had spared them from death during the Passover (see also v. 15).

13:3-10 The celebration of the Feast of Unleavened Bread was related to the Passover because that is what the Israelites ate as they departed in haste (see 12:39).

13:19 Hebrews 11:22 says that it was "by faith" that Joseph requested the removal of his bones from Egypt (see Gn 50:24-25).

13:21-22 The pillar of cloud and pillar of fire, which would also accompany the Israelites throughout their time in the wilderness (see 40:36-38; Nm 9:15-23), appear here for the first time.

14 Then the LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Tell the Israelites to turn back and camp in front of Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea; you must camp in front of Baal-zephon, facing it by the sea. † 3 Pharaoh will say of the Israelites: They are wandering around the land in confusion; the wilderness has boxed them in. 4 I will harden Pharaoh's heart so that he will pursue them. Then I will receive glory by means of Pharaoh and all his army, and the Egyptians will know that I am the LORD." So the Israelites did this. †

THE EGYPTIAN PURSUIT

5 When the king of Egypt was told that the people had fled, Pharaoh and his officials changed their minds about the people and said: "What have we done?
We have released Israel from serving us." 6 So he got his chariot ready and took his troops † with him; 7 he took six hundred of the best chariots and all the rest of the chariots of Egypt, with officers in each one. 8 The LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued the Israelites, who were going out defiantly. † † 9 The Egyptians — all Pharaoh's horses and chariots, his horsemen, † and his army — chased † after them and caught up with them as they camped by the sea beside Pi-hahiroth, in front of Baal-zephon.
10 As Pharaoh approached, the Israelites looked up and there were the Egyptians coming after them! The Israelites were terrified and cried out † to the LORD for help. 11 They said to Moses: "Is it because there are no graves in Egypt that you have taken us away to die in the wilderness? What have you done to us by bringing us out of Egypt? 12 Isn't this what we told you in Egypt: Leave us alone so that we may serve the Egyptians? It would have been better for us to serve the Egyptians than to die in the wilderness." †

13 But Moses said to the people, "Don't be afraid. Stand firm and see † the LORD's salvation that he will accomplish for you today; for the Egyptians you see today, you will never see again. 14 The LORD will fight for you, and you must be quiet." †

ESCAPE THROUGH THE RED SEA

15 The LORD said to Moses, "Why are you crying out to me? Tell the Israelites to break camp. 16 As for you, lift up your staff, stretch out your hand over the sea, and divide it so that the Israelites can go through the sea on dry ground. † 17 As for me, I am going to harden the hearts of the Egyptians so that they will go in after them, and I will receive glory by means of Pharaoh, all his army, and his chariots and horsemen. 18 The Egyptians will know that I am the LORD when I receive glory through Pharaoh, his chariots, and his horsemen."

19 Then the angel of God, † who was going in front of the Israelite forces, moved and went behind them. The pillar of cloud moved from in front of them and stood behind them. † 20 It came between the Egyptian and Israelite forces. There was cloud and darkness, it lit up the night, and neither group came near the other all night long.

21 Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea. The LORD drove the sea back with a powerful east wind all that night and turned the sea into dry land. So the waters were divided, † 22 and the Israelites went through the sea on dry ground, with the waters like a wall to them on their right and their left. †

23 The Egyptians set out in pursuit — all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen — and went into the sea after them. 24 During the morning watch, the LORD looked down at the Egyptian forces from the pillar of fire † and cloud, and threw the Egyptian forces into confusion. 25 He caused their chariot wheels to swerve † † and made them drive † with difficulty. "Let's get away from Israel," the Egyptians said, "because the LORD is fighting for them against Egypt! "

26 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the sea so that the water may come back on the Egyptians, on their chariots and horsemen." 27 So

Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and at daybreak the sea returned to its normal depth. While the Egyptians were trying to escape from it, the LORD threw them into the sea. † 28 The water came back and covered the chariots † and horsemen, plus the entire army of Pharaoh that had gone after them into the sea. Not even one of them survived.

29 But the Israelites had walked through the sea on dry ground, with the waters like a wall to them on their right and their left. 30 That day the LORD saved Israel from the power of the Egyptians, and Israel saw the Egyptians dead on the seashore. 31 When Israel saw the great power that the LORD used against the Egyptians, the people feared the LORD and believed † in him and in his servant Moses.

14:1-4 Though Pharaoh had already let the Israelites go (12:31-32), God instructed them to turn back so that Pharaoh would think they were wandering around the land in confusion and pursue them. In this way, God would receive glory by means of Pharaoh and all his army (see also vv. 17,18). Like 9:13-16, this passage provides a powerful example of God's desire to be glorified.

14:11-12 The Israelites' fickleness and complaining against Moses was an unfortunate sign of things to come (see 16:3; 17:3).

14:23-25 Just as Moses had assured the Israelites of God's salvation and that he would fight for them (vv. 13-14), the LORD looked down at the Egyptians forces . . . and threw [them] into confusion, so that even the Egyptians recognized that the LORD is fighting for them against Egypt (see also 8:19; 10:7).

14:28-31 Not only had the Israelites been freed, but the entire army of Pharaoh had been drowned (15:19), to the glory of God (vv. 2-4,17-18). He had saved Israel from the power of the Egyptians (see also v. 13). The Israelites responded by fear[ing] the LORD and believ[ing] in him and in his servant Moses (see also 4:31). But this response of faith would be short-lived (see Nm 14:11; Ps 78:22,32).

ISRAEL'S SONG

15 Then Moses and the Israelites sang this song to the LORD. They said:

I will sing to the LORD, for he is highly exalted;
he has thrown the horse
and its rider into the sea.

2 The LORD is my strength and my song; † he has become my salvation. †
This is my God, and I will praise him, my father's God, and I will exalt him. † 3 The LORD is a warrior; † the LORD is his name. †

4 He threw Pharaoh's chariots and his army into the sea;
the elite of his officers were drowned in the Red Sea. †
5 The floods covered them; they sank to the depths like a stone. †
6 LORD, your right hand is glorious in power.
LORD, your right hand shattered the enemy. †
7 You overthrew your adversaries by your great majesty.
You unleashed your burning wrath;
it consumed them like stubble. †
8 The water heaped up † at the blast from your nostrils; the currents stood firm like a dam.
The watery depths congealed in the heart of the sea.
9 The enemy said: "I will pursue, I will overtake,
I will divide the spoil. †
My desire will be gratified at their expense.
I will draw my sword;
my hand will destroy † them."
10 But you blew with your breath, and the sea covered them.
They sank like lead in the mighty waters.

11 LORD, who is like you among the gods?
Who is like you, glorious in holiness, † revered with praises, performing wonders? † 12 You stretched out your right hand, and the earth swallowed them.
13 With your faithful love, you will lead the people you have redeemed;

you will guide them to your holy dwelling with your strength. †

14 When the peoples hear, they will shudder; anguish will seize the inhabitants of Philistia.
15 Then the chiefs of Edom will be terrified; † trembling will seize the leaders of Moab;
all the inhabitants of Canaan will panic;
16 terror † and dread will fall on them.
They will be as still † as a stone because of your powerful arm until your people pass by, LORD, until the people whom you purchased † pass by. †

17 You will bring them in and plant them on the mountain of your possession; †
LORD, you have prepared the place for your dwelling;
Lord, † your hands have established the sanctuary.
18 The LORD will reign † forever and ever!

19 When Pharaoh's horses with his chariots and horsemen went into the sea, the LORD brought the water of the sea back over them. But the Israelites walked through the sea on dry ground. 20 Then the prophetess Miriam, † Aaron's sister, took a tambourine in her hand, and all the women came out following her with tambourines and dancing. † 21 Miriam sang to them:

Sing to the LORD, for he is highly exalted;
he has thrown the horse
and its rider into the sea.

WATER PROVIDED

22 Then Moses led Israel on from the Red Sea, and they went out to the Wilderness of Shur. They journeyed for three days in the wilderness without finding water. 23 They came to Marah, but they could not drink the water at Marah because it was bitter — that is why it was named Marah. † 24 The people grumbled to Moses, “What are we going to drink?” † 25 So he cried out to the LORD, and the LORD showed him a tree. When he threw it into the water, the water became drinkable.

The LORD made a statute and ordinance for them at Marah, and he tested them there. † 26 He said, “If you will carefully obey the LORD your God, do what is right in his sight, pay attention to his commands, and keep all his statutes, I will not inflict any illnesses on you that I inflicted on the Egyptians. For I am the LORD who heals you.” †

27 Then they came to Elim, where there were twelve springs and seventy date palms, and they camped there by the water.

15:1 This verse begins the second major poetic section in the Pentateuch (vv. 1-18). The other three are Genesis 49:1-32; Numbers 23:7-10,18-24 and 24:3-9,15-19; and Deuteronomy 32–33. These four poetic sections play a key role in the structure and message of the Pentateuch as a whole. Like the other three, this one involves the main character in the narrative (Moses) calling an audience together. Unlike the other three, it does not use the phrase “in the last days” (lit Gn 49:1; Nm 24:14; Dt 31:29; Hb be’acharit hayyamim) or contain a messianic prophecy (see Gn 49:8-12; Nm 24:17; Dt 33:7). See also the notes on Genesis 1:1; 49:1.

15:17-18 Most of this song consists of a triumphant celebration of God’s recent victory over Pharaoh and his army (vv. 1-12). These two verses, on the other hand, look forward to what he will do for his people in the future and to his eternal reign. In view of the fact that “the Most High does not dwell in sanctuaries made with hands” (Ac 7:48), the sanctuary that God’s own hands have established for his dwelling mentioned here probably does not refer to Solomon’s temple or to any other man-made structure but to something that he himself distinctively and recognizably prepared (see also Is 2:2-4; 66:1-2; Pss 48:8; 87:5; 114:2), such as the church (Mt 16:18; 1Co 3:9; Eph 2:21-22; 1Pt 2:5).

15:22-24 The euphoria of the exodus from Egypt and deliverance at the Red Sea quickly faded when the Israelites went without finding water for three days. As they would do on many future occasions (e.g., 16:2; 17:3; Nm 14:2; 17:6), they grumbled against Moses.

MANNA AND QUAIL PROVIDED

16 The entire Israelite community departed from Elim and came to the Wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after they had left the land of Egypt. † 2 The entire Israelite community grumbled † against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness. 3 The Israelites said to them, “If only we had died by the LORD’s hand in the land of Egypt, when we sat by pots of meat and ate all the bread we wanted. Instead, you brought us into this wilderness to make this whole assembly die of hunger! ” †

4 Then the LORD said to Moses, “I am going to rain bread from heaven for you. The people are to go out each day and gather enough for that day. This way I will test them to see whether or not they will follow my instructions. † 5 On the sixth day, when they prepare what they bring in, it will be twice as much as they gather on other days.” †

6 So Moses and Aaron said to all the Israelites: “This evening you will know that it was the LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt, † 7 and in the morning you will see the LORD’s glory because he has heard your complaints about him. For who are we that you complain about us? ” † 8 Moses continued, “The LORD will give you meat to eat this evening and all the bread you want in the morning, for he has heard the complaints that you are raising against him. Who are we? Your complaints are not against us but against the LORD.” †

9 Then Moses told Aaron, “Say to the entire Israelite community, ‘Come before the LORD, for he has heard your complaints.’ ” 10 As Aaron was speaking to the entire Israelite community, they turned toward the wilderness, and there in a cloud the LORD’s glory appeared. †

11 The LORD spoke to Moses, 12 “I have heard the complaints of the Israelites. Tell them: At twilight you will eat meat, and in the morning you will eat bread until you are full. Then you will know that I am the LORD your God.”

13 So at evening quail † came and covered the camp. In the morning there was a layer of dew all around the camp. 14 When the layer of dew evaporated, there were fine flakes on the desert surface, as fine as frost on the ground. 15 When the Israelites saw it, they asked one another, “What is it? ” because they didn’t know what it was.

Moses told them, “It is the bread the LORD has given you to eat. † 16 This is what the LORD has commanded: ‘Gather as much of it as each person needs to eat. You may take two quarts † per individual, according to the number of people each of you has in his tent.’ ”

17 So the Israelites did this. Some gathered a lot, some a little. 18 When they measured it by quarts, † the person who gathered a lot had no surplus, and the person who gathered a little had no shortage. Each gathered as much as he needed to eat. † 19 Moses said to them, “No one is to let any of it remain until morning.” 20 But they didn’t listen to Moses; some people left part of it until morning, and it bred worms and stank. Therefore Moses was angry with them.
21 They gathered it every morning. Each gathered as much as he needed to eat, but when the sun grew hot, it melted. 22 On the sixth day they gathered twice as much food, four quarts † apiece, and all the leaders of the community came and reported this to Moses. 23 He told them, “This is what the Lord has said: ‘Tomorrow is a day of complete rest, a holy Sabbath † to the Lord. Bake what you want to bake, and boil what you want to boil, and set aside everything left over to be kept until morning.’ ”
24 So they set it aside until morning as Moses commanded, and it didn’t stink or have maggots in it. 25 “Eat it today,” Moses said, “because today is a Sabbath to the Lord. Today you won’t find any in the field. 26 For six days you will gather it, but on the seventh day, the Sabbath, there will be none.”
27 Yet on the seventh day some of the people went out to gather, but they did not find any. 28 Then the Lord said to Moses, “How long will you † refuse to keep my commands † and instructions? 29 Understand that the Lord has given you the Sabbath; therefore on the sixth day he will give you two days’ worth of bread. Each of you stay where you are; no one is to leave his place on the seventh day.” 30 So the people rested on the seventh day.
31 The house of Israel named the substance manna. † † It resembled coriander seed, was white, and tasted like wafers made with honey. 32 Moses said, “This is what the Lord has commanded: ‘Two quarts † of it are to be preserved throughout your generations, so that they may see the bread I fed you in the wilderness when I brought you out of the land of Egypt.’ ”
33 Moses told Aaron, “Take a container and put two quarts † of manna in it. Then place it before the Lord to be preserved throughout your generations.”
34 As the Lord commanded Moses, Aaron placed it before the testimony † to be preserved.

35 The Israelites ate manna for forty years, until they came to an inhabited land.
They ate manna until they reached the border of the land of Canaan. † 36 (They used a measure called an omer, which held two quarts. †)

16:4-30 Whereas the Israelites were in need of water at Marah (15:22-25), now they were in need of food (vv. 1-3). Again, they grumbled against their leaders (see also 14:11-12; 15:24), who informed them that their complaints are not against them but against God. The giving of only enough bread for each day served not only to meet the Israelites' physical needs but also to provide an opportunity to test them to see whether or not they would follow God's instructions related to its gathering. Nevertheless, some Israelites did not follow the instruction not to keep any manna for the next day, and some disobeyed by going out to gather it on the Sabbath. The people had failed God's test of obedience (see also 15:25-26), and he was displeased.

WATER FROM THE ROCK

17 The entire Israelite community left the Wilderness of Sin, moving from one place to the next according to the LORD's command. They camped at Rephidim, but there was no water for the people to drink. † 2 So the people complained to Moses, "Give us water to drink."

"Why are you complaining to me?" Moses replied to them. "Why are you testing † the LORD?"

3 But the people thirsted there for water and grumbled against Moses. They said, "Why did you ever bring us up from Egypt to kill us and our children and our livestock with thirst?" †

4 Then Moses cried out to the LORD, "What should I do with these people? In a little while they will stone me!" †

5 The LORD answered Moses, "Go on ahead of the people and take some of the elders of Israel with you. Take the staff you struck the Nile with in your hand and go. 6 I am going to stand there in front of you on the rock at Horeb; when you hit the rock, water † will come out of it and the people will drink." Moses did this in the sight of the elders of Israel. 7 He named the place Massah † and Meribah † † because the Israelites complained, and because they tested the LORD, saying, “Is the LORD among us or not? ”

THE AMALEKITES ATTACK

8 At Rephidim, Amalek † † came and fought against Israel. 9 Moses said to Joshua, † “Select some men for us and go fight against Amalek. Tomorrow I will stand on the hilltop with God’s staff in my hand.”
10 Joshua did as Moses had told him, and fought against Amalek, while Moses, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill. 11 While Moses held up his hand, † Israel prevailed, but whenever he put his hand † down, Amalek prevailed. † 12 When Moses’s hands grew heavy, they took a stone and put it under him, and he sat down on it. Then Aaron and Hur supported his hands, one on one side and one on the other so that his hands remained steady until the sun went down. 13 So Joshua defeated Amalek and his army † with the sword.
14 The LORD then said to Moses, “Write this down on a scroll as a reminder and recite it to Joshua: I will completely blot out the memory of Amalek under heaven.” †
15 And Moses built an altar † and named it, “The LORD Is My Banner.” † 16 He said, “Indeed, my hand is lifted up toward † the LORD’s throne. The LORD will be at war with Amalek from generation to generation.”

17:1-7 Once again, the Israelites needed water (see also 15:22-23) and grumbled against Moses (see also 15:24; 16:2). The Lord miraculously brought out water from the rock for them, but their constant grumbling had amounted to testing the Lord (see also Dt 6:16).

17:8-15 Joshua and his army were following Moses’s orders by doing battle with Amalek. Their success, however, did not depend on their own strength but on whether Moses’s hands were upraised. It evidently did not depend on Moses’s strength either, since he himself needed help to keep his hands raised. The reason for Moses’s gesture is not certain. Perhaps it was a call to battle, like the raising of Joshua’s javelin (cp. Jos 8:18). Several passages associate the lifting up of hands with prayer (e.g., Pss 28:2; 141:2; 1Tm 2:8); another possibility is that Moses was calling attention to the presence of God as the source of their military might.

JETHRO'S VISIT

18 Moses's father-in-law Jethro, the priest of Midian, † heard about everything that God had done for Moses and for God's people Israel when the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt.
2 Now Jethro, Moses's father-in-law, had taken in Zipporah, † Moses's wife, after he had sent her back, 3 along with her two sons, one of whom was named Gershom † (because Moses had said, "I have been a resident alien in a foreign land") † 4 and the other Eliezer (because he had said, "The God of my father was my helper and rescued me from Pharaoh's sword"). † 5 Moses's father-in-law Jethro, along with Moses's wife and sons, came to him in the wilderness where he was camped at the mountain of God. † 6 He sent word to Moses, "I, your father-in-law Jethro, am coming to you with your wife and her two sons."
7 So Moses went out to meet his father-in-law, bowed down, † and then kissed him. They asked each other how they had been † and went into the tent.
8 Moses recounted to his father-in-law all that the LORD had done to Pharaoh and the Egyptians for Israel's sake, all the hardships that confronted them on the way, and how the LORD rescued them. † 9 Jethro rejoiced over all the good things the LORD had done for Israel when he rescued them from the power of the Egyptians. 10 "Blessed be the LORD," † Jethro exclaimed, "who rescued you from the power of Egypt and from the power of Pharaoh. He has rescued the people from under the power of Egypt!
11 Now I know that the LORD is greater than all gods, because he did wonders when the Egyptians acted arrogantly against Israel." † † 12 Then Jethro, Moses's father-in-law, brought a burnt offering and sacrifices to God, and Aaron came with all the elders of Israel to eat a meal with Moses's father-in-law in God's presence.
13 The next day Moses sat down to judge the people, and they stood around Moses from morning until evening. 14 When Moses's father-in-law saw everything he was doing for them he asked, "What is this thing you're doing for the people? Why are you alone sitting as judge, while all the people stand around you from morning until evening? "

15 Moses replied to his father-in-law, “Because the people come to me to inquire of God. 16 Whenever they have a dispute, it comes to me, and I make a decision between one man and another. I teach them God’s statutes and laws.” † 17 “What you’re doing is not good,” Moses’s father-in-law said to him. 18 “You will certainly wear out both yourself and these people who are with you, because the task is too heavy for you. You can’t do it alone. † 19 Now listen to me; I will give you some advice, and God be with you. You be the one to represent the people before God and bring their cases to him. 20 Instruct them about the statutes and laws, and teach them the way to live and what they must do. † 21 But you should select from all the people able men, God-fearing, trustworthy, and hating dishonest profit. † Place them over the people as commanders of thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens. † 22 They should judge the people at all times. Then they can bring you every major case but judge every minor case themselves. In this way you will lighten your load, † and they will bear it with you. † 23 If you do this, and God so directs you, you will be able to endure, and also all these people will be able to go home satisfied.” † 24 Moses listened to his father-in-law and did everything he said. 25 So Moses chose able men from all Israel and made them leaders over the people as commanders of thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens. 26 They judged the people at all times; they would bring the hard cases to Moses, but they would judge every minor case themselves.
27 Moses let his father-in-law go, and he journeyed to his own land. †

18:17-26 Jethro called Moses’s attempt to handle all the Israelites’ disputes not good. His counsel to appoint able men, who were God-fearing, trustworthy, and hating dishonest profit, helped to lighten Moses’s load. As was the case in 17:12, Moses could not do it alone. This passage also demonstrates that Israel was able to handle its own disputes prior to the giving of the law at Mount Sinai in the following chapters. Moreover, at this point the Israelites already had been given some of God’s statutes and laws (v. 16; see also 12:14; 13:10; 15:25; 16:4,28).

ISRAEL AT SINAI

19 In the third month from the very day the Israelites left the land of Egypt, they came to the Sinai Wilderness.

ELDERLY CARE

Most Christians are appalled by and work against the kinds of laws that make it easier to take the lives of the elderly. Most recoil in horror at news stories that report on corruption and abuse at nursing homes. But the real scandal might be the way in which God's people subtly contribute to a culture of discard and death for those considered past their prime.

HONOR YOUR FATHER AND MOTHER

Scripture is clear on the Christian responsibility for the elderly. "Honor your father and your mother" is an ethic woven throughout the Bible; it's a command given (Ex 20:12) and repeated (Eph 6:2) as a commandment from God in the old covenant and a responsibility of God's people in the new covenant (Eph 6:2). We moderns often read this as an admonition to be polite to Mom at Thanksgiving, but it means so much more than merely contributing to good vibes around the holidays.

The call to honor parents implies that children will not only respect those who brought them into this world, but will be responsible for their care in this life. Both the ancient Near Eastern culture of Exodus and the first-century culture of Ephesians devalued the elderly. Unlike Western societies, which fund safety nets like social security and Medicare, there were few provisions for aging populations within those cultures.

Early church fathers took the command as a mandate for younger children to financially provide for their parents. Origen, Ambrose, and Jerome are just a few who used these texts to encourage the people of God toward intentional care of elderly populations.

THE DIGNITY OF THE ELDERLY

Our views on the elderly should be shaped by the uniquely Christian concept of human dignity. The Bible teaches that every human life possesses value, not because of utility, but because each life bears the image of the Creator. Sin has corrupted the human condition, bringing death and disease, corruption and confusion. It has also turned humans against each other. One of the ways we strike out at our Creator is when we consider his image-bearers disposable enough to ignore or discard. Societies that reject Christian witness are often marked by their cruelty to elderly populations.

Jesus's life, death, and resurrection reversed the curse of sin and offers the promise of full bodily restorations for his people when he returns to fully consummate his kingdom. Those who follow Jesus embody this gospel news by caring for the most vulnerable, including those who advance in age and can no longer care for themselves. We should also follow an example from Jesus's earthly life: when nearing death, he instructed his best friend John to provide for the physical well-being of his mother Mary. Jesus, even while bearing our sin on the cross, still took time to honor his mother.

THE GOSPEL AND ELDER CARE

A Christian's attitude toward the elderly is a good indicator of just how much he or she believes the gospel. We care for our infirm parents, not because they parented us well but because they are image-bearers deserving dignity. We respect rather than dismiss our elders because we recognize the good fruit of God's sanctifying work in giving them wisdom beyond our years. We resist the culture's worship of youth and sex appeal because we as Christ-followers find our value not in our appearance, but in our status as sons and daughters of the King.

When we marginalize older generations, either by overt neglect or by subtle disrespect, we communicate to the world a different gospel than the upside-down kingdom of Christ. When we worship at the altar of relevance, we are, like the rich man in Jesus's parable in Luke 16, living as though we believe this life is all there is instead of believing the truth that Jesus will renew us, body and soul, in the final resurrection. When our churches prioritize the young at the expense of the old, we are living out an altogether different ethic than the intergenerational ideal of Titus 2.

A twofold responsibility for the church is thus implied. First, we should advocate for the dignity of the elderly in society. Today, in many Western societies, there are powerfully active movements to marginalize the elderly as a burden on society. We should use our voices and our votes to stand against inhumane government policies, utilitarian marketplace economics, and predatory financial practices.

Second, we should teach and model for the next generation of Christians what it means to respect and honor parents and older generations. Our church communities should be oases of dignity, embodying the true religion of caring for "orphans and widows in their distress" (Jms 1:27). In a cut-throat world that values people for their sex appeal and short-lived youthfulness, may the church resound with the countercultural message that all human life has dignity endowed by a Creator who visited sinners when they were least desirable (Rm 5:8).

DANIEL DARLING

2 They traveled from Rephidim, came to the Sinai Wilderness, and camped in the wilderness. Israel camped there in front of the mountain. † 3 Moses went up the mountain to God, and the LORD called † to him from the mountain: "This is what you must say to the house of Jacob and explain to the Israelites: 4 'You have seen what I did to the Egyptians and how I carried you on eagles' wings and brought you to myself. † 5 Now if you will carefully listen to me and keep my covenant, † you will be my own possession † out of all the peoples, although the whole earth is mine, 6 and you will be my kingdom of priests and my holy nation.' † These are the words that you are to say to the Israelites."
7 After Moses came back, he summoned the elders of the people and set before them all these words that the LORD had commanded him. 8 Then all the people responded together, "We will do all that the LORD has spoken." † So Moses brought the people's words back to the LORD.
9 The LORD said to Moses, "I am going to come to you in a dense cloud, † so that the people will hear when I speak † with you and will always believe you."
Moses reported the people's words to the LORD, 10 and the LORD told Moses,
"Go to the people and consecrate them today and tomorrow. They must wash their clothes † 11 and be prepared by the third day, for on the third day the LORD will come down on Mount Sinai in the sight of all the people. † 12 Put boundaries for the people all around the mountain and say: Be careful that you don't go up on the mountain or touch its base. Anyone who touches the mountain must be put to death. † 13 No hand may touch him; † instead he will be stoned or shot with arrows and not live, whether animal or human. When the ram's horn sounds a long blast, they may go up the mountain." 14 Then Moses came down from the mountain to the people and consecrated them, and they washed their clothes. 15 He said to the people, "Be prepared by the third day. Do not have sexual relations with women." 16 On the third day, when morning came, there was thunder and lightning, a thick cloud on the mountain, and a very loud trumpet sound, so that all the people in the camp shuddered. 17 Then Moses brought the people out of the camp to meet God, and they stood at the foot of the mountain. 18 Mount Sinai was completely enveloped in smoke because the LORD came down on it in fire. † Its smoke went up like the smoke of a furnace, † and the whole mountain shook violently. † 19 As the sound of the trumpet grew louder and louder, Moses spoke and God answered him in the thunder. † 20 The LORD came down on Mount Sinai at the top of the mountain. Then the LORD summoned Moses to the top of the mountain, and he went up. 21 The LORD directed Moses, "Go down and warn the people not to break through to see the LORD; otherwise many of them will die. † 22 Even the priests who come near the LORD must consecrate themselves, or the LORD will break out in anger against them." †

23 Moses responded to the LORD, "The people cannot come up Mount Sinai, since you warned us: Put a boundary around the mountain and consecrate it." 24 And the LORD replied to him, "Go down and come back with Aaron. But the priests and the people must not break through to come up to the LORD, or he will break out in anger against them." 25 So Moses went down to the people and told them.

19:1-2 When God appeared to Moses at the mountain known as Mount Sinai (also called Mount Horeb; see 33:6) earlier, he promised that Moses and the Israelites would "worship God at this mountain" (3:12). Less than two months after their departure from Egypt (12:2-12,51), they had arrived.

19:3-6 The Lord described his work on behalf of the Israelites as having carried [them] on eagles' wings (see also Dt 1:31; Is 40:31; 46:4). If they will carefully listen to [him] and keep [his] holy covenant (see also 15:26), they will be his own possession, a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation. Israel's identity as "a kingdom of priests" is significant in that Israel is not to be God's treasured possession for its own sake. Rather, the nation's task is to mediate the knowledge of God to the rest of the world. God is continuing to fulfill his promise that Abraham's descendants (i.e., Israel) will be a blessing to the rest of the nations (cp. Gn 12:3).

19:10-20 Israel was to prepare and be consecrated for a meeting with God at Mount Sinai on the third day. They were to wash their clothes, avoid touching the mountain, and abstain from sexual relations. At the appointed time, the LORD came down on Mount Sinai in dramatic fashion, accompanied by thunder, lightning, thick cloud, smoke, and fire. Even the whole mountain shook violently. The Israelites shuddered and stood at the foot of it in fear (see 20:18-21). Although God had said that they were supposed to go up the mountain when the ram's horn sounded long (see also 3:12), there is no indication that they ever did so—even though a trumpet was sounded (Dt 5:5). Jos 6:4 associates these two designations closely through its phrase, "ram's-horn trumpets" (see also vv. 5-6,8,13 [Hb]).

19:25-20:1 Though 19:25 could suggest that Moses reported the Ten Commandments to the people, Deuteronomy 5:4,22-27 explains that God spoke them directly to all the people. Thus, the events narrated here were not consecutive, and the giving of the Ten Commandments may overlap with what is described in 19:19. Chapter 19, verses 20-25 does relate to its present context through its reference to "a boundary around the mountain" (v. 23; see v. 12) and related warnings, but the events it narrates seem to have more to do with what is described in 20:21.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

20 Then God spoke all these words:

2 I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the place of slavery. †

3 Do not have other gods besides me. †

4 Do not make an idol † for yourself, whether in the shape of anything in the heavens above or on the earth below or in the waters under the earth. 5 Do not bow in worship to them, and do not serve them; for I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, † punishing the children for the fathers' iniquity, to the third and fourth generations † of those who hate me, 6 but showing faithful love to a thousand generations of those who love me and keep my commands. †

7 Do not misuse the name of the LORD your God, because the LORD will not leave anyone unpunished who misuses his name. †

8 Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy: † 9 You are to labor six days and do all your work, † 10 but the seventh day is a Sabbath to the LORD your God. You must not do any work — you, your son or daughter, your male or female servant, your livestock, or the resident alien who is within your city gates. † 11 For the LORD made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and everything in them in six days; then he rested on the seventh day. Therefore the LORD blessed the Sabbath day and declared it holy.

12 Honor your father and your mother † so that you may have a long life in the land that the LORD your God is giving you.

13 Do not murder. †

14 Do not commit adultery. †

15 Do not steal. †

16 Do not give false testimony against your neighbor. †

17 Do not covet your neighbor's house. Do not covet your neighbor's wife, his male or female servant, his ox or donkey, or anything that belongs to your neighbor. †

THE PEOPLE'S REACTION

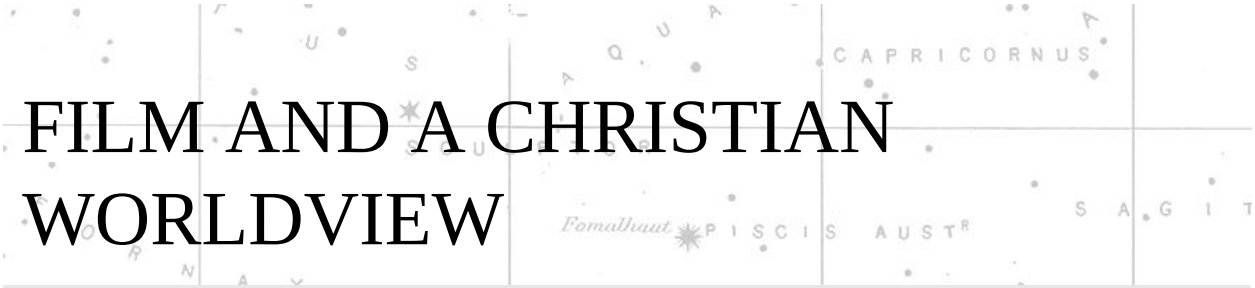
18 All the people witnessed † the thunder and lightning, the sound of the trumpet, and the mountain surrounded by smoke. When the people saw it † they trembled and stood at a distance. † 19 "You speak to us, and we will listen," they said to Moses, "but don't let God speak to us, or we will die." †

20 Moses responded to the people, “Don’t be afraid, for God has come to test you, so that you will fear him and will not † sin.” † 21 And the people remained standing at a distance as Moses approached the total darkness where God was. †

MOSES RECEIVES ADDITIONAL LAWS

22 Then the LORD told Moses, “This is what you are to say to the Israelites: You have seen that I have spoken to you from heaven. † 23 Do not make gods of silver to rival me; do not make gods of gold for yourselves. †

24 “Make an earthen altar for me, and sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and fellowship offerings, your flocks and herds. I will come to you and bless you in every place where I cause my name to be remembered. †



FILM AND A CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW

Arguably, film is the most influential art form in our culture. That’s not because there is something more important about film itself, but because the cost of making movies ensures that film companies spend millions of dollars to drive our awareness of them through marketing campaigns. Movies are so costly to produce that far fewer of them are made than music albums, TV shows, novels, or paintings. The expenses sunk into each film, in fact, ensure that they will be marketed in a way that makes it far more likely that you will know about a movie you’ve never seen than a band you’ve never listened to or a book you’ve never read. Such widespread awareness makes movies an important piece of common ground in our culture. For filmmakers, they offer opportunities to convey worldviews. And filmgoers receive opportunity to interact with those worldviews, be shaped by them, and discuss them as points of common interest.

ART AND WORLDVIEW

Art is a form of communication, and it always communicates the worldview of the artist. Often filmmakers intentionally share their worldviews.

To cite a few examples, the Star Wars series conveys a pantheistic view of the world. The 2005 film V for Vendetta is an argument for political anarchy (in the sense of self-rule). The 2012 movie Life of Pi portrays a Hindu worldview. Sometimes, however, filmmakers are unaware of the worldviews their movies end up expressing. Think about the 2004 film The Polar Express. Toward the end of the movie, the train conductor tells the boy what appears to be the moral of the story: “One thing about trains—it doesn’t matter where they’re going. What matters is deciding to get on.” In a nutshell, this is the philosophy of existentialist philosopher Jean Paul Sartre. In the face of a meaningless world, we are to assert ourselves and make meaning of the journey we choose. The movie, targeted to young kids, is probably not intended to create pre-school existentialists; nevertheless, that is the message that comes across. Viewers of all ages will catch the significance of the conductor's statement, and it will shape the worldview of many.

In order to create a world believable enough to engage an audience, filmmakers must first decide what kind of world their story unfolds in. What is the world? Who and what is god? Who are we? What is the problem with the world, and what is the solution to that problem? In other words, films have to have a worldview so that the story they tell can be understood. Films may not explicitly answer those questions, and some of them make a special point to remain ambiguous. Still, the internal logic of the world the movie depicts will address the questions and provide a way of understanding the story. This internal logic of the story and how these questions are answered is why fantasy movies, such as the Lord of the Rings series, can portray a biblical worldview as accurately as a biopic like Chariots of Fire (1981).

STORIES FOR LIFE

One of the things that make films so powerful and popular is their ability to engage us in a story that resonates with us in some way. Just as in our own lives, on-screen stories always have some kind of tension that needs resolution. Drama requires something to be wrong, something that is not the way it should be, sins that need atonement and redemption. But we also know that the story told in a movie will usually resolve with a satisfying ending.

As people made in the image of God, we have a yearning for the day when God will set things right and resolve the tensions in our lives and in the world. We invest ourselves in movies in part because the resolution we intuitively expect is a foreshadowing of the resolution God will bring to all of our stories. And when movies don't provide the resolution we want, when justice isn't served or the bad guy gets away, we recognize that something is wrong and we react strongly—almost as if the movie's outcome is our own. That our yearning for resolution is not satisfied in these cases points us to the only thing that can ultimately provide resolution for any and all problems—God.

WORLDVIEW AND THE FORM OF FILM

The form of film itself also reflects a biblical worldview in many ways. First, the screenwriter is revealing something to the audience, giving information in the form of a story. The director never gives all the information about everything we want to know about the story, yet they share enough that we can understand the plot and process the information. The information is revealed through a story that plays out in a linear fashion and moves toward a resolution (or lack of resolution) that was determined by the filmmakers before the story began to be told.

Notably, the filmmaker is transcendent in relation to the film itself, standing outside of the film as a creator and guide exercising sovereign control over every aspect of it. Not only does the director exist, but he or she wants to be known; in fact, we can know something about each director because they reveal hints to us through the stories they shape and the way they reveal them to us. It is much the same in religions such as Christianity, Judaism, and Islam. According to each of these worldviews, God exists, wants to be known, and has revealed himself generally through what he has made and, more specifically, through special revelations collected in sacred books.

ART AND THE REFLECTION OF GOD

It's important to remember that film, as a kind of art, justifies itself as an act of creation done in imitation of the God who created the ability to create. In that sense, all art reflects the God of the Bible because it is an impulse that is an integral part of being made in the image of God.

We shouldn't treat film, or any other art form, in a utilitarian way in which it is simply a kind of delivery vehicle for whatever message we want to share. That approach only results in bad art or propaganda. However, because film is an art form and therefore a kind of communication, it does always convey some message. From a Walt Disney fairy tale to a Woody Allen monologue, from the high drama of A Few Good Men to the hijinks of Ace Ventura, all films present worldviews and invite the audience to enter them. This gives Christians a powerful opportunity to talk about those worldviews with others. Almost without exception people love talking about the movies they've seen. Christians can engage them on the worldview themes put forward through film. By doing worldview analysis using movies, we can reveal the truthfulness of the biblical worldview in casual, everyday conversations.

FILM AND CHRISTIAN WITNESS

Finally, there is an increasing awareness within the Christian community that film is an art that, though largely given over to the promotion of non-Christian worldviews in our current culture, must not be abandoned. Like music and theater, the art of film is a powerful tool for reaching people and communicating with them the big picture ideas that matter most. Christians should both watch films and create them.

By watching films, especially the ones that cut against our beliefs, we stay current with the larger conversation of our culture and provide accountability for those who would misrepresent the biblical worldview. By creating films, we can be an active part of directing conversation and bringing audiences in touch with the sacred truth that satisfies more than anything else—God exists, wants to be known, and has created a story in which we are all invited to participate through placing faith in the Son he sent to live, die, and rise again.

20:2-17 God established a covenant with Israel at Mount Sinai. He began by identifying himself as the covenant giver: I am the LORD your God. Next, he reminded the people of how he had already saved them out of slavery in Egypt. The so-called Ten Commandments (Hb "ten words") were the formal obligations of the covenant (see also Dt 5:6-21). It is significant that they follow the historical introduction. Israel's obligations to God are a response to his saving work, not a prerequisite for receiving it. These commands govern both a person's relationship to God (vv. 2-11) and to fellow man (vv. 12-17; see "The Basics of Civil Law," p. 220). The underlying principles behind most—if not all—of them have already appeared in earlier passages, such as worship of God alone (Gn 35:2), Sabbath (Ex 16:22-26), honoring parents (Gn 9:20-25), and the prohibitions of murder (Gn 4:8-12; 9:5-6), adultery (Gn 12:17-19; 20:3-7; 39:9), and theft (Gn 31:19,30-36). Regarding the existence of other gods, see the note on 12:12. The other laws in Exodus, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy expand upon the Ten Commandments and provide other stipulations for life in community with God.

20:18-21 The Israelites' response to hearing the Ten Commandments mirrors their fear in 19:16. Upon experiencing the powerful natural phenomena accompanying God's descent to Mount Sinai (see also 19:16-18), they trembled and stood at a distance. Not only did they not ascend the mountain (see 19:13; but note the contrast in the last days, Is 2:2-3), but they were so terrified that they requested that Moses be their mediator henceforth because they thought they would die if they continued to hear God's voice directly. This request seems in tension with God's commands in 15:26 and 19:5 to "diligently listen" to his "voice" (lit trans.; see also 23:22). Moses counseled the Israelites not to be afraid, but to fear God in such a way that they would flee sin, not God (see also Jb 1:1; Pr 16:6). Israel's terror and standing at a distance contrasts with Moses's approach to the total darkness where God was.

20:22-25 These first laws that Moses receives while atop Mount Sinai concern the worship of God, just like the first two of the Ten Commandments (20:3-6; see also 22:20; 23:13). The group of laws in 20:22–23:33 is sometimes referred to by commentators as the "Book of the Covenant" (see 24:4,7) or the "Covenant Code."

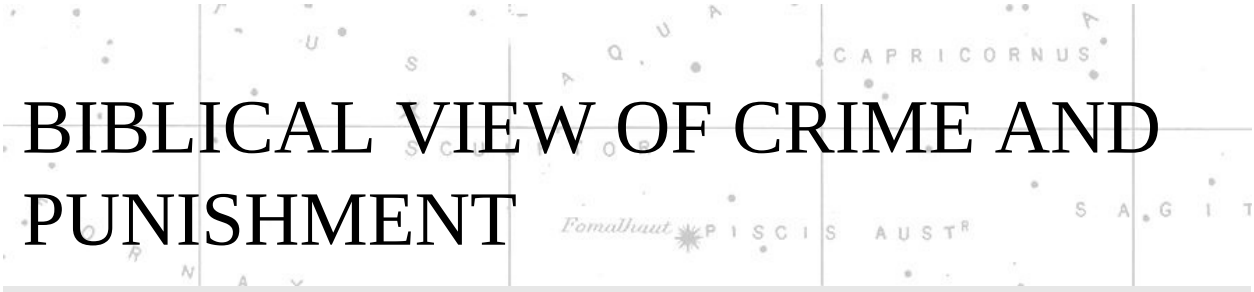
LAWS ABOUT SLAVES

2 "When you buy a Hebrew slave, he is to serve for six years; then in the seventh he is to leave as a free man † without paying anything. † 3 If he arrives alone, he is to leave alone; if he arrives with † a wife, his wife is to leave with him. 4 If his master gives him a wife and she bears him sons or daughters, the wife and her children belong to her master, and the man must leave alone.

5 "But if the slave declares, 'I love my master, my wife, and my children; I do not want to leave as a free man,' † 6 his master is to bring him to the judges † and then bring him to the door or doorpost. His master will pierce his ear with an awl, and he will serve his master for life.

7 "When a man sells his daughter as a concubine, † she is not to leave as the male slaves do. † 8 If she is displeasing to her master, who chose her for himself, then he must let her be redeemed. He has no right to sell her to foreigners because he has acted treacherously toward her. 9 Or if he chooses her for his son, he must deal with her according to the customary treatment of daughters.



BIBLICAL VIEW OF CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

Today we most often use the terms jail or prison to describe the places where criminals are sent once they are convicted of crimes, but the name penitentiary is also commonly used. One need not be a language scholar to discern the root of penitentiary, which is penitent. In its adjectival form, penitent is used to denote a strong sense of regret. Taken as a noun, a penitent is a person who seeks forgiveness from God. The founding of penitentiaries, beginning in the eighteenth century with John Howard in England, expressed the Christian hope that criminals could repent, find forgiveness from God and people, and return to the community as citizens who contribute to the common good.

The Bible's influence on approaches to crime and punishment preceded the rehabilitation movement of the eighteenth century. The Hebrew Scriptures (OT) tell us that God chose a people (the Hebrews) and set them apart from all other peoples by giving them regulations for running a just society.

Although it is sometimes argued that codes from Hammurabi or the Hittites provided inspiration for the laws set forth in the OT, Jewish scholars point to important distinctions which show the uniqueness and greater justice of the laws given by God. They argue that the Hammurabi code is more brutal and primitive than the laws of Israel. For example, the Hammurabic legislation required that a man's daughter be taken if he killed another man's daughter. The injustice in such a rule is evident as the punishment extends beyond the offender to an innocent person, the perpetrator's daughter. The Hittite code, which was compensation-based, also falls short of the standards expressed in the law as given by God in the OT. Even an offense as serious as murder could be bought off with enough cash, according to the Hittite approach. In contrast, Exodus 21:23-25, with its eye-for-an-eye reasoning, is more proportionate to the offense and is thus more just.

The Hebrew law codes reveal a great desire for true justice rather than a rush to judgment. One example is Deuteronomy's rule requiring two eyewitnesses to be in agreement in order to establish evidence of a crime (Dt 17:6; 19:15). This means no one shall be put to death without the evidence of more than one witness. It should be noted that the laws of the United States offer less protection than this. Similar to the instructions in Deuteronomy, Matthew 18:16 indicates that one should take witnesses along when attempting to resolve a dispute. Such advice demonstrates a concern with establishing truth in a reliable fashion, drawing on the perspectives of multiple persons. In both Testaments, great care is taken to be certain of the truth of an offense, and emphasis is placed on the strong connection between the punishment, the offender, and the severity of the offense.

One thing that is striking about how the Bible approaches punishment of crime is that imprisonment is uncommon. Deuteronomy, Exodus, and other OT texts offer examples of compensatory payments, exile, corporal punishments, and death sentences, but do not advocate sending large numbers of criminals to prison. The first and most obvious reason for the absence of prisons is that ancient agrarian societies did not have the resources to imprison and feed significant numbers of offenders. Aside from this logistical factor, one might also wonder whether the mass incarceration model we currently practice is wise. We tend to view biblical punishments such as lashing as barbaric, but is it really better to incarcerate an offender with those who might reinforce his bad behavior? Could it be that a policy of corporal punishment would prove more effective?

THREE SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT

In contemporary thinking about crime and punishment, there are at least three major schools of thought regarding how to deal with law-breaking. Theorists often speak and write in terms of retribution, utilitarianism, and rehabilitation.

RETRIBUTION

Retribution-based thinking is at odds with the more social-scientific thrust of much of today's thinking about punishment. It is seen as crude, vengeance-based, and perhaps barbaric. Many of the punishments in the OT are perceived in this light. Nevertheless, there are others who have argued convincingly that retributive approaches are anything but crude and cruel. Rather, the choice of retribution attributes dignity to both the victim and the offender. Retribution vindicates the rights of the victim because it recognizes that something important has been violated and that punishment must follow the violation. At the same time, retribution assigns respect to the offender as well because punishing the offender indicates that God and society had real expectations for better decision-making and behavior. In essence, people who transgress have not lived up to God's standard (or society's) and thus must be reminded that we respect them enough to punish the wrongdoing.

UTILITARIAN

Utilitarian theories of crime and punishment focus less on the rights of individuals and more on the scientific control of populations. For example, a utilitarian might say that we should come up with laws that reduce social friction between citizens rather than continuing to enforce laws that lead to conflict. The danger of the utilitarian approach is that it is mostly concerned with social regulation. For example, let us imagine that a series of murders have been committed. In the utilitarian view, it would be nearly as good to convince the public that the murderer has been caught and punished (even if that weren't true) as it would be to actually catch the villain. Perception would count nearly as much as reality. It might even be better to pin the crime on an innocent party, if it could be done convincingly, than to let the public go on thinking that a murderer is on the loose.

REHABILITATION

As mentioned above, rehabilitation theories were originally motivated by Christian thinking about crime and punishment. The Christian view tended to support retribution-based consequences, while adding a component of rehabilitation. Forgiveness does not necessarily wipe out the penalty, but it does pave the way for full acceptance back into the social body once punishment and rehabilitation are complete. During the twentieth century, however, thinking about rehabilitation went through a transformation, dropping the idea of a "penitent" person paying a debt and seeking forgiveness. Rehabilitation approaches came to view crime as a result of broad, structural social injustices that produce marginalized victims of the system who perpetuate injustices by engaging in social pathologies such as stealing. While there is some value to thinking about social systems in this way, the effect can be to undermine the moral dimension of crime and the recognition that the offender has personally done wrong against others and should repent of sin.

Not everyone has appreciated these developments. Anger at progressive penal policies has led to the creation of victim's rights movements. Among other things, these movements have sought to make society and the judicial system aware of the harm victims suffer when they perceive that the wrongs perpetrated against them have gone unpunished or inadequately punished.

Christians remain highly active in prison ministry today, though often with less official influence in the penal system than they once had. Prison Fellowship, founded by Charles Colson after his imprisonment following the Watergate scandal, has led the way in sharing the good news of redemption through Jesus Christ with prisoners. After many years of effective ministry to prisoners and their families, Prison Fellowship gained the ability to participate in some institutions by hosting special Christian cellblocks and offering seminary programs in others. Early evidence indicates that their ministry reduces recidivism among those released.

Whatever good government may achieve through attempts to address the social causes of crime—and we must not dismiss these—crime remains a manifestation of a spiritual problem that must be addressed. The true rehabilitator and vindicator of injustices is Jesus Christ, the Son of God, and we must point both victims and criminals to his gospel.

HUNTER BAKER

LAWS ABOUT PERSONAL INJURY

12 “Whoever strikes a person so that he dies must be put to death. † 13 But if he did not intend any harm, † and yet God allowed it to happen, I will appoint a place for you where he may flee. † 14 If a person schemes and willfully † acts against his neighbor to murder him, you must take him from my altar to be put to death. †

15 “Whoever strikes his father or his mother must be put to death.

16 “Whoever kidnaps a person must be put to death, whether he sells him or the person is found in his possession. †

17 “Whoever curses his father or his mother must be put to death. †

18 “When men quarrel and one strikes the other with a stone or his fist, and the injured man does not die but is confined to bed, 19 if he can later get up and walk around outside leaning on his staff, then the one who struck him will be exempt from punishment. Nevertheless, he must pay for his lost work time † and provide for his complete recovery.

20 “When a man strikes his male or female slave with a rod, and the slave dies under his abuse, † the owner must be punished. † 21 However, if the slave can stand up after a day or two, the owner should not be punished † because he is his owner’s property. † †

22 “When men get in a fight and hit a pregnant woman so that her children are born prematurely but there is no injury, the one who hit her must be fined as the woman’s husband demands † from him, and he must pay according to judicial assessment. 23 If there is an injury, then you must give life for life, 24 eye for eye, tooth for tooth, † hand for hand, foot for foot, 25 burn for burn, bruise for bruise, wound for wound.

26 “When a man strikes the eye of his male or female slave and destroys it, he must let the slave go free in compensation for his eye. 27 If he knocks out the tooth of his male or female slave, he must let the slave go free in compensation for his tooth.

28 “When an ox † gores a man or a woman to death, the ox must be stoned, † and its meat may not be eaten, but the ox’s owner is innocent. 29 However, if the ox was in the habit of goring, and its owner has been warned yet does not restrain it, and it kills a man or a woman, the ox must be stoned, and its owner must also be put to death. 30 If instead a ransom † is demanded of him, he can pay a redemption price for his life in the full amount demanded from him. 31 If it gores a son or a daughter, he is to be dealt with according to this same law. 32 If the ox gores a male or female slave, he must give thirty shekels † of silver † to the slave’s master, and the ox must be stoned.
33 “When a man uncovers a pit or digs a pit, and does not cover it, and an ox or a donkey falls into it, 34 the owner of the pit must give compensation; he must pay to its owner, but the dead animal will become his.
35 “When a man’s ox injures his neighbor’s ox and it dies, they must sell the live ox and divide its proceeds; they must also divide the dead animal. 36 If, however, it is known that the ox was in the habit of goring, yet its owner has not restrained it, he must compensate fully, ox for ox; the dead animal will become his.

21:2-6 The situation set forth that an Israelite would buy a Hebrew slave seems strange given that God had just redeemed all Israel “out of the land of Egypt, out of the place of slavery” (20:2). The context of a parallel passage in Deuteronomy 15:12-18 suggests that such a situation might arise if a person sold himself into slavery because of poverty (see also Lv 25:39-43). Slavery in Israel was most often a kind of welfare that provided for a person and his family; it was not based on ethnicity and was carefully regulated.

21:12-19 These laws seem to be applications of the fifth, sixth, and eighth commandments to various concrete situations (see 20:12-13,15; 18:15-26).

21:21 This seemingly harsh law should be seen in relation to vv. 26-27, which does protect the physical well being of slaves.

21:22-25 The phrase there is no injury seems to apply to both the mother and the infant(s) born prematurely. This law thus protects the lives of babies and unborn children. See “A Biblical Assessment of Abortion,” p. 718.

21:28-36 These laws concern a person’s responsibility for certain wrongdoings even though the person did not directly commit the wrongdoing. See “Biblical View of Crime and Punishment,” p. 105

LAWS ABOUT THEFT

22 “When a man steals an ox or a sheep and butchers it or sells it, he must repay † five cattle for the ox or four sheep for the sheep. 2 If a thief is caught in the act of breaking in, and he is beaten to death, no one is guilty of bloodshed. † 3 But if this happens after sunrise, the householder is guilty of bloodshed. A thief must make full restitution. If he is unable, he is to be sold because of his theft. † 4 If what was stolen — whether ox, donkey, or sheep — is actually found alive in his possession, he must repay double.

LAWS ABOUT CROP PROTECTION

5 “When a man lets a field or vineyard be grazed in, and then allows his animals to go and graze in someone else’s field, he must repay † with the best of his own field or vineyard.

6 “When a fire gets out of control, spreads to thornbushes, and consumes stacks of cut grain, standing grain, or a field, the one who started the fire must make full restitution for what was burned.

LAWS ABOUT PERSONAL PROPERTY

7 “When a man gives his neighbor valuables † or goods to keep, but they are stolen from that person’s house, the thief, if caught, must repay double. 8 If the thief is not caught, the owner of the house must present himself to the judges † to determine † whether or not he has taken his neighbor’s property. † 9 In any case of wrongdoing involving an ox, a donkey, a sheep, a garment, or anything else lost, and someone claims, ‘That’s mine,’ † the case between the two parties is to come before the judges. † The one the judges condemn † must repay double to his neighbor.

10 “When a man gives his neighbor a donkey, an ox, a sheep, or any other animal to care for, but it dies, is injured, or is stolen, while no one is watching, 11 there must be an oath before the LORD between the two of them to determine whether or not he has taken his neighbor’s property. Its owner must accept the oath, and the other man does not have to make restitution. 12 But if, in fact, the animal was stolen from his custody, he must make restitution to its owner. †

13 If it was actually torn apart by a wild animal, he is to bring it as evidence; he does not have to make restitution for the torn carcass.
14 "When a man borrows an animal from his neighbor, and it is injured or dies while its owner is not there with it, the man must make full restitution. 15 If its owner is there with it, the man does not have to make restitution. If it was rented, the loss is covered by † its rental price.

LAWS ABOUT SEDUCTION

16 "If a man seduces a virgin who is not engaged, and he sleeps with her, he must certainly pay the bridal price for her to be his wife. 17 If her father absolutely refuses to give her to him, he must pay an amount in silver equal to the bridal price for virgins. †

CAPITAL OFFENSES

18 "Do not allow a sorceress † to live.

19 "Whoever has sexual intercourse with an animal † must be put to death.

20 "Whoever sacrifices to any gods, except the LORD alone, is to be set apart for destruction. †

LAWS PROTECTING THE VULNERABLE

21 "You must not exploit a resident alien † or oppress him, since you were resident aliens in the land of Egypt.

22 "You must not mistreat any widow or fatherless child. † 23 If you do mistreat them, they will no doubt cry to me, and I will certainly hear their cry. † 24 My anger will burn, and I will kill you with the sword; then your wives will be widows and your children fatherless. †

25 "If you lend silver to my people, to the poor person among you, you must not be like a creditor to him; you must not charge him interest. †

26 "If you ever take your neighbor's cloak as collateral, return it to him before sunset. 27 For it is his only covering; it is the clothing for his body. † What will he sleep in? And if he cries out to me, I will listen because I am gracious. †

RESPECT FOR GOD

28 "You must not blaspheme God † or curse a leader among your people. †

29 “You must not hold back offerings † from your harvest or your vats. Give me the firstborn of your sons. 30 Do the same with your cattle and your flock. Let them stay with their mothers for seven days, but on the eighth day you are to give them to me. †

31 “Be my holy people. You must not eat the meat of a mauled animal † found in the field; throw it to the dogs.

22:21-24 These laws protect three types of vulnerable and potentially needy people: the resident alien or foreigner, the widow, and the fatherless child. These groups are mentioned many times in the OT as deserving special attention (e.g., Dt 10:18; 24:17-21; 26:12-13; Jr 7:6; 22:3). The Israelites were not to take advantage of them or the poor (vv. 25-27; see also 23:6-9,11). Here the reason given is that Israel knows what it is like to be vulnerable since they were resident aliens in the land of Egypt. In protecting the weak, they will reflect the character of God, who shows mercy.

22:31 The Lord’s desire for Israel’s holiness (Be my holy people) echoes that of 19:6 (you will be . . . my holy nation).

LAWS ABOUT HONESTY AND JUSTICE

23 “You must not spread a false report. Do not join † the wicked to be a malicious witness. †

2 “You must not follow a crowd in wrongdoing. Do not testify in a lawsuit and go along with a crowd to pervert justice. † 3 Do not show favoritism to a poor person in his lawsuit.

4 “If you come across your enemy’s stray ox or donkey, you must return it to him.

5 “If you see the donkey of someone who hates you lying helpless under its load, and you want to refrain from helping it, you must help with it. † †

6 “You must not deny justice to a poor person among you in his lawsuit. 7 Stay far away from a false accusation. Do not kill the innocent and the just, because I will not justify the guilty. † 8 You must not take a bribe, † for a bribe blinds the clear-sighted and corrupts the words † of the righteous. 9 You must not oppress a resident alien; † you yourselves know how it feels to be a resident alien because you were resident aliens in the land of Egypt.

SABBATHS AND FESTIVALS

10 "Sow your land for six years and gather its produce. † 11 But during the seventh year you are to let it rest and leave it uncultivated, so that the poor among your people may eat from it and the wild animals may consume what they leave. Do the same with your vineyard and your olive grove.

12 "Do your work † for six days but rest on the seventh day so that your ox and your donkey may rest, and the son of your female slave as well as the resident alien may be refreshed.

13 "Pay strict attention to everything I have said to you. You must not invoke the names of other gods; they must not be heard on your lips. † †

14 "Celebrate a festival in my honor three times a year. † 15 Observe the Festival of Unleavened Bread. As I commanded you, you are to eat unleavened bread for seven days at the appointed time in the month of Abib, † because you came out of Egypt in that month. No one is to appear before me empty-handed. † 16 Also observe the Festival of Harvest † with the firstfruits of your produce from what you sow in the field, and observe the Festival of Ingathering † † at the end of the year, when you gather your produce † from the field. 17 Three times a year all your males are to appear before the Lord GOD.

18 "You must not offer the blood of my sacrifices with anything leavened. The fat of my festival offering must not remain until morning. †

19 "Bring the best of the firstfruits of your land to the house of the LORD your God.

"You must not boil a young goat in its mother's milk. †

PROMISES AND WARNINGS

20 "I am going to send an angel † before you to protect you on the way and bring you to the place I have prepared. 21 Be attentive to him and listen to him. Do not defy him, because he will not forgive your acts of rebellion, for my name is in him. † 22 But if you will carefully obey him and do everything I say, then I will be an enemy † to your enemies and a foe to your foes. 23 For my angel will go before you and bring you to the land of the Amorites, Hethites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hivites, and Jebusites, and I will wipe them out. † 24 Do not bow in worship to their gods, and do not serve them. Do not imitate their practices.

Instead, demolish them † and smash their sacred pillars to pieces. † 25 Serve the LORD your God, and he † will bless your bread and your water. I will remove illnesses from you. † 26 No woman will miscarry or be childless in your land. I will give you the full number of your days. † 27 "I will cause the people ahead of you to feel terror † and will throw into confusion † all the nations you come to. I will make all your enemies turn their backs to you in retreat. † 28 I will send hornets † † in front of you, and they will drive the Hivites, Canaanites, and Hethites away from you. 29 I will not drive them out ahead of you in a single year; otherwise, the land would become desolate, and wild animals would multiply against you. 30 I will drive them out little by little ahead of you until you have become numerous † and take possession of the land. 31 I will set your borders from the Red Sea to the Mediterranean Sea, † and from the wilderness to the Euphrates River. † For I will place the inhabitants of the land under your control, and you will drive them out ahead of you. † 32 You must not make a covenant † with them or their gods. 33 They must not remain in your land, or else they will make you sin against me. If you serve their gods, it will be a snare for you." †

23:4-5 These commands resemble Jesus's teaching to love one's enemies (Mt 5:44; see also Pr 25:21). See "Animal Rights," p. 21.

23:10-12 Observation of the Sabbath day had been commanded in 20:8-11, where it was linked to God's making the heavens and the earth, the sea, and everything in them in six days and resting on the seventh day. The Sabbath year would help provide for the poor (see also Lv 25:1-7,20-22), and it allowed rest not only for oneself but for laborers (see also Dt 5:12-15).

23:19 Suggested reasons for this cooking prohibition (see also 34:26; Dt 14:21) include dietary concerns or avoidance of idolatrous associations. It is possible that the restriction is related to the theme in OT law that some things must be kept separate. (This was in part a teaching device that underscored the importance of separating what was holy from what was ordinary). Since a mother's milk is intended to give life, it would be mixing categories and therefore inappropriate to use it in the context of a young goat's death.

23:23-33 The Lord had promised Abraham long ago that his offspring would receive the land of the Amorites, Hethites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hivites, and Jebusites (see Gn 15:18-21). Here he promises the help of his angel (see "A Biblical View of Angels," p. 1531) and hornets for the Israelites, who, for their part, must be careful to destroy the gods of these peoples, worship God only, and drive these peoples out of the land completely (see also Dt 7:1-6). The promise of blessing upon the Israelites' food and health if they obey resembles 15:26 and Deuteronomy 28:1-14.

THE COVENANT CEREMONY

24 Then he said to Moses, "Go up to the LORD, you and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of Israel's elders, † and bow in worship at a distance. 2 Moses alone is to approach the LORD, but the others are not to approach, and the people are not to go up with him."
3 Moses came and told the people all the commands of the LORD and all the ordinances. Then all the people responded with a single voice, "We will do everything that the LORD has commanded." † 4 And Moses wrote † down all the words of the LORD. He rose early the next morning and set up an altar and twelve pillars for the twelve tribes of Israel at the base of the mountain. 5 Then he sent out young Israelite men, and they offered burnt offerings and sacrificed bulls as fellowship offerings to the LORD. 6 Moses took half the blood and set it in basins; the other half of the blood he splattered on the altar. 7 He then took the covenant scroll and read it aloud to the people. They responded, "We will do and obey all that the LORD has commanded." 8 Moses took the blood, splattered it on the people, and said, "This is the blood of the covenant that the LORD has made with you concerning all these words." † 9 Then Moses went up with Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of Israel's elders, 10 and they saw † the God of Israel. Beneath his feet was something like a pavement made of lapis lazuli, as clear as the sky itself. † 11 God did not harm † the Israelite nobles; they saw † him, and they ate and drank.

12 The LORD said to Moses, “Come up to me on the mountain and stay there so that I may give you the stone tablets † with the law and commandments I have written for their instruction.”
13 So Moses arose with his assistant Joshua and went up the mountain of God. †
14 He told the elders, “Wait here for us until we return to you. Aaron and Hur are here with you. Whoever has a dispute should go to them.” 15 When Moses went up the mountain, the cloud † covered it. 16 The glory of the LORD settled on Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it for six days. On the seventh day he called to Moses from the cloud. † 17 The appearance of the LORD’s glory to the Israelites was like a consuming fire † on the mountaintop. 18 Moses entered the cloud as he went up the mountain, and he remained on the mountain forty days and forty nights. †

24:1-2 Though these men were permitted to worship at a distance (see also v. 9), Moses was still the only one allowed to approach the LORD (see also 19:20-24).

24:3 Moses descended from Mount Sinai and reported to Israel all the commands of the LORD and all the ordinances from 20:22–23:33. As they had done twice before (19:8, 20:19), the people promised obedience. Nevertheless, they would commit a serious sin shortly (see 32:1-6). Deuteronomy 5:27-29 suggests that the problem was not the promises themselves but the Israelites’ hearts (see also Jr 31:31-33).

24:8 The splattering of the blood of the covenant on the people served to ratify the covenant between God and Israel (see also Heb 9:18-20).

24:9-11 Since John 1:18 says “no one has ever seen God,” the statement that Moses, Aaron, Nadab, Abihu, and the elders saw the God of Israel should probably be taken to mean that they saw a partial representation of God in a vision but not God himself (see also 33:20 and the note on Jdg 6:11-16). This is consistent with the limited description of what they saw: a pavement made of lapis lazuli below his feet (see also Ezk 1:26; 10:1).

24:12-14 Moses was to go up the mountain again to receive the tablets inscribed with the Ten Commandments (see also 31:18; 32:15-16; 34:1,28). He would also receive instructions regarding the construction of the tabernacle (25:1–31:11).

OFFERINGS TO BUILD THE TABERNACLE

25 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 “Tell the Israelites to take an offering for me. You are to take my offering from everyone who is willing to give. † 3 This is the offering you are to receive from them: gold, silver, and bronze; 4 blue, purple, and scarlet yarn; fine linen and goat hair; 5 ram skins dyed red † and fine leather; † acacia wood; 6 oil † for the light; spices for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense; 7 and onyx † along with other gemstones for mounting on the ephod and breastpiece. † † 8 “They are to make a sanctuary † for me so that I may dwell † among them.
9 You must make it according to all that I show you — the pattern † of the tabernacle as well as the pattern of all its furnishings.

THE ARK

10 “They are to make an ark † of acacia wood, forty-five inches long, twenty-seven inches wide, and twenty-seven inches high. † 11 Overlay it with pure gold; overlay it both inside and out. Also make a gold molding all around it.
12 Cast four gold rings for it and place them on its four feet, two rings on one side and two rings on the other side. 13 Make poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold. 14 Insert the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark in order to carry the ark with them. 15 The poles are to remain in the rings of the ark; they must not be removed from it. 16 Put the tablets of † the testimony that I will give you into the ark. † 17 Make a mercy seat † of pure gold, forty-five inches long and twenty-seven inches wide. † 18 Make two cherubim of gold; make them of hammered work at the two ends of the mercy seat. 19 Make one cherub at one end and one cherub at the other end. At its two ends, make the cherubim of one piece with the mercy seat. 20 The cherubim are to have wings spread out above, covering † the mercy seat with their wings, and are to face one another. The faces of the cherubim should be toward the mercy seat. 21 Set the mercy seat on top of the ark and put the tablets of the testimony that I will give you into the ark. † 22 I will meet with you there above the mercy seat, between the two cherubim † that are over the ark of the testimony; I will speak with you from there about all that I command you regarding the Israelites.

THE TABLE

23 “You are to construct a table † of acacia wood, thirty-six inches long, eighteen inches wide, and twenty-seven inches high. † 24 Overlay it with pure gold and make a gold molding all around it. 25 Make a three-inch † frame all around it and make a gold molding for it all around its frame. 26 Make four gold rings for it, and attach the rings to the four corners at its four legs. 27 The rings should be next to the frame as holders for the poles to carry the table. 28 Make the poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold, and the table can be carried by them. 29 You are also to make its plates † and cups, as well as its pitchers and bowls for pouring drink offerings. Make them out of pure gold.
30 Put the Bread of the Presence † on the table before me at all times.

THE LAMPSTAND

31 “You † are to make a lampstand † out of pure, hammered gold. It is to be made of one piece: its base and shaft, its ornamental cups, and its buds † and petals. 32 Six branches are to extend from its sides, three branches of the lampstand from one side and three branches of the lampstand from the other side. 33 There are to be three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with a bud and petals, on one branch, and three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with a bud and petals, on the next branch. It is to be this way for the six branches that extend from the lampstand. 34 There are to be four cups shaped like almond blossoms on the lampstand shaft along with its buds and petals. 35 For the six branches that extend from the lampstand, a bud must be under the first pair of branches from it, a bud under the second pair of branches from it, and a bud under the third pair of branches from it. 36 Their buds and branches are to be of one piece. † All of it is to be a single hammered piece of pure gold.
37 “Make its seven lamps, † and set them up so that they illuminate the area in front of it. 38 Its snuffers and firepans must be of pure gold. 39 The lampstand † with all these utensils is to be made from seventy-five pounds † of pure gold.
40 Be careful to make them according to the pattern † you have been shown on the mountain.

25:2-7 The materials for the tabernacle would not be exacted from the Israelites but would be given voluntarily (see also 35:4-9,20-29; 36:4-7).

25:8 God noted the purpose of constructing the tabernacle: he intended to dwell among them (see also 29:45-46). This was the goal of God's original creation and the goal of the exodus from Egypt. It is also the goal of God's redemption that leads to new creation. The Israelites' sin, however, meant that their proximity to a holy God dwelling in the tabernacle was dangerous and had to be carefully regulated. This is similar to the Israelites' encounter with God at Mount Sinai.

25:9 See the note on 25:40.

25:22 The ark was at the center of the tabernacle. The Lord promised, I will meet with you there above the mercy seat. See also "Forms of Media and Resisting the Spirit of the Age," p. 178.

25:40 The tabernacle was not to be constructed according to the Israelites' ideas but according to the pattern they were shown (see also v. 9). Citing this verse, Hebrews 8:5 argues that the tabernacle was thus "a copy and shadow of the heavenly things." The tabernacle was closely associated with animal sacrifices (Lv 1–7), the Aaronic priesthood (Ex 28–29), and laws written on stone tablets (25:16,21). Hebrews 10:1 uses similar language to describe this entire system by saying, "The law has only a shadow of the good things to come, and not the reality itself of those things" (see also Col 2:16-17). This implies correspondences between new covenant realities surrounding the person and work of Jesus on the one hand, and the tabernacle, animal sacrifices, the Aaronic priesthood, the law, and the old covenant on the other. Passages like Hebrews 7–10 explain some of these, but in cases where the Bible is silent, it is difficult to determine how certain details related to the tabernacle or sacrificial system precisely correspond to the new covenant (see also note on Lv 1:1).

THE TABERNACLE

26 "You † are to construct the tabernacle itself with ten curtains. You must make them of finely spun linen, and blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, with a design of cherubim worked into them. 2 Each curtain should be forty-two feet † long and six feet † wide; all the curtains are to have the same measurements. 3 Five of the curtains should be joined together, and the other five curtains joined together. 4 Make loops of blue yarn on the edge of the last curtain in the first set, and do the same on the edge of the outermost curtain in the second set. 5 Make fifty loops on the one curtain and make fifty loops on the edge of the curtain in the second set, so that the loops line up together. 6 Also make fifty gold clasps and join the curtains together with the clasps, so that the tabernacle may be a single unit.

7 “You are to make curtains of goat hair for a tent over the tabernacle; make eleven of these curtains. 8 Each curtain should be forty-five feet † long and six feet wide. All eleven curtains are to have the same measurements. 9 Join five of the curtains by themselves, and the other six curtains by themselves. Then fold the sixth curtain double at the front of the tent. 10 Make fifty loops on the edge of one curtain, the outermost in the first set, and make fifty loops on the edge of the corresponding curtain of the second set. 11 Make fifty bronze clasps; put the clasps through the loops and join the tent together so that it is a single unit. 12 As for the flap that remains from the tent curtains, the leftover half curtain is to hang over the back of the tabernacle. 13 What remains along the length of the tent curtains — a half yard † on one side and a half yard on the other side — should hang over the sides of the tabernacle on either side to cover it. 14 Make a covering for the tent from ram skins dyed red † and a covering of fine leather † on top of that.
15 “You are to make upright supports † of acacia wood † for the tabernacle. 16 Each support is to be fifteen feet † long and twenty-seven † inches wide. 17 Each support will have two tenons for joining. Do the same for all the supports of the tabernacle. 18 Make the supports for the tabernacle as follows: twenty supports for the south side, 19 and make forty silver bases under the twenty supports, two bases under the first support for its two tenons, and two bases under the next support for its two tenons; 20 twenty supports for the second side of the tabernacle, the north side, 21 along with their forty silver bases, two bases under the first support and two bases under each support; 22 and make six supports for the west side of the tabernacle. 23 Make two additional supports for the two back corners of the tabernacle. 24 They are to be paired at the bottom, and joined together † at the top in a single ring. So it should be for both of them; they will serve as the two corners. 25 There are to be eight supports with their silver bases: sixteen bases; two bases under the first support and two bases under each support.
26 “You are to make five crossbars of acacia wood for the supports on one side of the tabernacle, 27 five crossbars for the supports on the other side of the tabernacle, and five crossbars for the supports of the back side of the tabernacle on the west. 28 The central crossbar is to run through the middle of the supports from one end to the other. 29 Then overlay the supports with gold, and make their rings of gold as the holders for the crossbars. Also overlay the crossbars with gold. 30 You are to set up the tabernacle according to the plan for it that you have been shown on the mountain. †

31 "You are to make a curtain of blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and finely spun linen with a design of cherubim worked into it. † 32 Hang it on four gold-plated pillars of acacia wood that have gold hooks and that stand on four silver bases. 33 Hang the curtain under the clasps † and bring the ark of the testimony there behind the curtain, so the curtain will make a separation for you between the holy place † and the most holy place. 34 Put the mercy seat on the ark of the testimony in the most holy place. † 35 Place the table outside the curtain and the lampstand on the south side of the tabernacle, opposite the table; put the table on the north side. †

36 "For the entrance to the tent you are to make a screen embroidered † with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and finely spun linen. 37 Make five pillars of acacia wood for the screen and overlay them with gold; their hooks are to be gold, and you are to cast five bronze bases for them.

THE ALTAR OF BURNT OFFERING

27 "You † are to construct the altar of acacia wood. The altar must be square, 7 1/2 feet long, and 7 1/2 feet wide; † it must be 4 1/2 feet high. † 2 Make horns for it on its four corners; the horns are to be of one piece. † Overlay it with bronze. † 3 Make its pots for removing ashes, and its shovels, basins, meat forks, and firepans; make all its utensils of bronze. 4 Construct a grate for it of bronze mesh, and make four bronze rings on the mesh at its four corners. 5 Set it below, under the altar's ledge, † so that the mesh comes halfway up † the altar. 6 Then make poles for the altar, poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with bronze. 7 The poles are to be inserted into the rings so that the poles are on two sides of the altar when it is carried. 8 Construct the altar with boards so that it is hollow. They are to make it just as it was shown to you on the mountain. †

THE COURTYARD

9 "You † are to make the courtyard for the tabernacle. Make hangings for the south side of the courtyard out of finely spun linen, 150 feet † long on that side 10 including twenty posts and twenty bronze bases, with silver hooks and silver bands † for the posts. 11 And so make hangings 150 feet long for the north side, including twenty posts and their twenty bronze bases, with silver hooks and silver bands for the posts. 12 For the width of the courtyard, make hangings 75 feet † long for the west side, including their ten posts and their ten bases. 13 And for the width of the courtyard on the east side toward the sunrise, 75 feet, 14 make hangings 22 1/2 feet † long for one side of the gate, including their three posts and their three bases. 15 And make hangings 22 1/2 feet long for the other side, including their three posts and their three bases. 16 The gate of the courtyard is to have a 30-foot † screen † embroidered † with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and finely spun linen. It is to have four posts and their four bases.
17 "All the posts around the courtyard are to be banded with silver and have silver hooks and bronze bases. 18 The courtyard is to be 150 feet long, 75 feet wide at each end, and 7 1/2 feet high, † all of it made of finely spun linen. The bases of the posts are to be bronze. 19 All the utensils of the tabernacle for every use and all its tent pegs as well as all the tent pegs of the courtyard are to be made of bronze.

THE LAMPSTAND OIL

20 "You are to command the Israelites to bring you pure oil from crushed olives for the light, in order to keep the lamp burning regularly. 21 In the tent of meeting outside the curtain that is in front of the testimony, † Aaron and his sons are to tend the lamp † from evening until morning before the LORD. This is to be a permanent statute † for the Israelites throughout their generations.

THE PRIESTLY GARMENTS

28 "Have your brother Aaron, with his sons, come to you from the Israelites to serve me as priest — Aaron, his sons Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.† 2 Make holy garments† for your brother Aaron, for glory and beauty. 3 You are to instruct all the skilled artisans,†† whom I have filled with a spirit of wisdom, to make Aaron's garments for consecrating him to serve me as priest. 4 These are the garments that they must make: a breastpiece, an ephod, a robe, a specially woven tunic,† a turban, and a sash. They are to make holy garments for your brother Aaron and his sons so that they may serve me as priests. 5 They should use† gold; blue, purple, and scarlet yarn; and fine linen.

THE EPHOD

6 "They† are to make the ephod of finely spun linen embroidered† with gold, and with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn. 7 It must have two shoulder pieces attached to its two edges so that it can be joined together. 8 The artistically woven waistband that is on the ephod† must be of one piece,† according to the same workmanship of gold, of blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and of finely spun linen.
9 "Take two onyx stones and engrave on them the names of Israel's sons: 10 six of their names on the first stone and the remaining six names on the second stone, in the order of their birth. 11 Engrave the two stones with the names of Israel's sons as a gem cutter engraves a seal. Mount them, surrounded with gold filigree settings. 12 Fasten both stones on the shoulder pieces of the ephod as memorial stones for the Israelites. Aaron will carry their names on his two shoulders before the LORD as a reminder.† 13 Fashion gold filigree settings 14 and two chains of pure gold; you will make them of braided cord work, and attach the cord chains to the settings.

THE BREASTPIECE

15 “You † are to make an embroidered breastpiece for making decisions. † Make it with the same workmanship as the ephod; make it of gold, of blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and of finely spun linen. 16 It must be square and folded double, nine inches long and nine inches wide. † 17 Place a setting of gemstones † on it, four rows of stones:

The first row should be a row of carnelian, topaz, and emerald; † 18 the second row,
a turquoise, † a lapis lazuli, and a diamond; † 19 the third row,
a jacinth, † an agate, and an amethyst;
20 and the fourth row,
a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper.

They should be adorned with gold filigree in their settings. 21 The twelve stones are to correspond to the names of Israel’s sons. Each stone must be engraved like a seal, with one of the names of the twelve tribes.
22 “You are to make braided chains † of pure gold cord work for the breastpiece. 23 Fashion two gold rings for the breastpiece and attach them to its two corners. 24 Then attach the two gold cords to the two gold rings at the corners of the breastpiece. 25 Attach the other ends of the two cords to the two filigree settings, and in this way attach them to the ephod’s shoulder pieces in the front. 26 Make two other gold rings and put them at the two other corners of the breastpiece on the edge that is next to the inner border of the ephod. 27 Make two more gold rings and attach them to the bottom of the ephod’s two shoulder pieces on its front, close to its seam, † and above the ephod’s woven waistband.
28 The artisans are to tie the breastpiece from its rings to the rings of the ephod with a cord of blue yarn, so that the breastpiece is above the ephod’s waistband and does not come loose from the ephod.

29 “Whenever he enters the sanctuary, Aaron is to carry the names of Israel’s sons over his heart on the breastpiece for decisions, as a continual reminder before the LORD. 30 Place the Urim and Thummim † in the breastpiece for decisions, so that they will also be over Aaron’s heart whenever he comes before the LORD. Aaron will continually carry the means of decisions for the Israelites over his heart before the LORD.

THE ROBE

31 “You † are to make the robe of the ephod entirely of blue yarn. 32 There should be an opening at its top in the center of it. Around the opening, there should be a woven collar with an opening like that of body armor † so that it does not tear. 33 Make pomegranates of blue, purple, and scarlet yarn on its lower hem and all around it. Put gold bells between them all the way around, 34 so that gold bells and pomegranates alternate around the lower hem of the robe. 35 The robe will be worn by Aaron whenever he ministers, and its sound will be heard when he enters the sanctuary before the LORD and when he exits, so that he does not die.

THE TURBAN

36 “You are to make a pure gold medallion and engrave it, like the engraving of a seal: † HOLY TO THE LORD. 37 Fasten it to a cord of blue yarn so it can be placed on the turban; the medallion is to be on the front of the turban. 38 It will be on Aaron’s forehead so that Aaron may bear the guilt † connected with the holy offerings that the Israelites consecrate as all their holy gifts. It is always to be on his forehead, so that they may find acceptance with the LORD.

OTHER PRIESTLY GARMENTS

39 “You are to weave the tunic from fine linen, make a turban of fine linen, and make an embroidered sash. 40 Make tunics, sashes, and headbands for Aaron’s sons to give them glory and beauty. † 41 Put these on your brother Aaron and his sons; then anoint, † ordain, † and consecrate † them, so that they may serve me as priests. 42 Make them linen undergarments † to cover their naked bodies; they must extend from the waist to the thighs. 43 These must be worn by Aaron and his sons whenever they enter the tent of meeting or approach the altar to minister in the sanctuary area, so that they do not incur guilt † and die. This is to be a permanent statute † for Aaron and for his future descendants.

28:1-4 Integrally related to the giving of the law and the construction of the tabernacle was the institution of the Aaronic priesthood. The Lord had originally intended for all Israel to be a kingdom of priests (19:6; see also 1Pt 2:9), but they instead fearfully requested Moses to mediate between them and God (19:16; 20:18-21). The institution of the Aaronic priesthood was consistent with this request (see 28:17-21,29) and was appropriately alluded to in 19:22,24 (see the note on 20:1). Like the construction of the tabernacle as a whole, the making of the priestly garments was to be performed by skilled artisans. The same Hebrew word is translated as skilled and wisdom; it express their ability to do the work well (see also 31:1-11).

28:30 The precise nature of the Urim and Thummim and how they were used for decision-making is uncertain and continues to puzzle interpreters. Whatever the mechanics of their use, they were a means by which God would express his will.

28:36 The association between holiness and priesthood found here also appeared in 19:6 where God expressed the possibility that Israel could become "[his] kingdom of priests and [his] holy nation."

INSTRUCTIONS ABOUT CONSECRATION

29 "This is what you are to do for them to consecrate them to serve me as priests. Take a young bull and two unblemished rams, 2 with unleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers coated with oil. Make them out of fine wheat flour, † 3 put them in a basket, and bring them in the basket, along with the bull and two rams. 4 Bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance to the tent of meeting and wash them with water. † 5 Then take the garments and clothe Aaron with the tunic, the robe for the ephod, the ephod itself, and the breastpiece; fasten the ephod on him with its woven waistband. † 6 Put the turban on his head and place the holy diadem † on the turban. 7 Take the anointing oil, pour it on his head, and anoint † him. 8 You must also bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. 9 Tie the sashes on

Aaron and his sons and fasten headbands on them. The priesthood is to be theirs by a permanent statute. This is the way you will ordain Aaron and † his sons. † 10 “You are to bring the bull to the front of the tent of meeting, and Aaron and his sons must lay their hands on the bull’s head. † 11 Slaughter the bull before the LORD at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 12 Take some of the bull’s blood and apply it to the horns † of the altar with your finger; then pour out all the rest of the blood at the base of the altar. 13 Take all the fat † that covers the entrails, the fatty lobe of the liver, and the two kidneys with the fat on them, and burn them on the altar. 14 But burn the bull’s flesh, its hide, and its waste outside the camp; † it is a sin offering.
15 “Take one ram, and Aaron and his sons are to lay their hands on the ram’s head. † 16 You are to slaughter the ram, take its blood, and splatter it on all sides of the altar. 17 Cut the ram into pieces. Wash its entrails and legs, and place them with its head and its pieces on the altar. 18 Then burn the whole ram on the altar; it is a burnt offering to the LORD. It is a pleasing aroma, † a fire offering to the LORD.
19 “You are to take the second ram, and Aaron and his sons must lay their hands on the ram’s head. † 20 Slaughter the ram, take some of its blood, and put it on Aaron’s right earlobe, on his sons’ right earlobes, on the thumbs of their right hands, and on the big toes of their right feet. Splatter the remaining blood on all sides of the altar. 21 Take some of the blood that is on the altar and some of the anointing oil, † and sprinkle them on Aaron and his garments, as well as on his sons and their garments. So he and his garments will be holy, as well as his sons and their garments.
22 “Take the fat from the ram, the fat tail, the fat covering the entrails, the fatty lobe of the liver, the two kidneys and the fat on them, and the right thigh (since this is a ram for ordination †); 23 take one loaf of bread, one cake of bread made with oil, and one wafer from the basket of unleavened bread that is before the LORD; 24 and put all of them in the hands of Aaron and his † sons and present them as a presentation offering before the LORD. † 25 Take them from their hands and burn them on the altar on top of the burnt offering, as a pleasing aroma before the LORD; it is a fire offering to the LORD.

26 “Take the breast from the ram of Aaron’s ordination and present it as a presentation offering before the LORD; it is to be your portion. † 27 Consecrate for Aaron and his sons † the breast of the presentation offering that is presented and the thigh of the contribution that is lifted up from the ram of ordination.
28 This will belong to Aaron and his sons as a regular portion from the Israelites, for it is a contribution. It will be the Israelites’ contribution from their fellowship sacrifices, their contribution to the LORD.
29 “The holy garments that belong to Aaron are to belong to his sons after him, so that they can be anointed and ordained † in them. † 30 Any priest who is one of his sons and who succeeds him and enters the tent of meeting to minister in the sanctuary must wear them for seven days. † 31 “You are to take the ram of ordination and boil its flesh in a holy place.
32 Aaron and his sons are to eat the meat of the ram and the bread that is in the basket at the entrance to the tent of meeting. † 33 They must eat those things by which atonement was made at the time of their ordination † and consecration.
An unauthorized person must not eat † them, for these things are holy. 34 If any of the meat of ordination or any of the bread is left until morning, burn what is left over. It must not be eaten because it is holy.
35 “This is what you are to do for Aaron and his sons based on all I have commanded you. Take seven days to ordain them. 36 Sacrifice a bull as a sin offering each day for atonement. Purify † the altar when you make atonement for it, and anoint it in order to consecrate it. † 37 For seven days you must make atonement for the altar and consecrate it. The altar will be especially holy.
Whatever touches the altar will be consecrated. † 38 “This is what you are to offer regularly on the altar every day: two year-old lambs. † 39 In the morning offer one lamb, and at twilight offer the other lamb. † 40 With the first lamb offer two quarts † of fine flour mixed with one quart † of oil from crushed olives, and a drink offering of one quart of wine.
41 You are to offer the second lamb at twilight. Offer a grain offering and a drink offering with it, like the one in the morning, as a pleasing aroma, a fire offering to the LORD. 42 This will be a regular burnt offering throughout your generations at the entrance to the tent of meeting before the LORD, where I will meet you † to speak with you. † 43 I will also meet with the Israelites there, and that place will be consecrated by my glory. † 44 I will consecrate the tent of meeting and the altar; I will also consecrate Aaron and his sons to serve me as priests. 45 I will dwell † among the Israelites and be their God. † 46 And they will know that I am the LORD their God, who brought them out of the land of Egypt, so that I might dwell among them. I am the LORD their God. †

THE INCENSE ALTAR

30 "You are to make an altar for the burning of incense; make it of acacia wood. † 2 It must be square, eighteen inches long and eighteen inches wide; † it must be thirty-six inches high. † Its horns must be of one piece with it. 3 Overlay its top, all around its sides, and its horns with pure gold; make a gold molding all around it. 4 Make two gold rings for it under the molding on two of its sides; put these on opposite sides of it to be holders for the poles to carry it with. 5 Make the poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold.

6 "You are to place the altar in front of the curtain by the ark of the testimony — in front of the mercy seat that is over the testimony — where I will meet with you. 7 Aaron must burn fragrant incense on it; he must burn it every morning when he tends the lamps. † 8 When Aaron sets up the lamps at twilight, he must burn incense. There is to be an incense offering before the LORD throughout your generations. 9 You must not offer unauthorized incense on it, † or a burnt or grain offering; you are not to pour a drink offering on it.

10 “Once a year Aaron is to perform the atonement ceremony for the altar.
Throughout your generations he is to perform the atonement ceremony for † it once a year, with the blood of the sin offering for atonement on the horns. †
The altar is especially holy to the LORD.”

THE ATONEMENT MONEY

11 The LORD spoke to Moses: 12 “When you take a census † of the Israelites to register them, each of the men must pay a ransom † for his life to the LORD as they are registered. Then no plague † will come on them as they are registered.
13 Everyone who is registered must pay half a shekel † according to the sanctuary shekel (twenty gerahs to the shekel). This half shekel is a contribution to the LORD. † 14 Each man who is registered, twenty years old or more, must give this contribution to the LORD. 15 The wealthy may not give more and the poor may not give less † than half a shekel when giving the contribution to the LORD to atone for † your lives. 16 Take the atonement price † from the Israelites and use it for the service of the tent of meeting. It will serve as a reminder for the Israelites before the LORD to atone for your lives.” †

THE BRONZE BASIN

17 The LORD spoke to Moses: 18 “Make a bronze basin † for washing and a bronze stand for it. Set it between the tent of meeting and the altar, and put water in it. 19 Aaron and his sons must wash their hands and feet from the basin.
20 Whenever they enter the tent of meeting or approach the altar to minister by burning an offering to the LORD, they must wash with water so that they will not die. 21 They must wash their hands and feet so that they will not die; this is to be a permanent statute † for them, for Aaron and his descendants throughout their generations.”

THE ANOINTING OIL

22 The LORD spoke to Moses: 23 “Take for yourself the finest spices: † 12 1/2 pounds † of liquid myrrh, half as much (6 1/4 pounds †) of fragrant cinnamon, 6 1/4 pounds of fragrant cane, 24 12 1/2 pounds of cassia (by the sanctuary shekel), and a gallon † of olive oil. † 25 Prepare from these a holy anointing oil, a scented blend, the work of a perfumer; it will be holy anointing oil. † 26 "With it you are to anoint † the tent of meeting, the ark of the testimony, 27 the table with all its utensils, the lampstand with its utensils, the altar of incense, 28 the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the basin with its stand. 29 Consecrate them and they will be especially holy. Whatever touches them will be consecrated. 30 Anoint Aaron and his sons and consecrate † them to serve me as priests.

31 "Tell the Israelites: This will be my holy anointing oil throughout your generations. 32 It must not be used for ordinary anointing on a person's body, and you must not make anything like it using its formula. It is holy, and it must be holy to you. 33 Anyone who blends something like it or puts some of it on an unauthorized person must be cut off † from his people."

THE SACRED INCENSE

34 The LORD said to Moses: "Take fragrant spices: stacte, onycha, and galbanum; the spices and pure frankincense are to be in equal measures.
35 Prepare expertly blended incense from these; it is to be seasoned with salt, pure and holy. 36 Grind some of it into a fine powder and put some in front of the testimony in the tent of meeting, where I will meet with you. It must be especially holy † to you. 37 As for the incense you are making, you must not make any for yourselves using its formula. It is to be regarded by you as holy — belonging to the LORD. 38 Anyone who makes something like it to smell its fragrance must be cut off from his people."

GOD'S PROVISION OF THE SKILLED WORKERS

31 The LORD also spoke to Moses: 2 "Look, I have appointed by name Bezalel † son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. 3 I have filled him with God's Spirit, with wisdom, understanding, and ability in every craft † 4 to design artistic works in gold, silver, and bronze, 5 to cut gemstones for mounting, and to carve wood for work in every craft. 6 I have also selected Oholiab † son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, to be with him. I have put wisdom in the heart of every skilled artisan † in order to make all that I have commanded you: 7 the tent of meeting, the ark of the testimony, the mercy seat that is on top of it, and all the other furnishings of the tent † — 8 the table with its utensils, the pure gold lampstand with all its utensils, the altar of incense, 9 the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, the basin with its stand — 10 the specially woven † garments, both the holy garments for the priest Aaron and the garments for his sons to serve as priests, 11 the anointing oil, and the fragrant incense for the sanctuary. They must make them according to all that I have commanded you." †

OBSERVING THE SABBATH

12 The LORD said to Moses: 13 "Tell the Israelites: You must observe my Sabbaths, for it is a sign between me and you throughout your generations, so that you will know that I am the LORD who consecrates you. † 14 Observe the Sabbath, for it is holy to you. Whoever profanes it must be put to death. If anyone does work on it, that person must be cut off from his people. † 15 Work may be done for six days, but on the seventh day there must be a Sabbath of complete rest, † holy to the LORD. Anyone who does work on the Sabbath day must be put to death. 16 The Israelites must observe the Sabbath, celebrating it throughout their generations as a permanent covenant. 17 It is a sign forever between me and the Israelites, for in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, but on the seventh day he rested and was refreshed."

THE TWO STONE TABLETS

18 When he finished speaking with Moses on Mount Sinai, he gave him the two tablets of the testimony, stone tablets inscribed by the finger of God. †

31:6 LXX, Syr read Eliab 31:6 Lit everyone wise of heart 31:10 Hb obscure
31:2 Ex 35:30; 36:1; 1Ch 2:20 31:3 Ex 35:31; 1Kg 7:14 31:7 Ex 36:8-38; 37:1-6 31:8-11 Ex 30:25,31,34; 37:10-29; 38:1,8; 39:1,41 31:13 Lv 19:3,30; Ezk 20:12,20 31:14 Nm 15:35 31:15 Gn 2:2; Ex 16:23; 20:9 31:18 Ex 24:12; 32:15-16; Dt 4:13; 5:22; 2Co 3:3

31:1-11 The construction of the tabernacle was not merely commanded by God (see 25:9,40) but was also empowered by his Spirit. Bezalel, the divinely appointed leader of the whole project, was filled . . . with God's Spirit, with wisdom, understanding, and ability in every craft. The Lord had also given wisdom to every skilled artisan to help with the work (see also 28:3; see "A Biblical View of Art," p. 123). There is a striking correspondence between Bezalel, a Spirit-filled man from the line of Judah who led the construction of the tabernacle, and Jesus, another Spirit-filled man from the line of Judah who leads the building of the church (Mt 16:18; Lk 4:1; Eph 2:22).

31:12-17 Yet again God instructed the Israelites to keep the Sabbath (see 16:22-26; 20:8-11; 23:12; 34:21; 35:1-3). Here the Sabbath is also called a sign (vv. 13,17).

THE GOLD CALF

32 When the people saw that Moses delayed in coming down from the mountain, they gathered around Aaron and said to him, "Come, make gods † for us who will go before us because this Moses, the man who brought us up from the land of Egypt — we don't know what has happened to him! " †

2 Aaron replied to them, "Take off the gold rings † that are on the ears of your wives, your sons, and your daughters and bring them to me." 3 So all the people took off the gold rings that were on their ears and brought them to Aaron. 4 He took the gold from them, fashioned it with an engraving tool, and made it into an image of a calf.

Then they said, "Israel, these are your gods, † who brought you up from the land of Egypt! " †

5 When Aaron saw this, he built an altar in front of it and made an announcement: "There will be a festival † to the LORD tomorrow." 6 Early the next morning they arose, offered burnt offerings, and presented fellowship offerings. The people sat down to eat and drink, and got up to party. †

7 The LORD spoke to Moses: "Go down at once! For your people you brought up from the land of Egypt have acted corruptly. † 8 They have quickly turned from the way I commanded them; they have made for themselves an image of a calf. They have bowed down to it, sacrificed to it, and said, 'Israel, these are your gods, who brought you up from the land of Egypt.' " † 9 The LORD also said to Moses: "I have seen this people, and they are indeed a stiff-necked † people.

10 Now leave me alone, so that my anger can burn against them and I can destroy them. Then I will make you into a great nation.” † 11 But Moses sought the favor of the LORD his God: “LORD, why does your anger burn against your people you brought out of the land of Egypt with great power and a strong hand? 12 Why should the Egyptians say, ‘He brought them out with an evil intent to kill them in the mountains and eliminate them from the face of the earth’? Turn from your fierce anger and relent concerning this disaster planned for your people. † 13 Remember your servants Abraham, Isaac, and Israel — you swore to them by yourself † and declared, ‘I will make your offspring as numerous as the stars of the sky and will give your offspring all this land that I have promised, and they will inherit it forever.’ ” † 14 So the LORD relented † concerning the disaster he had said he would bring on his people.
15 Then Moses turned and went down the mountain with the two tablets of the testimony in his hands. They were inscribed on both sides — inscribed front and back. 16 The tablets were the work of God, and the writing was God’s writing, engraved on the tablets. †
17 When Joshua heard the sound of the people as they shouted, he said to Moses,
“There is a sound of war in the camp.”
18 But Moses replied:

It’s not the sound of a victory cry and not the sound of a cry of defeat;
I hear the sound of singing!

19 As he approached the camp and saw the calf and the dancing, Moses became enraged and threw the tablets out of his hands, smashing them at the base of the mountain. 20 He took the calf they had made, burned it up, and ground it to powder. He scattered the powder over the surface of the water and forced the Israelites to drink the water.
21 Then Moses asked Aaron, “What did these people do to you that you have led them into such a grave sin? ” 22 “Don’t be enraged, my lord,” Aaron replied. “You yourself know that the people are intent on evil. † 23 They said to me, ‘Make gods for us who will go before us because this Moses, the man who brought us up from the land of Egypt

— we don’t know what has happened to him! ’ 24 So I said to them, ‘Whoever has gold, take it off,’ and they gave it to me. When I threw it into the fire, out came this calf! ”
25 Moses saw that the people were out of control, for Aaron had let them get out of control, making them a laughingstock to their enemies. † 26 And Moses stood at the camp’s entrance and said, “Whoever is for the LORD, come to me.” And all the Levites gathered around him. 27 He told them, “This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says, ‘Every man fasten his sword to his side; go back and forth through the camp from entrance to entrance, and each of you kill his brother, his friend, and his neighbor.’ ” † 28 The Levites did as Moses commanded, and about three thousand men fell dead that day among the people.
29 Afterward Moses said, “Today you have been dedicated † to the LORD, since each man went against his son and his brother. Therefore you have brought a blessing on yourselves today.” †
30 The following day Moses said to the people, “You have committed a grave sin. Now I will go up to the LORD; perhaps I will be able to atone for your sin.” †
31 So Moses returned to the LORD and said, “Oh, these people have committed a grave sin; they have made a god of gold for themselves. † 32 Now if you would only forgive their sin. But if not, please erase me from the book you have written.” †
33 The LORD replied to Moses: “Whoever has sinned against me I will erase from my book. † 34 Now go, lead the people to the place I told you about; see, my angel will go before you. But on the day I settle accounts, I will hold them accountable for their sin.” † 35 And the LORD inflicted a plague on the people for what they did with the calf Aaron had made.

32:1-6 The making of the golden calf was both tragic and ironic. Though Moses was on Mount Sinai on behalf of the Israelites (see 20:19-21), they felt that he was taking too long. At the same time that Moses was receiving laws about the tabernacle and the priesthood (see Ex 25–31), the Israelites, with the help of their future high priest Aaron, were making an idol and worshiping it. Thus, the giving of the law at Mount Sinai coincided with the breaking of the same law (see also Lv 10:1-3; 17:7). The Israelites quickly disobeyed God even though they had heard for themselves his prohibitions against idolatry and making of graven images (see 20:3-6,23). Their earlier pledges of obedience were for naught (19:8; 20:19; 24:7).

32:7-14 The Israelites had committed a grave sin, and God was so angry that he wanted to destroy them all (v. 10). This catastrophe was prevented by Moses's intercession, which appealed to God's own reputation in the sight of the Egyptians and his promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

32:22-24 Aaron blamed the Israelites for his part in the making and worshiping of the golden calf and even claimed that he threw the gold into the fire and out came this calf (see v. 4).

32:26-29 This is the origin of the dedication of the Levites to the service of God (see Nm 1:47-53; 3:5-45; Dt 33:8-11). Unfortunately, the circumstances surrounding their selection had to do with carrying out God's judgment against the Israelites for the sin of the golden calf (see also Nm 25:7-13).

THE TENT OUTSIDE THE CAMP

33 The LORD spoke to Moses: "Go up from here, you and the people you brought up from the land of Egypt, to the land I promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying: I will give it to your offspring. † 2 I will send an angel ahead of you and will drive out the Canaanites, Amorites, Hethites, Perizzites, † Hivites, and Jebusites. † 3 Go up to a land flowing with milk and honey. But I will not go up with you because you are a stiff-necked people; otherwise, I might destroy you on the way." † 4 When the people heard this bad news, they mourned and didn't put on their jewelry. †

5 For the LORD said to Moses: "Tell the Israelites: You are a stiff-necked people. If I went up with you for a single moment, I would destroy you. Now take off your jewelry, and I will decide what to do with you." 6 So the Israelites remained stripped of their jewelry from Mount Horeb onward.

7 Now Moses took a tent and pitched it outside the camp, at a distance from the camp; he called it the tent of meeting. Anyone who wanted to consult the LORD would go to the tent of meeting that was outside the camp. † 8 Whenever Moses went out to the tent, all the people would stand up, each one at the door of his tent, and they would watch Moses until he entered the tent. 9 When Moses entered the tent, the pillar of cloud would come down and remain at the entrance to the tent, and the LORD would speak with Moses. † 10 As all the people saw the pillar of cloud remaining at the entrance to the tent, they would stand up, then bow in worship, each one at the door of his tent. 11 The LORD would speak with Moses face to face, just as a man speaks with his friend, then Moses would return to the camp. His assistant, the young man Joshua son of Nun, would not leave the inside of the tent. †

THE LORD'S GLORY

12 Moses said to the LORD, "Look, you have told me, 'Lead this people up,' but you have not let me know whom you will send with me. You said, 'I know you by name, † and you have also found favor with me.' 13 Now if I have indeed found favor with you, please teach me your ways, † and I will know you, so that I may find favor with you. Now consider that this nation is your people." †

14 And he replied, "My presence will go with you, and I will give you rest." †

15 "If your presence does not go," Moses responded to him, "don't make us go up from here. 16 How will it be known that I and your people have found favor with you unless you go with us? I and your people will be distinguished by this from all the other people on the face of the earth." †

17 The LORD answered Moses, "I will do this very thing you have asked, for you have found favor with me, and I know you by name."

18 Then Moses said, "Please, let me see your glory." †

19 He said, "I will cause all my goodness to pass in front of you, and I will proclaim the name 'the LORD' before you. I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion." †

20 But he added, "You cannot see my face, for humans cannot see † me and live." 21 The LORD said, "Here is a place near me. You are to stand on the rock, 22 and when my glory passes by, I will put you in the crevice of the rock and cover you with my hand until I have passed by. † 23 Then I will take my hand away, and you will see my back, but my face will not be seen."

33:7-11 The Israelites' relationship with God was in serious trouble (vv. 3,5), but at the tent of meeting, God would speak with Moses face to face, just as a man speaks with his friend. Moses's desire to see

God's glory (v. 18) as compared to Israel's fear and sin (19:16; 20:18-21; 32:1-6) further contributes to the extreme contrast between their respective relationships to God. In this context, the phrase "tent of meeting" does not refer to the tabernacle, which had not yet been built. Later in 40:34, however, the same phrase does refer to the tabernacle.

33:19-23 The statement I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion affirms both the grace and the sovereignty of God (Rm 9:15-18). Moses was only permitted to see God's back because no one can see God and live (vv. 20-23; see also note on 24:9-11).

NEW STONE TABLETS

34 The LORD said to Moses, "Cut two stone tablets like the first ones, and I will write on them the words that were on the first tablets, which you broke. † 2 Be prepared by morning. Come up Mount Sinai in the morning and stand before me on the mountaintop. 3 No one may go up with you; in fact, no one should be seen anywhere on the mountain. Even the flocks and herds are not to graze in front of that mountain." †

4 Moses cut two stone tablets like the first ones. He got up early in the morning, and taking the two stone tablets in his hand, he climbed Mount Sinai, just as the LORD had commanded him.

5 The LORD came down in a cloud, stood with him there, and proclaimed his name, "the LORD." 6 The LORD passed in front of him and proclaimed:

The LORD — the LORD is a compassionate and gracious God, slow to anger and abounding in faithful love and truth, † 7 maintaining faithful love to a thousand generations, forgiving iniquity, rebellion, and sin. † But he will not leave the guilty † unpunished, bringing the fathers' iniquity on the children and grandchildren to the third and fourth generation.

8 Moses immediately knelt low on the ground and worshiped. 9 Then he said, "My Lord, if I have indeed found favor with you, my Lord, please go with us (even though this is a stiff-necked people), forgive our iniquity and our sin, and accept us as your own possession." †

COVENANT OBLIGATIONS

10 And the LORD responded: "Look, I am making a covenant. I will perform wonders in the presence of all your people that have never been done † in the whole earth or in any nation. All the people you live among will see the LORD's work, for what I am doing with you is awe-inspiring. † 11 Observe what I command you today. I am going to drive out before you the Amorites, Canaanites, Hethites, Perizzites, Hivites, † and Jebusites. 12 Be careful not to make a treaty with the inhabitants of the land that you are going to enter; otherwise, they will become a snare among you. † 13 Instead, you must tear down their altars, smash their sacred pillars, and chop down their Asherah poles. † 14 Because the LORD is jealous † for his reputation, you are never to bow down to another god. † He is a jealous God.

15 "Do not make a treaty with the inhabitants of the land, or else when they prostitute themselves with their gods and sacrifice to their gods, they will invite you, and you will eat their sacrifices. † 16 Then you will take some of their daughters as brides for your sons. Their daughters will prostitute themselves with their gods and cause your sons to prostitute themselves with their gods. †
17 "Do not make cast images † of gods for yourselves.
18 "Observe the Festival of Unleavened Bread. You are to eat unleavened bread for seven days at the appointed time in the month of Abib, † as I commanded you, for you came out of Egypt in the month of Abib. †
19 "The firstborn † male from every womb belongs to me, including all your male † † livestock, the firstborn of cattle or sheep. 20 You may redeem the firstborn of a donkey with a sheep, but if you do not redeem it, break its neck. † You must redeem all the firstborn of your sons. No one is to appear before me empty-handed.
21 "You are to labor six days but you must rest † on the seventh day; you must even rest during plowing and harvesting times.
22 "Observe the Festival of Weeks with the firstfruits of the wheat harvest, and the Festival of Ingathering † at the turn of the agricultural year. 23 Three times a year † all your males are to appear before the Lord GOD, the God of Israel. 24 For I will drive out nations † before you and enlarge your territory. † No one will covet your land when you go up three times a year to appear before the LORD your God.
25 "Do not present † the blood for my sacrifice with anything leavened. The sacrifice of the Passover Festival must not remain until morning. †

26 “Bring the best firstfruits † of your land to the house of the LORD your God.
“You must not boil a young goat in its mother’s milk.”
27 The LORD also said to Moses, “Write † down these words, for I have made a covenant with you and with Israel based on these words.” 28 Moses was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he did not eat food or drink water. He wrote the Ten Commandments, † the words of the covenant, on the tablets.

MOSES’S RADIANT FACE

29 As Moses descended from Mount Sinai — with the two tablets of the testimony in his hands as he descended the mountain — he did not realize that the skin of his face shone as a result of his speaking with the LORD. † † 30 When Aaron and all the Israelites saw Moses, the skin of his face shone! †
They were afraid to come near him. 31 But Moses called out to them, so Aaron and all the leaders of the community returned to him, and Moses spoke to them.
32 Afterward all the Israelites came near, and he commanded them to do everything the LORD had told him on Mount Sinai. 33 When Moses had finished speaking with them, he put a veil over his face. 34 But whenever Moses went before the LORD to speak with him, he would remove the veil until he came out.
After he came out, he would tell the Israelites what he had been commanded, † 35 and the Israelites would see that Moses’s face † was radiant. Then Moses would put the veil over his face again until he went to speak with the LORD.

34:5-9 As suggested in 33:19, God’s appearance to Moses emphasized his grace and compassion. It was thus primarily a revelation of his character, as a compassionate and gracious God, slow to anger and abounding in faithful love and truth . . . forgiving iniquity, rebellion, and sin. This revelation also included mention of his justice as a God who will not leave the guilty unpunished. The importance of this particular description of God's character is reflected by its citation elsewhere in Scripture (e.g., Nm 14:18; Neh 9:17; Pss 86:15; 103:8; Jl 2:13; Nah 1:3). Moses responded to this revelation with worship and a corresponding appeal for forgiveness.

34:26 On the boiling of a young goat in its mother's milk, see the note on 23:19.

34:29-35 Moses had been on Mount Sinai again and came down with a second set of tablets on which were written the Ten Commandments (vv. 28-29; see 31:18; 32:15-20). Whereas Moses's relationship with God was close (see the note on 33:7-11), the Israelites' relationship with God was becoming increasingly distant. Moses was mediating for them in the first place because they were terrified of God (20:18-21), and now they were afraid to come near their mediator because of his shining face. Moses's use of a veil when speaking with the Israelites further underscores both the barriers in their relationship with God and Moses's intimacy with him.

THE SABBATH COMMAND

35 Moses assembled the entire Israelite community and said to them,
"These are the things that the LORD has commanded you to do: † 2 For six days work is to be done, but on the seventh day you are to have a holy day, a Sabbath † of complete rest to the LORD. Anyone who does work on it must be executed. 3 Do not light a fire in any of your homes on the Sabbath day." †

BUILDING THE TABERNACLE

4 Then Moses said to the entire Israelite community, "This is what the LORD has commanded: 5 Take † up an offering among you for the LORD. Let everyone whose heart is willing bring this as the LORD's offering: gold, silver, and bronze; 6 blue, purple, and scarlet yarn; fine linen and goat hair; 7 ram skins dyed red and fine leather; † acacia wood; 8 oil for the light; spices for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense; 9 and onyx with gemstones to mount on the ephod and breastpiece.
10 "Let all the skilled artisans † among you come and make everything that the LORD has commanded: † 11 the tabernacle — its tent and covering, its clasps and supports, its crossbars, its pillars and bases; 12 the ark with its poles, the mercy seat, and the curtain for the screen; 13 the table with its poles, all its utensils, and the Bread of the Presence; 14 the lampstand for light with its utensils and lamps as well as the oil for the light; 15 the altar of incense with its poles; the anointing oil and the fragrant incense; the entryway screen for the entrance to the tabernacle; 16 the altar of burnt offering with its bronze grate, its poles, and all its utensils; the basin with its stand; 17 the hangings of the courtyard, its posts and bases, and the screen for the gate of the courtyard; 18 the tent pegs for the tabernacle and the tent pegs for the courtyard, along with their ropes; 19 and the specially woven † garments for ministering in the sanctuary — the holy garments for the priest Aaron and the garments for his sons to serve as priests." †

20 Then the entire Israelite community left Moses's presence. 21 Everyone whose heart was moved and whose spirit prompted him came and brought an offering to the LORD for the work on the tent of meeting, for all its services, and for the holy garments. † 22 Both men and women came; all who had willing hearts brought brooches, earrings, rings, necklaces, and all kinds of gold jewelry — everyone who presented a presentation offering of gold to the LORD. 23 Everyone who possessed blue, purple, or scarlet yarn, † fine linen or goat hair, ram skins dyed red or fine leather, † brought them. 24 Everyone making an offering of silver or bronze brought it as a contribution to the LORD. Everyone who possessed acacia wood useful for any task in the work brought it. 25 Every skilled † woman † spun yarn with her hands and brought it: blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and fine linen. 26 And all the women whose hearts were moved spun the goat hair by virtue of their skill. 27 The leaders † brought onyx and gemstones to mount on the ephod and breastpiece, 28 as well as the spice † and oil for the light, for the anointing oil, and for the fragrant incense. 29 So the Israelites brought a freewill offering to the LORD, all the men and women whose hearts prompted them to bring something for all the work that the LORD, through Moses, had commanded to be done. †

BEZALEL AND OHOLIAB

30 Moses † then said to the Israelites: "Look, the LORD has appointed by name Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. 31 He has filled him with God's Spirit, with wisdom, understanding, and ability in every kind of craft 32 to design artistic works in gold, silver, and bronze, 33 to cut gemstones for mounting, and to carve wood for work in every kind of artistic craft. 34 He has also given † both him and Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, the ability to teach others. 35 He has filled them with skill † to do all the work † of a gem cutter; a designer; an embroiderer † in blue, purple, and scarlet yarn and fine linen; and a weaver. They can do every kind of craft and design artistic designs.

35:1-3 Yet another Sabbath command is found here (see the notes on 23:10-12 and 31:12-17).

35:21–36:7 As God had said earlier, the materials for the tabernacle were to be given voluntarily by the Israelites (25:1-7; 35:4-9). Without coercion, everyone whose heart was moved and whose spirit prompted him came and brought an offering to the LORD (35:20). Remarkably, they brought more than was needed so that Moses even had to give an order to stop contributing. The building project was led by Bezalel, who was divinely appointed and filled . . . with God's Spirit, with wisdom, understanding, and ability in every kind of craft (see also the note on 31:1-11). He was assisted by Oholiab and other skilled workers (see also 28:3). Thus, both the materials and manpower for the construction of the tabernacle were well supplied (see also the note on 1Ch 29:6-9).

36 Bezalel, Oholiab, and all the skilled † people are to work based on everything the LORD has commanded. The LORD has given them wisdom and understanding to know how to do all the work of constructing the sanctuary." †

2 So Moses summoned Bezalel, Oholiab, and every skilled person in whose heart the LORD had placed wisdom, all whose hearts moved them, † to come to the work and do it. 3 They took from Moses's presence all the contributions that the Israelites had brought for the task of making the sanctuary. Meanwhile, the people continued to bring freewill offerings morning after morning.

4 Then all the artisans who were doing all the work for the sanctuary came one by one from the work they were doing 5 and said to Moses, "The people are bringing more than is needed † for the construction of the work the LORD commanded to be done."

6 After Moses gave an order, they sent a proclamation throughout the camp: "Let no man or woman make anything else as an offering for the sanctuary." So the people stopped. 7 The materials were sufficient for them to do all the work. There was more than enough.

A BIBLICAL VIEW OF ART

Throughout Christian history, Genesis 1–3 has served as a cornerstone for constructing a biblical understanding of the arts. The first thing the Bible reveals about God in Genesis 1:1 is that he is the divine Creator, the sovereign Artisan of all creation. As part of God's creative activities, he made man and woman "in his own image" (Gn 1:26-27). Although the Bible does not provide a precise definition of the meaning of this phrase, Christians throughout history have consistently argued that human artistry, creativity, and imagination are ultimately rooted in the imago Dei. Thus, when humans engage in artistic, creative, and imaginative activities, they mirror the nature and activities of their Creator.

Humans are, by God's divine design, aesthetic—that is, artistic, creative, and imaginative. From the ornate visual designs of the wilderness tabernacle to John's apocalyptic vision of the New Jerusalem adorned with gold, pearls, and precious stones (Rv 21:10-21), Scripture consistently engages humans as aesthetic beings and appeals directly to their aesthetic sensibilities.

As part of humanity's role in creation, God, in Genesis 1:28, further declares that humans are to fill the earth and "subdue" it. All art making is in essence an act of subjugation; poets bring order to words, musicians bring order to sounds, and so on. An essential part of what it means to be human, then, is to serve as stewards of God's creation; this includes aesthetic stewardship. God, through his mercy and grace, has afforded humans the honor and privilege of continuing his creative work in the world. The arts are a gift from God that can and should play a positive role in the life and worship of every believer.

The Bible, therefore, presents a cautiously optimistic and encouraging view of the arts. Although Scripture does not directly address the arts, it does provide numerous examples of the use of the arts in worship and everyday life, as well as offering various principles and teachings that shed light on how God's people are to approach, think about, and engage the arts. Active participation in the arts, either as performers or spectators, contributes to a holistic enjoyment of God, his people, and his creation. In addition to the fine arts, such as painting, sculpture, music, poetry, and the performing arts, the Bible also presents a positive view of the applied arts, that is, art designed primarily for utilitarian purposes. This includes ceramics, textiles, metalwork, woodwork, and stonework of various kinds. The Bible, in its entirety, shows no ambivalence toward the arts; rather, it regards them as important features of its overall scope and message.

At the same time, however, the Bible repeatedly warns against the idolatrous misuse of the arts. Among the various forms of idols recorded in the OT are artistically executed "carved" images (Dt 7:25; Is 30:22; 40:19; Hab 2:19). Shortly after the Israelites were delivered out of bondage in Egypt, for example, they gathered together the "gold rings that were on their ears" (Ex 32:3) and cast a likeness of a golden calf using a graving tool (32:4). When Moses returned from meeting with God on Mount Sinai and saw the people worshiping the calf, he burned with anger and rebuked them for having committed a great sin (32:15-35).

Similarly, in Hosea 13:2-3, the prophet Hosea warns, "Now they continue to sin and make themselves a cast image, idols skillfully made from their silver, all of them the work of craftsman. People say about them, 'Let the men who sacrifice kiss the calves.' Therefore, they will be like the morning mist, like the early dew that vanishes, like chaff blown from a threshing floor, or like smoke from a window."

Because of sin, anything, including the arts, can be used inappropriately. As a result, the arts should always be engaged prayerfully and with great care. It must be noted, however, that while the Bible clearly denounces the idolatrous misuse of the arts, it never forbids or condemns humanity's general involvement in the arts. As the Renaissance artist Albrecht Dürer (1471–1528) once wrote, "A sword is a sword, which may be used either for murder or justice. Similarly the arts are in themselves good. What God hath formed that is good, misuse it how ye will" (William Conway, ed., The Writings of Albrecht Dürer, p. 176).

Music and, to a lesser degree, dance represent the most prominent and fully developed art forms in the Bible. In terms of human origins, the Bible identifies Jubal as the "father of all who play the lyre and the flute" in Genesis 4:21. Biblical music consisted of both vocal and instrumental styles and was performed using a variety of instruments, including the tambourine (Ex 15:20; Jdg 11:34), lyre (1Sm 16:23), zither (Dn 3:5), trumpet (Nm 10:1-2; Jr 4:5), and flute (Gn 4:21). Notable lyrical songs include the Israelites' song of deliverance at the Red Sea (Ex 15:1-21); Deborah and Barak's song of victory over King Jabin's army (Jdg 5:2-31); Israel's song of praise at the completion of the temple's foundation (Ezr 3:11); Mary's song of rejoicing at the news of the conception of Jesus (Lk 1:46-55); Zechariah's song of praise for the birth of his son, John (Lk 1:68-79); and the apocalyptic song of praise unto the Lamb of God (Rv 15:3). Closely associated with music is dance, which was among the most popular pastime activities for women and children (Jb 21:11; Jr 31:4; Mt 11:17; Lk 7:32) and was performed in times of joyous national celebrations (1Sm 18:6) and religious festivities (Ex 15:20; Jdg 21:21).

The visual arts are best represented in the wilderness tabernacle (Ex 25–31; 35–40) and Solomon's temple (1 Kings 6). The account of the wilderness tabernacle is of particular significance because it was God himself who supplied the tabernacle's designs. A survey of these designs shows the use of both representational and abstract or decorative styles of art as well as a wide variety of colors, textures, and materials. From the gold-covered ark of the covenant (Ex 25:10-22) to the colorful priestly garments (Ex 28), God called for the making of beautiful objects of exquisite craftsmanship to aid in worship of him. To accomplish this task, God filled Bezalel, the son of Uri, with his "Spirit, with wisdom, understanding, and ability in every craft" (Ex 31:2-3) and put "wisdom in the heart of every skilled artisan" (Ex 31:6).

One of the most intimate connections between God and the arts in the Bible are the figurative descriptions involving God and the work of the potter. To make a clay vessel in biblical times, an artisan would first trod the clay with his feet, then form it on a human powered pottery wheel, and finally heat and harden it in a brick kiln.

In Jeremiah 19:1-13, the Lord commands Jeremiah to go down to the potter's house (cp. 18:3-4), buy a clay jar, and then take it, along with some of the elders and priests of the people, and travel to the Hinnom Valley near the entrance of the Potsherd Gate (18:1). There, after proclaiming to the people a message of God's coming judgment (18:2-9), Jeremiah is instructed to shatter the jar in their presence (18:10) and proclaim that the Lord will "shatter these people and this city, like one shatters a potter's jar that can never again be mended" (19:11).

In Romans 9:21, God's sovereign power to mold human destinies is likened to a potter who has full mastery over his clay: "Or has the potter no right over the clay, to make from the same lump one piece of pottery for honor and another for dishonor?"

Likewise, the prophet Isaiah paints a vivid word-picture of the relationship between God and humanity when he writes, "Yet LORD, you are our Father; we are the clay, and you are our potter; we all are the work of your hands" (Is 64:8). As reflected in these verses and others (Ps 2:9; Is 30:14; Lm 4:2), the arts and artistic imagery provide an effective means of communicating God's truth to his people.

BUILDING THE TABERNACLE

8 All † the skilled artisans † among those doing the work made the tabernacle with ten curtains. Bezalel made them of finely spun linen, as well as blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, with a design of cherubim worked into them. 9 Each curtain was forty-two feet † long and six feet † wide; all the curtains had the same measurements. 10 He joined five of the curtains to each other, and the other five curtains he joined to each other. 11 He made loops of blue yarn on the edge of the last curtain in the first set and did the same on the edge of the outermost curtain in the second set. 12 He made fifty loops on the one curtain and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain in the second set, so that the loops lined up with each other. 13 He also made fifty gold clasps and joined the curtains to each other, so that the tabernacle became a single unit.

14 He made curtains of goat hair for a tent over the tabernacle; he made eleven of them. 15 Each curtain was forty-five feet † long and six feet wide. All eleven curtains had the same measurements. 16 He joined five of the curtains together, and the other six together. 17 He made fifty loops on the edge of the outermost curtain in the first set and fifty loops on the edge of the corresponding curtain in the second set. 18 He made fifty bronze clasps to join the tent together as a single unit. 19 He also made a covering for the tent from ram skins dyed red and a covering of fine leather † on top of it.

20 He † made upright supports † of acacia wood for the tabernacle. 21 Each support was fifteen feet † long and twenty-seven inches † wide. 22 Each support had two tenons for joining one to another. He did the same for all the supports of the tabernacle. 23 He made supports for the tabernacle as follows: twenty for the south side, 24 and he made forty silver bases to put under the twenty supports, two bases under the first support for its two tenons, and two bases under each of the following supports for their two tenons; 25 for the second side of the tabernacle, the north side, he made twenty supports, 26 with their forty silver bases, two bases under the first support and two bases under each of the following ones; 27 and for the back of the tabernacle, on the west side, he made six supports. 28 He also made two additional supports for the two back corners of the tabernacle. 29 They were paired at the bottom and joined together † at the † top in a single ring. This is what he did with both of them for the two corners. 30 So there were eight supports with their sixteen silver bases, two bases under each one.

31 He made five crossbars of acacia wood for the supports on one side of the tabernacle, 32 five crossbars for the supports on the other side of the tabernacle, and five crossbars for those at the back of the tabernacle on the west. 33 He made the central crossbar run through the middle of the supports from one end to the other. 34 He overlaid them with gold and made their rings out of gold as holders for the crossbars. He also overlaid the crossbars with gold.

35 Then † he made the curtain with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and finely spun linen. He made it with a design of cherubim worked into it. 36 He made four pillars of acacia wood for it and overlaid them with gold; their hooks were of gold. And he cast four silver bases for the pillars.

37 He made a screen embroidered † with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and finely spun linen for the entrance to the tent, 38 together with its five pillars and their hooks. He overlaid the tops of the pillars and their bands with gold, but their five bases were bronze.

MAKING THE ARK

37 Bezalel † made the ark of acacia wood, forty-five inches long, twenty-seven inches wide, and twenty-seven inches high. † 2 He overlaid it with pure gold inside and out and made a gold molding all around it. 3 He cast four gold rings for it, for its four feet, two rings on one side and two rings on the other side. 4 He made poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold. 5 He inserted the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark for carrying the ark.

6 He made a mercy seat of pure gold, forty-five inches long and twenty-seven inches wide. † 7 He made two cherubim of gold; he made them of hammered work at the two ends of the mercy seat, 8 one cherub at one end and one cherub at the other end. At each end, he made a cherub of one piece with the mercy seat.

9 They had wings spread out. They faced each other and covered the mercy seat with their wings. The faces of the cherubim were looking toward the mercy seat.

MAKING THE TABLE

10 He † constructed the table of acacia wood, thirty-six inches long, eighteen inches wide, and twenty-seven inches high. † 11 He overlaid it with pure gold and made a gold molding all around it. 12 He made a three-inch † frame all around it and made a gold molding all around its frame. 13 He cast four gold rings for it and attached the rings to the four corners at its four legs. [14] The rings were next to the frame as holders for the poles to carry the table. [15] He made the poles for carrying the table from acacia wood and overlaid them with gold. [16] He also made the utensils that would be on the table out of pure gold: its plates and cups, as well as its bowls and pitchers for pouring drink offerings.

MAKING THE LAMPSTAND

[17] Then † he made the lampstand out of pure hammered gold. He made it all of one piece: its base and shaft, its ornamental cups, and its buds and petals. [18] Six branches extended from its sides, three branches of the lampstand from one side and three branches of the lampstand from the other side. [19] There were three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with a bud and petals, on one branch, and three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with a bud and petals, on the next branch. It was this way for the six branches that extended from the lampstand. [20] There were four cups shaped like almond blossoms on the lampstand shaft along with its buds and petals. [21] For the six branches that extended from it, a bud was under the first pair of branches from it, a bud under the second pair of branches from it, and a bud under the third pair of branches from it. [22] Their buds and branches were of one piece with it. All of it was a single hammered piece of pure gold. [23] He also made its seven lamps, snuffers, and firepans of pure gold. [24] He made it and all its utensils of seventy-five pounds † of pure gold.

MAKING THE ALTAR OF INCENSE

[25] He † made the altar of incense out of acacia wood. It was square, eighteen inches long and eighteen inches wide; it was thirty-six inches high. † Its horns were of one piece with it. [26] He overlaid it, its top, all around its sides, and its horns with pure gold. Then he made a gold molding all around it. [27] He made two gold rings for it under the molding on two of its sides; he put these on opposite sides of it to be holders for the poles to carry it with. [28] He made the poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold.

[29] He also made the holy anointing oil and the pure, fragrant, and expertly blended incense. †

37:1 The explicit mention of Bezalel here with reference to the making of the ark of the covenant further emphasizes his leadership role in the construction of the tabernacle (see also 38:22). God had said earlier that "they are to make an ark of acacia wood" (25:10).

MAKING THE ALTAR OF BURNT OFFERING

38 Bezalel † constructed the altar of burnt offering from acacia wood. It was square, 7 1/2 feet long and 7 1/2 feet wide, † and was 4 1/2 feet † high. 2 He made horns for it on its four corners; the horns were of one piece with it. Then he overlaid it with bronze.
3 He made all the altar's utensils: the pots, shovels, basins, meat forks, and firepans; he made all its utensils of bronze. 4 He constructed for the altar a grate of bronze mesh under its ledge, † halfway up from the bottom. 5 He cast four rings at the four corners of the bronze grate as holders for the poles. 6 He made the poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with bronze. 7 Then he inserted the poles into the rings on the sides of the altar in order to carry it with them. He constructed the altar with boards so that it was hollow.

MAKING THE BRONZE BASIN

8 He made the bronze basin and its stand from the bronze mirrors of the women who served at the entrance to the tent of meeting. †

MAKING THE COURTYARD

9 Then † he made the courtyard. The hangings on the south side of the courtyard were of finely spun linen, 150 feet † long, 10 including their twenty posts and their twenty bronze bases, with silver hooks and silver bands † for the posts. 11 The hangings on the north side were also 150 feet long, including their twenty posts and twenty bronze bases. The hooks and bands of the posts were silver. 12 The hangings on the west side were 75 feet † long, including their ten posts and their ten bases, with silver hooks and silver bands for the posts. 13 And for the east side toward the sunrise, 75 feet long, 14 the hangings on one side of the gate were 22 1/2 feet, † including their three posts and their three bases. 15 It was the same for the other side of the courtyard gate. The hangings were 22 1/2 feet, including their three posts and their three bases. 16 All the hangings around the courtyard were of finely spun linen. 17 The bases for the posts were bronze; the hooks and bands of the posts were silver; and the plating for the tops of the posts was silver. All the posts of the courtyard were banded with silver.

18 The screen for the gate of the courtyard was made of finely spun linen, expertly embroidered † with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn. It was 30 feet † long, and like the hangings of the courtyard, 7 1/2 feet † high. † 19 It had four posts with their four bronze bases. Their hooks were silver, and their top plating and their bands were silver. 20 All the tent pegs for the tabernacle and for the surrounding courtyard were bronze.

INVENTORY OF MATERIALS

21 This is the inventory for the tabernacle, the tabernacle of the testimony, † that was recorded at Moses's command. It was the work of the Levites under the direction of † Ithamar son of Aaron the priest. † 22 Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made everything that the LORD commanded Moses.
23 With him was Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, a gem cutter, a designer, and an embroiderer with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and fine linen.
24 All the gold of the presentation offering that was used for the project in all the work on the sanctuary, was 2,193 pounds, † according to the sanctuary shekel. † 25 The silver from those of the community who were registered was 7,544 pounds, † according to the sanctuary shekel — 26 one-fifth of an ounce † per man, that is, half a shekel according to the sanctuary shekel, from everyone twenty years old or more who had crossed over to the registered group, 603,550 men. 27 There were 7,500 pounds † of silver used to cast the bases of the sanctuary and the bases of the curtain — one hundred bases from 7,500 pounds, 75 pounds † for each base. † 28 With the remaining 44 pounds † he made the hooks for the posts, overlaid their tops, and supplied bands for them.
29 The bronze of the presentation offering totaled 5,310 pounds. † 30 He made with it the bases for the entrance to the tent of meeting, the bronze altar and its bronze grate, all the utensils for the altar, 31 the bases for the surrounding courtyard, the bases for the gate of the courtyard, all the tent pegs for the tabernacle, and all the tent pegs for the surrounding courtyard.

MAKING THE PRIESTLY GARMENTS

39 They made specially woven † garments for ministry in the sanctuary, and the holy garments for Aaron from the blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. †

MAKING THE EPHOD

2 Bezalel † made the ephod of gold, of blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and of finely spun linen. 3 They hammered out thin sheets of gold, and he † cut threads from them to interweave with the blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and the fine linen in a skillful design. 4 They made shoulder pieces for attaching it; it was joined together at its two edges. 5 The artistically woven waistband that was on the ephod was of one piece with the ephod, according to the same workmanship of gold, of blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and of finely spun linen, just as the LORD had commanded Moses.
6 Then they mounted the onyx stones surrounded with gold filigree settings, engraved with the names of Israel's sons as a gem cutter engraves a seal. 7 He fastened them on the shoulder pieces of the ephod as memorial stones for the Israelites, just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

MAKING THE BREASTPIECE

8 He † also made the embroidered † breastpiece with the same workmanship as the ephod of gold, of blue, purple, and scarlet yarn, and of finely spun linen. 9 They made the breastpiece square and folded double, nine inches long and nine inches wide. † 10 They mounted four rows of gemstones † on it.

The first row was a row of carnelian, topaz, and emerald; †

11 the second row,
a turquoise, † a lapis lazuli, and a diamond; † 12 the third row,
a jacinth, † an agate, and an amethyst;
13 and the fourth row,
a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper.

They were surrounded with gold filigree in their settings.
14 The twelve stones corresponded to the names of Israel's sons. Each stone was engraved like a seal with one of the names of the twelve tribes.
15 They made braided chains of pure gold cord for the breastpiece. 16 They also fashioned two gold filigree settings and two gold rings and attached the two rings to its two corners. 17 Then they attached the two gold cords to the two gold rings on the corners of the breastpiece. 18 They attached the other ends of the two cords to the two filigree settings, and in this way they attached them to the ephod's shoulder pieces in front. 19 They made two other gold rings and put them at the two other corners of the breastpiece on the edge that is next to the inner border of the ephod. 20 They made two more gold rings and attached them to the bottom of the ephod's two shoulder pieces on its front, close to its seam, † above the ephod's woven waistband. 21 Then they tied the breastpiece from its rings to the rings of the ephod with a cord of blue yarn, so that the breastpiece was above the ephod's waistband and did not come loose from the ephod. They did just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

MAKING THE ROBE

22 They † made the woven robe of the ephod entirely of blue yarn. 23 There was an opening in the center of the robe like that of body armor † with a collar around the opening so that it would not tear. 24 They made pomegranates of finely spun blue, purple, and scarlet yarn † on the lower hem of the robe. 25 They made bells of pure gold and attached the bells between the pomegranates, all around the hem of the robe between the pomegranates, 26 a bell and a pomegranate alternating all around the lower hem of the robe † to be worn for ministry. They made it just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

THE OTHER PRIESTLY GARMENTS

27 They made the tunics of fine woven linen for Aaron and his sons. 28 They made the turban and the ornate headbands † of fine linen, the linen undergarments of finely spun linen, † 29 and the sash of finely spun linen expertly embroidered with blue, purple, and scarlet yarn. They did just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

MAKING THE HOLY DIADEM

30 They made a medallion, the holy diadem, out of pure gold and wrote on it an inscription like the engraving on a seal: † HOLY TO THE LORD. 31 They attached a cord of blue yarn to it in order to mount it on the turban, just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

MOSES'S INSPECTION OF THE TABERNACLE

32 So all the work for the tabernacle, the tent of meeting, was finished. The Israelites did everything just as the LORD had commanded Moses. † 33 They brought the tabernacle to Moses: the tent with all its furnishings, its clasps, its supports, its crossbars, and its pillars and bases; 34 the covering of ram skins dyed red and the covering of fine leather; † the curtain for the screen; 35 the ark of the testimony with its poles and the mercy seat; 36 the table, all its utensils, and the Bread of the Presence; 37 the pure gold lampstand, with its lamps arranged and all its utensils, as well as the oil for the light; 38 the gold altar; the anointing oil; the fragrant incense; the screen for the entrance to the tent; 39 the bronze altar with its bronze grate, its poles, and all its utensils; the basin with its stand; 40 the hangings of the courtyard, its posts and bases, the screen for the gate of the courtyard, its ropes and tent pegs, and all the furnishings for the service of the tabernacle, the tent of meeting; 41 and the specially woven † garments for ministering in the sanctuary, the holy garments for the priest Aaron and the garments for his sons to serve as priests. 42 The Israelites had done all the work according to everything the LORD had commanded Moses. † 43 Moses inspected all the work they had accomplished. They had done just as the LORD commanded. Then Moses blessed them. †

39:32 The preceding detailed account of the construction of the tabernacle (36:8–39:31) demonstrated that the Israelites did everything just as the LORD had commanded Moses in chapter 25. Their obedience is mentioned twice more in 39:42-43 and contrasts sharply with their worship of the golden calf in 32:1-6.

SETTING UP THE TABERNACLE

40 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "You are to set up the tabernacle, the tent of meeting, on the first day of the first month. † † 3 Put the ark † of the testimony there and screen off the ark with the curtain. 4 Then bring in the table and lay out its arrangement; also bring in the lampstand and set up its lamps. 5 Place the gold altar for incense in front of the ark of the testimony. Put up the screen for the entrance to the tabernacle. 6 Position the altar of burnt offering in front of the entrance to the tabernacle, the tent of meeting. 7 Place the basin † between the tent of meeting and the altar, and put water in it. 8 Assemble the surrounding courtyard and hang the screen for the gate of the courtyard.

9 "Take the anointing oil and anoint † the tabernacle and everything in it; consecrate it along with all its furnishings so that it will be holy. 10 Anoint the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils; consecrate the altar so that it will be especially holy. 11 Anoint the basin and its stand and consecrate it.

12 "Then bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance to the tent of meeting and wash them with water. † 13 Clothe Aaron with the holy garments, † anoint him, and consecrate him, so that he can serve me as a priest. 14 Have his sons come forward and clothe them in tunics. 15 Anoint them just as you anointed their father, so that they may also serve me as priests. Their anointing will serve to inaugurate a permanent priesthood for them throughout their generations." †

16 Moses did everything just as the LORD had commanded him. 17 The tabernacle was set up in the first month of the second year, on the first day of the month. † † 18 Moses set up the tabernacle: He laid its bases, positioned its supports, inserted its crossbars, and set up its pillars. 19 Then he spread the tent over the tabernacle and put the covering of the tent on top of it, just as the LORD had commanded Moses.
20 Moses took the testimony † and placed it in the ark, and attached the poles to the ark. He set the mercy seat on top of the ark. 21 He brought the ark into the tabernacle, put up the curtain for the screen, and screened off the ark of the testimony, just as the LORD had commanded him.
22 Moses placed the table in the tent of meeting on the north side of the tabernacle, outside the curtain. 23 He arranged the bread on it before the LORD, just as the LORD had commanded him. 24 He put the lampstand in the tent of meeting opposite the table on the south side of the tabernacle 25 and set up the lamps before the LORD, just as the LORD had commanded him.
26 Moses installed the gold altar in the tent of meeting, in front of the curtain, 27 and burned fragrant incense on it, just as the LORD had commanded him.
28 He put up the screen at the entrance to the tabernacle. 29 He placed the altar of burnt offering at the entrance to the tabernacle, the tent of meeting, and offered the burnt offering and the grain offering on it, just as the LORD had commanded him.
30 He set the basin between the tent of meeting and the altar and put water in it for washing. 31 Moses, Aaron, and his sons washed their hands and feet from it.
32 They washed whenever they came to the tent of meeting and approached the altar, just as the LORD had commanded Moses.
33 Next Moses set up the surrounding courtyard for the tabernacle and the altar and hung a screen for the gate of the courtyard. So Moses finished the work. †

THE LORD'S GLORY

34 The cloud covered the tent of meeting, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. † 35 Moses was unable to enter the tent of meeting because the cloud rested on it, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.
36 The Israelites set out whenever the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle throughout all the stages of their journey. † 37 If the cloud was not taken up, they did not set out until the day it was taken up. † 38 For the cloud of the LORD was over the tabernacle by day, and there was a fire inside the cloud by night, visible to the entire house of Israel throughout all the stages of their journey.

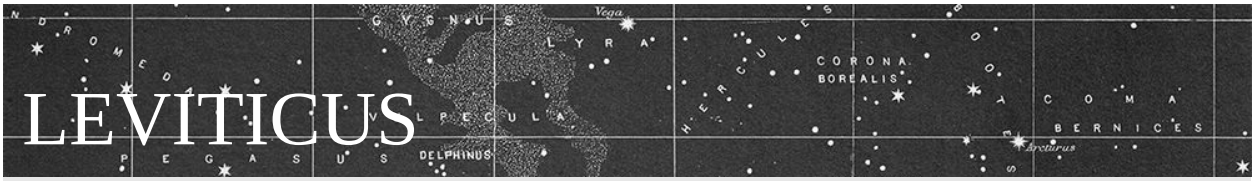
40:1-15 God instructed Moses himself to set up the tabernacle . . . on the first day of the first month (see also v. 17), which he did just as the LORD had commanded him (vv. 16,19,21,23,25,27,29). This took place almost one year after the Passover (12:2-3) and about ten months after the Israelites arrived at Mount Sinai (19:1).

40:34-35 The completion of the tabernacle in v. 33 according to God's instructions was followed by a display of the glory of the LORD, which filled the tabernacle such that Moses was unable to enter. God's special manifestation of his glory in the Israelite camp was unique and dangerous (given Israel's sin). This was the reason for the careful instructions for the construction of the tabernacle and the priesthood, which had to be carried out precisely (see 39:32). The presence and glory of God in the camp is the climax of the book of Exodus and the ultimate goal of his bringing Israel out of slavery in Egypt. He brought Israel out of captivity to be in relationship with himself. The narrative will continue in Leviticus 1:1 with God speaking "from the tent of meeting" (probably the tabernacle; see the note on 33:7-11) to Moses.

40:36-38 The pillar of cloud and of fire had been mentioned earlier as a means of guidance for the Israelites (13:21-22). Henceforth it rested over the tabernacle (see also Nm 9:15-23).



LEVITICUS

INTRODUCTION

The book's name comes from the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the OT): "relating to the Levites." This third section of the Pentateuch deals primarily with the duties of the priests and the service of the tabernacle, but it contains other laws as well. Leviticus gives us regulations for worship, laws on ceremonial cleanness, moral laws, and holy days.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Although the book of Leviticus is technically anonymous, the evidence from the Bible and from Jewish and Christian traditions attributes it to the lawgiver, Moses (cp. 18:5 with Rm 10:5). Moses was the chief recipient of God's revelation in the book of Leviticus (1:1; 4:1). Elsewhere, Moses is said to have written down revelation that he received (Ex 24:4; 34:28; Mk 10:4-5; 12:19; Jn 1:45; 5:46). The author of Leviticus was someone well acquainted with the events in the book, and he was knowledgeable of the Sinai Wilderness, making him most likely a firsthand witness.

BACKGROUND: About one year passed from the time Israel arrived at Sinai until they departed (Ex 19:1; Nm 10:11). During that time, Moses received the covenant from the Lord, erected the tabernacle (Ex 40:17), and received all the instructions in Leviticus and in the early chapters of Numbers. This block of material is the continuous narrative extending from Exodus 19 through Leviticus to Numbers 10:11. Since these events occurred in just one year and yet received the largest amount of space in the books from Exodus through Deuteronomy, Moses showed the special importance of the Sinai revelation to the writing of the Pentateuch. The repeated expression "The LORD spoke to Moses" throughout Leviticus leaves no doubt that its instructions were of divine origin, not the creation of Moses (Lv 1:1; 27:1).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Leviticus is often neglected because Christians have misunderstood its message and purpose. This was not true of Jesus, who designated "love your neighbor as yourself" (19:18) as the second greatest commandment (Mt 22:39). The apostle Paul considered these words the summation of the Mosaic commandments (Rm 13:9; Gl 5:14; cp. Jms 2:8). The writer of Hebrews relied on the images of Leviticus in describing the person and role of Jesus Christ: sacrifice, the priesthood, and the Day of Atonement (Heb 4:14–10:18). Studying Leviticus gives us a deeper devotion to Jesus Christ, a stronger worship of God, and a better understanding of daily Christian living.

STRUCTURE

Leviticus is primarily a collection of laws, with a little historical narrative. The laws contained in Leviticus can be divided into two groups. First are the commands, or apodictic law. These are both positive commands ("You must . . .") and negative commands ("You must not . . ."). The second type of law is casuistic law. These are case laws using an example of what to do if such and such happened ("If a man . . ."). Some scholars seek to divide the laws further into civil laws, moral laws, and ceremonial laws, but there is no evidence that the Israelites made such a distinction.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Leviticus teaches that in his holiness God has the absolute right to instruct his people in what holiness demands, down to the minute details of life. Sinful people may approach him for forgiveness only through the sacrifices he has ordained.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

God has made complete provision for forgiving the sins and failures of people, if only they make use of his means. Further, humans can enjoy full fellowship with God but only if they live according to the way he has revealed.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

"Blood" occurs more than sixty times in Leviticus. Readers are overwhelmed with the truth that in God's design blood outpoured through ritual sacrifice is the key to atoning for sins (17:11). This is critical for understanding the necessity of Christ's violent death as the atoning sacrifice for people's sins.

THE BURNT OFFERING

1 Then the LORD summoned Moses † and spoke to him from the tent of meeting: † 2 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them: When any of you brings an offering to the LORD from the livestock, you may bring your offering from the herd or the flock.
3 "If his offering is a burnt offering † from the herd, he is to bring an unblemished male. † He will bring it to the entrance to the tent of meeting so that he † may be accepted by the LORD. † 4 He is to lay his hand on † the head of the burnt offering so it can be accepted † on his behalf to make atonement for him. † 5 He is to slaughter the bull before the LORD; Aaron's sons the priests † are to present the blood † and splatter it † on all sides of the altar that is at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 6 Then he is to skin the burnt offering † and cut it into pieces. † 7 The sons of Aaron the priest will prepare a fire on the altar and arrange wood on the fire. 8 Aaron's sons the priests are to arrange the pieces, the head, and the fat † on top of the burning wood on the altar. 9 The offerer is to wash its entrails † and legs † with water. Then the priest will burn all of it on the altar as a burnt offering, a fire offering † of a pleasing aroma † to the LORD.
10 "But if his offering for a burnt offering is from the flock, from sheep or goats, † he is to present an unblemished male. 11 He will slaughter it on the north side of the altar before the LORD. Aaron's sons the priests will splatter its blood against the altar on all sides. 12 He will cut the animal into pieces with its head and its fat, and the priest will arrange them on top of the burning wood on the altar. 13 But he is to wash the entrails and legs with water. The priest will then present all of it and burn it on the altar; it is a burnt offering, a fire offering of a pleasing aroma to the LORD.

14 "If his offering to the LORD is a burnt offering of birds, † he is to present his offering from the turtledoves † or young pigeons. † † 15 Then the priest is to bring it to the altar, and will twist off its head and burn it on the altar; its blood should be drained at the side of the altar. 16 He will remove its digestive tract, † cutting off the tail feathers, and throw it on the east side of the altar at the place for ashes. † 17 He will tear it open by its wings without dividing the bird. †
Then the priest is to burn it on the altar on top of the burning wood. It is a burnt offering, a fire offering of a pleasing aroma to the LORD.

1:1 The Pentateuch continues with Leviticus, which picks up where Exodus left off (see the note on Ex 1:1). The tabernacle was set up and filled with the glory of God so that Moses could not enter (Ex 40:34-35). Leviticus begins with God speaking to Moses from the tent of meeting. Chronologically, the book of Leviticus covers a period of only one month (see Ex 40:17; Nm 1:1). The pace of the narrative, which had already slowed with the construction of the tabernacle just described, thus slows down even further here. This book is dominated by laws spoken by God to Moses (and sometimes Aaron), which are in turn to be relayed to the Israelites (e.g., 1:2). The enduring significance of these detailed laws can sometimes be difficult to determine, but several NT passages helpfully compare the law to a "shadow" of superior new covenant realities (Col 2:16-17; Heb 8:5; 10:1; see the note on Ex 25:40). This suggests a general correspondence between the law and the new covenant, though there may not necessarily be a clear one-to-one correspondence in every instance. Another helpful NT passage in this regard is Galatians 3:24, which calls the law "our guardian until Christ, so that we could be justified by faith."

1:3-17 The burnt offering was typically to be an unblemished male, either from the herd or from the flock. This offering was to be burned entirely, and its purpose was to make atonement for the one bringing it. Atonement refers to the covering of sin so that it would not interfere with God's presence in the camp. Not until the death and resurrection of Christ was this sin fully forgiven and removed. Burnt offerings are found throughout the OT (e.g., 1Sm 13:9-10; 1Kg 3:4) and have already been mentioned in the Pentateuch (e.g., Gn 8:20; 22:13; Ex 24:5).

THE GRAIN OFFERING

2 "When anyone presents a grain offering † as an offering to the LORD, it is to consist of fine flour. † He is to pour olive oil † on it, put frankincense on it, † 2 and bring it to Aaron's sons the priests. The priest will take a handful of fine flour and oil from it, along with all its frankincense, and will burn this memorial portion † of it on the altar, a fire offering of a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 3 But the rest of the grain offering will belong to Aaron and his sons; it is the holiest part † of the fire offerings to the LORD.

4 "When you present a grain offering baked in an oven, it is to be made of fine flour, either unleavened cakes † mixed with oil or unleavened wafers † coated with oil. 5 If your offering is a grain offering prepared on a griddle, † it is to be unleavened bread † made of fine flour mixed with oil. 6 Break it into pieces and pour oil on it; it is a grain offering. 7 If your offering is a grain offering prepared in a pan, † it is to be made of fine flour with oil. 8 When you bring to the LORD the grain offering made in any of these ways, it is to be presented to the priest, and he will take it to the altar. 9 The priest will remove the memorial portion † from the grain offering and burn it on the altar, a fire offering of a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 10 But the rest of the grain offering will belong to Aaron and his sons; † it is the holiest part of the fire offerings to the LORD.
11 "No grain offering that you present to the LORD is to be made with yeast, for you are not to burn † any yeast † or honey † as a fire offering to the LORD.
12 You may present them to the LORD as an offering of firstfruits, † but they are not to be offered on the altar as a pleasing aroma. 13 You are to season each of your grain offerings with salt; you must not omit from your grain offering the salt of the covenant † with your God. You are to present salt with each of your offerings.
14 "If you present a grain offering of firstfruits to the LORD, you are to present fresh heads of grain, crushed kernels, roasted on the fire, for your grain offering of firstfruits. 15 You are to put oil and frankincense on it; it is a grain offering.
16 The priest will then burn some of its crushed kernels and oil with all its frankincense as a fire offering to the LORD.

2:1 Not all of the sacrifices described in Leviticus 1–7 were animal sacrifices.

2:9-10 The ubiquitous involvement of the priests here and throughout Leviticus 1–7 is a reminder of the mediated worship experience of all who would bring offerings to the tabernacle.

2:11-13 The prohibition against grain offerings made with yeast (see also 6:16-17) is reminiscent of the Feast of Unleavened Bread (Ex 12:8,15-20,39). Both yeast and honey were probably excluded from proximity to God's holiness because they are susceptible to fermentation, which in turn was associated with mortality and impurity. The use of the preservative salt (the salt of the covenant with your God) seems to reflect the enduring nature of this covenant.

THE FELLOWSHIP OFFERING

3 "If his offering is a fellowship sacrifice, † and he is presenting an animal from the herd, whether male or female, he is to present one without blemish † before the LORD. 2 He is to lay his hand on the head of his offering and slaughter it at the entrance to the tent of meeting. Then Aaron's sons the priests will splatter the blood on all sides of the altar. † 3 He will present part of the fellowship sacrifice as a fire offering to the LORD: the fat † surrounding the entrails, † all the fat that is on the entrails, 4 and the two kidneys † with the fat on them at the loins; he will also remove the fatty lobe of the liver † with the kidneys. 5 Aaron's sons will burn it on the altar along with the burnt offering † that is on the burning wood, a fire offering of a pleasing aroma to the LORD.

6 "If his offering as a fellowship sacrifice to the LORD is from the flock, he is to present a male or female without blemish. 7 If he is presenting a lamb for his offering, he is to present it before the LORD. 8 He must lay his hand on the head of his offering, then slaughter it before the tent of meeting. Aaron's sons will splatter its blood on all sides of the altar. 9 He will then present part of the fellowship sacrifice as a fire offering to the LORD consisting of its fat and the entire fat tail, † which he is to remove close to the backbone. He will also remove the fat surrounding the entrails, † all the fat on the entrails, 10 the two kidneys with the fat on them at the loins, and the fatty lobe of the liver above the kidneys. 11 Then the priest will burn the food on the altar, † as a fire offering to the LORD.

12 "If his offering is a goat, † he is to present it before the LORD. 13 He must lay his hand on its head and slaughter it before the tent of meeting. Aaron's sons will splatter † its blood on all sides of the altar. 14 He will present part of his offering as a fire offering to the LORD: the fat surrounding the entrails, all the fat that is on the entrails, 15 and the two kidneys with the fat on them at the loins; he will also remove the fatty lobe of the liver with the kidneys. 16 Then the priest will burn the food on the altar, as a fire offering for a pleasing aroma. †

"All fat belongs to the LORD. 17 This is a permanent statute † throughout your generations, wherever you live: you must not eat any fat or any blood." †

3:1-2 The fellowship sacrifice was not a response for sin, but rather a voluntary offering of thanksgiving in light of God's deliverance or an unexpected blessing. It was to be without blemish and could be a male or female, either from the herd or from the flock. The laying of one's hand on the head of his offering probably indicates some kind of identification with the animal (see Ac 8:18; 13:3; 2Tm 1:6).

3:17 The prohibition against eating fat and blood is also mentioned in 7:22-27 (see also 17:10; Dt 12:16).

THE SIN OFFERING

4 Then the LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Tell the Israelites: When someone sins unintentionally † against any of the LORD's commands and does anything prohibited by them — 3 "If the anointed priest † sins, bringing guilt † on the people, he is to present to the LORD a young, unblemished † bull as a sin † offering † for the sin he has committed. 4 He is to bring the bull to the entrance to the tent of meeting before the LORD, lay his hand on the bull's head, and slaughter it before the LORD. 5 The anointed priest will then take some of the bull's blood and bring it into the tent of meeting. 6 The priest is to dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle some of it seven times † before the LORD in front of the curtain † of the sanctuary. † 7 The priest is to apply some of the blood to the horns of the altar of fragrant incense † that is before the LORD in the tent of meeting. He must pour out the rest of the bull's blood at the base of the altar of burnt offering † that is at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 8 He is to remove all the fat from the bull of the sin offering: the fat surrounding the entrails, all the fat that is on the entrails, 9 and the two kidneys with the fat on them at the loins. He will also remove the fatty lobe of the liver with the kidneys,

10 just as the fat is removed from the ox of the fellowship sacrifice. † The priest is to burn them on the altar of burnt offering. 11 But the hide † of the bull and all its flesh, with its head and legs, and its entrails and waste — 12 all the rest of the bull — he must bring to a ceremonially clean place † outside the camp † to the ash heap, and must burn it on a wood fire. It is to be burned at the ash heap.
13 "Now if the whole community of Israel † errs, † and the matter escapes the notice of the assembly, † so that they violate any of the LORD's commands and incur guilt † by doing what is prohibited, 14 then the assembly must present a young bull as a sin offering. They are to bring it before the tent of meeting when the sin they have committed in regard to the command becomes known. 15 The elders † of the community are to lay their hands on the bull's head before the LORD and it is to be slaughtered before the LORD. 16 The anointed priest will bring some of the bull's blood into the tent of meeting. 17 The priest is to dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD in front of the curtain. 18 He is to apply some of the blood to the horns of the altar that is before the LORD in the tent of meeting. He will pour out the rest of the blood at the base of the altar of burnt offering that is at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 19 He is to remove all the fat from it and burn it on the altar. 20 He is to offer this bull just as he did with the bull in the sin offering; he will offer it the same way. So the priest will make atonement † on their behalf, and they will be forgiven. † 21 Then he will bring the bull outside the camp † and burn it just as he burned the first bull. It is the sin offering for the assembly.
22 "When a leader † † sins and unintentionally violates any of the commands of the LORD his God by doing what is prohibited, and incurs guilt, 23 or someone informs him about the sin he has committed, he is to bring an unblemished male goat † as his offering. 24 He is to lay his hand on the head of the goat and slaughter it at the place where the burnt offering † is slaughtered before the LORD. It is a sin offering. † 25 Then the priest is to take some of the blood from the sin offering with his finger and apply it to the horns of the altar of burnt offering. † The rest of its blood he is to pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering. 26 He must burn all its fat on the altar, like the fat of the fellowship sacrifice. In this way the priest will make atonement on his behalf for that person's sin, and he will be forgiven.

27 "Now if any of the common people † sins unintentionally by violating one of the LORD's commands, does what is prohibited, and incurs guilt, 28 or if someone informs him about the sin he has committed, then he is to bring an unblemished female goat as his offering for the sin that he has committed. 29 He is to lay his hand on the head of the sin offering and slaughter it at the place of the burnt offering. 30 Then the priest is to take some of its blood with his finger and apply it to the horns of the altar of burnt offering. He is to pour out the rest of its blood at the base of the altar. 31 He is to remove all its fat just as the fat is removed from the fellowship sacrifice. The priest is to burn it on the altar as a pleasing aroma to the LORD. In this way the priest will make atonement on his behalf, and he will be forgiven.

32 "Or if the offering that he brings as a sin offering is a lamb, † he is to bring an unblemished female. 33 He is to lay his hand on the head of the sin offering and slaughter it as a sin offering at the place where the burnt offering is slaughtered. 34 Then the priest is to take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger and apply it to the horns of the altar of burnt offering. He is to pour out the rest of its blood at the base of the altar. 35 He is to remove all its fat just as the fat of the lamb is removed from the fellowship sacrifice. The priest will burn it on the altar along with the fire offerings to the LORD. In this way the priest will make atonement on his behalf for the sin he has committed, and he will be forgiven.

4:14 The animal offered as a sin offering varied depending on the position or size of the party that had sinned. The anointed priest was to offer a young, unblemished bull (v. 3), and the whole community of Israel was to offer a young bull (v. 14). A leader was to offer "an unblemished male goat" (v. 23), and a common person was to offer "an unblemished female goat" (v. 28).

4:27 The need for a sin offering should anyone sin unintentionally by violating one of the LORD's commands demonstrates that that law required perfection and that an unintentional sin was still a sin (see also vv. 2,13,22; 5:15,17). The purpose of the sin offering was to "make atonement on [a person's] behalf"(v. 31) so that he might be forgiven.

CASES REQUIRING SIN OFFERINGS

5 “When someone sins in any of these ways:
If he has seen, heard, or known about something he has witnessed, and did not respond to a public call to testify, he will bear his iniquity. †

2 Or if someone touches anything unclean † — a carcass of an unclean wild animal, † or unclean livestock, or an unclean swarming creature † — without being aware of it, he is unclean and incurs guilt. †

3 Or if he touches human uncleanness † — any uncleanness by which one can become defiled † — without being aware of it, but later recognizes it, he incurs guilt.

4 Or if someone swears rashly † to do what is good or evil — concerning anything a person may speak rashly in an oath — without being aware of it, but later recognizes it, he incurs guilt in such an instance.

5 If someone incurs guilt in one of these cases, he is to confess † he has committed that sin. 6 He must bring his penalty for guilt † for the sin he has committed to the LORD: a female lamb or goat from the flock as a sin offering. In this way the priest will make atonement † on his behalf for his sin.

7 “But if he cannot afford an animal from the flock, then he may bring to the LORD two turtledoves or two young pigeons † as penalty for guilt for his sin — one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. 8 He is to bring them to the priest, who will first present the one for the sin offering. He is to twist its head at the back of the neck without severing it. † 9 Then he will sprinkle some of the blood of the sin offering on the side of the altar, while the rest of the blood is to be drained out at the base of the altar; † it is a sin offering. 10 He will prepare the second bird as a burnt offering according to the regulation. † In this way the priest will make atonement on his behalf for the sin he has committed, and he will be forgiven.

11 “But if he cannot afford two turtledoves or two young pigeons, † he may bring two quarts † of fine flour † † as an offering for his sin. He must not put olive oil or frankincense on it, for it is a sin offering. 12 He is to bring it to the priest, who will take a handful from it as its memorial portion † and burn it on the altar along with the fire offerings to the LORD; it is a sin offering. 13 In this way the priest will make atonement on his behalf concerning the sin he has committed in any of these cases, and he will be forgiven. The rest will belong to the priest, like the grain offering." †

THE GUILT OFFERING

14 Then the LORD spoke to Moses: 15 "If someone offends † by sinning unintentionally † in regard to any of the LORD's holy things, † he must bring his penalty for guilt to the LORD: an unblemished ram from the flock (based on your assessment of its value in silver shekels, according to the sanctuary shekel †) as a guilt offering. 16 He is to make restitution † for his sin regarding any holy † thing, adding a fifth of its value to it, † and give it to the priest. Then the priest will make atonement on his behalf with the ram of the guilt offering, and he will be forgiven. †

17 "If someone sins and without knowing it violates any of the LORD's commands concerning anything prohibited, he is guilty, and he will bear his iniquity. 18 He must bring an unblemished ram from the flock according to your assessment of its value as a guilt offering to the priest. Then the priest will make atonement on his behalf for the error he has committed unintentionally, and he will be forgiven. 19 It is a guilt offering; he is indeed guilty before the LORD."

5:1-6 Sin offerings were to be offered not only for sins such as failure to testify and making rash oaths but also for touching anything unclean.

5:7,11 The laws concerning sin offerings accounted for those who cannot afford an animal from the flock. This built-in flexibility allowed a poor person to offer two turtledoves or two young pigeons instead. If this concession was still not sufficient, two quarts of fine flour could be brought. The offering would have the same effectiveness in all three cases.

6 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "When someone sins and offends the LORD by deceiving † his neighbor in regard to a deposit, † a security, † or a robbery; † or defrauds † his neighbor; 3 or finds something lost and lies about it; † or swears falsely † about any of the sinful things a person may do —

4 once he has sinned † and acknowledged his guilt † — he must return what he stole or defrauded, or the deposit entrusted to him, or the lost item he found, 5 or anything else about which he swore falsely. He will make full restitution for it and add a fifth of its value to it. † He is to pay it to its owner on the day he acknowledges his guilt. † 6 Then he is to bring his guilt offering † to the LORD:
an unblemished † ram from the flock according to your assessment of its value as a guilt offering to the priest. 7 In this way the priest will make atonement on his behalf before the LORD, and he will be forgiven for anything he may have done to incur guilt." †

THE BURNT OFFERING

8 The LORD spoke to Moses: 9 "Command Aaron and his sons: This is the law of the burnt offering; the burnt offering itself must remain on the altar's hearth all night until morning, while the fire of the altar is kept burning on it. 10 The priest is to put on his linen robe and linen undergarments. † † He is to remove the ashes of the burnt offering the fire has consumed on the altar, and place them beside the altar. 11 Then he will take off his garments, put on other clothes, † and bring the ashes outside the camp to a ceremonially clean place. 12 The fire on the altar is to be kept burning; it must not go out. Every morning the priest will burn wood on the fire. He is to arrange the burnt offering on the fire and burn the fat portions from the fellowship offerings † on it. 13 Fire must be kept burning on the altar continually; it must not go out.

THE GRAIN OFFERING

14 "Now this is the law of the grain offering: † Aaron's sons will present it before the LORD in front of the altar. 15 The priest is to remove a handful of fine flour and olive oil from the grain offering, with all the frankincense that is on the offering, and burn its memorial portion on the altar as a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 16 Aaron and his sons may eat the rest of it. † It is to be eaten in the form of unleavened bread † in a holy place; † they are to eat it in the courtyard † of the tent of meeting. 17 It must not be baked with yeast; I have assigned it as their portion † from my fire offerings. † It is especially holy, like the sin offering † and the guilt offering. 18 Any male among Aaron's descendants † may eat it. It is a permanent portion † † throughout your generations from the fire offerings to the LORD. Anything that touches the offerings will become holy." † 19 The LORD spoke to Moses: 20 "This is the offering that Aaron and his sons are to present to the LORD on the day that he is anointed: two quarts † of fine flour as a regular grain offering, half of it in the morning and half in the evening. 21 It is to be prepared with oil on a griddle; you are to bring it well-kneaded. You are to present it as a grain offering of baked pieces, † a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 22 The priest, who is one of Aaron's sons and will be anointed to take his place, is to prepare it. It must be completely burned as a permanent portion for the LORD. 23 Every grain offering for a priest will be a whole burnt offering; † it is not to be eaten."

THE SIN OFFERING

24 The LORD spoke to Moses: 25 "Tell Aaron and his sons: This is the law of the sin offering. † The sin offering is most holy and must be slaughtered before the LORD at the place where the burnt offering is slaughtered. 26 The priest who offers it as a sin offering will eat it. It is to be eaten in a holy place, † in the courtyard of the tent of meeting. 27 Anything that touches its flesh will become holy, and if any of its blood spatters on a garment, then you must wash that garment † in a holy place. 28 A clay pot in which the sin offering is boiled is to be broken; if it is boiled in a bronze vessel, it is to be scoured and rinsed with water. 29 Any male among the priests may eat it; it is especially holy. 30 But no sin offering may be eaten if its blood has been brought into the tent of meeting to make atonement in the holy place; it must be burned.

6:1-7 The reparations for the sins listed here were to be made with both man and God. Whatever was stolen, defrauded, or lost was to be returned to the owner along with a fifth of its value (see also 5:16). In addition, a guilt offering was to be made to God (see also 5:15).

6:8 Beginning here and ending in 7:21, additional instructions were given concerning the various offerings just described. For example, the burnt offering must remain on the altar's hearth all night until morning, and the fire on the altar is to be kept burning. Whereas the earlier instructions were primarily given to the Israelites (see 1:2; 4:2), these instructions were for Aaron and his sons (see also 7:25). Thus, this section naturally gives more attention to matters that specifically concerned the priests, such as details related to the priests' eating of their portions of various offerings (e.g., vv. 16-18,23,26-30; 7:6-10,14).

THE GUILT OFFERING

7 "Now this is the law of the guilt † offering; † it is especially holy.
2 The guilt offering is to be slaughtered at the place where the burnt offering † is slaughtered, and the priest is to splatter its blood on all sides of the altar. 3 The offerer is to present all the fat from it: the fat tail, † the fat surrounding the entrails, † 4 and the two kidneys with the fat on them at the loins; he will also remove the fatty lobe of the liver † with the kidneys. 5 The priest will burn them on the altar as a fire offering † to the LORD; it is a guilt offering. 6 Any male among the priests may eat it. † It is to be eaten in a holy place; † it is especially holy. † 7 "The guilt offering is like the sin offering; † the law is the same for both. It belongs to the priest † who makes atonement † with it. 8 As for the priest who presents someone's burnt offering, the hide of the burnt offering he has presented belongs to him; it is the priest's. 9 Any grain offering † that is baked in an oven or prepared in a pan or on a griddle belongs to the priest who presents it; it is his. 10 But any grain offering, whether dry or mixed with oil, belongs equally to all of Aaron's sons.

THE FELLOWSHIP SACRIFICE

11 "Now this is the law of the fellowship sacrifice † that someone may present to the LORD: 12 If he presents it for thanksgiving, in addition to the thanksgiving sacrifice, † he is to present unleavened cakes † mixed with olive oil, unleavened wafers † coated with oil, and well-kneaded cakes of fine flour mixed with oil. 13 He is to present as his offering cakes of leavened bread with his thanksgiving sacrifice of fellowship. 14 From the cakes he is to present one portion of each offering as a contribution † to the LORD. It will belong to the priest who splatters the blood of the fellowship offering; it is his. 15 The meat of his thanksgiving sacrifice of fellowship must be eaten on the day he offers it; † he may not leave any of it until morning. †

16 "If the sacrifice he offers is a vow † or a freewill offering, † it is to be eaten on the day he presents his sacrifice, and what is left over may be eaten on the next day. 17 But what remains of the sacrificial meat by the third day must be burned. † 18 If any of the meat of his fellowship sacrifice is eaten on the third day, it will not be accepted. † It will not be credited to the one who presents it; it is repulsive. † The person who eats any of it will bear his iniquity. †
19 "Meat that touches anything unclean must not be eaten; it is to be burned. Everyone who is clean may eat any other meat. 20 But the one who eats meat from the LORD's fellowship sacrifice while he is unclean, that person must be cut off from his people. † 21 If someone touches anything unclean, whether human uncleanness, an unclean animal, or any unclean, abhorrent † † creature, and eats meat from the LORD's fellowship sacrifice, that person is to be cut off from his people."

FAT AND BLOOD PROHIBITED

22 The LORD spoke to Moses: 23 "Tell the Israelites: You are not to eat any fat † of an ox, a sheep, or a goat. 24 The fat of an animal that dies naturally or is mauled by wild beasts † † may be used for any other purpose, but you must not eat it. † 25 If anyone eats animal fat from a fire offering presented to the LORD, the person who eats it is to be cut off from his people. 26 Wherever you live, you must not eat the blood † of any bird or animal. 27 Whoever eats any blood is to be cut off from his people."

THE PORTION FOR THE PRIESTS

28 The LORD spoke to Moses: 29 "Tell the Israelites: The one who presents a fellowship sacrifice to the LORD is to bring an offering to the LORD from his sacrifice. 30 His own hands will bring the fire offerings to the LORD. He will bring the fat together with the breast. The breast is to be presented as a presentation offering † before the LORD. 31 The priest is to burn the fat on the altar, but the breast belongs to Aaron and his sons. 32 You are to give the right thigh † to the priest as a contribution from your fellowship sacrifices. 33 The son of Aaron who presents the blood of the fellowship offering and the fat will have the right thigh as a portion. 34 I have taken from the Israelites the breast of the presentation offering and the thigh of the contribution from their fellowship sacrifices, and have assigned them to the priest Aaron and to his sons as a permanent portion † † from the Israelites."

35 This is the portion from the fire offerings to the LORD for Aaron and his sons † since the day they were presented to serve the LORD as priests. 36 The LORD commanded this to be given to them by the Israelites on the day he anointed them. † It is a permanent portion throughout their generations.
37 This is the law for the burnt offering, the grain offering, the sin offering, the guilt offering, the ordination offering, † and the fellowship sacrifice, 38 which the LORD commanded Moses on Mount Sinai † on the day he † commanded the Israelites to present their offerings to the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai. †

7:20-21 Eating the meat of a fellowship sacrifice while unclean was a serious offense. Intentional sins or acts of rebelling against God's ordinances resulted in expulsion from the Israelite community and thus being cut off from the covenant.

7:22-27 On the prohibition against eating fat or blood, see the note on 3:17.

7:29-36 The priestly portions of the grain offering, sin offering, and guilt offering had already been specified (6:15-16,26; 7:6-10). Here the priestly portion of a fellowship sacrifice was designated as the breast and the right thigh. The LORD commanded this to be given to them by the Israelites as a permanent portion.

7:37-38 These verses serve as both a conclusion to Leviticus 1–7 and a reminder of the narrative context. The Israelites were still at Mount Sinai, and these offerings began to be brought to the tabernacle while they were in the Wilderness of Sinai.

ORDINATION OF AARON AND HIS SONS

8 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 “Take Aaron, his sons with him, the garments, the anointing oil, † the bull of the sin † offering, the two rams, and the basket † of unleavened bread, 3 and assemble the whole community † at the entrance to the tent of meeting.” 4 So Moses did as the LORD commanded him, and the community assembled at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 5 Moses said to them, “This is what the LORD has commanded to be done.”
6 Then Moses presented Aaron and his sons and washed them with water. 7 He put the tunic on Aaron, wrapped the sash around him, clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod † on him. He put the woven band of the ephod around him and fastened it to him. 8 Then he put the breastpiece on him and placed the Urim and Thummim † into the breastpiece. 9 He also put the turban † on his head and placed the gold medallion, the holy diadem, on the front of the turban, as the LORD had commanded Moses. † 10 Then Moses took the anointing oil and anointed the tabernacle and everything in it to consecrate † them. 11 He sprinkled some of the oil on the altar seven times, anointing the altar with all its utensils, and the basin with its stand, to consecrate them. † 12 He poured some of the anointing oil on Aaron’s head and anointed and consecrated him. † 13 Then Moses presented Aaron’s sons, clothed them with tunics, wrapped sashes around them, and fastened headbands on them, as the LORD had commanded Moses.
14 Then he brought the bull near for the sin offering, and Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the bull for the sin offering. 15 Then Moses slaughtered it, † took the blood, and applied it with his finger to the horns of the altar on all sides, purifying † the altar. He poured out the blood at the base of the altar and consecrated it so that atonement can be made on it. † † 16 Moses took all the fat that was on the entrails, the fatty lobe of the liver, and the two kidneys † with their fat, and he burned them on the altar. † 17 He burned the bull with its hide, flesh, and waste outside the camp, † as the LORD had commanded Moses.
18 Then he presented the ram for the burnt offering, and Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram. 19 Moses slaughtered it and † splattered the blood on all sides of the altar. 20 Moses cut the ram into pieces and burned the head, the pieces, and the fat, † 21 but he washed the entrails and legs with water.

He then burned the entire ram on the altar. It was a burnt offering for a pleasing aroma, a fire offering to the LORD as he had commanded Moses.
22 Next he presented the second ram, the ram of ordination, † and Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram. 23 Moses slaughtered it, † took some of its blood, and put it on Aaron's right earlobe, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. † 24 Moses also presented Aaron's sons and put some of the blood on their right earlobes, on the thumbs of their right hands, and on the big toes of their right feet. Then Moses splattered the blood on all sides of the altar. 25 He took the fat — the fat tail, † all the fat that was on the entrails, the fatty lobe of the liver, and the two kidneys with their fat — as well as the right thigh. 26 From the basket of unleavened bread that was before the LORD he took one cake of unleavened bread, one cake of bread made with oil, and one wafer, and placed them on the fat portions and the right thigh. † 27 He put all these in the hands of Aaron and his sons and presented them before the LORD as a presentation offering. 28 Then Moses took them from their hands and burned them on the altar with the burnt offering. This was an ordination offering for a pleasing aroma, a fire offering to the LORD. 29 He also took the breast and presented it before the LORD as a presentation offering; it was Moses's portion of the ordination ram as the LORD had commanded him.
30 Then Moses took some of the anointing oil and some of the blood that was on the altar and sprinkled them on Aaron and his garments, as well as on his sons and their garments. In this way he consecrated Aaron and his garments, as well as his sons and their garments. † 31 Moses said to Aaron and his sons, "Boil the meat at the entrance to the tent of meeting and eat it there with the bread that is in the basket for the ordination offering as I commanded: † Aaron and his sons are to eat it. † 32 Burn up what remains of the meat and bread. † 33 Do not go outside the entrance to the tent of meeting for seven days, until the time your days of ordination are completed, because it will take seven days to ordain you. † 34 The LORD commanded what has been done today in order to make atonement for you. † 35 You must remain at the entrance to the tent of meeting day and night for seven days and keep the LORD's charge † so that you will not die, † for this is what I was commanded."

36 So Aaron and his sons did everything the LORD had commanded through Moses.

8:1-5 After the instructions concerning various offerings, God commanded Moses to ordain Aaron and his sons as priests. The ordination procedure described in this chapter closely follows Exodus 29. Moses faithfully carried out this ordination, as is made clear through the repetition of the phrase, "as the LORD had commanded Moses" (vv. 9,13,17; see also vv. 21,29,36).

THE PRIESTLY MINISTRY INAUGURATED

9 On the eighth day Moses summoned Aaron, his sons, and the elders of Israel. † 2 He said to Aaron, "Take a young bull for a sin † offering and a ram for a burnt offering, both without blemish, † and present them before the LORD. 3 And tell the Israelites: † Take a male goat for a sin offering; a calf and a lamb, male yearlings without blemish, for a burnt offering; 4 an ox and a ram for a fellowship offering to sacrifice before the LORD; and a grain offering mixed with oil. For today the LORD is going to appear † to you."
5 They brought what Moses had commanded to the front of the tent of meeting, and the whole community came forward and stood before the LORD. 6 Moses said, "This is what the LORD commanded you to do, that the glory of the LORD † may appear to you." 7 Then Moses said to Aaron, "Approach the altar and sacrifice your sin offering and your burnt offering; make atonement for yourself and the people. † † Sacrifice the people's offering and make atonement for them, as the LORD commanded."
8 So Aaron approached the altar and slaughtered the calf as a sin offering for himself. 9 Aaron's sons brought the blood to him, and he dipped his finger in the blood and applied it to the horns of the altar. He poured out the blood at the base of the altar. 10 He burned the fat, the kidneys, and the fatty lobe of the liver from the sin offering on the altar, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 11 He burned the flesh and the hide † outside the camp. †

12 Then he slaughtered the burnt offering. Aaron's sons brought him the blood, and he splattered it on all sides of the altar. 13 They brought him the burnt offering piece by piece, along with the head, and he burned them on the altar. 14 He washed the entrails and the legs and burned them with the burnt offering on the altar.

15 Aaron presented the people's offering. He took the male goat for the people's sin offering, slaughtered it, and made a sin offering with it as he did before. 16 He presented the burnt offering and sacrificed it according to the regulation. † 17 Next he presented the grain offering, took a handful of it, and burned it on the altar in addition to the morning burnt offering. †

18 Finally, he slaughtered the ox and the ram as the people's fellowship sacrifice. Aaron's sons brought him the blood, and he splattered it on all sides of the altar. 19 They also brought the fat portions from the ox and the ram — the fat tail, the fat surrounding the entrails, the kidneys, and the fatty lobe of the liver — 20 and placed these on the breasts. Aaron burned the fat portions on the altar, 21 but he presented the breasts † and the right thigh as a presentation offering † before the LORD, as Moses had commanded. †

22 Aaron lifted up his hands toward the people and blessed † them. He came down after sacrificing the sin offering, the burnt offering, and the fellowship offering. 23 Moses and Aaron then entered the tent of meeting. When they came out, they blessed the people, and the glory of the LORD appeared to all the people. 24 Fire came from the LORD and consumed † the burnt offering and the fat portions on the altar. And when all the people saw it, they shouted † and fell facedown. †

9:1-7 Having been ordained, Aaron and his sons began their priestly ministry with offerings first for Aaron himself and then for the Israelites. In both cases, the sin offering came first, followed by the burnt offering (vv. 8-17). The fellowship sacrifice came last (vv. 18-21). This significant moment was accompanied by an appearance of the glory of the LORD and fire from God that consumed the burnt offering and the fat portions on the altar (vv. 23-24).

NADAB AND ABIHU

10 Aaron's sons Nadab † and Abihu † each took his own firepan, † put fire in it, placed incense on it, † and presented unauthorized † fire before the LORD, which he had not commanded them to do. 2 Then fire came from the LORD † and consumed them, and they died before the LORD. † 3 Moses said to Aaron, "This is what the LORD has spoken:

I will demonstrate my holiness † † to those who are near me, † and I will reveal my glory † † before all the people."

And Aaron remained silent.

4 Moses summoned Mishael and Elzaphan, † sons of Aaron's uncle Uzziel, † and said to them, "Come here and carry your relatives away from the front of the sanctuary to a place outside the camp." † 5 So they came forward and carried them in their tunics outside the camp, as Moses had said.

6 Then Moses said to Aaron and his sons Eleazar and Ithamar, † "Do not let your hair hang loose † and do not tear your clothes, † or else you will die, and the LORD will become angry † with the whole community. However, your brothers, the whole house of Israel, may weep † over the conflagration the LORD ignited. 7 You must not go outside the entrance to the tent of meeting or you will die, for the LORD's anointing oil † is on you." So they did as Moses said.

REGULATIONS FOR PRIESTS

8 The LORD spoke to Aaron: 9 "You and your sons are not to drink wine † or beer † when you enter the tent of meeting, or else you will die; this is a permanent statute † throughout your generations. 10 You must distinguish † between the holy and the common, † and the clean and the unclean, † 11 and teach the Israelites all the statutes † that the LORD has given to them through Moses."

12 Moses spoke to Aaron and his remaining sons, Eleazar and Ithamar: "Take the grain offering that is left over from the fire offerings † to the LORD, and eat it prepared without yeast beside the altar, because it is especially holy. 13 You must eat it in a holy place because it is your portion † and your sons' from the fire offerings to the LORD, for this is what I was commanded. 14 But you and your sons and your daughters may eat the breast of the presentation offering and the thigh of the contribution in any ceremonially clean place, because these portions have been assigned to you and your children from the Israelites' fellowship sacrifices. 15 They are to bring the thigh of the contribution and the breast of the presentation offering, together with the offerings of fat portions made by fire, to present as a presentation offering before the LORD. It will belong permanently † to you and your children, as the LORD commanded."

16 Then Moses inquired carefully about the male goat of the sin offering, but it had already been burned up. He was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's surviving sons, and asked, 17 "Why didn't you eat the sin offering in the sanctuary area? † For it is especially holy, and he has assigned it to you to take away the guilt † of the community † and make atonement for them before the LORD. 18 Since its blood was not brought inside the sanctuary, you should have eaten it in the sanctuary area, as I commanded." †

19 But Aaron replied to Moses, "See, today they presented their sin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD. Since these things have happened to me, if I had eaten the sin offering today, would it have been acceptable in the LORD's sight? " 20 When Moses heard this, it was acceptable to him. †

10:1-2 Even before his ordination as high priest, Aaron had the negative association of his involvement with the making and worship of the golden calf (Ex 32:1-6). Now two of his sons, also ordained as priests, presented unauthorized fire before the LORD and were burned to death by fire from God. The precise nature of their offering is not explained, other than that it was something that God had not commanded (see Ex 30:34-38). The episode shows once again that the Israelites could come to God only in accordance with his instructions. The distinction between their sin and his holiness represented a barrier that had to be taken seriously. Furthermore, the Aaronic priesthood as a whole is shown to be inadequate from its inception. Hebrews 7 further explains the inadequacy of this priesthood and argues that Jesus's priesthood in the order of Melchizedek is far superior.

10:3 The disobedience of Nadab and Abihu was treated by Moses as a failure to honor God's holiness (see also Nm 20:12). Many other passages in Leviticus reflect the importance of recognizing the holiness of God (e.g., 10:10; 11:44-45; 19:2; 20:7).

10:8-11 The sin of Nadab and Abihu resulted in additional instructions from God to Aaron, which concerned both him and his sons. Some have suggested that the command to abstain from alcohol implies that Nadab and Abihu were drunk, but this is uncertain. Nevertheless, obedience to such a command would help ensure that the priests would think clearly and correctly in order to prevent future similar violations. Unlike Nadab and Abihu, the priests henceforth were to rightly distinguish between the holy and the common, and the clean and the unclean, and teach the Israelites (see also the notes on 10:3 and 11:1).

10:16-20 The meat of the sin offering should have been eaten (see 6:30), but Aaron asked for an exception because of the recent death of two of his sons. Moses's acceptance of Aaron's appeal suggests a certain degree of flexibility in the application of this law as evidenced by the recognition of Aaron's extenuating circumstances and motives (see also 5:7,11; Nm 9:6-13).

CLEAN AND UNCLEAN LAND ANIMALS

11 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 2 "Tell the Israelites: You may eat † all these kinds of land animals. † 3 You may eat any animal with divided hooves and that chews the cud. 4 But among the ones that chew the cud or have divided hooves you are not to eat these:

camels, † though they chew the cud,
do not have divided hooves — they are unclean for you;
5 hyraxes, † though they chew the cud,
do not have hooves — they are unclean for you;
6 hares, though they chew the cud,
do not have hooves — they are unclean for you;
7 pigs, though they have divided hooves, do not chew the cud — they are unclean for you.

8 Do not eat any of their meat or touch their carcasses — they are unclean for you. †

CLEAN AND UNCLEAN AQUATIC ANIMALS

9 "This is what you may eat from all that is in the water: You may eat everything in the water that has fins and scales, whether in the seas or streams. 10 But these are to be abhorrent to you: everything in the seas or streams that does not have fins and scales among all the swarming things and other living creatures † in the water. 11 They are to remain abhorrent to you; you must not eat any of their meat, and you must abhor their carcasses. 12 Everything in the water that does not have fins and scales will be abhorrent to you.

UNCLEAN BIRDS

13 "You are to abhor these birds. They must not be eaten because they are abhorrent:

eagles, † † bearded vultures, Egyptian vultures, † 14 kites, †
any kind of falcon, † †
15 every kind of raven, 16 ostriches, † short-eared owls, gulls, †
any kind of hawk, † 17 little † owls, cormorants, † long-eared owls, † † 18 barn † owls, eagle owls, † † ospreys, 19 storks, †
any kind of heron, †
hoopoes, and bats.

CLEAN AND UNCLEAN FLYING INSECTS

20 “All winged insects that walk on all fours are to be abhorrent to you. 21 But you may eat these kinds of all the winged insects that walk on all fours: those that have jointed legs above their feet for hopping on the ground. 22 You may eat these:

any kind of locust, † katydid, cricket, and grasshopper.

23 All other winged insects that have four feet are to be abhorrent to you.

PURIFICATION AFTER TOUCHING DEAD ANIMALS

24 “These will make you unclean. Whoever touches their carcasses will be unclean † until evening, 25 and whoever carries any of their carcasses is to wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening. † 26 All animals that have hooves but do not have a divided hoof and do not chew the cud are unclean for you. Whoever touches them becomes unclean. 27 All the four-footed animals † that walk on their paws are unclean for you. Whoever touches their carcasses will be unclean until evening, 28 and anyone who carries their carcasses is to wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening. They are unclean for you.

29 “These creatures that swarm † on the ground are unclean for you:

weasels, † mice, †
any kind of large lizard, † 30 geckos, monitor lizards, † common lizards, † skinks, † and chameleons. †

31 These are unclean for you among all the swarming creatures. Whoever touches them when they are dead will be unclean until evening. 32 When any one of them dies and falls on anything it becomes unclean — any item of wood, clothing, leather, sackcloth, † or any implement used for work. It is to be rinsed with water and will remain unclean until evening; then it will be clean. 33 If any of them falls into any clay pot, everything in it will become unclean; you are to break it. 34 Any edible food † coming into contact with that unclean water will become unclean, and any drinkable liquid in any container will become unclean. 35 Anything one of their carcasses falls on will become unclean. If it is an oven or stove, it is to be smashed; it is unclean and will remain unclean for you. 36 A spring or cistern containing water will remain clean, but someone who touches a carcass in it will become unclean. 37 If one of their carcasses falls on any seed that is to be sown, it is clean; 38 but if water has been put on the seed and one of their carcasses falls on it, it is unclean for you.

39 "If one of the animals that you use for food dies, anyone who touches its carcass will be unclean until evening. 40 Anyone who eats some of its carcass is to wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening. Anyone who carries its carcass must wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening.

UNCLEAN SWARMING CREATURES

41 "All the creatures that swarm on the earth are abhorrent; they must not be eaten. 42 Do not eat any of the creatures that swarm on the earth, anything that moves on its belly or walks on all fours or on many feet, † for they are abhorrent. 43 Do not become contaminated by any creature that swarms; do not become unclean or defiled by them. 44 For I am the LORD your God, † so you must consecrate yourselves † and be holy because I am holy. † Do not defile yourselves by any swarming creature that crawls on the ground. 45 For I am the LORD, who brought you up from the land of Egypt to be your God, † so you must be holy because I am holy. †

46 "This is the law concerning animals, birds, all living creatures that move in the water, and all creatures that swarm on the ground, 47 in order to distinguish between the unclean and the clean, between the animals † that may be eaten and those that may not be eaten."

11:1 Leviticus 11–15 is not only preceded by the sin and death of Nadab and Abihu (10:1-3) but is immediately followed by another reference to it (16:1). This suggests that the laws given in this section are closely related to this incident. The focus on the clean and the unclean in these chapters reflects God's instruction to the priests that they "distinguish between the holy and the common, and the clean and the unclean, and teach the Israelites" (10:10-11). It is as though the priests' failure to honor God as holy (10:3) resulted in his giving the Israelites these laws to help them understand these distinctions (see 11:46-47 and the note on Ex 32:1-6).

11:44-47 Though these dietary laws would not be permanent (see Mk 7:19), God gave them to Israel to obey as a tangible part of their consecration to him. Leviticus does not explain the rationale for the dietary laws. Interpreters have made many suggested proposals for the distinction between clean and unclean foods including health concerns and the idea that unpermitted animals are associated with death in some way. Foundationally, however, the laws were intended to reinforce the idea that Israel was to be holy because I am holy (see also 19:2; 20:7). That these dietary laws were given in order to distinguish between the unclean and the clean is a reminder of what God said to the priests in 10:10.

PURIFICATION AFTER CHILDBIRTH

12 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Tell the Israelites: When a woman becomes pregnant and gives birth to a male child, † she will be unclean seven days, as she is during the days of her menstrual impurity. † 3 The flesh of his foreskin † must be circumcised † on the eighth day. † 4 She will continue in purification † from her bleeding † for thirty-three days. She must not touch any holy thing or go into the sanctuary until completing her days of purification. 5 But if she gives birth to a female child, she will be unclean for two weeks as she is during her menstrual impurity. She will continue in purification from her bleeding for sixty-six days.

6 "When her days of purification are complete, whether for a son or daughter, she is to bring to the priest at the entrance to the tent of meeting a year-old male lamb for a burnt offering, and a young pigeon or a turtledove for a sin † offering. 7 He will present them before the LORD and make atonement on her behalf; she will be clean from her discharge of blood. This is the law for a woman giving birth, whether to a male or female. 8 But if she doesn't have sufficient means † † for a sheep, she may take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, † one for a burnt offering and the other for a sin offering. Then the priest will make atonement on her behalf, and she will be clean."

12:1-5 The concern for cleanness is now applied to women who had recently given birth. Their uncleanness from menstrual impurity prohibited them from physical contact with any holy thing and from entering the sanctuary for a time.

SKIN DISEASES

13 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 2 "When a person has a swelling, † scab, † or spot on the skin of his body, and it may be a serious disease on the skin † of his body, he is to be brought to the priest Aaron or to one of his sons, the priests. 3 The priest will examine the sore † on the skin of his body. If the hair in the sore has turned white and the sore appears to be deeper than the skin of his body, it is in fact a serious skin disease. After the priest examines him, he must pronounce him unclean. 4 But if the spot on the skin of his body is white and does not appear to be deeper than the skin, and the hair in it has not turned white, the priest will quarantine the stricken person for seven days. † 5 The priest will then reexamine him on the seventh day. If he sees that the sore remains unchanged and has not spread on the skin, the priest will quarantine him for another seven days. 6 The priest will examine him again on the seventh day. If the sore has faded and has not spread on the skin, the priest is to pronounce him clean; † it is a scab. The person is to wash his clothes and will become clean. 7 But if the scab spreads further on his skin after he has presented himself to the priest for his cleansing, † he is to present himself again to the priest. 8 The priest will examine him, and if the scab has spread on the skin, then the priest must pronounce him unclean; he has a serious skin disease.

9 "When a case of serious skin disease may have developed on a person, he is to be brought to the priest. 10 The priest will examine him. If there is a white swelling on the skin that has turned the hair white, and there is a patch of raw flesh in the swelling, 11 it is a chronic serious disease on the skin of his body, and the priest must pronounce him unclean. † He need not quarantine him, for he is unclean. 12 But if the skin disease breaks out all over the skin so that it covers all the skin of the stricken person from his head to his feet so far as the priest can see, 13 the priest will look, and if the skin disease has covered his entire body, he is to pronounce the stricken person clean. † Since he has turned totally white, he is clean. 14 But whenever raw flesh appears on him, he will be unclean. 15 When the priest examines the raw flesh, he must pronounce him unclean. Raw flesh is unclean; this is a serious skin disease. 16 But if the raw flesh changes † and † turns white, he is to go to the priest. 17 The priest will examine him, and if the sore has turned white, the priest must pronounce the stricken person clean; he is clean.

18 "When a boil appears on the skin † of someone's body † and it heals, 19 and a white swelling or a reddish-white spot develops where the boil was, the person is to present himself to the priest. 20 The priest will make an examination, and if the spot seems to be beneath the skin and the hair in it has turned white, the priest must pronounce him unclean; it is a case of serious skin disease that has broken out in the boil. 21 But when the priest examines it, if there is no white hair in it, and it is not beneath the skin but is faded, the priest will quarantine him seven days. 22 If it spreads further on the skin, the priest must pronounce him unclean; it is in fact a disease. 23 But if the spot remains where it is and does not spread, it is only the scar from the boil. The priest is to pronounce him clean.

24 "When there is a burn on the skin of one's body produced by fire, and the patch made raw by the burn becomes reddish-white or white, 25 the priest is to examine it. If the hair in the spot has turned white and the spot appears to be deeper than the skin, it is a serious skin disease that has broken out in the burn. The priest must pronounce him unclean; it is a serious skin disease. 26 But when the priest examines it, if there is no white hair in the spot and it is not beneath the skin but is faded, the priest will quarantine him seven days. 27 The priest will reexamine him on the seventh day. If it has spread further on the skin, the priest must pronounce him unclean; it is in fact a case of serious skin disease. 28 But if the spot has remained where it was and has not spread on the skin but is faded, it is the swelling from the burn. The priest is to pronounce him clean, for it is only the scar from the burn.

29 "When a man or woman has a condition on the head or chin, 30 the priest is to examine the condition. If it appears to be deeper than the skin, † and the hair in it is yellow and sparse, the priest must pronounce the person unclean. It is a scaly outbreak, a serious skin disease of the head or chin. 31 When the priest examines the scaly condition, if it does not appear to be deeper than the skin, and there is no black hair in it, the priest will quarantine the person with the scaly condition for seven days. 32 The priest will reexamine the condition on the seventh day. If the scaly outbreak has not spread and there is no yellow hair in it and it does not appear to be deeper than the skin, 33 the person is to shave himself † but not shave the scaly area. Then the priest will quarantine the person who has the scaly outbreak for another seven days. 34 The priest will examine the scaly outbreak on the seventh day, and if it has not spread on the skin and does not appear to be deeper than the skin, the priest is to pronounce the person clean. He is to wash his clothes, and he will be clean. 35 But if the scaly outbreak spreads further on the skin after his cleansing, 36 the priest is to examine the person. If the scaly outbreak has spread on the skin, the priest does not need to look for yellow hair; the person is unclean. 37 But if as far as he can see, the scaly outbreak remains unchanged and black hair has grown in it, then it has healed; he is clean. The priest is to pronounce the person clean.

38 "When a man or a woman has white spots on the skin of the body, 39 the priest is to make an examination. If the spots on the skin of the body are dull white, it is only a rash † that has broken out on the skin; the person is clean.
40 "If a man loses the hair of his head, he is bald, † but he is clean. 41 Or if he loses the hair at his hairline, he is bald on his forehead, but he is clean. 42 But if there is a reddish-white condition on the bald head or forehead, it is a serious skin disease breaking out on his head or forehead. † 43 The priest is to examine him, and if the swelling of the condition on his bald head or forehead is reddish-white, like the appearance of a serious skin disease on his body, 44 the man is afflicted with a serious skin disease; † he is unclean. The priest must pronounce him unclean; the infection is on his head.
45 "The person who has a case of serious skin disease is to have his clothes torn † and his hair hanging loose, and he must cover his mouth † and cry out, 'Unclean, unclean! ' 46 He will remain unclean as long as he has the disease; he is unclean. He must live alone in a place outside the camp. †

CONTAMINATED FABRICS

47 “If a fabric is contaminated with mildew — in wool or linen fabric, 48 in the warp or weft of linen or wool, or in leather or anything made of leather — 49 and if the contamination is green or red in the fabric, the leather, the warp, the weft, or any leather article, it is a mildew contamination and is to be shown to the priest. 50 The priest is to examine the contamination and quarantine the contaminated fabric for seven days. 51 The priest is to reexamine the contamination on the seventh day. If it has spread in the fabric, the warp, the weft, or the leather, regardless of how it is used, the contamination is harmful mildew; it is unclean. † 52 He is to burn the fabric, the warp or weft in wool or linen, or any leather article, which is contaminated. Since it is harmful mildew it must be burned.
53 “When the priest examines it, if the contamination has not spread in the fabric, the warp or weft, or any leather article, 54 the priest is to order whatever is contaminated to be washed and quarantined for another seven days. 55 After it has been washed, the priest is to reexamine the contamination. If the appearance of the contaminated article has not changed, it is unclean. Even though the contamination has not spread, you must burn the fabric. It is a fungus † on the front or back of the fabric.
56 “If the priest examines it, and the contamination has faded after it has been washed, he is to cut the contaminated section out of the fabric, the leather, or the warp or weft. 57 But if it reappears in the fabric, the warp or weft, or any leather article, it has broken out again. You must burn whatever is contaminated. 58 But if the contamination disappears from the fabric, the warp or weft, or any leather article, which have been washed, it is to be washed again, and it will be clean.
59 “This is the law concerning a mildew contamination in wool or linen fabric, warp or weft, or any leather article, in order to pronounce it clean or unclean.” †

13:1-8 While public health concerns alone could have resulted in laws related to skin diseases and mildew, these laws continue to emphasize the distinction between the clean and the unclean found in the preceding laws and in 10:10. The laws here particularly emphasize the need to prevent uncleanness from spreading. The primary measure employed for this was quarantine (vv. 4-5,21,26,31,33).

13:30-34 One of the key criteria for determining if something was an infectious skin disease was whether it was deeper than the skin (see also vv. 3-4,25).

13:45-46 The tragic but necessary consequences of uncleanness from a serious skin disease were isolation, loneliness, and shame. The infected person was to be unkempt in appearance, declare his uncleanness, and live alone in a place outside the camp.

13:47-52 The mention of mildew here is related to the fact that the Hebrew phrase translated contaminated with mildew is the same phrase used in v. 2 to refer to a skin disease (see also 14:54-56). In both cases, special care is taken to prevent its spread.

13:59 On whether to pronounce such fabric clean or unclean, see the notes on 10:8-11 and 11:1.

CLEANSING OF SKIN DISEASES

14 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "This is the law † concerning the person afflicted with a skin disease on the day of his cleansing. † He is to be brought to the priest, † 3 who will go outside the camp † and examine him. † If the skin disease has disappeared from the afflicted person, † 4 the priest will order that two live clean birds, † cedar wood, † scarlet † yarn, and hyssop † be brought for the one who is to be cleansed. 5 Then the priest will order that one of the birds be slaughtered over fresh water in a clay pot. 6 He is to take the live bird together with the cedar wood, scarlet yarn, and hyssop, and dip them all into the blood of the bird that was slaughtered over the fresh water. 7 He will then sprinkle the blood seven times on the one who is to be cleansed from the skin disease. He is to pronounce him clean and release the live bird over the open countryside. † 8 The one who is to be cleansed must wash his clothes, shave off all his hair, and bathe with water; he is clean. Afterward he may enter the camp, but he must remain outside his tent for seven days. 9 He is to shave off all his hair again on the seventh day: his head, his beard, his eyebrows, and the rest of his hair. He is to wash his clothes and bathe himself with water; he is clean.
10 "On the eighth day he must take two unblemished † male lambs, an unblemished year-old ewe lamb, a grain offering of six quarts † of fine flour mixed with olive oil, and one-third of a quart † of olive oil. 11 The priest who performs the cleansing will place the person who is to be cleansed, together with these offerings, before the LORD at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 12 The priest is to take one male lamb and present it as a guilt offering, † along with the one-third quart of olive oil, and he will present them as a presentation offering † before the LORD. 13 He is to slaughter the male lamb at the place in the sanctuary area where the sin offering † and burnt offering † are slaughtered, † for like the sin offering, the guilt offering belongs to the priest; † it is especially holy. † 14 The priest is to take some of the blood from the guilt offering and put it on the lobe of the right ear of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. † 15 Then the priest will take some of the one-third quart of olive oil and pour it into his left palm. 16 The priest will dip his right finger into the oil in his left palm and sprinkle some of the oil with his finger seven times before the LORD. 17 From the oil remaining in his palm the priest will put some on the lobe of the right ear of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot, on top of the blood of the guilt offering. † 18 What is left of the oil in the priest's palm he is to put on the head of the one to be cleansed. In this way the priest will make atonement for him before the LORD. 19 The priest is to sacrifice the sin offering and make atonement for the one to be cleansed from his uncleanness. † Afterward he will slaughter the burnt offering. 20 The priest is to offer the burnt offering and the grain offering on the altar. The priest will make atonement for him, and he will be clean. †

21 "But if he is poor † and cannot afford these, † he is to take one male lamb for a guilt offering to be presented in order to make atonement for him, along with two quarts † of fine flour mixed with olive oil for a grain offering, one-third of a quart of olive oil, 22 and two turtledoves or two young pigeons, whatever he can afford, one to be a sin offering and the other a burnt offering. 23 On the eighth day he is to bring these things for his cleansing to the priest at the entrance to the tent of meeting before the LORD. 24 The priest will take the male lamb for the guilt offering and the one-third quart of olive oil, and present them as a presentation offering before the LORD. 25 After he slaughters the male lamb for the guilt offering, the priest is to take some of the blood of the guilt offering and put it on the right earlobe of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. 26 Then the priest will pour some of the oil into his left palm. 27 With his right finger the priest will sprinkle some of the oil in his left palm seven times before the LORD. 28 The priest will also put some of the oil in his palm on the right earlobe of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot, on the same place as the blood of the guilt offering. 29 What is left of the oil in the priest's palm he is to put on the head of the one to be cleansed to make atonement for him before the LORD. † 30 He is to then sacrifice one type of what he can afford, either the turtledoves or young pigeons, 31 one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, sacrificing what he can afford together with the grain offering. In this way the priest will make atonement before the LORD for the one to be cleansed. 32 This is the law for someone who has † a skin disease and cannot afford the cost of his cleansing."

CLEANSING OF CONTAMINATED OBJECTS

33 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 34 "When you enter the land of Canaan † that I am giving you as a possession, † and I place a mildew contamination in a house in the land you possess, † 35 the owner of the house is to come and tell the priest: Something like mildew contamination has appeared † in my house. 36 The priest must order them to clear the house before he enters to examine the contamination, so that nothing in the house becomes unclean. Afterward the priest will come to examine the house. 37 He will examine it, and if the contamination in the walls of the house consists of green or red indentations † that appear to be beneath the surface of the wall, 38 the priest is to go outside the house to its doorway and quarantine the house for seven days. 39 The priest is to return on the seventh day and examine it. If the contamination has spread on the walls of the house, 40 the priest must order that the stones with the contamination be pulled out and thrown into an unclean place outside the city. 41 He is to have the inside of the house completely scraped, and have the plaster † that is scraped off dumped in an unclean place outside the city. 42 Then they are to take different stones to replace the former ones and take additional plaster to replaster the house.

43 "If the contamination reappears in the house after the stones have been pulled out, and after the house has been scraped and replastered, 44 the priest is to come and examine it. If the contamination has spread in the house, it is harmful mildew; the house is unclean. 45 It must be torn down with its stones, its beams, and all its plaster, and taken outside the city to an unclean place. 46 Whoever enters the house during any of the days the priest quarantines it will be unclean until evening. 47 Whoever lies down in the house is to wash his clothes, and whoever eats in it is to wash his clothes.

48 "But when the priest comes and examines it, if the contamination has not spread in the house after it was replastered, he is to pronounce the house clean because the contamination has disappeared. † 49 He is to take two birds, cedar wood, scarlet yarn, and hyssop to purify the house, 50 and he is to slaughter one of the birds over a clay pot containing fresh water. 51 He will take the cedar wood, the hyssop, the scarlet yarn, and the live bird, dip them in the blood of the slaughtered bird and the fresh water, and sprinkle the house seven times. 52 He will purify the house with the blood of the bird, the fresh water, the live bird, the cedar wood, the hyssop, and the scarlet yarn. 53 Then he is to release the live bird into the open countryside † outside the city. In this way he will make atonement for the house, and it will be clean.
54 "This is the law for any skin disease or mildew, for a scaly outbreak, 55 for mildew in clothing or on a house, 56 and for a swelling, scab, or spot, 57 to determine when something is unclean or clean. This is the law regarding skin disease and mildew."

14:1-20 After a skin disease has disappeared, the afflicted person still needed to bring offerings in order to be clean (see also 12:6-8; 15:13-15,29-30). Allowance was made for a poor person to bring less costly offerings (vv. 21-32; see also note on 5:7,11).

14:49-53 The cleansing of a dwelling from mildew involved two birds, just as the cleansing of a person from an infectious skin disease did (vv. 4-7). In both cases, one bird was killed over a pot of fresh water and the other bird was dipped in this liquid before being released into the open country.

14:54-57 On determining when something is unclean or clean, see the notes on 10:8-11 and 11:1.

BODILY DISCHARGES

15 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 2 “Speak to the Israelites and tell them: When any man has a discharge † from his member, he is unclean. 3 This is uncleanness of his discharge: Whether his member secretes the discharge or retains it, he is unclean. All the days that his member secretes or retains anything because of his discharge, † he is unclean. 4 Any bed the man with the discharge lies on will be unclean, and any furniture he sits on will be unclean. 5 Anyone who touches his bed is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 6 Whoever sits on furniture that the man with the discharge was sitting on is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 7 Whoever touches the body † of the man with a discharge is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 8 If the man with the discharge spits on anyone who is clean, he is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 9 Any saddle the man with the discharge rides on will be unclean. † 10 Whoever touches anything that was under him will be unclean until evening, and whoever carries such things is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 11 If the man with the discharge touches anyone without first rinsing his hands in water, † the person who was touched is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 12 Any clay pot that the man with the discharge touches must be broken, while any wooden utensil is to be rinsed with water. † 13 “When the man with the discharge has been cured of it, he is to count seven days for his cleansing, wash his clothes, and bathe his body in fresh water; he will be clean. 14 He must take two turtledoves or two young pigeons on the eighth day, come before the LORD at the entrance to the tent of meeting, and give them to the priest. 15 The priest is to sacrifice them, one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. † In this way the priest will make atonement for him before the LORD because of his discharge.
16 “When a man has an emission of semen, † he is to bathe himself completely with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 17 Any clothing or leather on which there is an emission of semen is to be washed with water, and it will remain unclean until evening. 18 If a man sleeps with a woman and has an emission of semen, both of them are to bathe with water, and they will remain unclean until evening. †

19 “When a woman has a discharge, and it consists of blood from her body, she will be unclean because of her menstruation † for seven days. Everyone who touches her will be unclean until evening. 20 Anything she lies on during her menstruation will become unclean, and anything she sits on will become unclean. 21 Everyone who touches her bed is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 22 Everyone who touches any furniture she was sitting on is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 23 If discharge is on the bed or the furniture she was sitting on, when he touches it he will be unclean until evening. 24 If a man sleeps with her, and blood from her menstruation gets on him, he will be unclean for seven days, and every bed he lies on will become unclean. †
25 “When a woman has a discharge of her blood for many days, though it is not the time of her menstruation, or if she has a discharge beyond her period, she will be unclean all the days of her unclean discharge, as she is during the days of her menstruation. 26 Any bed she lies on during the days of her discharge will be like her bed during menstrual impurity; any furniture she sits on will be unclean as in her menstrual period. 27 Everyone who touches them will be unclean; he must wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening. 28 When she is cured of her discharge, she is to count seven days, and after that she will be clean. † 29 On the eighth day she must take two turtledoves or two young pigeons and bring them to the priest at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 30 The priest is to sacrifice one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. In this way the priest will make atonement for her before the LORD because of her unclean discharge.
31 “You must keep the Israelites from their uncleanness, so that they do not die by defiling my tabernacle † that is among them. 32 This is the law for someone with a discharge: a man who has an emission of semen, becoming unclean by it; 33 a woman who is in her menstrual period; anyone who has a discharge, whether male or female; and a man who sleeps with a woman who is unclean.”
15:3 DSS, Sam, LXX; MT omits he is unclean. All the days that his member secretes or retains anything because of his discharge 15:7 Or member, also in v. 13

15:4-12 Laws concerning uncleanness from a bodily discharge emphasize that everything that touches a person who is unclean for this reason becomes unclean, be it a bed, furniture, another person, a saddle, anything that was under him, a clay pot, or a wooden utensil (see also vv. 19-27). Secondarily, anyone who touches the unclean furniture or object becomes unclean himself for a period of time. That uncleanness was transferrable meant that unclean objects had to be destroyed or cleansed.

15:31 Here another important reason is given for the laws in Leviticus 11–15 (see also the note on 11:1). The Israelites needed to be careful not to defile the tabernacle through their uncleanness. If they did, they could die, like Nadab and Abihu (10:1-3; 16:1).

THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

16 The LORD spoke to Moses after the death of two of Aaron's sons when they approached the presence † of † the LORD and died. † 2 The LORD said to Moses: "Tell your brother Aaron that he may not come whenever he wants into the holy place † behind the curtain † in front of the mercy seat † on the ark or else he will die, because I appear in the cloud † above the mercy seat. †
3 "Aaron is to enter the most holy place † in this way: with a young bull for a sin offering and a ram for a burnt offering. † 4 He is to wear a holy linen tunic, and linen undergarments are to be on his body. He is to tie a linen sash around him and wrap his head with a linen turban. † These are holy garments; he must bathe his body with water before he wears them. 5 He is to take from the Israelite community two male goats for a sin offering and one ram for a burnt offering. † 6 "Aaron will present the bull for his sin offering and make atonement for himself and his household. 7 Next he will take the two goats and place them before the LORD at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 8 After Aaron casts lots † for the two goats, one lot for the LORD and the other for an uninhabitable place, † † † 9 he is to present the goat chosen by lot for the LORD and sacrifice it as a sin offering. † 10 But the goat chosen by lot for an uninhabitable place is to be presented alive before the LORD to make atonement with it by sending it into the wilderness † for an uninhabitable place.

11 “When Aaron presents the bull for his sin offering and makes atonement for himself and his household, he will slaughter the bull for his sin offering. 12 Then he is to take a firepan full of blazing coals from the altar before the LORD and two handfuls of finely ground fragrant incense, † and bring them inside the curtain. † 13 He is to put the incense on the fire before the LORD, so that the cloud † of incense covers the mercy seat that is over the testimony, † or else he will die. † 14 He is to take some of the bull’s blood † and sprinkle it with his finger against the east side of the mercy seat; then he will sprinkle some of the blood with his finger before the mercy seat seven times. † 15 “When he slaughters the male goat for the people’s sin offering and brings its blood inside the curtain, he will do the same with its blood as he did with the bull’s blood: He is to sprinkle it against the mercy seat and in front of it. 16 He will make atonement for the most holy place in this way for all their sins because of the Israelites’ impurities and rebellious acts. † He will do the same for the tent of meeting that remains among them, because it is surrounded by their impurities. 17 No one may be in the tent of meeting from the time he enters to make atonement in the most holy place until he leaves after he has made atonement for himself, his household, and the whole assembly of Israel. † 18 Then he will go out to the altar that is before the LORD and make atonement for it. He is to take some of the bull’s blood and some of the goat’s blood and put it on the horns on all sides of the altar. 19 He is to sprinkle some of the blood on it with his finger seven times to cleanse and set it apart † from the Israelites’ impurities. † 20 “When he has finished making atonement for the most holy place, the tent of meeting, and the altar, he is to present the live male goat. 21 Aaron will lay both his hands on the head of the live goat and confess † over it all the Israelites’ iniquities † and rebellious acts — all their sins. † He is to put them on the goat’s head and send it away into the wilderness † by the man appointed for the task. † 22 The goat will carry all their iniquities into a desolate land, † and the man will release it there.
23 “Then Aaron is to enter the tent of meeting, take off the linen garments † he wore when he entered the most holy place, and leave them there. 24 He will bathe his body with water in a holy place † and put on his clothes. † Then he must go out and sacrifice his burnt offering and the people's burnt offering; he will make atonement for himself and for the people. 25 He is to burn the fat of the sin offering on the altar. 26 The man who released the goat for an uninhabitable place is to wash his clothes and bathe his body with water; afterward he may reenter the camp. 27 The bull for the sin offering and the goat for the sin offering, whose blood was brought into the most holy place to make atonement, must be brought outside the camp † and their hide, † flesh, and waste burned. † 28 The one who burns them is to wash his clothes and bathe himself with water; afterward he may reenter the camp.

29 "This is to be a permanent statute † for you: In the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month you are to practice self-denial † and do no work, † both the native and the alien † who resides among you. 30 Atonement will be made for you on this day to cleanse you, † and you will be clean from all your sins before the LORD. 31 It is a Sabbath † of complete rest for you, † and you must practice self-denial; it is a permanent statute. 32 The priest who is anointed and ordained † † to serve as high priest † in place of his father will make atonement. He will put on the linen garments, the holy garments, 33 and make atonement for the most holy place. He will make atonement for the tent of meeting and the altar and will make atonement for the priests and all the people of the assembly. 34 This is to be a permanent statute for you, to make atonement for the Israelites once a year † because of all their sins." And all this was done as the LORD commanded Moses.

16:1-2 This reference to the death of two of Aaron's sons ties the laws of Leviticus 11–15 back to the incident surrounding Nadab and Abihu in 10:1-3 (see the note on 11:1). Aaron was not permitted to go behind the curtain before the ark whenever he wants . . . or else he will die (v. 2; see also v. 13). He could only go in "once a year" on the Day of Atonement (v. 34; 23:27-28).

16:6-10 The sacrificial rituals performed by the high priest on the Day of Atonement involved both sacrifices for himself and for the people. Hebrews 7:27 points out in contrast that Jesus, since he was perfect, did not need to offer sacrifices for his own sins.

16:16 The goat sacrificed as a sin offering for the people was to make atonement for the most holy place . . . for all their sins because of the Israelites' impurities and rebellious acts (see also vv. 19,30). Israel's uncleanness is once again brought into view (see the note on 15:31).

16:20-22 The other goat (see v. 8) was sent away into the wilderness after Aaron laid hands on its head and confessed over it all the Israelites' iniquities and rebellious acts. Just as uncleanness was transferable from person to object or object to person (see 15:4-12), the sin of the community was placed on the live goat and sent into the wilderness for ritual disposal. The statement that the goat will carry all their iniquities into a desolate land bears remarkable similarity to Isaiah 53:12, which says of the Suffering Servant that "he bore the sin of many." Thus, each year on the tenth day of the seventh month, atonement will be made for you . . . to cleanse you, and you will be clean from all your sins before the LORD. The ritual surrounding the two goats associates atonement with both a sacrificial death for sin and its removal (see Ps 103:12).

FORBIDDEN SACRIFICES

17 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Speak to Aaron, his sons, and all the Israelites and tell them: This is what the LORD has commanded:
3 Anyone from the house of Israel who slaughters † an ox, sheep, or goat in the camp, or slaughters it outside the camp, 4 instead of bringing it to the entrance to the tent of meeting to present it as an offering to the LORD before his tabernacle — that person will be considered guilty. † † He has shed blood † and is to be cut off from his people. † 5 This is so the Israelites will bring to the LORD the sacrifices † they have been offering in the open country. They are to bring them to the priest at the entrance to the tent of meeting and offer them as fellowship sacrifices † to the LORD. 6 The priest will then splatter the blood on the LORD's altar at the entrance to the tent of meeting and burn the fat as a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 7 They must no longer offer their sacrifices to the goat-demons † that they have prostituted † themselves with. This will be a permanent statute † for them throughout their generations.

8 “Say to them: Anyone from the house of Israel or from the aliens † who reside among them who offers a burnt offering or a sacrifice 9 but does not bring it to the entrance to the tent of meeting to sacrifice it to the LORD, that person is to be cut off from his people.

EATING BLOOD AND CARCASSES PROHIBITED

10 “Anyone from the house of Israel or from the aliens who reside among them who eats any blood, † I will turn † against that person who eats blood and cut him off from his people. 11 For the life of a creature is in the blood, and I have appointed it to you to make atonement on the altar for † your lives, since it is the lifeblood that makes atonement. † 12 Therefore I say to the Israelites: None of you and no alien who resides among you may eat blood.

13 “Any Israelite or alien residing among them, who hunts † down a wild animal or bird that may be eaten must drain its blood † and cover it with dirt. 14 Since the life of every creature is its blood, I have told the Israelites: You are not to eat the blood of any creature, † because the life of every creature is its blood; whoever eats it must be cut off.

15 “Every person, whether the native or the resident alien, † who eats an animal that died a natural death or was mauled by wild beasts † is to wash his clothes and bathe with water, and he will remain unclean until evening; then he will be clean. 16 But if he does not wash his clothes and bathe himself, he will bear his iniquity.”

17:2 The laws in Leviticus 17 were given both to the priests and to all the Israelites, whereas Leviticus 18–20 was directed just to the Israelites (18:2; 19:2; 20:2) and Leviticus 21–22 to the priests only (21:1,17; 22:2,18).

17:5-7 The prohibitions in vv. 2-4 were given because the Israelites had been making sacrifices in the open country instead of at the tabernacle (see also vv. 8-9). The reference to fellowship sacrifices and the command not to eat blood (see vv. 10-15) relates to earlier instructions regarding fellowship sacrifices in Leviticus 3 (esp. v. 17) and 7:22-26. Shockingly, the Israelites had actually been practicing idolatry by offering sacrifices to the goat-demons that they have prostituted themselves with. Their worship of the golden calf was thus not an isolated incident. As was the case then and with Nadab and Abihu in 10:1-3, the giving of the law at Mount Sinai coincided with the breaking of the law by Israel (see notes on Ex 32:1-6 and Lv 11:1).

PROHIBITED PAGAN PRACTICES

18 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them: I am the LORD your God. † 3 Do not follow the practices of the land of Egypt, † where you used to live, or follow the practices of the land of Canaan, † where I am bringing you. You must not follow their customs. † 4 You are to practice my ordinances † and you are to keep my statutes † by following them; I am the LORD your God. 5 Keep my statutes and ordinances; a person will live † if he does them. † I am the LORD.
6 "You are not to come near † any close relative † for sexual intercourse; † I am the LORD. 7 You are not to violate the intimacy that belongs to your father † and mother. † She is your mother; you must not have sexual intercourse with her. 8 You are not to have sex with your father's wife; † she is your father's family. † 9 You are not to have sexual intercourse with your sister, either your father's daughter or your mother's, † whether born at home or born elsewhere.
You are not to have sex with her. 10 You are not to have sexual intercourse with your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter, for they are your family. † 11 You are not to have sexual intercourse with your father's wife's daughter, who is adopted by † your father; she is your sister. 12 You are not to have sexual intercourse with your father's sister; † she is your father's close relative.
13 You are not to have sexual intercourse with your mother's sister, † for she is your mother's close relative. 14 You are not to violate the intimacy that belongs to † your father's brother by approaching his wife to have sexual intercourse; she is your aunt. † 15 You are not to have sexual intercourse with your daughter-in-law. † She is your son's wife; you are not to have sex with her.
16 You are not to have sexual intercourse with your brother's wife; she is your brother's family. † 17 You are not to have sexual intercourse with a woman and her daughter. † You are not to marry her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter and have sex with her. They are close relatives; it is depraved. † 18 You are not to marry a woman as a rival to her sister and have sexual intercourse with her during her sister's lifetime. † 19 "You are not to approach † a woman during her menstrual impurity to have sexual intercourse with her. † 20 You are not to have sexual intercourse with † your neighbor's wife, defiling yourself with her. † 21 "You are not to sacrifice any of your children in the fire † to Molech. † Do not profane the name † of your God; I am the LORD. 22 You are not to sleep with a man as with a woman; † it is detestable. † 23 You are not to have sexual intercourse with † any animal, defiling yourself with it; a woman is not to present herself to an animal to mate with it; † it is a perversion.

24 "Do not defile yourselves by any of these practices, for the nations I am driving out before you have defiled themselves by all these things. 25 The land has become defiled, so I am punishing it for its iniquity, and the land will vomit out its inhabitants. † 26 But you are to keep my statutes and ordinances. You must not commit any of these detestable acts — not the native or the alien who resides among you. 27 For the people who were in the land prior to you have committed all these detestable acts, and the land has become defiled. 28 If you defile the land, it will vomit † you out as it has vomited out the nations that were before you. 29 Any person who does any of these detestable practices is to be cut off from his people. 30 You must keep my instruction to not do any of the detestable customs † that were practiced before you, so that you do not defile yourselves by them; I am the LORD your God."

18:1-5 The Israelites' idolatrous worship of "goat-demons" (17:7) had led to instructions meant to prevent further idolatry (17:1-9). Here God's implicit concern that Israel be set apart from sin is seen through his command not to follow either the practices of the land of Egypt from which they had come or the practices of the land of Canaan to which they were going (see also vv. 24-30). Rather, they were to keep his statutes and ordinances.

18:6-26 Forbidden sexual practices listed here include incest, sex with a woman during her menstrual impurity, adultery, homosexual intercourse (see "Engaging LGBT Advocates," p. 1392), and bestiality. Also forbidden was the idolatrous and cruel practice of sacrificing children to Molech (see also Dt 18:10; Jr 19:5; 32:35; Ezk 16:21), an Ammonite god (1Kg 11:7, see footnote A). The Canaanites had defiled themselves by all these things (see also vv. 27,30), bringing God's judgment upon themselves. Israel was not to be like them but was to keep God's statutes and ordinances (see vv. 2-5).

LAWS OF HOLINESS

19 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Speak to the entire Israelite community and tell them: Be holy † because I, the LORD your God, am holy. † 3 "Each of you is to respect his mother and father. † You are to keep my Sabbaths; I am the LORD your God. 4 Do not turn to idols † or make cast images † of gods for yourselves; † I am the LORD your God.
5 "When you offer a fellowship sacrifice to the LORD, sacrifice it so that you may be accepted. 6 It is to be eaten on the day you sacrifice it or on the next day, but what remains on the third day must be burned. † 7 If any is eaten on the third day, it is a repulsive thing; it will not be accepted. † 8 Anyone who eats it will bear his iniquity, for he has profaned what is holy to the LORD. That person is to be cut off from his people. † 9 "When you reap the harvest of your land, you are not to reap to the very edge of your field or gather the gleanings † of your harvest. 10 Do not strip your vineyard bare or gather its fallen grapes. Leave them for the poor † and the resident alien; † I am the LORD your God.
11 "Do not steal. † Do not act deceptively † or lie † to one another. 12 Do not swear falsely by my name, profaning the name of your God; † I am the LORD.
13 "Do not oppress † your neighbor or rob † him. The wages due a hired worker † must not remain with you until morning. 14 Do not curse the deaf or put a stumbling block in front of the blind, † but you are to fear your God; † I am the LORD. †

15 “Do not act unjustly † when deciding a case. Do not be partial † to the poor or give preference to the rich; † judge your neighbor fairly. 16 Do not go about spreading slander † among your people; do not jeopardize † your neighbor’s life; I am the LORD.

17 “Do not harbor hatred against your brother. † † Rebuke your neighbor directly, and you will not incur guilt because of him. † 18 Do not take revenge † or bear a grudge against members of your community, but love your neighbor as yourself; † I am the LORD.

19 “You are to keep my statutes. Do not crossbreed two different kinds of your livestock, sow your fields with two kinds of seed, or put on a garment made of two kinds of material. †

20 “If a man has sexual intercourse with a woman who is a slave designated for another man, but she has not been redeemed † or given her freedom, there must be punishment. † They are not to be put to death, because she had not been freed. 21 However, he must bring a ram as his guilt † offering to the LORD at the entrance to the tent of meeting. † 22 The priest will make atonement on his behalf before the LORD with the ram of the guilt offering for the sin he has committed, and he will be forgiven for the sin he committed.

23 “When you come into the land and plant any kind of tree for food, you are to consider the fruit forbidden. † It will be forbidden to you for three years; it is not to be eaten. 24 In the fourth year all its fruit is to be consecrated as a praise offering † to the LORD. 25 But in the fifth year you may eat its fruit. In this way its yield will increase for you; † I am the LORD your God.

26 “You are not to eat anything with blood in it. † † You are not to practice divination † or witchcraft. † 27 You are not to cut off the hair at the sides of your head or mar the edge of your beard. † 28 You are not to make gashes on your bodies for the dead † or put tattoo marks on yourselves; I am the LORD.

29 “Do not debase † † your daughter by making her a prostitute, † or the land will be prostituted and filled with depravity. 30 Keep my Sabbaths and revere my sanctuary; † I am the LORD.
31 “Do not turn to mediums † † or consult spiritists, † † or you will be defiled by them; I am the LORD your God.
32 “You are to rise in the presence of the elderly and honor the old. † Fear your God; I am the LORD.
33 “When an alien resides with you in your land, you must not oppress † him.
34 You will regard the alien who resides with you as the native-born among you.
You are to love him as yourself, † for you were aliens in the land of Egypt; † I am the LORD your God.
35 “Do not be unfair † in measurements of length, weight, or volume. 36 You are to have honest balances, † honest weights, an honest dry measure, † and an honest liquid measure; † † I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt. 37 Keep all my statutes and all my ordinances and do them; I am the LORD.”

19:2 As was implicit in the laws of the previous two chapters, the Israelites were to be holy, or set apart, because I, the LORD your God, am holy. This instruction had already been given in 11:44-45 and reappears in 20:7,26; 21:6. The repetition of this command reflects its importance as an overarching theme in these sections of law.

19:3-16 Many of these laws expand on the laws in the Ten Commandments (Ex 20:2-17) and in the Covenant Code (Ex 20:22–23:33). In this chapter, however, the phrase I am the LORD your God (vv. 4,10,25,31,34) or simply I am the LORD (vv. 12,14,16,18,28,30,37) is found repeatedly, perhaps emphasizing God's holy character and his relationship to Israel.

19:17-18 The instruction not to hate another person and to love your neighbor as yourself anticipates Jesus's teaching in Matthew 5:22 and 22:39.

19:19 The specific rationale behind this law is unclear.

19:23-25 This law involved a distinction between fruit that was forbidden for a tree's first three years, consecrated to God during its fourth year, and permissible to eat from the fifth year onward (see 10:10; 20:25).

19:27-28 The motivation behind these obscure laws may have been to maintain a visual distinction between the Israelites and the Canaanites (see 20:23,26; 21:5; Dt 14:1).

19:33-34 The instruction to treat an alien (a foreigner) well was based on the Israelites' own experience of being oppressed as foreigners in Egypt.

19:35-36 Honest weights and measures related to fair business practices (Dt 25:13-16; Pr 20:10; Am 8:5).

MOLECH WORSHIP AND SPIRITISM

20 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Say to the Israelites: Any Israelite or alien residing in Israel who gives any of his children to Molech † must be put to death; the people of the country are to stone him. † 3 I will turn † against that man and cut him off from his people, because he gave his offspring to Molech, defiling my sanctuary † and profaning my holy name. † 4 But if the people of the country look the other way when that man † gives any of his children to Molech, and do not put him to death, 5 then I will turn against that man and his family, and cut off from their people both him and all who follow † him in prostituting † themselves with Molech.
6 "Whoever turns to mediums † † or spiritists † and prostitutes himself with them, I will turn against that person and cut him off from his people.
7 Consecrate yourselves and be holy, for I am the LORD your God. 8 Keep my statutes and do them; I am the LORD who sets you apart.

FAMILY AND SEXUAL OFFENSES

9 "If anyone curses his father or mother, he must be put to death. † He has cursed his father or mother; his death is his own fault. †

10 “If a man commits adultery † with a married woman — if he commits adultery with his neighbor’s wife — both the adulterer and the adulteress must be put to death. 11 If a man sleeps with his father’s wife, he has violated the intimacy that belongs to his father. † † Both of them must be put to death; their death is their own fault. † 12 If a man sleeps with his daughter-in-law, † both of them must be put to death. They have acted perversely; their death is their own fault. 13 If a man sleeps with a man as with a woman, † they have both committed a detestable act. † They must be put to death; their death is their own fault. 14 If a man marries † a woman and her mother, † it is depraved. Both he and they must be burned, † so that there will be no depravity among you. 15 If a man has sexual intercourse with † an animal, he must be put to death; you are also to kill the animal. 16 If a woman approaches any animal and mates with it, you are to kill the woman and the animal. † They must be put to death; their death is their own fault. 17 If a man marries his sister, † whether his father’s daughter or his mother’s daughter, and they have sexual relations, † † it is a disgrace. † They are to be cut off publicly from their people. He has had sexual intercourse with his sister; he will bear his iniquity. 18 If a man sleeps with a menstruating woman and has sexual intercourse with her, he has exposed the source of her flow, and she has uncovered the source of her blood. † Both of them are to be cut off from their people. 19 You must not have sexual intercourse with your mother’s sister or your father’s sister, † for it is exposing one’s own blood relative; both people will bear their iniquity. 20 If a man sleeps with his aunt, he has violated the intimacy that belongs to his uncle; † † they will bear their guilt and die childless. 21 If a man marries his brother’s wife, it is impurity. † He has violated the intimacy that belongs to his brother; † † they will be childless.

HOLINESS IN THE LAND

22 “You are to keep all my statutes and all my ordinances, and do them, so that the land where I am bringing you to live will not vomit you out. † 23 You must not follow the statutes of the nations I am driving out before you, for they did all these things, and I abhorred them. † 24 And I promised you: You will inherit their land, since I will give it to you to possess, a land flowing with milk and honey. † I am the LORD your God who set you apart from the peoples.

25 Therefore you are to distinguish the clean animal from the unclean one, and the unclean bird from the clean one. Do not become contaminated † by any land animal, bird, or whatever crawls on the ground; I have set these apart as unclean for you. † 26 You are to be holy to me because I, the LORD, am holy, and I have set you apart from the nations to be mine. †

27 "A man or a woman who is † a medium or a spiritist must be put to death.
They are to be stoned; their death is their own fault."

20:1-8 The worship of Molech and involvement with mediums or spiritists, which had been mentioned earlier (18:21; 19:31), is addressed again (see also 19:26; 20:27; see "Spiritism, Animism, and Cynicism in Biblical Times," p. 237). The whole community was responsible for punishing anyone who worshiped Molech. The Israelites' separation from these practices was to be one aspect of their holiness.

20:11-21 The laws in 18:6-23 forbade certain sexual practices, and this section explains that the punishment for guilty individuals was generally death (vv. 10-16) or being cut off from their people (vv. 17-18).

20:22-26 The section of laws in Leviticus 18–20 was directed to the Israelites (18:2; 19:2; 20:2) and concludes with yet another call for holiness (see also 18:2-4; 19:2; 20:7). The Israelites had been set . . . apart from the nations to belong to God (see also v. 8). Through their obedience to him, they were to be distinct from the Canaanites and their practices (see also Dt 18:9-14). The reference to clean and unclean animals links the present set of laws in Leviticus 18–20 with those in Leviticus 11–15.

THE HOLINESS OF THE PRIESTS

21 The LORD said to Moses: “Speak to Aaron’s sons, the priests, and tell them: A priest is not to make himself ceremonially unclean for a dead person among his relatives, † 2 except for his immediate family: his mother, father, son, daughter, or brother. 3 He may make himself unclean for his unmarried virgin sister in his immediate family. 4 He is not to make himself unclean for those related to him by marriage † and so defile himself.
5 “Priests may not make bald spots on their heads, shave the edge of their beards, or make gashes on their bodies. † 6 They are to be holy to their God and not profane the name of their God. † For they present the fire offerings to the LORD, the food of their God, and they must be holy. 7 They are not to marry a woman defiled by prostitution. † † They are not to marry one divorced † by her husband, for the priest is holy to his God. 8 You are to consider him holy since he presents the food of your God. He will be holy to you because I, the LORD who sets you apart, am holy. 9 If a priest’s daughter defiles herself by promiscuity, † † she defiles her father; she must be burned to death. † 10 “The priest who is highest among his brothers, who has had the anointing oil poured on his head and has been ordained † to wear the clothes, must not dishevel his hair † or tear his clothes. † 11 He must not go near any dead person or make himself unclean even for his father or mother. † 12 He must not leave the sanctuary or he will desecrate the sanctuary of his God, for the consecration of the anointing oil of his God is on him; † I am the LORD.
13 “He is to marry a woman who is a virgin. 14 He is not to marry a widow, † a divorced woman, † or one defiled by prostitution. He is to marry a virgin from his own people, 15 so that he does not corrupt his bloodline † among his people, for I am the LORD who sets him apart.”

PHYSICAL DEFECTS AND PRIESTS

16 The LORD spoke to Moses: 17 “Tell Aaron: None of your descendants throughout your generations who has a physical defect † is to come near to present the food † of his God. 18 No man who has any defect is to come near:
no man who is blind, lame, facially disfigured, or deformed; 19 no man who has a broken foot or hand, 20 or who is a hunchback or a dwarf, † † or who has an eye defect, a festering rash, scabs, † or a crushed testicle. † 21 No descendant of the priest Aaron who has a defect is to come near to present the fire offerings to the LORD. He has a defect and is not to come near to present the food of his God. 22 He may eat the food of his God from what is especially holy as well as from what is holy. 23 But because he has a defect, he must not go near the curtain † or approach the altar. He is not to desecrate my holy places, for I am the LORD who sets them apart." † 24 Moses said this to Aaron and his sons and to all the Israelites.

21:1-15 The laws in Leviticus 21–22 were directed to the priests (see also v. 17; 22:2,18; note on 17:2). Like the Israelites, they were to be holy to their God and not profane the name of their God (see 18:21; 19:2,12; 20:3,7,26). Because of their service in the tabernacle, priests had to take special care in choosing a wife and were restricted from becoming unclean when mourning for relatives outside of their immediate family. The regulations for the high priest were even stricter (vv. 10-15).

21:17-23 Though still bearing the image of God (see the note on Gn 1:26-31), descendants of Aaron who had a physical defect were not permitted to come near to present the food of his God or go near the curtain or approach the altar (v. 23). This corresponds with the requirement that animals sacrificed at the tabernacle be "unblemished" (22:18-25; see also 1:3,10; 3:1,6; 4:3,23). The impression left is that the law required perfection (see Gl 3:10; Jms 2:10).

PRIESTS AND THEIR FOOD

22 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Tell Aaron and his sons to deal respectfully with the holy offerings of the Israelites that they have consecrated to me, so they do not profane my holy name; † I am the LORD. 3 Say to them: If any man from any of your descendants throughout your generations is in a state of uncleanness yet approaches the holy offerings that the Israelites consecrate to the LORD, that person will be cut off from my presence; I am the LORD. 4 No man of Aaron's descendants who has a skin disease † or a discharge is to eat from the holy offerings until he is clean. Whoever touches anything made unclean by a dead person or by a man who has an emission of semen, 5 or whoever touches any swarming creature that makes him unclean or any person who makes him unclean — whatever his uncleanness — [6] the man who touches any of these will remain unclean until evening † and is not to eat from the holy offerings unless he has bathed his body with water. [7] When the sun has set, he will become clean, and then he may eat from the holy offerings, for that is his food. † [8] He must not eat an animal that died naturally or was mauled by wild beasts, † † making himself unclean by it; I am the LORD. [9] They must keep my instruction, † or they will be guilty and die because they profane it; I am the LORD who sets them apart.

[10] "No one outside a priest's family † † is to eat the holy offering. A foreigner staying with a priest or a hired worker is not to eat the holy offering. [11] But if a priest purchases someone with his own silver, that person may eat it, and those born in his house may eat his food. [12] If the priest's daughter is married to a man outside a priest's family, † she is not to eat from the holy contributions. † [13] But if the priest's daughter becomes widowed or divorced, has no children, and returns to her father's house as in her youth, she may share her father's food. But no outsider may share it. [14] If anyone eats a holy offering in error, † he is to add a fifth to its value and give the holy offering to the priest. † [15] The priests must not profane the holy offerings the Israelites give to the LORD [16] by letting the people eat their holy offerings and having them bear the penalty of restitution. † For I am the LORD who sets them apart."

ACCEPTABLE SACRIFICES

[17] The LORD spoke to Moses: [18] "Speak to Aaron, his sons, and all the Israelites and tell them: Any man of the house of Israel or of the resident aliens † in Israel who presents his offering † — whether they present payment of vows or freewill gifts to the LORD as burnt offerings — [19] must offer an unblemished male † from the cattle, sheep, or goats in order for you to be accepted. [20] You are not to present anything that has a defect, because it will not be accepted on your behalf.

[21] "When a man presents a fellowship sacrifice to the LORD to fulfill a vow or as a freewill offering from the herd or flock, it has to be unblemished to be acceptable; there must be no defect in it. [22] You are not to present any animal to the LORD that is blind, injured, maimed, or has a running sore, festering rash, † or scabs; you may not put any of them on the altar as a fire offering to the LORD. † 23 You may sacrifice as a freewill offering any animal from the herd or flock that has an elongated or stunted limb, but it is not acceptable as a vow offering. 24 You are not to present to the LORD anything that has bruised, crushed, torn, or severed testicles; † you must not sacrifice them in your land. 25 Neither you nor † a foreigner are to present food to your God from any of these animals. They will not be accepted for you because they are deformed and have a defect." †

26 The LORD spoke to Moses: 27 "When an ox, sheep, or goat is born, it is to remain with † its mother for seven days; from the eighth day † on, it will be acceptable as an offering, a fire offering to the LORD. 28 But you are not to slaughter an animal from the herd or flock on the same day as its young. †

29 When you sacrifice a thank offering † to the LORD, sacrifice it so that you may be accepted. 30 It is to be eaten on the same day. † Do not let any of it remain until morning; I am the LORD.

31 "You are to keep my commands and do them; I am the LORD. 32 You must not profane my holy name; I must be treated as holy † among the Israelites. I am the LORD who sets you apart, 33 the one who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God; I am the LORD."

22:2 The concern that the priests not profane God's holy name is now related to their handling of the Israelites' offerings (see also v. 32; 21:6). They were not to eat of them when unclean (vv. 3-7) or to allow others outside of their family to eat them (vv. 10-16).

22:18-25 See the note on 21:17.

22:31-33 Once again, God charged Israel to obey him, not to profane his holy name, and to honor him as holy (see also 10:3; 18:2-5,21; 20:22-26). As in other passages, he appealed to his having brought them out of Egypt (see 11:45; 19:36).

HOLY DAYS

HOLY DAYS

23 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 “Speak to the Israelites and tell them:
These are my appointed times, † the times of the LORD that you will proclaim as sacred assemblies. †
3 “Work may be done for six days, but on the seventh day there is to be a Sabbath of complete rest, † a sacred assembly. You are not to do any work; it is a Sabbath † to the LORD wherever you live.
4 “These are the LORD’s appointed times, the sacred assemblies you are to proclaim at their appointed times. 5 The Passover † to the LORD comes in the first month, at twilight on the fourteenth day of the month. 6 The Festival of Unleavened Bread † to the LORD is on the fifteenth day of the same month. For seven days you must eat unleavened bread. 7 On the first day you are to hold a sacred assembly; you are not to do any daily work. 8 You are to present a fire offering to the LORD for seven days. On the seventh day there will be a sacred assembly; do not do any daily work.” 9 The LORD spoke to Moses: 10 “Speak to the Israelites and tell them: When you enter the land I am giving you and reap its harvest, † you are to bring the first sheaf of your harvest to the priest. 11 He will present the sheaf before the LORD so that you may be accepted; the priest is to present it on the day after the Sabbath. 12 On the day you present the sheaf, you are to offer a year-old male lamb † without blemish † as a burnt offering to the LORD. 13 Its grain offering is to be four quarts † of fine flour mixed with oil as a fire offering to the LORD, a pleasing aroma, and its drink offering will be one quart † of wine. 14 You must not eat bread, roasted grain, or any new grain † until this very day, and until you have brought the offering to your God. This is to be a permanent statute throughout your generations wherever you live.
15 “You are to count seven † complete weeks † † starting from the day after the Sabbath, the day you brought the sheaf of the presentation offering. † 16 You are to count fifty days until the day after the seventh Sabbath and then present an offering of new grain to the LORD. 17 Bring two loaves of bread from your settlements as a presentation offering, each of them made from four quarts of fine flour, baked with yeast, as firstfruits † to the LORD. 18 You are to present with the bread seven unblemished male lambs a year old, one young bull, and two rams. They will be a burnt offering to the LORD, with their grain offerings and drink offerings, a fire offering of a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 19 You are also to prepare one male goat as a sin offering, and two male lambs a year old as a fellowship sacrifice. 20 The priest will present the lambs with the bread of firstfruits as a presentation offering before the LORD; the bread and the two lambs will be holy to the LORD for the priest. 21 On that same day you are to make a proclamation and hold a sacred assembly. You are not to do any daily work. This is to be a permanent statute wherever you live throughout your generations. 22 When you reap the harvest of your land, you are not to reap all the way to the edge of your field or gather the gleanings of your harvest. Leave them for the poor and the resident alien; † I am the LORD your God."

23 The LORD spoke to Moses: 24 "Tell the Israelites: In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you are to have a day of complete rest, commemoration, and trumpet blasts † — a sacred assembly. † 25 You must not do any daily work, but you must present a fire offering to the LORD."

26 The LORD again spoke to Moses: 27 "The tenth day of this seventh month is the Day of Atonement. † You are to hold a sacred assembly and practice self-denial; † you are to present a fire offering to the LORD. 28 On this particular day you are not to do any work, for it is a Day of Atonement to make atonement for yourselves before the LORD your God. 29 If any person does not practice self-denial on this particular day, he is to be cut off from his people. 30 I will destroy among his people anyone who does any work on this same day. 31 You are not to do any work. This is a permanent statute throughout your generations wherever you live. 32 It will be a Sabbath of complete rest for you, and you must practice self-denial. You are to observe your Sabbath from the evening of the ninth day of the month until the following evening."

33 The LORD spoke to Moses: 34 "Tell the Israelites: The Festival of Shelters † † to the LORD begins on the fifteenth day of this seventh month and continues for seven days. 35 There is to be a sacred assembly on the first day; you are not to do any daily work. 36 You are to present a fire offering to the LORD for seven days. On the eighth day you are to hold a sacred assembly and present a fire offering to the LORD. It is a solemn gathering; † you are not to do any daily work.

37 “These are the LORD’s appointed times that you are to proclaim as sacred assemblies for presenting fire offerings to the LORD, burnt offerings and grain offerings, sacrifices and drink offerings, each on its designated day. 38 These are in addition to the offerings for the LORD’s Sabbaths, your gifts, all your vow offerings, and all your freewill offerings that you give to the LORD.
39 “You are to celebrate the LORD’s festival on the fifteenth day of the seventh month for seven days after you have gathered the produce of the land. There will be complete rest on the first day and complete rest on the eighth day. 40 On the first day you are to take the product † of majestic trees — palm fronds, † boughs of leafy trees, † and willows of the brook † — and rejoice before the LORD your God for seven days. 41 You are to celebrate it as a festival to the LORD seven days each year. This is a permanent statute for you throughout your generations; celebrate it in the seventh month. 42 You are to live in shelters † for seven days. All the native-born of Israel must live in shelters, 43 so that your generations may know that I made the Israelites live in shelters when I brought them out of the land of Egypt; I am the LORD your God.” 44 So Moses declared the LORD’s appointed times to the Israelites.

23:1 Instructions found in this chapter concerning the celebration of three annual festivals, the Passover and Festival of Unleavened Bread (vv. 4-8), the Festival of Weeks (vv. 9-22), and the Festival of Shelters (vv. 33-36,39-43), can also be found in Exodus 23:14-17 and 34:18-26. Leviticus 23 adds instructions regarding the Day of Atonement (vv. 26-32), which had been commanded in Leviticus 16 in connection with the sin of Nadab and Abihu. Like the Sabbath, the observance of these appointed times (vv. 2,37,44) involved resting and not doing any work.

TABERNACLE OIL AND BREAD

24 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 “Command the Israelites to bring you pure oil from crushed olives for the light, in order to keep the lamp burning regularly. † 3 Aaron is to tend it continually from evening until morning before the LORD outside the curtain † of the testimony † in the tent of meeting. This is a permanent statute throughout your generations. 4 He must continually tend the lamps on the pure gold lampstand in the LORD's presence. †

5 "Take fine flour and bake it into twelve loaves; † each loaf is to be made with four quarts. † 6 Arrange them in two rows, six to a row, on the pure gold table † before the LORD. 7 Place pure frankincense † near each row, so that it may serve as a memorial portion † for the bread and a fire offering † to the LORD. 8 The bread is to be set out before the LORD every Sabbath day as a permanent covenant † obligation on the part of the Israelites. 9 It belongs to Aaron and his sons, who are to eat it in a holy place, for it is the holiest portion for him from the fire offerings to the LORD; this is a permanent rule."

A CASE OF BLASPHEMY

10 Now the son of an Israelite mother and an Egyptian father was † among the Israelites. A fight broke out in the camp between the Israelite woman's son and an Israelite man. 11 Her son cursed and blasphemed the Name, † and they brought him to Moses. (His mother's name was Shelomith, a daughter of Dibri of the tribe of Dan. †) 12 They put him in custody † until the LORD's decision † could be made clear to them.
13 Then the LORD spoke to Moses: 14 "Bring the one who has cursed to the outside of the camp and have all who heard him lay their hands on his head; then have the whole community stone him. † 15 And tell the Israelites: If anyone curses his God, he will bear the consequences of his sin. 16 Whoever blasphemes the name of the LORD must be put to death; † the whole community is to stone him. If he blasphemes the Name, he is to be put to death, whether the resident alien or the native.
17 "If a man kills anyone, he must be put to death. † 18 Whoever kills an animal is to make restitution for it, life for life. 19 If any man inflicts a permanent injury on his neighbor, whatever he has done is to be done to him: 20 fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth. Whatever injury he inflicted on the person, the same is to be inflicted on him. † 21 Whoever kills an animal is to make restitution for it, but whoever kills a person is to be put to death. † 22 You are to have the same law for the resident alien and the native, because I am the LORD your God.”

23 After Moses spoke to the Israelites, they brought the one who had cursed to the outside of the camp and stoned him. So the Israelites did as the LORD had commanded Moses.

24:10-12 The essentially uninterrupted stream of laws from Leviticus 11 onward pauses momentarily with this brief narrative section. The only other narrative in Leviticus is Leviticus 8–10, and both passages involve a serious sin (see 10:1-3). The overall effect is that not only does the pace of the book come to a near halt (see the note on 1:1), but irony continues to build as God gives more laws and Israel continues to commit grave sins (see also 10:1-3; 17:7; Ex 32:1-6). As God says of Israel in Hosea 8:12, “Though I were to write out for him ten thousand points of my instruction, they would be regarded as something strange.”

24:13-16 Blasphemy had already been forbidden in Exodus 22:28 (see also Ex 20:7), but its punishment had been unspecified. This is why Moses put the blasphemer “in custody until the LORD’S decision could be made clear to them” (v. 12; see also Nm 15:34). The Lord revealed the punishment to be death by stoning, which the Israelites carried out (v. 23). The severity of this punishment is consistent with Exodus 21:17, which also mandates the death penalty for the relatively lesser crime of cursing one’s parents.

SABBATH YEARS AND JUBILEE

25 The LORD spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai: 2 “Speak to the Israelites and tell them: When you enter the land I am giving you, the land will observe a Sabbath to the LORD. 3 You may sow your field for six years, and you may prune your vineyard and gather its produce for six years. 4 But there will be a Sabbath of complete rest † for the land in the seventh year, a Sabbath to the LORD: you are not to sow your field or prune your vineyard. 5 You are not to reap what grows by itself from your crop, or harvest the grapes of your untended vines. It is to be a year of complete rest for the land. 6 Whatever the land produces during the Sabbath year can be food for you — for yourself, your male or female slave, and the hired worker or alien who resides with you. 7 All of its growth may serve as food for your livestock and the wild animals in your land.
8 “You are to count seven sabbatical years, seven times seven years, so that the time period of the seven sabbatical years amounts to forty-nine. 9 Then you are to sound a trumpet loudly in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month; you will sound it throughout your land on the Day of Atonement. † 10 You are to consecrate the fiftieth year and proclaim freedom in the land for all its inhabitants. It will be your Jubilee, † when each of you is to return to his property and each of you to his clan. 11 The fiftieth year will be your Jubilee; you are not to sow, reap what grows by itself, or harvest its untended vines. 12 It is to be holy to you because it is the Jubilee; you may only eat its produce directly from the field.

13 "In this Year of Jubilee, each of you will return to his property. 14 If you make a sale to your neighbor or a purchase from him, do not cheat † one another. 15 You are to make the purchase from your neighbor based on the number of years since the last Jubilee. He is to sell to you based on the number of remaining harvest years. 16 You are to increase its price in proportion to a greater amount of years, and decrease its price in proportion to a lesser amount of years, because what he is selling to you is a number of harvests. 17 You are not to cheat one another, but fear your God, for I am the LORD your God.
18 "You are to keep my statutes and ordinances and carefully observe them, so that you may live securely in the land. † 19 Then the land will yield its fruit, so that you can eat, be satisfied, and live securely in the land. 20 If you wonder: 'What will we eat in the seventh year if we don't sow or gather our produce? ' 21 I will appoint my blessing for you in the sixth year, so that it will produce a crop sufficient for three years. 22 When you sow in the eighth year, you will be eating from the previous harvest. You will be eating this until the ninth year when its harvest comes in.
23 "The land is not to be permanently sold because it is mine, and you are only aliens and temporary residents on my land. † † 24 You are to allow the redemption of any land you occupy. 25 If your brother becomes destitute and sells part of his property, his nearest relative may come and redeem what his brother has sold. 26 If a man has no family redeemer, but he prospers † and obtains enough to redeem his land, 27 he may calculate the years since its sale, repay the balance to the man he sold it to, and return to his property. 28 But if he cannot obtain enough to repay him, what he sold will remain in the possession of its purchaser until the Year of Jubilee. It is to be released at the Jubilee, so that he may return to his property.

29 “If a man sells a residence in a walled city, his right of redemption will last until a year has passed after its sale; his right of redemption will last a year. 30 If it is not redeemed by the end of a full year, then the house in the walled city is permanently transferred to its purchaser throughout his generations. It is not to be released on the Jubilee. 31 But houses in settlements that have no walls around them are to be classified as open fields. The right to redeem such houses stays in effect, and they are to be released at the Jubilee.
32 “Concerning the Levitical cities, † the Levites always have the right to redeem houses in the cities they possess. 33 Whatever property one of the Levites can redeem † — a house sold in a city they possess — is to be released at the Jubilee, because the houses in the Levitical cities are their possession among the Israelites. 34 The open pastureland around their cities may not be sold, for it is their permanent possession.
35 “If your brother becomes destitute and cannot sustain himself among † you, you are to support him as an alien or temporary resident, so that he can continue to live among you. 36 Do not profit or take interest from him, † but fear your God and let your brother live among you. 37 You are not to lend him your silver with interest or sell him your food for profit. 38 I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.
39 “If your brother among you becomes destitute and sells himself to you, † you must not force him to do slave labor. 40 Let him stay with you as a hired worker or temporary resident; he may work for you until the Year of Jubilee. 41 Then he and his children are to be released from you, and he may return to his clan and his ancestral property. † 42 They are not to be sold as slaves, † because they are my servants † that I brought out of the land of Egypt. 43 You are not to rule over them harshly † but fear your God. 44 Your male and female slaves are to be from the nations around you; you may purchase male and female slaves.
45 You may also purchase them from the aliens residing with you, or from their families living among you — those born in your land. These may become your property. 46 You may leave them to your sons after you to inherit as property; you can make them slaves for life. But concerning your brothers, the Israelites, you must not rule over one another harshly.

47 “If an alien or temporary resident living among you prospers, but your brother living near him becomes destitute and sells himself to the alien living among you, or to a member of the resident alien’s clan, 48 he has the right of redemption after he has been sold. One of his brothers may redeem him. 49 His uncle or cousin may redeem him, or any of his close relatives from his clan may redeem him. If he prospers, he may redeem himself. 50 The one who purchased him is to calculate the time from the year he sold himself to him until the Year of Jubilee. The price of his sale will be determined by the number of years. It will be set for him like the daily wages of a hired worker. 51 If many years are still left, he must pay his redemption price in proportion to them based on his purchase price. 52 If only a few years remain until the Year of Jubilee, he will calculate and pay the price of his redemption in proportion to his remaining years. 53 He will stay with him like a man hired year by year. A resident alien is not to rule over him harshly in your sight. 54 If he is not redeemed in any of these ways, he and his children are to be released at the Year of Jubilee. 55 For the Israelites are my servants. † They are my servants that I brought out of the land of Egypt; I am the LORD your God.

25:2-7 Not only were the Israelites to observe the Sabbath day every week, but the land was to observe a Sabbath year every seven years (see also Ex 23:10-11; Lv 26:34-35). This meant that the Israelites were not to sow . . . or prune their fields and vineyards so that the land would have a year of complete rest. As for provisions for a Sabbath year, God promised that the produce of the sixth year would be “sufficient for three years” (vv. 20-22). That is, in the seventh year there would be no planting; crops planted in the eighth year would be ready for harvest in the ninth.

25:8-17 After seven Sabbath years there was to be a Year of Jubilee, during which each Israelite was to return to his property and each . . . to his clan. Poor Israelites who had sold themselves as workers were also to be released so that they might return to their ancestral land (vv. 39-41). The land was not to be permanently sold because it is the Lord’s, and the Israelites were “only aliens and temporary residents in it” (v. 23). Purchase price was to be based on the number of years since the last Jubilee (see also vv. 50-52).

25:55 Just as the land was not to be sold permanently because it is God’s (v. 23), so Israelites were not to be sold permanently because they are God’s servants that [he] brought out of the land of Egypt (see also v. 42). They were to be released during the Year of Jubilee (vv. 40,54).

COVENANT BLESSINGS AND DISCIPLINE

26 “Do not make idols for yourselves, † set up a carved image or sacred pillar for yourselves, or place a sculpted stone in your land to bow down to it, for I am the LORD your God. 2 Keep my Sabbaths and revere my sanctuary; † I am the LORD.
3 “If you follow my statutes and faithfully observe my commands, 4 I will give you rain at the right time, and the land will yield its produce, and the trees of the field will bear their fruit. 5 Your threshing will continue until grape harvest, and the grape harvest will continue until sowing time; you will have plenty of food to eat and live securely in your land. † 6 I will give peace to the land, and you will lie down with nothing to frighten you. I will remove dangerous animals from the land, and no sword will pass through your land. † 7 You will pursue your enemies, and they will fall before you by the sword. 8 Five of you will pursue a hundred, and a hundred of you will pursue ten thousand; your enemies will fall before you by the sword. † 9 “I will turn to you, make you fruitful and multiply you, and confirm my covenant with you. 10 You will eat the old grain of the previous year and will clear out the old to make room for the new. 11 I will place my residence † among you, and I will not reject you. † 12 I will walk among you and be your God, and you will be my people. † 13 I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, so that you would no longer be their slaves. I broke the bars of your yoke † and enabled you to live in freedom. † 14 “But if you do not obey me and observe all these commands — 15 if you reject my statutes and despise my ordinances, and do not observe all my commands — and break my covenant, 16 then I will do this to you: I will bring terror † on you — wasting disease and fever that will cause your eyes to fail and your life to ebb away. You will sow your seed in vain because your enemies will eat it. 17 I will turn † against you, so that you will be defeated by your enemies.
Those who hate you will rule over you, and you will flee even though no one is pursuing you. † 18 “But if after these things you will not obey me, I will proceed to discipline you seven times for your sins. † 19 I will break down your strong pride. I will make your sky like iron and your land like bronze, 20 and your strength will be used up for nothing. † Your land will not yield its produce, and the trees of the land will not bear their fruit.

21 “If you act with hostility toward me and are unwilling to obey me, I will multiply your plagues seven times for your sins. † 22 I will send wild animals against you that will deprive you of your children, ravage your livestock, and reduce your numbers until your roads are deserted. †
23 “If in spite of these things you do not accept my discipline, but act with hostility toward me, 24 then I will act with hostility toward you; I also will strike you seven times for your sins. 25 I will bring a sword against you † to execute the vengeance of the covenant. Though you withdraw into your cities, I will send a pestilence among you, and you will be delivered into enemy hands. 26 When I cut off your supply of bread, ten women will bake your bread in a single oven and ration out your bread by weight, so that you will eat but not be satisfied. †
27 “And if in spite of this you do not obey me but act with hostility toward me, 28 I will act with furious hostility toward you; I will also discipline you seven times for your sins. 29 You will eat the flesh of your sons; you will eat the flesh of your daughters. † 30 I will destroy your high places, cut down your shrines, † and heap your lifeless bodies on the lifeless bodies of your idols; † I will reject you. 31 I will reduce your cities to ruins and devastate your sanctuaries. I will not smell the pleasing aroma of your sacrifices. † 32 I also will devastate the land, so that your enemies who come to live there will be appalled by it. 33 But I will scatter you among the nations, and I will draw a sword to chase after you. So your land will become desolate, and your cities will become ruins.
34 “Then the land will make up for its Sabbath years during the time it lies desolate, while you are in the land of your enemies. At that time the land will rest and make up for its Sabbaths. 35 As long as it lies desolate, it will have the rest it did not have during your Sabbaths when you lived there.
36 “I will put anxiety in the hearts of those of you who survive in the lands of their enemies. The sound of a wind-driven leaf will put them to flight, and they will flee as one flees from a sword, and fall though no one is pursuing them. 37 They will stumble over one another as if fleeing from a sword though no one is pursuing them. You will not be able to stand against your enemies. 38 You will perish among the nations; the land of your enemies will devour you.

39 Those † who survive in the lands of your enemies will waste away because of their iniquity; they will also waste away because of their fathers' iniquities along with theirs.
40 "But when they confess their iniquity and the iniquity of their fathers — their unfaithfulness that they practiced against me, and how they acted with hostility toward me, 41 and I acted with hostility toward them and brought them into the land of their enemies — and when their uncircumcised hearts are humbled † and they make amends for their iniquity, 42 then I will remember my covenant with Jacob. I will also remember my covenant with Isaac and my covenant with Abraham, and I will remember the land. 43 For the land abandoned by them will make up for its Sabbaths by lying desolate without the people, while they make amends for their iniquity, because they rejected my ordinances and abhorred my statutes. 44 Yet in spite of this, while they are in the land of their enemies, I will not reject or abhor them so as to destroy them and break my covenant with them, since I am the LORD their God. † 45 For their sake I will remember the covenant with their fathers, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the nations to be their God; I am the LORD." 46 These are the statutes, ordinances, and laws the LORD established between himself and the Israelites through Moses on Mount Sinai.

26:1 This chapter begins with another command against idolatry (see 17:7; 19:4; 20:2-5) and continues with a description of the respective consequences of obedience (vv. 3-13) and disobedience (vv. 14-45) to God's commands. In this respect, Leviticus 26 resembles Deuteronomy 28. Consequences for obedience and disobedience are a regular feature of ancient Near Eastern covenants. These passages conclude the covenant between God and Israel, which he made with them at Mount Sinai. Note the logical order of the covenant: (1) gracious relationship, (2) ordinances and stipulations, and (3) consequences. Obedience was a response to the relationship with God, not a prerequisite. An important difference between these two texts is that Leviticus 26 was spoken to the generation of Israelites brought out of Egypt, whereas Deuteronomy 28 was spoken to the next generation (see Nm 14:21-33).

26:18 The consequences of disobedience would get increasingly severe if Israel continued to disobey (if after these things you will not obey me, I will proceed to discipline you seven times for your sins).

26:40-45 Despite serious consequences for disobedience to God's commands, Israel could humbly confess their sins and God would remember his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and would not reject or abhor them so as to destroy them and break . . . covenant with them (v. 44).

FUNDING THE SANCTUARY

27 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them:
When someone makes a special vow † to the LORD that involves the assessment of people, 3 if the assessment concerns a male from twenty to sixty years old, your assessment is fifty silver shekels † measured by the standard sanctuary shekel. † 4 If the person is a female, your assessment is thirty shekels. † 5 If the person is from five to twenty years old, your assessment for a male is twenty shekels † and for a female ten shekels. 6 If the person is from one month to five years old, your assessment for a male is five silver shekels, † and for a female your assessment is three shekels of silver. 7 If the person is sixty years or more, your assessment is fifteen shekels for a male and ten shekels for a female. 8 But if one is too poor to pay the assessment, he is to present the person before the priest and the priest will set a value for him. The priest will set a value for him according to what the one making the vow can afford.
9 "If the vow involves one of the animals that may be brought as an offering to the LORD, any of these he gives to the LORD will be holy. 10 He may not replace it or make a substitution for it, either good for bad, or bad for good. † But if he does substitute one animal for another, both that animal and its substitute will be holy.
11 "If the vow involves any of the unclean animals that may not be brought as an offering to the LORD, the animal must be presented before the priest. 12 The priest will set its value, whether high or low; the price will be set as the priest makes the assessment for you. 13 If the one who brought it decides to redeem it, he must add a fifth to the † assessed value. † 14 "When a man consecrates his house as holy to the LORD, the priest will assess its value, whether high or low. The price will stand just as the priest assesses it.
15 But if the one who consecrated his house redeems it, he must add a fifth to the assessed value, and it will be his. † 16 “If a man consecrates to the LORD any part of a field that he possesses, your assessment of value will be proportional to the seed needed to sow it, at the rate of fifty silver shekels for every five bushels † of barley seed. † 17 If he consecrates his field during the Year of Jubilee, † the price will stand according to your assessment. 18 But if he consecrates his field after the Jubilee, the priest will calculate the price for him in proportion to the years left until the next Year of Jubilee, so that your assessment will be reduced. 19 If the one who consecrated the field decides to redeem it, he must add a fifth to the assessed value, and the field will transfer back to him. 20 But if he does not redeem the field or if he has sold it to another man, it is no longer redeemable. 21 When the field is released in the Jubilee, it will be holy to the LORD like a field permanently set apart; it becomes the priest’s property.

22 “If a person consecrates to the LORD a field he has purchased that is not part of his inherited landholding, 23 then the priest will calculate for him the amount of the assessment up to the Year of Jubilee, and the person will pay the assessed value on that day as a holy offering to the LORD. 24 In the Year of Jubilee the field will return to the one he bought it from, † the original owner. 25 All your assessed values will be measured by the standard sanctuary shekel, † twenty gerahs to the shekel. †
26 “But no one can consecrate a firstborn of the livestock, whether an animal from the herd or flock, to the LORD, because a firstborn already belongs to the LORD. † 27 If it is one of the unclean livestock, it can be ransomed according to your assessment by adding a fifth of its value to it. If it is not redeemed, it can be sold according to your assessment. † 28 “Nothing that a man permanently sets apart to the LORD from all he owns, whether a person, an animal, or his inherited landholding, can be sold or redeemed; everything set apart is especially holy to the LORD. 29 No person who has been set apart for destruction is to be ransomed; he must be put to death. † 30 “Every tenth of the land’s produce, grain from the soil or fruit from the trees, belongs to the LORD; † it is holy to the LORD. 31 If a man decides to redeem any part of this tenth, he must add a fifth to its value. 32 Every tenth animal from the herd or flock, which passes under the shepherd’s rod, † will be holy to the LORD.

33 He is not to inspect whether it is good or bad, and he is not to make a substitution for it. But if he does make a substitution, both the animal and its substitute will be holy; † they cannot be redeemed.” †
34 These are the commands the LORD gave Moses for the Israelites on Mount Sinai. †

NUMBERS

INTRODUCTION

The English title “Numbers” derives from the Septuagint name “Arithmoi,” based on the two military censuses in chapters 1 and 26. The Hebrew title, Bemidbar, “In the Wilderness,” describes the geographical setting of much of the book—from the Wilderness of Sinai to the arid Plains of Moab, across the Jordan River from Jericho.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Christian scholars have traditionally held that Moses was the author of the Pentateuch, which includes the book of Numbers. As with the other books in the Pentateuch, Numbers is anonymous, but Moses is a central character throughout. Moses kept a journal (33:2), and the phrase “The Lord spoke to Moses” is used thirty-one times. It is possible that a few portions were later added by scribes, such as the reference to Moses’s humility (12:3) and the reference to the “Book of the Lord’s Wars” (21:14). Moses remains the primary writer.

BACKGROUND: Numbers continues the historical narrative begun in Exodus. It picks up one month after the close of Exodus (Ex 40:2; Nm 1:1), which is about one year after the Israelites’ departure from Egypt. Numbers covers the remaining thirty-nine years of the Israelites’ stay in the wilderness, from Sinai to Kadesh, and finally to the plains on the eastern side of the Jordan River.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Numbers shows us how God responded to the unbelief of the Israelites. There are consequences to our disobedience, but God’s grace remains and his redemptive plan and desire for us will not be stopped. The book of Numbers underscores for us the importance of obedience in the life of a Christian, and Paul reminded us of the value of learning from the way God has worked in the past (Rm 15:4; 1Co 10:6,11).

STRUCTURE

Numbers reflects the challenging message of faithfulness. The book consists of seven cycles of material, with the repetition of the following types of material: (1) a statement of the historical setting, (2) reference to the twelve tribes of Israel and their respective leaders, (3) matters related to the priests and Levites, and (4) laws for defining the nature of the faithful community.

This book of the Law is primarily narrative with portions of case law interwoven into a vibrant literary fabric.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Numbers emphasizes two attributes of God: his sovereign power and his covenant faithfulness. He is faithful to Israel on account of the covenant he made with Abraham (32:11). God's Spirit is present as the One enabling service and inspiring true prophecy (11:25-26; 24:2).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

This book shows how painfully sinful and flawed all humans are. The rebellion at Kadesh led by Korah and the story of Balaam demonstrate this. Moreover, even Moses the lawgiver, to whom God spoke directly, sinned and was not allowed to enter Canaan. Without divine mercy, all perish.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Exodus (redemption through the death of the Passover lambs) and Leviticus (forgiveness provided through many blood sacrifices) teach more extensively about salvation than Numbers. The incident concerning the brass serpent on the pole, however, shows the centrality of faith in receiving God's provision: "Then the LORD said to Moses, 'Make a snake image and mount it on a pole. When anyone who is bitten looks at it, he will recover.' So Moses made a bronze snake and mounted it on a pole. Whenever someone was bitten, and he looked at the bronze snake, he recovered" (21:8-9).

THE CENSUS OF ISRAEL

1 The LORD spoke to Moses in the tent of meeting † in the Wilderness of Sinai, † on the first day of the second month of the second year † after Israel's departure from the land of Egypt: 2 "Take a census † of the entire Israelite community by their clans and their fathers' families, † counting the names of every male one by one. 3 You and Aaron are to register those who are twenty years old or more by their military divisions — everyone who can serve in Israel's army. † † 4 A man from each tribe is to be with you, each one the head of his ancestral family. † † 5 These are the names of the men who are to assist you:

Elizur son of Shedeur † from Reuben;
6 Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai from Simeon;
7 Nahshon son of Amminadab from Judah;
8 Nethanel son of Zuar from Issachar;
9 Eliab son of Helon from Zebulun;
10 from the sons of Joseph:
Elishama son of Ammihud from Ephraim,
Gamaliel son of Pedahzur from Manasseh;
11 Abidan son of Gideoni from Benjamin;
12 Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai from Dan;
13 Pagiel son of Ochran from Asher;
14 Eliasaph son of Deuel † from Gad;

15 Ahira son of Enan from Naphtali.

16 These are the men called from the community; they are leaders of their ancestral tribes, † the heads of Israel's clans." †

17 So Moses and Aaron took these men who had been designated by name, †
18 and they assembled the whole community on the first day of the second month. They recorded their ancestry by their clans and their ancestral families, counting one by one the names of those twenty years old or more, 19 just as the LORD commanded Moses. He registered them in the Wilderness of Sinai:

20 The descendants of Reuben, † the firstborn of Israel: according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting one by one the names of every male twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 21 those registered for the tribe of Reuben numbered 46,500.

22 The descendants of Simeon: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, those registered counting one by one the names of every male twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 23 those registered for the tribe of Simeon numbered 59,300.

24 The descendants of Gad: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 25 those registered for the tribe of Gad numbered 45,650.

26 The descendants of Judah: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 27 those registered for the tribe of Judah numbered 74,600.

28 The descendants of Issachar: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 29 those registered for the tribe of Issachar numbered 54,400.

30 The descendants of Zebulun: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 31 those registered for the tribe of Zebulun numbered 57,400.

32 The descendants of Joseph: †

The descendants of Ephraim: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 33 those registered for the tribe of Ephraim numbered 40,500.

34 The descendants of Manasseh: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 35 those registered for the tribe of Manasseh numbered 32,200.

36 The descendants of Benjamin: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 37 those registered for the tribe of Benjamin numbered 35,400.

38 The descendants of Dan: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 39 those registered for the tribe of Dan numbered 62,700.

40 The descendants of Asher: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 41 those registered for the tribe of Asher numbered 41,500.

42 The descendants of Naphtali: † according to their family records by their clans and their ancestral families, counting the names of those twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in the army, 43 those registered for the tribe of Naphtali numbered 53,400.

44 These are the men Moses and Aaron registered, with the assistance of the twelve leaders of Israel; each represented his ancestral family. 45 So all the Israelites twenty years old or more, everyone who could serve in Israel's army, were registered by their ancestral families. 46 All those registered numbered 603,550. †

DUTIES OF THE LEVITES

47 But the Levites † were not registered with them by their ancestral tribe. 48 For the LORD had told Moses: 49 "Do not register or take a census of the tribe of Levi with the other Israelites. 50 Appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of the testimony, all its furnishings, and everything in it. They are to transport the tabernacle and all its articles, take care of it, and camp around it. 51 Whenever the tabernacle is to move, the Levites are to take it down, and whenever it is to stop at a campsite, the Levites are to set it up. Any unauthorized † person who comes near it is to be put to death. †

52 "The Israelites are to camp by their military divisions, each man with his encampment and under his banner. 53 The Levites are to camp around the tabernacle of the testimony and watch over it, so that no wrath will fall on the Israelite community." † 54 The Israelites did everything just as the LORD had commanded Moses. †

1:1 Like Genesis, Exodus, and Leviticus before it, Numbers is part of the larger work known as the Pentateuch (see the notes on Gn 1:1 and Ex 1:1). At the time God commanded Moses to take a census of the Israelite males twenty years old and older, the Israelites were still at Mount Sinai. They had arrived there about eleven months prior (Ex 19:1) and would leave in about three weeks (see Nm 10:11-12).

1:17-19 With the help of one "man from each tribe" (v. 4), Moses and Aaron took a census of Israel, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

1:20-46 The tribe of Judah had by far the largest number of fighting men: 74,600. The next largest group was Dan, with 62,700. The combined number between Ephraim and Manasseh was 72,700, comparable to Judah (vv. 32-35).

1:32-35 As Jacob had declared in his old age (Gn 48:5,13-20), Joseph's sons Ephraim and Manasseh would be counted alongside of Jacob's own sons.

1:46 As one would expect, the total number of Israelite soldiers cited here, 603,550, is comparable to the earlier statement in Exodus 12:37 that "about six-hundred thousand able-bodied men on foot" had come out of Egypt (see also Nm 11:21).

1:47-53 The Levites were not counted with the other tribes in vv. 20-43 because they were to be responsible for the tabernacle. This included transporting it, taking it down, setting it up, and camping around the tabernacle. The seriousness of this task is indicated by God's warning that any unauthorized person who comes near the tabernacle must be put to death (see also 3:10,38). Because the tabernacle was the location of God's special, manifested presence, the conflict between Israel's sin and his holiness presented a unique danger. The Hebrew word translated unauthorized person here is closely related to the description of Nadab and Abihu's offering as "unauthorized" in Leviticus 10:1.

ORGANIZATION OF THE CAMPS

2 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 2 "The Israelites are to camp under their respective banners beside the flags of their ancestral families. † They are to camp around the tent of meeting at a distance from it:

3 Judah's military divisions † will camp on the east side toward the sunrise under their banner. The leader of the descendants of Judah is Nahshon † son of Amminadab. 4 His military division numbers 74,600. 5 The tribe of Issachar will camp next to it. The leader of the Issacharites is Nethanel son of Zuar. 6 His military division numbers 54,400. 7 The tribe of Zebulun will be next. The leader of the Zebulunites is Eliab son of Helon. 8 His military division numbers 57,400. 9 The total number in their military divisions who belong to Judah's encampment is 186,400; they will move out first.

10 Reuben's military divisions will camp on the south side under their banner. The leader of the Reubenites is Elizur son of Shedeur. 11 His military division numbers 46,500. 12 The tribe of Simeon will camp next to it. The leader of the Simeonites is Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai. 13 His military division numbers 59,300. 14 The tribe of Gad will be next. The leader of the Gadites is Eliasaph son of Deuel. † 15 His military division numbers 45,650. 16 The total number in their military divisions who belong to Reuben's encampment is 151,450; they will move out second.

17 The tent of meeting is to move out with the Levites' camp, which is in the middle of the camps. They are to move out just as they camp, each in his place, † with their banners.

18 Ephraim's military divisions will camp on the west side under their banner. The leader of the Ephraimites is Elishama son of Ammihud. 19 His military division numbers 40,500. 20 The tribe of Manasseh will be next to it. The leader of the Manassites is Gamaliel son of Pedahzur. 21 His military division numbers 32,200. 22 The tribe of Benjamin will be next. The leader of the Benjaminites is Abidan son of Gideoni. 23 His military division numbers 35,400. 24 The total in their military divisions who belong to Ephraim's encampment number 108,100; they will move out third.

25 Dan's military divisions will camp on the north side under their banner. The leader of the Danites is Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai. 26 His military division numbers 62,700. 27 The tribe of Asher will camp next to it. The leader of the Asherites is Pagiel son of Ochran. 28 His military division numbers 41,500. 29 The tribe of Naphtali will be next. The leader of the Naphtalites is Ahira son of Enan. 30 His military division numbers 53,400. 31 The total number who belong to Dan's encampment is 157,600; they are to move out last, with their banners."
32 These are the Israelites registered by their ancestral families. The total number in the camps by their military divisions is 603,550. 33 But the Levites were not registered among the Israelites, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. †
34 The Israelites did everything the LORD commanded Moses; they camped by their banners in this way and moved out the same way, each man by his clan and by his ancestral family. † †

2:1-2 As Israel prepared to leave Mount Sinai and to journey through the wilderness, God gave them instructions as to how their large camp was to be organized. They "did everything the LORD commanded Moses" (v. 34).

2:3-9 The ascendancy of the tribe of Judah is seen through its being mentioned first. This agrees with Jacob's blessing of Judah in Genesis 49:8-12. The tribe of Judah was to lead the tribes of Issachar and Zebulun in being the first three tribes to set out.

2:17 Bearing the tabernacle and its furnishings (see 1:50), the Levites were to be the middle group in the procession.

AARON'S SONS AND THE LEVITES

3 These are the family records of Aaron and Moses at the time the LORD spoke with Moses on Mount Sinai. † 2 These are the names of Aaron's sons: Nadab, the firstborn, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. 3 These are the names of Aaron's sons, the anointed priests, who were ordained to serve as priests. 4 But Nadab and Abihu died in the LORD's presence when they presented unauthorized fire † before the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai, and they had no sons. So Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests under the direction of Aaron their father. †

5 The LORD spoke to Moses: 6 "Bring the tribe of Levi near and present them to the priest Aaron to assist him. 7 They are to perform duties for † him and the entire community before the tent of meeting by attending to the service of the tabernacle. 8 They are to take care of all the furnishings of the tent of meeting † and perform duties for the Israelites by attending to the service of the tabernacle. 9 Assign the Levites to Aaron and his sons; they have been assigned exclusively to him † from the Israelites. † 10 You are to appoint Aaron and his sons to carry out their priestly responsibilities, but any unauthorized person who comes near the sanctuary is to be put to death." †

11 The LORD spoke to Moses: 12 "See, I have taken the Levites from the Israelites in place of every firstborn Israelite from the womb. † The Levites belong to me, 13 because every firstborn belongs to me. At the time I struck down every firstborn in the land of Egypt, † I consecrated every firstborn in Israel to myself, both man and animal. They are mine; I am the LORD." †

THE LEVITICAL CENSUS

14 The LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai: 15 "Register the Levites by their ancestral families † and their clans. You are to register every male one month old or more." 16 So Moses registered them in obedience to the LORD as he had been commanded:

17 These were Levi's sons by name: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. 18 These were the names of Gershon's sons by their clans: Libni and Shimei. 19 Kohath's sons by their clans were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. 20 Merari's sons by their clans were Mahli and Mushi. These were the Levite clans by their ancestral families. †

21 The Libnite clan and the Shimeite clan came from Gershon; these were the Gershonite clans. 22 Those registered, counting every male one month old or more, numbered 7,500. 23 The Gershonite clans camped behind the tabernacle on the west side, † 24 and the leader of the Gershonite families † was Eliasaph son of Lael. 25 The Gershonites' duties † at the tent of meeting involved the tabernacle, the tent, its covering, the screen for the entrance to the tent of meeting, † 26 the hangings of the courtyard, the screen for the entrance † to the courtyard that surrounds the tabernacle and the altar, and the tent ropes — all the work relating to these.

27 The Amramite clan, the Izharite clan, the Hebronite clan, and the Uzzielite clan came from Kohath; these were the Kohathites. 28 Counting every male one month old or more, there were 8,600 † responsible for the duties of † the sanctuary. 29 The clans of the Kohathites camped on the south side of the tabernacle, † 30 and the leader of the families of the Kohathite clans was Elizaphan son of Uzziel. 31 Their duties involved the ark, the table, the lampstand, the altars, the sanctuary utensils that were used with these, and the screen † † — and all the work relating to them. † 32 The chief of the Levite leaders was Eleazar † son of Aaron the priest; he had oversight of those responsible for the duties of the sanctuary.
33 The Mahlite clan and the Mushite clan came from Merari; these were the Merarite clans. 34 Those registered, counting every male one month old or more, numbered 6,200. 35 The leader of the families of the Merarite clans was Zuriel son of Abihail; they camped on the north side of the tabernacle. † 36 The assigned duties of Merari's descendants involved the tabernacle's supports, crossbars, pillars, bases, all its equipment, and all the work related to these, † 37 in addition to the posts of the surrounding courtyard with their bases, tent pegs, and ropes.
38 Moses, Aaron, and his sons, who performed the duties of † the sanctuary as a service on behalf of the Israelites, camped in front of the tabernacle on the east, † in front of the tent of meeting toward the sunrise. Any unauthorized person who came near it was to be put to death. †
39 The total number of all the Levite males one month old or more that Moses and Aaron † registered by their clans at the LORD's command was 22,000.

REDEMPTION OF THE FIRSTBORN

40 The LORD told Moses: “Register every firstborn male of the Israelites † one month old or more, and list their names. 41 You are to take the Levites for me — I am the LORD — in place of every firstborn among the Israelites, and the Levites’ cattle in place of every firstborn among the Israelites’ cattle.” 42 So Moses registered every firstborn among the Israelites, as the LORD commanded him. 43 The total number of the firstborn males one month old or more listed by name was 22,273.
44 The LORD spoke to Moses again: 45 “Take the Levites in place of every firstborn among the Israelites, and the Levites’ cattle in place of their cattle. The Levites belong to me; I am the LORD. † 46 As the redemption price for the 273 firstborn Israelites who outnumber the Levites, 47 collect five shekels for each person, according to the standard sanctuary shekel — twenty gerahs to the shekel. † † 48 Give the silver to Aaron and his sons as the redemption price for those who are in excess among the Israelites.” 49 So Moses collected the redemption amount from those in excess of the ones redeemed by the Levites. 50 He collected the silver from the firstborn Israelites:
1,365 shekels † measured by the standard sanctuary shekel. 51 He gave the redemption silver to Aaron and his sons in obedience to the LORD, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

3:2-4 Besides Nadab and Abihu, Aaron had two other sons, Eleazar and Ithamar, who served as priests under the direction of Aaron.

3:11-13 Instead of taking the firstborn from each family in the various tribes (see Ex 13:2; 32:26-29), God took the entire tribe of Levi. The Levites were to assist the priests in certain aspects of the tabernacle service (vv. 5-10,25-26,31-32,36-37).

3:15 In contrast with the other tribes (see 1:3), Levite males one month old or more were registered. Their total number was 22,000 (v. 39).

3:40-51 The total number of firstborn Israelite males was 22,273. Since God was taking the 22,000 Levite males in their place (vv. 11-13,39,41), there was a shortfall of 273. This difference was made up through the payment of a redemption price of five shekels for each of the 273 firstborn that had been unaccounted for.

DUTIES OF THE KOHATHITES

4 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 2 "Among the Levites, take a census of the Kohathites † by their clans and their ancestral families, †
3 men from thirty years old to fifty years old — everyone who is qualified † to do work at the tent of meeting.
4 "The service of the Kohathites at the tent of meeting concerns the most holy objects. † 5 Whenever the camp is about to move on, Aaron and his sons are to go in, take down the screening curtain, and cover the ark of the testimony with it. † 6 They are to place over this a covering made of fine leather, † † spread a solid blue cloth on top, and insert its poles. †
7 "They are to spread a blue cloth over the table of the Presence and place the plates and cups on it, as well as the bowls and pitchers for the drink offering. The regular bread offering is to be on it. † 8 They are to spread a scarlet cloth over them, cover them with a covering made of fine leather, and insert the poles in the table. †
9 "They are to take a blue cloth and cover the lampstand † used for light, with its lamps, snuffers, and firepans, † as well as its jars of oil by which they service it. 10 Then they are to place it with all its utensils inside a covering made of fine leather and put them on the carrying frame.
11 "They are to spread a blue cloth over the gold altar, † cover it with a covering made of fine leather, and insert its poles. † 12 They are to take all the serving utensils they use in the sanctuary, place them in a blue cloth, cover them with a covering made of fine leather, and put them on a carrying frame.
13 "They are to remove the ashes from the bronze altar, spread a purple cloth over it, 14 and place all the equipment on it that they use in serving: the firepans, meat forks, shovels, and basins — all the equipment of the altar. † They are to spread a covering made of fine leather over it and insert its poles. † †

15 “Aaron and his sons are to finish covering the holy objects and all their equipment whenever the camp is to move on. The Kohathites will come and carry them, but they are not to touch the holy objects or they will die. † These are the transportation duties of the Kohathites regarding the tent of meeting.
16 “Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, has oversight of the lamp oil, † the fragrant incense, † the daily grain offering, † and the anointing oil. † He has oversight of the entire tabernacle and everything in it, the holy objects and their utensils.” †
17 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 18 “Do not allow the Kohathite tribal clans to be wiped out from the Levites. 19 Do this for them so that they may live and not die when they come near the most holy objects: † Aaron and his sons are to go in and assign each man his task and transportation duty.
20 The Kohathites are not to go in and look at the holy objects as they are covered † or they will die.”

DUTIES OF THE GERSHONITES

21 The LORD spoke to Moses: 22 “Take a census of the Gershonites † also, by their ancestral families and their clans. 23 Register men from thirty years old to fifty years old, everyone who is qualified to perform service, to do work at the tent of meeting. 24 This is the service of the Gershonite clans regarding work and transportation duties: 25 They are to transport the tabernacle curtains, † the tent of meeting with its covering and the covering made of fine leather on top of it, the screen for the entrance to the tent of meeting, 26 the hangings of the courtyard, the screen for the entrance at the gate of the courtyard that surrounds the tabernacle and the altar, along with their ropes and all the equipment for their service. They will carry out everything that needs to be done with these items.
27 “All the service of the Gershonites, all their transportation duties and all their other work, is to be done at the command of Aaron and his sons; you are to assign to them all that they are responsible to carry. 28 This is the service of the Gershonite clans at the tent of meeting, and their duties will be under the direction of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest. †

DUTIES OF THE MERARITES

29 “As for the Merarites, you are to register them by their clans † and their ancestral families. 30 Register men from thirty years old to fifty years old, everyone who is qualified to do the work of the tent of meeting. 31 This is what they are responsible to carry as the whole of their service at the tent of meeting:
the supports of the tabernacle, with its crossbars, pillars, and bases, 32 the posts of the surrounding courtyard with their bases, tent pegs, and ropes, including all their equipment and all the work related to them. You are to assign by name the items that they are responsible to carry. 33 This is the service of the Merarite clans regarding all their work at the tent of meeting, under the direction of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest.”

CENSUS OF THE LEVITES

34 So Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of the community registered the Kohathites by their clans and their ancestral families, 35 men from thirty years old to fifty years old, everyone who was qualified for work at the tent of meeting. 36 The men registered by their clans numbered 2,750. 37 These were the registered men of the Kohathite clans, everyone who could serve at the tent of meeting. Moses and Aaron registered them at the LORD’s command through Moses.
38 The Gershonites were registered by their clans and their ancestral families, 39 men from thirty years old to fifty years old, everyone who was qualified for work at the tent of meeting. 40 The men registered by their clans and their ancestral families numbered 2,630. 41 These were the registered men of the Gershonite clans. At the LORD’s command Moses and Aaron registered everyone who could serve at the tent of meeting.
42 The men of the Merarite clans were registered by their clans and their ancestral families, 43 those from thirty years old to fifty years old, everyone who was qualified for work at the tent of meeting. 44 The men registered by their clans numbered 3,200. 45 These were the registered men of the Merarite clans; Moses and Aaron registered them at the LORD’s command through Moses.
46 Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of Israel registered all the Levites by their clans and their ancestral families, 47 from thirty years old to fifty years old, everyone who was qualified to do the work of serving at the tent of meeting and transporting it. 48 Their registered men numbered 8,580. 49 At the LORD’s command they were registered under the direction of Moses, each one according to his work and transportation duty, and his assignment was as the LORD commanded Moses.

4:15 As specified in 3:27-32, the Kohathites were responsible for the tabernacle furnishings, such as the ark, table, and lampstand. These were "most holy objects" (4:4). Though the Kohathites were to transport these objects on poles (vv. 6,8,13) and frames (vv. 10,12), they were neither to touch these objects nor look at them (v. 20), lest they die.

4:46-49 The Levites assigned the preceding tasks were between the ages of thirty and fifty (see also vv. 3,23,30,35,39,43). Each group served under the leadership and guidance of the priests (vv. 15,19,27-28,33) and were registered according to the LORD's command.

ISOLATION OF THE UNCLEAN

5 The LORD instructed Moses: 2 "Command the Israelites to send away anyone from the camp who is afflicted with a skin disease, † anyone who has a discharge, † or anyone who is defiled because of a corpse. †
3 Send away both male or female; send them outside the camp, so that they will not defile their camps where I dwell among them." 4 The Israelites did this, sending them outside the camp. The Israelites did as the LORD instructed Moses.

COMPENSATION FOR WRONGDOING

5 The LORD spoke to Moses: 6 "Tell the Israelites: When a man or woman commits any sin against another, that person acts unfaithfully toward the LORD † and is guilty. † 7 The person is to confess † the sin he has committed. He is to pay full compensation, add a fifth of its value to it, and give it to the individual he has wronged. † 8 But if that individual has no relative † to receive compensation, the compensation goes to the LORD for the priest, along with the atonement ram by which the priest will make atonement for the guilty person. †
9 Every holy contribution the Israelites present to the priest will be his. †

10 Each one’s holy contribution is his to give; what each one gives to the priest will be his.”

THE JEALOUSY RITUAL

11 The LORD spoke to Moses: 12 “Speak to the Israelites and tell them: If any man’s wife goes astray, is unfaithful to him, 13 and sleeps with another, † but it is concealed from her husband, and she is undetected, even though she has defiled herself, since there is no witness against her, and she wasn’t caught in the act; 14 and if a feeling of jealousy † comes over the husband and he becomes jealous because of his wife who has defiled herself — or if a feeling of jealousy comes over him and he becomes jealous of her though she has not defiled herself — 15 then the man is to bring his wife to the priest. He is also to bring an offering for her of two quarts † of barley flour. He is not to pour oil over it or put frankincense on it because it is a grain offering of jealousy, a grain offering for remembrance to draw attention to guilt.

16 “The priest is to bring her forward and have her stand before the LORD. 17 Then the priest is to take holy water in a clay bowl, take some of the dust from the tabernacle floor, and put it in the water. 18 After the priest has the woman stand before the LORD, he is to let down her hair † and place in her hands the grain offering for remembrance, which is the grain offering of jealousy. The priest is to hold the bitter water that brings a curse. 19 The priest will require the woman to take an oath and will say to her, ‘If no man has slept with you, if you have not gone astray and become defiled while under your husband’s authority, be unaffected by this bitter water that brings a curse. 20 But if you have gone astray while under your husband’s authority, if you have defiled yourself and a man other than your husband has slept with you’ — 21 at this point the priest will make the woman take the oath with the sworn curse, and he is to say to her — ‘May the LORD make you into an object of your people’s cursing and swearing when he makes your womb † shrivel and your belly swell. 22 May this water that brings a curse enter your stomach, causing your belly to swell and your womb to shrivel.’

“And the woman will reply, ‘Amen, Amen.’

23 “Then the priest is to write these curses on a scroll and wash them off into the bitter water. 24 He will require the woman to drink the bitter water that brings a curse, and it will enter her to cause bitter suffering. 25 The priest is to take the grain offering of jealousy from the woman, present the offering before the LORD, and bring it to the altar. 26 The priest is to take a handful of the grain offering as a memorial portion † and burn it on the altar. Afterward, he will require the woman to drink the water.

27 "When he makes her drink the water, if she has defiled herself and been unfaithful to her husband, the water that brings a curse will enter her to cause bitter suffering; her belly will swell, and her womb will shrivel. She will become a curse among her people. 28 But if the woman has not defiled herself and is pure, she will be unaffected and will be able to conceive children.
29 "This is the law regarding jealousy when a wife goes astray and defiles herself while under her husband's authority, 30 or when a feeling of jealousy comes over a husband and he becomes jealous of his wife. He is to have the woman stand before the LORD, and the priest will carry out all these instructions for her. 31 The husband will be free of guilt, but that woman will bear her iniquity."

5:2-3 The organization of the Israelite community continued with sending away from the camp all who were unclean with a skin disease (see Lv 12–15), which the Israelites did as the LORD instructed Moses. Skin disease might be contagious but, even more importantly, it represented a defect that was in conflict with the harmony of nature prior to humanity's fall and the holiness of God.

5:5-10 These instructions are similar to those found in Leviticus 6:1-7. Both this passage and the previous one involve the repetition of previous laws to Israel before they leave Mount Sinai.

5:19-28 The rituals described here involve a situation in which there is insufficient evidence for the priest to determine what had really happened. God, however, is just and all-knowing, and the resolution is ultimately left up to him. Even though many laws had already been given, this passage points to Israel's continuing need to rely on God's justice.

THE NAZIRITE VOW

6 The LORD instructed Moses: 2 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them: When a man or woman makes a special vow, a Nazirite vow, † to consecrate himself to the LORD, 3 he is to abstain from wine and beer. †

He must not drink vinegar made from wine or from beer. He must not drink any grape juice or eat fresh grapes or raisins. 4 He is not to eat anything produced by the grapevine, from seeds to skin, during the period of his consecration.

5 "You must not cut his hair † throughout the time of his vow of consecration. He may be holy until the time is completed during which he consecrates himself to the LORD; he is to let the hair of his head grow long. 6 He must not go near a dead body during the time he consecrates himself to the LORD. † 7 He is not to defile himself for his father or mother, or his brother or sister, when they die, while the mark of consecration to his God is on his head. 8 He is holy to the LORD † during the time of consecration.

9 "If someone suddenly dies near him, defiling his consecrated head, he must shave his head on the day of his purification; he is to shave it on the seventh day. † 10 On the eighth day he is to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest at the entrance to the tent of meeting. † 11 The priest is to offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering † to make atonement on behalf of the Nazirite, since he incurred guilt because of the corpse. On that day he is to consecrate his head again. † 12 He is to rededicate his time of consecration to the LORD and to bring a year-old male lamb as a guilt offering. † But do not count the initial period of consecration because it became defiled.

13 "This is the law of the Nazirite: On the day his time of consecration is completed, he is to be brought to the entrance to the tent of meeting. † 14 He is to present an offering to the LORD † of one unblemished year-old male lamb as a burnt offering, one unblemished year-old female lamb as a sin offering, one unblemished ram as a fellowship offering, † 15 along with their grain offerings and drink offerings, † and a basket of unleavened cakes made from fine flour mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers coated with oil. †

16 "The priest is to present these before the LORD and sacrifice the Nazirite's sin offering and burnt offering. 17 He will also offer the ram as a fellowship sacrifice to the LORD, together with the basket of unleavened bread. Then the priest will offer the accompanying grain offering and drink offering.

18 "The Nazirite is to shave his consecrated head at the entrance to the tent of meeting, take the hair from his head, and put it on the fire under the fellowship sacrifice. 19 The priest is to take the boiled shoulder from the ram, one unleavened cake from the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and put them into the hands † of the Nazirite after he has shaved his consecrated head. 20 The priest is to present them as a presentation offering before the LORD. † It is a holy portion for the priest, in addition to the breast of the presentation offering and the thigh of the contribution. † After that, the Nazirite may drink wine.

21 "These are the instructions about the Nazirite who vows his offering to the LORD for his consecration, † in addition to whatever else he can afford; he must fulfill whatever vow he makes in keeping with the instructions for his consecration."

THE PRIESTLY BLESSING

22 The LORD spoke to Moses: 23 "Tell Aaron and his sons, 'This is how you are to bless the Israelites. You should say to them, 24 "May the LORD bless you and protect you; †

25 may the LORD make his face shine on you and be gracious to you; † 26 may the LORD look with favor on you † and give you peace." ' †

27 In this way they will pronounce my name over † the Israelites, and I will bless them."

6:1-21 Though only the priests and Levites were set apart for tabernacle service, these instructions concerning a Nazirite vow demonstrate that any Israelite, man or woman, could consecrate themselves to God (see also Ex 19:6) for a special service. Such consecration involved abstaining from several things: alcoholic drinks, grapes and grape products, cutting one's hair, and becoming unclean through being in the presence of a corpse—even that of a family member. The prohibition against alcohol is similar to what had been said earlier to priests (Lv 10:9). The prohibition against being in the presence of the corpse of a deceased immediate family member had been required only of the high priest (Lv 21:10-11). A Nazirite's uncut hair served as an outward sign of his time of consecration and was cut off when that period ended. The seriousness and binding nature of the Nazirite vow is indicated by the fact that even if it were violated unintentionally, the person making the vow would have to start his period of consecration all over again (vv. 9-12).

6:22-27 The oft-cited blessing in verses 24-26 is found in a context that expresses God's desire to bless Israel and to do so through the priests.

OFFERINGS FROM THE LEADERS

7 On the day Moses finished setting up the tabernacle, † he anointed and consecrated it and all its furnishings, along with the altar and all its utensils. After he anointed and consecrated these things, 2 the leaders of Israel, the heads of their ancestral families, † presented an offering. They were the tribal leaders who supervised the registration. † 3 They brought as their offering before the LORD six covered carts and twelve oxen, a cart from every two leaders and an ox from each one, and presented them in front of the tabernacle.

4 The LORD said to Moses, 5 "Accept these from them to be used in the work of the tent of meeting, and give this offering to the Levites, to each division according to their service."

6 So Moses took the carts and oxen and gave them to the Levites. 7 He gave the Gershonites two carts and four oxen corresponding to their service, † 8 and gave the Merarites four carts and eight oxen corresponding to their service, † under the direction of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest. 9 But he did not give any to the Kohathites, since their responsibility was service related to the holy objects † carried on their shoulders. †

10 The leaders also presented the dedication gift for the altar when it was anointed. † The leaders presented their offerings in front of the altar. 11 The LORD told Moses, "Each day have one leader present his offering for the dedication of the altar." †

12 The one who presented his offering on the first day was Nahshon son of Amminadab † from the tribe of Judah. 13 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds † and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, † measured by the standard sanctuary shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; † 14 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, † full of incense; 15 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; † 16 one male goat for a sin offering; † 17 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. †

This was the offering of Nahshon son of Amminadab.
18 On the second day Nethanel son of Zuar, † leader of Issachar, presented an offering. 19 As his offering, he presented one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 20 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 21 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 22 one male goat for a sin offering; 23 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Nethanel son of Zuar.
24 On the third day Eliab son of Helon, † leader of the Zebulunites, presented an offering. 25 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 26 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 27 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 28 one male goat for a sin offering;
29 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Eliab son of Helon.
30 On the fourth day Elizur son of Shedeur, † leader of the Reubenites, presented an offering. 31 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds
and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary
shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 32 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 33 one young bull, one ram,
and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 34 one male goat for a sin
offering; 35 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Elizur son of Shedeur.
36 On the fifth day Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai, † leader of the Simeonites, presented an offering. 37 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds
and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary
shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 38 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 39 one young bull, one ram,
and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 40 one male goat for a sin

offering; 41 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai.
42 On the sixth day Eliasaph son of Deuel, † † leader of the Gadites, presented an offering. 43 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 44 one gold bowl weighing four ounces full of incense; 45 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 46 one male goat for a sin offering;
47 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Eliasaph son of Deuel. † 48 On the seventh day Elishama son of Ammihud, † leader of the Ephraimites, presented an offering. 49 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds
and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary
shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 50 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 51 one young bull, one ram,
and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 52 one male goat for a sin
offering; 53 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Elishama son of Ammihud.
54 On the eighth day Gamaliel son of Pedahzur, † leader of the Manassites, presented an offering. 55 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds
and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary
shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 56 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 57 one young bull, one ram,
and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 58 one male goat for a sin
offering; 59 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Gamaliel son of Pedahzur.
60 On the ninth day Abidan son of Gideoni, † leader of the Benjaminites, presented an offering. 61 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds
and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary
shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 62 one

gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 63 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 64 one male goat for a sin
offering; 65 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Abidan son of Gideoni.
66 On the tenth day Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai, † leader of the Danites, presented an offering. 67 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds
and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary
shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 68 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 69 one young bull, one ram,
and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 70 one male goat for a sin
offering; 71 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai.
72 On the eleventh day Pagiel son of Ochran, † leader of the Asherites, presented an offering. 73 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds
and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary
shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 74 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 75 one young bull, one ram,
and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 76 one male goat for a sin
offering; 77 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Pagiel son of Ochran.
78 On the twelfth day Ahira son of Enan, † leader of the Naphtalites, presented an offering. 79 His offering was one silver dish weighing 3 1/4 pounds and one silver basin weighing 1 3/4 pounds, measured by the standard sanctuary shekel,
both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering; 80 one gold bowl weighing four ounces, full of incense; 81 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb a year old, for a burnt offering; 82 one male goat for a sin offering; 83 and two bulls, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs a year old, for the fellowship sacrifice. This was the offering of Ahira son of Enan.
84 This was the dedication gift from the leaders of Israel for the altar when it was anointed: † twelve silver dishes, twelve silver basins, and twelve gold bowls. 85 Each silver dish weighed 3 1/4 pounds, † and each basin 1 3/4 pounds. † The total weight of the silver articles was 60 pounds † measured by the standard sanctuary shekel. 86 The twelve gold bowls full of incense each weighed four ounces measured by the standard sanctuary shekel. The total weight of the gold bowls was 3 pounds. † 87 All the livestock for the burnt offering † totaled twelve bulls, twelve rams, and twelve male lambs a year old, with their grain offerings, and twelve male goats for the sin offering. † 88 All the livestock for the fellowship sacrifice † totaled twenty-four bulls, sixty rams, sixty male goats, and sixty male lambs a year old. This was the dedication gift for the altar after it was anointed.

89 When Moses entered the tent of meeting to speak with the LORD, he heard the voice speaking to him † from above the mercy seat that was on the ark of the testimony, from between the two cherubim. † He spoke to him that way.

7:1-3 The offerings brought by the leaders of Israel were given in connection with the completion of the tabernacle (see Ex 40:2,17). They brought carts and oxen (v. 3) that were used by the Levites to transport some of the articles of the tabernacle (vv. 4-9). They also each brought an "offering for the dedication of the altar" on successive days (vv. 10-11).

7:12 The order in which these offerings were presented reflects the order in which Israel was to leave camp (2:3-31); it gave prominence to the tribe of Judah (see the note on 2:3-9).

7:89 This verse probably describes what generally happened when Moses entered the tent of meeting to speak with the LORD. The Hebrew syntax here does not imply a chronological sequence following the previous verse and the completion of the "dedication gift for the altar." That God spoke to him from above the mercy seat that was on the ark was exactly what God had promised Moses earlier in Exodus 25:22. This was the place that God's glory and presence were particularly manifested in the camp. Before the tabernacle was built, God spoke with Moses in another tent (see the note on Ex 33:7-11).

THE LIGHTING IN THE TABERNACLE

8 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Speak to Aaron and tell him: When you set up the lamps, the seven lamps are to give light in front of the lampstand.” 3 So Aaron did this; he set up its lamps to give light in front of the lampstand just as the LORD had commanded Moses. 4 This is the way the lampstand was made: it was a hammered work of gold, hammered from its base to its flower petals. The lampstand was made according to the pattern the LORD had shown Moses. †

CONSECRATION OF THE LEVITES

5 The LORD spoke to Moses: 6 “Take the Levites from among the Israelites and ceremonially cleanse them. 7 Do this to them for their purification: Sprinkle them with the purification water. † Have them shave their entire bodies and wash their clothes, and so purify themselves. †

8 “They are to take a young bull and its grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, and you are to take a second young bull for a sin offering. 9 Bring the Levites before the tent of meeting and assemble the entire Israelite community. † 10 Then present the Levites before the LORD, and have the Israelites lay their hands on them. 11 Aaron is to present the Levites before the LORD as a presentation offering from the Israelites, so that they may perform the LORD’s work. † 12 Next the Levites are to lay their hands on the heads of the bulls. Sacrifice one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering to the LORD, to make atonement for the Levites. †

13 “You are to have the Levites stand before Aaron and his sons, and you are to present them before the LORD as a presentation offering. 14 In this way you are to separate the Levites from the rest of the Israelites so that the Levites will belong to me. † 15 After that the Levites may come to serve at the tent of meeting, once you have ceremonially cleansed them and presented them as a presentation offering. † 16 For they have been exclusively assigned to me from the Israelites. † I have taken them for myself in place of all who come first from the womb, every Israelite firstborn. † 17 For every firstborn among the Israelites is mine, both man and animal. I consecrated them to myself † on the day I struck down every firstborn in the land of Egypt. 18 But I have taken the Levites in place of every firstborn among the Israelites. 19 From the Israelites, I have given the Levites exclusively to Aaron and his sons to perform the work for the Israelites at the tent of meeting and to make atonement on their behalf, so that no plague will come against the Israelites when they approach the sanctuary.” †

20 Moses, Aaron, and the entire Israelite community did this to the Levites. The Israelites did everything to them the LORD commanded Moses regarding the Levites. 21 The Levites purified themselves and washed their clothes; then Aaron presented † them before the LORD as a presentation offering. Aaron also made atonement for them to cleanse them ceremonially. 22 After that, the Levites came to do their work at the tent of meeting in the presence of Aaron and his sons. So they did to them as the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites.
23 The LORD spoke to Moses: 24 “In regard to the Levites: From twenty-five years old or more, a man enters the service in the work at the tent of meeting. †
25 But at fifty years old he is to retire from his service in the work and no longer serve.

A BIBLICAL VIEW OF RETIREMENT

Many competing ideas about retirement exist. In Western civilization, retirement has become an entitlement. In recent years, the French have rioted over pushing the retirement age from sixty to sixty-two. In Greece, similar riots occurred when the retirement age was adjusted from fifty-five to sixty-five. One can study the history of retirement in the Industrial Age, but as believers, we need to ask ourselves, “What does the Bible say about this matter?” Is our modern concept of retirement biblical?

The word retire comes from the combination of two French words: re, meaning “back” and tire, meaning “draw”. Therefore, the word has several shades of meaning: 1. to withdraw, as for rest or seclusion 2. to go to bed
3. to withdraw from one’s occupation, business, or office; stop working 4. to fall back or retreat, as from battle 5. to move back or away; recede.

Retirement, therefore, is the act of withdrawing from use or active service. As in the case of bonds, it means to take out of circulation. When we think about retirement today, the picture is that of ceasing to work at some predetermined statutory age.

RETIREMENT IN THE BIBLE

In only one place in the Bible is there a hint at mandatory retirement age. It has to do with the Levites serving in the tabernacle*:* “In regard to the Levites: From twenty-five years old or more, a man enters the service in the work at the tent of meeting. But at fifty years old he is to retire from his service in the work and no longer serve. He may assist his brothers to fulfill responsibilities at the tent of meeting, but he must not do the work. This is how you are to deal with the Levites regarding their duties" (Nm 8:24-26). Considering the context of this passage, we see that the work of making burnt offerings was physically taxing and is therefore probably the reason for the age limitation. Note, however, that the retired Levites were still to help their brothers fulfill their responsibilities at the tent of meeting.

RETIREMENT AND GOD'S PLAN

As we think about retirement, it is important to see the work God has given us as part of the fulfillment of his plan for us. The Bible is full of people who never "retired" from serving God. Abraham was called of God to begin a great journey at seventy-five years old. Moses began his work as liberator at age eighty, and Caleb still had fire in the belly when he said, You know what the LORD promised Moses the man of God at Kadesh-barnea about you and me. I was forty years old when Moses the LORD'S servant sent me from Kadesh-barnea to scout the land, and I brought back an honest report. My brothers who went with me caused the people to lose heart, but I followed the LORD my God completely. On that day Moses swore to me: 'The land where you have set foot will be an inheritance for you and your descendants forever, because you have followed the LORD my God completely.' As you see, the LORD has kept me alive these forty-five years as he promised, since the LORD spoke this word to Moses while Israel was journeying in the wilderness. Here I am today, eighty-five years old. I am still as strong today as I was the day Moses sent me out. My strength for battle and for daily tasks is now as it was then. Now give me this hill country the LORD promised me on that day, because you heard then that the Anakim are there, as well as large fortified cities. Perhaps the LORD will be with me and I will drive them out as the LORD promised. (Jos 14:6-12) Furthermore, Anna still served God night and day in the temple at age eighty-four (Lk 2:37), and Simeon would not see death until he had seen the Lord's Christ. All of these saints had one thing in common: they knew service to God was a lifelong privilege that would continue until they drew their last breaths.

RETIREMENT AND PLANNING

The problem we face regarding retirement from income-earning labor is stated best by Isaac when he said to his son Esau, "Look, I am old and do not know the day of my death" (Gn 27:2). None of us know how long we will live. Therefore, we may need to work for as long as we are physically able. Since few of us have an extended family of hunters and goat herders, we will have to rely on savings, investments, and family members for our survival when we can no longer earn an income.

This issue is brought into sharper focus by The 100 Man Story. It was compiled by the Department of Health and Human Services. It found that for every 100 people in the work force, • Roughly sixteen do not live to reach age sixty-five.

- Sixty-six who do reach age sixty-five and have incomes at or below $20,000 annually are forced by circumstance to become dependent on their children, government, or charity or continue working in some capacity beyond age sixty-five.
- Fourteen will have income in excess of $30,000, giving them the ability to be financially independent. Unfortunately, $30,000 per annum does not provide a comfortable quality of life.
- Only four people have an income in excess of $50,000 annually, which makes them financially independent and "successful" as far as finances go. Some argue that the number would have to be much larger than $50,000 annually in order to maintain the current standard of living of many individuals (Social Security Administration, Office of Research and Statistics, April 2000).

Think about the United States as it relates to the rest of the world. We are rich, and much of the world is in abject poverty by comparison. The majority of the world's population, in fact, cannot in any way conceive of retirement—and that has been true throughout history. Perhaps this is the reason for the Lord's command to honor one's father and mother (Ex 20:12). The word honor means not only to show them the respect that they are due, but to provide for them materially when they are old and in distress. This is why Jesus called out the Pharisees and scribes on this issue. "For God said: Honor your father and your mother; and,

Whoever speaks evil of father or mother must be put to death. But you say, 'Whoever tells his father or mother, "Whatever benefit you might have received from me is a gift committed to the temple," he does not have to honor his father.' In this way, you have nullified the word of God because of your tradition" (Mt 15:4-6). In other words, the son would say to a parent in need, "I would like to help you, but all of my money is dedicated to God's work." This is illegitimate, says Jesus.

Another issue that complicates retirement is the matter of inflation. We never know what the value of money or our medium of exchange will be in the future. At some point, there may be a dramatic increase in the cost of daily bread. The rise of dictators and the instability of governments always give rise to inflation. So, our paper investments and our currency could become worthless overnight. This is another good reason not to stop working while we are still able to earn.

One final aspect is important as we develop the proper Christian worldview of retirement. Retirement is never to be devoted solely to the pursuit of pleasure (1Tm 5:3-16). Make everlasting use, therefore, of the time you are given (Col 4:5). And with this in mind, continue to walk in the company of our great senior saints who have served the Lord all the days of their long lives, and give them new opportunities to do so.

8:1-7 Perhaps during one of the times in which Moses went into the tabernacle to speak with God, the Lord instructed him about the setting up and lighting of the lampstand and the purification of the Levites (vv. 5-19). Instructions concerning the making of the lampstand had already been given and fulfilled (Ex 25:31-39; 37:17:24), but here more instructions for its lighting are given. The Levites had been taken by God "in place of every firstborn among the Israelites" (v. 18; see also 3:41), and here they are being consecrated like the priests (Lv 8–9).

THE SECOND PASSOVER

9 In the first month of the second year after their departure from the land of Egypt, the LORD told Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai: † 2 "The Israelites are to observe the Passover at its appointed time. † 3 You must observe it at its appointed time on the fourteenth day of this month at twilight; you are to observe it according to all its statutes and ordinances." † 4 So Moses told the Israelites to observe the Passover, 5 and they observed it in the first month on the fourteenth day at twilight in the Wilderness of Sinai. The Israelites did everything as the LORD had commanded Moses.

6 But there were some men who were unclean because of a human corpse, so they could not observe the Passover on that day. † These men came before Moses and Aaron the same day 7 and said to him, “We are unclean because of a human corpse. Why should we be excluded from presenting the LORD’s offering at its appointed time with the other Israelites? ” 8 Moses replied to them, “Wait here until I hear what the LORD commands for you.”
9 Then the LORD spoke to Moses: 10 “Tell the Israelites: When any one of you or your descendants is unclean because of a corpse † or is on a distant journey, he may still observe the Passover to the LORD. 11 Such people are to observe it in the second month, on the fourteenth day at twilight. They are to eat the animal with unleavened bread and bitter herbs; † 12 they may not leave any of it until morning or break any of its bones. † They must observe the Passover according to all its statutes.
13 “But the man who is ceremonially clean, is not on a journey, and yet fails to observe the Passover is to be cut off from his people, because he did not present the LORD’s offering at its appointed time. That man will bear the consequences of his sin.
14 “If an alien resides with you and wants to observe the Passover to the LORD, † he is to do it according to the Passover statute and its ordinances. You are to apply the same statute to both the resident alien and the native of the land.” †

GUIDANCE BY THE CLOUD

15 On the day the tabernacle was set up, the cloud covered the tabernacle, the tent of the testimony, † and it appeared like fire above the tabernacle from evening until morning. 16 It remained that way continuously: the cloud would cover it, † appearing like fire at night. † 17 Whenever the cloud was lifted up above the tent, the Israelites would set out; at the place where the cloud stopped, there the Israelites camped. † 18 At the LORD’s command the Israelites set out, and at the LORD’s command they camped. As long as the cloud stayed over the tabernacle, they camped.

19 Even when the cloud stayed over the tabernacle many days, the Israelites carried out the LORD's requirement and did not set out. 20 Sometimes the cloud remained over the tabernacle for only a few days. They would camp at the LORD's command and set out at the LORD's command. 21 Sometimes the cloud remained only from evening until morning; when the cloud lifted in the morning, they set out. Or if it remained a day and a night, they moved out when the cloud lifted. 22 Whether it was two days, a month, or longer, † the Israelites camped and did not set out as long as the cloud stayed over the tabernacle. But when it was lifted, they set out. 23 They camped at the LORD's command, and they set out at the LORD's command. They carried out the LORD's requirement according to his command through Moses.

9:1-5 The narrative of Numbers is not told in strict chronological order. The celebration of the second Passover during the first month of the second year actually took place before the aforementioned census, which took place during "the second month of the second year" (1:1). They kept the Passover as the LORD had commanded Moses (see also Ex 12).

9:6-13 As was the case in Leviticus 24:10-16, Moses encountered a situation concerning which the existing laws did not give clear guidance. Some men could not keep the Passover because they had become unclean because of a human corpse, but they still wanted to participate somehow. As he did previously (Lv 24:12), Moses sought guidance from God. The Lord's response was to allow those who were unclean because of a corpse or . . . on a distant journey to celebrate the Passover one month later, in the second month, on the fourteenth day. Thus, although the application of the law was strict at times (e.g., 3:46-47; 15:32-36), this incident demonstrates that such was not always the case (see also the notes on Lv 10:16-20 and 1Sm 21:3-6). The Lord took into account the circumstances of the situation and made an exception for these men and others in the future who legitimately could not keep the Passover on the originally prescribed date. Nevertheless, anyone who is ceremonially clean, is not on a journey, and yet fails to observe the Passover is to be cut off from his people.

9:15-23 The pillar of cloud and of fire had gone before the Israelites when they were leaving Egypt (Ex 13:21-22) and had also served as a protective barrier from the pursuing Egyptians (Ex 14:19-20). The cloud had settled on the tabernacle after its completion (see also Ex 40:35). These verses appropriately describe the role of the pillar of cloud and of fire in guiding the Israelites from place to place throughout the wilderness (see also Ex 40:36-38). This passage emphasizes the authority of God and the constant trust Israel was to place in his guidance during their wilderness travels.

TWO SILVER TRUMPETS

10 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Make two trumpets of hammered silver to summon the community † and have the camps set out. 3 When both are sounded in long blasts, the entire community is to gather before you at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 4 However, if one is sounded, only the leaders, the heads of Israel's clans, † are to gather before you.

5 "When you sound short blasts, the camps pitched on the east † are to set out. 6 When you sound short blasts a second time, the camps pitched on the south † are to set out. Short blasts are to be sounded for them to set out. 7 When calling the assembly together, you are to sound long blasts, not short ones. 8 The sons of Aaron, the priests, are to sound the trumpets. Your use of these is a permanent statute throughout your generations.

9 "When you enter into battle in your land against an adversary who is attacking you, sound short blasts on the trumpets, and you will be remembered before the LORD your God and be saved from your enemies. † 10 You are to sound the trumpets over your burnt offerings and your fellowship sacrifices and on your joyous occasions, your appointed festivals, and the beginning of each of your months. They will serve as a reminder for you before your God: I am the LORD your God." †

FROM SINAI TO PARAN

11 During the second year, in the second month on the twentieth day of the month, the cloud was lifted up above the tabernacle of the testimony. 12 The Israelites traveled on from the Wilderness of Sinai, moving from one place to the next † until the cloud stopped in the Wilderness of Paran. †

FORMS OF MEDIA AND RESISTING THE SPIRIT OF THE AGE

One way of understanding the history of God's people is recognizing that it is the ongoing narrative of the tension between the Spirit of the Lord and the spirit of the age. And the spirit of the age, or zeitgeist, is in many ways the unintended effect of new media.

Regardless of geographic location or historical time period, the people of God have largely been characterized by having the courage necessary to stand up to the forces of the majority, for the individual to stand against the many, and for the weak to stand against the strong and to know the outcome is in God's hands. This pattern is revealed in many of the major events in the history of God's people that are recorded in Scripture as well as in subsequent Christian history. We see this in Abraham's standing against his father's ways, leaving his father's land, and heading west to Canaan (Gn 12). We see it in Moses standing up against the pharaoh and leading his people out of Egypt. We see it in Jesus Christ's inability to compromise with the Pharisees and Sadducees and in his courage in standing up against the Roman Empire when on trial before Pontius Pilate.

A significant aspect of this tension is that in each case where the people of God stand up against the spirit of the age, there is simultaneously a change in how they perceive and use media forms for acceptable uses toward the good, the true, and the beautiful. Thus, the media that create the plausibility of perception are themselves an intricate part of the history of God's people.

A brief walk through some of these key moments will be helpful in understanding how a change in the religious practices of God's people is often inseparable from a change in media form or media usage. How changes in media form and religious practices later shaped the culture where these events took place can help us to understand our own places and purposes in today's cultural context.

OLD TESTAMENT EXAMPLES

When, at age seventy-five, Abraham declared he would never again worship gods made by human hands, he exchanged the medium of wood and stone (the previous media used for making idols, cp. Dt 4:28-29) for the intangible God. He exchanged man-made forms for formlessness, declaring God to be of the Spirit.

For the worshipers at the tabernacle, God said, "I will meet you there above the mercy seat, between the two cherubim that are over the ark of the testimony; I will speak with you from there" (Ex 25:22). Thus, God's own decree to man was that he should meet him in a prescribed visual space that was itself empty—what art historians call "negative space," the hidden ground between two other figures. Perceiving God as Spirit when coming out of such an idolatrous culture must have taken an impressive act of the imagination, and the concept was something that Jesus Christ would have to remind the people of God about several centuries later.

When Moses led his people out of Egypt, he simultaneously crafted for them a new identity by receiving the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai, which archaeologists and biblical scholars claim is a reasonable location for the Proto-Sinaitic script, the earliest precursor to the Hebrew phonetic alphabet. This suggests that as part and parcel of making a new people group, Moses had to give them a new communication form to supplant the previous hieroglyphic writing system they would have labored under in Egypt.

In symbolic communication terms, they exchanged a pictographic (logographic and ideographic) writing system for an abstract phonetic writing system, one in which the shape of the letters no longer resembled the things they represented. Instead, letters were symbolic of basic sounds that the human mouth could make. When combined, these would make meaningful words. This was a huge advance, as it was an improvement in the media. It displaced over five thousand Egyptian hieroglyphic symbols with just twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet. This media change represented not merely a massive increase in efficiency for learning the old system. It also introduced the possibility for culture-wide literacy for the first time in recorded history. Even the term hieroglyphics is telling in this regard, as it originally meant "sacred carvings" or "priestly writing"—which should be understood not so much as the writings that priests do, but as indicative of the knowledge monopoly that literacy represented: only readers and writers of this complex code could become priests under the Egyptian system. So in exchanging this pictographic writing system for a phonetic writing system, it is no wonder that the second commandment of the Hebrew Decalogue declares, effectively, that henceforth pictographic symbols be banned.

Moses exchanged pictures for words. As a result, the Israelites were born as a new people and the rule of law was established. But the phonetic alphabet created a hardening of the categories, allowing 613 Mosaic laws to be created and leading the Pharisees and Sadducees to compete with one another over a definition of righteousness that equated keeping as many of these laws as possible with pleasing God. This gave birth to what would later be termed legalism.

NEW TESTAMENT EXAMPLES

When Jesus Christ came into the world, he was the Word who preached the Word and healed the sick, traveling around Israel with his followers and greatly upsetting the religious establishment of Judaism. Paradoxically, though we know about him from Scripture, Jesus never wrote anything down (at least as far as penning Scripture is concerned), never commanded his followers to write anything down, and never had among his disciples a designated secretary or epistle-writer. The closest he had to this was an accountant, or money-handler: Judas Iscariot.

So one of the most incredible questions that the Gospels presents us with is how could the man-God Christ be sure that his message would spread if he did not insure its inscription into an existing cultural medium? How did he place such confidence in word-of-mouth transmission of his acts, good deeds, and sermons? And why did he tell some of his patients, whom he had miraculously healed, to go and tell no one what the Lord had done (see Mk 7:36)?

That is a complex and endlessly fascinating question, but at least some part of the answer can be had in understanding that what Christ brought into the world was a readjustment of the imbalance between the spoken and written word. He clearly favored the living word as spoken in the moment as his preferred medium of transmission, even as he honored the OT with his many references to what “is written.” He said that “an hour is coming, and is now here, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in Spirit and in truth. Yes, the Father wants such people to worship him” (Jn 4:23).

Perhaps we see Christ utilizing the power of the medium of speech against the excesses of the power of the written word best when he frees the woman caught in adultery in John 8:1-11. In this astonishing legal case, Jesus frees her from the judgment of the written law by orally delivering an if-then clause to the judge, jury, and executioners. “All right,” he says in effect, agreeing with the validity and authority of the written law, “but let the one who has not sinned throw the first stone!” Interestingly, this is the only event recorded in Scripture in which Christ himself does any writing, and it is in the dust; we have no idea what he wrote. This is significant because it makes clear that Jesus Christ is both fully educated and fully literate, yet he chooses not to make writing an emphasis of his ministry. When the judge, jury, and executioners all leave the scene, what is left is effectively a mistrial (in which the trial is rendered invalid because of errors in the proceedings). Nevertheless, Jesus does not, even at this point, dismiss the serious nature of the accused’s sin. Instead, he says with a perfect balance of justice and mercy, “Neither do I condemn you . . . Go, and from now on do not sin anymore” (v. 11). As a legal analysis of the case would show, this rhetorically perfect use of the spoken word to disrupt the otherwise deadly effect of the written law is only handled safely by the One whose heart is perfectly loving, yet who knows that the hearts of men are evil and lead them to cite the law to achieve their own purposes (which, in this case, was to entrap Jesus).

In his teachings, Christ seems to have consistently reminded his followers and adversaries of the power of the present, living, breathing word of the speaker as a formidable power against the dead hand of the written law. Perhaps this helps explain what Paul later meant when he said that the letter of the law kills, but the spirit of the law gives life (cp. 2Co 3:6) CONCLUSION

This pattern of God’s people following his will and concurrently changing their media habits runs throughout history. We see a media reformation in Martin Luther’s ability to stand up to the abuses of the Roman Catholic Church at the time of his 95 Theses. And today, in the digital age, where all our communication and social media leads to physical distance between even the closest writer and speaker, we see that Christians are called to be the presence of Christ in an age of absence. In this and many other ways, we see that attention to the Spirit of the Lord must also include attention to the details of how media effects can transform our perceptions, our thoughts, and our cultures.

10:11-13 This marks Israel’s departure from Mount Sinai in the second year, in the second month on the twentieth day of the month. They set out for the first time in orderly fashion (vv. 14-28), as God had prescribed earlier (see Nm 2). The Israelites’ stay at Mount Sinai had lasted almost one year (Ex 19:1).

10:29-34 Just as the last passage before Israel arrived at Mount Sinai involved Moses and his father-in-law Reuel (called Jethro in Ex 18), so the first passage after Israel left Mount Sinai involved an interaction between Moses and Hobab, descendant of Reuel the Midianite and Moses’s relative by marriage. There is some ambiguity in the Hebrew text here as to whether Moses’s father-in-law Jethro/Reuel also had the name Hobab (see Ex 2:18; Jdg 4:11). In Exodus 18:14-23, the father-in-law corrected Moses for attempting to handle all of Israel’s disputes. In the present passage, Moses wanted Hobab to travel with Israel as their guide in the wilderness. Both passages show Moses’s wisdom in a certain area to be inferior to that of a non-Israelite relative.

COMPLAINTS ABOUT HARDSHIP

11 Now the people began complaining openly before † the LORD about hardship. When the LORD heard, his anger burned, † and fire † from the LORD blazed among them and consumed the outskirts of the camp. 2 Then the people cried out to Moses, and he prayed to the LORD, and the fire died down. 3 So that place was named Taberah, † † because the LORD's fire had blazed among them.

COMPLAINTS ABOUT FOOD

4 The riffraff † among them † had a strong craving † for other food. The Israelites wept again and said, "Who will feed us meat? 5 We remember the free fish we ate in Egypt, † along with the cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions, and garlic. 6 But now our appetite is gone; † there's nothing to look at but this manna! "

7 The manna † resembled coriander seed, and its appearance was like that of bdellium. † 8 The people walked around and gathered it. They ground it on a pair of grinding stones or crushed it in a mortar, then boiled it in a cooking pot and shaped it into cakes. It tasted like a pastry cooked with the finest oil. 9 When the dew fell on the camp at night, the manna would fall with it. †

10 Moses heard the people, family after family, weeping at the entrance of their tents. The LORD was very angry; † Moses was also provoked. † 11 So Moses asked the LORD, "Why have you brought such trouble on your servant? Why are you angry with me, † and why do you burden me with all these people? † 12 Did I conceive all these people? Did I give them birth so you should tell me, 'Carry them at your breast, as a nanny carries a baby,' † to the land that you swore to give their fathers? † 13 Where can I get meat to give all these people? For they are weeping to me, 'Give us meat to eat! ' 14 I can't carry all these people by myself. They are too much for me. 15 If you are going to treat me like this, please kill me right now † if I have found favor with you, and † don't let me see my misery † anymore."

SEVENTY ELDERS ANOINTED

16 The LORD answered Moses, "Bring me seventy men from Israel known to you as elders and officers of the people. Take them to the tent of meeting and have them stand there with you. 17 Then I will come down and speak with you there. I will take some of the Spirit who is on you and put the Spirit on them. † They will help you bear the burden of the people, so that you do not have to bear it by yourself. †

18 “Tell the people: Consecrate yourselves in readiness for tomorrow, and you will eat meat because you wept in the LORD’s hearing, ‘Who will feed us meat? We were better off in Egypt.’ The LORD will give you meat and you will eat. 19 You will eat, not for one day, or two days, or five days, or ten days, or twenty days, 20 but for a whole month — until it comes out of your nostrils and becomes nauseating to you — because you have rejected the LORD who is among you, and wept before him: ‘Why did we ever leave Egypt? ’ ” †

21 But Moses replied, “I’m in the middle of a people with six hundred thousand foot soldiers, † yet you say, ‘I will give them meat, and they will eat for a month.’ 22 If flocks and herds were slaughtered for them, would they have enough? Or if all the fish in the sea were caught for them, would they have enough? ” †

23 The LORD answered Moses, “Is the LORD’s arm weak? † † Now you will see whether or not what I have promised will happen to you.”

24 Moses went out and told the people the words of the LORD. He brought seventy men from the elders of the people and had them stand around the tent. 25 Then the LORD descended in the cloud and spoke to him. † He took some of the Spirit that was on Moses and placed the Spirit on the seventy elders. As the Spirit rested on them, they prophesied, † but they never did it again. 26 Two men had remained in the camp, one named Eldad and the other Medad; the Spirit rested on them — they were among those listed, but had not gone out to the tent — and they prophesied in the camp. 27 A young man ran and reported to Moses, “Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp.”

28 Joshua son of Nun, assistant to Moses since his youth, † responded, “Moses, my lord, stop them! ”

29 But Moses asked him, “Are you jealous on my account? † If only all the LORD’s people were prophets and the LORD would place his Spirit on them! ”
30 Then Moses returned to the camp along with the elders of Israel.

QUAIL IN THE CAMP

31 A wind sent by the LORD † came up and blew quail in from the sea; it dropped them all around the camp. They were flying three feet † off † the ground for about a day's journey in every direction. † 32 The people were up all that day and night and all the next day gathering the quail — the one who took the least gathered fifty bushels † — and they spread them out all around the camp. † †
33 While the meat was still between their teeth, before it was chewed, the LORD's anger burned † against the people, and the LORD struck them with a very severe plague. † 34 So they named that place Kibroth-hattaavah, † because there they buried the people who had craved the meat.
35 From Kibroth-hattaavah the people moved on to Hazeroth † † and remained there.

11:1-3 Though the Israelites had received many laws from God at Mount Sinai, their subsequent journey demonstrated that their hearts remained unchanged. Just as they had complained on the way to Mount Sinai (Ex 15:24; 16:2,7-9; 17:3), so on their way from there the people began complaining openly before the LORD (see also 14:2,27,29,36; 16:11,41; 17:5). The consequences of their complaining, however, grew more severe—God's anger burned and fire from the LORD . . . consumed the outskirts of the camp (see also Lv 10:2). This ceased only through Moses's intercession.

11:4-15 As before, the Israelites complained about their food and expressed longing for what they ate in Egypt (see Ex 16:2-3). This angered both God and Moses, and Moses was especially weary of the burden of leading the Israelites—so much so that he did not want to continue any longer. Moses's need for help in verse 14 (They are too much for me) revisits an earlier theme (see Ex 4:10; 17:12; 18:14-18).

11:16-17,24-29 The Lord granted Moses the help he implicitly requested (vv. 11-15) by putting his Spirit on seventy Israelite elders. Their role was to help Moses bear the burden of the people, so that he would not have to bear it alone. Thus, God's provision for an overworked Moses was a group of Spirit-empowered elders to help carry out the responsibilities of leading Israel (see also Ac 6:1-4; Ti 2:5). Moses's response to the prophesying of Eldad and Medad expressed his desire for the placing of God's Spirit on all the LORD's people.

11:18-20,33-34 The Israelites were tired of eating manna and craved meat (vv. 4-6). The Lord granted their request and simultaneously punished them by giving them meat for a whole month—until it . . . [became] nauseating (see also Ps 78:29-31). Their complaint amounted to a rejection of God (v. 20). His anger burned against the people, and he struck them with a very severe plague (see also Ps 106:14-15).

MIRIAM AND AARON REBEL

12 Miriam † and Aaron criticized Moses because of the Cushite woman he married (for he had married a Cushite woman). 2 They said, "Does the LORD speak only through Moses? Does he not also speak through us? " And the LORD heard it. 3 Moses was a very humble man, more so than anyone on the face of the earth.
4 Suddenly the LORD said to Moses, Aaron, and Miriam, "You three come out to the tent of meeting." So the three of them went out. 5 Then the LORD descended in a pillar of cloud, † stood at the entrance to the tent, and summoned Aaron and Miriam. When the two of them came forward, 6 he said:

"Listen to what I say:
If there is a prophet among you from the LORD, I make myself known to him in a vision; †
I speak with him in a dream.
7 Not so with my servant Moses; he is faithful in † all my household. † 8 I speak with him † directly, † openly, and not in riddles;
he sees the form of the LORD. †

So why were you not afraid to speak against my servant Moses? " 9 The LORD's anger burned against them, † and he left.
10 As the cloud moved away from the tent, Miriam's skin suddenly became diseased, resembling snow. † When Aaron turned toward her, he saw that she was diseased 11 and said to Moses, "My lord, please don't hold against us this sin we have so foolishly committed. 12 Please don't let her be like a dead baby † whose flesh is half eaten away when he comes out of his mother's womb."

13 Then Moses cried out to the LORD, "God, please heal her! " †

14 The LORD answered Moses, "If her father had merely spit in her face, wouldn't she remain in disgrace for seven days? Let her be confined outside the camp † for seven days; † after that she may be brought back in." 15 So Miriam was confined outside the camp for seven days, and the people did not move on until Miriam was brought back in. † 16 After that, the people set out from Hazeroth and camped in the Wilderness of Paran.

12:1-2 Israel's rebellions following their departure from Mount Sinai continue. This time Moses's siblings, Miriam and Aaron, criticize Moses for his marriage to a Cushite woman. It is uncertain whether this woman was Zipporah or a second wife, but the challenge was probably not based on ethnicity. Foreigners were welcome in the community of Israel and could enter God's covenant relationship and even celebrate the Passover (see 9:14). Likely the objection came down to a challenge of Moses's authority and the siblings' bid for more power for themselves. Miriam's leading role in this matter is suggested through her name being mentioned first in verse 1 and through her being punished with leprosy, whereas Aaron seemed unscathed (vv. 10-15).

12:6-8 The Lord's words to Aaron and Miriam highlight Moses's special relationship with God, which deserved their respect. To be a prophet would already be special, as it involved revelation from God in the form of a vision or a dream (see Ex 15:20). Moses's relationship with God, however, was even closer than that of prophets since God spoke with him directly, openly, and not in riddles. In similar fashion, Deuteronomy 34:10-12 upholds Moses as greater than other prophets.

SCOUTING OUT CANAAN

13 The LORD spoke to Moses: 2 "Send men to scout out the land of Canaan † I am giving to the Israelites. Send one man who is a leader among them from each of their ancestral tribes." 3 Moses sent them from the Wilderness of Paran at the LORD's command. All the men were leaders in Israel. † 4 These were their names:

Shammua son of Zaccur from the tribe of Reuben;

5 Shaphat son of Hori from the tribe of Simeon;

6 Caleb † son of Jephunneh from the tribe of Judah;
7 Igal son of Joseph from the tribe of Issachar;
8 Hoshea son of Nun † from the tribe of Ephraim;
9 Palti son of Raphu from the tribe of Benjamin;
10 Gaddiel son of Sodi from the tribe of Zebulun;
11 Gaddi son of Susi from the tribe of Manasseh (from the tribe of Joseph);
12 Ammiel son of Gemalli from the tribe of Dan;
13 Sethur son of Michael from the tribe of Asher;
14 Nahbi son of Vophsi from the tribe of Naphtali;
15 Geuel son of Machi from the tribe of Gad.

16 These were the names of the men Moses sent to scout out the land, and Moses renamed Hoshea son of Nun, Joshua.
17 When Moses sent them to scout out the land of Canaan, he told them, “Go up this way to the Negev, then go up into the hill country. 18 See what the land is like, and whether the people who live there are strong or weak, few or many. 19 Is the land they live in good † or bad? Are the cities they live in encampments or fortifications? † 20 Is the land fertile or unproductive? † Are there trees in it or not? Be courageous. Bring back some fruit from the land.” It was the season for the first ripe grapes. †
21 So they went up and scouted out the land from the Wilderness of Zin † as far as Rehob near the entrance to Hamath. † 22 They went up through the Negev and came to Hebron, where Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the descendants of Anak, † were living. Hebron was built seven years before Zoan † in Egypt. 23 When they came to the Valley of Eshcol, † they cut down a branch with a single cluster of grapes, which was carried on a pole by two men. They also took some pomegranates and figs. † 24 That place was called the Valley of Eshcol † because of the cluster of grapes the Israelites cut there. 25 At the end of forty days † they returned from scouting out the land.

REPORT ABOUT CANAAN

26 The men went back to Moses, Aaron, and the entire Israelite community in the Wilderness of Paran at Kadesh. They brought back a report for them and the whole community, and they showed them the fruit of the land. † 27 They reported to Moses: "We went into the land where you sent us. Indeed it is flowing with milk and honey, † and here is some of its fruit. 28 However, the people living in the land are strong, and the cities are large and fortified. † We also saw the descendants of Anak † there. 29 The Amalekites † are living in the land of the Negev; the Hethites, Jebusites, and Amorites live in the hill country; and the Canaanites live by the sea and along the Jordan."

30 Then Caleb † quieted the people in the presence of Moses and said, "Let's go up now and take possession of the land because we can certainly conquer it! "

31 But the men who had gone up with him responded, "We can't attack the people because they are stronger than we are! " 32 So they gave a negative report to the Israelites about the land they had scouted: "The land we passed through to explore is one that devours its inhabitants, and all the people we saw in it are men of great size. 33 We even saw the Nephilim † there — the descendants of Anak come from the Nephilim! † To ourselves we seemed like grasshoppers, and we must have seemed the same to them."

13:1-3,17-20 As the Israelites approached the promised land of Canaan (see Gn 15:13-21), God commanded that a small group consisting of one man from each tribe be sent ahead to scout out the land. Moses instructed the scouts to find out about the land, its people, and their cities, and to bring back some fruit.

13:27-33 After forty days, the scouts returned with a report about the land and some of its fruit. As God had said, the land indeed was flowing with milk and honey. This is a common expression of the abundance and flourishing of the promised land (see Ex 3:8,17; 13:5; 33:3; Lv 20:24; Dt 6:3; 11:9). The scouts also reported, however, that not only were Canaan's people strong and their cities large and fortified, but that the Israelites could not defeat them. They even spread a negative report about how the land devours its inhabitants. The descendants of Anak were strong and tall and had a reputation for being a mighty people (Dt 9:2). For discussion of the Nephilim, see the note on Genesis 6:1-4. On the other hand, one of the scouts, Caleb (v. 6), dissented and assured the Israelites that they could take possession of the land.

ISRAEL'S REFUSAL TO ENTER CANAAN

14 Then the whole community broke into loud cries, and the people wept that night. 2 All the Israelites complained about Moses and Aaron, † and the whole community told them, "If only we had died in the land of Egypt, or if only we had died in this wilderness! 3 Why is the LORD bringing us into this land to die by the sword? Our wives and children will become plunder. † Wouldn't it be better for us to go back to Egypt?" † 4 So they said to one another, "Let's appoint a leader and go back to Egypt."
5 Then Moses and Aaron fell facedown in front of the whole assembly of the Israelite community. 6 Joshua son of Nun and Caleb son of Jephunneh, who were among those who scouted out the land, tore their clothes 7 and said to the entire Israelite community: "The land we passed through and explored is an extremely good land. † 8 If the LORD is pleased with us, he will bring us into this land, a land flowing with milk and honey, † and give it to us. 9 Only don't rebel against the LORD, and don't be afraid of the people of the land, for we will devour them. † Their protection † has been removed from them, and the LORD is with us. Don't be afraid of them! " 10 While the whole community threatened to stone them, † the glory of the LORD appeared to all the Israelites at the tent of meeting.

GOD'S JUDGMENT OF ISRAEL'S REBELLION

11 The LORD said to Moses, "How long will these people despise me? How long will they not trust in me despite all the signs I have performed among them? † 12 I will strike them with a plague and destroy them. Then I will make you into a greater and mightier nation than they are." † 13 But Moses replied to the LORD, "The Egyptians will hear about it, for by your strength you brought up this people from them. 14 They will tell it to the inhabitants of this land. † They have heard that you, LORD, are among these people, how you, LORD, are seen face to face, how your cloud stands over them, and how you go before them in a pillar of cloud by day and in a pillar of fire by night. † 15 If you kill this people with a single blow, † † the nations that have heard of your fame † will declare, 16 ‘Since the LORD wasn’t able to bring this people into the land he swore to give them, † he has slaughtered them in the wilderness.’ †

17 “So now, may my Lord’s power be magnified just as you have spoken: 18 The LORD is slow to anger and abounding in faithful love, † forgiving iniquity and rebellion. † But he will not leave the guilty unpunished, † bringing the consequences of the fathers’ iniquity on the children to the third and fourth generation. † 19 Please pardon the iniquity of this people, in keeping with the greatness of your faithful love, † just as you have forgiven them from Egypt until now.”
20 The LORD responded, “I have pardoned them as you requested. 21 Yet as surely as I live and as the whole earth is filled with the LORD’s glory, † 22 none of the men who have seen my glory and the signs I performed in Egypt and in the wilderness, and have tested me these ten times and did not obey me, 23 will ever see the land I swore to give their fathers. † None of those who have despised me † will see it. 24 But since my servant Caleb has a different spirit and has remained loyal to me, I will bring him into the land where he has gone, and his descendants will inherit it. † 25 Since the Amalekites and Canaanites are living in the lowlands, † turn back tomorrow and head for the wilderness in the direction of the Red Sea.” † 26 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: 27 “How long must I endure this evil community that keeps complaining about me? I have heard the Israelites’ complaints that they make against me. † 28 Tell them: As surely as I live — this is the LORD’s declaration — I will do to you exactly as I heard you say. 29 Your corpses will fall in this wilderness — all of you who were registered in the census, the entire number of you twenty years old or more † — because you have complained about me. 30 I swear that none of you will enter the land I promised † to settle you in, except Caleb son of Jephunneh and Joshua son of Nun. 31 I will bring your children whom you said would become plunder † into the land you rejected, and they will enjoy it. † 32 But as for you, your corpses will fall in this wilderness. 33 Your children will be shepherds in the wilderness for forty years and bear the penalty for your acts of unfaithfulness until all your corpses lie scattered in the wilderness. 34 You will bear the consequences of your iniquities forty years based on the number of the forty days that you scouted the land, a year for each day. † † You will know my displeasure. †

35 I, the LORD, have spoken. I swear that I will do this to the entire evil community that has conspired against me. † They will come to an end in the wilderness, and there they will die." †
36 So the men Moses sent to scout out the land, and who returned and incited the entire community to complain about him by spreading a negative report about the land — 37 those men who spread the negative report about the land were struck down by the LORD. 38 Only Joshua son of Nun and Caleb son of Jephunneh remained alive of those men who went to scout out the land.

ISRAEL ROUTED

39 When Moses reported these words to all the Israelites, the people were overcome with grief. 40 They got up early the next morning and went up the ridge of the hill country, saying, "Let's go to the place the LORD promised, for we were wrong." †
41 But Moses responded, "Why are you going against the LORD's command? It won't succeed. 42 Don't go, because the LORD is not among you and you will be defeated by your enemies. 43 The Amalekites and Canaanites are right in front of you, and you will fall by the sword. The LORD won't be with you, since you have turned from following him."
44 But they dared to go up the ridge of the hill country, even though the ark of the LORD's covenant and Moses did not leave the camp. 45 Then the Amalekites and Canaanites who lived in that part of the hill country came down, attacked them, and routed them as far as Hormah. †

14:1-10 The bad report from the scouts negatively influenced Israel, which was already weak in faith. They again complained, expressed the wish that they had died already, and planned to return to Egypt. Despite Joshua and Caleb's pleas (vv. 6-9), the Israelites refused to move forward and threatened to stone them.

14:11 The Israelites had accused God of "bringing [them] into this land to die by the sword" (v. 3), which was an act of despising him and failing to trust in [him] despite all the signs [he had] performed among them. These Israelites had believed in God previously (Ex 4:31; 14:31), but had not continued in faith (see also Mt 13:20-21; Heb 3:7-19).

14:20-38 The Lord's intention to destroy Israel (v. 12) was averted only by Moses's intercessory prayer, which appealed to God's concern for his own reputation (vv. 15-16) and to his being slow to anger and abounding in faithful love, forgiving iniquity and rebellion (v. 18; see Ex 34:6-7). This episode closely resembles Exodus 32:9-14, which also describes God's intention to destroy Israel after they worshiped the golden calf and Moses's effective intercession following. Though God granted Moses's request not to wipe out Israel, he still forbade this entire generation of Israelites from entering the promised land (see also Ex 32:28,33-35). All of those twenty years old or more who were counted in the census earlier would die in the desert, and the whole community would wander in the wilderness for forty years based on the number of the forty days that [they] scouted the land, a year for each day. The scouts who had spread the negative report about the land were struck down by the LORD (vv. 36-37). From the older generation, only Caleb and Joshua would be permitted to enter the land (v. 30) since they followed [God] completely.

14:39-45 Though God had commanded them to turn back (v. 25), the Israelites presumptuously decided to go up to the land and paid the price for it. When the Amalekites and Canaanites . . . attacked them, God did not fight for them and give them success as he would later when they finally entered the land.

LAWS ABOUT OFFERINGS

15 The LORD instructed Moses: 2 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them:
When you enter the land I am giving you to settle in, † 3 and you make a fire offering † to the LORD from the herd or flock — either a burnt offering or a sacrifice, to fulfill a vow, † or as a freewill offering, or at your appointed festivals — to produce a pleasing aroma for the LORD, † 4 the one presenting his offering to the LORD is also to present a grain offering of two quarts † of fine flour mixed with a quart † of oil. 5 Prepare a quart of wine as a drink offering † with the burnt offering or sacrifice of each lamb.

6 “If you prepare a grain offering with a ram, it is to be four quarts † of fine flour mixed with a third of a gallon † of oil. † 7 Also present a third of a gallon of wine for a drink offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD.
8 “If you prepare a young bull as a burnt offering or as a sacrifice, to fulfill a vow, or as a fellowship offering to the LORD, 9 a grain offering of six quarts † of fine flour mixed with two quarts † of oil is to be presented with the bull. † 10 Also present two quarts of wine as a drink offering. It is a fire offering of pleasing aroma to the LORD. 11 This is to be done for each ox, ram, lamb, or goat. 12 This is how you are to prepare each of them, no matter how many.
13 “Every Israelite is to prepare these things in this way when he presents a fire offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 14 When an alien resides with you or someone else is among you and wants to prepare a fire offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD, he is to do exactly as you do throughout your generations.
15 The assembly is to have the same statute for both you and the resident alien as a permanent statute throughout your generations. † You and the alien will be alike before the LORD. 16 The same law and the same ordinance will apply to both you and the alien who resides with you.” † 17 The LORD instructed Moses: 18 “Speak to the Israelites and tell them: After you enter the land where I am bringing you, 19 you are to offer a contribution to the LORD when you eat from the food of the land. 20 You are to offer a loaf from your first batch of dough † as a contribution; offer it just like a contribution from the threshing floor. † 21 Throughout your generations, you are to give the LORD a contribution from the first batch of your dough.
22 “When you sin unintentionally and do not obey all these commands that the LORD spoke to Moses † — 23 all that the LORD has commanded you through Moses, from the day the LORD issued the commands and onward throughout your generations — 24 and if it was done unintentionally without the community’s awareness, the entire community is to prepare one young bull for a burnt offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD, with its grain offering and drink offering according to the regulation, and one male goat as a sin offering. 25 The priest will then make atonement for the entire Israelite community so that they may be forgiven, † for the sin was unintentional. They are to bring their offering, one made by fire to the LORD, and their sin offering before the LORD for their unintentional sin. 26 The entire Israelite community and the alien who resides among them will be forgiven, since it happened to all the people unintentionally.

27 "If one person sins unintentionally, † he is to present a year-old female goat as a sin offering. 28 The priest will then make atonement before the LORD on behalf of the person who acts in error sinning unintentionally, and when he makes atonement for him, he will be forgiven. 29 You are to have the same law for the person who acts in error, whether he is an Israelite or an alien who resides among you.

30 "But the person who acts defiantly, † whether native or resident alien, blasphemes the LORD. † That person is to be cut off from his people. 31 He will certainly be cut off, because he has despised the LORD's word and broken his command; his guilt remains on him."

SABBATH VIOLATION

32 While the Israelites were in the wilderness, they found a man gathering wood on the Sabbath day. † 33 Those who found him gathering wood brought him to Moses, Aaron, and the entire community. 34 They placed him in custody because it had not been decided what should be done to him. 35 Then the LORD told Moses, "The man is to be put to death. The entire community is to stone him outside the camp." † 36 So the entire community brought him outside the camp and stoned him to death, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

TASSELS FOR REMEMBRANCE

37 The LORD said to Moses, 38 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them that throughout their generations they are to make tassels † for the corners of their garments, and put a blue cord on the tassel at each corner. 39 These will serve as tassels for you to look at, so that you may remember all the LORD's commands and obey them and not prostitute yourselves by following your own heart † and your own eyes. † 40 This way you will remember and obey all my commands and be holy to your God. 41 I am the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God; I am the LORD your God." †

15:1-30 The progress of storyline is interrupted momentarily with the laws found in this chapter (see 14:45; 16:1). The reason for their placement here is unclear. In view of Israel's catastrophic failure in the previous chapter that resulted in an entire generation of Israelites being forbidden to enter the land (14:21-23,29-32), these laws do provide some balance through their view toward a more hopeful future situation in which Israel does enter the land (vv. 2,18). The laws in verses 1-16 also provide additional instructions on the particular grain offering and drink offering to be brought with certain sacrifices.

15:32-36 As has been the case repeatedly, the giving of laws takes place in close connection with Israel's disobedience to laws (see the notes on Ex 32:1-6; Lv 11:1; 17:7; 24:10-12). Here it concerns a man who was gathering wood on the Sabbath day. Although Moses was initially unsure about how to handle this case (see also 9:8; Lv 24:12), God made clear that the man was guilty and was to be put to death. At issue was the intentional violation of sacred time that had been instituted by God as a way of regulating worship and as a sign of his covenant relationship with Israel. Though the laws revealed the righteous standards of God (see Rm 7:7), the hearts of the Israelites were the same as they had been before the giving of the law (see the note on 11:1-3).

15:37-41 The Lord continued to desire that Israel be holy to [their] God, which he linked to his deliverance of them from Egypt (see also Lv 11:44-45; 19:2; 20:7,26). The tassels were to help them to remember all the Lord's commands and obey them.

KORAH INCITES REBELLION

16 Now Korah son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, † with Dathan and Abiram, † sons of Eliab, and On son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took 2 two hundred and fifty prominent Israelite men who were leaders of the community and representatives in the assembly, and they rebelled against Moses. 3 They came together against Moses and Aaron and told them, "You have gone too far! Everyone in the entire community is holy, and the LORD is among them. † Why then do you exalt yourselves above the LORD's assembly? " 4 When Moses heard this, he fell facedown. 5 Then he said to Korah and all his followers, "Tomorrow morning the LORD will reveal who belongs to him, who is set apart, and the one he will let come near † him. He will let the one he chooses † come near him. 6 Korah, you and all your followers are to do this:
take firepans, † and tomorrow 7 place fire in them and put incense on them before the LORD. † Then the man the LORD chooses will be the one who is set apart. † It is you Levites who have gone too far! ”

8 Moses also told Korah, “Now listen, Levites! 9 Isn’t it enough for you that the God of Israel has separated you from the Israelite community to bring you near to himself, † to perform the work at the LORD’s tabernacle, and to stand before the community to minister to them? † 10 He has brought you near, and all your fellow Levites who are with you, but you are pursuing the priesthood † as well.
11 Therefore, it is you and all your followers who have conspired against the LORD! † As for Aaron, who is he † that you should complain about him? ”
12 Moses sent for Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, but they said, “We will not come! 13 Is it not enough that you brought us up from a land flowing with milk and honey to kill us in the wilderness? † Do you also have to appoint yourself as ruler over us? 14 Furthermore, you didn’t bring us to a land flowing with milk and honey or give us an inheritance of fields and vineyards. Will you gouge out the eyes of these men? † We will not come! ”
15 Then Moses became angry and said to the LORD, “Don’t respect their offering. I have not taken one donkey from them or mistreated a single one of them.”
16 So Moses told Korah, “You and all your followers are to appear before the LORD tomorrow — you, they, and Aaron. 17 Each of you is to take his firepan, place incense on it, and present his firepan before the LORD — 250 firepans. You and Aaron are each to present your firepan also.”
18 Each man took his firepan, placed fire in it, put incense on it, and stood at the entrance to the tent of meeting along with Moses and Aaron. 19 After Korah assembled the whole community against them at the entrance to the tent of meeting, the glory of the LORD † appeared to the whole community. 20 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, 21 “Separate yourselves from this community so I may consume them instantly.” †
22 But Moses and Aaron fell facedown † and said, “God, God who gives breath to all, † † when one man sins, will you vent your wrath on the whole community? ” †
23 The LORD replied to Moses, 24 “Tell the community: Get away from the dwellings of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.”

25 Moses got up and went to Dathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel followed him. 26 He warned the community, “Get away now from the tents of these wicked men. Don’t touch anything that belongs to them, † or you will be swept away because of all their sins.” † 27 So they got away from the dwellings of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. Meanwhile, Dathan and Abiram came out and stood at the entrance of their tents with their wives, children, and infants.
28 Then Moses said, “This is how you will know that the LORD sent me † to do all these things and that it was not of my own will: 29 If these men die naturally as all people would, and suffer the fate of all, then the LORD has not sent me.
30 But if the LORD brings about something unprecedented, and the ground opens its mouth and swallows them along with all that belongs to them so that they go down alive into Sheol, † then you will know that these men have despised the LORD.”
31 Just as he finished speaking all these words, the ground beneath them split open. 32 The earth opened its mouth and swallowed them and their households, all Korah’s people, † and all their possessions. 33 They went down alive into Sheol with all that belonged to them. The earth closed over them, and they vanished from the assembly. 34 At their cries, all the people of Israel who were around them fled because they thought, “The earth may swallow us too!” 35 Fire also came out from the LORD and consumed the 250 men who were presenting the incense. † 36 Then the LORD spoke to Moses: 37 “Tell Eleazar son of Aaron the priest to remove the firepans from the burning debris, because they are holy, and scatter the fire far away. 38 As for the firepans of those who sinned at the cost of their own lives, make them into hammered sheets as plating for the altar, for they presented them before the LORD, and the firepans are holy. They will be a sign to the Israelites.”
39 So the priest Eleazar took the bronze firepans that those who were burned had presented, and they were hammered into plating for the altar, 40 just as the LORD commanded him through Moses. It was to be a reminder for the Israelites that no unauthorized person outside the lineage of Aaron should approach to offer incense before the LORD † and become like Korah and his followers.

41 The next day the entire Israelite community complained about Moses and Aaron, † saying, “You have killed the LORD’s people! ” 42 When the community assembled against them, Moses and Aaron turned toward the tent of meeting, and suddenly the cloud covered it, and the LORD’s glory appeared.
43 Moses and Aaron went to the front of the tent of meeting, 44 and the LORD said to Moses, 45 “Get away from this community so that I may consume them instantly.” † But they fell facedown.
46 Then Moses told Aaron, “Take your firepan, place fire from the altar in it, and add incense. Go quickly to the community and make atonement for them, because wrath has come from the LORD; the plague has begun.” 47 So Aaron took his firepan as Moses had ordered, ran into the middle of the assembly, and saw that the plague had begun among the people. After he added incense, he made atonement for the people. 48 He stood between the dead and the living, and the plague was halted. 49 But those who died from the plague numbered 14,700, in addition to those who died because of the Korah incident. 50 Aaron then returned to Moses at the entrance to the tent of meeting, since the plague had been halted. †

16:1-3 The Israelites continued to rebel, and the culprits this time were Korah and his followers, who rejected the leadership of Moses and Aaron. It was true that all Israel was to be holy (e.g., 15:40), but Moses and Aaron had been set apart by God for special roles and responsibilities.

16:8-11 Korah was himself a Levite (v. 1), as were many others in his group apparently (vv. 7-8). Though Levites had already been set apart by God to assist the priests in the service of the tabernacle, these men were discontent with their role. Moses rebuked them because they had not merely rejected Moses and Aaron but had also thus conspired against the LORD (see also Ex 17:2), who had assigned their respective roles.

16:20-24 Once again, God is angry enough to destroy the whole community, but Moses’s intercession prevents this (see also 14:12-20; Ex 32:9-14).

16:28-35 The unusual way in which Korah and his followers died both validated Moses and Aaron’s authority and served as a dramatic demonstration of God’s judgment. The earth opened its mouth and swallowed them and their households (see also Jos 7:24-26) and fire consumed the 250 men (see also v. 2). The line of Korah, however, did not die out (26:11; 1Ch 6:37).

16:41-50 When the Israelites complained against Moses and Aaron because of the judgment against Korah and his followers, they came under judgment as well. The Lord was angry enough to destroy the entire community (see the note on 16:20-24). If Aaron had not made atonement for Israel, the plague would have claimed even more than the 14,700 lives that it did.

AARON'S STAFF CHOSEN

17 The LORD instructed Moses: 2 "Speak to the Israelites and take one staff from them for each ancestral tribe, † twelve staffs from all the leaders of their tribes. † Write each man's name on his staff. 3 Write Aaron's name on Levi's staff, because there is to be one staff for the head of each tribe. 4 Then place them in the tent of meeting in front of the testimony where I meet with you. 5 The staff of the man I choose will sprout, and I will rid myself of the Israelites' complaints that they have been making about you."

6 So Moses spoke to the Israelites, and each of their leaders gave him a staff, one for each of the leaders of their tribes, twelve staffs in all. Aaron's staff was among them. † 7 Moses placed the staffs before the LORD in the tent of the testimony.

8 The next day Moses entered the tent of the testimony and saw that Aaron's staff, representing the house of Levi, had sprouted, formed buds, blossomed, and produced almonds! 9 Moses then brought out all the staffs from the LORD's presence to all the Israelites. They saw them, and each man took his own staff.

10 The LORD told Moses, "Put Aaron's staff back in front of the testimony to be kept as a sign † for the rebels, so that you may put an end to their complaints before me, or else they will die." † 11 So Moses did as the LORD commanded him.

12 Then the Israelites declared to Moses, "Look, we're perishing! We're lost; we're all lost! 13 Anyone who comes near the LORD's tabernacle will die. † Will we all perish? "

17:2 Lit father's house 17:2 Lit the house of their fathers, also in vv. 3,6
17:6 Ex 7:12 17:10 Heb 9:4 17:10 Ex 28:35; 30:20-21; Lv 8:35; 10:6,9; 15:31; 16:2,13; Nm 4:19; 18:3,32; 35:12 17:13 Nm 3:10,38; 8:19; 18:7

17:8 Aaron's authority as priest had been challenged by Korah and his followers (16:3,8-11), and the fact that only Aaron's staff . . . sprouted, formed buds, blossomed, and produced almonds further validated his legitimacy as a priest (see vv. 2-5).

17:12-13 As in 14:39-45, the Israelites' belated awareness of their sin was both too late and misdirected. Their panic resembles their response to hearing the Ten Commandments in Exodus 20:19.

PROVISION FOR THE PRIESTHOOD

18 The LORD said to Aaron, "You, your sons, and your ancestral family † † will be responsible for iniquity against the sanctuary. You and your sons will be responsible for iniquity involving your priesthood. 2 But also bring your relatives with you from the tribe of Levi, your ancestral tribe, so they may join you and assist you and your sons in front of the tent of the testimony. † 3 They are to perform duties for you and for the whole tent. They must not come near the sanctuary equipment or the altar; otherwise, both they and you will die. 4 They are to join you and guard the tent of meeting, doing all the work at the tent, but no unauthorized person may come near you.
5 "You are to guard the sanctuary and the altar so that wrath may not fall on the Israelites again. † 6 Look, I have selected your fellow Levites from the Israelites as a gift for you, assigned by the LORD to work at the tent of meeting. 7 But you and your sons will carry out your priestly responsibilities † for everything concerning the altar and for what is inside the curtain, and you will do that work. I am giving you the work of the priesthood as a gift, † but an unauthorized person who comes near the sanctuary will be put to death." †

SUPPORT FOR THE PRIESTS AND LEVITES

8 Then the LORD spoke to Aaron, "Look, I have put you in charge of the contributions † brought to me. As for all the holy offerings † of the Israelites, I have given them to you and your sons as a portion and a permanent statute. †
9 A portion of the holiest offerings kept from the fire will be yours; every one of their offerings that they give me, whether the grain offering, sin offering, or guilt offering will be most holy for you and your sons. 10 You are to eat it as a most holy offering. † Every male may eat it; it is to be holy to you.
11 "The contribution of their gifts also belongs to you. I have given all the Israelites' presentation offerings † to you and to your sons and daughters as a permanent statute. † Every ceremonially clean person in your house may eat it.
12 I am giving you all the best of the fresh oil, new wine, and grain, † which the Israelites give to the LORD as their firstfruits. † 13 The firstfruits of all that is in their land, which they bring to the LORD, belong to you. Every clean person in your house may eat them.

14 "Everything in Israel that is permanently dedicated to the LORD † belongs to you. 15 The firstborn of every living thing, human or animal, presented to the LORD belongs to you. But you must certainly redeem a human firstborn, † and redeem the firstborn of an unclean animal. 16 You will pay the redemption price for a month-old male according to your assessment: five shekels † of silver by the standard sanctuary shekel, which is twenty gerahs. †

17 "However, you must not redeem the firstborn of an ox, a sheep, or a goat; they are holy. You are to splatter their blood on the altar and burn their fat as a fire offering for a pleasing aroma to the LORD. 18 But their meat belongs to you. It belongs to you like the breast of the presentation offering and the right thigh.

19 "I give to you and to your sons and daughters all the holy contributions that the Israelites present to the LORD as a permanent statute. It is a permanent covenant of salt † before the LORD for you as well as your offspring."

20 The LORD told Aaron, "You will not have an inheritance in their land; there will be no portion among them for you. I am your portion and your inheritance among the Israelites. †

21 "Look, I have given the Levites every tenth † in Israel as an inheritance in return for the work they do, the work of the tent of meeting. 22 The Israelites must never again come near the tent of meeting, or they will incur guilt and die. 23 The Levites will do the work of the tent of meeting, and they will bear the consequences of their iniquity. The Levites will not receive an inheritance among the Israelites; † this is a permanent statute throughout your generations. 24 For I have given them the tenth that the Israelites present to the LORD as a contribution for their inheritance. That is why I told them that they would not receive an inheritance among the Israelites."

25 The LORD instructed Moses, 26 "Speak to the Levites and tell them: When you receive from the Israelites the tenth that I have given you as your inheritance, you are to present part of it as an offering to the LORD — a tenth of the tenth. 27 Your offering will be credited to you as if it were your grain from the threshing floor or the full harvest from the winepress. 28 You are to present an offering to the LORD from every tenth you receive from the Israelites. Give some of it to the priest Aaron as an offering to the LORD. 29 You must present the entire offering due the LORD from all your gifts. The best part of the tenth † is to be consecrated.

30 "Tell them further: Once you have presented the best part of the tenth, and it is credited to you Levites as the produce of the threshing floor or the winepress, 31 then you and your household may eat it anywhere. It is your wage in return for your work at the tent of meeting. 32 You will not incur guilt because of it once you have presented the best part of it, but you must not defile the Israelites' holy offerings, so that you will not die."

18:1-24 The instructions given to Aaron continue the focus on the priesthood. Although much of what God says here has already been said before (see Nm 3; Lv 6:14–7:14), in the context of Korah's recent revolt these instructions serve as a reaffirmation of the roles of the priests and Levites and of their rightful provisions. That Aaron would not have an inheritance in their land because God was his portion and inheritance is mentioned again in several other passages (e.g., Dt 10:9; 18:1-2; Jos 18:7). Later, David's words in Psalm 16:5-6, "LORD, You are my portion . . . I have a beautiful inheritance," likely drew from this idea. It appears that David understood this experience of the priests and the Levites as expressing a spiritual reality that he and God's people as a whole could also participate in.

PURIFICATION RITUAL

19 The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, 2 "This is the legal statute that the LORD has commanded: Instruct the Israelites to bring you an unblemished red cow that has no defect and has never been yoked. † 3 Give it to the priest Eleazar, † and he will have it brought outside the camp and slaughtered in his presence. 4 The priest Eleazar is to take some of its blood with his finger and sprinkle it seven times toward the front of the tent of meeting. 5 The cow is to be burned in his sight. Its hide, flesh, and blood, are to be burned along with its waste. 6 The priest is to take cedar wood, hyssop, and crimson yarn, † and throw them onto the fire where the cow is burning. 7 Then the priest must wash his clothes and bathe his body in water; after that he may enter the camp, but he will remain ceremonially unclean until evening. 8 The one who burned the cow must also wash his clothes and bathe his body in water, and he will remain unclean until evening.

9 "A man who is clean is to gather up the cow's ashes and deposit them outside the camp in a ceremonially clean place. The ashes will be kept by the Israelite community for preparing the water to remove impurity; it is a sin offering. †

10 Then the one who gathers up the cow's ashes must wash his clothes, and he will remain unclean until evening. This is a permanent statute for the Israelites and for the alien who resides among them.

11 "The person who touches any human corpse will be unclean for seven days.

12 He is to purify himself with the water † on the third day and the seventh day; then he will be clean. † But if he does not purify himself on the third and seventh days, he will not be clean. 13 Anyone who touches a body of a person who has died, and does not purify himself, defiles the tabernacle of the LORD. That person will be cut off from Israel. He remains unclean because the water for impurity has not been sprinkled on him, and his uncleanness is still on him.

14 "This is the law when a person dies in a tent: everyone who enters the tent and everyone who is already in the tent will be unclean for seven days, 15 and any open container without a lid tied on it is unclean. 16 Anyone in the open field who touches a person who has been killed by the sword or has died, or who even touches a human bone, or a grave, will be unclean for seven days. 17 For the purification of the unclean person, they are to take some of the ashes of the burnt sin offering, put them in a jar, and add fresh water to them. 18 A person who is clean is to take hyssop, dip it in the water, and sprinkle the tent, all the furnishings, and the people who were there. He is also to sprinkle the one who touched a bone, a grave, a corpse, or a person who had been killed.

19 "The one who is clean is to sprinkle the unclean person on the third day and the seventh day. After he purifies the unclean person on the seventh day, the one being purified must wash his clothes and bathe in water, and he will be clean by evening. 20 But a person who is unclean and does not purify himself, that person will be cut off from the assembly because he has defiled the sanctuary of the LORD. † The water for impurity has not been sprinkled on him; he is unclean.

21 This is a permanent statute for them. The person who sprinkles the water for impurity is to wash his clothes, and whoever touches the water for impurity will be unclean until evening. 22 Anything the unclean person touches will become unclean, and anyone who touches it will be unclean until evening.”

19:2,6,9 The ashes of the red cow were used for preparing the water for cleansing from impurity. The red color of the cow, along with the redness of cedar wood, hyssop, and crimson yarn, was probably representative of blood.

WATER FROM THE ROCK

20 The entire Israelite community entered the Wilderness of Zin † in the first month, and they † settled in Kadesh. † Miriam † died and was buried there.

2 There was no water for the community, so they assembled against Moses and Aaron. 3 The people quarreled with Moses and said, † “If only we had perished when our brothers perished before the LORD. † 4 Why have you brought the LORD’s assembly into this wilderness † for us and our livestock to die here? †
5 Why have you led us up from Egypt to bring us to this evil place? It’s not a place of grain, figs, vines, and pomegranates, † and there is no water to drink! ”
6 Then Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly to the doorway of the tent of meeting. They fell facedown, and the glory of the LORD appeared to them. 7 The LORD spoke to Moses, 8 “Take the staff † and assemble the community. You and your brother Aaron are to speak to the rock † while they watch, and it will yield its water. You will bring out water for them from the rock and provide drink for the community and their livestock.”

9 So Moses took the staff from the LORD’s presence † just as he had commanded him. 10 Moses and Aaron summoned the assembly in front of the rock, and Moses said to them, “Listen, you rebels! Must we bring water out of this rock for you? ” 11 Then Moses raised his hand and struck the rock twice with his staff, so that abundant water gushed out, and the community and their livestock drank. †

12 But the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, “Because you did not trust me to demonstrate my holiness in the sight of the Israelites, you will not bring this assembly into the land I have given them.” † 13 These are the Waters of Meribah, † † where the Israelites quarreled with the LORD, and he demonstrated his holiness to them. †

EDOM DENIES PASSAGE

14 Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of Edom, “This is what your brother Israel † says, ‘You know all the hardships that have overtaken us. 15 Our fathers went down to Egypt, and we lived in Egypt many years, but the Egyptians treated us and our fathers badly. 16 When we cried out to the LORD, he heard our plea, † and sent an angel, † † and brought us out of Egypt. Now look, we are in Kadesh, a city on the border of your territory. 17 Please let us travel through your land. We won’t travel through any field or vineyard, or drink any well water. We will travel the King’s Highway; we won’t turn to the right or the left until we have traveled through your territory.’ ” †

18 But Edom answered him, “You will not travel through our land, or we will come out and confront you with the sword.”

19 “We will go on the main road,” the Israelites replied to them, “and if we or our herds drink your water, we will pay its price. † There will be no problem; only let us travel through on foot.”

20 Yet Edom insisted, “You may not travel through.” And they came out to confront them with a large force of heavily-armed people. † 21 Edom refused to allow Israel to travel through their territory, and Israel turned away from them.

AARON’S DEATH

22 After they set out from Kadesh, the entire Israelite community came to Mount Hor. † 23 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron at Mount Hor on the border of the land of Edom, 24 “Aaron will be gathered to his people; he will not enter the land I have given the Israelites, because you both rebelled against my command at the Waters of Meribah. 25 Take Aaron and his son Eleazar and bring them up Mount Hor. 26 Remove Aaron’s garments and put them on his son Eleazar. Aaron will be gathered to his people and die there.”

27 So Moses did as the LORD commanded, and they climbed Mount Hor in the sight of the whole community. 28 After Moses removed Aaron's garments and put them on his son Eleazar, Aaron died there on top of the mountain. Then Moses and Eleazar came down from the mountain. 29 When the whole community saw that Aaron had passed away, the entire house of Israel mourned for him thirty days.

20:2-8 As had happened on their way to Mount Sinai (Ex 17:1-7), the Israelites again needed water, complained, and received water from a rock. This time, however, Moses and Aaron were supposed to speak to the rock instead of striking it (cp. Ex 17:6).

20:10-12 Moses disobeyed God's instructions by striking the rock twice. Although he provided the water, God was displeased with Moses and Aaron. Their disobedience was seen by him as a failure to trust [him] to demonstrate [his] holiness. This implies that faith honors the holiness of God. Israel's lack of faith earlier (14:11) was thus followed by Moses and Aaron's, and the consequences again involved not being allowed to enter the promised land (14:22-23; 20:12). The connection between disobedience and failing to honor God's holiness is also found with reference to the sin of Nadab and Abihu in Leviticus 10:1-3.

20:28 The Lord had said to Moses and Aaron that the two of them would not be permitted to enter Canaan because of their failure at Meribah (vv. 12,24). The time had come for Aaron's death, which also meant that Aaron's son Eleazar would be the new high priest. Sure enough, Aaron died on Mount Hor, outside of the land.

CANAANITE KING DEFEATED

21 When the Canaanite king of Arad, † who lived in the Negev, heard that Israel was coming on the Atharim road, he fought against Israel and captured some prisoners. 2 Then Israel made a vow to the LORD, "If you will hand this people over to us, we will completely destroy their cities." † 3 The LORD listened to Israel's request and handed the Canaanites over to them, and Israel completely destroyed them and their cities. So they named the place Hormah. † †

THE BRONZE SNAKE

4 Then they set out from Mount Hor by way of the Red Sea to bypass the land of Edom, but the people became impatient because of the journey. 5 The people spoke against God and Moses: “Why have you led us up from Egypt to die in the wilderness? There is no bread or water, and we detest this wretched food!” 6 Then the LORD sent poisonous † snakes among the people, and they bit them so that many Israelites died. † 7 The people then came to Moses and said, “We have sinned by speaking against the LORD and against you. Intercede with the LORD so that he will take the snakes away from us.” And Moses interceded for the people.
8 Then the LORD said to Moses, “Make a snake image and mount it on a pole.
When anyone who is bitten looks at it, he will recover.” † 9 So Moses made a bronze snake and mounted it on a pole. Whenever someone was bitten, and he looked at the bronze snake, he recovered.

JOURNEY AROUND MOAB

10 The Israelites set out and camped at Oboth. † 11 They set out from Oboth and camped at Iye-abarim in the wilderness that borders Moab on the east.
12 From there they went and camped at Zered Valley. 13 They set out from there and camped on the other side of the Arnon River, in the wilderness that extends from the Amorite border, because the Arnon was the Moabite border between Moab and the Amorites. 14 Therefore it is stated in the Book of the LORD’s Wars:

Waheb in Suphah
and the ravines of the Arnon, 15 even the slopes of the ravines that extend to the site of Ar † and lie along the border of Moab.

16 From there they went to Beer, † the well the LORD told Moses about, “Gather the people so I may give them water.” 17 Then Israel sang this song:

Spring up, well — sing to it!
18 The princes dug the well; the nobles of the people hollowed it out with a scepter and with their staffs.

They went from the wilderness to Mattanah, [19] from Mattanah to Nahaliel, from Nahaliel to Bamoth, [20] from Bamoth to the valley in the territory of Moab near the Pisgah highlands † that overlook the wasteland. † †

AMORITE KINGS DEFEATED

[21] Israel sent messengers to say to King Sihon † of the Amorites: [22] "Let us travel through your land. We won't go into the fields or vineyards. We won't drink any well water. We will travel the King's Highway until we have traveled through your territory." † [23] But Sihon would not let Israel travel through his territory. Instead, he gathered his whole army and went out to confront Israel in the wilderness. When he came to Jahaz, † he fought against Israel. [24] Israel struck him with the sword and took possession of his land from the Arnon to the Jabbok, † but only up to the Ammonite border, because it was fortified. †
[25] Israel took all the cities and lived in all these Amorite cities, including Heshbon and all its surrounding villages. [26] Heshbon was the city of King Sihon of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab and had taken control of all his land as far as the Arnon. [27] Therefore the poets † say:

Come to Heshbon, let it be rebuilt;
let the city of Sihon be restored. † [28] For fire came out of Heshbon, a flame from the city of Sihon.
It consumed Ar of Moab,
the citizens of Arnon's heights.
[29] Woe to you, Moab!
You have been destroyed, people of Chemosh! †
He gave up his sons as refugees, and his daughters into captivity to Sihon the Amorite king.
[30] We threw them down; Heshbon has been destroyed as far as Dibon. †
We caused desolation as far as Nophah, which reaches as far as Medeba. †

[31] So Israel lived in the Amorites' land. [32] After Moses sent spies to Jazer, Israel captured its surrounding villages and drove out the Amorites who were

there.

33 Then they turned and went up the road to Bashan, and King Og of Bashan † came out against them with his whole army to do battle at Edrei. † 34 But the LORD said to Moses, “Do not fear him, for I have handed him over to you along with his whole army and his land. Do to him as you did to King Sihon of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon.” † 35 So they struck him, his sons, and his whole army until no one was left, † and they took possession of his land. †

21:1-3 Israel’s victory over the Canaanite king of Arad resulted from God’s answer to their prayer and vow.

21:4-9 The Israelites’ complaints led to God’s sending poisonous snakes among the people. When they repented, God instructed Moses to make a bronze snake and mount it on a pole. Those who looked at it would recover. Such an act required faith in God’s chosen means of salvation. In John 3:14-15, Jesus compared his own substitutionary death on the cross to Moses’s lifting up of the bronze snake. Just as those who looked at the uplifted serpent were healed, so those who believe in Jesus “may have eternal life.”

21:14 The Book of the LORD’s Wars was apparently an extrabiblical work contemporaneous with the Pentateuch, but no other record of it still exists today (see also the note on Jos 10:8-15).

21:21-35 As Israel journeyed toward the promised land, they once again requested permission to pass through the land of other peoples (see also 20:17). King Sihon of the Amorites not only refused but gathered his whole army and went out to confront Israel in the wilderness (see also 20:18-21). Israel defeated him and took possession of his land. Likewise, they defeated King Og of Bashan and took possession of his land. These victories over Sihon and Og are recounted elsewhere in Scripture as great victories God won for Israel (Dt 31:4; Jos 2:10; 9:9-10; Pss 135:10-11; 136:17-19).

BALAK HIRES BALAAM

22 The Israelites traveled on and camped in the plains of Moab near the Jordan across from Jericho. 2 Now Balak † son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites. † 3 Moab was terrified of the people because they were numerous, † and Moab dreaded the Israelites. 4 So the Moabites said to the elders of Midian, “This horde will devour everything around us like an ox eats up the green plants in the field.”

Since Balak son of Zippor was Moab's king at that time, 5 he sent messengers to Balaam † son of Beor at Pethor, which is by the Euphrates in the land of his people. † † Balak said to him: "Look, a people has come out of Egypt; they cover the surface of the land † and are living right across from me. 6 Please come and put a curse on these people for me because they are more powerful than I am. I may be able to defeat them and drive them out of the land, for I know that those you bless are blessed and those you curse are cursed." † 7 The elders of Moab and Midian departed with fees for divination † in hand. † They came to Balaam and reported Balak's words to him. 8 He said to them, "Spend the night here, and I will give you the answer the LORD tells me." So the officials of Moab stayed with Balaam.
9 Then God came to Balaam and asked, "Who are these men with you? "
10 Balaam replied to God, "Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, sent this message to me: 11 'Look, a people has come out of Egypt, and they cover the surface of the land. Now come and put a curse on them for me. I may be able to fight against them and drive them away.' "
12 Then God said to Balaam, "You are not to go with them. You are not to curse this people, for they are blessed."
13 So Balaam got up the next morning and said to Balak's officials, "Go back to your land, because the LORD has refused to let me go with you."
14 The officials of Moab arose, returned to Balak, and reported, "Balaam refused to come with us."
15 Balak sent officials again who were more numerous and higher in rank than the others. 16 They came to Balaam and said to him, "This is what Balak son of Zippor says: 'Let nothing keep you from coming to me, 17 for I will greatly honor you and do whatever you ask me. So please come and put a curse on these people for me! ' "
18 But Balaam responded to the servants of Balak, "If Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go against the command of the LORD my God to do anything small or great. 19 Please stay here overnight as the others did, so that I may find out what else the LORD has to tell me."
20 God came to Balaam at night and said to him, "Since these men have come to summon you, get up and go with them, but you must only do what I tell you."

21 When he got up in the morning, Balaam saddled his donkey and went with the officials of Moab.

BALAAM'S DONKEY AND THE ANGEL

22 But God was incensed that Balaam was going, and the angel of the LORD † took his stand on the path to oppose him. Balaam was riding his donkey, and his two servants were with him. 23 When the donkey saw the angel of the LORD standing on the path with a drawn sword in his hand, she turned off the path and went into the field. So Balaam hit her to return her to the path. 24 Then the angel of the LORD stood in a narrow passage between the vineyards, with a stone wall on either side. 25 The donkey saw the angel of the LORD and pressed herself against the wall, squeezing Balaam's foot against it. So he hit her once again. 26 The angel of the LORD went ahead and stood in a narrow place where there was no room to turn to the right or the left. 27 When the donkey saw the angel of the LORD, she crouched down under Balaam. So he became furious and beat the donkey with his stick.

28 Then the LORD opened the donkey's mouth, and she asked Balaam, "What have I done to you that you have beaten me these three times? " †

29 Balaam answered the donkey, "You made me look like a fool. If I had a sword in my hand, I'd kill you now! "

30 But the donkey said, "Am I not the donkey you've ridden all your life until today? Have I ever treated you this way before? "

"No," he replied.

31 Then the LORD opened Balaam's eyes, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing in the path with a drawn sword in his hand. Balaam knelt low and bowed in worship on his face. 32 The angel of the LORD asked him, "Why have you beaten your donkey these three times? Look, I came out to oppose you, because I consider what you are doing to be evil. † 33 The donkey saw me and turned away from me these three times. If she had not turned away from me, I would have killed you by now and let her live."

34 Balaam said to the angel of the LORD, "I have sinned, for I did not know that you were standing in the path to confront me. And now, if it is evil in your sight, I will go back."

35 Then the angel of the LORD said to Balaam, "Go with the men, but you are to say only what I tell you." So Balaam went with Balak's officials.

36 When Balak heard that Balaam was coming, he went out to meet him at the Moabite city † on the Arnon border at the edge of his territory. 37 Balak asked Balaam, “Did I not send you an urgent summons? Why didn’t you come to me? Am I really not able to reward you?”

38 Balaam said to him, “Look, I have come to you, but can I say anything I want? I must speak only the message God puts in my mouth.” 39 So Balaam went with Balak, and they came to Kiriath-huzoth. † 40 Balak sacrificed cattle, sheep, and goats and sent for Balaam and the officials who were with him.

41 In the morning, Balak took Balaam and brought him to Bamoth-baal. † From there he saw the outskirts of the people’s camp.

22:2-6 Like Pharaoh, Balak king of Moab feared the Israelites because they were numerous (see also Ex 1:9). He requested Balaam’s help to put a curse on these people so that he could drive them out of the land. Balak’s confidence in Balaam that those you bless are blessed and those you curse are cursed sets the stage for a conflict with God, who is determined to bless Israel (v. 12; 23:8,20) in keeping with his promises to the patriarchs (see Gn 12:3; 27:29).

22:18-21 Balaam’s words sound pious, but God had already told him that he was not to go (v. 12). The Lord’s words in verses 20-21 permitted Balaam to go; nevertheless, he was incensed that Balaam was going (v. 22).

22:23-33 The irony of this passage is that Balaam’s donkey understood more than he did, despite his experience in divination (v. 7; 24:1). Three times the donkey saw the angel of the LORD (vv. 23,25,27) and turned away, whereas Balaam was oblivious each time. His blindness was finally alleviated when the LORD opened Balaam’s eyes, and he saw the angel. The donkey was able to speak because the LORD opened its mouth. This rare circumstance of an animal talking occurs only once elsewhere with the serpent in the garden of Eden (Gn 3:1-5).

BALAAM’S ORACLES

23 Then Balaam said to Balak, “Build me seven altars here and prepare seven bulls and seven rams for me.” † 2 So Balak did as Balaam directed, and they offered a bull and a ram on each altar. 3 Balaam said to Balak, “Stay here by your burnt offering while I am gone. Maybe the LORD will meet with me. I will tell you whatever he reveals to me.” So he went to a barren hill.

4 God met with him and Balaam said to him, “I have arranged seven altars and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.” 5 Then the LORD put a message in Balaam’s mouth and said, “Return to Balak and say what I tell you.”
6 So he returned to Balak, who was standing there by his burnt offering with all the officials of Moab.

BALAAM’S FIRST ORACLE

7 Balaam proclaimed his poem:

Balak brought me from Aram; † the king of Moab, from the eastern mountains: “Come, put a curse on Jacob for me;
come, denounce Israel! ” †
8 How can I curse someone God has not cursed?
How can I denounce someone the LORD has not denounced?
9 I see them from the top of rocky cliffs, and I watch them from the hills.
There is a people living alone; †
it does not consider itself among the nations.
10 Who has counted the dust of Jacob † or numbered even one-fourth of Israel?
Let me die the death of the upright;
let the end of my life be like theirs.

11 “What have you done to me? ” Balak asked Balaam. “I brought you to curse my enemies, but look, you have only blessed them! ” 12 He answered, “Shouldn’t I say exactly what the LORD puts in my mouth? ” †

BALAAM’S SECOND ORACLE

13 Then Balak said to him, “Please come with me to another place † where you can see them. You will only see the outskirts of their camp; you won’t see all of them. From there, put a curse on them for me.” 14 So Balak took him to Lookout Field † on top of Pisgah, † built seven altars, and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.
15 Balaam said to Balak, “Stay here by your burnt offering while I seek the LORD over there.”

16 The LORD met with Balaam and put a message in his mouth. Then he said, “Return to Balak and say what I tell you.”
17 So he returned to Balak, who was standing there by his burnt offering with the officials of Moab. Balak asked him, “What did the LORD say? ” 18 Balaam proclaimed his poem:

Balak, get up and listen;
son of Zippor, pay attention to what I say!
19 God is not a man, that he might lie, or a son of man, that he might change his mind. †
Does he speak and not act, or promise and not fulfill? † 20 I have indeed received a command to bless; since he has blessed, †
I cannot change it.
21 He considers no disaster for Jacob; he sees no trouble for Israel. †
The LORD their God is with them, † and there is rejoicing over the King among them.
22 God brought them out of Egypt; he is like the horns of a wild ox for them. † †
23 There is no magic curse against Jacob and no divination against Israel.
It will now be said about Jacob and Israel, “What great things God has done! ”
24 A people rise up like a lioness; they rouse themselves like a lion. †
They will not lie down until they devour the prey and drink the blood of the slain.

25 Then Balak told Balaam, “Don’t curse them and don’t bless them! ” 26 But Balaam answered him, “Didn’t I tell you: Whatever the LORD says, I must do? ” †

BALAAM’S THIRD ORACLE

27 Again Balak said to Balaam, “Please come. I will take you to another place.
Maybe it will be agreeable to God that you can put a curse on them for me there.” 28 So Balak took Balaam to the top of Peor, which overlooks the wasteland. † †

29 Balaam told Balak, “Build me seven altars here and prepare seven bulls and seven rams for me.” † 30 So Balak did as Balaam said and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.

23:7-12 Balaam’s four oracles (see also vv. 18-24; 24:3-9,15-19) comprise one of the Pentateuch’s four major poetic sections, the others being Genesis 49:2-27; Exodus 15:1-18; and Deuteronomy 32–33 (see the note on Gn 49:1). Like Genesis49:2-27 and Deuteronomy 32–33, this poetic section is also found in close connection with the phrase “in the last days” (lit Nm 24:14) and contains important messianic prophecies (24:7-9,17-19). In this first oracle, Balaam declared that he could not curse Israel as Balak desired because God has not cursed them. He also reaffirmed just how numerous they were (see 22:3-5) and wished to be associated with them (v. 10). Naturally, Balak was upset with Balaam (see also v. 25; 24:10-11).

23:18-24 Balak tried again to get Balaam to curse Israel (v. 13), but Balaam informed him that God’s determination to bless Israel would not change (vv. 19-20). He was with them and had brought them out of Egypt. Contrary to what Balak had believed in trying to hire Balaam (22:6-7,16-17), there was no divination against Israel.

24 Since Balaam saw that it pleased the LORD to bless Israel, he did not go to seek omens as on previous occasions, but turned † toward the wilderness. 2 When Balaam looked up and saw Israel encamped tribe by tribe, the Spirit of God † came on him, 3 and he proclaimed his poem:

The oracle of Balaam son of Beor, the oracle of the man whose eyes are opened, 4 the oracle of one who hears the sayings of God, who sees a vision from the Almighty, † who falls into a trance with his eyes uncovered: 5 How beautiful are your tents, Jacob, your dwellings, Israel.
6 They stretch out like river valleys, † like gardens beside a stream, like aloes the LORD has planted, like cedars beside the water.
7 Water will flow from his buckets, and his seed will be by abundant water.
His king will be greater than Agag, † and his kingdom will be exalted.

8 God brought him out of Egypt; he is like † the horns of a wild ox for them. †
He will feed on enemy nations and gnaw their bones;
he will strike them with his arrows.
9 He crouches, he lies down like a lion or a lioness — who dares to rouse him? †
Those who bless you will be blessed, and those who curse you will be cursed. †

10 Then Balak became furious with Balaam, struck his hands together, and said to him, "I summoned you to put a curse on my enemies, but instead, you have blessed them these three times. 11 Now go to your home! I said I would reward you richly, † but look, the LORD has denied you a reward."
12 Balaam answered Balak, "Didn't I previously tell the messengers you sent me: 13 If Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go against the LORD's command, to do anything good or bad of my own will? I will say whatever the LORD says. † 14 Now I am going back to my people, but first, let me warn you what these people will do to your people in the future."

BALAAM'S FOURTH ORACLE

15 Then he proclaimed his poem:

The oracle of Balaam son of Beor,
the oracle of the man whose eyes are opened; 16 the oracle of one who hears the sayings of God and has knowledge from the Most High, who sees a vision from the Almighty, who falls into a trance with his eyes uncovered: † 17 I see him, but not now; I perceive him, but not near.
A star will come from Jacob, and a scepter will arise from Israel. †
He will smash the forehead † of Moab and strike down † all the Shethites. † 18 Edom will become a possession; Seir † will become a possession of its enemies, but Israel will be triumphant.
19 One who comes from Jacob will rule; he will destroy the city's survivors.

20 Then Balaam saw Amalek and proclaimed his poem:

Amalek was first among the nations, † but his future is destruction.

21 Next he saw the Kenites and proclaimed his poem:

Your dwelling place is enduring;
your nest is set in the cliffs.
22 Kain will be destroyed when Asshur takes you captive.

23 Once more he proclaimed his poem:

Ah, who can live when God does this?
24 Ships will come from the coast of Kittim; † they will carry out raids against Asshur and Eber, †
but they too will come to destruction.

25 Balaam then arose and went back to his homeland, and Balak also went his way.

24:1-4 Balak tried a third time to get Balaam to curse Israel (23:27-30). This time, Balaam did not go to seek omens as on previous occasions but spoke after the Spirit of God came on him. That the resulting heightened spiritual vision Balaam experienced related to his third and fourth oracles is indicated by his testimony that his eyes are opened, he hears the sayings of God, he sees a vision from the Almighty, and his eyes are uncovered (see also 22:31).

24:7-9 Unlike the first two oracles, the third and fourth oracles highlight a messianic king (see the note on 23:7-10). The description found in the first part of v. 9 (He crouches, he lies down like a lion or a lioness —who dares to rouse him?) is also used for the messianic king in Genesis 49:9. The latter part of verse 9 (Those who bless you will be blessed, and those who curse you will be cursed) recalls Genesis 27:29, which itself has ties to Genesis 49:8-10 through its mention of rule over both fellow Israelites and the nations.

24:14-19 Balaam's fourth and last oracle declared what Israel would do to Moab in the future (lit "in the last days" verse 14; see the note on 23:7-12). As in the third oracle, Balaam's spiritual senses were heightened (vv. 15-16; see the note on 24:1-4), and he predicted the coming of the Messiah (vv. 17-19). Out of the many descendants of Abraham who were like the "stars of the sky" (Gn 22:17; 26:4), there would arise a single star from among them. His arrival was not near and not now (v. 17) but rather "in the last days," which is the literal translation of verse 14's point about the future. He would be a ruler who would defeat Moab and Israel's enemies. Edom had also resisted Israel recently (20:14-21).

ISRAEL WORSHIPS BAAL

25 While Israel was staying in the Acacia Grove, † † the people began to prostitute themselves with the women of Moab. 2 The women invited them to the sacrifices for their gods, and the people ate and bowed in worship to their gods. † 3 So Israel aligned itself with Baal of Peor, † and the LORD's anger burned against Israel. † 4 The LORD said to Moses, "Take all the leaders of the people and execute † them in broad daylight before the LORD so that his burning anger may turn away from Israel." 5 So Moses told Israel's judges, "Kill each of the men who aligned themselves with Baal of Peor."

PHINEHAS INTERVENES

6 An Israelite man came bringing a Midianite woman to his relatives in the sight of Moses and the whole Israelite community while they were weeping at the entrance to the tent of meeting. 7 When Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, saw this, he got up from the assembly, took a spear in his hand, 8 followed the Israelite man into the tent, † and drove it through both the Israelite man and the woman — through her belly. Then the plague on the Israelites was stopped, 9 but those who died in the plague numbered twenty-four thousand. † 10 The LORD spoke to Moses, 11 "Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, has turned back my wrath from the Israelites because he was zealous among them with my zeal, † † so that I did not destroy the Israelites in my zeal.
12 Therefore declare: I grant him my covenant of peace. † 13 It will be a covenant of perpetual priesthood for him and his future descendants, † because he was zealous for his God and made atonement for the Israelites." 14 The name of the slain Israelite man, who was struck dead with the Midianite woman, was Zimri son of Salu, the leader of a Simeonite family. † 15 The name of the slain Midianite woman was Cozbi, the daughter of Zur, a tribal head of a family in Midian.

VENGEANCE AGAINST THE MIDIANITES

16 The LORD told Moses: 17 "Attack the Midianites and strike them dead. 18 For they attacked you with the treachery that they used against you in the Peor incident. They did the same in the case involving their sister Cozbi, daughter of the Midianite leader who was killed the day the plague came at Peor."

25:1-15 Despite God's determined plan to bless them (22:12; 23:8,11,20; 24:9-10), Israel continued to be unfaithful to him. They committed sexual immorality with Moabite women and worshiped Baal of Peor (for more on Baal, see the note on Jdg 3:7-11). The singling out of the leaders for execution suggests their responsibility in this rebellion. As in the golden calf incident, Israel's idolatry was followed by a plague and by judgment carried out by a subgroup of Israelites (Ex 32:26-28,35). Whereas the Levites were consequently ordained for service to God (Ex 32:29), Phinehas' line was given a covenant of perpetual priesthood. Sadly and ironically, the setting apart of both groups for special service resulted from their putting fellow Israelites to death for idolatry. The focus on a Midianite woman in verses 6-15, along with God's mandated judgment against the Midianites (vv. 16-18; see Nm 31), indicates this group's responsibility for this situation.

THE SECOND CENSUS

26 After the plague, the LORD said to Moses and Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, 2 "Take a census of the entire Israelite community by their ancestral families † of those twenty years old or more who can serve in Israel's army." †

3 So Moses and the priest Eleazar said to them in the plains of Moab † by the Jordan across from Jericho, 4 "Take a census of those twenty years old or more, as the LORD had commanded Moses and the Israelites who came out of the land of Egypt." †

5 Reuben † was the firstborn of Israel.
Reuben's descendants:
the Hanochite clan from Hanoch;
the Palluite clan from Pallu;
6 the Hezronite clan from Hezron;
the Carmite clan from Carmi.

7 These were the Reubenite clans, and their registered men numbered 43,730.
8 The son of Pallu was Eliab.
9 The sons of Eliab were Nemuel, Dathan, and Abiram.
(It was Dathan and Abiram, chosen by the community, who fought against Moses and Aaron; they and Korah's followers fought against the LORD. † 10 The earth opened its mouth and swallowed them with Korah, when his followers died and the fire consumed 250 men. † They serve as a warning sign. 11 The sons of Korah, however, did not die.)

12 Simeon's descendants by their clans:
the Nemuelite clan from Nemuel; †
the Jaminite clan from Jamin;
the Jachinite clan from Jachin;
13 the Zerahite clan from Zerah;
the Shaulite clan from Shaul.
14 These were the Simeonite clans, numbering 22,200 men.

15 Gad's descendants by their clans:
the Zephonite clan from Zephon;
the Haggite clan from Haggi;
the Shunite clan from Shuni; 16 the Oznite clan from Ozni;
the Erite clan from Eri;
17 the Arodite clan from Arod;
the Arelite clan from Areli.
18 These were the Gadite clans numbered by their registered men: 40,500.

19 Judah’s sons included Er and Onan, but they died in the land of Canaan. † 20 Judah’s descendants by their clans:
the Shelanite clan from Shelah;
the Perezite clan from Perez; †
the Zerahite clan from Zerah.
21 The descendants of Perez:
the Hezronite clan from Hezron;
the Hamulite clan from Hamul.
22 These were Judah’s clans numbered by their registered men: 76,500.

23 Issachar’s descendants by their clans:
the Tolaite clan from Tola;
the Punite clan from Puvah; † † 24 the Jashubite clan from Jashub;
the Shimronite clan from Shimron.
25 These were Issachar’s clans numbered by their registered men: 64,300.

26 Zebulun’s descendants by their clans:
the Seredite clan from Sered;
the Elonite clan from Elon;
the Jahleelite clan from Jahleel.
27 These were the Zebulunite clans numbered by their registered men: 60,500.

and Ephraim:

29 Manasseh’s descendants: † the Machirite clan from Machir.
Machir fathered Gilead;
the Gileadite clan from Gilead.
30 These were Gilead’s descendants:
the Iezerite clan from Iezer;
the Helekite clan from Helek; 31 the Asrielite clan from Asriel;
the Shechemite clan from Shechem; 32 the Shemidaite clan from Shemida;
the Hepherite clan from Hepher;
33 Zelophehad son of Hepher had no sons — only daughters. The names of Zelophehad’s daughters were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. † 34 These were Manasseh’s clans, numbered by their registered men: 52,700.
35 These were Ephraim’s descendants by their clans:
the Shuthelahite clan from Shuthelah;
the Becherite clan from Becher;
the Tahanite clan from Tahan.
36 These were Shuthelah’s descendants:
the Eranite clan from Eran.
37 These were the Ephraimite clans numbered by their registered men: 32,500.
These were Joseph’s descendants by their clans.

38 Benjamin’s descendants by their clans:

the Belaite clan from Bela;
the Ashbelite clan from Ashbel;
the Ahiramite clan from Ahiram; 39 the Shuphamite clan from Shupham; † the Huphamite clan from Hupham.
40 Bela's descendants from Ard and Naaman:
the Ardite clan from Ard;
the Naamite clan from Naaman.
41 These were the Benjaminite clans numbered by their registered men: 45,600.

42 These were Dan's descendants by their clans:
the Shuhamite clan from Shuham.
These were the clans of Dan by their clans.
43 All the Shuhamite clans numbered by their registered men: 64,400.

44 Asher's descendants by their clans:
the Imnite clan from Imnah;
the Ishvite clan from Ishvi;
the Beriite clan from Beriah.
45 From Beriah's descendants:
the Heberite clan from Heber;
the Malchielite clan from Malchiel.
46 And the name of Asher's daughter was Serah.
47 These were the Asherite clans numbered by their registered men: 53,400.

48 Naphtali's descendants by their clans:

the Jahzeelite clan from Jahzeel;
the Gunite clan from Guni; 49 the Jezerite clan from Jezer;
the Shillemite clan from Shillem.
50 These were the Naphtali clans numbered by their registered men: 45,400.

51 These registered Israelite men numbered 601,730.

52 The LORD spoke to Moses, 53 "The land is to be divided among them as an inheritance based on the number of names. 54 Increase the inheritance for a large tribe and decrease it for a small one. Each is to be given its inheritance according to those who were registered in it. 55 The land is to be divided by lot; they will receive an inheritance according to the names of their ancestral tribes. 56 Each inheritance will be divided by lot among the larger and smaller tribes." † 57 These were the Levites registered by their clans:

the Gershonite clan from Gershon;
the Kohathite clan from Kohath;
the Merarite clan from Merari.
58 These were the Levite family groups:
the Libnite clan,
the Hebronite clan,
the Mahlite clan,
the Mushite clan,
and the Korahite clan. †

Kohath was the ancestor of Amram. † 59 The name of Amram's wife was Jochebed, a descendant of Levi, born to Levi in Egypt. She bore to Amram: Aaron, Moses, and their sister Miriam. 60 Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar were born to Aaron, † 61 but Nadab and Abihu died when they presented unauthorized fire before the LORD. † 62 Those registered were 23,000, every male one month old or more; they were not registered among the other Israelites, because no inheritance was given to them among the Israelites.

63 These were the ones registered by Moses and the priest Eleazar when they registered the Israelites on the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho.
64 But among them there was not one of those who had been registered by Moses and the priest Aaron when they registered the Israelites in the Wilderness of Sinai. † 65 For the LORD had said to them that they would all die in the wilderness. None of them was left except Caleb son of Jephunneh and Joshua son of Nun.

26:1-4 As they had done in Numbers 1, the Israelites took a census of their fighting men. Those numbered this time were a new group of Israelites because the former group had all died in the wilderness—except for Caleb and Joshua (vv. 64-65; see also 14:22-24,28-32).

26:5-51 In contrast with the earlier census, this one lists the names of each clan within each tribe.

26:9-11 This is a reminder of Dathan and Abiram's role in Korah's rebellion in Numbers 16. Since the sons of Korah . . . did not die (v. 11), evidently some of them were spared the earlier judgment.

26:19 The reminder that Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan provides another subtle reminder of past sins (Gn 38:2-10).

26:51 The size of Israel's army was comparable to what it had been before (1:46).

26:52-56 One of the purposes for the census was to assist in the apportionment of the land of Canaan. More land was to be given to the more populous tribes, and the land must be divided by lot (see Jos 14-19).

26:61 This is yet another reminder of Nadab and Abihu's sin (see also 3:4; Lv 16:1; 1Ch 24:2).

26:62 As before (1:47-51), the Levites were counted separately; they would not inherit a portion of the land. Their number was comparable to what it had been before (3:39).

26:63-65 As Israel prepares to enter the promised land, the taking of the second census serves as a reminder of God's judgment on the older generation of Israelites who had come out of Egypt as adults who neither trusted nor obeyed God (see also 14:21-23,28-32,35).

A CASE OF DAUGHTERS' INHERITANCE

27 The daughters of Zelophehad approached; Zelophehad was the son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh from the clans of Manasseh, the son of Joseph. These were the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 2 They stood before Moses, the priest Eleazar, the leaders, and the entire community at the entrance to the tent of meeting and said, 3 "Our father died in the wilderness, but he was not among Korah's followers, who gathered together against the LORD. † Instead, he died because of his own sin, and he had no sons. 4 Why should the name of our father be taken away from his clan? Since he had no son, give us property among our father's brothers."
5 Moses brought their case before the LORD, 6 and the LORD answered him, 7 "What Zelophehad's daughters say is correct. You are to give them hereditary property among their father's brothers and transfer their father's inheritance to them. † 8 Tell the Israelites: When a man dies without having a son, transfer his inheritance to his daughter. 9 If he has no daughter, give his inheritance to his brothers. 10 If he has no brothers, give his inheritance to his father's brothers. 11 If his father has no brothers, give his inheritance to the nearest relative of his clan, and he will take possession of it. This is to be a statutory ordinance for the Israelites as the LORD commanded Moses."

JOSHUA COMMISSIONED TO SUCCEED MOSES

12 Then the LORD said to Moses, † "Go up this mountain of the Abarim range † and see the land that I have given the Israelites. 13 After you have seen it, you will also be gathered to your people, as Aaron your brother was. † 14 When the community quarreled in the Wilderness of Zin, both of you rebelled against my command to demonstrate my holiness in their sight at the waters." Those were the Waters of Meribah-kadesh † in the Wilderness of Zin. †
15 So Moses appealed to the LORD, 16 "May the LORD, the God who gives breath to all, † † appoint a man over the community 17 who will go out before them and come back in before them, † and who will bring them out and bring them in, so that the LORD's community won't be like sheep without a shepherd." †
18 The LORD replied to Moses, "Take Joshua son of Nun, a man who has the Spirit in him, and lay your hands on him. † 19 Have him stand before the priest

Eleazar and the whole community, and commission † him in their sight.
20 Confer some of your authority on him so that the entire Israelite community will obey him. 21 He will stand before the priest Eleazar who will consult the LORD for him with the decision of the Urim. † He and all the Israelites with him, even the entire community, will go out and come back in at his command." 22 Moses did as the LORD commanded him. He took Joshua, had him stand before the priest Eleazar and the entire community, 23 laid his hands on him, and commissioned him, as the LORD had spoken through Moses.

27:1-11 Zelophehad's daughters requested to inherit their father's property since he had no sons. Moses brought their case before the LORD, who saw their request as legitimate and granted it. He also gave further instructions to cover similar situations in the future (vv. 8-11). This case resembles other situations in which Moses sought God because he needed wisdom related to the application of a particular law (see also 9:6-13; 15:32-36; Lv 24:10-16). This particular case will be revisited in Numbers 36.

27:15-21 The Lord had declared that Moses and Aaron would die outside the promised land because of their sin at Meribah (vv. 12-14; 20:7-13). Aaron had already died on Mount Hor (20:22-29), and now Moses's death draws near. Moses prayed to God for a new leader for Israel, whom God declared to be Joshua. He was a man who has the Spirit in him (see also Dt 34:9).

PRESCRIBED OFFERINGS

28 The LORD spoke to Moses, 2 "Command the Israelites and say to them:
Be sure to present to me at its appointed time my offering and my food † as my fire offering, a pleasing aroma to me. † 3 And say to them: This is the fire offering you are to present to the LORD: †

DAILY OFFERINGS

"Each day present two unblemished year-old male lambs as a regular burnt offering. 4 Offer one lamb in the morning and the other lamb at twilight, 5 along with two quarts † of fine flour for a grain offering mixed with a quart † of olive oil from crushed olives. † 6 It is a regular burnt offering established at Mount Sinai for a pleasing aroma, a fire offering to the LORD. 7 The drink offering is to be a quart with each lamb. Pour out the offering of beer to the LORD in the sanctuary area. 8 Offer the second lamb at twilight, along with the same kind of grain offering and drink offering as in the morning. It is a fire offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD.

SABBATH OFFERINGS

9 "On the Sabbath day present two unblemished year-old male lambs, four quarts † of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering, and its drink offering.
10 It is the burnt offering for every Sabbath, in addition to the regular burnt offering and its drink offering. †

MONTHLY OFFERINGS

11 "At the beginning of each of your months † present a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, seven male lambs a year old — all unblemished — 12 with six quarts † of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering for each bull, four quarts of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering for the ram, 13 and two quarts † of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering for each lamb. It is a burnt offering, a pleasing aroma, a fire offering to the LORD.
14 Their drink offerings are to be two quarts † of wine with each bull, one and a third quarts † with the ram, and one quart † with each male lamb. This is the monthly burnt offering for all the months of the year. 15 And one male goat is to be offered as a sin offering to the LORD, in addition to the regular burnt offering with its drink offering.

OFFERINGS FOR PASSOVER

16 "The Passover † to the LORD comes in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month. 17 On the fifteenth day of this month there will be a festival; unleavened bread is to be eaten for seven days. 18 On the first day there is to be a sacred assembly; you are not to do any daily work. † 19 Present a fire offering, a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old. Your animals are to be unblemished. † 20 The grain offering with them is to be of fine flour mixed with oil; offer six quarts with each bull and four quarts with the ram. 21 Offer two quarts with each of the seven lambs 22 and one male goat for a sin offering to make atonement for yourselves. 23 Offer these with the morning burnt offering that is part of the regular burnt offering. 24 You are to offer the same food each day for seven days as a fire offering, † a pleasing aroma to the LORD. It is to be offered with its drink offering and the regular burnt offering. 25 On the seventh day you are to hold a sacred assembly; you are not to do any daily work.

OFFERINGS FOR THE FESTIVAL OF WEEKS

26 "On the day of firstfruits, you are to hold a sacred assembly when you present an offering of new grain to the LORD at your Festival of Weeks; † you are not to do any daily work. 27 Present a burnt offering for a pleasing aroma to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old, 28 with their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, six quarts with each bull, four quarts with the ram, 29 and two quarts with each of the seven lambs, 30 and one male goat to make atonement for yourselves. 31 Offer them with their drink offerings in addition to the regular burnt offering and its grain offering. Your animals are to be unblemished.

28:3-8 These daily offerings were mentioned in Exodus 29:38-42. Descriptions of offerings related to various days and festivals are described starting here through the end of Numbers 29.

FESTIVAL OF TRUMPETS OFFERINGS

29 "You are to hold a sacred assembly in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, and you are not to do any daily work. † This will be a day of trumpet blasts for you. † 2 Offer a burnt offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD: one young bull, one ram, seven male lambs a year old — all unblemished — 3 with their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, six quarts † with the bull, four quarts † with the ram, 4 and two quarts † with each of the seven male lambs. 5 Also offer one male goat as a sin offering to make atonement for yourselves. 6 These are in addition to the monthly and regular burnt offerings with their prescribed grain offerings and drink offerings. They are a pleasing aroma, a fire offering to the LORD.

OFFERINGS FOR THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

7 “You are to hold a sacred assembly on the tenth day of this seventh month and practice self-denial; † do not do any work. 8 Present a burnt offering to the LORD, a pleasing aroma: one young bull, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old. All your animals are to be unblemished. 9 Their grain offering is to be of fine flour mixed with oil, six quarts with the bull, four quarts with the ram, 10 and two quarts with each of the seven lambs. 11 Offer one male goat for a sin offering. The regular burnt offering with its grain offering and drink offerings are in addition to the sin offering of atonement.

OFFERINGS FOR THE FESTIVAL OF SHELTERS

12 “You are to hold a sacred assembly on the fifteenth day of the seventh month; † you do not do any daily work. You are to celebrate a seven-day festival for the LORD. 13 Present a burnt offering, a fire offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD: thirteen young bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old. They are to be unblemished. 14 Their grain offering is to be of fine flour mixed with oil, six quarts with each of the thirteen bulls, four quarts with each of the two rams, 15 and two quarts with each of the fourteen lambs. 16 Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink offerings.

17 “On the second day present twelve young bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old — all unblemished — 18 with their grain and drink offerings † for the bulls, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their number. 19 Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink and their drink offerings.

20 “On the third day present eleven bulls, two rams, fourteen male lambs a year old — all unblemished — 21 with their grain and drink offerings for the bulls, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their number. 22 Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink offerings.

23 “On the fourth day present ten bulls, two rams, fourteen male lambs a year old — all unblemished — 24 with their grain and drink offerings for the bulls, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their number. 25 Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink offerings.

26 “On the fifth day present nine bulls, two rams, fourteen male lambs a year old

— all unblemished — [27] with their grain and drink offerings for the bulls, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their number. [28] Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink offerings.
[29] "On the sixth day present eight bulls, two rams, fourteen male lambs a year old — all unblemished — [30] with their grain and drink offerings for the bulls, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their number. [31] Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink offerings.
[32] "On the seventh day present seven bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old — all unblemished — [33] with their grain and drink offerings for the bulls, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their number. [34] Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink offerings.
[35] "On the eighth day you are to hold a solemn assembly; you are not to do any daily work. † [36] Present a burnt offering, a fire offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD: one bull, one ram, seven male lambs a year old — all unblemished — [37] with their grain and drink offerings for the bulls, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their number. [38] Also offer one male goat as a sin offering. These are in addition to the regular burnt offering with its grain and drink offerings.
[39] "Offer these to the LORD at your appointed times in addition to your vow and freewill offerings, whether burnt, grain, drink, or fellowship offerings." [40] So Moses told the Israelites everything the LORD had commanded him.

REGULATIONS ABOUT VOWS

30 Moses told the leaders of the Israelite tribes, † "This is what the LORD has commanded: [2] When a man makes a vow to the LORD or swears an oath to put himself under an obligation, he must not break his word; he must do whatever he has promised. † [3] "When a woman in her father's house during her youth makes a vow to the LORD or puts herself under an obligation, [4] and her father hears about her vow or the obligation she put herself under, and he says nothing to her, all her vows and every obligation she put herself under are binding. 5 But if her father prohibits her on the day he hears about it, none of her vows and none of the obligations she put herself under are binding. The LORD will release her because her father has prohibited her.

6 "If a woman marries while her vows or the rash commitment she herself made are binding, 7 and her husband hears about it and says nothing to her when he finds out, her vows are binding, and the obligations she put herself under are binding. 8 But if her husband prohibits her when he hears about it, he will cancel her vow that is binding or the rash commitment she herself made, and the LORD will release her.
9 "Every vow a widow or divorced woman puts herself under is binding on her.
10 "If a woman in her husband's house has made a vow or put herself under an obligation with an oath, 11 and her husband hears about it, says nothing to her, and does not prohibit her, all her vows are binding, and every obligation she put herself under is binding. 12 But if her husband cancels them on the day he hears about it, nothing that came from her lips, whether her vows or her obligation, is binding. Her husband has canceled them, and the LORD will release her. 13 Her husband may confirm or cancel any vow or any sworn obligation to deny herself. 14 If her husband says nothing at all to her from day to day, he confirms all her vows and obligations, which are binding. He has confirmed them because he said nothing to her when he heard about them. 15 But if he cancels them after he hears about them, he will be responsible for her commitment." †
16 These are the statutes that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the relationship between a man and his wife, or between a father and his daughter in his house during her youth.

30:15 Or will bear her guilt

30:1 1Kg 8:1 30:2 Dt 23:21; Jb 22:27; Ps 22:25; 50:14; 56:12; 66:13,14; 116:14,18; Ec 5:4; Nah 1:15; Mal 1:14; Mt 5:33

30:1-16 These instructions concerning vows express their binding nature and the possibility that the vow of a daughter or wife could be annulled. If a daughter who still lives in his house makes a vow and the father hears about her vow and says nothing about it, then the vow is binding. If he prohibits her on the day he hears about it, then the vow is not. Similar instructions apply to married women. Rather than encouraging rash vows among these women, these instructions highlight both the authority and responsibility of fathers and husbands for the women under their care.

WAR WITH MIDIAN

31 The LORD spoke to Moses, 2 “Execute vengeance for the Israelites against the Midianites. After that, you will be gathered to your people.” †
3 So Moses spoke to the people, “Equip some of your men for war. They will go against Midian to inflict the LORD’s vengeance † on them. 4 Send one thousand men to war from each Israelite tribe.” 5 So one thousand were recruited from each Israelite tribe out of the thousands † in Israel — twelve thousand equipped for war. 6 Moses sent one thousand from each tribe to war. They went with Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest, in whose care were the holy objects and signal trumpets.
7 They waged war against Midian, as the LORD had commanded Moses, and killed every male. † 8 Along with the others slain by them, they killed the Midianite kings — Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, the five kings of Midian. †
They also killed Balaam son of Beor † with the sword. 9 The Israelites took the Midianite women and their dependents captive, and they plundered all their cattle, flocks, and property. † 10 Then they burned all the cities where the Midianites lived, as well as all their encampments, 11 and took away all the spoils of war and the captives, both people and animals. 12 They brought the prisoners, animals, and spoils of war to Moses, the priest Eleazar, and the Israelite community at the camp on the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho.
13 Moses, the priest Eleazar, and all the leaders of the community went to meet them outside the camp. 14 But Moses became furious with the officers, the commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, who were returning from the military campaign. 15 “Have you let every female live?” he asked them. 16 “Yet they are the ones who, at Balaam’s advice, incited the Israelites to unfaithfulness against the LORD in the Peor incident, so that the plague came against the LORD’s community. † 17 So now, kill every male among the dependents and kill every woman who has gone to bed with a man, † 18 but keep alive for yourselves all the young females who have not gone to bed with a man. † 19 “You are to remain outside the camp for seven days. All of you and your prisoners who have killed a person or touched the dead are to purify yourselves on the third day and the seventh day. † 20 Also purify everything: garments, leather goods, things made of goat hair, and every article of wood." † 21 Then the priest Eleazar said to the soldiers who had gone to battle, "This is the legal statute the LORD commanded Moses: 22 The gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin, and lead — 23 everything that can withstand fire — you are to pass through fire, and it will be clean. It must still be purified with the purification water. † Anything that cannot withstand fire, pass through the water. 24 On the seventh day wash your clothes, and you will be clean. † After that you may enter the camp."

25 The LORD told Moses, 26 "You, the priest Eleazar, and the family heads of the community are to take a count of what was captured, people and animals. 27 Then divide the captives between the troops who went out to war and the entire community. † 28 Set aside a tribute for the LORD from what belongs to the fighting men who went out to war: one out of every five hundred people, cattle, donkeys, sheep, and goats. 29 Take the tribute from their half and give it to the priest Eleazar as a contribution to the LORD. 30 From the Israelites' half, take one out of every fifty from the people, cattle, donkeys, sheep, and goats, all the livestock, and give them to the Levites who perform the duties of † the LORD's tabernacle."
31 So Moses and the priest Eleazar did as the LORD commanded Moses. 32 The captives remaining from the plunder the army had taken totaled:

675,000 sheep and goats,
33 72,000 cattle,
34 61,000 donkeys,
35 and 32,000 people, all the females who had not gone to bed with a man.

36 The half portion for those who went out to war numbered:

337,500 sheep and goats,
37 and the tribute to the LORD was 675

from the sheep and goats; 38 from the 36,000 cattle,
the tribute to the LORD was 72;
39 from the 30,500 donkeys,
the tribute to the LORD was 61;
40 and from the 16,000 people, the tribute to the LORD was 32 people.

41 Moses gave the tribute to the priest Eleazar as a contribution for the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses.
42 From the Israelites' half, which Moses separated from the men who fought, 43 the community's half was:

337,500 sheep and goats,
44 36,000 cattle,
45 30,500 donkeys,
46 and 16,000 people.

47 Moses took one out of every fifty, selected from the people and the livestock of the Israelites' half. He gave them to the Levites who perform the duties of the LORD's tabernacle, as the LORD had commanded him.
48 The officers who were over the thousands of the army, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, approached Moses 49 and told him, "Your servants have taken a census of the fighting men under our command, and not one of us is missing. 50 So we have presented to the LORD an offering of the gold articles each man found — armlets, bracelets, rings, earrings, and necklaces — to make atonement for ourselves before the LORD." † 51 Moses and the priest Eleazar received from them all the articles made out of gold. 52 All the gold of the contribution they offered to the LORD, from the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, was 420 pounds. † 53 Each of the soldiers had taken plunder for himself. † 54 Moses and the priest Eleazar received the gold from the commanders of thousands and of hundreds and brought it into the tent of meeting as a memorial for the Israelites before the LORD.

31:2 The Lord had previously instructed the Israelites to attack the Midianites (25:17) because of their role in Israel's idolatry with Baal of Peor (25:1-18). This vengeance was to be one of Moses's final acts.

31:8 The surprising mention of Balaam here reflects his involvement with this affair (see also v. 16).

31:13-18 The Israelites had killed every male (v. 7) but had allowed the women to live (v. 9), to Moses's dismay. He reminded them that it was the women who incited the Israelites to unfaithfulness against the LORD through sexual immorality and then idolatry (see also 25:1-3). For this reason, Moses commanded the killing of every woman who has had sexual relations with a man. Holy war, in which Israel was to kill their enemies, had several purposes including judgment on evil, the eradication of impurity from the land, and the removal of those who would influence Israel to participate in sin and idolatry (see the note on 33:50-56).

31:48-50 Aside from the tribute for the Lord (v. 28), the army leaders also decided to give an additional offering to God because not one of them was missing following the battle. All survived.

TRANSJORDAN SETTLEMENTS

32 The Reubenites and Gadites had a very large number of livestock. When they surveyed the lands of Jazer † and Gilead, they saw that the region was a good one for livestock. 2 So the Gadites and Reubenites came to Moses, the priest Eleazar, and the leaders of the community and said: 3 "The territory of Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Sebam, † Nebo, and Beon, † 4 which the LORD struck down † before the community of Israel, † is good land for livestock, and your servants own livestock." 5 They said, "If we have found favor with you, let this land be given to your servants as a possession. Don't make us cross the Jordan."

6 But Moses asked the Gadites and Reubenites, "Should your brothers go to war while you stay here? 7 Why are you discouraging the Israelites from crossing into the land the LORD has given them? 8 That's what your fathers did when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to see the land. † 9 After they went up as far as Eshcol Valley and saw the land, they discouraged the Israelites from entering the land the LORD had given them. 10 So the LORD's anger burned that day, and he swore an oath: † 11 ‘Because they did not remain loyal to me, † none of the men twenty years old or more who came up from Egypt will see the land I swore to give Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob † — 12 none except Caleb † son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite and Joshua † son of Nun, because they did remain loyal to the LORD.’ 13 The LORD’s anger burned against Israel, and he made them wander in the wilderness forty years until the whole generation that had done what was evil in the LORD’s sight was gone. † 14 And here you, a brood of sinners, stand in your fathers’ place adding even more to the LORD’s burning anger against Israel. 15 If you turn back from following him, † he will once again leave this people in the wilderness, and you will destroy all of them.”

16 Then they approached him and said, “We want to build sheep pens here for our livestock and cities for our dependents. 17 But we will arm ourselves and be ready to go ahead of the Israelites until we have brought them into their place. † Meanwhile, our dependents will remain in the fortified cities because of the inhabitants of the land. 18 We will not return to our homes until each of the Israelites has taken possession of his inheritance. † 19 Yet we will not have an inheritance with them across the Jordan and beyond, because our inheritance will be across the Jordan to the east.” †
20 Moses replied to them, “If you do this — if you arm yourselves for battle before the LORD, 21 and every one of your armed men crosses the Jordan before the LORD until he has driven his enemies from his presence, 22 and the land is subdued before the LORD — afterward you may return and be free from obligation to the LORD and to Israel. And this land will belong to you as a possession before the LORD. 23 But if you don’t do this, you will certainly sin against the LORD; be sure your sin will catch up with you. 24 Build cities for your dependents and pens for your flocks, but do what you have promised.” †
25 The Gadites and Reubenites answered Moses, “Your servants will do just as my lord commands. 26 Our dependents, wives, livestock, and all our animals will remain here in the cities of Gilead, 27 but your servants are equipped for war before the LORD and will go across to the battle as my lord orders.”
28 So Moses gave orders about them to the priest Eleazar, Joshua son of Nun, and the family heads of the Israelite tribes. 29 Moses told them, “If the Gadites and Reubenites cross the Jordan with you, every man in battle formation before the LORD, and the land is subdued before you, you are to give them the land of Gilead as a possession. † 30 But if they don't go across with you in battle formation, they must accept land in Canaan with you."

31 The Gadites and Reubenites replied, "What the LORD has spoken to your servants is what we will do. 32 We will cross over in battle formation before the LORD into the land of Canaan, but we will keep our hereditary possession across the Jordan."
33 So Moses gave them — the Gadites, Reubenites, and half the tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph — the kingdom of King Sihon of the Amorites and the kingdom of King Og of Bashan, the land including its cities with the territories surrounding them. † 34 The Gadites rebuilt Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, 35 Atroth-shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah, 36 Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran † as fortified cities, and built sheep pens. 37 The Reubenites rebuilt Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim, 38 as well as Nebo and Baal-meon (whose names were changed), and Sibmah. They gave names to the cities they rebuilt.
39 The descendants of Machir † son of Manasseh went to Gilead, captured it, and drove out the Amorites who were there. 40 So Moses gave Gilead to the clan of Machir son of Manasseh, and they settled in it. † 41 Jair, a descendant of Manasseh, went and captured their villages, which he renamed Jair's Villages. † † 42 Nobah went and captured Kenath with its surrounding villages and called it Nobah after his own name.

32:16-19 The tribes of Reuben and Gad wanted the land east of the Jordan that had belonged to Sihon and Og (vv. 1-5,33). Moses was initially displeased because he saw this as a discouragement to the other tribes from crossing the Jordan to take possession of "the land the LORD has given to them" (v. 7). When the men of the three tribes explained that they would cross the Jordan to help their kinsmen take possession of the land, Moses accepted their proposal under these conditions (vv. 20-24,28-30; see also note on Jos 22:13-20). Half of the tribe of Manasseh was also involved with this request (v. 33).

WILDERNESS TRAVELS REVIEWED

33 These were the stages of the Israelites' journey when they went out of the land of Egypt by their military divisions under the leadership of Moses and Aaron. 2 At the LORD's command, Moses wrote down the starting points for the stages of their journey; these are the stages listed by their starting points:

3 They traveled from Rameses † in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the month. On the day after the Passover † the Israelites went out defiantly † † in the sight of all the Egyptians.
4 Meanwhile, the Egyptians were burying every firstborn male the LORD had struck down among them, for the LORD had executed judgment against their gods. † 5 The Israelites traveled from Rameses and camped at Succoth. † 6 They traveled from Succoth and camped at Etham, † which is on the edge of the wilderness.
7 They traveled from Etham and turned back to Pi-hahiroth, which faces Baal-zephon, and they camped before Migdol. † 8 They traveled from Pi-hahiroth † and crossed through the middle of the sea † into the wilderness. They took a three-day journey into the Wilderness of Etham and camped at Marah. † 9 They traveled from Marah and came to Elim. † There were twelve springs and seventy date palms at Elim, so they camped
there.
10 They traveled from Elim and camped by the Red Sea.
11 They traveled from the Red Sea and camped in the Wilderness of Sin. †
12 They traveled from the Wilderness of Sin and camped in Dophkah.

13 They traveled from Dophkah and camped at Alush.
14 They traveled from Alush and camped at Rephidim, † where there was no water for the people to drink. †
15 They traveled from Rephidim and camped in the Wilderness of Sinai. †
16 They traveled from the Wilderness of Sinai and camped at Kibroth-hattaavah. †
17 They traveled from Kibroth-hattaavah and camped at Hazeroth. †
18 They traveled from Hazeroth and camped at Rithmah.
19 They traveled from Rithmah and camped at Rimmon-perez.
20 They traveled from Rimmon-perez and camped at Libnah.
21 They traveled from Libnah and camped at Rissah.
22 They traveled from Rissah and camped at Kehelathah.
23 They traveled from Kehelathah and camped at Mount Shepher.
24 They traveled from Mount Shepher and camped at Haradah.
25 They traveled from Haradah and camped at Makheloth.
26 They traveled from Makheloth and camped at Tahath.
27 They traveled from Tahath and camped at Terah.
28 They traveled from Terah and camped at Mithkah.
29 They traveled from Mithkah and camped at Hashmonah.
30 They traveled from Hashmonah and camped at Moseroth.
31 They traveled from Moseroth and camped at Bene-jaakan. †
32 They traveled from Bene-jaakan and camped at Hor-haggidgad.
33 They traveled from Hor-haggidgad and camped at Jotbathah.

34 They traveled from Jotbathah and camped at Abronah.
35 They traveled from Abronah and camped at Ezion-geber. †
36 They traveled from Ezion-geber and camped in the Wilderness of Zin † (that is, Kadesh).
37 They traveled from Kadesh and camped at Mount Hor † on the edge of the land of Edom. 38 At the LORD's command, the priest Aaron climbed Mount Hor and died there on the first day of the fifth month in the fortieth year after the Israelites went out of the land of Egypt. † 39 Aaron was 123 years old when he died on Mount Hor. 40 At that time the Canaanite king of Arad, who lived in the Negev in the land of Canaan, † heard the Israelites were coming.
41 They traveled from Mount Hor and camped at Zalmonah.
42 They traveled from Zalmonah and camped at Punon.
43 They traveled from Punon and camped at Oboth. †
44 They traveled from Oboth and camped at Iye-abarim on the border of Moab. †
45 They traveled from Iyim † and camped at Dibon-gad. †
46 They traveled from Dibon-gad and camped at Almon-diblathaim. †
47 They traveled from Almon-diblathaim and camped in the Abarim † range facing Nebo. †
48 They traveled from the Abarim range and camped on the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho. † 49 They camped by the Jordan from Beth-jeshimoth † to the Acacia Meadow † † on the plains of Moab.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR OCCUPYING CANAAN

50 The LORD spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho, 51 "Tell the Israelites: When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, 52 you must drive out all the inhabitants of the land before you, destroy all their stone images † and cast images, † and demolish all their high places. 53 You are to take possession of the land and settle in it because I have given you the land † to possess. 54 You are to receive the land as an inheritance by lot according to your clans. Increase the inheritance for a large clan and decrease it for a small one. Whatever place the lot indicates for someone will be his. You will receive an inheritance according to your ancestral tribes. 55 But if you don't drive out the inhabitants of the land before you, those you allow to remain will become barbs for your eyes and thorns for your sides; they will harass you in the land where you will live. 56 And what I had planned to do to them, I will do to you." †

33:1-48 Moses wrote down the following detailed record of the places the Israelites had been in the wilderness. Verses 3-48 thus serve as a reminder of the faithfulness of God, who had led them to so many places and through so many situations over the course of forty years, from Egypt to the edge of the promised land (in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho; v. 50).

33:50-56 As the Israelites prepared to enter the promised land, God instructed them to drive out all the inhabitants of the land. The reason behind this was the Canaanites' idolatry (v. 52; see also Gn 15:16), which would negatively influence Israel and bring them under the same judgment. This important command is repeated elsewhere (Dt 7:1-5; Jos 23:2-13). An instruction about distributing the land by lot and apportioning it based on the size of a particular tribe was also given in 26:52-56.

BOUNDARIES OF THE PROMISED LAND

34 The LORD spoke to Moses, 2 "Command the Israelites and say to them: When you enter the land of Canaan, it will be allotted to you as an inheritance † with these borders:

3 Your southern side will be from the Wilderness of Zin along the boundary of Edom. Your southern border on the east will begin at the east end of the Dead Sea. 4 Your border will turn south of the Scorpions' Ascent, † proceed to Zin, and end south of Kadesh-barnea. It will go to Hazar-addar and proceed to Azmon. † 5 The border will turn from Azmon † to the Brook of Egypt, † where it will end at the Mediterranean Sea.
6 Your western border will be the coastline of the Mediterranean Sea; this will be your western border.
7 This will be your northern border: From the Mediterranean Sea draw a line to Mount Hor; † 8 from Mount Hor draw a line to the entrance of Hamath, † † and the border will reach Zedad. † 9 Then the border will go to Ziphron and end at Hazar-enan. † This will be your northern border.
10 For your eastern border, draw a line from Hazar-enan to Shepham. 11 The border will go down from Shepham to Riblah east of Ain. † It will continue down and reach the eastern slope of the Sea of Chinnereth. † † 12 Then the border will go down to the Jordan and end at the Dead Sea. This will be your land defined by its borders on all sides."
13 So Moses commanded the Israelites, "This is the land you are to receive by lot as an inheritance, which the LORD commanded to be given to the nine and a half tribes. 14 For the tribe of Reuben's descendants and the tribe of Gad's descendants have received their inheritance according to their ancestral families, † and half the tribe of Manasseh has received its inheritance. 15 The two and a half tribes have received their inheritance † across the Jordan east of Jericho, toward the sunrise."

LEADERS FOR DISTRIBUTING THE LAND

16 The LORD spoke to Moses, 17 "These are the names of the men who are to distribute the land as an inheritance for you: the priest Eleazar and Joshua son of Nun. 18 Take one leader from each tribe to distribute the land. 19 These are the names of the men:

Caleb † son of Jephunneh from the tribe of Judah;
20 Shemuel son of Ammihud from the tribe of Simeon's

descendants;
21 Elidad son of Chislon from the tribe of Benjamin;
22 Bukki son of Jogli, a leader from the tribe of Dan's descendants;
23 from the sons of Joseph:
Hanniel son of Ephod, a leader from the tribe of Manasseh's descendants, 24 Kemuel son of Shiphtan, a leader from the tribe of Ephraim's descendants;
25 Elizaphan son of Parnach, a leader from the tribe of Zebulun's descendants;
26 Paltiel son of Azzan, a leader from the tribe of Issachar's descendants;
27 Ahihud son of Shelomi, a leader from the tribe of Asher's descendants;
28 Pedahel son of Ammihud, a leader from the tribe of Naphtali's descendants."

29 These are the ones the LORD commanded to distribute the inheritance to the Israelites in the land of Canaan.

34:3-12 Although some of these places can still be identified today (e.g., Dead Sea, Mediterranean Sea, Sea of Chinnereth), others cannot.

34:13-15 The land demarcated in verses 1-12 was to be divided among nine and a half tribes because Reuben, Gad, and half of the tribe of Manasseh received their allotment of land on the other side of the Jordan (see Nm 32).

CITIES FOR THE LEVITES

35 The LORD again spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho: † 2 "Command the Israelites to give cities out of their hereditary property for the Levites to live in and pastureland around the cities. † 3 The cities will be for them to live in, and their pasturelands will be for their herds, flocks, and all their other animals. 4 The pasturelands of the cities you are to give the Levites will extend from the city wall five hundred yards † on every side. 5 Measure a thousand yards † outside the city for the east side, a thousand yards for the south side, a thousand yards for the west side, and a thousand yards for the north side, with the city in the center. This will belong to them as pasturelands for the cities.

6 "The cities you give the Levites will include six cities of refuge, † which you will provide so that the one who kills someone may flee there; in addition to these, give forty-two other cities. † 7 The total number of cities you give the Levites will be forty-eight, along with their pasturelands. † 8 Of the cities that you give from the Israelites' territory, you should take more from a larger tribe and less from a smaller one. † Each tribe is to give some of its cities to the Levites in proportion to the inheritance it receives."

CITIES OF REFUGE

9 The LORD said to Moses, 10 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them: When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, 11 designate cities to serve as cities of refuge for you, so that a person who kills someone unintentionally may flee there. † 12 You will have the cities as a refuge from the avenger, † so that the one who kills someone will not die until he stands trial before the assembly. 13 The cities you select will be your six cities of refuge. 14 Select three cities across the Jordan and three cities in the land of Canaan to be cities of refuge. † 15 These six cities will serve as a refuge for the Israelites and for the alien or temporary resident among them, so that anyone who kills a person unintentionally may flee there.

16 "If anyone strikes a person with an iron object and death results, he is a murderer; the murderer must be put to death. † 17 If anyone has in his hand a stone capable of causing death and strikes another person and he dies, the murderer must be put to death. 18 If anyone has in his hand a wooden object capable of causing death and strikes another person and he dies, the murderer must be put to death. 19 The avenger of blood himself is to kill the murderer;

when he finds him, he is to kill him. † 20 Likewise, if anyone in hatred pushes a person or throws an object at him with malicious intent and he dies, 21 or if in hostility he strikes him with his hand and he dies, the one who struck him must be put to death; he is a murderer. The avenger of blood is to kill the murderer when he finds him.
22 "But if anyone suddenly pushes a person without hostility or throws any object at him without malicious intent 23 or without looking drops a stone that could kill a person and he dies, but he was not his enemy and didn't intend to harm him, 24 the assembly is to judge between the person who kills someone and the avenger of blood according to these ordinances. 25 The assembly is to protect the one who kills someone from the avenger of blood. Then the assembly will return him to the city of refuge he fled to, and he must live there until the death of the high priest who was anointed with the holy oil. † 26 "If the one who kills someone ever goes outside the border of the city of refuge he fled to, 27 and the avenger of blood finds him outside the border of his city of refuge and kills him, the avenger will not be guilty of bloodshed, 28 for the one who killed a person was supposed to live in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest. Only after the death of the high priest may the one who has killed a person return to the land he possesses. 29 These instructions will be a statutory ordinance for you throughout your generations wherever you live.
30 "If anyone kills a person, the murderer is to be put to death based on the word of witnesses. But no one is to be put to death based on the testimony of one witness. † 31 You are not to accept a ransom for the life of someone who is guilty of murder; he must be put to death. 32 Neither should you accept a ransom for the person who flees to his city of refuge, allowing him to return and live in the land before the death of the high priest.
33 "Do not defile the land where you live, for bloodshed defiles the land, † and there can be no atonement for the land because of the blood that is shed on it, except by the blood of the person who shed it. 34 Do not make the land unclean where you live and where I dwell; for I, the LORD, reside among the Israelites."

35:1-5 The tribe of Levi would not receive a portion of land along with the other tribes (see 18:20-24; 26:52-62). Instead, the other tribes were to give the Levites cities out of their hereditary property for the Levites to live in and pastureland around the cities (see also v. 8). According to one estimate, the forty-eight cities given to the Levites including their pasturelands amounted to a mere 0.1 percent of the land of Canaan. Thus, it was indeed accurate to say that the Levites had no "inheritance among the Israelites" (18:23).

35:9-34 Among the forty-eight cities given to the Levites, six were to be cities of refuge (vv. 6-7). The purpose of these cities was to provide protection for a person who kills someone unintentionally (see also vv. 15,22-23). In such a situation, an avenger presumably would seek this person's life, but this set of laws provided for a trial and for protection of the innocent. Such cities were foreshadowed in Exodus 21:13 and are also discussed in Deuteronomy 4:41-43 and 19:1-10. They were to be spread throughout the land for ease of access (see Dt 19:3-6), with three cities across the Jordan and three cities in the land of Canaan. Murderers were still to be punished by death. See "Biblical View of Crime and Punishment," p. 105

THE INHERITANCE OF ZELOPHEHAD'S DAUGHTERS

36 The family heads from the clan of the descendants of Gilead — the son of Machir, son of Manasseh † — who were from the clans of the sons of Joseph, approached and addressed Moses and the leaders who were heads of the Israelite families. 2 They said, "The LORD commanded my lord to give the land as an inheritance by lot to the Israelites. My lord was further commanded by the LORD to give our brother Zelophehad's inheritance to his daughters. † 3 If they marry any of the men from the other Israelite tribes, their inheritance will be taken away from our fathers' inheritance and added to that of the tribe into which they marry. Therefore, part of our allotted inheritance would be taken away. 4 When the Jubilee † comes for the Israelites, their inheritance will be added to that of the tribe into which they marry, and their inheritance will be taken away from the inheritance of our ancestral tribe."

5 So Moses commanded the Israelites at the word of the LORD, "What the tribe of Joseph's descendants says is right. 6 This is what the LORD has commanded concerning Zelophehad's daughters: They may marry anyone they like provided they marry within a clan of their ancestral tribe. 7 No inheritance belonging to the Israelites is to transfer from tribe to tribe, because each of the Israelites is to retain the inheritance of his ancestral tribe. † 8 Any daughter who possesses an inheritance from an Israelite tribe must marry someone from the clan of her ancestral tribe, so that each of the Israelites will possess the inheritance of his fathers. 9 No inheritance is to transfer from one tribe to another, because each of the Israelite tribes is to retain its inheritance.”

10 The daughters of Zelophehad did as the LORD commanded Moses. 11 Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, married cousins on their father’s side. 12 They married men from the clans of the descendants of Manasseh son of Joseph, and their inheritance remained within the tribe of their father’s clan.
13 These are the commands and ordinances the LORD commanded the Israelites through Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho.

36:3-9 The case of Zelophehad’s daughters had come up in 27:1-11, and through it these women were given the right to their father’s inheritance because he had no sons. Their situation arises again here because of the possibility of their marriage to men from the other Israelite tribes, which would result in the loss of this inheritance to these tribes. Consequently, Moses commanded the Israelites at the word of the LORD that Zelophehad’s daughters and those like them must marry within their own tribe because inheritances must not transfer from tribe to tribe.

DEUTERONOMY

INTRODUCTION

The title of this book of the Pentateuch, Deuteronomy, comes from the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the OT) and means “second law” or “repetition of the law.” The phrase is actually a mistranslation of 17:18, which reads “a copy of this instruction.” It is still a fitting title since much of the book contains repetitions of the laws found in Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The book itself asserts that Moses is the principle source and author for the material (1:1), as do subsequent OT texts (Jos 1:7-8; 1Kg 2:3; Ezr 3:2) and NT texts (Mt 19:7; Ac 3:22; Rm 10:19). This attribution remained virtually unchallenged until the advent of modern rationalism in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, but no arguments advanced by this school of thought have successfully overcome the ancient Mosaic tradition.

BACKGROUND: The exodus probably occurred in 1446 BC, whereupon Israel set out for Canaan, the inheritance God had promised his people. Because of their rebellious spirit, the Israelites were forced to wander in the desert for forty years (2:7) until at last they arrived in Moab, just opposite Jericho (32:49). It was there that Moses put pen to parchment to compose this farewell treatise (31:9,24).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Next to the books of Psalms and Isaiah, the NT alludes to Deuteronomy more than any other book in the OT. This is true not only in terms of the sheer number of instances but especially in the passages where theological truth seems most to be at issue. Jesus and the apostles considered Deuteronomy of paramount importance to their own teaching about God and his dealings with his chosen people and humanity at large. Jesus in his temptation quoted the book of Deuteronomy three times against Satan (Mt 4:4-10).

STRUCTURE

The style of the book of Deuteronomy appears as a series of repetitious, reminiscent, and even irregular exhortations, which is fitting for a collection of Moses’s sermons preparing the people for their move into the promised land. The style is also reflective of the typical suzerain-vassal treaties, which could contain a preamble, historical prologue, main provisions, blessings and curses, and plans for continuing the covenant relationship. The book of Deuteronomy could be considered the constitution for the nation of Israel once it was established in the promised land.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Deuteronomy emphasizes the unity of God in the famous Shema, "Listen!" (See Dt 6:4-5). God's love as the basis for his covenant, his acts on Israel's behalf, and his commands are also prominent. On the other hand, idolatry or apostasy is so serious an affront to God's glory that the book commands the most severe penalties against those who insult God by turning away from him.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Deuteronomy faithfully records Israel's failures and gives solemn warnings of divine curse on disobedient and rebellious people. Yet the tenor of the book is that living according to God's commands is a true delight and that obedience is no drudgery but the response of love and faith—an easy yoke. "But the message is very near you, in your mouth and in your heart, so that you may follow it" (30:14; see Mt 11:29).

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Deuteronomy emphasizes that salvation is entirely God's provision. He sets his covenantal love on people solely out of his love. The remarkable text in Dt 7:1-10 denies that God's redemption of Israel from Egypt was based on any quality in Israel but only "because the LORD loved you" (7:8)—his sovereign choice. This book also shows that redeemed people demonstrate their love and faith by their obedience.

INTRODUCTION

1 These are the words Moses spoke to all Israel across the Jordan in the wilderness, † in the Arabah † opposite Suph, † between Paran † and Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth, † and Di-zahab. 2 It is an eleven-day journey from Horeb † to Kadesh-barnea † by way of Mount Seir. † 3 In the fortieth year, † in the eleventh month, on the first of the month, Moses told the Israelites everything the LORD had commanded him to say to them. 4 This was after he had defeated King Sihon of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, and King Og of Bashan, who lived in Ashtaroth, at Edrei. † 5 Across the Jordan in the land of Moab, Moses began to explain this law, saying:

DEPARTURE FROM HOREB

6 "The LORD our God spoke to us at Horeb: 'You have stayed at this mountain long enough. 7 Resume your journey and go to the hill country of the Amorites † and their neighbors in the Arabah, the hill country, the Judean foothills, † the Negev † and the sea coast — to the land of the Canaanites and to Lebanon as far as the great river, the Euphrates River. † 8 See, I have set the land before you. Enter and take possession of the land † the LORD swore to give to your fathers † Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and their future descendants.' †

LEADERS FOR THE TRIBES

9 "I said to you at that time: I can't bear the responsibility for you on my own. 10 The LORD your God has so multiplied you that today you are as numerous as the stars of the sky. † 11 May the LORD, the God of your fathers, increase you a thousand times more, and bless you as he promised you. 12 But how can I bear your troubles, burdens, and disputes by myself? 13 Appoint for yourselves wise, understanding, and respected men from each of your tribes, and I will make them your leaders.

14 "You replied to me, 'What you propose to do is good.'
15 "So I took the leaders of your tribes, wise and respected men, and set them over you as leaders: commanders for thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens, and officers for your tribes. 16 I commanded your judges at that time: Hear the cases between your brothers, and judge rightly between a man and his brother or his resident alien. 17 Do not show partiality when deciding a case; † listen to small and great alike. Do not be intimidated by anyone, for judgment belongs to God. † Bring me any case too difficult for you, and I will hear it. 18 At that time
I commanded you about all the things you were to do. †

ISRAEL'S DISOBEDIENCE AT KADESH-BARNEA

19 "We then set out from Horeb and went across all the great and terrible wilderness you saw on the way to the hill country of the Amorites, just as the LORD our God had commanded us. When we reached Kadesh-barnea, 20 I said to you: You have reached the hill country of the Amorites, which the LORD our God is giving us. 21 See, the LORD your God has set the land before you. Go up and take possession of it as the LORD, the God of your fathers, has told you. Do not be afraid or discouraged.
22 "Then † all of you approached me and said, 'Let's send men ahead of us, so that they may explore the land for us and bring us back a report about the route we should go up and the cities we will come to.' 23 The plan seemed good to me, so I selected twelve men from among you, one man for each tribe. 24 They left and went up into the hill country and came to the Valley of Eshcol, scouting the land. 25 They took some of the fruit from the land in their hands, carried it down to us, and brought us back a report: 'The land the LORD our God is giving us is good.' † 26 "But you were not willing to go up. You rebelled against the command of the LORD your God. 27 You grumbled in your tents † and said, 'The LORD brought us out of the land of Egypt to hand us over to the Amorites in order to destroy us, because he hates us. 28 Where can we go? Our brothers have made us lose heart, † † saying: The people are larger and taller than we are; the cities are large, fortified to the heavens. † We also saw the descendants of the Anakim † there.’

29 “So I said to you: Don’t be terrified or afraid of them! † 30 The Lord your God who goes before you † will fight for you, † just as you saw him do for you in Egypt. 31 And you saw in the wilderness how the Lord your God carried you as a man carries his son all along the way you traveled until you reached this place. 32 But in spite of this you did not trust the Lord your God, 33 who went before you on the journey to seek out a place for you to camp. He went in the fire by night and in the cloud by day to guide you on the road you were to travel.
34 “When the Lord heard your † words, he grew angry and swore an oath: 35 ‘None of these men in this evil generation will see the good land I swore to give your fathers, † 36 except Caleb the son of Jephunneh. He will see it, and I will give him and his descendants the land on which he has set foot, because he remained loyal to the Lord.’
37 “The Lord was angry with me also because of you and said: ‘You will not enter there either. † 38 Joshua son of Nun, who attends you, will enter it. Encourage him, for he will enable Israel to inherit it. † 39 Your children, whom you said would be plunder, your sons who † don’t yet know good from evil, will enter there. I will give them the land, and they will take possession of it. 40 But you are to turn back and head for the wilderness by way of the Red Sea.’ †
41 “You answered me, ‘We have sinned against the Lord. We will go up and fight just as the Lord our God commanded us.’ Then each of you put on his weapons of war and thought it would be easy to go up into the hill country.
42 “But the Lord said to me, ‘Tell them: Don’t go up and fight, for I am not with you to keep you from being defeated by your enemies.’ † 43 So I spoke to you, but you didn’t listen. You rebelled against the Lord’s command and defiantly went up into the hill country. 44 Then the Amorites who lived there came out against you and chased you like a swarm of bees. They routed you from Seir as far as Hormah. † 45 When you returned, you wept before the Lord, but he didn’t listen to your requests or pay attention to you. 46 For this reason you stayed in Kadesh as long as you did. †

1:1-5 Like Genesis–Numbers before it, Deuteronomy is part of the larger work called the Pentateuch (see the note on Gn 1:1). It continues where Numbers left off, with the Israelites about to enter the land of Canaan (across the Jordan in the land of Moab; see also Nm 36:13). Because of his unbelief and disobedience at Meribah (Nm 20:7-13,24; 27:12-14), Moses would not be permitted to enter with them (see 1:37; 3:23-28; 4:21-22), and his death is described at the end of the book (Dt 34). Deuteronomy can be seen as mostly consisting of Moses's last instructions to the Israelites before his death and their entrance into the promised land.

1:6-8 Starting here and continuing to the end of Deuteronomy 3, Moses gives a historical summary of Israel's experiences from Mount Horeb up to this point. This summary is highly selective, and the portion of it found in Deuteronomy 1 includes the departure from Mount Horeb (1:6-8; see Nm 10:11-13), the appointment of leaders to help Moses (vv. 9-18; see Ex 18:13-26), and the previous generation of Israelites' refusal to enter the promised land (vv. 19-46; see Nm 13–14).

1:26-36 The lengthy retelling of the previous generation's refusal to enter Canaan is especially fitting given the present generation's charge to enter this same land (see Nm 33:50-56). Although the previous generation was promised that the LORD [their] God . . . [would] fight for [them] and that he had carried [them] as a man carries his son, they did not trust the LORD (see also Nm 14:11). As a result, God swore an oath: none of these men in this evil generation will see the good land I swore to give your fathers. Rather, it would be given to their children, who had become the present generation of adult Israelites, which would enter there and take possession.

JOURNEY PAST SEIR

2 "Then we turned back and headed for the wilderness by way of the Red Sea,† as the LORD had told me, and we traveled around the hill country of Seir for many days. 2 The LORD then said to me, 3 'You've been traveling around this hill country long enough; turn north.† 4 Command the people: You are about to travel through the territory of your brothers, the descendants of Esau, who live in Seir. They will be afraid of you, so be very careful. 5 Don't provoke them, for I will not give you any of their land, not even a foot of it,† because I have given Esau the hill country of Seir as his possession.† 6 You may purchase food from them, so that you may eat, and buy water from them to drink.† 7 For the LORD your God has blessed you in all the work of your hands.† He has watched over your journey through this immense wilderness. The LORD your God has been with you this past forty years, and you have lacked nothing.'†

JOURNEY PAST MOAB

8 "So we bypassed our brothers, the descendants of Esau, who live in Seir. We turned away from the Arabah road and from Elath and Ezion-geber.† We traveled along the road to the Wilderness of Moab. 9 The LORD said to me, 'Show no hostility toward Moab, and do not provoke them to battle, for I will not give you any of their land as a possession, since I have given Ar as a possession to the descendants of Lot.' "†

10 The Emim, a great and numerous people as tall as the Anakim,† had previously lived there. 11 They were also regarded as Rephaim,† like the Anakim, though the Moabites called them Emim.† 12 The Horites† had previously lived in Seir, but the descendants of Esau drove them out, destroying them completely† and settling in their place, just as Israel did in the land of its possession the LORD gave them.

13 "The LORD said, 'Now get up and cross the Zered Valley.' So we crossed the Zered Valley.† 14 The time we spent traveling from Kadesh-barnea until we crossed the Zered Valley was thirty-eight years until the entire generation of fighting men had perished from the camp, as the LORD had sworn to them. 15 Indeed, the LORD's hand was against them, to eliminate† them from the camp until they had all perished.†

JOURNEY PAST AMMON

16 "When all the fighting men had died among the people, 17 the LORD spoke to me, 18 'Today you are going to cross the border of Moab at Ar. 19 When you get close to the Ammonites, don't show any hostility to them or provoke them, for I will not give you any of the Ammonites' land as a possession; I have given it as a possession to the descendants of Lot.' "†

20 This too used to be regarded as the land of the Rephaim. The Rephaim lived there previously, though the Ammonites called them Zamzummim, † 21 a great and numerous people, tall as the Anakim. The LORD destroyed the Rephaim at the advance of the Ammonites, so that they drove them out and settled in their place. 22 This was just as he had done for the descendants of Esau who lived in Seir, when he destroyed the Horites before them; they drove them out and have lived in their place until now. 23 The Caphtorim, who came from Caphtor, † † destroyed the Avvites, who lived in villages as far as Gaza, and settled in their place.

DEFEAT OF SIHON THE AMORITE

24 "The LORD also said, 'Get up, move out, and cross the Arnon Valley. See, I have handed the Amorites' King Sihon of Heshbon and his land over to you. Begin to take possession of it; engage † him in battle. † 25 Today I will begin to put the fear and dread of you on the peoples everywhere under heaven. They will hear the report about you, tremble, and be in anguish because of you.' †

26 "So I sent messengers with an offer of peace † to King Sihon of Heshbon from the Wilderness of Kedemoth, saying, 27 'Let us travel through your land; we will keep strictly to the highway. We will not turn to the right or the left. †

28 You can sell us food in exchange for silver so we may eat, and give us water for silver so we may drink. Only let us travel through on foot, 29 just as the descendants of Esau who live in Seir did for us, and the Moabites who live in Ar, until we cross the Jordan into the land the LORD our God is giving us.' 30 But King Sihon of Heshbon would not let us travel through his land, for the LORD your God had made his spirit stubborn and his heart obstinate in order to hand him over to you, as has now taken place. †

31 "Then the LORD said to me, 'See, I have begun to give Sihon and his land to you. Begin to take possession of it.' 32 So Sihon and his whole army came out against us for battle at Jahaz. 33 The LORD our God handed him over to us, † and we defeated him, his sons, and his whole army. 34 At that time we captured all his cities and completely destroyed the people of every city, including the women and children. We left no survivors. † 35 We took only the livestock and the spoil from the cities we captured as plunder for ourselves. 36 There was no city that was inaccessible to † † us, from Aroer on the rim of the Arnon Valley, along with the city in the valley, even as far as Gilead. † The LORD our God gave everything to us. 37 But you did not go near the Ammonites' land, all along the bank of the Jabbok River, † the cities of the hill country, or any place that the LORD our God had forbidden. †

2:1-3 The Israelites' wandering in the wilderness for almost forty years is passed over briefly here (see also v. 14). The following passage concerns their approach to the land of Edom, territory of Esau's descendants, while on their way to Canaan (vv. 4-8; Nm 21:14-21).

2:14-15 Related to the lengthy retelling of Israel's initial failure to enter the promised land (1:19-46), these verses serve as another reminder that the previous generation had perished from the camp, as the LORD had sworn to them.

2:18-19 During the Israelites' recent approach to Canaan, God explained that he was not giving them the land of the Ammonites, the Moabites (v. 9), or the Edomites (v. 5).

2:24-37 Sihon's defeat was described in Numbers 21:21-32, but Moses's recounting here includes God's broader purpose of putting the fear and dread of [the Israelites] on the peoples everywhere. This victory thus signaled that God was helping Israel and would continue to do so in future battles (see 3:21). Moreover, Sihon's refusal to let Israel pass through his land is said to have happened because the LORD . . . had made his spirit stubborn and his heart obstinate in order to hand him over. This is reminiscent of what God had done with Pharaoh earlier (see Ex 7:3).

DEFEAT OF OG OF BASHAN

3 "Then we turned and went up the road to Bashan, and King Og of Bashan † came out against us with his whole army to do battle at Edrei. † 2 But the LORD said to me, 'Do not fear him, for I have handed him over to you along with his whole army and his land. Do to him as you did to King Sihon of the Amorites, † who lived in Heshbon.'

SHOULD WE LEGISLATE MORALITY?

People often say, “You can’t legislate morality.” This statement, however, is false because governments legislate morality all the time. Otherwise, we would not have laws banning prostitution, incest, murder, polygamy, and theft.

Laws deter people from engaging in activities prohibited by civilized society. In some cases laws induce people to engage in immoral behavior by imposing rules and regulations that violate their values. In other cases, people in power declare that there are no moral absolutes, meaning that each individual can decide what is right and wrong based on personal beliefs. The inducement to do wrong can occur when trusting individuals follow the government’s conception of morality out of respect for its authority.

MORAL LEGISLATION AND NATURAL LAW

Until recent years, the American legal system was strongly influenced by the Judeo-Christian Bible and the Mosaic laws found in the Ten Commandments. Belief in a God-breathed natural law that transcends man-made law also undergirded the Judeo-Christian influence on America.

Evidence for the reality of natural law predated the giving of the Ten Commandments, as for instance in the Babylonian Code of Hammurabi (eighteenth century BC). Joseph Hester writes that in “Hammurabi’s Code, the strong were not supposed to oppress the weak. Justice primarily meant economic justice and opportunity, for many of the laws dealt with property, business practices, and contracts” (Hester, The Ten Commandments, p. 34). Similarly, ancient Rome had a code of law called the Twelve Tables. That Rome and Babylon, both of which were pagan nations, encoded ethical and moral laws resembling biblical teaching is evidence that natural law is ingrained in the heart of humankind. In fact, Dr. Liane Young, a Boston University scientist, has found a biological function in the human brain that is responsible for moral judgments. Some have described this as a “moral compass,” an internal sense of right and wrong that supports the theory of natural law.

Natural law is the universal sense of right and wrong that we discern through human reasoning without a preknowledge of the God revealed in the Judeo-Christian Bible. The apostle Paul refers to this in Romans 2:14-15, where he says of natural law, “So, when Gentiles, who do not by nature have the law, [instinctively] do what the law demands, they are a law to themselves even though they do not have the law. They show that the work of the law is written on their hearts. Their consciences confirm this. Their competing thoughts either accuse or even excuse them.” Thus the higher, transcendent law of God stands as a measuring rod for all people, no matter the laws of their nation or their personal beliefs.

MORAL LEGISLATION AND VALUE SYSTEMS

Whether government legislating morality is good or bad depends on the leaders and their value systems. Abortion was once prohibited in the United States, but in 1973, the Supreme Court legalized it in Roe v. Wade and Doe v. Bolton. This signaled a new standard of morality based on the right of privacy and the Fourteenth Amendment. What has ensued is more than forty years of debate and controversy about a procedure that has always troubled large segments of the population.

In The Revenge of Conscience, J. Budziszewski describes the evolution of the abortion rights debate: “First we were to approve of killing unborn babies, then babies in the process of birth; next came babies with physical defects, now newborns in perfect health” (p. 21). Although the latter stage is not yet enshrined in law, there are intellectuals, such as moral philosopher Peter Singer, who argue that it ought to be allowable for parents to kill their infants until they reach a certain age.

When secular law affirms behavior that runs counter to the conscience or law of the heart, it causes some people who might otherwise not contemplate the offensive action to make choices that violate their conscience because the law has indicated that the action is morally acceptable. For example, the legalization of abortion has induced some women to accept the moral proposition that the desires of the mother trump the rights of her unborn child. It is not uncommon for women to experience regret and depression after making what they thought would be an easy decision given the legal status of abortion. When the Supreme Court decided that the rights of the mother trumped the rights of fathers, it was imposing a moral code that has proven detrimental to fathers and unborn children. It also leaves mothers saddled with regret.

Laws are often advanced based on the moral and ethical values of legislators elected by people from a specific geographical area. Ideally, legislators will reflect the values and principles of the electorate, but it is difficult to hold elected officials accountable in an environment where most incumbents are reelected and where federal judges are appointed for life. Cultural elites composed of officeholders, judges, newspaper editors, and media personalities have enormous influence on policy outputs and the preferences of the general public.

WHOSE MORALITY?

The real issue is not whether we can or will legislate morality. We have always done so. The issue is whose morality will triumph.

The new morality of same-sex marriage endorsed by the U.S. Supreme Court has validated the homosexual lifestyle and made it more difficult for states to exercise their rights under the federal constitution. Christian businessmen and women can face lawsuits and harassment in some states if they refuse certain services to LGBT couples, even if the services are personal and offensive to the person's biblical worldview. Couples living together before marriage, no-fault divorce, demands for polygamy, and government use of taxpayer dollars to support the taking of human life all herald a new morality that troubles and offends many Christians.

Same-sex marriage is an example of the federal government legislating a morality that does not comport with the moral preferences of many people around the country, as demonstrated by democratic votes on various propositions. Political correctness and strong penalties for resisting what was once considered deviant behavior have led to the impression that the public accepts this behavior as normal.

The new morality has led to situations where government has chosen politically correct decisions over decisions that would protect and advance the rights of children. One of the most controversial topics today is transgender children. What should be done when kids as young as four or five express desires to be a member of the opposite sex, even though biologically they were born male or female? In some cases, parents have found doctors who are willing to prescribe hormones to delay or transform the natural development of the child.

SUMMARY

In conclusion, legislating morality is what governments do. Whatever laws are passed, some citizens will be offended (feeling the law has imposed morality on them) while others will rejoice (feeling that the law conforms to true morality). Whether imposed morality is legislatively enacted or judicially declared, it will receive a far different reception depending on what the affected individuals believe about moral absolutism or natural law.

For people who have lived in a nation where Judeo-Christian values have historically set the community standards, it comes as a rude awakening that the tables have been turned. Traditional values are no longer embraced by the majority of voters; thus, it seems unlikely that such values will continue to be enshrined in the legal fabric of the nation. As "progressive" laws and norms are pushed through legislatures or imposed by judges, what shall Christians do?

Christians should not simply give way to an agenda this is unhealthy for our society and individuals, yet the new set of cultural values suggest that the church is now experiencing a period of "exile," not unlike what Israel endured in Babylon. While a previous generation of American Christians may have thought of the United States as “Israel,” in which God’s standards could be expressed at a political level, this is no longer the case. Rather, we must continue to trust God and seek to live his way even as society chooses a different path. In this respect, it is more important than ever that we live out our identity as aliens and strangers on the earth, seeking to offer light and truth in the midst of increasing darkness.

CAROL M. SWAIN

3 So the LORD our God also handed over King Og of Bashan and his whole army to us. We struck him until there was no survivor left. † 4 We captured all his cities at that time. There wasn’t a city that we didn’t take from them: sixty cities, the entire region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. 5 All these were fortified with high walls, gates, and bars, besides a large number of rural villages. 6 We completely destroyed them, as we had done to King Sihon of Heshbon, destroying the men, women, and children of every city. 7 But we took all the livestock and the spoil from the cities as plunder for ourselves. †

THE LAND OF THE TRANSJORDAN TRIBES

8 “At that time we took the land from the two Amorite kings across the Jordan, † from the Arnon Valley as far as Mount Hermon, 9 which the Sidonians call Sirion, but the Amorites call Senir, 10 all the cities of the plateau, Gilead, and Bashan as far as Salecah and Edrei, cities of Og’s kingdom in Bashan. † 11 (Only King Og of Bashan was left of the remnant of the Rephaim. † His bed † was made of iron. Isn’t it in Rabbah of the Ammonites?
† It is 13 1/2 feet long and 6 feet wide by a standard measure. †) † 12 “At that time we took possession of this land. † I gave to the Reubenites and Gadites the area extending from Aroer by the Arnon Valley, and half the hill country of Gilead along with its cities. 13 I gave to half the tribe of Manasseh the rest of Gilead and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og. The entire region of Argob, the whole territory of Bashan, used to be called the land of the Rephaim. 14 Jair, a descendant of Manasseh, took over the entire region of Argob as far as the border of the Geshurites and Maacathites. He called Bashan by his own name, Jair’s Villages, † as it is today. 15 I gave Gilead to Machir, 16 and I gave to the Reubenites and Gadites the area extending from Gilead to the Arnon Valley (the middle of the valley was the border) and up to the Jabbok River, the border of the Ammonites. 17 The Arabah and Jordan are also borders from Chinnereth † as far as the Sea of the Arabah, the Dead Sea, under the slopes of Pisgah on the east. †

18 "I commanded you at that time: The LORD your God has given you this land to possess. All your valiant men will cross over in battle formation ahead of your brothers the Israelites. 19 But your wives, dependents, and livestock — I know that you have a lot of livestock — will remain in the cities I have given you † 20 until the LORD gives rest † to your brothers as he has to you, and they also take possession of the land the LORD your God is giving them across the Jordan. Then each of you may return to his possession that I have given you. †

THE TRANSFER OF ISRAEL'S LEADERSHIP

21 "I commanded Joshua at that time: Your own eyes have seen everything the LORD your God has done to these two kings. The LORD will do the same to all the kingdoms you are about to enter. 22 Don't be afraid of them, for the LORD your God fights for you.

23 "At that time I begged the LORD: 24 Lord GOD, you have begun to show your greatness and your strong hand to your servant, for what god is there in heaven or on earth who can perform deeds and mighty acts like yours? 25 Please let me cross over and see the beautiful land † on the other side of the Jordan, that good hill country and Lebanon.

26 "But the LORD was angry with me because of you † and would not listen to me. The LORD said to me, 'That's enough! Do not speak to me again about this matter. 27 Go to the top of Pisgah and look to the west, north, south, and east, and see it with your own eyes, for you will not cross the Jordan. † 28 But commission Joshua and encourage and strengthen him, for he will cross over ahead of the people and enable them to inherit this land that you will see.' † 29 So we stayed in the valley facing Beth-peor.

3:2-3 The emphasis on God's activity on behalf of the Israelites continues in the recounting of the defeat of Og (see also 2:33,36).

3:12-20 The giving of the land of Sihon and Og to Reuben, Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh was also described in Numbers 32.

3:21-22 The reason for the detailed recounting of the Israelites' victories over Sihon and Og (2:24–3:7) was to encourage Joshua (and Israel) that what God had done to these two kings he would also do to all the kingdoms [they were] about to enter.

3:23-29 Moses pleaded with God to allow him to cross over and see the beautiful land on the other side of the Jordan, but God would not yield and only allowed him to see it from the top of Mount Pisgah (vv. 26-27; see 1:37; 4:21-22).

CALL TO OBEDIENCE

4 "Now, Israel, listen to the statutes and ordinances † I am teaching you to follow, so that you may live, † enter, and take possession of the land the LORD, the God of your fathers, † is giving you. 2 You must not add anything to what I command you or take anything away from it, † so that you may keep the commands of the LORD your God I am giving you. 3 Your eyes have seen what the LORD did at Baal-peor, for the LORD your God destroyed every one of you who followed Baal of Peor. † 4 But you who have remained faithful † to the LORD your God are all alive today. 5 Look, I have taught you statutes and ordinances as the LORD my God has commanded me, so that you may follow them in the land you are entering to possess. 6 Carefully follow them, for this will show your wisdom and understanding in the eyes of the peoples. When they hear about all these statutes, they will say, 'This great nation is indeed a wise and understanding people.' 7 For what great nation is there that has a god near to it as the LORD our God is to us whenever we call to him? † 8 And what great nation has righteous statutes and ordinances like this entire law
I set before you today? † 9 "Only be on your guard and diligently watch yourselves, † so that you don't forget † the things your eyes have seen and so that they don't slip from your mind † as long as you live. Teach them to your children and your grandchildren. † 10 The day you stood before the LORD your God † at Horeb, the LORD said to me, 'Assemble the people before me, and I will let them hear my words, so that they may learn to fear me † all the days they live on the earth and may instruct their children.’ 11 You came near and stood at the base of the mountain, † a mountain blazing with fire † into the heavens and enveloped in a totally black cloud. † 12 Then the LORD spoke to you from the fire. † You kept hearing the sound of the words, but didn’t see a form; there was only a voice. † 13 He declared his covenant † to you. He commanded you to follow the Ten Commandments, † which he wrote on two stone tablets. † 14 At that time the LORD commanded me to teach you statutes and ordinances for you to follow in the land you are about to cross into and possess.

WORSHIPING THE TRUE GOD

15 “Diligently watch yourselves — because you did not see any form on the day the LORD spoke to you out of the fire at Horeb — 16 so you don’t act corruptly and make an idol for yourselves in the shape of any figure: a male or female form, 17 or the form of any animal on the earth, any winged creature that flies in the sky, 18 any creature that crawls on the ground, or any fish in the waters under the earth. 19 When you look to the heavens and see the sun, moon, and stars — all the stars in the sky — do not be led astray to bow in worship to them and serve them. † The LORD your God has provided them for all people everywhere under heaven. † 20 But the LORD selected you and brought you out of Egypt’s iron furnace † to be a people for his inheritance, as you are today.

21 “The LORD was angry with me on your account. † He swore that I would not cross the Jordan and enter the good land † the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. † 22 I won’t be crossing the Jordan because I am going to die in this land. † But you are about to cross over and take possession of this good land. 23 Be careful not to forget the covenant of the LORD your God that he made with you, and make an idol for yourselves in the shape of anything he has forbidden you. 24 For the LORD your God is a consuming fire, † a jealous God. † 25 “When you have children and grandchildren and have been in the land a long time, and if you act corruptly, make an idol in the form of anything, and do what is evil in the sight of the LORD your God, angering him, 26 I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you today that you will quickly perish † from the land you are about to cross the Jordan to possess. You will not live long there, but you will certainly be destroyed. 27 The LORD will scatter you among the peoples, † and you will be reduced to a few survivors † among the nations where the LORD your God will drive you. 28 There you will worship man-made gods of wood and stone, which cannot see, hear, eat, or smell. 29 But from there, you will search for the LORD your God, and you will find him when you seek him with all your heart and all your soul. † 30 When you are in distress and all these things have happened to you, in the future you will return to the LORD your God and obey him. 31 He will not leave you, destroy you, or forget the covenant † with your fathers that he swore to them by oath, because the LORD your God is a compassionate God. †

32 "Indeed, ask about the earlier days that preceded you, from the day God created mankind † on the earth and from one end of the heavens to the other: Has anything like this great event ever happened, or has anything like it been heard of? 33 Has a people heard God's voice speaking from the fire as you have, and lived? 34 Or has a god attempted to go and take a nation as his own out of another nation, by trials, signs, wonders, and war, by a strong hand and an outstretched arm, by great terrors, as the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? 35 You were shown these things so that you would know that the LORD is God; there is no other besides him. † 36 He let you hear his voice from heaven to instruct you. † He showed you his great fire on earth, and you heard his words from the fire. † 37 Because he loved † your fathers, he chose their descendants after them and brought you out of Egypt by his presence and great power, 38 to drive out before you nations greater and stronger than you and to bring you in and give you their land as an inheritance, † as is now taking place. 39 Today, recognize and keep in mind that the LORD is God in heaven above and on earth below; there is no other. 40 Keep his statutes and commands, which I am giving you today, so that you and your children after you may prosper and so that you may live long in the land the LORD your God is giving you for all time."

CITIES OF REFUGE

41 Then Moses set apart three cities across the Jordan to the east. 42 Someone could flee there who committed manslaughter, killing his neighbor accidentally without previously hating him. He could flee to one of these cities and stay alive: 43 Bezer in the wilderness on the plateau land, belonging to the Reubenites; Ramoth in Gilead, belonging to the Gadites; or Golan in Bashan, belonging to the Manassites. †

INTRODUCTION TO THE LAW

44 This is the law Moses gave the Israelites. 45 These are the decrees, statutes, and ordinances Moses proclaimed to them after they came out of Egypt, 46 across the Jordan in the valley facing Beth-peor in the land of King Sihon of the Amorites. He lived in Heshbon, and Moses and the Israelites defeated him after they came out of Egypt. 47 They took possession of his land and the land of Og king of Bashan, the two Amorite kings who were across the Jordan to the east, 48 from Aroer on the rim of the Arnon Valley as far as Mount Sion (that is, Hermon) 49 and all the Arabah on the east side of the Jordan as far as the Dead Sea below the slopes of Pisgah.

4:1 Having concluded the historical summary (1:6–3:29), Moses turns to the first of many calls to obedience found in Deuteronomy (e.g., 5:1; 6:1-3; 8:1).

4:5-8 The laws Moses is giving Israel are for them to follow in the land [they] are entering to possess

(see also v. 1). Their obedience would show [their] wisdom and understanding in the eyes of the peoples, thus spreading God's fame. It is thus natural to view the law as an expression of divine wisdom.

4:9-10 The lessons the Israelites had learned were to be passed down to their children and grandchildren, from one generation to the next. This was also true of the law that had been given to them at Mount Horeb (Sinai) (v. 10; see the note on 5:2-3). References to passing on knowledge of God to one's children can be found in many other passages in Deuteronomy (e.g., v. 40; 5:29; 6:7; 11:2,19), attaching great importance to parents' instruction of children in the home.

4:25-31 Though the Israelites were solemnly warned about idolatry (vv. 12,15-20,23), Moses predicted that they would indeed engage in it and consequently be exiled from the land (vv. 25-28). Deuteronomy 31:16-29 makes this even more clear. In this way, both passages are anticlimactic because they predict both Israel's disobedience to the very commands that Moses was giving and their exile from the land before they had even entered it. Nevertheless, there was still hope because from there (i.e., exile) they would search for the LORD [their] God and return to the LORD [their] God, who would not forsake them or forget his covenant with them (see also Lv 26:40-45). All this would happen in the future (lit "in the last days"; see the notes on Gn 1:1 and 49:1), a time frame associated with the coming of the Messiah (see the notes on Gn 49:8-12 and Nm 24:14-19).

4:32-38 The rhetorical questions posed in verses 32-34 emphasize Israel's special privilege of having heard God's voice speaking from the fire and lived and their miraculous deliverance from Egypt. Likewise, the questions in verses 7-8 highlight Israel's special privilege of God's nearness to them and their possession of the law. The desired response from Israel was that they know that the LORD is God and there is no other and obey his commands (v. 40).

4:41-43 The setting apart of three cities of refuge on the east side of the Jordan had been commanded in Numbers 35:14 (see also the note on Nm 35:9-34).

4:44-49 This passage has similarities to 1:1-5 and marks a transition to the section of laws found in Deuteronomy 5–11.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

5 Moses summoned all Israel and said to them, "Israel, listen to the statutes and ordinances I am proclaiming as you hear them today. Learn and follow them carefully. 2 The LORD our God made a covenant † with us at Horeb. 3 He did not make this covenant with our fathers, † but with all of us who are alive here today. 4 The LORD spoke to you face to face from the fire on the mountain. 5 At that time I was standing between the LORD and you to report the word † of the LORD to you, because you were afraid of the fire and did not go up the mountain. And he said:

THE BASICS OF CIVIL LAW

The United States House of Representatives contains a number of interesting features. The bullet holes from an attack by Puerto Rican terrorists are an unusual example. More relevant to our subject are portraits of history's great lawgivers. Three in particular invite special attention: Moses the Israelite, Justinian the Byzantine emperor, and Sir William Blackstone—one of the greatest jurists in English history.

MOSES THE ISRAELITE

Through Moses we received the most famous set of laws in the history of humanity—the Ten Commandments (Ex 20:1-17). According to the Hebrew Scriptures, God gave Moses the famed tablets of law on Mount Sinai. He then conveyed them to the Israelites and established what is the single most enduring depiction of the duties people owe to God (the four vertical commandments) and to each other (the six horizontal commandments).

In the horizontal prohibitions concerning disrespecting parents, lying, stealing, adultery, murder, and even coveting, we see the building blocks of modern law. For example, lying is an actionable offense in the forms of fraud, misrepresentation, and perjury. Parental rights still count for much as children do not enjoy full constitutional rights until they reach the age of majority. Theft and murder occupy a giant share of the criminal law. Even covetousness remains part of our codes. If an individual can be shown to have coveted, then it is possible to establish the mens rea or "guilty mind" necessary to prove the severe gravity of some civil or criminal offenses. Of the horizontal commandments, adultery now receives least attention in modern law. Adultery has gone almost entirely out of the criminal law, though it remains relevant to divorce proceedings—even though it legally counts for less now in the era of no-fault statutes.

In recent years, a controversy regarding church and state separation has revolved around the posting of the Ten Commandments in public places. Judge Roy Moore in Alabama gained notoriety for mounting the commandments in his courtroom as a lesser judge and then bringing them in to the Alabama Supreme Court after his election there. Though Judge Moore lost in that case, other monuments and postings of the commandments have survived challenge. For example, the commandments on the capitol grounds in Austin, Texas, remain in place. Courts have accepted the argument that the commandments represent an important source of law. Successful challenges have not suggested that the commandments are unimportant to modern law, but rather that certain displays involved some improper purpose. Whether or not the modern state publicly embraces the Ten Commandments, their formative influence on the law—both in the West and, increasingly, worldwide—is difficult to question.

JUSTINIAN THE BYZANTINE RULER

Enter the second portrait. Justinian was a Christian ruler of the Byzantine Empire during the heart of the sixth century AD. He took up the project of systematizing and rationalizing the various laws and precedents that had sprouted during the long tenure of the Roman Empire. Interestingly, Justinian demonstrated fealty to God in the initiation of the project. He called for "the aid of God" in governing the empire "delivered to Us by His Celestial Majesty." The emperor further claimed that the protection of the state depended not upon arms, but rather upon "the providence of the Holy Trinity." The Corpus Juris Civilis had its beginning in this way; the collection was far more explicit in its reliance on the Christian God than is the American Constitution.

Justinian's work demonstrated a view of law that fully embraced God as lawgiver. The Corpus refers to jurisprudence as the knowledge of things both human and divine. Civil law defines the arrangements that a nation makes for its people. The "law of nations" reflects what we all know through the exercise of our natural reason. This is natural law. In Christian societies, natural law has been understood as a part of God's common grace, protecting the world from chaos and strife. Indeed, in John Locke's famed social contract, he did not think we needed government to give us a moral law since it already existed in the natural law. Rather, he felt government should enforce the dictates of natural law.

The Corpus Juris Civilis became the model for the civil law systems of continental Europe. The civil law that survived the Byzantine Empire also inspired the development of the canon law of the Roman Catholic Church. Together, the two types of law formed the basis of European legal thought.

SIR WILLIAM BLACKSTONE

The English model of common law is a different system that emerged in the Middle Ages. Whereas the civil law systems are highly codified, common law systems rely much more on precedent interpreted by judges. The nations derived from England, such as the United States, also have common law systems. It has not been unusual for American judges to look to English cases to shape opinions. Despite differences in method (codification versus precedent), common law systems have also been significantly inspired by Christianity's ideas about natural law.

As for our third portrait, Sir William Blackstone was perhaps the greatest exponent of English common law. His commentaries sought to systematize precedents and ideas into a comprehensible whole. American law students today study some of his opinions and concepts. In his commentaries, Blackstone wrote about natural law in terms of how it applied to creation and to creatures.

For example, God had imbued matter with certain properties as part of his law. He made the planets to move along predictable paths. In the same way, God created natural laws to govern relations between humans in such a way as to bring about justice. By Blackstone's reasoning, we must obey these laws because of our dependence on God who has ordained them. Notably, Blackstone held the revealed divine law next to God's natural law and viewed it as authoritative. Human laws ought not be permitted to contradict either of these two sources.

Through Blackstone, it is easy to understand the concept of theonomy over against autonomy. Theonomy refers to adherence to God's law, whereas autonomy views the individual as a law unto himself. Blackstone's legal reasoning operated from a position of theonomy based on our apprehension of natural law.

But what was once commonplace has become the subject of significant dispute. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr. famously attacked natural law, emphasizing that the law "is not some brooding omnipresence in the sky." He viewed the law as an instrument designed to reduce social friction and to achieve other desirable outcomes. Regrettably, this new and positivistic view of law has gained much ground during the last century, while natural law reasoning has fallen into disfavor. Nevertheless, the very places where law is made, such as in the U.S. Congress, provide ample reminders from whence we came and on what foundations we rest.

11 Do not misuse the name † of the LORD your God, because the LORD will not leave anyone unpunished who misuses his name.
12 Be careful to remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy as the LORD your God has commanded you. 13 You are to labor six days that your male and female slaves may rest as you do.

THE PEOPLE'S RESPONSE

22 "The LORD spoke these commands in a loud voice to your entire assembly from the fire, cloud, and total darkness on the mountain; he added nothing more.
He wrote them on two stone tablets and gave them to me. 23 All of you approached me with your tribal leaders and elders when you heard the voice from the darkness and while the mountain was blazing with fire. 24 You said, ‘Look, the LORD our God has shown us his glory and greatness, and we have heard his voice from the fire. Today we have seen that God speaks with a person, yet he still lives. 25 But now, why should we die? This great fire will consume us and we will die if we hear the voice of the LORD our God any longer.

26 For who out of all mankind has heard the voice of the living God speaking from the fire, as we have, and lived? 27 Go near and listen to everything the LORD our God says. Then you can tell us everything the LORD our God tells you;
we will listen and obey.’ † 28 “The LORD heard your † words when you spoke to me. He said to me, ‘I have heard the words that these people have spoken to you. Everything they have said is right. 29 If only they had such a heart to fear me and keep all my commands always, so that they and their children would prosper forever. 30 Go and tell them: Return to your tents. 31 But you stand here with me, and I will tell you every command — the statutes and ordinances — you are to teach them, so that they may follow them in the land I am giving them to possess.’ 32 “Be careful to do as the LORD your God has commanded you; you are not to turn aside to the right or the left. 33 Follow the whole instruction the LORD your God has commanded you, so that you may live, prosper, and have a long life in the land you will possess.

5:1-3 The laws found in Deuteronomy 5–11 are of a more general nature than those found in Deuteronomy 12–26. The present section naturally begins with the covenant God made with the Israelites at Mount Sinai. Moses asserted that this covenant had continuing significance for Israel and was not (merely) made with the previous generation but with all the living Israelites assembled.

5:6-21 Central to the covenant that God made with Israel at Horeb was the Ten Commandments, which are recounted here (see also Ex 20:1-17). These summarize the stipulations of God’s covenant with Israel. The other laws in Deuteronomy expand on these stipulations. Regarding the existence of other gods, see the note on Exodus 12:12.

5:23-27 Moses’s role as mediator had arisen in connection with the giving of the Ten Commandments because the Israelites were afraid when they heard God speaking (see also v. 5; Ex 20:18-21).

5:29 The Lord granted Israel’s request for a mediator (v. 28), but his wish that Israel had such a heart to fear [him] and keep all [his] commands implies that they did not have such a God-fearing heart (for other wishes employing the same Hebrew construction, see Ex 16:3; Nm 11:29). This implication is disappointing given God's intention that the encounter at Mount Sinai would teach Israel this very thing (4:10; Ex 20:20).

THE GREATEST COMMAND

6 "This is the command — the statutes and ordinances — the LORD your God has commanded me to teach you, so that you may follow them in the land you are about to enter and possess. † 2 Do this so that you may fear † the LORD your God † all the days of your life † by keeping all his statutes and commands I am giving you, your son, and your grandson, and so that you may have a long life. † 3 Listen, Israel, and be careful to follow them, so that you may prosper and multiply greatly, because the LORD, the God of your fathers, has promised you a land flowing with milk and honey. †

4 "Listen, Israel: The LORD our God, the LORD is one. † † 5 Love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength. † 6 These words that I am giving you today are to be in your heart. † 7 Repeat them to your children. † Talk about them when you sit in your house and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up. 8 Bind them as a sign on your hand and let them be a symbol † on your forehead. † † 9 Write them on the doorposts of your house and on your city gates.

REMEMBERING GOD THROUGH OBEDIENCE

10 "When the LORD your God brings you into the land he swore to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob that he would give you — a land with large and beautiful cities that you did not build, 11 houses full of every good thing that you did not fill them with, cisterns that you did not dig, and vineyards and olive groves that you did not plant † — and when you eat and are satisfied, † 12 be careful not to forget the LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the place of slavery. † 13 Fear the LORD your God, worship him, and take your oaths in his name. † 14 Do not follow other gods, the gods of the peoples around you, 15 for the LORD your God, who is among you, is a jealous God. † Otherwise, the LORD your God will become angry with you and obliterate you from the face of the earth. 16 Do not test † the LORD your God as you tested him at Massah. † 17 Carefully observe the commands of the LORD your God, the decrees and statutes he has commanded you. 18 Do what is right and good in the LORD's sight, so that you may prosper and so that you may enter and possess the good land † the LORD your God swore to give your fathers, †

JUDAISM

Listen, Israel: The LORD our God, the LORD is one. Love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength. These words that I am giving you today are to be in your heart. Repeat them to your children"(Dt 6:4-7).

These vibrant words continue to be recited by observant Jews as the central component of their daily morning and evening prayers. Known as the Shema, it is the dominant expression of the fundamental axioms of Judaism: (1) absolute monotheism, (2) unwavering and holistic love for God, and (3) steadfast commitment to the teachings of Scripture as rightly interpreted and applied.

HISTORY OF JUDAISM

Repeated six times in just the book of Genesis, God entered into a special covenant relationship with Abraham and his Hebrew descendants with a promise of blessing should they remain faithful (Gn 12:1-3; 18:18-19; 22:17-18; 26:2-5; 28:13-15; 35:9-12). The Torah, meaning "teaching" or "law" and known in the OT as the Pentateuch, relays the Jewish understanding of creation, the election of Abraham and his family, the salvific redemption of the exodus, and the promulgation of the initial laws that form the foundation for faith. The Nevi'im (Prophets) and Ketuvim (Writings), subsequent sections in the Tanak, the Jewish acronym referencing the totality of the OT, offer an expanded understanding of faith as well as a theological reflection on the extent to which Jews historically embodied that faith.

Traces of modern Judaism are perhaps first located in the actions of Ezra. As theologically interpreted by multiple prophets, repeated failures in monotheistic belief, corporate societal injustice, and individual unrighteousness resulted in seventy years of Babylonian exile beginning in 597 BC (Is 28–30, 39–40; Jr 2–6, 25; Lm 1–2; Hab 1–2). When the Jews returned home to start a multi-generational process of painstaking restoration, a key architect was Ezra. He is remembered today as the "Father of Judaism." This moniker stems from Ezra's reestablishment of corporate ritual purity, Torah obedience, and protected ethnic homogenization maintained through marital endogamy, a practice that has helped the Jews remain a unique people group even in the midst of frequent dispersion (Ezr 8:15–10:17; Neh 8–10).

Additional developments following the years of Ezra include a religious shift from temple, priestly, and sacrificial focus to lay-rabbinical leadership and prayer and faithful study of the Torah. This corresponded with the slow emergence of synagogues, "houses of assembly" for prayer and study, and the office of Pharisee and Sadducee. Perhaps most significantly was an intensification of theology anticipating a salvific Messiah who would fully restore the Jewish nation in the vein of King David that endures even today as an expectant but unfulfilled hope. For many Jews, a crucified and resurrected Jesus remains an anathema.

When Roman forces destroyed the Jerusalem temple in AD 70, allegiance to the divinely revealed law strengthened and transitioned. Rabbis began teaching that at Mount Sinai, God handed down a two-part revelation. The first was the installation of 613 laws codified in the Torah and divided into 248 positive commandments and 365 negative ones. Moses was also gifted with a second revelation: the Talmud. The Talmud is an "oral Torah" comprised of two major sections, the Mishnah and Gemara, imparted first by Moses, preserved by prophets, and sealed by qualified rabbis around AD 500. With sixty-three tractates, the Talmud is a central text of contemporary Judaism and channels the static, written laws of the Torah into an official interpretation of dynamic application to daily living that allows flexibility and ongoing adaptability of Jewish practice.

The razing of the temple further reinforced a migratory Diaspora of Jews living as minorities within other lands. Throughout medieval Europe, Jewish life ebbed and flowed often in newly emerging ghettos, special Jewish quarters frequently surrounded by walls with gates that closed at night. While this allowed the flourishing of a distinct ethnicity, religion, languages, and cultural customs within foreign lands, it foreshadowed darker measures. By the twentieth century, in many important respects, Eastern Europe, with its distinctive Yiddish dialect intermingling German and Hebrew, was the heart of Jewish civilization. Tragically, this time also corresponded to a mounting anti-Semitism.

By the middle of the twentieth century, two major developments were significantly altering contemporary Judaism. First was the emergence of Reform, Orthodox, and Conservative Judaic groups. Reform Judaism, among other changes, rescinded dietary laws, prayer shawls, and head coverings in an attempt to conform tradition to modern realities by emphasizing ethics over ritual. Orthodox Judaism, on the other hand, has continued a strict traditional belief in the binding character of the Torah and Jewish laws and resists efforts to amend or otherwise conform. Conservative Judaism has sought a delicate middle ground, balancing traditional adherence with cautious openness and adaptation.

The horrors of the Holocaust and the genocidal elimination of six million Jews was the second major development of the twentieth century. It considerably bolstered Zionism, a modern political movement to secure a permanent Jewish homeland in Palestine. Though initially contentious, Zionism was essential to the creation of the state of Israel in 1948, a process continuing to shape and divide the Middle East today.

JUDAISM TODAY

Though Reform, Orthodox, and Conservative Judaism have different approaches and emphases, Jews tend to agree that individuals are born with two intrinsic drives: yetzer hatov, the inclination to do good, and yetzer hara, the inclination to do evil. The latter inevitably results in sin, averah. Yetzer hatov leads individuals to obey the commandments of the Torah as interpreted by the Talmud and applied by the Halakhah, a Jewish legal tradition intended to govern every aspect of an individual's life and that of the community. In other words, when rightly interpreted, the mitzvoth (commandments) are not static but dynamic principles holistically applying to religious elements such as prayer and worship as well as to so-called secular areas such as male circumcision on the eighth day, Bar and Bat Mitzvahs celebrating adulthood, marriage, death and burial, the treatment of others, and food and its preparation. Halakhah is a lifestyle expecting external obedience leading to internal change.

To summarize, humanity needs to experience internal transformation, a process beginning with personal repentance completed by God who is Creator and ultimate Redeemer, and maintained when individuals faithfully choose to obey the Torah mitzvoth as rightly interpreted by the Talmud and applied to daily life by the Halakhah or "the way of walking." Importantly, Reform, Conservative, and Orthodox Judaism expect different degrees of adherence and conformity to the Halakhah lifestyle. Individuals born into Judaism, which is a matrilineal religion, strive to live a life of obedience and worship of God. They are grateful for being born onto the path of salvation while non-Jews are welcomed to the faith through a process of conversion.

Key festivals and holy days as well as communal worship strengthen and reinforce adherence. The Sabbath (Shabbat) is the key weekly celebration beginning on Friday at sundown and ending at sundown on Saturday. Observant Jews utilize Friday evenings as occasion for communal services at local synagogues and spend the remainder of the Shabbat in rest. Other key celebrations include Rosh Hashanah (Jewish New Year, usually in September), Yom Kippur (a solemn day of repentance as the Day of Atonement), Sukkot (the Festival of Shelters, a celebratory autumn harvest festival), Hanukkah (an eight day celebration known as the Festival of Lights), Passover (a spring festival focusing on new life with a highly symbolic familial meal called the Seder) and the Festival of Weeks (seven weeks after Passover commemorating the giving of the Torah).

At the heart of Judaism is the monotheistic worship of God. Prayer is most properly completed when offered in community and according to the appropriate prayer book, though individual, private, and spontaneous prayers are also encouraged. Prayer is further enhanced when complemented with a yarmulke (a head cap), tallit (a prayer shawl), and tefillin (a small black box containing the words of the Torah and attached to the forehead or arm by leather bands).

Worldwide, the number of messianic Jews remains small. According to Operation World, less than 2.5 percent of modern Israel is Christian. Given ongoing anti-Semitism and historical hostility, healthy interfaith dialogue and relationship building remains essential. Especially relevant, however, is the critical need to support Christian believers living within Israel—particularly those of Arab descent, who are often marginalized and caught in the crossfire of Arab-Israeli conflicts.

CHRISTIAN PERSPECTIVES ON CHILDREN'S EDUCATION

To have a biblical worldview is to interpret every aspect of life within the framework of God's story. At the center of God's story stands this singular act: in Jesus Christ, God personally intersected human history and redeemed humanity. Yet this central act does not stand alone. It is bordered by God's good creation and humanity's fall into sin on the one hand and by the consummation of God's kingdom on the other. This story of creation, fall, redemption, and consummation is the story that Christians have repeated to one another and to the world ever since Jesus ascended into the sky and sent his Spirit to dwell in his first followers. This age-old plotline should frame every aspect of our lives—including how we treat and train children.

GIFTS FROM GOD AND SINNERS IN NEED

In each movement of God's storyline, children are neither burdens to be avoided nor by-products of sin. Every child is a gift (Ps 127:3-5). Even before humanity's fall, God designed the raising of children to serve as a means for multiplying his glory (Gn 1:26-28). After the fall, men and women still exercise divinely ordered dominion over creation by raising children (1:26-28; 8:17; 9:1-7; Mk 10:5-9). What has changed in the aftermath of the fall is that children have become not only gifts to be nurtured but also sinners to be trained.

The training of little ones is a primary parental responsibility. Parents are responsible not only to provide for their children's needs but also to train them to reflect God's glory. This doesn't release the larger faith community from a responsibility for shaping children's souls. The Great Commission to "make disciples" was given to the whole people of God and includes every age group (Mt 28:19). Parents may partner with church ministries or enlist teachers to develop certain skills in their children, but parents do bear final responsibility before God for how their children are trained for life.

In the OT, Moses commanded parents—particularly fathers—to train their children in God's ways (the pronouns translated "you" and "your" in Dt 6:6-7 are masculine singular in the original language). Moses expected children to ask their parents about their family's spiritual practices, and he prepared fathers to respond in ways that highlighted God's mighty works (Ex 12:25-28; Dt 6:20-25). These expectations persisted throughout Israel's songs and early history (Jos 4:6; Ps 78:1-7). This ancient heritage of songs, statutes, and ceremonies foreshadowed the coming of Jesus and explicitly recognized the primacy of parents in their children's training.

Paul reiterated this in the NT when he reminded fathers to nurture their children in the "training and instruction of the Lord" (Eph 6:4). Paul seems to have derived this phrase from Deuteronomy 11:2, where "discipline of the LORD" prefaced a description of how God disciplined his people to remind them of his covenant with them.

In other letters, Paul applied these same two terms—training and instruction—to patterns that characterized the disciple-making relationships of brothers and sisters in the faith. Training implied discipline and described one of the key results of training in the words of God (2Tm 3:16). Instruction included warnings to avoid unwise behaviors and ungodly teachings (1Co 10:11; Ti 3:10). Such texts suggest that Paul was calling parents to do far more than manage their children's behaviors and provide for their needs. Paul expected parents to train their children to engage with their world in light of God's words and ways.

Children's training is worldview training. This training includes more than merely increasing children's biblical knowledge or involving them in a community of faith. Moses commanded the Israelites to teach their offspring to view all they did ("hand") and all they chose ("forehead"), as well as how they lived at home ("doorposts") and how they conducted business ("your city gates") within the all-encompassing framework of a God-centered worldview (Dt 6:8-9).

"Wisdom" in Proverbs was conveyed from parent to child and included not only knowledge about God but also practical skills for engaging with the world in light of God's truth. Skills in craftsmanship, leadership, and a broad range of other fields all fell under the heading of wisdom, which begins with "the fear of the LORD" (Pr 1:7). Persons outside the believing community may possess these skills, but only the believer sees them as God intended: they are signposts pointing to the order and glory of God. There is no biblical warrant for separating the training of children into "secular" and "sacred" categories, with one handled by the world and the other superintended by parents. God is Lord over all of life.

Children's training includes formal and informal components. Moses commanded the Israelites to teach God's words to their children and to discuss these truths informally throughout each day (Dt 6:7-9). In Proverbs, the father passed on particular teachings to his son (Pr 4:2) and provided occasional instructions in response to specific situations (4:1). The biblical pattern is for parents to be involved in formal and informal training. The book of Proverbs mentions the mother's role five times (1:8; 4:3; 6:20; 31:1,26). According to biblical scholar Peter Gentry, this inclusion of the mother is unparalleled in the Wisdom literature of ancient Near Eastern nations. In Scripture the father possessed a particular responsibility to lead, but the father's responsibility did not negate or diminish the mother's supportive role in the nurture and admonition of children.

EVERY CHILD IS MORE THAN A CHILD

No amount of training can ever raise a child to the level of God's perfect righteousness. Even the best training may not result in a child's perseverance in the faith. Proverbs 22:6, the text that declares "even when he grows old he will not depart," is not a promise to parents but a proverb. It's a pithy observation about how life typically works.

Every order of creation, including our relationships with children, has been subjected to frustration due to the fall (Rm 8:20-22). The ultimate solution is not better training but a perfect substitute—and that's precisely what God provided in Jesus Christ. Through Christ, God bridged the gap between his perfection and humanity's imperfection (2Co 5:21). The death of Jesus brought about the possibility of redemption here and now; his resurrection guaranteed the consummation of God's kingdom in the future.

This introduces a radical new dimension to how we view children. To embrace God's redemption is to be adopted in Jesus Christ as God's heir; it means gaining a new identity that transcends every earthly status (Rm 8:15-17; Gl 3:28-29; 4:3-7; Eph 1:5; 2:13-22). United in Christ with other believers, the church becomes the believer's first family. Because the church is a family, in instances where one parent is absent or is an unbeliever, other believers may become that child's parents in the faith (2Tm 1:2,5; 3:15). "Whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother and sister and mother," Jesus said (Mt 12:50). Paul made much the same point when he directed Timothy to encourage "younger men as brothers" and "younger women as sisters" (1Tm 5:1-2).

What this means for followers of Jesus is that every child is far more than a child. Every child is a potential or actual brother or sister in Christ. The children who stand beside us in eternal glory will not stand beside us as our children or as our students. They will stand beside us as our brothers and sisters, "heirs of God and coheirs with Christ" (Rm 8:17; see also Gl 4:7; Heb 2:11; Jms 2:5; 1Pt 3:7).

Every child is an eternal soul whose days will long outlast the rise and fall of earthly kingdoms. They and their children and their children's children will flit ever so briefly across this life before being swept away into eternity (Jms 4:14). If these children become our brothers and sisters in Christ, however, their days on this earth are preparatory for glory that will never end (Dn 12:3; 2Co 4:17–5:4; 2Pt 1:10-11). That's why our primary purpose for the children we educate must not be anything as small and miserable as earthly success. Our loving purpose should be to leverage children's lives to advance God's kingdom.

6:4-9 This important passage is known as the Shema, for the Hebrew word translated Listen. Since the LORD is One, there are no other gods, and Israel was to love him with single-minded devotion. Jesus called this the "greatest and most important command" (Mt 22:36-38; Mk 12:28-30). The fundamental statement about the nature of God does not preclude the Trinity because the same word is used of Adam and Eve becoming "one flesh" in marriage (Gn 2:24; see "The Holy Trinity," p. 1426). See also "A Biblical View of Child Rearing," p. 1451.

6:16 The failures of the past were to serve as warnings for the present generation of the Israelites not to repeat the same mistakes (see also 4:3; 1Co 10:6). Massah was where Israel had complained about their thirst and then received water from the rock for the first time (Ex 17:1-7).

6:25 The possibility that Israel would obey all the commands and consequently have righteousness in the foreseeable future is highly doubtful in view of passages such as 4:25-31; 9:6; 29:4; 31:16-29.

ISRAEL TO DESTROY IDOLATROUS NATIONS

7 "When the LORD your God brings you into the land † you are entering to possess, † and he drives out many nations before you — the Hethites, Girgashites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites, seven nations † more numerous and powerful than you † — 2 and when the LORD your God delivers them over to you and you defeat them, you must completely destroy † them. Make no treaty with them and show them no mercy. † 3 You must not intermarry with them, and you must not give your daughters to their sons or take their daughters for your sons, † 4 because they will turn your sons away from me to worship other gods. † Then the LORD's anger will burn against you, † and he will swiftly destroy you. 5 Instead, this is what you are to do to them: tear down their altars, smash their sacred pillars, cut down their Asherah poles, † and burn their carved images. 6 For you are a holy people † belonging to the LORD your God. The LORD your God has chosen you to be his own possession † out of all the peoples on the face of the earth.
7 "The LORD had his heart set on you and chose you, not because you were more numerous than all peoples, for you were the fewest of all peoples. 8 But because the LORD loved † you and kept the oath he swore to your fathers, he brought you out with a strong hand and redeemed † you from the place of slavery, from the power of Pharaoh king of Egypt. 9 Know that the LORD your God is God, the faithful God who keeps his gracious covenant loyalty for a thousand generations with those who love him and keep his commands. † 10 But he directly pays back † and destroys those who hate him. † He will not hesitate to pay back directly † the one who hates him. 11 So keep the command — the statutes and ordinances — that I am giving you to follow today.

12 "If you listen to and are careful to keep these ordinances, the LORD your God will keep his covenant loyalty with you, as he swore to your fathers. † 13 He will love you, bless you, and multiply you. He will bless your offspring, † † and the produce of your land — your grain, new wine, and fresh oil — the young of your herds, and the newborn of your flocks, in the land he swore to your fathers that he would give you. 14 You will be blessed above all peoples; there will be no infertile male or female among you or your livestock. 15 The LORD will remove all sickness from you; he will not put on you † all the terrible diseases of Egypt that you know about, but he will inflict them on all who hate you. 16 You must destroy all the peoples the LORD your God is delivering over to you and not look on them with pity. Do not worship their gods, for that will be a snare to you.
17 "If you say to yourself, 'These nations are greater than I; how can I drive them out?' 18 do not be afraid of them. Be sure to remember what the LORD your God did to Pharaoh and all Egypt: 19 the great trials that you saw, the signs and wonders, the strong hand and outstretched arm, by which the LORD your God brought you out. The LORD your God will do the same to all the peoples you fear. 20 The LORD your God will also send hornets against them until all the survivors and those hiding from you perish. † 21 Don't be terrified of them, for the LORD your God, a great and awesome God, is among you. 22 The LORD your God will drive out these nations before you little by little. You will not be able to destroy them all at once; otherwise, the wild animals will become too numerous for you. † 23 The LORD your God will give them over to you and throw them into great confusion until they are destroyed. 24 He will hand their kings over to you, and you will wipe out their names under heaven. No one will be able to stand against you; you will annihilate them. 25 Burn up the carved images of their gods. Don't covet the silver and gold on the images and take it for yourself, or else you will be ensnared by it, for it is detestable to the LORD your God. 26 Do not bring any detestable thing into your house, or you will be set apart for destruction like it. You are to abhor and detest it utterly because it is set apart for destruction.

7:1-6 As God had said already (6:18-19; Nm 33:51-52), the Israelites were to drive out the peoples of the land and completely destroy them (see also vv. 5,16,24-26). The reason for these extreme measures was that the Canaanites' continued presence in the land would lead to intermarriage. This would lead the Israelites into idolatry, thus incurring the wrath of God against them (Ex 34:11-16). Importantly, Genesis 15:16 shows that the idolatry of the Canaanites had been going on for centuries, and Deuteronomy 12:31 shows that this idolatry had involved child sacrifice (see also Lv 18:21-24; 20:1-5; Dt 9:4-6). The Israelites were to be a holy people, distinct from the Canaanites and others (see 18:9-14; Lv 20:23).

7:7-9 Israel had been chosen and rescued by God not because of their greatness as a nation but because of his love and his faithfulness to his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

7:17-21 Israel's confidence that they could defeat these strong nations was to be based on God's help and his past victory over Pharaoh and Egypt. He is a great and awesome God who had done signs and wonders before and would do them again (see also 3:21-22).

REMEMBER THE LORD

8 "Carefully follow every command I am giving you today, so that you may live and increase, and may enter and take possession of the land † the LORD swore to your fathers. 2 Remember that the LORD your God led you on the entire journey these forty years in the wilderness, so that he might humble you and test you to know what was in your heart, whether or not you would keep his commands. 3 He humbled you by letting you go hungry; then he gave you manna to eat, which you and your fathers had not known, so that you might learn that man does not live on bread alone but on every word that comes from the mouth of the LORD. † 4 Your clothing did not wear out, and your feet did not swell these forty years. † 5 Keep in mind that the LORD your God has been disciplining you just as a man disciplines his son. 6 So keep the commands of the LORD your God by walking in his ways and fearing him. 7 For the LORD your God is bringing you into a good land, † a land with streams, springs, and deep water sources, flowing in both valleys and hills; 8 a land of wheat, barley, vines, figs, and pomegranates; a land of olive oil and honey; 9 a land where you will eat food without shortage, where you will lack nothing; a land whose rocks are iron and from whose hills you will mine copper. 10 When you eat and are full, † you will bless the LORD your God for the good land † he has given you.

11 "Be careful that you don't forget the LORD your God by failing to keep his commands, ordinances, and statutes that I am giving you today. 12 When you eat and are full, and build beautiful houses to live in, 13 and your herds and flocks grow large, and your silver and gold multiply, and everything else you have increases, 14 be careful that your heart doesn't become proud and you forget the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the place of slavery. † 15 He led you through the great and terrible wilderness with its poisonous † snakes and scorpions, a thirsty land where there was no water. He brought water out of the flint rock for you. 16 He fed you in the wilderness with manna, † which your fathers had not known, in order to humble and test you, so that in the end he might cause you to prosper. 17 You may say to yourself, 'My power and my own ability have gained this wealth for me,' 18 but remember that the LORD your God gives you the power to gain wealth, in order to confirm his covenant he swore to your fathers, † as it is today. 19 If you ever forget the LORD your God and follow other gods to serve them and bow in worship to them, I testify against you today that you will perish. † 20 Like the nations the LORD is about to destroy before you, you will perish if you do not obey the LORD your God.

8:1 If Israel obeyed God's commands, they would take possession of the land and live in it prosperously (see also 4:40; 5:32-33; 6:1-3; 7:12-15; 28:1-14).

8:2-5 Once again, Israel's past was to serve as a lesson for their present situation (see the note on 6:16). The lesson here derives from God's guidance and provision for them during the last forty years in the wilderness. Through this lengthy experience, the Israelites were humbled and tested by God, who was disciplining [them] just as a man disciplines his son (see also Pr 3:11-12; Heb 12:5-11).

8:12-20 The Israelites were warned not to forget the LORD when enjoying abundance and material wealth in the promised land (see also 6:10-12). During such times, it would be easier for the Israelites to become proud, to forget that God had led and sustained them in the wilderness (see vv. 2-5), and to think that their wealth was a result of their own doing. Moses instructed them that it was God who gives . . . the power to gain wealth and that if they turned away from him they would perish.

WARNING AGAINST SELF-RIGHTEOUSNESS

WARNING AGAINST SELF-RIGHTEOUSNESS

9 “Listen, Israel: Today you are about to cross the Jordan to enter and drive out nations greater and stronger than you, † with large cities fortified to the heavens. † 2 The people are strong and tall, the descendants of the Anakim. † You know about them and you have heard it said about them, ‘Who can stand up to the sons of Anak? ’ † 3 But understand that today the LORD your God will cross over ahead of you † as a consuming fire; † he will devastate and subdue them before you. You will drive them out and destroy them swiftly, † as the LORD has told you. 4 When the LORD your God drives them out before you, do not say to yourself, ‘The LORD brought me in to take possession of this land because of my righteousness.’ † Instead, the LORD will drive out these nations before you because of their wickedness. † 5 You are not going to take possession of their land because of your righteousness or your integrity. Instead, the LORD your God will drive out these nations before you because of their wickedness, in order to fulfill the promise he swore to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. 6 Understand that the LORD your God is not giving you this good land † to possess because of your righteousness, for you are a stiff-necked people. †

ISRAEL’S REBELLION AND MOSES’S INTERCESSION

7 “Remember † and do not forget how you provoked the LORD your God in the wilderness. You have been rebelling against the LORD from the day you left the land of Egypt until you reached this place. 8 You provoked the LORD at Horeb, and he was angry enough with you to destroy you. 9 When I went up the mountain to receive the stone tablets, the tablets of the covenant † the LORD made with you, I stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights. I did not eat food or drink water. 10 On the day of the assembly the LORD gave me the two stone tablets, inscribed by God’s finger. † The exact words were on them, which the LORD spoke to you from the fire on the mountain. † 11 The LORD gave me the two stone tablets, the tablets of the covenant, at the end of the forty days and forty nights.

12 “The LORD said to me, ‘Get up and go down immediately from here. For your people whom you brought out of Egypt have acted corruptly. They have quickly turned from the way that I commanded them; they have made a cast image for themselves.’ † 13 The LORD also said to me, ‘I have seen this people, and indeed, they are a stiff-necked people. 14 Leave me alone, and I will destroy them and blot out their name under heaven. † Then I will make you into a nation stronger and more numerous than they.’

15 “So I went back down the mountain, while it was blazing with fire, and the two tablets of the covenant were in my hands. 16 I saw how you had sinned against the LORD your God; you had made a calf image for yourselves. You had quickly turned from the way the LORD had commanded for you. 17 So I took hold of the two tablets and threw them from my hands, shattering them before your eyes. † 18 I fell down like the first time in the presence of the LORD for forty days and forty nights; I did not eat food or drink water because of all the sin you committed, doing what was evil in the LORD’s sight and angering him. 19 I was afraid of the fierce anger the LORD had directed against you, † because he was about to destroy you. But again the LORD listened to me on that occasion. † 20 The LORD was angry enough with Aaron to destroy him. But I prayed for Aaron at that time also. 21 I took the sinful calf you had made and burned it. I crushed it, thoroughly grinding it to powder as fine as dust, and threw its dust into the stream that came down from the mountain. †
22 “You continued to provoke the LORD at Taberah, Massah, and Kibroth-hattaavah. † 23 When the LORD sent you from Kadesh-barnea, he said, ‘Go up and possess the land I have given you’; you rebelled against the command of the LORD your God. You did not believe or obey him. † 24 You have been rebelling against the LORD ever since I have † known you. †
25 “I fell down in the presence of the LORD forty days and forty nights because the LORD had threatened to destroy you. 26 I prayed to the LORD:
Lord GOD, do not annihilate your people, your inheritance, whom you redeemed † through your greatness and brought out of Egypt with a strong hand. 27 Remember your servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Disregard this people’s stubbornness, and their wickedness and sin. 28 Otherwise, those in the land you brought us from will say, ‘Because the LORD wasn’t able to bring them into the land he had promised them, and because he hated them, he brought them out to kill them in the wilderness.' † 29 But they are your people, your inheritance, whom you brought out by your great power and outstretched arm. †

9:4-6 Just as Israel had not been chosen and loved by God because they were more numerous than other nations (7:7-9), neither were they chosen because of their righteousness or integrity. Rather, it was because of the wickedness of the inhabitants of the land that God would drive out these nations and because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (see also Gn 15:16). Indeed, Israel was not righteous but was a stiff-necked people.

9:7-24 Israel's past sins while in the wilderness provided plenty of evidence for Moses's characterization of them as a stiff-necked people (vv. 6, 13; v. 27). They had been rebelling against the LORD from the day [they] left the land of Egypt until [they] reached this place. The prime example cited here was the sin of the golden calf, which provoked the LORD to the point that he wanted to destroy them (see also vv. 14,18-20,25). They had also angered God on many other occasions, including in their refusal to enter the land previously (see also 1:32).

THE COVENANT RENEWED

10 "The LORD said to me at that time, 'Cut two stone tablets like the first ones and come to me on the mountain and make a wooden ark. 2 I will write on the tablets the words that were on the first tablets you broke, and you are to place them in the ark.' 3 So I made an ark of acacia wood, † cut two stone tablets like the first ones, and climbed the mountain with the two tablets in my hand. 4 Then on the day of the assembly, the LORD wrote on the tablets what had been written previously, the Ten Commandments that he had spoken to you on the mountain from the fire. The LORD gave them to me, 5 and I went back down the mountain and placed the tablets in the ark I had made. And they have remained there, as the LORD commanded me." †

6 The Israelites traveled from Beeroth Bene-jaakan † to Moserah. Aaron died and was buried there, and Eleazar his son became priest in his place. † 7 They traveled from there to Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land with flowing streams. †

8 “At that time the LORD set apart the tribe of Levi † to carry the ark of the LORD’s covenant, to stand before the LORD to serve him, and to pronounce blessings in his name, as it is today. 9 For this reason, Levi does not have a portion or inheritance like his brothers; the LORD is his inheritance, as the LORD your God told him. † 10 “I stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights like the first time. The LORD also listened to me on this occasion; † he agreed not to annihilate you.
11 Then the LORD said to me, ‘Get up. Continue your journey ahead of the people, so that they may enter and possess the land I swore to give their fathers.’ †

WHAT GOD REQUIRES

12 “And now, Israel, what does the LORD your God ask of you except to fear † the LORD your God by walking in all his ways, to love him, and to worship the LORD your God with all your heart and all your soul? † 13 Keep the LORD’s commands and statutes I am giving you today, for your own good. † 14 The heavens, indeed the highest heavens, belong to the LORD your God, as does the earth and everything in it. † 15 Yet the LORD had his heart set on your fathers and loved them. † He chose their descendants after them — he chose you out of all the peoples, as it is today. † 16 Therefore, circumcise your hearts † and don’t be stiff-necked any longer. 17 For the LORD your God is the God of gods † and Lord of lords, † the great, mighty, and awe-inspiring God, showing no partiality and taking no bribe. † 18 He executes justice for the fatherless and the widow, and loves the resident alien, giving him food and clothing. † 19 You are also to love the resident alien, since you were resident aliens in the land of Egypt. † 20 You are to fear the LORD your God and worship him. Remain faithful † to him and take oaths in his name. † 21 He is your praise and he is your God, who has done for you these great and awe-inspiring works your eyes have seen. 22 Your fathers went down to Egypt, seventy people in all, † and now the LORD your God has made you numerous, like the stars of the sky. †

10:10-11 Moses continued to recount the golden calf incident, including his intercession (9:26-29) and the making of another set of stone tablets (10:1-5). Here he concluded with God's granting of his request for mercy. Truly, Israel was not receiving the land because of their own righteousness (9:4-6).

10:12-16 Having recounted some of their earlier failures, Moses called the Israelites to obedience. Evidently, fearing God (i.e., having an appropriate, deep respect for him) does not conflict with loving him (v. 12). The call to circumcise your hearts (cp. Jr 4:4), through its connection with the command not to be stiff-necked any longer, suggests an internal change resulting in willing obedience. It is doubtful whether Israel ever did or could do this, but later God promised that he would do it for them (30:6; see also Rm 2:29; Col 2:11).

REMEMBER AND OBEY

11 "Therefore, love the LORD your God and always keep his mandate and his statutes, ordinances, and commands. 2 Understand today that it is not your children who experienced or saw the discipline of the LORD your God:

His greatness, strong hand, and outstretched arm; † 3 his signs and the works he did in Egypt to Pharaoh king of Egypt and all his land; † 4 what he did to Egypt's army, its horses and chariots, when he made the water of the Red Sea flow over them as they pursued you, and he destroyed them † completely; † 5 what he did to you in the wilderness until you reached this place; 6 and what he did to Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab the Reubenite, when in the middle of the whole Israelite camp the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them, their households, their tents, and every living thing with them. †

7 Your own eyes have seen † every great work the LORD has done.

8 "Keep every command I am giving you today, so that you may have the strength to cross into and possess the land you are to inherit, 9 and so that you may live long † in the land the LORD swore to your fathers to give them and their descendants, a land flowing with milk and honey. † 10 For the land you are entering to possess is not like the land of Egypt, from which you have come, where you sowed your seed and irrigated by hand † as in a vegetable garden. 11 But the land you are entering to possess is a land of mountains and valleys, watered by rain from the sky. 12 It is a land the LORD your God cares for. He is always watching over it † from the beginning to the end of the year.

13 "If you carefully obey my commands I am giving you today, to love the LORD your God and worship him with all your heart and all your soul, 14 I † will provide rain for your land in the proper time, the autumn and spring rains, † and you will harvest your grain, new wine, and fresh oil. † 15 I † will provide grass in your fields for your livestock. You will eat and be satisfied. † 16 Be careful † that you are not enticed to turn aside, serve, and bow in worship to other gods. †
17 Then the LORD's anger will burn against you. † He will shut the sky, and there will be no rain; † the land will not yield its produce, and you will perish quickly from the good land † the LORD is giving you.
18 "Imprint these words of mine on your hearts and minds, bind them as a sign on your hands, and let them be a symbol † on your foreheads. † 19 Teach them to your children, † talking about them when you sit in your house and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up. 20 Write them on the doorposts of your house and on your city gates, † 21 so that as long as the heavens are above the earth, your days and those of your children may be many in the land the LORD swore to give your fathers. † 22 For if you carefully observe every one of these commands I am giving you to follow — to love the LORD your God, walk in all his ways, and remain faithful † to him — 23 the LORD will drive out all these nations before you, and you will drive out nations greater and stronger than you are. † 24 Every place the sole of your foot treads will be yours. † Your territory will extend from the wilderness to Lebanon and from the Euphrates River † to the Mediterranean Sea. † 25 No one will be able to stand against you; the LORD your God will put fear and dread of you in all the land where you set foot, as he has promised you. †

A BLESSING AND A CURSE

26 "Look, today I set before you a blessing and a curse: † 27 there will be a blessing, if you obey the commands of the LORD your God I am giving you today, 28 and a curse, if you do not obey the commands of the LORD your God and you turn aside from the path I command you today by following other gods you have not known. 29 When the LORD your God brings you into the land you are entering to possess, you are to proclaim the blessing at Mount Gerizim and the curse at Mount Ebal. 30 Aren't these mountains across the Jordan, beyond the western road in the land of the Canaanites, who live in the Arabah, opposite Gilgal, near the oaks † of Moreh? 31 For you are about to cross the Jordan to enter and take possession of the land the LORD your God is giving you. When you possess it and settle in it, 32 be careful to follow all the statutes and ordinances I set before you today.

11:1-32 This chapter concludes the general instructions given in Deuteronomy 5–11 and revisits some of the topics already discussed. Having witnessed the mighty acts of God with their own eyes, the (adult) Israelites were especially responsible both for obedience to God's commands (see the note on 4:1) and for instructing their children (see the note on 4:9-10). Their obedience would ensure their prosperous dwelling in the land for a long time, whereas disobedience would result in drought, famine, and destruction (see the note on 8:1). The mention of either a blessing or a curse contingent on obedience or disobedience places even greater importance on Israel's future conduct in terms of fidelity to their covenant relationship with God. The blessing and the curse would be proclaimed from Mount Gerizim and Mount Ebal, respectively (27:11–28:68; Jos 8:30-35).

THE CHOSEN PLACE OF WORSHIP

12 "Be careful to follow these statutes and ordinances in the land that the LORD, the God of your fathers, † has given you to possess all the days you live on the earth. 2 Destroy completely all the places where the nations that you are driving out worship their gods † — on the high mountains, on the hills, and under every green tree. † 3 Tear down their altars, smash their sacred pillars, burn their Asherah poles, cut down the carved images of their gods, and wipe out their names from every † place. † 4 Don't worship the LORD your God this way. 5 Instead, turn to the place the LORD your God chooses † from all your tribes to put his name for his dwelling and go there. 6 You are to bring there your burnt offerings and sacrifices, your tenths and personal contributions, † your vow offerings and freewill offerings, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks. 7 You will eat there in the presence of the LORD your God and rejoice with your household in everything you do, † because the LORD your God has blessed you.

8 "You are not to do as we are doing here today; everyone is doing whatever seems right in his own sight. † 9 Indeed, you have not yet come into the resting place † and the inheritance † the LORD your God is giving you. 10 When you cross the Jordan and live in the land the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, † and he gives you rest from all the enemies around you and you live in security, 11 then the LORD your God will choose the place to have his name dwell. † Bring there everything I command you: your burnt offerings, sacrifices, offerings of the tenth, personal contributions, † and all your choice offerings you vow to the LORD. 12 You will rejoice † before the LORD your God — you, your sons and daughters, your male and female slaves, and the Levite who is within your city gates, since he has no portion or inheritance among you. † 13 Be careful not to offer your burnt offerings in all the sacred places you see.
14 You must offer your burnt offerings only in the place the LORD chooses in one of your tribes, and there you must do everything I command you.

SLAUGHTERING ANIMALS TO EAT

15 "But whenever you want, you may slaughter and eat meat within any of your city gates, † according to the blessing the LORD your God has given you. Those who are clean or unclean may eat it, as they would a gazelle or deer, 16 but you must not eat the blood; pour it on the ground like water. † 17 Within your city gates you may not eat the tenth of your grain, new wine, or fresh oil; the firstborn of your herd or flock; any of your vow offerings that you pledge; your freewill offerings; or your personal contributions. † 18 You are to eat them in the presence of the LORD your God at the place the LORD your God chooses — you, your son and daughter, your male and female slave, and the Levite who is within your city gates. Rejoice before the LORD your God in everything you do, 19 and be careful not to neglect the Levite, as long as you live in your land.

20 “When the LORD your God enlarges your territory as he has promised you, † and you say, ‘I want to eat meat’ because you have a strong desire to eat meat, you may eat it whenever you want. 21 If the place where the LORD your God chooses to put his name is too far from you, you may slaughter any of your herd or flock he has given you, as I have commanded you, and you may eat it within your city gates whenever you want. 22 Indeed, you may eat it as the gazelle and deer are eaten; both the clean and the unclean may eat it. 23 But don’t eat the blood, since the blood is the life, and you must not eat the life with the meat. † 24 Do not eat blood; pour it on the ground like water. † 25 Do not eat it, so that you and your children after you will prosper, because you will be doing what is right in the LORD’s sight.
26 “But you are to take the holy offerings you have and your vow offerings and go to the place the LORD chooses. 27 Present the meat and blood of your burnt offerings on the altar of the LORD your God. The blood of your other sacrifices is to be poured out beside the altar of the LORD your God, but you may eat the meat. 28 Be careful to obey all these things I command you, so that you and your children after you may prosper forever, because you will be doing what is good and right in the sight of the LORD your God.
29 “When the LORD your God annihilates the nations before you, † which you are entering to take possession of, † and you drive them out and live in their land, 30 be careful not to be ensnared by their ways † after they have been destroyed before you. Do not inquire about their gods, asking, ‘How did these nations worship their gods? I’ll also do the same.’ 31 You must not do the same to the LORD your God, because they practice every detestable act, which the LORD hates, for their gods. They even burn their sons and daughters in the fire to their gods. 32 Be careful to do everything I command you; do not add anything to it or take anything away from it. †

12:1 In contrast to Deuteronomy 5–11 (see the note on 5:1-3), Deuteronomy 12–26 contains more specific laws related to life in the promised land.

12:2-14 The first group of laws in this section concern proper worship. The Israelites were to destroy the Canaanites' idols and places of worship (see also 7:5,25) and worship God at the place the Lord . . . God chooses . . . to put his name for his dwelling (see also vv. 18,21,26). They were not to worship God as they pleased (v. 8) but were to go to the designated location to offer sacrifices, eat, and rejoice there (vv. 5-7,11-14,17-18,26-28). After settling the Israelites in the land, God would choose the place to have his name dwell.

12:29-31 The Israelites were not even to be curious about the Canaanites' idolatry (see vv. 2-4), lest they be ensnared. The Lord characterized the inhabitants of the land as practic[ing] every detestable act, which the LORD hates, for their gods, including even burn[ing] their sons and daughters in the fire to their gods (see the note on 7:1-5).

THE FALSE PROPHET

13 "If a prophet or someone who has dreams † arises among you and proclaims a sign or wonder to you, 2 and that sign or wonder he has promised you comes about, but he says, 'Let us follow other gods,' which you have not known, 'and let us worship them,' 3 do not listen to that prophet's words or to that dreamer. For the LORD your God is testing you to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and all your soul. † 4 You must follow the LORD your God and fear him. You must keep his commands and listen to him; you must worship him and remain faithful † to him. † 5 That prophet or dreamer must be put to death, † because he has urged rebellion against the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the place of slavery, † to turn you from the way the LORD your God has commanded you to walk. You must purge the evil from you. †

DON'T TOLERATE IDOLATRY

6 "If your brother, the son of your mother, † or your son or daughter, or the wife you embrace, or your closest friend secretly entices you, saying, 'Let us go and worship other gods' — which neither you nor your fathers have known, 7 any of the gods of the peoples around you, near you or far from you, from one end of the earth to the other — 8 do not yield to him or listen to him. Show him no pity, † and do not spare him or shield him. † 9 Instead, you must kill him. Your hand is to be the first against him to put him to death, and then the hands of all the people. † 10 Stone him to death for trying to turn you away from the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the place of slavery. † 11 All Israel will hear and be afraid, and they will no longer do anything evil like this among you. † 12 "If you hear it said about one of your cities the LORD your God is giving you to live in, 13 that wicked men have sprung up among you, led the inhabitants of their city astray, and said, 'Let us go and worship other gods,' which you have not known, † 14 you are to inquire, investigate, and interrogate thoroughly. If the report turns out to be true that this detestable act has been done among you, 15 you must strike down the inhabitants of that city with the sword. Completely destroy everyone in it as well as its livestock with the sword. 16 You are to gather all its spoil in the middle of the city square and completely burn the city and all its spoil for the LORD your God. The city is to remain a mound of ruins forever; † it is not to be rebuilt. 17 Nothing set apart for destruction is to remain in your hand, so that the LORD will turn from his burning anger and grant you mercy, show you compassion, and multiply you as he swore to your fathers. 18 This will occur if you obey the LORD your God, keeping all his commands I am giving you today, doing what is right in the sight of the LORD your God.

13:1-5 The concern for proper and exclusive worship of God in the previous chapter continues in these instructions regarding false prophets. Even if a sign or wonder he has promised . . . comes about, such prophets were not to be followed because they teach rebellion against the LORD (see also 18:20-22). That false prophets may possess some unusual power is confirmed by several other passages (e.g., Ex 7:8-12; Mt 7:21-23; Rv 13:11-14; 16:14; 19:20). This reality shows the importance of examining a person's teaching and not simply following someone who demonstrates spiritual influence or power.

13:6-18 These laws demonstrate that Israel's loyalty to God was to have an even higher priority than their loyalty to family, friends, and nation. Likewise, Jesus requires his followers to love him more than any other (Lk 14:26).

FORBIDDEN PRACTICES

14 "You are sons of the LORD your God; † do not cut yourselves or make a bald spot on your head † on behalf of the dead, † 2 for you are a holy people belonging to the LORD your God. The LORD has chosen you to be his own possession † out of all the peoples on the face of the earth.

CLEAN AND UNCLEAN FOODS

3 "You must not eat any detestable thing. 4 These are the animals you may eat:

oxen, sheep, goats,
5 deer, gazelles, roe deer, wild goats, ibexes, antelopes, and mountain sheep.

6 You may eat any animal that has hooves divided in two and chews the cud. † 7 But among the ones that chew the cud or have divided hooves, you are not to eat these:

camels, hares, and hyraxes, though they chew the cud, they do not have hooves —
they are unclean for you;
8 and pigs, though they have hooves, they do not chew the cud —
they are unclean for you.

Do not eat their meat or touch their carcasses. †
9 "You may eat everything from the water that has fins and scales, 10 but you may not eat anything that does not have fins and scales — it is unclean for you. † 11 "You may eat every clean bird, 12 but these are the ones you may not eat:

eagles, bearded vultures,
black vultures, 13 the kites,
any kind of falcon, †
14 every kind of raven, 15 ostriches,
short-eared owls, gulls,

any kind of hawk,
16 little owls, long-eared owls,
barn owls, 17 eagle owls,
ospreys, cormorants, 18 storks,
any kind of heron,
hoopoes, and bats. † †

19 All winged insects are unclean for you; they may not be eaten. 20 But you may eat every clean flying creature. †
21 "You are not to eat any carcass; you may give it to a resident alien within your city gates, and he may eat it, or you may sell it to a foreigner. For you are a holy people belonging to the LORD your God. Do not boil a young goat in its mother's milk.

A TENTH FOR THE LORD

22 "Each year you are to set aside a tenth of all the produce grown in your fields. 23 You are to eat a tenth of your grain, new wine, and fresh oil, and the firstborn of your herd and flock, in the presence of the LORD your God at the place where he chooses to have his name dwell, † so that you will always learn to fear † the LORD your God. 24 But if the distance is too great for you to carry it, since the place where the LORD your God chooses to put his name is too far away from you and since the LORD your God has blessed you, 25 then exchange it for silver, take the silver in your hand, and go to the place the LORD your God chooses. 26 You may spend the silver on anything you want: cattle, sheep, goats, wine, beer, or anything you desire. You are to feast there in the presence of the LORD your God and rejoice with your family. 27 Do not neglect the Levite within your city gates, since he has no portion or inheritance among you. †
28 "At the end of every three years, bring a tenth of all your produce for that year and store it within your city gates. 29 Then the Levite, who has no portion or inheritance among you, the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow within your city gates may come, eat, and be satisfied. † And the LORD your God will bless you in all the work of your hands that you do. †

14:1-2 Israel's call to be distinct in this area (see also Lv 19:28; 21:5) was based on the fact that they were a holy people (see also Lv 19:2; 20:23) and sons of the LORD [their] God (see also Mt 5:9,44-45).

14:3-21 The concern for Israel's holiness continues in this section on dietary laws (see v. 21), which is similar to Leviticus 11 (see the notes on Lv 11:1 and 11:44-47). On the boiling of a young goat in its mother's milk, see the note on Exodus 23:19.

14:22-29 A tenth (or tithe) of the Israelites' crops were to be brought annually to God to the place where he chooses to have his name dwell (see the note on 12:2-14). They were not to neglect the Levites, who had no portion among them, or the resident alien (the foreigner), the fatherless, or the widow (see also 10:18; 12:12,18-19; 16:11,14; 26:12-13).

DEBTS CANCELED

15 "At the end of every seven years you must cancel debts. † 2 This is how to cancel debt: Every creditor † is to cancel what he has lent his neighbor. He is not to collect anything from his neighbor or brother, because the LORD's release of debts has been proclaimed. 3 You may collect something from a foreigner, but you must forgive whatever your brother owes you.
4 "There will be no poor among you, however, because the LORD is certain to bless you in the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess as an inheritance † — 5 if only you obey the LORD your God and are careful to follow every one of these commands I am giving you today. 6 When the LORD your God blesses you as he has promised you, you will lend to many nations but not borrow; you will rule many nations, but they will not rule you.

LENDING TO THE POOR

7 "If there is a poor person among you, one of your brothers within any of your city gates in the land the LORD your God is giving you, do not be hardhearted or tightfisted toward your poor brother. 8 Instead, you are to open your hand to him and freely loan him enough for whatever need he has. 9 Be careful that there isn't this wicked thought in your heart, 'The seventh year, the year of canceling debts, is near,' and you are stingy toward your poor brother and give him nothing. He will cry out to the LORD against you, and you will be guilty. 10 Give to him, and don't have a stingy heart † when you give, and because of this the LORD your God will bless you in all your work and in everything you do. †

11 For there will never cease to be poor people in the land; † that is why I am commanding you, ‘Open your hand willingly to your poor and needy brother in your land.’

RELEASE OF SLAVES

12 “If your fellow Hebrew, a man or woman, is sold to you and serves you six years, you must set him free in the seventh year. † 13 When you set him free, do not send him away empty-handed. 14 Give generously to him from your flock, your threshing floor, and your winepress. You are to give him whatever the LORD your God has blessed you with. 15 Remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt and the LORD your God redeemed † you; that is why I am giving you this command today. † 16 But if your slave says to you, ‘I don’t want to leave you,’ because he loves you and your family, and is well off with you, 17 take an awl and pierce through his ear into the door, and he will become your slave for life. Also treat your female slave the same way. 18 Do not regard it as a hardship † when you set him free, because he worked for you six years — worth twice the wages of a hired worker. Then the LORD your God will bless you in everything you do. †

CONSECRATION OF FIRSTBORN ANIMALS

19 “Consecrate to the LORD your God every firstborn male produced by your herd and flock. † You are not to put the firstborn of your oxen to work or shear the firstborn of your flock. 20 Each year you and your family are to eat it before the LORD your God in the place the LORD chooses. 21 But if there is a defect in the animal, if it is lame or blind or has any serious defect, you may not sacrifice it to the LORD your God. 22 Eat it within your city gates; both the unclean person and the clean may eat it, as though it were a gazelle or deer. 23 But you must not eat its blood; pour it on the ground like water. †

15:7 The preceding verses had just promised the Israelites that there would “be no poor among” them if they carefully obeyed all of God's commands because God would bless them abundantly (vv. 4-6). The situation set forth in verse 7 (If there is a poor person among you) thus suggests that the Israelites would not fulfill this condition (see also 4:25-31; 31:16-29; and the note on 19:1-3). Verse 11 goes even further, declaring that "there will never cease to be poor people in the land." For this reason, the Israelites were commanded to cancel debts every seven years (vv. 1-3; see also vv. 12-18) and still to be generous lenders (vv. 7-11). These instructions are paralleled by Exodus 21:2-6 and Leviticus 25:2-7.

15:19-23 The consecration of firstborn male animals was also discussed in several passages previously (Ex 13:11-15; 22:29-30; Nm 18:15-18). As stated in 12:5-7, these animals were to be brought to the place the LORD chooses and eaten there (see also 14:23; 16:2,6-7).

THE FESTIVAL OF PASSOVER

16 "Set aside the month of Abib † † and observe the Passover to the LORD your God, because the LORD your God brought you out of Egypt by night in the month of Abib. † 2 Sacrifice to the LORD your God a Passover animal from the herd or flock in the place where the LORD chooses to have his name dwell. † 3 Do not eat leavened bread with it. † For seven days you are to eat unleavened bread with it, the bread of hardship — because you left the land of Egypt in a hurry † — so that you may remember for the rest of your life the day you left the land of Egypt. 4 No yeast is to be found anywhere in your territory for seven days, † and none of the meat you sacrifice in the evening of the first day is to remain until morning. † 5 You are not to sacrifice the Passover animal in any of the towns the LORD your God is giving you. 6 Sacrifice the Passover animal only at the place where the LORD your God chooses to have his name dwell. Do this in the evening as the sun sets at the same time of day you departed from Egypt. 7 You are to cook and eat it in the place the LORD your God chooses, and you are to return to your tents in the morning. 8 Eat unleavened bread for six days. On the seventh day there is to be a solemn assembly to the LORD your God; do not do any work.

THE FESTIVAL OF WEEKS

9 "You are to count seven weeks, counting the weeks from the time the sickle is first put to the standing grain. † 10 You are to celebrate the Festival of Weeks † to the LORD your God with a freewill offering † that you give in proportion to how the LORD your God has blessed you. 11 Rejoice † before the LORD your God in the place where he chooses to have his name dwell — you, your son and daughter, your male and female slave, the Levite within your city gates, as well as the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow among you. 12 Remember that you were slaves in Egypt; carefully follow these statutes.

THE FESTIVAL OF SHELTERS

13 "You are to celebrate the Festival of Shelters † for seven days when you have gathered in everything from your threshing floor and winepress. † 14 Rejoice during your festival — you, your son and daughter, your male and female slave, as well as the Levite, the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow within your city gates. 15 You are to hold a seven-day festival for the LORD your God in the place he chooses, because the LORD your God will bless you in all your produce and in all the work of your hands, † and you will have abundant joy.

16 "All your males are to appear three times a year † before the LORD your God in the place he chooses: at the Festival of Unleavened Bread, the Festival of Weeks, and the Festival of Shelters. No one is to appear before the LORD empty-handed. † 17 Everyone must appear with a gift suited to his means, according to the blessing the LORD your God has given you.

APPOINTING JUDGES AND OFFICIALS

18 "Appoint judges and officials for your tribes in all your towns the LORD your God is giving you. They are to judge the people with righteous judgment. 19 Do not deny justice or show partiality to anyone. Do not accept a bribe, for it blinds the eyes of the wise and twists the words of the righteous. † 20 Pursue justice and justice alone, so that you will live and possess the land the LORD your God is giving you. †

16:11,14 The instructions for both the Festival of Weeks and the Festival of Shelters make the point that Israel was to rejoice not only with their family but also with their male and female slaves and with the needy (i.e., the Levite, the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow; see the note on 14:22-29). The Israelites were not to forget that they too were in great need before as slaves in Egypt (see also 10:19).

THE JUDICIAL PROCEDURE FOR IDOLATRY

2 "If a man or woman among you in one of your towns that the LORD your God will give you is discovered doing evil in the sight of the LORD your God and violating his covenant † 3 and has gone to serve other gods † by bowing in worship to the sun, moon, or all the stars in the sky † — which I have forbidden † — 4 and if you are told or hear about it, then investigate it thoroughly. If the report turns out to be true that this detestable act has been done in Israel, 5 you are to bring out to your city gates that man or woman who has done this evil thing and stone them to death. † 6 The one condemned to die is to be executed on the testimony of two or three witnesses. † No one is to be executed on the testimony of a single witness. 7 The witnesses' hands are to be the first in putting him to death, and after that, the hands of all the people. † You must purge the evil from you. †

DIFFICULT CASES

8 "If a case is too difficult for you — concerning bloodshed, † lawsuits, † or assaults † — cases disputed at your city gates, † then go up to the place the LORD your God chooses. 9 You are to go to the Levitical priests and to the judge who presides at that time. Ask, and they will give you a verdict in the case. 10 You must abide by the verdict they give you at the place the LORD chooses. Be careful to do exactly as they instruct you. 11 You must abide by the instruction they give you and the verdict they announce to you. Do not turn to the right or the left from the decision they declare to you. 12 The person who acts arrogantly, refusing to listen either to the priest who stands there serving the LORD your God or to the judge, must die. You must purge the evil from Israel. 13 Then all the people will hear about it, be afraid, and no longer behave arrogantly.

APPOINTING A KING

14 "When you enter the land the LORD your God is giving you, † take possession of it, live in it, and say, 'I will set a king over me like all the nations around me,' 15 you are to appoint over you the king the LORD your God chooses. † Appoint a king from your brothers. You are not to set a foreigner over you, or one who is not of your people. † 16 However, he must not acquire many horses for himself or send the people back to Egypt to acquire many horses, for the LORD has told you, 'You are never to go back that way again.' † 17 He must not acquire many wives for himself so that his heart won't go astray. † He must not acquire very large amounts of silver and gold for himself. † 18 When he is seated on his royal throne, he is to write a copy of this instruction for himself on a scroll in the presence of the Levitical priests. 19 It is to remain with him, and he is to read from it all the days of his life, so that he may learn to fear † the LORD his God, to observe all the words of this instruction, and to do these statutes. 20 Then his heart will not be exalted above his countrymen, he will not turn from this command to the right or the left, and he and his sons will continue reigning many years † in Israel.

17:2-13 Israel was to seek "justice and justice alone" (16:20), part of which included thorough investigation of alleged idolatry (vv. 2-4) and requiring a sufficient number of witnesses prior to executing the guilty (vv. 5-7; see also 19:15-21; "Biblical View of Crime and Punishment" on p. 105). Cases that were too difficult to decide were to be brought to the place the LORD . . . chooses, to the Levitical priests and to the judge who presides. Their decisions would be binding.

17:14-20 The Israelites did not then have a human king (see Jdg 8:23), though they would desire one later. The questionable motive of wanting to be like all the nations around them foreshadows the impetus for Saul's reign (1Sm 8:5-9,19-20). The prohibitions against the acquisition of many horses, many wives, and large amounts of silver and gold foreshadow Solomon's failure in all three areas (1Kg 10:14-28; 11:1-6). The king was not above God's law but subject to it like other Israelites (vv. 18-20).

PROVISIONS FOR THE LEVITES

18 "The Levitical priests, the whole tribe of Levi, will have no portion or inheritance with Israel. They will eat the LORD's fire offerings; that is their † † inheritance. 2 Although Levi has no inheritance among his brothers, the LORD is his inheritance, as he promised him. † 3 This is the priests' share from the people who offer a sacrifice, whether it is an ox, a sheep, or a goat; the priests are to be given the shoulder, jaws, and stomach. 4 You are to sheared wool of your flock. 5 For the LORD your God has chosen him and his sons from all your tribes to stand and minister in his name from now on. † 6 When a Levite leaves one of your towns in Israel where he was staying and wants to go to the place the LORD chooses, 7 he may serve in the name of the LORD his God like all his fellow Levites who minister there in the presence of the LORD. 8 They will eat equal portions besides what he has received from the sale of the family estate. † †

SPIRITISM, ANIMISM, AND CYNICISM IN BIBLICAL TIMES

ANIMISM

Animism (Lat anima, meaning "soul, life") is the belief that innumerable spirits (souls) inhabit the world and that they are inextricably connected to persons, places, and things—even things like trees and rocks. Animism believes that all animate (living) and inanimate (nonliving) entities are by nature "soulish."

Religion historians in the nineteenth century believed that animism was the religious viewpoint of primitive, preliterate cultures. Animism was considered to be an early step in the development (evolution) of religious belief. The progression was thought to have gone from the simplest superstition to the polytheism of the ancient high cultures and on to the monotheism of revealed religions (Judaism, Christianity, Islam). E. B. Tylor's Primitive Culture (1871) offered historians a rational basis for explaining this stepwise development of religion. The theory failed, however, when anthropological studies questioned the unfounded presupposition that religion in primitive cultures was an intellectual development instead of an intuitive need for a superior being. Also, the theory collapsed because there was no evidence that religion had a uniform, linear development from simple forms to complex systems of thought. The history of religious development was not as simple as many had supposed.

The Bible's creation account and the biblical worldview as a whole indicate that there are distinct categories of animate and inanimate things. Rocks and trees do not have souls. Further, the origin of religion was revealed by God, not invented by human intellectual or cultural progress. People are intuitively aware of a divine being by virtue of their creation in the image of God (Gn 1:26) and by their internal conscience and external ability to observe and reason (Rm 1:18-21).

SPIRITISM

Spiritism, also called Spiritualism, is subject to varying understandings and can be confused with any philosophical or religious system that embraces a reality that is immaterial (e.g., God, spiritual power, universal intellect). Spiritism, however, is a particular belief system regarding the existence of a non-corporeal world—a realm that is real but non-physical.

Spiritism believes there is a connection between deceased beings (souls) and living beings (mortals). There is an immaterial world of disembodied spirits that climb an evolutionary ladder to perfection and happiness through a series of reincarnations into the material world where the spirit learns and develops. It is believed that disembodied spirits are eternal and have the ability to inhabit a body and to communicate with the material world. The connection between the spirit world and the material world is usually facilitated through a medium, a living human. The medium is typically in an altered state mentally and/or physically. Also, there may be a spirit "on the other side" who functions as the agent of conveyance to the human medium. Besides the use of human mediums, spirits make contact with the material world through apparitions, dreams, levitation, and materializing (incarnating).

Spiritism is not necessarily nonreligious or irreligious, although its chief adherents consider it to be more of a science than a religion. All religions are considered valid by spiritists since they are a means whereby the "Infinite Intelligence" (God) makes himself known. Spiritism as a science seeks to investigate on a rational basis the agencies whereby the spiritual world and material world intersect.

For example, many of its advocates propose following the ethical teachings of Jesus. Spiritism had its primary catalyst in the mid-nineteenth century, in the Frenchman Allan Kardec, whose writing What is Spiritism? provided the main tenets of the movement. The most celebrated case in North America was the incident of the Fox household in Hydesville, New York. In 1848, the Fox daughters devised a system of raps and knocks to communicate with the spirit of a former resident of the house. The spiritists' phenomenon reached its height in the 1840s to the 1920s and was popular among common households that held parlor séances. A séance involves a medium who claims to have a channel with departed souls and a group of believers gathered around a table. Spiritist practices received a mixed reception from the public, for many judged it fraudulent or evil.

In the biblical view, spiritist practices are vociferously condemned. It is at its best regarded as the blatant rejection of God's Word and at its worst as contact with demons. Ancient peoples regularly practiced diviners' arts: divination and magic, for example, were abilities that could earn one a living and a high reputation. Discerning the future and manipulating the gods for a favorable outcome by using divination, incantation, and magic emerged from fear of spiritual powers (gods, demons). Deuteronomy 18:10-14 established the general policy that prohibits such practices.

Yet the Bible also permitted some forms of divination, such as casting lots and interpreting dreams—though only on a limited basis (Nm 12:6; Jos 18:6). It was assumed that the Lord superintends such practices to achieve his will (Pr 16:33). There was, however, condemnation of seeking spiritists. Doing so resulted in capital punishment for the guilty (Lv 19:31; 20:6,27). A case of necromancy occurred during the reign of King Saul, who consulted the witch of En-dor, a medium who facilitated the appearance of the deceased prophet Samuel (1Sm 28:7-19). Saul's action resulted in his excommunication from any approved means of interaction with God.

CYNICISM

Cynicism (Gk kunismos, meaning "dog-like") in its modern usage refers to the derision of, or questioning of, someone's motivations, or it may indicate a person's general pessimism toward life. Classical Cynicism, however, was an ancient Greek philosophy that believed that virtue, not material possessions, was the way to happiness.

The major problem in defining the philosophy of the Cynics is the paucity of documents authored by Cynics themselves. The movement was more a way of life than a philosophical system. Its founder was either Antithenes (fifth century BC) or Diogenes of Sinope (fourth century BC). The latter was indisputably the chief proponent of Cynicism. He was famous for his antisocial behaviors; consequently, "shamelessness" was a feature of Cynicism. He contended that human reason was the purest expression of human nature. The "natural life," which was human primitivism, characterized Cynics who opposed social and political conventions.

Nevertheless, ancient Cynicism did not reject the morals of civilized society. In fact, it contributed significantly to Greek philosophy by its focus on ethics. Cynics taught and learned morality through personal self-control and asceticism. By training in austerity, a person could rise to self-sufficiency, living above selfish luxury. For example, Cynicism influenced Zeno, the founder of the philosophy of Stoicism, and the movement of Cynicism became overshadowed by it.

Although Cynicism and Christian asceticism exhibit parallels in attitude toward materialism, Christian ethics has its origin in the biblical tradition. Hebrew wisdom, for example, instructs that moderation—neither poverty nor riches—is the proper goal for living effectively (Pr 30:8). The apostle Paul learned to accept his condition in life, whether poor or rich, without worry (Php 4:11-13). Although self-sufficiency is commendable, self-sacrifice motivated by love is the highest Christian virtue. It is the proper response of a disciple to the voluntary self-sacrifice of Jesus Christ (2Co 8:9; Php 2:5-11). Happiness and a peaceful life are virtuous, but the greater ambition of a Christian is righteousness (2Tm 4:8; Heb 12:11).

KENNETH A. MATHEWS

10 No one among you is to sacrifice his son or daughter in the fire, † † practice divination, tell fortunes, interpret omens, practice sorcery, 11 cast spells, consult a medium or a spiritist, or inquire of the dead. † 12 Everyone who does these acts is detestable to the LORD, and the LORD your God is driving out the nations before you because of these detestable acts. 13 You must be blameless before the LORD your God. 14 Though these nations you are about to drive out listen to fortune-tellers and diviners, the LORD your God has not permitted you to do this.
15 "The LORD your God will raise up for you a prophet like me from among your own brothers. † You must listen to him. 16 This is what you requested from the LORD your God at Horeb on the day of the assembly when you said, 'Let us not continue to hear the voice of the LORD our God or see this great fire any longer, so that we will not die!’ † 17 Then the LORD said to me, ‘They have spoken well. 18 I will raise up for them a prophet like you from among their brothers. I will put my words in his mouth, and he will tell them everything I command him. 19 I will hold accountable whoever does not listen to my words that he speaks in my name. † 20 But the prophet who presumes to speak a message in my name that I have not commanded him to speak, or who speaks in the name of other gods — that prophet must die.’ 21 You may say to yourself, ‘How can we recognize a message the LORD has not spoken? ’ 22 When a prophet speaks in the LORD’s name, and the message does not come true or is not fulfilled, that is a message the LORD has not spoken. The prophet has spoken it presumptuously.

Do not be afraid of him.

18:15-22 This key passage explains prophecy as the primary vehicle for God’s revelation in the OT and sets forward the criteria by which the Israelites could recognize a true prophet (vv. 15-19) or a false one (vv. 20-22). The Israelites were not to be involved in the occult as the peoples of the land had been (vv. 9-14). Magic and divination attempt to extract information from a deity or to manipulate the gods to serve one’s own purposes. Instead, Moses states that a true prophet is an Israelite, called by God. God had told Moses, I will put my words in his mouth, and he will tell them everything I command him. Thus, the true prophet speaks only what God says, whether good news or bad, in contrast to the false prophet who presumes to speak a message in [God’s] name that [he has] not commanded. Speaking in God’s name without true revelation was a serious violation, calling for the death penalty.

CITIES OF REFUGE

19 “When the LORD your God annihilates the nations whose land he is giving you, † so that you drive them out and live in their cities and houses, 2 you are to set apart three cities for yourselves within the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess. † 3 You are to determine the distances † and divide the land the LORD your God is granting you as an inheritance into three regions, so that anyone who commits manslaughter can flee to these cities. † 4 “Here is the law concerning a case of someone who kills a person and flees there to save his life, having killed his neighbor accidentally without previously hating him: 5 If, for example, he goes into the forest with his neighbor to cut timber, and his hand swings the ax to chop down a tree, but the blade flies off the handle and strikes his neighbor so that he dies, that person may flee to one of these cities and live. 6 Otherwise, the avenger of blood in the heat of his anger † might pursue the one who committed manslaughter, overtake him because the distance is great, and strike him dead. Yet he did not deserve to die, † since he did not previously hate his neighbor. 7 This is why I am commanding you to set apart three cities for yourselves. 8 If the LORD your God enlarges your territory as he swore to your fathers, and gives you all the land he promised to give them — 9 provided you keep every one of these commands I am giving you today and follow them, loving the LORD your God and walking in his ways at all times — you are to add three more cities to these three. 10 In this way, innocent blood will not be shed, and you will not become guilty of bloodshed in the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. † 11 But if someone hates his neighbor, lies in ambush for him, attacks him, and strikes him fatally, and flees to one of these cities, 12 the elders of his city are to send for him, take him from there, and hand him over to the avenger of blood and he will die. 13 Do not look on him with pity but purge from Israel the guilt of shedding innocent blood, and you will prosper.

BOUNDARY MARKERS

14 "Do not move your neighbor's boundary marker, † established at the start in the inheritance you will receive in the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess.

WITNESSES IN COURT

15 "One witness cannot establish any iniquity or sin against a person, whatever that person has done. † A fact must be established by the testimony of two or three witnesses. †

16 "If a malicious witness † testifies against someone accusing him of a crime, 17 the two people in the dispute are to stand in the presence of the LORD before the priests and judges in authority at that time. 18 The judges are to make a careful investigation, and if the witness turns out to be a liar who has falsely accused his brother, 19 you must do to him as he intended to do to his brother. You must purge the evil from you. 20 Then everyone else will hear and be afraid, and they will never again do anything evil like this among you. † 21 Do not show pity: life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, and foot for foot. †

19:3 Or to prepare the roads 19:3 Lit flee there 19:6 Lit heart 19:6 Lit did not have a judgment of death 19:1 Dt 12:29 19:2-13 Nm 35:6-34; Jos 20 19:10 Dt 15:4 19:14 Dt 27:17; Pr 22:28; Hs 5:10 19:15 Nm 35:30 19:15 Mt 18:16; Jn 8:17; 2Co 13:1 19:16 Ex 23:1 19:20 Dt 13:11 19:21 Ex 21:23-25; Lv 24:19-20; Mt 5:38

19:1-3 Moses had already set aside three cities of refuge in Israelite territory east of the Jordan (4:41-43), and he reiterated here that three more cities were to be set apart in the land of Canaan (see also the note on Nm 35:9-34). Moses additionally mentioned here that the Israelites were to set aside yet another three cities if God enlarges [their] territory. This, however, was contingent on Israel's full obedience to God's commands, which never happened (see also the note on 15:7).

19:14-21 Additional matters of justice (see vv. 1-13) are addressed here, including respect for boundary markers and proper establishment of wrongdoing through multiple, honest witnesses (see also 17:6-7). See "Biblical View of Crime and Punishment," p. 105

RULES FOR WAR

20 "When you go out to war against your enemies and see horses, chariots, and an army larger than yours, † do not be afraid of them, for the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, † is with you. 2 When you are about to engage in battle, the priest is to come forward and address the army. † 3 He is to say to them: 'Listen, Israel: Today you are about to engage in battle with your enemies. Do not be cowardly. Do not be afraid, alarmed, or terrified because of them. 4 For the LORD your God is the one who goes with you to fight for you † against your enemies to give you victory.'
5 "The officers are to address the army, 'Has any man built a new house and not dedicated it? Let him leave and return home. Otherwise, he may die in battle and another man dedicate it. 6 Has any man planted a vineyard and not begun to enjoy its fruit? † Let him leave and return home. Otherwise he may die in battle and another man enjoy its fruit. † 7 Has any man become engaged to a woman and not married her? Let him leave and return home. Otherwise he may die in battle and another man marry her.' 8 The officers will continue to address the army and say, 'Is there any man who is afraid or cowardly? Let him leave and return home, so that his brothers won't lose heart as he did.' † † 9 When the officers have finished addressing the army, they will appoint military commanders to lead it.

10 “When you approach a city to fight against it, make an offer of peace. 11 If it accepts your offer of peace and opens its gates to you, all the people found in it will become forced laborers for you and serve you. † 12 However, if it does not make peace with you but wages war against you, lay siege to it. 13 When the LORD your God hands it over to you, strike down all its males with the sword. † 14 But you may take the women, dependents, animals, and whatever else is in the city — all its spoil — as plunder. You may enjoy the spoil of your enemies that the LORD your God has given you. 15 This is how you are to treat all the cities that are far away from you and are not among the cities of these nations.
16 However, you must not let any living thing survive among the cities of these people the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. 17 You must completely destroy them — the Hethite, Amorite, Canaanite, Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite — as the LORD your God has commanded you, 18 so that they won’t teach you to do all the detestable acts they do for their gods, and you sin against the LORD your God. † 19 “When you lay siege to a city for a long time, fighting against it in order to capture it, do not destroy its trees by putting an ax to them, because you can get food from them. Do not cut them down. Are trees of the field human, to come under siege by you? 20 But you may destroy the trees that you know do not produce food. You may cut them down to build siege works against the city that is waging war against you, until it falls.

20:1-8 Israel’s military success would not depend on its might, which was inferior to that of the nations it would conquer, but on God who brought [them] out of the land of Egypt. They did not need to fear because God is the one who goes with [them] to fight for [them] against [their] enemies to give . . . victory. Consequently, those soldiers who had not yet dedicated a new house, enjoyed the fruits of their vineyard, married a fiancée, or who were fearful were permitted to return home.

20:10-18 An offer of peace was only to be extended to the cities that are far away . . . not among the cities within the land of Canaan, which were to be utterly destroyed (vv. 16-18; see also 7:1-6).

UNSOLVED MURDERS

21 “If a murder victim is found lying in a field in the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess, and it is not known who killed him, 2 your elders and judges are to come out and measure the distance from the victim to the nearby cities. 3 The elders of the city nearest to the victim are to get a young cow that has not been yoked or used for work. 4 The elders of that city will bring the cow down to a continually flowing stream, to a place not tilled or sown, and they will break its neck there by the stream. 5 Then the priests, the sons of Levi, will come forward, for the LORD your God has chosen them to serve him and pronounce blessings in his name, and they are to give a ruling in † every dispute and case of assault. 6 All the elders of the city nearest to the victim will wash their hands by the stream over the young cow whose neck has been broken. 7 They will declare, 'Our hands did not shed this blood; our eyes did not see it. 8 LORD, wipe away the guilt of your people Israel whom you redeemed, and do not hold the shedding of innocent blood against them.' Then the responsibility for bloodshed will be wiped away from them. 9 You must purge from yourselves the guilt of shedding innocent blood, for you will be doing what is right in the LORD's sight.

FAIR TREATMENT OF CAPTURED WOMEN

10 "When you go to war against your enemies and the LORD your God hands them over to you and you take some of them prisoner, and 11 if you see a beautiful woman among the captives, desire her, and want to take her as your wife, 12 you are to bring her into your house. She is to shave her head, trim her nails, 13 remove the clothes she was wearing when she was taken prisoner, live in your house, and mourn for her father and mother a full month. After that, you may have sexual relations with her and be her husband, and she will be your wife. 14 Then if you are not satisfied with her, you are to let her go where she wants, but you must not sell her or treat her as merchandise, † because you have humiliated her.

THE RIGHT OF THE FIRSTBORN

15 "If a man has two wives, one loved and the other unloved, and both the loved and the unloved bear him sons, and if the unloved wife has the firstborn son, 16 when that man gives what he has to his sons as an inheritance, he is not to show favoritism to the son of the loved wife as his firstborn over the firstborn of the unloved wife. 17 He must acknowledge the firstborn, the son of the unloved wife, by giving him two shares † † of his estate, for he is the firstfruits of his virility; he has the rights of the firstborn. †

A REBELLIOUS SON

18 "If a man has a stubborn and rebellious son who does not obey his father or mother and doesn't listen to them even after they discipline him, 19 his father and mother are to take hold of him and bring him to the elders of his city, to the gate † of his hometown. 20 They will say to the elders of his city, 'This son of ours is stubborn and rebellious; he doesn't obey us. He's a glutton and a drunkard.' 21 Then all the men of his city will stone him to death. † You must purge the evil from you, and all Israel will hear and be afraid.

DISPLAY OF EXECUTED PEOPLE

22 "If anyone is found guilty of an offense deserving the death penalty and is executed, and you hang his body on a tree, 23 you are not to leave his corpse on the tree overnight but are to bury him that day, for anyone hung on a tree is under God's curse. † You must not defile the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. †

21:7-8 The prayer related to an unsolved murder declared the innocence of the elders of the nearest city (see vv. 1-6) and requested mercy from God that he not hold the shedding of innocent blood against them.

21:10-14 These regulations concerning marrying a woman among the captives would apply to the Israelites' battles with cities that are far away (20:10-15) but not to Canaanite women, who were not to be spared (20:16-18; see also 7:1-6).

21:15-17 The rights of the firstborn son were to be respected even if he was not the offspring of his father's favored wife (see also the note on Gn 25:29-34).

21:18-21 Exodus 21:15 and Leviticus 20:9 attach serious consequences for children who respectively struck or cursed their parents. Likewise, a stubborn and rebellious son was subject to execution after being brought to the elders of the city. Such laws clearly communicate the importance of respect for and obedience to one's parents (see also the note on 13:6-18).

21:23 Paul cites this verse in Galatians 3:13 to show that Jesus was under a curse during the crucifixion.

CARING FOR YOUR BROTHER'S PROPERTY

22 "If you see your brother Israelite's ox or sheep straying, do not ignore it; make sure you return it to your brother. 2 If your brother does not live near you or you don't know him, you are to bring the animal to your home to remain with you until your brother comes looking for it; then you can return it to him. 3 Do the same for his donkey, his garment, or anything your brother has lost and you have found. You must not ignore it. † 4 If you see your brother's donkey or ox fallen down on the road, do not ignore it; help him lift it up.

PRESERVING NATURAL DISTINCTIONS

5 "A woman is not to wear male clothing, and a man is not to put on a woman's garment, for everyone who does these things is detestable to the LORD your God.
6 "If you come across a bird's nest with chicks or eggs, either in a tree or on the ground along the road, and the mother is sitting on the chicks or eggs, do not take the mother along with the young. 7 You may take the young for yourself, but be sure to let the mother go free, so that you may prosper and live long. 8 If you build a new house, make a railing around your roof, so that you don't bring bloodguilt on your house if someone falls from it. 9 Do not plant your vineyard with two types of seed; otherwise, the entire harvest, both the crop you plant and the produce of the vineyard, will be defiled. 10 Do not plow with an ox and a donkey together. 11 Do not wear clothes made of both wool and linen. †
12 Make tassels on the four corners of the outer garment you wear. †

VIOLATIONS OF PROPER SEXUAL CONDUCT

13 "If a man marries a woman, has sexual relations with her, and comes to hate her, 14 and accuses her of shameful conduct, and gives her a bad name, saying, 'I married this woman and was intimate with her, but I didn't find any evidence of her virginity,' 15 the young woman's father and mother will take the evidence of her virginity and bring it to the city elders at the city gate. † 16 The young woman's father will say to the elders, 'I gave my daughter to this man as a wife, but he hates her. 17 He has accused her of shameful conduct, saying: "I didn't find any evidence of your daughter's virginity," but here is the evidence of my daughter's virginity.' They will spread out the cloth before the city elders. 18 Then the elders of that city will take the man and punish him. † 19 They will also fine him a hundred silver shekels and give them to the young woman's father, because that man gave an Israelite virgin a bad name. She will remain his wife; he cannot divorce her as long as he lives. 20 But if this accusation is true and no evidence of the young woman's virginity is found, 21 they will bring the woman to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city will stone her to death. For she has committed an outrage in Israel by being promiscuous while living in her father's house. You must purge the evil from you.

22 "If a man is discovered having sexual relations with another man's wife, both the man who had sex with the woman and the woman must die. You must purge the evil from Israel. 23 If there is a young woman who is a virgin engaged to a man, and another man encounters her in the city and sleeps with her, 24 take the two of them out to the gate of that city and stone them to death — the young woman because she did not cry out in the city and the man because he has violated his neighbor's fiancée. You must purge the evil from you. 25 But if the man encounters an engaged woman in the open country, and he seizes and rapes her, only the man who raped her must die. 26 Do nothing to the young woman, because she is not guilty of an offense deserving death. This case is just like one in which a man attacks his neighbor and murders him. 27 When he found her in the field, the engaged woman cried out, but there was no one to rescue her. 28 If a man encounters a young woman, a virgin who is not engaged, takes hold of her and rapes her, and they are discovered, 29 the man who raped her is to give the young woman's father fifty silver shekels, and she will become his wife because he violated her. † He cannot divorce her as long as he lives.
30 "A man is not to marry his father's wife; he must not violate his father's marriage bed. † †

22:1-4 These commands resemble Exodus 23:4-5 and show that Israelites were not to ignore the lost property or fallen animals of their fellow Israelites (see "Animal Rights," p. 21). The law evidently also dealt with sins of omission (see also v. 8).

22:5 This prohibition against cross-dressing suggests a desire to maintain a clear distinction between men and women and serves as a reminder that human sexuality has been designed by God (see the note on Gn 1:26-31). Verses 9-11 also seems to relate to maintaining distinctions (see also Lv 19:19).

EXCLUSION AND INCLUSION

23 "No man whose testicles have been crushed † or whose penis has been cut off may enter the LORD's assembly. 2 No one of illegitimate birth may enter the LORD's assembly; none of his descendants, even to the tenth generation, may enter the LORD's assembly. 3 No Ammonite or Moabite may enter the LORD's assembly; † none of their descendants, even to the tenth generation, may ever enter the LORD's assembly. 4 This is because they did not meet you with food and water on the journey after you came out of Egypt, and because Balaam son of Beor from Pethor in Aram-naharaim was hired to curse you. † 5 Yet the LORD your God would not listen to Balaam, but he turned the curse into a blessing for you because the LORD your God loves † you. † 6 Never pursue their welfare or prosperity as long as you live. 7 Do not despise an Edomite, because he is your brother. Do not despise an Egyptian, because you were a resident alien in his land. 8 The children born to them in the third generation may enter the LORD's assembly.

CLEANLINESS OF THE CAMP

9 "When you are encamped against your enemies, be careful to avoid anything offensive. 10 If there is a man among you who is unclean because of a bodily emission during the night, he must go outside the camp; he may not come anywhere inside the camp. 11 When evening approaches, he is to wash with water, and when the sun sets he may come inside the camp. † 12 You are to have a place outside the camp and go there to relieve yourself. 13 You are to have a digging tool in your equipment; when you relieve yourself, dig a hole with it and cover up your excrement. 14 For the LORD your God walks throughout your camp to protect you and deliver your enemies to you; so your encampments must be holy. He must not see anything indecent among you or he will turn away from you.

FUGITIVE SLAVES

15 "Do not return a slave to his master when he has escaped from his master to you. 16 Let him live among you wherever he wants within your city gates. Do not mistreat him.

CULT PROSTITUTION FORBIDDEN

17 "No Israelite woman is to be a cult prostitute, and no Israelite man is to be a cult prostitute. 18 Do not bring a female prostitute's wages or a male prostitute's † earnings into the house of the LORD your God to fulfill any vow, because both are detestable to the LORD your God.

INTEREST ON LOANS

19 “Do not charge your brother interest on silver, food, or anything that can earn interest. 20 You may charge a foreigner interest, but you must not charge your brother Israelite interest, so that the LORD your God may bless you in everything you do † in the land you are entering to possess. †

KEEPING VOWS

21 “If you make a vow to the LORD your God, do not be slow to keep it, because he will require it of you, and it will be counted against you as sin. 22 But if you refrain from making a vow, it will not be counted against you as sin. 23 Be careful to do whatever comes from your lips, because you have freely vowed what you promised † to the LORD your God. †

NEIGHBOR’S CROPS

24 “When you enter your neighbor’s vineyard, you may eat as many grapes as you want until you are full, but do not put any in your container. 25 When you enter your neighbor’s standing grain, you may pluck heads of grain with your hand, but do not put a sickle to your neighbor’s grain.

23:1 Lit man bruised by crushing 23:18 Lit a dog’s 23:20 Lit you put your hand to 23:23 Lit promised with your mouth

23:3-4 Neh 13:1-2 23:4 Nm 22:5-6 23:5 Dt 4:37 23:5 Nm 23:11; 24:10 23:11 Lv 15:16-17 23:19-20 Ex 22:25 23:21-23 Nm 30:2-15; Jb 22:27; Ps 50:14; 56:12; 61:8; Pr 20:25; Ec 5:4-7; Mal 1:14

23:1-8 The restrictions in verses 1-2 preventing certain people from entering the LORD’s assembly are reminiscent of Leviticus 21:17-21, which forbade any descendant of Aaron who had a blemish from offering sacrifices in the tabernacle (see the note on Lv 21:17). Although Ammonites and Moabites were also barred from the LORD’s assembly because of their poor treatment of the Israelites (vv. 3-4), Ruth the Moabitess would find favor with God (see the book of Ruth). Edomites and Egyptians, on other hand, would be granted access after three generations (vv. 7-8).

23:14 The reason for the preceding instructions regarding cleanness and sanitation (vv. 9-13) was the presence of God, who walks throughout your camp to protect you and deliver your enemies to you (see also Gn 3:8; Lv 26:12).

23:15-16 The Israelites were not to return runaway slaves to their masters but were to allow them to live in their midst.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE LAWS

24 “If a man marries a woman, but she becomes displeasing to him † because he finds something indecent about her, he may write her a divorce certificate, hand it to her, and send her away from his house. † 2 If after leaving his house she goes and becomes another man’s wife, 3 and the second man hates her, writes her a divorce certificate, hands it to her, and sends her away from his house or if he dies, 4 the first husband who sent her away may not marry her again after she has been defiled, because that would be detestable to the LORD. You must not bring guilt on the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. †

5 "When a man takes a bride, he must not go out with the army or be liable for any duty. He is free to stay at home for one year, so that he can bring joy to the wife he has married.

SAFEGUARDING LIFE

6 "Do not take a pair of grindstones or even the upper millstone as security for a debt, because that is like taking a life as security.

7 "If a man is discovered kidnapping † one of his Israelite brothers, whether he treats him as a slave or sells him, the kidnapper must die. You must purge the evil from you.

8 "Be careful with a person who has a case of serious skin disease, following carefully everything the Levitical priests instruct you to do. Be careful to do as I have commanded them. 9 Remember what the LORD your God did to Miriam on the journey after you left Egypt. †

CONSIDERATION FOR PEOPLE IN NEED

10 "When you make a loan of any kind to your neighbor, do not enter his house to collect what he offers as security. 11 Stand outside while the man you are making the loan to brings the security out to you. 12 If he is a poor man, do not sleep with the garment he has given as security. 13 Be sure to return it † to him at sunset. Then he will sleep in it and bless you, and this will be counted as righteousness to you before the LORD your God. †

14 "Do not oppress a hired worker who is poor and needy, whether one of your Israelite brothers or one of the resident aliens in a town † in your land. 15 You are to pay him his wages each day before the sun sets, because he is poor and depends on them. † Otherwise he will cry out to the LORD against you, and you will be held guilty.

16 "Fathers are not to be put to death for their children, and children are not to be put to death for their fathers; each person will be put to death for his own sin. †

17 Do not deny justice to a resident alien or fatherless child, and do not take a widow's garment as security. 18 Remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and the LORD your God redeemed † you from there. Therefore I am commanding you to do this. † 19 "When you reap the harvest in your field, and you forget a sheaf in the field, do not go back to get it. It is to be left for the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow, so that the LORD your God may bless you in all the work of your hands. † 20 When you knock down the fruit from your olive tree, do not go over the branches again. What remains will be for the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow. 21 When you gather the grapes of your vineyard, do not glean what is left. What remains will be for the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow. 22 Remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt. Therefore I am commanding you to do this. †

24:1-5 The laws concerning divorce and remarriage forbade a woman who had been divorced twice (or widowed from her second husband) from remarrying her first husband. Also, a newlywed man was released from military and other duties for his first year of marriage to bring joy to the wife he has married. This passage comes up in Matthew19:1-9 when the Pharisees asked Jesus whether divorce was permissible "on any grounds." Jesus replied that Moses permitted divorce "because of the hardness of your hearts" but that God's design is for lifelong marriage, with allowance for divorce in the case of "sexual immorality" (see also note on Gn 2:24).

24:7 The seriousness of kidnapping is evident through its being a capital offense.

24:10-22 These laws give special attention to various types of vulnerable of people in Israel: the poor, the hired worker, the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow (see also the note on 14:22-29). The Israelites knew what it was like to be in need and were to remember that they were a slave in the land of Egypt (see also the note on 16:11,14).

FAIRNESS AND MERCY

25 "If there is a dispute between men, they are to go to court, and the judges will hear their case. They will clear the innocent and condemn the guilty. 2 If the guilty party deserves to be flogged, the judge will make him lie down and be flogged in his presence with the number of lashes appropriate for his crime. 3 He may be flogged with forty lashes, but no more.

Otherwise, if he is flogged with more lashes than these, your brother will be degraded in your sight.

4 “Do not muzzle an ox while it treads out grain. †

PRESERVING THE FAMILY LINE

5 “When brothers live on the same property † and one of them dies without a son, the wife of the dead man may not marry a stranger outside the family. Her brother-in-law is to take her as his wife, have sexual relations with her, and perform the duty of a brother-in-law for her. 6 The first son she bears will carry on the name of the dead brother, so his name will not be blotted out from Israel. † 7 But if the man doesn’t want to marry his sister-in-law, she is to go to the elders at the city gate † and say, ‘My brother-in-law refuses to preserve his brother’s name in Israel. He isn’t willing to perform the duty of a brother-in-law for me.’ 8 The elders of his city will summon him and speak with him. If he persists and says, ‘I don’t want to marry her,’ 9 then his sister-in-law will go up to him in the sight of the elders, remove his sandal from his foot, and spit in his face. Then she will declare, ‘This is what is done to a man who will not build up his brother’s house.’ 10 And his family name in Israel will be ‘The house of the man whose sandal was removed.’ †

11 “If two men are fighting with each other, and the wife of one steps in to rescue her husband from the one striking him, and she puts out her hand and grabs his genitals, 12 you are to cut off her hand. Do not show pity.

HONEST WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

13 “Do not have differing weights † in your bag, one heavy and one light. †
14 Do not have differing dry measures in your house, a larger and a smaller.
15 You must have a full and honest weight, a full and honest dry measure, so that you may live long in the land the LORD your God is giving you. 16 For everyone who does such things and acts unfairly is detestable to the LORD your God. †

REVENGE ON THE AMALEKITES

17 “Remember what the Amalekites did to you on the journey after you left Egypt. † 18 They met you along the way and attacked all your stragglers from behind when you were tired and weary. They did not fear God. 19 When the LORD your God gives you rest † from all the enemies around you in the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess as an inheritance, † blot out the memory of Amalek under heaven. Do not forget. †

25:5-10 The situation described in which a man marries his deceased brother's widow because they had no sons is sometimes called Levirate marriage. A practice well known in the ancient Near East, its purpose was to raise up a son to carry on the name of the dead brother. This practice is reflected in Genesis 38:6-10. Ruth 3–4 is not technically Levirate marriage, but it may refer to a similar practice involving extended family.

25:13-16 These laws concerning fair weights and measures reflect God's deep concern for honesty and fair business practices (see also Lv 19:35-36; Pr 20:10).

25:17-19 Moses was referring to the incident described in Exodus 17:9-16. Back then God had declared that he would completely blot out the memory of Amalek under heaven.

GIVING THE FIRSTFRUITS

26 "When you enter the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, † and you take possession of it and live in it, 2 take some of the first of all the land's produce that you harvest from the land the LORD your God is giving you and put it in a basket. Then go to the place where the LORD your God chooses to have his name dwell. † 3 When you come before the priest who is serving at that time, say to him, 'Today I declare to the LORD your † God that I have entered the land the LORD swore to our fathers to give us.'

4 "Then the priest will take the basket from you and place it before the altar of the LORD your God. 5 You are to respond by saying in the presence of the LORD your God:

My father was a wandering Aramean. † He went down to Egypt with a few people and resided there as an alien. † There he became a great, powerful, and populous nation. 6 But the Egyptians mistreated and oppressed us, and forced us to do hard labor. 7 So we called out to the LORD, the God of our fathers, and the LORD heard our cry and saw our misery, hardship, and oppression. † 8 Then the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a strong hand and an outstretched arm, with terrifying power, and with signs and wonders. 9 He led us to this place and gave us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey. † 10 I have now brought the first of the land's produce that you, LORD, have given me.

You will then place the container before the LORD your God and bow down to him. 11 You, the Levites, and the resident aliens among you will rejoice † in all the good things the LORD your God has given you and your household.

THE TENTH IN THE THIRD YEAR

12 "When you have finished paying all the tenth of your produce in the third year, † the year of the tenth, you are to give it to the Levites, resident aliens, fatherless children and widows, so that they may eat in your towns and be satisfied. 13 Then you will say in the presence of the LORD your God:
I have taken the consecrated portion out of my house; I have also given it to the Levites, resident aliens, fatherless children, and widows, according to all the commands you gave me. I have not violated or forgotten your commands. 14 I have not eaten any of it while in mourning, or removed any of it while unclean, or offered any of it for the dead. † I have obeyed the LORD my God; I have done all you commanded me. 15 Look down from your holy dwelling, from heaven, and bless your people Israel and the land you have given us as you swore to our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey.

COVENANT SUMMARY

16 "The LORD your God is commanding you this day to follow these statutes and ordinances. Follow them carefully with all your heart and all your soul. 17 Today you have affirmed that the LORD is your God and that you will walk in his ways, keep his statutes, commands, and ordinances, and obey him. 18 And today the LORD has affirmed that you are his own possession as he promised you, that you are to keep all his commands, 19 that he will elevate you to praise, fame, and glory above all the nations he has made, and that you will be a holy people † to the LORD your God as he promised."

26:1-10 These instructions look forward (by faith) to the time in which God had fulfilled his gracious promises to settle Israel in the land. At that time, the Israelites were to recall his faithfulness to them and to their ancestors.

26:16-19 The lengthy section of laws in Deuteronomy 12–26 concerning life in the promised land concludes with this charge to obedience and reaffirmation of the special relationship between God and Israel (see also 27:9-10; Ex 19:4-6).

THE LAW WRITTEN ON STONES

27 Moses and the elders of Israel commanded the people, “Keep every command I am giving you today. 2 When you cross the Jordan into the land the LORD your God is giving you, set up large stones and cover them with plaster. † 3 Write all the words of this law on the stones after you cross to enter the land the LORD your God is giving you, a land flowing with milk and honey, † as the LORD, the God of your fathers, has promised you. 4 When you have crossed the Jordan, you are to set up these stones on Mount Ebal, as I am commanding you today, and you are to cover them with plaster. 5 Build an altar of stones there to the LORD your God — do not use any iron tool on them. † 6 Use uncut stones to build the altar of the LORD your God and offer burnt offerings to the LORD your God on it. 7 There you are to sacrifice fellowship offerings, eat, and rejoice in the presence of the LORD your God. 8 Write clearly all the words of this law on the plastered stones.”

THE COVENANT CURSES

9 Moses and the Levitical priests spoke to all Israel, “Be silent, Israel, and listen!
This day you have become the people of the LORD your God. 10 Obey the LORD your God and follow his commands and statutes I am giving you today.” 11 On that day Moses commanded the people, 12 “When you have crossed the Jordan, these tribes will stand on Mount Gerizim to bless the people: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin. 13 And these tribes will stand on Mount Ebal to deliver the curse: Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali. † 14 The Levites will proclaim in a loud voice to every Israelite:

15 ‘The person who makes a carved idol or cast image, which is detestable to the LORD, the work of a craftsman, and sets it up in secret is cursed.’
And all the people will reply, ‘Amen! ’
16 ‘The one who dishonors his father or mother is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’

17 ‘The one who moves his neighbor’s boundary marker is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
18 ‘The one who leads a blind person astray on the road is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
19 ‘The one who denies justice to a resident alien, a fatherless child, or a widow is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
20 ‘The one who sleeps with his father’s wife is cursed, for he has violated his father’s marriage bed.’ †
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
21 ‘The one who has sexual intercourse with any animal is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
22 ‘The one who sleeps with his sister, whether his father’s daughter or his mother’s daughter is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
23 ‘The one who sleeps with his mother-in-law is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
24 ‘The one who secretly kills his neighbor is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
25 ‘The one who accepts a bribe to kill an innocent person is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’
26 ‘Anyone who does not put the words of this law into practice is cursed.’
And all the people will say, ‘Amen! ’

27:1-13 The contents of this law that would be written on stones (v. 3) and then set up on Mount Ebal may have consisted only of the blessings and curses and seems unlikely to have consisted of the whole book of Deuteronomy or the lengthy Pentateuch. Joshua and the Israelites fulfilled the instructions found in this section in Joshua 8:30-35.

27:26 Anyone who disobeyed would be cursed. Paul quotes this verse in Galatians 3:10 to support his assertion that "all who rely on the works of the law are under a curse" (see also Jms 2:10).

BLESSINGS FOR OBEDIENCE

28 "Now † if you faithfully obey the LORD your God † and are careful to follow all his commands I am giving you today, † the LORD your God will put you far above all the nations of the earth. † 2 All these blessings will come and overtake † you, because you obey the LORD your God:

3 You will be blessed in the city and blessed in the country. †
4 Your offspring † will be blessed, and your land's produce, and the offspring of your livestock, including the young of your herds and the newborn of your flocks. †
5 Your basket and kneading bowl will be blessed.
6 You will be blessed when you come in and blessed when you go out. †

7 "The LORD will cause the enemies who rise up against you to be defeated before you. They will march out against you from one direction but flee from you in seven directions. 8 The LORD will grant you a blessing on your barns and on everything you do; † † he will bless you in the land the LORD your God is giving you. † 9 The LORD will establish you as his holy people, † as he swore to you, if you obey the commands of the LORD your God and walk in his ways. 10 Then all the peoples of the earth will see that you bear the LORD's name, † and they will stand in awe of you. † 11 The LORD will make you prosper abundantly with offspring, † the offspring of your livestock, and your land's produce in the land the LORD swore to your fathers to give you. 12 The LORD will open for you his abundant storehouse, † the sky, to give your land rain in its season and to bless all the work of your hands. † You will lend to many nations, but you will not borrow. 13 The LORD will make you the head and not the tail; † you will only move upward and never downward if you listen to the LORD your God's commands I am giving you today and are careful to follow them. 14 Do not turn aside to the right or the left from all the things I am commanding you today, † and do not follow other gods to worship them.

CURSES FOR DISOBEDIENCE

15 "But if you do not obey the LORD your God by carefully following all his commands and statutes I am giving you today, all these curses will come and overtake † you: †

16 You will be cursed in the city and cursed in the country.
17 Your basket and kneading bowl will be cursed.
18 Your offspring will be cursed, and your land's produce, the young of your herds,
and the newborn of your flocks.
19 You will be cursed when you come in and cursed when you go out.

20 The LORD will send against you curses, confusion, † and rebuke in everything you do until you are destroyed and quickly perish, † because of the wickedness of your actions in abandoning me. † 21 The LORD will make pestilence cling to you until he has exterminated you from the land you are entering to possess. †
22 The LORD will afflict you with wasting disease, fever, inflammation, burning heat, drought, † blight, and mildew; † these will pursue you until you perish.
23 The sky above you will be bronze, and the earth beneath you iron. 24 The LORD will turn the rain of your land into falling † dust; it will descend on you from the sky until you are destroyed. 25 The LORD will cause you to be defeated before your enemies. You will march out against them from one direction but flee from them in seven directions. † You will be an object of horror † to all the kingdoms of the earth. 26 Your corpses will be food for all the birds of the sky and the wild animals of the earth, with no one to scare them away. †
27 "The LORD will afflict you with the boils of Egypt, † tumors, a festering rash, and scabies, from which you cannot be cured. 28 The LORD will afflict you with madness, blindness, and mental confusion, † 29 so that at noon you will grope as a blind person gropes in the dark. † You will not be successful in anything you do. You will only be oppressed and robbed continually, and no one will help you. † 30 You will become engaged to a woman, but another man will rape her. You will build a house but not live in it. † You will plant a vineyard but not enjoy its fruit. 31 Your ox will be slaughtered before your eyes, but you will not eat any of it. Your donkey will be taken away from you and not returned to you. Your flock will be given to your enemies, and no one will help you. 32 Your sons and daughters will be given to another people, while your eyes grow weary looking for them every day. But you will be powerless to do anything. † † 33 A people you don't know will eat your land's produce and everything you have labored for. You will only be oppressed and crushed continually. † 34 You will be driven mad by what you see. 35 The LORD will afflict you with painful and incurable boils on your knees and thighs — from the sole of your foot to the top of your head. †

36 "The LORD will bring you and your king that you have appointed to a nation neither you nor your fathers have known, and there you will worship other gods, of wood and stone. † 37 You will become an object of horror, scorn, and ridicule among all the peoples where the LORD will drive you. †

38 "You will sow much seed in the field but harvest little, because locusts will devour it. 39 You will plant and cultivate vineyards but not drink the wine or gather the grapes, because worms will eat them. 40 You will have olive trees throughout your territory but not moisten your skin with oil, because your olives will drop off. 41 You will father sons and daughters, but they will not remain yours, because they will be taken prisoner. 42 Buzzing insects will take possession of all your trees and your land's produce. 43 The resident alien among you will rise higher and higher above you, while you sink lower and lower. 44 He will lend to you, but you won't lend to him. He will be the head, and you will be the tail.

45 "All these curses will come, pursue, and overtake you until you are destroyed, since you did not obey the LORD your God and keep the commands and statutes he gave you. 46 These curses will be a sign and a wonder † against you and your descendants forever. 47 Because you didn't serve the LORD your God with joy and a cheerful heart, † even though you had an abundance of everything, 48 you will serve your enemies the LORD will send against you, in famine, thirst, nakedness, and a lack of everything. He will place an iron yoke † on your neck until he has destroyed you. 49 The LORD will bring a nation from far away, from the ends of the earth, † to swoop down on you like an eagle, † a nation whose language you won't understand, † 50 a ruthless nation, † showing no respect for the old and not sparing the young. 51 They will eat the offspring of your livestock and your land's produce until you are destroyed. They will leave you no grain, new wine, fresh oil, young of your herds, or newborn of your flocks until they cause you to perish. 52 They will besiege you within all your city gates until your high and fortified walls, that you trust in, come down throughout your land. They will besiege you within all your city gates throughout the land the LORD your God has given you.

53 "You will eat your offspring, † the flesh of your sons and daughters the LORD your God has given you † during the siege and hardship your enemy imposes on you. 54 The most sensitive and refined man among you will look grudgingly † at his brother, the wife he embraces, † and the rest of his children, 55 refusing to share with any of them his children's flesh that he will eat because he has nothing left during the siege and hardship your enemy imposes on you in all your towns. 56 The most sensitive and refined woman among you, who would not venture to set the sole of her foot on the ground because of her refinement and sensitivity, will begrudge the husband she embraces, her son, and her daughter, 57 the afterbirth that comes out from between her legs and the children she bears, because she will secretly eat them for lack of anything else during the siege and hardship your enemy imposes on you within your city gates.
58 "If you are not careful to obey all the words of this law, which are written in this scroll, by fearing this glorious and awe-inspiring name — the LORD, your God — 59 he will bring wondrous plagues on you and your descendants, severe and lasting plagues, and terrible and chronic sicknesses. 60 He will afflict you again with all the diseases of Egypt, † which you dreaded, and they will cling to you. 61 The LORD will also afflict you with every sickness and plague not recorded in the book of this law, until you are destroyed. 62 Though you were as numerous as the stars of the sky, you will be left with only a few people, because you did not obey the LORD your God. 63 Just as the LORD was glad to cause you to prosper and to multiply you, so he will also be glad to cause you to perish and to destroy you. You will be ripped out of the land you are entering to possess.

64 Then the LORD will scatter you among all peoples from one end of the earth to the other, † and there you will worship other gods, of wood and stone, † which neither you nor your fathers have known. † 65 You will find no peace among those nations, and there will be no resting place † for the sole of your foot.
There the LORD will give you a trembling heart, failing eyes, and a despondent spirit. 66 Your life will hang in doubt before you. You will be in dread night and day, never certain of survival. 67 In the morning you will say, 'If only it were evening! ' and in the evening you will say, 'If only it were morning! ' — because of the dread you will have in your heart and because of what you will see.
68 The LORD will take you back in ships to Egypt by a route that I said you would never see again. † There you will sell yourselves to your enemies as male and female slaves, but no one will buy you."

28:1-14 If the Israelites faithfully obey[ed] the LORD, they would be blessed (see also 26:16-19). They would be exalted above other nations and have blessed offspring, livestock, and crops. A similar promise of blessings for obedience had been given earlier in Leviticus 26:3-13, but Israel's fulfillment of the condition was doubtful (see the notes on 4:25-31 and 15:7).

28:15-19 The general description of the curses for disobedience mirror that of the blessings for obedience in verses 1-6. As was the case in Leviticus 26:3-39, more space is given to the consequences for disobedience. The amount of detail given in Leviticus 26:14-39 and in Deuteronomy 28:20-68 suggests that Israel will indeed disobey and experience these negative consequences (see also the notes on 4:25-31 and 15:7).

28:30-34 Rather than experiencing blessing upon their descendants, livestock, and crops (see vv. 1-14), the Israelites, if they disobeyed God, would not enjoy the fruit of their vineyards (see also vv. 24,38-40), their livestock would be taken by their enemies, and their children would be taken away as well (see also vv. 41,53-55,59,62).

28:36-37 The end result of their disobedience would be their destruction (vv. 20-24,45) and exile (v. 36; see also vv. 63-65; 4:27-28). Rather than being exalted above other nations (vv. 1,7,10,12), the Israelites would become an object of horror, scorn, and ridicule among all the peoples (see also vv. 25,43-44,48).

28:49-52 One of God's instruments of judgment against the disobedient Israelites would be a nation from far away, a ruthless nation that would both consume their livestock and crops as well as besiege their cities. At that time, the Israelites would trust their high and fortified walls instead of God. The invasion of the Babylonians is thus anticipated here.

28:53-55 The siege would drive the Israelites to such desperation that parents would resort to cannibalism. The horrible irony was that a foreign nation would eat the Israelites' livestock and produce (v. 51), but the Israelites' children would be eaten by the Israelites themselves. This is a far cry from these same children being blessed by God (see 28:4) and taught by their parents (see the note on 4:9-10).

28:68 The long description of curses for disobedience ends with Israel going back to Egypt (see Jr 43:7), the very place from which God had brought them out of slavery. This time, however, no one would even want to buy them as slaves.

RENEWING THE COVENANT

29 These are the words of the covenant † the LORD commanded Moses to make with the Israelites in the land of Moab, in addition to the covenant he had made with them at Horeb. † 2 Moses summoned all Israel and said to them, "You have seen with your own eyes † everything the LORD did in Egypt to Pharaoh, to all his officials, and to his entire land. 3 You saw with your own eyes the great trials and those great signs and wonders. † 4 Yet to this day the LORD has not given you a mind to understand, eyes to see, or ears to hear. † 5 I led you forty years in the wilderness; your clothes and the sandals on your feet did not wear out; † 6 you did not eat food or drink wine or beer — so that you might know that I am the LORD your God. † 7 When you reached this place, King Sihon of Heshbon and King Og of Bashan came out against us in battle, but we defeated them. † 8 We took their land and gave it as an inheritance to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh. † 9 Therefore, observe the words of this covenant † and follow them, so that you will succeed in everything you do. † 10 “All of you are standing today before the LORD your God — your leaders, tribes, elders, officials, all the men of Israel, 11 your dependents, your wives, and the resident aliens in your camps who cut your wood and draw your water — 12 so that you may enter into the covenant of the LORD your God, which he is making with you today, so that you may enter into his oath 13 and so that he may establish you today as his people and he may be your God as he promised you and as he swore to your fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. † 14 I am making this covenant and this oath not only with you, 15 but also with those who are standing here with us today in the presence of the LORD our God and with those who are not here today.

ABANDONING THE COVENANT

16 “Indeed, you know how we lived in the land of Egypt and passed through the nations where you traveled. 17 You saw their abhorrent images and idols made of wood, stone, silver, and gold, which were among them. † 18 Be sure there is no man, woman, clan, or tribe among you today whose heart turns away from the LORD our God to go and worship the gods of those nations. Be sure there is no root among you bearing poisonous and bitter fruit. † 19 When someone hears the words of this oath, he may consider himself exempt, † thinking, ‘I will have peace even though I follow my own stubborn heart.’ This will lead to the destruction of the well-watered land as well as the dry land. 20 The LORD will not be willing to forgive him. Instead, his anger and jealousy will burn against that person, and every curse written in this scroll will descend on him. The LORD will blot out his name under heaven, † 21 and single him out for harm from all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant written in this book of the law.
22 “Future generations of your children who follow you and the foreigner who comes from a distant country will see the plagues of that land and the sicknesses the LORD has inflicted on it. 23 All its soil will be a burning waste of sulfur and salt, unsown, producing nothing, with no plant growing on it, just like the fall of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim, which the LORD demolished in his fierce anger. † 24 All the nations will ask, ‘Why has the LORD done this to this land? Why this intense outburst of anger?’ 25 Then people will answer, ‘It is because they abandoned the covenant of the LORD, the God of their fathers, which he had made with them when he brought them out of the land of Egypt. 26 They began to serve other gods, bowing in worship to gods they had not known † — gods that the LORD had not permitted them to worship. † 27 Therefore the LORD’s anger burned against this land, and he brought every curse written in this book on it. 28 The LORD uprooted them from their land in his anger, rage, and intense wrath, and threw them into another land where they are today.’ 29 The hidden things belong to the LORD our God, but the revealed things belong to us and our children forever, so that we may follow all the words of this law.

29:4 This verse gives important insight into the spiritual condition of the Israelites. Although they had seen “with [their] own eyes everything the LORD did in Egypt to Pharaoh” (v. 2), their spiritual senses were lacking in that they still did not have a mind to understand, eyes to see, or ears to hear. That the LORD has not given these things does not absolve Israel of their responsibility; instead, it emphasizes their need for his help and grace. This predicament would persist into the future (see 31:16-29; Is 6:9-10; Mt 13:13-15) and would not be resolved until the establishment of the new covenant, through which their hearts would be circumcised (see Dt 30:6; Jr 31:31-34) and their spiritual senses awakened through the Spirit of God (see Nm 24:2-4,15-17).

29:14-15 The covenant was not only between God and all Israel of that time (vv. 10-13) but also included those who are not here today (see also 5:3).

RETURNING TO THE LORD

30 “When all these things happen to you — the blessings and curses I have set before you — and you come to your senses while you are in all the nations where the LORD your God has driven you, † 2 and you and your children return to the LORD your God and obey him with all your heart and all your soul † by doing † everything I am commanding you today, 3 then he will restore your fortunes, † † have compassion on you, and gather you again from all the peoples where the LORD your God has scattered you. † 4 Even if your exiles are at the farthest horizon, † he will gather you and bring you back from there. † 5 The LORD your God will bring you into the land your fathers possessed, and you will take possession of it. † He will cause you to prosper and multiply you more than he did your fathers. † 6 The LORD your God will circumcise your heart † and the hearts of your descendants, and you will love him with all your heart and all your soul so that you will live. † 7 The LORD your God will put all these curses on your enemies who hate and persecute you. 8 Then you will again obey him and follow all his commands I am commanding you today. 9 The LORD your God will make you prosper abundantly in all the work of your hands, † your offspring, † the offspring of your livestock, and the produce of your land. Indeed, the LORD will again delight in your prosperity, as he delighted in that of your fathers, 10 when you obey the LORD your God by keeping his commands and statutes that are written in this book of the law and return to him with all your heart and all your soul.

CHOOSE LIFE

11 "This command that I give you today is certainly not too difficult or beyond your reach. 12 It is not in heaven so that you have to ask, 'Who will go up to heaven, get it for us, and proclaim it to us so that we may follow it? ' 13 And it is not across the sea so that you have to ask, 'Who will cross the sea, get it for us, and proclaim it to us so that we may follow it? ' 14 But the message is very near you, in your mouth and in your heart, so that you may follow it. † 15 See, today I have set before you life and prosperity, death and adversity. † 16 For † I am commanding you today to love the LORD your God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commands, statutes, and ordinances, so that you may live † and multiply, and the LORD your God may bless you in the land you are entering to possess. 17 But if your heart turns away and you do not listen and you are led astray to bow in worship to other gods and serve them, 18 I tell you today that you will certainly perish and will not prolong your days in the land you are entering to possess across the Jordan. 19 I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you today that I have set before you life and death, blessing and curse. Choose life † so that you and your descendants may live, 20 love the LORD your God, obey him, and remain faithful † to him. For he is your life, and he will prolong your days as you live in the land the LORD swore to give to your fathers † Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

30:1-6 This passage assumes that the Israelites will turn away from God and experience the curses just described, especially exile (see also 4:25-27; 29:22-28). While in exile, however, the Israelites would repent (v. 2) and be restored to their land (vv. 3-5; see also 4:29-30). The promised circumcision of their hearts (v. 6) would meet their central need (see Lv 26:41; Jr 9:26) and is a direct reference to the new covenant (see Jr 31:31-34; Rm 2:29). That God would perform this suggests that Israel could not do it for themselves (see Dt 10:16; Jr 4:4). The result of this transformation of the heart would be that they will love him with all [their] heart and all [their] soul, as commanded in the Shema (see the note on 6:4-9).

30:11-15 Paul cites this passage in Romans 10:6-8 and interprets these verses as referring to the new covenant, not the law given at Mount Sinai. The clear distinction in Paul's argument is indicated through his assertion that this passage concerns "the righteousness that comes from faith," in contrast to "the righteousness that is from the law." Along these lines, some have taken verses 12-13 as alluding to Moses climbing Mount Sinai to receive the law and the Israelites crossing the Red Sea prior to this. Additional support for Paul's interpretation can be found in the direct reference to the new covenant in the near context (v. 6) and in the characterization of the message as being in your mouth and in your heart (see Is 59:21; Jr 31:33).

30:15-21 The word today (vv. 15,18-19) shifts the temporal frame of reference back to that of Moses and his contemporaries. This passage parallels other passages in Deuteronomy, such as 4:25-26; 10:12-13; and 11:26-28. See "Sources for Ethics," p. 1371.

JOSHUA TAKES MOSES'S PLACE

31 Then Moses continued to speak these † words to all Israel, 2 saying, "I am now 120 years old; † I can no longer act as your leader. † The LORD has told me, 'You will not cross the Jordan.' † 3 The LORD your God is the one who will cross ahead of you. † He will destroy these nations before you, and you will drive them out. Joshua is the one who will cross ahead of you, as the LORD has said. † 4 The LORD will deal with them as he did Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites, and their land when he destroyed them. † 5 The LORD will deliver them over to you, and you must do to them exactly as I have commanded you. 6 Be strong and courageous; † don't be terrified or afraid of them. For the LORD your God is the one who will go with you; † he will not leave you or abandon you.” † 7 Moses then summoned Joshua and said to him in the sight of all Israel, “Be strong and courageous, for you will go with † this people into the land the LORD swore to give to their fathers. † You will enable them to take possession of it.

8 The LORD is the one who will go before you. † He will be with you; he will not leave you or abandon you. † Do not be afraid or discouraged.”
9 Moses wrote down this law and gave it to the priests, the sons of Levi, who carried the ark of the LORD’s covenant, and to all the elders of Israel. 10 Moses commanded them, “At the end of every seven years, at the appointed time in the year of debt cancellation, † during the Festival of Shelters, † 11 when all Israel assembles † in the presence of the LORD your God at the place he chooses, † you are to read this law aloud before all Israel. † 12 Gather the people — men, women, dependents, and the resident aliens within your city gates — so that they may listen and learn to fear † the LORD your God and be careful to follow all the words of this law. 13 Then their children † who do not know the law will listen and learn to fear the LORD your God as long as you live in the land you are crossing the Jordan to possess.”
14 The LORD said to Moses, “The time of your death is now approaching. Call Joshua and present yourselves at the tent of meeting so that I may commission him.” When Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves at the tent of meeting, 15 the LORD appeared at the tent in a pillar of cloud, † and the cloud stood at the entrance to the tent. † 16 The LORD said to Moses, “You are about to rest with your fathers, † and these people will soon prostitute themselves with the foreign gods † of the land they are entering. They will abandon me † and break the covenant † I have made with them. 17 My anger will burn against them on that day; † I will abandon them and hide my face from them so that they will become easy prey. † † Many troubles and afflictions will come to them. On that day they will say, ‘Haven’t these troubles come to us because our God is no longer with us?’ 18 I will certainly hide my face on that day because of all the evil they have done by turning to other gods. 19 Therefore write down this song † for yourselves and teach it to the Israelites; have them sing it, † so that this song may be a witness for me against the Israelites. 20 When I bring them into the land I swore to give their fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey, † they will eat their fill † and prosper. † They will turn to other gods and worship them, despising me † and breaking my covenant. † 21 And when many troubles and afflictions come to them, this song will testify against them, because † their descendants will not have forgotten it. For I know what they are prone to do, † even before I bring them into the land I swore to give them." 22 So Moses wrote down this song on that day and taught it to the Israelites.

23 The LORD commissioned Joshua son of Nun, "Be strong and courageous, for you will bring the Israelites into the land I swore to them, and I will be with you." †

MOSES WARNS THE PEOPLE

24 When Moses had finished writing down on a scroll every single word † of this law, 25 he commanded the Levites who carried the ark of the LORD's covenant, 26 "Take this book of the law and place it beside the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God so that it may remain there as a witness against you. 27 For I know how rebellious and stiff-necked you are. If you are rebelling against the LORD now, while I am still alive, how much more will you rebel after I am dead! 28 Assemble all your tribal elders and officers before me so that I may speak these words directly to them and call heaven and earth as witnesses against them. † 29 For I know that after my death you will become completely corrupt and turn from the path I have commanded you. Disaster will come to you in the future, because you will do what is evil in the LORD's sight, angering him with what your hands have made." † 30 Then Moses recited aloud every single word † of this song to the entire assembly of Israel:

31:1-8 Moses's death was imminent, and the transfer of leadership to Joshua is mentioned again (see also vv. 14-15; Nm 27:18-21). Moses's charge to him to be strong and courageous and his assurance that God will be with [him] (see also v. 23) are echoed in Jos 1:5-8.

31:16-22 The Lord predicted that after Moses's death the Israelites would soon prostitute themselves with the foreign gods of the land they are entering. As a result, God would be angry with them, and the Israelites would encounter many troubles and afflictions. The song would be a witness for [God] against the Israelites (see also vv. 30; 32:1-44; see "A Biblical View of Music," p. 727). The Israelites' future disobedience as well as their exile (see the note on 4:25-31) are thus to be expected, even though they had yet to enter the land (see also 29:22–30:1). Nevertheless, their future was not hopeless because of the promise of the new covenant (see 30:6).

31:26-29 Moses was sure that the Israelites would rebel against God after his death (v. 27). Both the book of the law and the heavens and earth were also witnesses against the Israelites, just as the song that Moses taught them was (v. 19). The Israelites' corruption and disobedience would cause trouble for them in the future (lit "in the last days"; see the note on Gn 49:1). This same Hebrew phrase is also used in Deuteronomy 4:30, where it likewise characterizes a period in which Israel is experiencing serious consequences for their sins (see the note on 4:25-31). The other two occurrences of this phrase in the Pentateuch appear in connection with the coming of the Messiah (Gn 49:1; Nm 24:14; see also the notes on Gn 49:8-12 and Nm 24:14-19). The Messiah's coming naturally fits with Israel's need for deliverance from their sins.

SONG OF MOSES

32 Pay attention, heavens, and I will speak; listen, earth, to the words from my mouth. †

2 Let my teaching fall like rain and my word settle like dew, like gentle rain on new grass and showers on tender plants.

3 For I will proclaim the LORD's name. † Declare the greatness of our God!

4 The Rock † — his work is perfect; all his ways are just. †
A faithful God, † without bias, he is righteous and true.

5 His people have acted corruptly toward him; †

this is their defect † — they are not his children but a devious and crooked generation. †

6 Is this how you repay the LORD, you foolish and senseless people? † Isn't he your Father and Creator? † †
Didn't he make you and sustain you?
7 Remember the days of old; consider the years of past generations.
Ask your father, and he will tell you,
your elders, and they will teach you.
8 When the Most High gave the nations their inheritance † and divided the human race, † he set the boundaries of the peoples † according to the number of the people of Israel. †
9 But the LORD's portion is his people, Jacob, his own inheritance. †

10 He found him in a desolate land, in a barren, howling wilderness; he surrounded him, cared for him, † and protected him as the pupil of his eye. † 11 He watches over † his nest like an eagle and hovers over his young;
he spreads his wings, catches him, and carries him on his feathers. †
12 The LORD alone led him, with no help from a foreign god. †
13 He made him ride on the heights of the land † and eat the produce of the field.
He nourished him with honey from the rock
and oil from flinty rock, 14 curds from the herd and milk from the flock, with the fat of lambs, rams from Bashan, † and goats, with the choicest grains of wheat;
you drank wine from the finest grapes. †

15 Then † Jeshurun † † became fat and rebelled — you became fat, bloated, and gorged.
He abandoned the God who made him and scorned the Rock of his salvation.

16 They provoked his jealousy with different gods; they enraged him with detestable practices. † 17 They sacrificed to demons, not God, to gods they had not known, new gods that had just arrived, which your fathers did not fear. †
18 You ignored the Rock who gave you birth; you forgot the God who gave birth to you.

19 When the LORD saw this, he despised them, angered by his sons and daughters.
20 He said: "I will hide my face from them; †
I will see what will become of them, for they are a perverse generation — unfaithful children.
21 They have provoked my jealousy with what is not a god; †
they have enraged me with their worthless idols. †
So I will provoke their jealousy with what is not a people; †
I will enrage them with a foolish nation. †
22 For fire has been kindled because of my anger and burns to the depths of Sheol; † it devours the land and its produce, and scorches the foundations of the mountains.

23 "I will pile disasters on them; I will use up my arrows against them.
24 They will be weak from hunger, ravaged by pestilence and bitter plague;
I will unleash on them wild beasts with fangs, as well as venomous snakes that slither in the dust.
25 Outside, the sword will take their children, and inside, there will be terror;
the young man and the young woman will be killed, the infant and the gray-haired man. †

26 "I would have said: I will cut them to pieces †

and blot out the memory of them from mankind, † 27 if I had not feared provocation from the enemy, or feared that these foes might misunderstand and say: ‘Our own hand has prevailed; it wasn’t the LORD who did all this.’ ”

28 Israel is a nation lacking sense with no understanding at all. † † 29 If only they were wise, they would comprehend this; they would understand their fate.
30 How could one pursue a thousand, or two put ten thousand to flight, † unless their Rock had sold them, unless the LORD had given them up? †
31 But their “rock” is not like our Rock, as even our enemies concede.
32 For their vine is from the vine of Sodom and from the fields of Gomorrah.
Their grapes are poisonous;
their clusters are bitter.
33 Their wine is serpents’ venom, the deadly poison of cobras. †

34 “Is it not stored up with me, sealed up in my vaults?
35 Vengeance † belongs to me; I will repay. † †
In time their foot will slip, for their day of disaster is near,
and their doom is coming quickly.”
36 The LORD will indeed vindicate his people and have compassion on his servants † when he sees that their strength is gone and no one is left — slave or free. † 37 He will say: “Where are their gods, the ‘rock’ they found refuge in?
38 Who ate the fat of their sacrifices and drank the wine of their drink offerings?
Let them rise up and help you;
let it † be a shelter for you.
39 See now that I alone am he; there is no God but me. †
I bring death and I give life;
I wound and I heal.

No one can rescue anyone from my power. †
40 I raise my hand to heaven and declare: As surely as I live forever, 41 when I sharpen my flashing sword, and my hand takes hold of judgment,
I will take vengeance on my adversaries and repay those who hate me.
42 I will make my arrows drunk with blood while my sword devours flesh — the blood of the slain and the captives, the heads of the enemy leaders." †

43 Rejoice, you nations, concerning his people, † † for he will avenge the blood of his servants. †
He will take vengeance on his adversaries; † †
he will purify his land and his people. †

44 Moses came with Joshua † son of Nun and recited all the words of this song in the presence of the people. 45 After Moses finished reciting all these words to all Israel, 46 he said to them, "Take to heart all these words I am giving as a warning to you today, † so that you may command your children to follow all the words of this law carefully. † 47 For they are not meaningless words to you but they are your life, † and by them you will live long in the land you are crossing the Jordan to possess."

MOSES'S IMPENDING DEATH

48 On that same day the LORD spoke to Moses, † 49 "Go up Mount Nebo † in the Abarim range in the land of Moab, across from Jericho, and view the land of Canaan I am giving the Israelites as a possession. 50 Then you will die on the mountain that you go up, and you will be gathered to your people, † just as your brother Aaron died on Mount Hor and was gathered to his people. † 51 For both of you broke faith with me among the Israelites at the Waters of Meribath-kadesh in the Wilderness of Zin by failing to treat me as holy in their presence. 52 Although from a distance you will view the land that I am giving the Israelites, you will not go there." †

32:1 This verse begins the fourth and last major poetic section in the Pentateuch (Dt 32–33), the others being Genesis 49:2-27; Exodus 15:1-18; and Numbers 23:7-10,18-24 and 24:3-9,15-19 (see the notes on Gn 49:1; Ex 15:1; Nm 23:7-10).

32:10-25 Although God had done so much for Israel (vv. 10-14), the Israelites forsook him and worshiped idols (vv. 15-18; see also vv. 5-6), which provoked him to anger and judgment (vv. 19-25; see also the note on 31:16-22).

32:26-27 The Lord relented from destroying Israel completely because he wanted to protect his honor from the reproach and boast of the enemy (see also the notes on Ex 32:7-14 and Nm 14:20-25).

32:28-29 Israel's rebellion is cast as foolishness again (see also v. 6).

32:36 Despite Israel's sins and God's punishment of them, he would ultimately vindicate his people and have compassion on his servants (see also v. 43) and show himself to be the only God (vv. 37-39; see also vv. 15-18).

MOSES'S BLESSINGS

33 This is the blessing that Moses, the man of God, gave the Israelites before his death. † 2 He said:

The LORD came from Sinai and appeared to them from Seir; †

he shone on them from Mount Paran † and came with ten thousand holy ones, † with lightning † from his right hand † for them. †
3 Indeed he loves the people. † †
All your † holy ones are in your hand, and they assemble † at your feet.
Each receives your words.
4 Moses gave us instruction, a possession for the assembly of Jacob.
5 So he became King in Jeshurun † † when the leaders of the people gathered with the tribes of Israel.

6 Let Reuben live and not die though his people become few. †

7 He said this about Judah:

LORD, hear Judah's cry and bring him to his people.
He fights for his cause † with his own hands, but may you be a help against his foes.

8 He said about Levi:

Your Thummim and Urim † belong to your faithful one; † you tested him at Massah and contended with him at the Waters of Meribah. † 9 He said about his father and mother, "I do not regard them."
He disregarded his brothers and didn't acknowledge his sons, for they kept your word and maintained your covenant. †
10 They will teach your ordinances to Jacob and your instruction to Israel; † they will set incense before you and whole burnt offerings on your altar.
11 LORD, bless his possessions, † and accept the work of his hands.

Break the back † of his adversaries and enemies, so that they cannot rise again.

12 He said about Benjamin:

The LORD's beloved rests † securely on him.
He † shields him all day long, and he rests on his shoulders. †

13 He said about Joseph:

May his land be blessed by the LORD with the dew of heaven's bounty and the watery depths that lie beneath; † 14 with the bountiful harvest from the sun and the abundant yield of the seasons;
15 with the best products of the ancient mountains and the bounty of the eternal hills; † 16 with the choice gifts of the land and everything in it;
and with the favor of him who appeared † in the burning bush. † May these rest on the head of Joseph,
on the brow of the prince of his brothers. † 17 His firstborn bull has † splendor, and horns like † those of a wild ox; he gores all the peoples with them to the ends of the earth.
Such are the ten thousands of Ephraim, and such are the thousands of Manasseh.

18 He said about Zebulun:

Rejoice, Zebulun, in your journeys, and Issachar, in your tents.
19 They summon the peoples to a mountain; there they offer acceptable sacrifices.
For they draw from the wealth of the seas and the hidden treasures of the sand. †

20 He said about Gad:

The one who enlarges Gad's territory will be blessed.
He lies down like a lion and tears off an arm or even a head. †
21 He chose the best part for himself, because a ruler's portion was assigned there for him.
He came with the leaders of the people;
he carried out the LORD's justice and his ordinances for Israel. †

22 He said about Dan:

Dan is a young lion, leaping out of Bashan. †

23 He said about Naphtali:

Naphtali, enjoying approval, full of the LORD's blessing, take † possession to the west and the south.

24 He said about Asher:

May Asher † be the most blessed of the sons; may he be the most favored among his brothers and dip his foot in olive oil. † 25 May the bolts of your gate be iron and bronze, and your strength last as long as you live.

26 There is none like the God of Jeshurun, who rides the heavens to your aid, the clouds in his majesty. † 27 The God of old is your dwelling place, † and underneath are the everlasting arms.
He drives out the enemy before you and commands, "Destroy! "
28 So Israel dwells securely; † Jacob lives untroubled † † in a land of grain and new wine;

even his skies drip with dew. †
29 How happy you are, Israel!
Who is like you,
a people saved by the LORD?
He is the shield that protects you,
the sword you boast in.
Your enemies will cringe before you, † and you will tread on their backs. † †

33:1 This blessing that Moses gave to the tribes of Israel is part of the fourth and last major poetic section in the Pentateuch (see the note on 32:1) and parallels Jacob's predictions about his sons in the first major poetic section (Gn 49:2-27). Whereas Jacob made foreboding statements about some of them (see Gn 49:3-7,14-17), Moses's words for each of the twelve tribes are entirely positive (e.g., vv. 6,8-12). His blessing was thus for all Israel. The order in which Moses spoke of each of the tribes is roughly the same as Genesis 49:2-27, except Judah and Joseph are moved forward in the list.

33:2 Seir was the land of Edom (see Gn 32:3; Dt 2:4), and Mount Paran (see also Hab 3:3) was most likely located somewhere in the Wilderness of Paran (see Gn 21:21; Nm 10:12; 12:16).

33:7 This brief statement about Judah is difficult to interpret within its immediate context. The other two major poetic sections that appear in connection with the phrase "in the future" (see notes on 31:26-29 and 32:1) contain clear messianic prophecy (see the notes on Gn 49:8-12; Nm 24:7-9; 24:14-17). These passages describe the Messiah's triumph over "his enemies" (see Gn 49:8; Nm 24:8,17-18). Perhaps the same victory is in view here, with God's answer to his prayer being brought out this time.

33:26-29 Moses's blessing concludes with a declaration of praise to God (vv. 26-27) and of the blessedness of Israel (vv. 28-29). There is none like the God of Jeshurun, and no people is as blessed as Israel, a people saved by the LORD.

MOSES'S DEATH

34 Then Moses went up from the plains of Moab to Mount Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, † which faces Jericho, and the LORD showed him all the land: Gilead as far as Dan, 2 all of Naphtali, the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, all the land of Judah as far as the Mediterranean † Sea, 3 the Negev, and the plain in the Valley of Jericho, the City of Palms, as far as Zoar. 4 The LORD then said to him, “This is the land I promised Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, ‘I will give it to your descendants.’ † I have let you see it with your own eyes, but you will not cross into it.”
5 So Moses the servant of the LORD † died there in the land of Moab, according to the LORD’s word. 6 He buried him † in the valley † in the land of Moab facing Beth-peor, and no one to this day knows where his grave is. † 7 Moses was one hundred twenty years old when he died; his eyes were not weak, and his vitality had not left him. 8 The Israelites wept for Moses in the plains of Moab thirty days. † Then the days of weeping and mourning for Moses came to an end. † 9 Joshua son of Nun was filled with the spirit of wisdom † because Moses had laid his hands on him. † So the Israelites obeyed him and did as the LORD had commanded Moses. † 10 No prophet has arisen again in Israel like Moses, whom the LORD knew face to face. † 11 He was unparalleled for all the signs and wonders the LORD sent him to do against the land of Egypt — to Pharaoh, to all his officials, and to all his land, 12 and for all the mighty acts of power † and terrifying deeds that Moses performed in the sight of all Israel. †

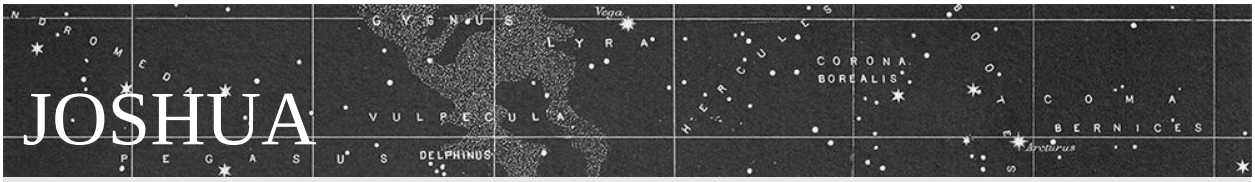
34:1-8 Deuteronomy, as well as the Pentateuch (see the note on Gn 1:1), ends with Moses’s death outside of the promised land. Israel too had not yet entered it. The Lord’s promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were thus not yet fulfilled.

34:9 Joshua, Israel’s new leader, had been described earlier as “a man who has the Spirit in him” (Nm 27:18). Likewise, he was now filled with the spirit of wisdom.

34:10-12 Moses's greatness as a prophet was demonstrated through his intimate relationship with God and through the mighty works that he performed. The statement that No prophet has arisen again in Israel like Moses implicitly compares prophets after Moses's time with him and implies that the messiah, "the prophet like Moses," had not yet come.



JOSHUA

INTRODUCTION

The book of Joshua is named for the most famous member of the Israelites in the generation after the death of Moses. The book describes the history of that generation of Israel who crossed the Jordan River and entered the promised land of Canaan. Their battles and faithfulness have a place among the greatest stories of faith in the Old Testament. Joshua led the people to defeat the adversaries who opposed God's people. He then oversaw the division of the land into the tribal allotments. Finally, Joshua renewed the covenant between the people and God.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The author of the book of Joshua is not identified in the Bible and otherwise remains anonymous. If Joshua himself did not originally compose the book that bears his name, then it may be presumed that someone who knew him and his exploits recorded the work. There are numerous references throughout Joshua that suggest a final formation of the book after his lifetime. These include the death of Joshua and descriptions of memorials or names that are said to remain "still. . .today" (4:9; 5:9; 6:25; 7:26; 8:28-29; 10:27; 13:13; 14:14; 15:63; 16:10; 22:17; 23:8).

BACKGROUND: The accounts in the book of Joshua occur in the period immediately after Moses's death. This was a new generation, not the one that had left Egypt. The story of Joshua is thus set when the nation of Israel first appeared in the land west of the Jordan River—the land that would bear their name. First Kings 6:1 states that the exodus occurred 480 years before Solomon's fourth year as king (966 BC). In Jdg 11:26, Jephthah said that Israel had been living in regions of Palestine for three hundred years. Jephthah lived around 1100 BC, thus dating the end of the wilderness journey and the beginning of the conquest around 1400 BC.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Just as Joshua's leadership begins with the death of Moses, so the book of Joshua follows and completes the book of Deuteronomy. Deuteronomy serves as a means by which the new generation of Israelites renewed their covenant with God. The book of Joshua provides the means by which God fulfilled his part of the covenant. God gave them victories, but each victory required a step of faith. God's provision for the people as their leader and guide bore witness to later generations of the divinely willed leadership for Israel, and his gracious gift of the land showed how the people's faithful fulfillment of the covenant could result in abundant blessing.

STRUCTURE

The book of Joshua should be seen as a land grant, similar to the land grants and suzerain treaties of the ancient Near East. The suzerain, who was Israel's God, gave to his people the land that they were meant to receive. There are three major parts to the structure of the land grant.

First is a review of the history and events leading up to the gift of the land. This occurs in chapter 1 and its discussion of what has brought Joshua to this point—the death of Moses. Chapters 2–5 detail the preparation for the acquisition of the gift of the land. Chapters 6–12 describe the battles that were fought as background to the receipt of the land. The second section considers the allotment of the territories to the tribes and families of Israel. The many specific names and towns of this part of the text provide a particularity to the gift that affirms it was an authentic fulfillment of God's promise to his people. The third section is a renewal of the covenant. Here the key parts are the stipulations of the covenant that require loyalty to God alone (24:14-15) and the response of the people that they agree to these demands.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

The two attributes of God most on display in Joshua are his faithfulness to fulfill his promises and his ultimate judgment on evil. If the promise made to Abraham concerning land for Israel was kept only after many centuries, then today's believers should not be surprised if the promise he made concerning the return of Christ is kept after many centuries.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Although the book is careful to report Israel's occasional failures during the conquest, it is optimistic in its view that God's people can "live in victory" as they trust in him. For this reason, Joshua has been popular in Christian pulpits with the positive principles it contains.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

The account of Rahab the prostitute (chaps. 2 and 6) profoundly illustrates salvation by "grace through faith." So thoroughly was she converted that she was considered an Israelite and became a biological ancestor of Jesus (Jos 6:25; Mt 1:5; Heb 11:31). Although most of the victories in Joshua are military, the entire tenor of the book is that salvation—of whatever kind—comes only from God's hand.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF JOSHUA

1 After the death of Moses † the LORD's servant, the LORD spoke to Joshua son of Nun, † Moses's assistant: 2 "Moses my servant is dead. †
Now you and all the people prepare to cross over the Jordan † to the land I am giving the Israelites. 3 I have given you every place where the sole of your foot treads, † just as I promised Moses. 4 Your territory will be from the wilderness and Lebanon † to the great river, the Euphrates River — all the land of the Hittites † — and west to the Mediterranean Sea. † † 5 No one will be able to stand against you as long as you live. † I will be with you, just as I was with Moses. I will not leave you or abandon you. †
6 "Be strong and courageous, † for you will distribute the land I swore to their fathers to give them as an inheritance. † 7 Above all, be strong and very courageous to observe carefully the whole instruction my servant Moses commanded you. † Do not turn from it to the right or the left, so that you will have success wherever you go. 8 This book of instruction must not depart from your mouth; † you are to meditate on † it day and night so that you may carefully observe everything written in it. For then you will prosper and succeed in whatever you do. † 9 Haven't I commanded you: be strong and courageous?

† Do not be afraid or discouraged, for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go."

JOSHUA PREPARES THE PEOPLE

10 Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people: 11 "Go through the camp and tell the people, 'Get provisions ready for yourselves, for within three days you will be crossing the Jordan to go in and take possession of the land the LORD your God is giving you to inherit.' " †

12 Joshua said to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh: †
13 "Remember what Moses the LORD's servant commanded you when he said, 'The LORD your God will give you rest, and he will give you this land.' †
14 Your wives, dependents, and livestock may remain in the land Moses gave you on this side of the Jordan. But your best soldiers must cross over in battle formation † ahead of your brothers and help them 15 until the LORD gives your brothers rest, as he has given you, and they too possess the land the LORD your God is giving them. You may then return to the land of your inheritance † and take possession of what Moses the LORD's servant † gave you on the east side of the Jordan."
16 They answered Joshua, "Everything you have commanded us we will do, and everywhere you send us we will go. 17 We will obey you, just as we obeyed Moses in everything. Certainly the LORD your God will be with you, as he was with Moses. † 18 Anyone who rebels against your order and does not obey your words in all that you command him, will be put to death. Above all, be strong and courageous! " †

1:1 Deuteronomy (and the Pentateuch) ended with Moses's death (see Dt 34:10-12), and the book of Joshua picks up the story from there. Joshua, however, should be regarded as a separate book since it is not part of the Pentateuch (see the note on Gn 1:1).

1:2-9 The Lord's encouragement to Joshua came in the midst of a major leadership transition for Israel and is similar to Moses's earlier charge in Deuteronomy 31:1-8. Moses was dead, and Joshua was to lead the Israelites across the Jordan River to take possession of the land. Twice Joshua was reminded that God was with him (vv. 5,9; see also v. 17), and three times he was commanded to be strong and courageous (vv. 6,7,9; see also v. 18). Remarkably, Joshua's success would not depend on military might or his own skill but on his obedience to the whole instruction [lit "law"] [God's] servant Moses commanded. The instruction to meditate on it day and night so that he would prosper (v. 8; see footnote B) parallels the description of the righteous man in Psalm 1:2-3. See also "Biblical Formation" on p. 1504; "Biblical Authority," p. 709.

1:12-15 That two and a half tribes would take possession of land across the Jordan after helping with the conquest had been agreed upon in Numbers 32.

1:16-18 The strong pledge of obedience is ironic in view of the Israelites' past disobedience to Moses (see the note on Ex 24:3; Nm 14:39-45; Ac 7:35).

SPIES SENT TO JERICHO

2 Joshua son of Nun secretly sent two men as spies † from the Acacia Grove, † saying, "Go and scout the land, especially Jericho." So they left, and they came to the house of a prostitute named Rahab, † and stayed there.

2 The king of Jericho was told, "Look, some of the Israelite men have come here tonight to investigate the land." 3 Then the king of Jericho sent word to Rahab and said, "Bring out the men who came to you and entered your house, † for they came to investigate the entire land."

4 But the woman had taken the two men and hidden them. † So she said, "Yes, the men did come to me, but I didn't know where they were from. 5 At nightfall, when the city gate was about to close, the men went out, and I don't know where they were going. Chase after them quickly, and you can catch up with them!" 6 But she had taken them up to the roof and hidden them † among the stalks of flax that she had arranged on the roof. 7 The men pursued them along the road to the fords of the Jordan, and as soon as they left to pursue them, the city gate was shut.

THE PROMISE TO RAHAB

8 Before the men fell asleep, she went up on the roof 9 and said to them, "I know that the LORD has given you this land † and that the terror of you has fallen on us, † and everyone who lives in the land is panicking because of you. † † 10 For we have heard how the LORD dried up the water of the Red Sea before you when you came out of Egypt, † and what you did to Sihon and Og, the two Amorite kings you completely destroyed † across the Jordan. 11 When we heard this, we lost heart, † and everyone's courage failed † because of you, † for the LORD your God is God in heaven above and on earth below. †

12 Now please swear to me by the LORD that you will also show kindness to my father's family, † because I showed kindness to you. † Give me a sure sign †
13 that you will spare the lives of my father, mother, brothers, sisters, and all who belong to them, and save us from death."
14 The men answered her, "We will give our lives for yours. If you don't report our mission, we will show kindness and faithfulness to you when the LORD gives us the land."
15 Then she let them down by a rope through the window, since she lived in a house that was built into the wall of the city. 16 "Go to the hill country so that the men pursuing you won't find you," she said to them. "Hide there for three days until they return; afterward, go on your way."
17 The men said to her, "We will be free from this oath you made us swear, 18 unless, when we enter the land, you tie this scarlet cord to the window through which you let us down. Bring your father, mother, brothers, and all your father's family into your house. 19 If anyone goes out the doors of your house, his death will be his own fault, † † and we will be innocent. But if anyone with you in the house should be harmed, † his death will be our fault. † 20 And if you report our mission, we are free from the oath you made us swear."
21 "Let it be as you say," she replied, and she sent them away. After they had gone, she tied the scarlet cord to the window.
22 So the two men went into the hill country and stayed there three days until the pursuers had returned. They searched all along the way, but did not find them.
23 Then the men returned, came down from the hill country, and crossed the Jordan. They went to Joshua son of Nun and reported everything that had happened to them. 24 They told Joshua, "The LORD has handed over the entire land to us. Everyone who lives in the land is also panicking because of us." †

2:4-16 On this approach to Canaan, only two spies were sent to "scout the land" (v. 1; see Nm 13). They stayed in the house of a prostitute who hid them and sent those searching for them in another direction (vv. 2-7). As a result, Rahab the prostitute was rewarded with salvation for herself and her household (vv. 12-14,17-20; 6:22-23) and was later commended for her faith in Hebrews 11:31 (see vv. 9-11). Along with the other inhabitants of Jericho, she had heard what God had done for Israel and was terrified (vv. 9-11; see also v. 24; 5:1). Moreover, she confessed that the LORD [their] God is God in heaven above and on earth below. The Lord's fame had thus spread to the people of Jericho and even resulted in the salvation of a Canaanite and her family. Rahab's deception (vv. 4-6) may qualify as a special circumstance and should not be used as justification for lying in general (see Eph 4:25).

CROSSING THE JORDAN

3 Joshua started early the next morning and left the Acacia Grove † with all the Israelites. They went as far as the Jordan and stayed there before crossing. 2 After three days the officers went through the camp † 3 and commanded the people: "When you see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God carried by the Levitical priests, † you are to break camp and follow it.
4 But keep a distance of about a thousand yards † between yourselves and the ark. Don't go near it, so that you can see the way to go, for you haven't traveled this way before." †

5 Joshua told the people, "Consecrate yourselves, † because the LORD will do wonders † among you tomorrow." 6 Then he said to the priests, "Carry the ark of the covenant and go on ahead of the people." So they carried the ark of the covenant and went ahead of them.

7 The LORD spoke to Joshua: "Today I will begin to exalt you in the sight of all Israel, † so they will know that I will be with you just as I was with Moses. † 8 Command the priests carrying the ark of the covenant: When you reach the edge of the water, † stand in the Jordan."

9 Then Joshua told the Israelites, "Come closer and listen to the words of the LORD your God." 10 He said: "You will know that the living God is among you † and that he will certainly dispossess before you the Canaanites, Hethites, Hivites, Perizzites, Girgashites, Amorites, and Jebusites † 11 when the ark of the covenant of the Lord of the whole earth † goes ahead of you into the Jordan.
12 Now choose twelve men from the tribes of Israel, one man for each tribe. †

13 When the feet † of the priests who carry the ark of the LORD, the Lord of the whole earth, come to rest in the Jordan's water, its water will be cut off. The water flowing downstream will stand up in a mass." †
14 When the people broke camp to cross the Jordan, the priests carried the ark of the covenant † ahead of the people. 15 Now the Jordan overflows its banks throughout the harvest season. † But as soon as the priests carrying the ark reached the Jordan, their feet touched the water at its edge 16 and the water flowing downstream stood still, rising up in a mass that extended as far as † Adam, a city next to Zarethan. The water flowing downstream into the Sea of the Arabah † — the Dead Sea — was completely cut off, and the people crossed opposite Jericho. 17 The priests carrying the ark of the LORD's covenant stood firmly on dry ground in the middle of the Jordan, † while all Israel crossed on dry ground until the entire nation had finished crossing the Jordan.

3:5-8 As the Israelites prepared to cross the Jordan into the promised land, they were to consecrate themselves (see also Ex 19:10-11). The Lord declared to Joshua that he would exalt [him] in the sight of all Israel as the rightful successor to Moses (see 4:14; 6:27).

3:15-17 The Israelites' miraculous crossing of the Jordan River on dry ground parallels their similar crossing of the Red Sea, a connection which 4:22-24 makes explicit. Both the exodus from Egypt and the entrance into the land of Canaan were thus marked by a miraculous traversal of a body of water (see also the note on 5:2-9). As God had promised, he was indeed with Joshua "just as [he] was with Moses" (v. 7; 4:14; 6:27) and would help the Israelites conquer the Canaanites (v. 11).

THE MEMORIAL STONES

4 After the entire nation had finished crossing the Jordan, † the LORD spoke to Joshua: 2 "Choose twelve men from the people, one man for each tribe, † 3 and command them: Take twelve stones † from this place in the middle of the Jordan where the priests † are standing, carry them with you, and set them down at the place where you spend the night."

4 So Joshua summoned the twelve men he had selected from the Israelites, one man for each tribe, 5 and said to them, “Go across to the ark of the LORD your God in the middle of the Jordan. Each of you lift a stone onto his shoulder, one for each † of the Israelite tribes, 6 so that this will be a sign among you. In the future, when your children ask you, ‘What do these stones mean to you?’ † 7 you should tell them, ‘The water of the Jordan was cut off in front of the ark of the LORD’s covenant. When it crossed the Jordan, the Jordan’s water was cut off.’ Therefore these stones will always be a memorial for the Israelites.” † 8 The Israelites did just as Joshua had commanded them. The twelve men took stones from the middle of the Jordan, one for each † of the Israelite tribes, just as the LORD had told Joshua. They carried them to the camp and set them down there. 9 Joshua also set up twelve stones in the middle † of the Jordan where the priests who carried the ark of the covenant were standing. The stones are still there today. †
10 The priests carrying the ark continued standing in the middle of the Jordan until everything was completed that the LORD had commanded Joshua to tell the people, in keeping with all that Moses had commanded Joshua. The people hurried across, 11 and after everyone had finished crossing, the priests with the ark of the LORD crossed in the sight of the people. 12 The Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh went in battle formation in front of the Israelites, † as Moses had instructed them. 13 About forty thousand equipped for war crossed to the plains of Jericho in the LORD’s presence.
14 On that day the LORD exalted Joshua in the sight of all Israel, and they revered him throughout his life, as they had revered Moses. † 15 The LORD told Joshua, 16 “Command the priests who carry the ark of the testimony † to come up from the Jordan.”
17 So Joshua commanded the priests, “Come up from the Jordan.” 18 When the priests carrying the ark of the LORD’s covenant came up from the middle of the Jordan, and their feet † stepped out on solid ground, the water of the Jordan resumed its course, flowing over all the banks as before.
19 The people came up from the Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, † and camped at Gilgal on the eastern limits of Jericho. † 20 Then Joshua set up in Gilgal the twelve stones they had taken from the Jordan, 21 and he said to the Israelites, “In the future, when your children ask their fathers, ‘What is the meaning of these stones?’ 22 you should tell your children, ‘Israel crossed the Jordan on dry ground.’ † 23 For the Lord your God dried up the water of the Jordan before you until you had crossed over, † just as the Lord your God did to the Red Sea, which he dried up before us until we had crossed over. 24 This is so that all the peoples of the earth may know † that the Lord’s hand is mighty, † and so that you may always fear the Lord your God.” †

4:6-7 The purpose of these stones taken from the Jordan was to be a memorial to teach your children (see also vv. 21-22) about God’s mighty act of stopping the river so that Israel could cross over it (see 3:15-17; 4:18). The importance of passing on the knowledge of God and his works to one’s offspring and to future generations is also mentioned in relation to the Passover (see Ex 10:1-2; 12:24-27) and in numerous passages in Deuteronomy (see the note on Dt 4:9-10; “Christian Perspectives on Children’s Education,” p. 225).

4:23-24 The stopping of the Jordan River not only benefited Israel but was also for the purpose of spreading the glory of God so that all the people of the earth may know that the Lord’s hand is mighty (see also 5:1). This was also true of God’s mighty acts in Egypt (see Ex 9:16; 1Sm 17:46).

CIRCUMCISION OF THE ISRAELITES

5 When all the Amorite kings across the Jordan to the west and all the Canaanite kings near the sea † heard how the Lord had dried up the water of the Jordan before the Israelites until they had crossed over, † they lost heart and their courage failed † because of the Israelites.
2 At that time the Lord said to Joshua, “Make flint knives and circumcise the Israelite men again.” † 3 So Joshua made flint knives and circumcised the Israelite men at Gibeath-haaraloth. † 4 This is the reason Joshua circumcised them: All the people who came out of Egypt who were males — all the men of war — had died in the wilderness along the way after they had come out of Egypt. 5 Though all the people who came out were circumcised, none of the people born in the wilderness along the way were circumcised after they had come out of Egypt. 6 For the Israelites wandered in the wilderness forty years until all the nation's men of war who came out of Egypt had died off because they did not obey the LORD. † So the LORD vowed never to let them see the land he had sworn to their fathers to give us, a land flowing with milk and honey. † 7 He raised up their sons in their place; it was these Joshua circumcised. They were still uncircumcised, since they had not been circumcised along the way.

8 After the entire nation had been circumcised, they stayed where they were in the camp until they recovered. † 9 The LORD then said to Joshua, "Today I have rolled away the disgrace of Egypt from you." Therefore, that place is still called Gilgal today. †

FOOD FROM THE LAND

10 While the Israelites camped at Gilgal on the plains of Jericho, they observed the Passover on the evening of the fourteenth day of the month. † 11 The day after Passover they ate unleavened bread and roasted grain from the produce of the land. † 12 And the day after they ate from the produce of the land, the manna ceased. † Since there was no more manna for the Israelites, they ate from the crops of the land of Canaan that year.

COMMANDER OF THE LORD'S ARMY

13 When Joshua was near Jericho, he looked up and saw a man standing in front of him with a drawn sword in his hand. † Joshua approached him and asked, "Are you for us or for our enemies? "
14 "Neither," he replied. "I have now come as commander of the LORD's army." †

Then Joshua bowed with his face to the ground in worship † and asked him, "What does my lord want to say to his servant? " 15 The commander of the LORD's army said to Joshua, "Remove the sandals from your feet, for the place where you are standing is holy." † And Joshua did that.

5:1 Not only were those in Jericho afraid of Israel (2:9-11,24), but so were all the Amorite kings across the Jordan to the west and all the Canaanite kings near the sea.

5:2-9 The first place Israel stopped after crossing the Jordan was Gilgal (see 4:19), which was named thus because of the mass circumcision that took place there (v. 9). Despite instructions to the contrary (see Gn 17:9-14; Lv 12:3), the present generation of Israelite men, who had been born in the wilderness, had not been circumcised. Circumcision was required in order to celebrate the Passover (Ex 12:44,48), which the Israelites subsequently kept at Gilgal (vv. 10-12). Their entrance into the land was thus closely associated with the crossing of a body of water, circumcision, and Passover—as was their exodus from Egypt (see also the note on 3:15-17; Ex 12:48).

5:13-15 This brief conversation between Joshua and the commander of the LORD's army resembles Moses's encounter with God at the burning bush. Both leaders of Israel were told to take off their sandals because they were standing on holy ground (Ex 3:5). The commander's statement that he was neither for Israel nor for its enemies asserts God's sovereignty and freedom, especially from human agendas.

THE CONQUEST OF JERICHO

6 Now Jericho was strongly fortified because of the Israelites — no one leaving or entering. 2 The LORD said to Joshua, "Look, I have handed Jericho, its king, and its best soldiers over to you. † 3 March around the city with all the men of war, circling the city one time. Do this for six days.
4 Have seven priests carry seven ram's-horn trumpets in front of the ark. But on the seventh day, march around the city seven times, while the priests blow the trumpets. † 5 When there is a prolonged blast of the horn and you hear its sound, have all the troops give a mighty shout. Then the city wall will collapse, and the troops will advance, each man straight ahead." 6 So Joshua son of Nun summoned the priests and said to them, "Take up the ark of the covenant and have seven priests carry seven trumpets in front of the ark of the LORD." 7 He said to the troops, "Move forward, march around the city, and have the armed men go ahead of the ark of the LORD."
8 After Joshua had spoken to the troops, seven priests carrying seven trumpets before the LORD moved forward and blew the trumpets; the ark of the LORD's covenant followed them. 9 While the trumpets were blowing, the armed men went in front of the priests who blew the trumpets, and the rear guard went behind the ark. † 10 But Joshua had commanded the troops: "Do not shout or let your voice be heard. Don't let one word come out of your mouth until the time I say, 'Shout!' Then you are to shout." 11 So the ark of the LORD was carried around the city, circling it once. They returned to the camp and spent the night there. † 12 Joshua got up early the next morning. The priests took the ark of the LORD, 13 and the seven priests carrying seven trumpets marched in front of the ark of the LORD. While the trumpets were blowing, the armed men went in front of them, and the rear guard went behind the ark of the LORD. 14 On the second day they marched around the city once and returned to the camp. They did this for six days.

15 Early on the seventh day, they started at dawn and marched around the city seven times in the same way. That was the only day they marched around the city seven times. 16 After the seventh time, the priests blew the trumpets, and Joshua said to the troops, "Shout! For the LORD has given you the city. 17 But the city and everything in it are set apart to the LORD for destruction. † Only Rahab the prostitute and everyone with her in the house will live, † because she hid the messengers we sent. 18 But keep yourselves from the things set apart, or you will be set apart for destruction. If you † take any of those things, you will set apart the camp of Israel for destruction and make trouble for it. 19 For all the silver and gold, and the articles of bronze and iron, are dedicated to the LORD and must go into the LORD's treasury." †
20 So the troops shouted, and the trumpets sounded. When they heard the blast of the trumpet, the troops gave a great shout, and the wall collapsed. † The troops advanced into the city, each man straight ahead, and they captured the city. 21 They completely destroyed † everything in the city with the sword — every man and woman, both young and old, and every ox, sheep, and donkey.

RAHAB AND HER FAMILY SPARED

22 Joshua said to the two men who had scouted the land, "Go to the prostitute's house and bring the woman out of there, and all who are with her, just as you swore to her." † 23 So the young men who had scouted went in and brought out Rahab and her father, mother, brothers, and all who belonged to her. They brought out her whole family and settled them outside the camp of Israel.
24 They burned the city and everything in it, but they put the silver and gold and the articles of bronze and iron into the treasury of the LORD's house.
25 However, Joshua spared Rahab the prostitute, her father's family, and all who belonged to her, because she hid the messengers Joshua had sent to spy on Jericho, and she still lives in Israel † today. † 26 At that time Joshua imposed this curse:

The man who undertakes
the rebuilding of this city, Jericho, is cursed before the LORD. †
He will lay its foundation at the cost of his firstborn;
he will finish its gates at the cost of his youngest. †

27 And the LORD was with Joshua, † and his fame spread throughout the land.

6:8-21 Joshua's obedience to God's unusual instructions for taking Jericho (see vv. 2-5) demonstrated his faith in God. It was God himself who handed over Jericho into the hands of Israel (v. 2) and who was fighting for them (see Dt 20:4). Joshua's warning against the city and everything in it which was set apart to the LORD for destruction (see also Dt 7:2; 20:17) would be violated by Achan (7:1). The reason for these serious measures against Jericho (and other peoples in the land) was their idolatry and potential idolatrous influence on Israel (see also the note on Dt 7:1-6). The Lord sovereignly chose to use Israel as the instrument of his righteous judgment.

6:22-23 In keeping with the earlier arrangement, Rahab gathered her family into her home, which was marked by a scarlet cord tied to the window (see 2:17-21). The sparing of Rahab and her family is emphasized through contrast and repetition (see vv. 17,25).

DEFEAT AT AI

7 The Israelites, however, were unfaithful † regarding the things set apart for destruction. Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took some of what was set apart, and the LORD's anger burned against the Israelites.

2 Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is near Beth-aven, † east of Bethel, and told them, "Go up and scout the land." So the men went up and scouted Ai.

3 After returning to Joshua they reported to him, “Don’t send all the people, but send about two thousand or three thousand † men to attack Ai. Since the people of Ai are so few, don’t wear out all our people there.” 4 So about three thousand men † went up there, but they fled from the men of Ai. † 5 The men of Ai struck down about thirty-six of them and chased them from outside the city gate to the quarries, † striking them down on the descent. As a result, the people lost heart. † † 6 Then Joshua tore his clothes and fell facedown to the ground before the ark of the LORD until evening, † as did the elders of Israel; they all put dust on their heads. † 7 “Oh, Lord GOD,” Joshua said, “why did you ever bring these people across the Jordan to hand us over to the Amorites for our destruction? If only we had been content to remain on the other side of the Jordan! 8 What can I say, Lord, now that Israel has turned its back and run from its enemies? 9 When the Canaanites and all who live in the land hear about this, they will surround us and wipe out our name from the earth. † Then what will you do about your great name? ” †
10 The LORD then said to Joshua, “Stand up! Why have you fallen facedown?
11 Israel has sinned. They have violated my covenant that I appointed for them.
They have taken some of what was set apart. They have stolen, deceived, and put those things with their own belongings. † 12 This is why the Israelites cannot stand against their enemies. They will turn their backs and run from their enemies, because they have been set apart for destruction. † I will no longer be with you unless you remove from among you what is set apart.
13 “Go and consecrate the people. Tell them to consecrate themselves for tomorrow, † for this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: There are things that are set apart among you, Israel. You will not be able to stand against your enemies until you remove what is set apart. 14 In the morning, present yourselves tribe by tribe. The tribe the LORD selects is to come forward clan by clan. The clan the LORD selects is to come forward family by family. The family the LORD selects is to come forward man by man. 15 The one who is caught with the things set apart must be burned, along with everything he has, because he has violated the LORD’s covenant and committed an outrage in Israel.” †

ACHAN JUDGED

ACHAN JUDGED

16 Joshua got up early the next morning. He had Israel come forward tribe by tribe, and the tribe of Judah was selected. 17 He had the clans of Judah come forward, and the Zerahite clan was selected. He had the Zerahite clan come forward by heads of families, † and Zabdi was selected. 18 He then had Zabdi's family come forward man by man, and Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was selected.
19 So Joshua said to Achan, "My son, give glory to the LORD, the God of Israel, † and make a confession to him. † I urge you, tell me what you have done. Don't hide anything from me." 20 Achan replied to Joshua, "It is true. I have sinned against the LORD, the God of Israel. † This is what I did: 21 When I saw among the spoils a beautiful cloak from Babylon, † five pounds † of silver, and a bar of gold weighing a pound and a quarter, † I coveted them and took them. † You can see for yourself.
They are concealed in the ground inside my tent, with the silver under the cloak." 22 So Joshua sent messengers who ran to the tent, and there was the cloak, concealed in his tent, with the silver underneath. 23 They took the things from inside the tent, brought them to Joshua and all the Israelites, and spread them out in the LORD's presence.
24 Then Joshua and all Israel with him took Achan son of Zerah, the silver, the cloak, and the bar of gold, his sons and daughters, his ox, donkey, and sheep, his tent, and all that he had, and brought them up to the Valley of Achor. † 25 Joshua said, "Why have you brought us trouble? † Today the LORD will bring you trouble!" So all Israel stoned them † to death. They burned their bodies, threw stones on them, 26 and raised over him a large pile of rocks that remains still today. † Then the LORD turned from his burning anger. Therefore that place is called the Valley of Achor † still today.

7:4-5 Despite the Israelites' victory at Jericho, one of them, Achan, took some of "the things set apart for destruction" (v. 1). They also apparently failed to seek God or receive clear instructions from him about how to approach Ai, relying instead on their own strength (vv. 2-3; see 6:1-5; 8:1-8). Thus, "the LORD's anger burned against the Israelites" (v. 1), and they were defeated by the men of Ai.

7:10-15 The Lord revealed to Joshua that the reason for Israel's recent defeat was that someone had sinned (see also vv. 20-21). As such, he also said that Israel [had] sinned and violated [his] covenant and would not be able to stand against their enemies unless they remove . . . what is set apart (see also Dt 7:26; 13:17). Achan's sin had seriously affected Israel as a whole, and this incident illustrates both individual and corporate responsibility for sin. Despite the consequences for Israel (v. 5), Achan was still primarily responsible (vv. 13-19) and was singled out—along with his family and livestock—for stoning by the community (vv. 24-26). For other passages in which a reward or punishment is given not only to an individual but to the person's family, see Genesis 7:1; Numbers 16:26-33; and Joshua 2:12-13,18; and 6:22-23. Apparently, corporate responsibility apparently can apply to families as well.

CONQUEST OF AI

8 The LORD said to Joshua, "Do not be afraid or discouraged. † Take all the troops with you and go attack Ai. Look, I have handed over to you the king of Ai, his people, city, and land. † 2 Treat Ai and its king as you did Jericho and its king, † except that you may plunder its spoil and livestock for yourselves. † Set an ambush behind the city." † 3 So Joshua and all the troops set out to attack Ai. Joshua selected thirty thousand of his best soldiers and sent them out at night. 4 He commanded them:
"Pay attention. Lie in ambush behind the city, not too far from it, and all of you be ready. † 5 Then I and all the people who are with me will approach the city.
When they come out against us as they did the first time, we will flee from them.
6 They will come after us until we have drawn them away from the city, for they will say, 'They are fleeing from us as before.' While we are fleeing from them, 7 you are to come out of your ambush and seize the city. The LORD your God will hand it over to you. 8 After taking the city, set it on fire. Follow the LORD's command — see that you do as I have ordered you." 9 So Joshua sent them out, and they went to the ambush site and waited between Bethel and Ai, to the west of Ai. But he spent that night with the troops.
10 Joshua started early the next morning and mobilized them. Then he and the elders of Israel led the troops up to Ai. 11 All those † who were with him went up and approached the city, arriving opposite Ai, and camped to the north of it, with a valley between them and the city. 12 Now Joshua had taken about five thousand men and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, to the west of the city. 13 The troops were stationed in this way: the main † camp to the north of the city and its rear guard to the west of the city. And that night Joshua went into the valley.

14 When the king of Ai saw the Israelites, the men of the city hurried and went out early in the morning so that he and all his people could engage Israel in battle at a suitable place facing the Arabah. But he did not know there was an ambush waiting for him behind the city. 15 Joshua and all Israel pretended to be beaten back by them and fled toward the wilderness. † 16 Then all the troops of Ai were summoned to pursue them, and they pursued Joshua and were drawn away from the city. 17 Not a man was left in Ai or Bethel who did not go out after Israel, leaving the city exposed while they pursued Israel.
18 Then the LORD said to Joshua, “Hold out the javelin in your hand toward Ai, for I will hand the city over to you.” So Joshua held out his javelin toward it. 19 When he held out his hand, the men in ambush rose quickly from their position. They ran, entered the city, captured it, and immediately set it on fire.
20 The men of Ai turned and looked back, and smoke from the city was rising to the sky! They could not escape in any direction, and the troops who had fled to the wilderness now became the pursuers. 21 When Joshua and all Israel saw that the men in ambush had captured the city and that smoke was rising from it, they turned back and struck down the men of Ai. 22 Then men in ambush came out of the city against them, and the men of Ai were trapped between the Israelite forces, some on one side and some on the other. They struck them down until no survivor or fugitive remained, † 23 but they captured the king of Ai alive and brought him to Joshua.
24 When Israel had finished killing everyone living in Ai who had pursued them into the open country, and when every last one of them had fallen by the sword, all Israel returned to Ai and struck it down with the sword. 25 The total of those who fell that day, both men and women, was twelve thousand — all the people of Ai. 26 Joshua did not draw back his hand that was holding the javelin until all the inhabitants of Ai were completely destroyed. † 27 Israel plundered only the cattle and spoil of that city for themselves, according to the LORD’s command that he had given Joshua.

28 Joshua burned Ai and left it a permanent ruin, still desolate today. † 29 He hung † the body of the king of Ai on a tree † until evening, and at sunset Joshua commanded that they take his body down from the tree. † They threw it down at the entrance of the city gate and put a large pile of rocks over it, which still remains today.

RENEWED COMMITMENT TO THE LAW

30 At that time Joshua built an altar on Mount Ebal † to the LORD, the God of Israel, 31 just as Moses the LORD's servant had commanded the Israelites. He built it according to what is written in the book of the law of Moses: an altar of uncut stones on which no iron tool has been used. † Then they offered burnt offerings to the LORD and sacrificed fellowship offerings on it. 32 There on the stones, Joshua copied the law of Moses, which he had written in the presence of the Israelites. † 33 All Israel — resident alien and citizen alike — with their elders, officers, and judges, stood on either side of the ark of the LORD's covenant facing the Levitical priests who carried it. Half of them were in front of Mount Gerizim and half in front of Mount Ebal, † as Moses the LORD's servant had commanded earlier concerning blessing the people of Israel. † 34 Afterward, Joshua read aloud all the words of the law — the blessings as well as the curses — according to all that is written in the book of the law. 35 There was not a word of all that Moses had commanded that Joshua did not read before the entire assembly of Israel, including the women, the dependents, and the resident aliens who lived † among them. †

8:1-2 After Achan's sin had been dealt with, God turned his anger from Israel (see 7:1,24-26) and proceeded once again to lead the Israelites to take possession of the land. In view of Israel's recent defeat, God encouraged Joshua again (see also v. 9). Much as he had done prior to the defeat of Jericho (see 6:1-5), God declared that he was handing Ai over to Joshua and gave him instructions about how this was to take place. The Israelites were to set an ambush behind the city, which was a success (vv. 3-26).

8:24-26 Regarding the complete destruction of the inhabitants of Ai, see the note on 6:8-21.

8:27 Israel had been permitted by God to take this cattle and spoil for themselves (see v. 2).

8:29 The taking down of the body of the king of Ai at sunset probably reflects Joshua's obedience to Deuteronomy 21:22-23 (see also 10:26-27).

8:30-35 The building of an altar on Mount Ebal, making a copy of the law on stones, and the proclamation of curses and blessings (vv. 33-34) had all been commanded by Moses earlier in Deuteronomy 27:1-13.

DECEPTION BY GIBEON

9 When all the kings heard about Jericho and Ai, those who were west of the Jordan in the hill country, † in the Judean foothills, † and all along the coast of the Mediterranean Sea † toward Lebanon — the Hethites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites — 2 they formed a unified alliance to fight against Joshua and Israel.

3 When the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done to Jericho and Ai, † 4 they acted deceptively. They gathered provisions † and took worn-out sacks on their donkeys and old wineskins, cracked and mended. 5 They wore old, patched sandals on their feet and threadbare clothing on their bodies. Their entire provision of bread was dry and crumbly. 6 They went to Joshua in the camp at Gilgal and said to him and the men of Israel, "We have come from a distant land. Please make a treaty with us." †

7 The men of Israel replied to the Hivites, "Perhaps you live among us. How can we make a treaty with you? " †

8 They said to Joshua, "We are your servants." †

Then Joshua asked them, "Who are you and where do you come from? "

9 They replied to him, "Your servants have come from a faraway land because of the reputation of the LORD your God. For we have heard of his fame, and all that he did in Egypt, 10 and all that he did to the two Amorite kings beyond the Jordan — King Sihon of Heshbon and King Og of Bashan, who was in Ashtaroth. 11 So our elders and all the inhabitants of our land told us, 'Take provisions with you for the journey; go and meet them and say, "We are your servants. Please make a treaty with us." ' 12 This bread of ours was warm when we took it from our houses as food on the day we left to come to you; but see, it is now dry and crumbly. 13 These wineskins were new when we filled them; but see, they are cracked. And these clothes and sandals of ours are worn out from the extremely long journey." 14 Then the men of Israel took some of their provisions, but did not seek the LORD's decision. † 15 So Joshua established peace with them and made a treaty to let them live, and the leaders of the community swore an oath to them. †

GIBEON'S DECEPTION DISCOVERED

16 Three days after making the treaty with them, they heard that the Gibeonites were their neighbors, living among them. 17 So the Israelites set out and reached the Gibeonite cities on the third day. Now their cities were Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth, and Kiriath-jearim. † 18 But the Israelites did not attack them, because the leaders of the community had sworn an oath † to them by the LORD, the God of Israel. Then the whole community grumbled against the leaders.

19 All the leaders answered them, "We have sworn an oath to them by the LORD, the God of Israel, and now we cannot touch them. 20 This is how we will treat them: we will let them live, so that no wrath will fall on us because of the oath we swore to them." 21 They also said, "Let them live." So the Gibeonites became woodcutters and water carriers † for the whole community, as the leaders had promised them.

22 Joshua summoned the Gibeonites and said to them, "Why did you deceive us by telling us you live far away from us, when in fact you live among us? 23 Therefore you are cursed and will always be slaves — woodcutters and water carriers for the house of my God."

24 The Gibeonites answered him, "It was clearly communicated to your servants that the LORD your God had commanded his servant Moses to give you all the land and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land before you. We greatly feared for our lives because of you, and that is why we did this. † 25 Now we are in your hands. Do to us whatever you think is right." † † 26 This is what Joshua did to them: he rescued them from the Israelites, and they did not kill them. 27 On that day he made them woodcutters and water carriers — as they are today — for the community and for the LORD's altar at the place he would choose. †

9:3-15 The Israelites made a serious mistake by making a covenant with the Gibeonites, who pretended to have come from far away. Though the Israelites were initially skeptical (v. 7), they were eventually deceived after sampling the Gibeonites' provisions and neglecting to seek the LORD's decision. A person's physical senses are thus insufficient for making correct decisions; rather, “the fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom” (Pr 9:10). The Gibeonites’ deceptive use of food mirrors what Jacob did to secure the blessing from his aged father Isaac (Gn 27:1-29; see also Gn 3:1-6). To make matters worse, Joshua was directly involved in the discussions with the Gibeonites (v. 8), and he established peace with them and made a treaty to let them live—despite Moses’s instructions to destroy them and other inhabitants of Canaan (Dt 7:1-2; 20:10-18). Although it resulted from Israel’s failure, the episode has theological significance in that it shows more non-Israelites (like Rahab) being saved from destruction by joining the Israelite covenant community.

THE DAY THE SUN STOOD STILL

10 Now King Adoni-zedek of Jerusalem heard that Joshua had captured Ai and completely destroyed † it, treating Ai and its king as he had Jericho and its king, and that the inhabitants of Gibeon † had made peace with Israel and were living among them. † 2 So Adoni-zedek and his people were † greatly alarmed because Gibeon was a large city like one of the royal cities; † it was larger than Ai, and all its men were warriors. 3 Therefore King Adoni-zedek of Jerusalem sent word to King Hoham of Hebron, King Piram of Jarmuth, King Japhia of Lachish, and King Debir of Eglon, saying, 4 “Come up and help me.
We will attack Gibeon, because they have made peace with Joshua and the Israelites.” 5 So the five Amorite kings — the kings of Jerusalem, Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish, and Eglon — joined forces, advanced with all their armies, besieged Gibeon, and fought against it.
6 Then the men of Gibeon sent word to Joshua in the camp at Gilgal: “Don’t give up on † your servants. Come quickly and save us! Help us, for all the Amorite kings living in the hill country have joined forces against us.” 7 So Joshua and all his troops, including all his best soldiers, came from Gilgal. † 8 The LORD said to Joshua, “Do not be afraid of them, † for I have handed them over to you. † Not one of them will be able to stand against you.” † 9 So Joshua caught them by surprise, after marching all night from Gilgal.
10 The LORD threw them into confusion † before Israel. He defeated them in a great slaughter at Gibeon, chased them through the ascent of Beth-horon, and struck them down as far as Azekah and Makkedah. 11 As they fled before Israel, the LORD threw large hailstones on them † from the sky along the descent of Beth-horon all the way to Azekah, and they died. More of them died from the hail than the Israelites killed with the sword.

12 On the day the LORD gave the Amorites over to the Israelites, Joshua spoke to the LORD in the presence of Israel:

"Sun, † stand still over Gibeon, and moon, over the Valley of Aijalon."
13 And the sun stood still and the moon stopped until the nation took vengeance on its enemies.

Isn't this written in the Book of Jashar? †

So the sun stopped in the middle of the sky and delayed its setting almost a full day.

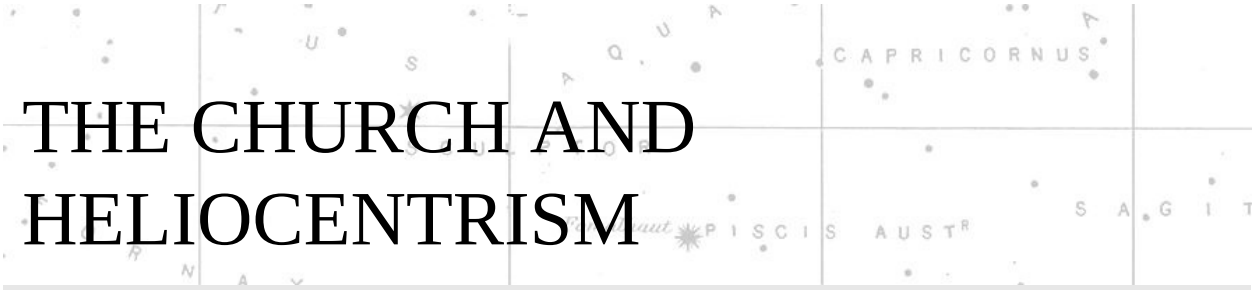
14 There has been no day like it before or since, when the LORD listened to a man, because the LORD fought for Israel. †



THE CHURCH AND HELIOCENTRISM

Contrary to widespread cultural myth, scientific theory and biblical interpretation have clashed in only two major, protracted ways. The first, the Copernican controversy, lasted almost two centuries and affected both Catholics and Protestants alike. The second, Darwinism, has also impacted all streams of Christianity since the publication of On the Origin of Species in 1859. This article concerns the history and lessons learned from the church's first debate over what appeared to be scientific undermining of the truth and authority of Scripture.

THE COPERNICAN REVOLUTION

On the Revolutions of the Celestial Spheres by Nicolaus Copernicus was published shortly before his death in 1543. The work ignited controversy because its sun-centered theory of the universe seemed to contradict not only the Bible but also science. The received astronomy in Europe understood a non-moving earth to be the orbital center of the universe; that had been the intellectual standard since the second century work of Claudius Ptolemy. But Copernicus, a devout Catholic, believed that heliocentrism provided a better explanation of planetary orbits than geocentrism.

Theologians were troubled that the Bible seemed to teach that heavenly bodies orbited a stationary earth. Joshua's famous "long day" was typically cited: "The sun stood still and the moon stopped until the nation took vengeance on its enemies. . . . the sun stopped in the middle of the sky and delayed its setting almost a full day" (Jos 10:13). Other biblical texts also appeared to teach geocentrism (Gn 15:12,17; 19:23; 28:11; Ex 17:12; 22:3,26; Lv 22:7 and many more).

Unsurprisingly, the heliocentrism of Copernicus was largely rejected at first as unscientific and unbiblical. Luther warned that the "fool will overturn the whole art of astronomy. But, as Holy Writ declares, Joshua commanded the sun to stand still and not the earth." Theologians and astronomers typically stood together in their dismissal of this new theory.

But despite initial resistance, the attraction of heliocentrism grew as a theory with better explanatory power. A generation later the greatest observational astronomer of the day, Tycho Brahe, died. He left his understudy, Johannes Kepler, a wealth of observational data, the best available before the invention of the telescope. Whereas Copernicus had retained the circular orbits of earlier astronomy, Tycho's data enabled Kepler to determine in 1605 the first law of planetary motion: planets move in ellipses with the sun at one focus. By 1609 and 1619 he had discovered and published the second and third planetary laws describing the ellipses mathematically. Kepler's work greatly strengthened the case for heliocentrism.

THE GENERATION AFTER COPERNICUS

These astronomers believed in the Bible. Nonetheless, this generation after Copernicus suffered much greater controversy over the new astronomy. Theologians often bitterly wrangled over its implications for the truthfulness of Scripture. Some astronomers, called "semi-Copernicans," attempted reconciliation between the older and newer theories. They postulated "hybrid solutions" such as having the earth rotate daily on its axis while other planets revolved around the sun which orbited the earth.

The low point of this second generation culminated in the Galileo affair. Galileo Galilei built a telescope and became the first to train it systematically on the heavens. In 1610, he published his discovery that Jupiter has four moons, refuting the notion that all heavenly spheres orbit the earth. Additionally, he revealed that Venus has a complete set of phases rather than the expected constant crescent phase predicted by geocentrism. Galileo's promotion of Copernicanism alarmed ecclesiastical authorities; they warned him that his view injured the holy faith by making the Scripture false.

Galileo responded by noting that Scripture was not wrong; rather, the geocentric interpretation of Scripture was wrong. He explained that not all of Scripture ought to be interpreted literally, lest Scripture be made to affirm untruths. (Israel as "a land flowing with milk and honey," for instance, is poetic language to be read as such.) In his important letter to the Grand Duchess Christina "concerning the use of biblical quotations in matters of science" (1615), Galileo wrote: "I think in the first place that it is very pious to say and prudent to affirm that the holy Bible can never speak untruth—whenever its true meaning is understood." He argued that the divinely inspired Bible was written to speak "to the capacities of the common people." But he stressed Scripture must be interpreted carefully or else it could be made to affirm obvious false propositions, contradictions, or even "grave heresies and follies."

Galileo's explanation did nothing to mitigate the controversy. Heliocentrism was condemned as a heresy in 1616 and books by Copernicus and Kepler were placed on the official index of prohibited books. Moreover, Galileo's continued advocacy of heliocentrism required him in 1633 to face examination by the Holy Office of the Inquisition in Rome. He was sentenced to indefinite imprisonment for spreading the heretical teaching that the earth orbits the sun.

ISAAC NEWTON AND THE WANING OF THE CONTROVERSY

Another generation would pass before the heliocentrism controversy began to wane. The 1687 publication of Isaac Newton's Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy sounded the death knell for geocentrism. His discoveries, which essentially ended major scientific discussion about the debate, were (1) the three laws of motion, (2) the theory of universal gravitation, and (3) demonstration that Kepler's three laws of planetary motion follow from points 1 and 2. Heliocentric orbits were now understood simply to be the result of the same mechanics operative on earth.

Even before 1687, the new astronomy was being widely taught and believed in Puritan New England.

Christian ministers played a primary role in propagating heliocentrism via scientific essays published in almanacs, the most widely circulated literary form of the period. A century and a half after the groundbreaking work of Copernicus, the scientific community and much of the American public believed heliocentrism without hesitation. By the middle of the eighteenth century, the exegetical skirmishes were fast dying out. The biblical passages that once were understood to teach geocentrism were now reinterpreted and understood in light of heliocentrism.

LOOKING BACK, LOOKING FORWARD

Criticism regarding the mistakes made by geocentric interpreters of the Bible after Copernicus now comes easily. But it must be remembered that the best science for more than a millennium taught an earth-centered view of the universe. Moreover, astronomical predictions made from this old astronomy were just as accurate as those based on the work of Copernicus. In addition, the church had never dealt with apparent conflict between accepted scientific theory and long-standing biblical interpretation. Even now, debate continues regarding the lessons learned from the heliocentrism debate.

For instance, many advocates are interpreting the Bible in light of the latest scientific theories. But the Copernicus controversy had as much to do with bad scientific theory as with biblical interpretation. The Bible was not corrected by science; rather, faulty biblical interpretation and faulty scientific theory were both corrected by truth.

Claims that the Bible and science have been at war ever since—and that Scripture keeps losing this battle—lack any historical basis. Only the Darwinian controversy has risen to the level of that first Bible versus science debate in its widespread and long lasting impact. Yet the heliocentrism issue is often presented as sufficient reason for accepting the total Neo-Darwinian package. In truth, creationists are justified in accepting natural selection as a mechanism for biological change while rejecting universal common descent—not to mention the inherent philosophical naturalism of orthodox Darwinism. The Copernican incident has nothing to teach about this issue other than the need for care in biblical interpretation and scientific theorizing.

LESSONS FOR TODAY

What are some legitimate lessons learned from the first great Bible versus science debate? First, Christians should feel no compulsion to abandon their confidence in the authority and complete truth of Scripture. Believers should hold fast to the Spirit-given conviction that no conflict exists between the truth of God's Word and his creation. But scientific and theological theories, though necessary, never enjoy this infallibility. Confidence in this basic principle provides believers with patience to wait on solutions when faced with apparent conflicts.

Wise believers also recognize that not all theological or scientific debates are equally important, in spite of the claims made by those involved. Some issues may not require believers to commit to a position until more truth comes to light, perhaps even in a generation to come. When an abundance of controversial, fluid "hybrid solutions" competes for allegiance, wisdom may dictate forestalling final commitment. Ultimately, discernment of the theological importance of a particular issue should prioritize one's commitments.

THEODORE J. CABAL

15 Then Joshua and all Israel with him returned to the camp at Gilgal.

EXECUTION OF THE FIVE KINGS

16 Now the five defeated kings had fled and hidden in the cave at Makkedah.
17 It was reported to Joshua: "The five kings have been found; they are hiding in the cave at Makkedah.” 18 Joshua said, “Roll large stones against the mouth of the cave, and station men by it to guard the kings. 19 But as for the rest of you, don’t stay there. Pursue your enemies and attack them from behind. Don’t let them enter their cities, for the LORD your God has handed them over to you.” 20 So Joshua and the Israelites finished inflicting a terrible slaughter on them until they were destroyed, although a few survivors ran away to the fortified cities. 21 The people returned safely to Joshua in the camp at Makkedah. And no one dared to threaten † the Israelites.

22 Then Joshua said, “Open the mouth of the cave, and bring those five kings to me out of there.” 23 That is what they did. They brought the five kings of Jerusalem, Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish, and Eglon to Joshua out of the cave.
24 When they had brought the kings to him, Joshua summoned all the men of Israel and said to the military commanders who had accompanied him, “Come here and put your feet on the necks of these kings.” So the commanders came forward and put their feet on their necks. 25 Joshua said to them, “Do not be afraid or discouraged. Be strong and courageous, † for the LORD will do this to all the enemies you fight.” 26 After this, Joshua struck them down and executed them. He hung † their bodies on five trees † and they were there until evening. † 27 At sunset Joshua commanded that they be taken down from the trees † and thrown into the cave where they had hidden. Then large stones were placed against the mouth of the cave, and the stones are still there today. †

CONQUEST OF SOUTHERN CITIES

28 On that day Joshua captured Makkedah and struck it down with the sword, including its king. He completely destroyed it † and everyone in it, leaving no survivors. So he treated the king of Makkedah as he had the king of Jericho. † 29 Joshua and all Israel with him † crossed from Makkedah to Libnah and fought against Libnah. † 30 The LORD also handed it and its king over to Israel.
He struck it down, putting everyone in it to the sword, and left no survivors in it.
He treated Libnah’s king as he had the king of Jericho.

31 From Libnah, Joshua and all Israel with him crossed to Lachish. They laid siege to it and attacked it. 32 The LORD handed Lachish over to Israel, and Joshua captured it on the second day. He struck it down, putting everyone in it to the sword, just as he had done to Libnah. 33 At that time King Horam of Gezer went to help Lachish, † but Joshua struck him down along with his people, leaving no survivors.
34 Then Joshua crossed from Lachish to Eglon and all Israel with him. They laid siege to it and attacked it. 35 On that day they captured it and struck it down, putting everyone in it to the sword. He completely destroyed it that day, just as he had done to Lachish.
36 Next, Joshua and all Israel with him went up from Eglon to Hebron † and attacked it. 37 They captured it and struck down its king, all its villages, and everyone in it with the sword. He left no survivors, just as he had done at Eglon.
He completely destroyed Hebron and everyone in it.
38 Finally, Joshua turned toward Debir † and attacked it. And all Israel was with him. 39 He captured it — its king and all its villages. They struck them down with the sword and completely destroyed everyone in it, leaving no survivors.
He treated Debir and its king as he had treated Hebron and as he had treated Libnah and its king.
40 So Joshua conquered the whole region † — the hill country, the Negev, the Judean foothills, † and the slopes — with all their kings, leaving no survivors.
He completely destroyed every living being, as the LORD, the God of Israel, had commanded. † 41 Joshua conquered everyone from Kadesh-barnea to Gaza, and all the land of Goshen † as far as Gibeon. 42 Joshua captured all these kings and their land in one campaign, † because the LORD, the God of Israel, fought for Israel. † 43 Then Joshua returned with all Israel to the camp at Gilgal.

10:1-7 Five Amorite kings joined forces (see also 9:1-2) to attack Gibeon, which they knew had made a treaty with Israel (see also 9:15). The Gibeonites naturally appealed to the Israelites for aid (v. 6), and Joshua and all his troops responded.

10:8-15 The Lord assured Joshua of victory over these Amorite kings (see also 6:2; 8:1) and fought for Israel by throwing their enemies into confusion and casting large hailstones on them from the sky. The mention of the sun and moon standing still has challenged interpreters and has been taken in various ways; perhaps it was a fully supernatural event, a solar eclipse, or a poetic description of a normal day. The Book of Jashar is only mentioned once elsewhere in 2 Samuel 1:18 and apparently was a contemporaneous extrabiblical work that is no longer in existence (see also the note on Nm 21:14).

10:26-27 Regarding the taking down of the bodies at sunset, see the note on 8:29.

10:40-43 Just as God had fought for Israel against five Amorite kings (v. 14), so he fought against other kings in the hill country, the Negev, the Judean foothills, and the slopes. The biblical text emphasizes that it was God who gave Israel these victories (see vv. 30,32).

CONQUEST OF NORTHERN CITIES

11 When King Jabin of Hazor heard this news, he sent a message to: King Jobab of Madon, the kings of Shimron and Achshaph, 2 and the kings of the north in the hill country, the Arabah south of Chinnereth, † the Judean foothills, † and the Slopes of Dor † to the west, 3 the Canaanites in the east and west, the Amorites, Hethites, Perizzites, and Jebusites in the hill country, and the Hivites at the foot of Hermon in the land of Mizpah. † 4 They went out with all their armies — a multitude as numerous as the sand on the seashore † — along with a vast number of horses and chariots. 5 All these kings joined forces; they came and camped together at the Waters of Merom to attack Israel. †
6 The LORD said to Joshua, “Do not be afraid of them, for at this time tomorrow I will cause all of them to be killed before Israel. † You are to hamstring their horses and burn their chariots.” † 7 So Joshua and all his troops surprised them at the Waters of Merom and attacked them. 8 The LORD handed them over to Israel, and they struck them down, pursuing them as far as greater Sidon and Misrephoth-maim, and to the east as far as the Valley of Mizpeh. † They struck them down, leaving no survivors. † 9 Joshua treated them as the LORD had told him; he hamstrung their horses and burned their chariots.
10 At that time Joshua turned back, captured Hazor, and struck down its king with the sword, because Hazor had formerly been the leader of all these kingdoms. 11 They struck down everyone in it with the sword, completely destroying † them; he left no one alive. Then he burned Hazor.

12 Joshua captured all these kings and their cities and struck them down with the sword. He completely destroyed them, as Moses the LORD's servant † had commanded. 13 However, Israel did not burn any of the cities that stood on their mounds except Hazor, which Joshua burned. 14 The Israelites plundered all the spoils and cattle of these cities for themselves. But they struck down every person with the sword until they had annihilated them, leaving no one alive. 15 Just as the LORD had commanded his servant Moses, Moses commanded Joshua. That is what Joshua did, leaving nothing undone of all that the LORD had commanded Moses.

SUMMARY OF CONQUESTS

16 So Joshua took all this land — the hill country, all the Negev, all the land of Goshen, † the foothills, the Arabah, and the hill country of Israel with its foothills — 17 from Mount Halak, † which ascends to Seir, as far as Baal-gad in the Valley of Lebanon at the foot of Mount Hermon. He captured all their kings and struck them down, putting them to death. † 18 Joshua waged war with all these kings for a long time. 19 No city made peace with the Israelites except the Hivites who inhabited Gibeon; † all of them were taken in battle. 20 For it was the LORD's intention to harden their hearts, † so that they would engage Israel in battle, be completely destroyed without mercy, and be annihilated, just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

21 At that time Joshua proceeded to exterminate the Anakim † from the hill country — Hebron, Debir, Anab — all the hill country of Judah and of Israel. Joshua completely destroyed them with their cities. 22 No Anakim were left in the land of the Israelites, except for some remaining in Gaza, Gath, † and Ashdod.
23 So Joshua took the entire land, in keeping with all that the LORD had told Moses. Joshua then gave it as an inheritance to Israel according to their tribal allotments. After this, the land had rest from war. †

11:1-9 Led by Jabin king of Hazor, another coalition of kings waged war against Israel (see 10:1-5), and their armies were a multitude as numerous as the sand on the seashore. Yet again, God encouraged Joshua not to be afraid and assured him of victory. Indeed, the LORD handed [the enemies] over to Israel, and Joshua did to them as God instructed (vv. 6,9; see also vv. 11-15).

11:19-20 With the exception of the Gibeonites, the inhabitants of the promised land fought against Joshua because it was the LORD's intention to harden their hearts unto their own destruction (see also Ex 7:3-5; Dt 7:1-2).

11:23 The statement that Joshua took the entire land should probably be understood as referring to those cities mentioned previously and in 12:1-24 because God would say to Joshua in his old age that "a great deal of the land remains to be possessed" (13:1; see also 13:2-6; 11:22). The taking of the land mentioned here is related to its distribution as an inheritance to Israel (see also 13:6–19:51).

TERRITORY EAST OF THE JORDAN

12 The Israelites struck down the following kings of the land and took possession of their land beyond the Jordan to the east and from the Arnon River to Mount Hermon, including all the Arabah eastward: †

2 King Sihon of the Amorites lived in Heshbon. He ruled from Aroer † on the rim of the Arnon River, along the middle of the valley, and half of Gilead up to the Jabbok River (the border of the Ammonites †), 3 the Arabah east of the Sea of Chinnereth to the Sea of Arabah (that is, the Dead Sea), eastward through Beth-jeshimoth † and southward † below the slopes of Pisgah. †

4 King Og † of Bashan, of the remnant of the Rephaim, lived in Ashtaroth and Edrei. † 5 He ruled over Mount Hermon, Salecah, all Bashan up to the Geshurite and Maacathite border, and half of Gilead to the border of King Sihon of Heshbon. † 6 Moses the LORD's servant † and the Israelites struck them † down. And Moses the LORD's servant gave their land as an inheritance to the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh. †

TERRITORY WEST OF THE JORDAN

7 Joshua and the Israelites struck down the following kings of the land beyond the Jordan to the west, from Baal-gad in the Valley of Lebanon to Mount Halak, † which ascends toward Seir (Joshua gave their land as an inheritance to the tribes of Israel according to their allotments: 8 the hill country, the Judean

12:1 In keeping with the summarizing nature of 11:16-23, this chapter lists the kings defeated by Israel, starting with those east of the Jordan (vv. 1-5).

12:6-8 Moses had led the victories over Sihon and Og and oversaw the giving of their land to Reuben, Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh (see Nm 32), whereas Joshua had led Israel during their victories over kings west of the Jordan.

12:9-24 Many of these conquered kings were mentioned in the preceding narrative, though not all of them.

UNCONQUERED LANDS

13 Joshua was now old, advanced in age, † and the LORD said to him, "You have become old, advanced in age, but a great deal of the land remains to be possessed. † 2 This is the land that remains:
All the districts of the Philistines and the Geshurites: 3 from the Shihor east of Egypt to the border of Ekron on the north (considered to be Canaanite territory) — the five Philistine rulers of Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath, and Ekron, as well as the Avvites 4 in the south; all the land of the Canaanites, from Arah of the Sidonians to Aphek and as far as the border of the Amorites; 5 the land of the Gebalites; † and all Lebanon east from Baal-gad below Mount Hermon to the entrance of Hamath † † — 6 all the inhabitants of the hill country from Lebanon to Misrephoth-maim, † all the Sidonians.
I will drive them out before the Israelites, only distribute the land as an inheritance for Israel, as I have commanded you. 7 Therefore, divide this land as an inheritance to the nine tribes and half the tribe of Manasseh."

THE INHERITANCE EAST OF THE JORDAN

8 With the other half of the tribe of Manasseh, the Reubenites and Gadites had received the inheritance Moses gave them beyond the Jordan to the east, just as Moses the LORD's servant had given them: †

9 From Aroer on the rim of the Arnon Valley, along with the city in the middle of the valley, † all the Medeba plateau as far as Dibon, 10 and all the cities of King Sihon of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, to the border of the Ammonites; 11 also Gilead † and the territory of the Geshurites and Maacathites, all Mount Hermon, and all Bashan to Salecah — 12 the whole kingdom of Og in Bashan, who reigned in Ashtaroth and Edrei; he was one of the remaining Rephaim.
Moses struck them down and drove them out, † 13 but the Israelites did not drive out the Geshurites and Maacathites. † So Geshur and Maacath still live in Israel today. † 14 He did not, however, give any inheritance to the tribe of Levi. This was their inheritance, just as he had promised: the offerings made by fire to the LORD, the God of Israel. †

REUBEN'S INHERITANCE

15 To the tribe of Reuben's descendants by their clans, Moses gave 16 this as their territory:
From Aroer on the rim of the Arnon Valley, along with the city in the middle of the valley, the whole plateau as far as † Medeba, 17 with Heshbon and all its cities on the plateau — Dibon, Bamoth-baal, Beth-baal-meon, 18 Jahaz, Kedemoth, Mephaath, † 19 Kiriathaim, Sibmah, Zereth-shahar on the hill in the valley, † 20 Beth-peor, the slopes of Pisgah, and Beth-jeshimoth — 21 all the cities of the plateau, and all the kingdom of King Sihon of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon. Moses had killed him and the chiefs of Midian — Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba — the princes of Sihon who lived in the land. † 22 Along with those the Israelites put to death, they also killed the diviner, Balaam son of Beor, with the sword.
23 The border of the Reubenites was the Jordan and its plain. This was the inheritance of the Reubenites by their clans, with the cities and their settlements.

GAD'S INHERITANCE

24 To the tribe of the Gadites by their clans, Moses gave 25 this as their territory:
Jazer and all the cities of Gilead, and half the land of the Ammonites to Aroer, near Rabbah; 26 from Heshbon to Ramath-mizpeh and Betonim, and from Mahanaim to the border of Debir; † 27 in the valley: Beth-haram, Beth-nimrah, Succoth, and Zaphon — the rest of the kingdom of King Sihon of Heshbon. Their land also included the Jordan and its territory as far as the edge of the Sea of Chinnereth on the east side of the Jordan. † 28 This was the inheritance of the Gadites by their clans, with the cities and their settlements.

EAST MANASSEH'S INHERITANCE

29 And to half the tribe of Manasseh (that is, to half the tribe of Manasseh's descendants by their clans) Moses gave 30 this as their territory:
From Mahanaim through all Bashan — all the kingdom of King Og of Bashan, including all of Jair's Villages † † that are in Bashan — sixty cities. 31 But half of Gilead, and Og's royal cities in Bashan — Ashtaroth and Edrei — are for the descendants of Machir son of Manasseh (that is, half the descendants of Machir by their clans).
32 These were the portions Moses gave them on the plains of Moab beyond the Jordan east of Jericho. 33 But Moses did not give a portion to the tribe of Levi. The LORD, the God of Israel, was their inheritance, just as he had promised them. †

13:1 Though his exact age is uncertain, the narrative mentions that Joshua was now old, advanced in age (see also 23:1-2). He had led Israel's earlier battle against the Amalekites (Ex 17:9-13) and spent forty years in the desert. Based on Caleb's words in 14:7-10, the conquest of the promised land had taken about five years. Despite Israel's many victories (see 11:16–12:24), "a great deal of the land remains to be possessed" (v.1; see also vv. 2-6). This may be in keeping with what God had said earlier about not driving out all of the peoples at once (Ex 23:29-30; Dt 7:22).

13:7 Since Reuben, Gad, and half of the tribe of Manasseh received their allotments of land on the east side of the Jordan (vv. 8-12), this left nine and a half tribes to inherit land to its west.

13:13 The Israelites' failure to drive out the Geshurites and Maacathites from their land mirrors their failure to drive out inhabitants of other parts of their land (see 15:63; 16:10; 17:12-13; Jdg 1:19-21,27-36). They had completely destroyed some cities previously (see 11:11-15), but their failure to do so on other occasions was in disobedience to Deuteronomy 7:1-5 and foreshadowed their eventual idolatry (see Jdg 3:5-7).

13:15-32 These lands east of the Jordan had been given by Moses (vv. 15,24,29,32) to Reuben, Gad, and half of the tribe of Manasseh.

ISRAEL'S INHERITANCE IN CANAAN

14 The Israelites received these portions that the priest Eleazar, † Joshua son of Nun, and the family heads of the Israelite tribes gave them in the land of Canaan. † 2 Their inheritance was by lot † as the LORD commanded through Moses for the nine and a half tribes, 3 because Moses had given the inheritance to the two and a half tribes beyond the Jordan. But he gave no inheritance among them to the Levites. 4 The descendants of Joseph became two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim. No portion of the land was given to the Levites except cities to live in, along with pasturelands for their cattle and livestock.
5 So the Israelites did as the LORD commanded Moses, † and they divided the land.

CALEB'S INHERITANCE

6 The descendants of Judah approached Joshua at Gilgal, and Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite said to him, "You know what the LORD promised Moses the man of God at Kadesh-barnea about you and me. † 7 I was forty years old when Moses the LORD's servant sent me from Kadesh-barnea to scout the land, and I brought back an honest report. † 8 My brothers who went with me caused the people to lose heart, † but I followed the LORD my God completely. † 9 On that day Moses swore to me: 'The land where you have set foot will be an inheritance for you and your descendants forever, because you have followed the LORD my God completely.' † 10 "As you see, the LORD has kept me alive these forty-five years as he promised, † since the LORD spoke this word to Moses while Israel was journeying in the wilderness. Here I am today, eighty-five years old. 11 I am still as strong today as I was the day Moses sent me out. My strength for battle and for daily tasks † is now as it was then. † 12 Now give me this hill country the LORD promised me on that day, because you heard then that the Anakim are there, † as well as large fortified cities. † Perhaps the LORD will be with me and I will drive them out as the LORD promised."

13 Then Joshua blessed Caleb son of Jephunneh and gave him Hebron as an inheritance. † 14 Therefore, Hebron still belongs to Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite as an inheritance today † because he followed the LORD, the God of Israel, completely. 15 Hebron's name used to be Kiriath-arba; Arba was the greatest man among the Anakim. † After this, the land had rest from war. †

14:2 As God commanded, the land was distributed by lot (see Nm 26:55-56; 33:54).

14:3-4 For a third time in this context (see 13:14,33; 18:7), the biblical text reminds the reader the Levites did not receive any land inheritance (see the note on Nm 18:1-24). The command to give some cities and pasturelands to Levi's descendants was given in Numbers 35:1-8 and is carried out in Joshua 21.

14:6-15 The giving of Hebron to Caleb (vv. 13-15) not only fulfilled Moses's promise to give him a portion of land as an inheritance (see also Nm 14:24) but also serves as a reminder of his example of faith and loyalty to God, in stark contrast to that of the previous generation of Israelites. The aging Caleb's continuing faith, demonstrated through his confidence that God could help him drive out the fearsome Anakites (v. 12; 15:14; see also Nm 13:28,33; Dt 1:28; 2:21), contrasted with the current generation's difficulty driving out certain inhabitants of the land (see the note on 13:13; 17:16). See "A Biblical View of Retirement," p. 175.

JUDAH'S INHERITANCE

15 Now the allotment for the tribe of the descendants of Judah by their clans † was in the southernmost region, south to the Wilderness of Zin and over to the border of Edom.
2 Their southern border began at the tip of the Dead Sea on the south bay † 3 and went south of the Scorpions' Ascent, † proceeded to Zin, ascended to the south of Kadesh-barnea, passed Hezron, ascended to Addar, and turned to Karka. 4 It proceeded to Azmon and to the Brook of Egypt † and so the border ended at the Mediterranean Sea. This is your † southern border.
5 Now the eastern border was along the Dead Sea to the mouth of the Jordan.
The border on the north side was from the bay of the sea at the mouth of the Jordan. 6 It ascended to Beth-hoglah, proceeded north of Beth-arabah, and ascended to the Stone of Bohan son of Reuben. 7 Then the border ascended to Debir from the Valley of Achor, turning north to the Gilgal that is opposite the Ascent of Adummim, which is south of the ravine. The border proceeded to the Waters of En-shemesh and ended at En-rogel. 8 From there the border ascended Ben Hinnom Valley to the southern Jebusite slope (that is, Jerusalem) and ascended to the top of the hill that faces Hinnom Valley on the west, at the northern end of Rephaim Valley. 9 From the top of the hill the border curved to the spring of the Waters of Nephtoah, went to the cities of Mount Ephron, and then curved to Baalah (that is, Kiriath-jearim †). 10 The border turned westward from Baalah to Mount Seir, went to the northern slope of Mount Jearim (that is, Chesalon), descended to Beth-shemesh, and proceeded to Timnah. † 11 Then the border reached to the slope north of Ekron, curved to Shikkeron, proceeded to Mount Baalah, went to Jabneel, and ended at the Mediterranean Sea.

12 Now the western border was the coastline of the Mediterranean Sea.
This was the boundary of the descendants of Judah around their clans.

CALEB AND OTHNIEL

13 He gave Caleb son of Jephunneh the following portion among the descendants of Judah based on the LORD's instruction to Joshua: Kiriath-arba (that is, Hebron; Arba was the father of Anak). 14 Caleb drove out from there the three sons of Anak: Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai, descendants of Anak. † 15 From there he marched against the inhabitants of Debir, which used to be called Kiriath-sepher, † 16 and Caleb said, "Whoever attacks and captures Kiriath-sepher, I will give my daughter Achsah to him as a wife." 17 So Othniel † son of Caleb's brother, Kenaz, captured it, and Caleb gave his daughter Achsah to him as a wife. † 18 When she arrived, she persuaded Othniel to ask her father for a field. As she got off her donkey, Caleb asked her, "What can I do for you?" 19 She replied, "Give me a blessing. Since you have given me land in the Negev, give me the springs also." So he gave her the upper and lower springs.

JUDAH'S CITIES

20 This was the inheritance of the tribe of the descendants of Judah by their clans.
21 These were the outermost cities of the tribe of the descendants of Judah toward the border of Edom in the Negev: Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur, † 22 Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah, [23] Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan, [24] Ziph, Telem, Bealoth, [25] Hazor-hadattah, Kerioth-hezron (that is, Hazor), [26] Amam, Shema, Moladah, [27] Hazar-gaddah, Heshmon, Beth-pelet, [28] Hazar-shual, Beer-sheba, Biziothiah, † [29] Baalah, Iim, Ezem, [30] Eltolad, Chesil, Hormah, [31] Ziklag, Madmannah, Sansannah, † [32] Lebaoth, Shilhim, Ain, and Rimmon — twenty-nine cities in all, with their settlements.

[33] In the Judean foothills: † Eshtaol, Zorah, Ashnah, [34] Zanoah, En-gannim, Tappuah, † Enam, [35] Jarmuth, Adullam, † Socoh, † Azekah, [36] Shaaraim, Adithaim, Gederah, and Gederothaim — fourteen cities, with their settlements; [37] Zenan, Hadashah, Migdal-gad, [38] Dilan, Mizpeh, Jokthe-el, [39] Lachish, Bozkath, Eglon, [40] Cabbon, Lahmam, Chitlish, [41] Gederoth, Beth-dagon, Naamah, and Makkedah — sixteen cities, with their settlements; [42] Libnah, Ether, Ashan, [43] Iphtah, Ashnah, Nezib, [44] Keilah, Achzib, and Mareshah — nine cities, with their settlements; [45] Ekron, with its surrounding villages and settlements; [46] from Ekron to the sea, all the cities near Ashdod, with their settlements; [47] Ashdod, with its surrounding villages and settlements; Gaza, with its surrounding villages and settlements, to the Brook of Egypt and the coastline of the Mediterranean Sea.

[48] In the hill country: Shamir, Jattir, Socoh, [49] Dannah, Kiriath-sannah (that is, Debir), [50] Anab, Eshtemoh, Anim, [51] Goshen, Holon, and Giloh — eleven cities, with their settlements; [52] Arab, Dumah, † Eshan, [53] Janim, Beth-tappuah, Aphekah, [54] Humtah, Kiriath-arba (that is, Hebron), and Zior — nine cities, with their settlements; [55] Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttah, [56] Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah, [57] Kain, Gibeah, and Timnah — ten cities, with their settlements; [58] Halhul, Beth-zur, Gedor, [59] Maarath, Beth-anoth, and Eltekon — six cities, with their settlements; † [60] Kiriath-baal (that is, Kiriath-jearim), and Rabbah — two cities, with their settlements.

[61] In the wilderness: Beth-arabah, Middin, Secacah, [62] Nibshan, the City of Salt, † and En-gedi — six cities, with their settlements.

[63] But the descendants of Judah could not drive out the Jebusites who lived in Jerusalem. † So the Jebusites still live in Jerusalem among the descendants of Judah today. †

15:1 The allotments of land portions west of the Jordan begin to be described here, starting with Judah (see also 14:2).

15:14 Caleb was from the tribe of Judah (see Nm 13:6) and drove out the Anakites, just as he believed God would help him to do (see 14:12). The Israelites had expressed great fear of them on previous occasions (see Nm 13:28,33; Dt 1:28; 2:21).

15:15-19 This incident is also recounted in Judges 1:11-15. This Othniel would later become a judge in Israel (Jdg 3:9-11).

15:63 Although Israel had killed the king of Jerusalem and defeated his army (see chap. 10), Judah—Israel's leading tribe (see Nm 7:12; 26:22)—was unable to capture the city. This failure to complete their portion of the conquest did not bode well for Judah or for the nation (see also the note on 13:13; Jdg 19:10-12).

JOSEPH'S INHERITANCE

16 The allotment for the descendants of Joseph went from the Jordan at Jericho to the Waters of Jericho on the east, through the wilderness † ascending from Jericho into the hill country of Bethel. 2 From Bethel it went to Luz and proceeded to the border of the Archites by Ataroth. † 3 It then descended westward to the border of the Japhletites as far as the border of lower Beth-horon, then to Gezer, † and ended at the Mediterranean Sea. 4 So Ephraim and Manasseh, the sons of Joseph, † received their inheritance. †

EPHRAIM'S INHERITANCE

5 This was the territory of the descendants of Ephraim by their clans:
The border of their inheritance went from Ataroth-addar † on the east to Upper Beth-horon. 6 In the north the border went westward from Michmethath; † it turned eastward from Taanath-shiloh and passed it east of Janoah. 7 From Janoah it descended to Ataroth and Naarah, † and then reached Jericho and went to the Jordan. 8 From Tappuah the border went westward along the Brook of Kanah and ended at the Mediterranean Sea. †

This was the inheritance of the tribe of the descendants of Ephraim by their clans, together with [9] the cities set apart for the descendants of Ephraim within the inheritance of the descendants of Manasseh — all these cities with their settlements. [10] However, they did not drive out the Canaanites who lived in Gezer. † So the Canaanites still live in Ephraim today, † but they are forced laborers.

16:10 Like Judah (see 15:63), Ephraim did not drive out all of the Canaanites from their allotment of land either (see also the note on 13:13).

WEST MANASSEH'S INHERITANCE

17 This was the allotment for the tribe of Manasseh † as Joseph's firstborn. Gilead and Bashan were given to Machir, the firstborn of Manasseh and the father of Gilead, because he was a man of war. † [2] So the allotment was for the rest of Manasseh's descendants by their clans, for the sons of Abiezer, Helek, Asriel, Shechem, Hepher, and Shemida. These are the male descendants of Manasseh son of Joseph, by their clans.

[3] Now Zelophehad son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons, only daughters. These are the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. † [4] They came before the priest Eleazar, Joshua son of Nun, and the leaders, saying, "The LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our male relatives." So they gave them an inheritance among their father's brothers, in keeping with the LORD's instruction. † [5] As a result, ten tracts fell to Manasseh, besides the land of Gilead and Bashan, which are beyond the Jordan, † [6] because Manasseh's daughters received an inheritance among his sons. The land of Gilead belonged to the rest of Manasseh's sons.

[7] The border of Manasseh went from Asher to Michmethath near Shechem. It then went southward toward the inhabitants of En-tappuah. [8] The region of Tappuah belonged to Manasseh, but Tappuah itself on Manasseh's border † belonged to the descendants of Ephraim. [9] From there the border descended to the Brook of Kanah; south of the brook, cities belonged to Ephraim among Manasseh's cities. Manasseh's border was on the north side of the brook and ended at the Mediterranean Sea. 10 Ephraim's territory was to the south and Manasseh's to the north, with the Sea as its border. They reached Asher on the north and Issachar on the east. 11 Within Issachar and Asher, Manasseh had Beth-shean, Ibleam, and the inhabitants of Dor with their surrounding villages; † the inhabitants of En-dor, Taanach, and Megiddo — the three cities of † Naphath — with their surrounding villages. †

12 The descendants of Manasseh could not possess these cities, because the Canaanites were determined to stay in this land. 13 However, when the Israelites grew stronger, they imposed forced labor on the Canaanites but did not drive them out completely. †

JOSEPH'S ADDITIONAL INHERITANCE

14 Joseph's descendants said to Joshua, "Why did you give us only one tribal allotment † as an inheritance? We have many people, because the LORD has been blessing us greatly."
15 "If you have so many people," Joshua replied to them, "go to the forest and clear an area for yourselves there in the land of the Perizzites and the Rephaim, because Ephraim's hill country is too small for you."
16 But the descendants of Joseph said, "The hill country is not enough for us, and all the Canaanites who inhabit the valley area have iron chariots, both at Beth-shean with its surrounding villages and in the Jezreel Valley."
17 So Joshua replied to Joseph's family (that is, Ephraim and Manasseh), "You have many people and great strength. You will not have just one allotment, 18 because the hill country will be yours also. It is a forest; clear it and its outlying areas will be yours. You can also drive out the Canaanites, even though they have iron chariots and are strong."

17:3-6 For more on Zelophehad's daughters, see Numbers 27:1-11 and 36:1-12.

17:12-13 Yet another tribe failed to drive out all of the Canaanites from their portion of land (see 15:63; 16:10). The failures of Judah, Ephraim, and Manasseh foreshadow the disaster that is to come in Judges when Israel was alternatively oppressed and negatively influenced by their neighbors (see the note on 13:13).

17:16-18 Ephraim and Manasseh's reluctance to challenge the iron chariots of the Canaanites in the valley area (see also Jdg 1:19) contrasts with Caleb's courage before the Anakites (14:21; 15:14) and is met with an exhortation from Joshua. God had commanded Israel to drive out all the inhabitants of the land and had promised to help them to do so (Dt 7:1-5,17-26).

LAND DISTRIBUTION AT SHILOH

18 The entire Israelite community assembled at Shiloh † and set up the tent of meeting there. The land had been subdued before them, 2 but seven tribes among the Israelites were left who had not divided up their inheritance. 3 So Joshua asked the Israelites, “How long will you delay going out to take possession of the land that the LORD, the God of your fathers, gave you? † 4 Appoint for yourselves three men from each tribe, and I will send them out. They are to go and survey the land, write a description of it for the purpose of their inheritance, and return to me. 5 Then they are to divide it into seven portions. Judah is to remain in its territory in the south and Joseph’s family in their territory in the north. † 6 When you have written a description of the seven portions of land and brought it to me, I will cast lots † for you here in the presence of the LORD our God. † 7 But the Levites among you do not get a portion, because their inheritance is the priesthood of the LORD. † Gad, Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh have taken their inheritance beyond the Jordan to the east, which Moses the LORD’s servant gave them.” 8 As the men prepared to go, Joshua commanded them † to write down a description of the land, saying, “Go and survey the land, write a description of it, and return to me. I will then cast lots for you here in Shiloh in the presence of the LORD.” 9 So the men left, went through the land, and described it by towns in a document of seven sections. They returned to Joshua at the camp in Shiloh.
10 Joshua cast lots for them at Shiloh in the presence of the LORD where he distributed the land to the Israelites according to their divisions.

BENJAMIN’S INHERITANCE

11 The lot came up for the tribe of Benjamin’s descendants by their clans, and their allotted territory lay between Judah’s descendants and Joseph’s descendants.
12 Their border on the north side began at the Jordan, ascended to the slope of Jericho on the north, through the hill country westward, and ended at the wilderness around Beth-aven. † 13 From there the border went toward Luz, to the southern slope of Luz (that is, Bethel); it then went down by Ataroth-addar, over the hill south of Lower Beth-horon. † 14 On the west side, from the hill facing Beth-horon on the south, the border curved, turning southward, and ended at Kiriath-baal (that is, Kiriath-jearim), a city of the descendants of Judah. This was the west side of their border.

15 The south side began at the edge of Kiriath-jearim, and the border extended westward; it went to the spring at the Waters of Nephtoah. 16 The border descended to the foot of the hill that faces Ben Hinnom Valley at the northern end of Rephaim Valley. It ran down Hinnom Valley toward the south Jebusite slope and downward to En-rogel. 17 It curved northward and went to En-shemesh and on to Geliloth, which is opposite the Ascent of Adummim, and continued down to the Stone of Bohan † son of Reuben. 18 Then it went north to the slope opposite the Arabah † and proceeded into the plains. † 19 The border continued to the north slope of Beth-hoglah and ended at the northern bay of the Dead Sea, at the southern end of the Jordan. This was the southern border.
20 The Jordan formed the border on the east side.
This was the inheritance of Benjamin's descendants, by their clans, according to its surrounding borders.

BENJAMIN'S CITIES

21 These were the cities of the tribe of Benjamin's descendants by their clans:
Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz, 22 Beth-arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel, 23 Avvim, Parah, Ophrah, 24 Chephar-ammoni, Ophni, and Geba — twelve cities, with their settlements; 25 Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth, 26 Mizpeh, Chephirah, Mozah, 27 Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah, 28 Zela, Haeleph, Jebus † (that is, Jerusalem), Gibeah, and Kiriath † — fourteen cities, with their settlements.
This was the inheritance for Benjamin's descendants by their clans.

18:1-6 Judah, Ephraim, and Manasseh had taken possession of their land, but seven tribes still remained who had not divided up their inheritance. They had unnecessarily delayed taking possession of their territories, and Joshua instructed them to send representatives to survey the land so that it could be divided among them by lot. The placement of the tabernacle at Shiloh (vv. 1,8-10) during this era is also mentioned in other passages (e.g., 21:1-2; Jdg 18:31; 21:19; 1Sm 1:3,24; 4:3; Jr 7:12).

SIMEON'S INHERITANCE

19 The second lot came out for Simeon, for the tribe of his descendants by their clans, but their inheritance was within the inheritance given to Judah's descendants. 2 Their inheritance included Beer-sheba (or Sheba †), Moladah, 3 Hazar-shual, Balah, Ezem, 4 Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah, 5 Ziklag, Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah, 6 Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen — thirteen cities, with their settlements; 7 Ain, Rimmon, Ether, and Ashan — four cities, with their settlements; 8 and all the settlements surrounding these cities as far as Baalath-beer (Ramah in the south †).
This was the inheritance of the tribe of Simeon's descendants by their clans. 9 The inheritance of Simeon's descendants was within the territory of Judah's descendants, because the share for Judah's descendants was too large. So Simeon's descendants received an inheritance within Judah's portion.

ZEBULUN'S INHERITANCE

10 The third lot came up for Zebulun's descendants by their clans.
The territory of their inheritance stretched as far as Sarid; 11 their border went up westward to Maralah, reached Dabbesheth, and met the brook east of Jokneam. 12 From Sarid, it turned due east along the border of Chisloth-tabor, went to Daberath, and went up to Japhia. 13 From there, it went due east to Gath-hepher and to Eth-kazin; it extended to Rimmon, curving around to Neah. 14 The border then circled around Neah on the north to Hannathon and ended at Iphtah-el Valley, 15 along with Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Idalah, and Bethlehem — twelve cities, with their settlements.
16 This was the inheritance of Zebulun's descendants by their clans, these cities, with their settlements.

ISSACHAR'S INHERITANCE

17 The fourth lot came out for the tribe of Issachar's descendants by their clans.
18 Their territory went to Jezreel, and included Chesulloth, Shunem, †
19 Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath, 20 Rabbith, Kishion, Ebez, 21 Remeth, En-gannim, En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez. 22 The border reached Tabor, Shahazumah, and Beth-shemesh, and ended at the Jordan — sixteen cities, with their settlements.

23 This was the inheritance of the tribe of Issachar's descendants by their clans, the cities, with their settlements.

ASHER'S INHERITANCE

24 The fifth lot came out for the tribe of Asher's descendants by their clans.
25 Their boundary included Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, 26 Allammelech, Amad, and Mishal and reached westward to Carmel and Shihor-libnath. 27 It turned eastward to Beth-dagon, reached Zebulun and Iphtah-el Valley, north toward Beth-emek and Neiel, and went north to Cabul, † 28 Ebron, Rehob, Hammon, and Kanah, as far as greater Sidon. 29 The boundary then turned to Ramah as far as the fortified city of Tyre; it turned back to Hosah and ended at the Mediterranean Sea, including Mahalab, Achzib, † 30 Ummah, Aphek, and Rehob — twenty-two cities, with their settlements.
31 This was the inheritance of the tribe of Asher's descendants by their clans, these cities with their settlements.

NAPHTALI'S INHERITANCE

32 The sixth lot came out for Naphtali's descendants by their clans.
33 Their boundary went from Heleph and from the oak in Zaanannim, including Adami-nekeb and Jabneel, as far as Lakkum, and ended at the Jordan. 34 To the west, the boundary turned to Aznoth-tabor and went from there to Hukkok, reaching Zebulun on the south, Asher on the west, and Judah † at the Jordan on the east. 35 The fortified cities were Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth, 36 Adamah, Ramah, Hazor, 37 Kedesh, Edrei, En-hazor, 38 Iron, Migdal-el, Horem, Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh — nineteen cities, with their settlements.
39 This was the inheritance of the tribe of Naphtali's descendants by their clans, the cities with their settlements.

DAN'S INHERITANCE

40 The seventh lot came out for the tribe of Dan's descendants by their clans.
41 The territory of their inheritance included Zorah, Eshtaol, Ir-shemesh, 42 Shaalabbin, Aijalon, † Ithlah, 43 Elon, Timnah, Ekron, 44 Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath, 45 Jehud, Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon, 46 Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the territory facing Joppa. †

47 When the territory of the descendants of Dan slipped out of their control, they went up and fought against Leshem, captured it, and struck it down with the sword. So they took possession of it, lived there, and renamed Leshem after their ancestor Dan. † 48 This was the inheritance of the tribe of Dan's descendants by their clans, these cities with their settlements.

JOSHUA'S INHERITANCE

49 When they had finished distributing the land into its territories, the Israelites gave Joshua son of Nun an inheritance among them. 50 By the LORD's command, they gave him the city Timnath-serah in the hill country of Ephraim, † which he requested. He rebuilt the city and lived in it.

51 These were the portions that the priest Eleazar, Joshua son of Nun, and the family heads distributed to the Israelite tribes by lot at Shiloh in the LORD's presence at the entrance to the tent of meeting. † So they finished dividing up the land.

19:1,9 Simeon's inheritance had no boundaries since it was within the inheritance given to Judah's descendants. This may be a fulfillment of what was said about their forefather (and Levi) in Genesis 49:7. Simeon is also the only tribe omitted from Moses's blessing of the tribes of Israel in Deuteronomy 33. Simeon is, however, mentioned in Rv 7:5-8, whereas Dan is omitted.

19:49-50 Just as Caleb had received a portion of land (see 14:6-15), so did Joshua. They were the only two survivors of the previous generation of Israelites. The respective accounts of these two individual allotments of land begin and end the literary unit (Jos 14–20) and its description of tribal allotments west of the Jordan.

CITIES OF REFUGE

20 Then the LORD spoke to Joshua, 2 "Tell the Israelites: Select your cities of refuge, as I instructed you through Moses, † 3 so that a person who kills someone unintentionally or accidentally may flee there. These will be your refuge from the avenger of blood. † 4 When someone flees to one of these cities, stands at the entrance of the city gate, and states his case before † the elders of that city, they are to bring him into the city and give him a place to live among them. † 5 And if the avenger of blood pursues him, they must not hand the one who committed manslaughter over to him, for he killed his neighbor accidentally and did not hate him beforehand. 6 He is to stay in that city until he stands trial before the assembly and until the death of the high priest serving at that time. † Then the one who committed manslaughter may return home to his own city from which he fled."

7 So they designated Kedesh in the hill country of Naphtali in Galilee, † Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim, and Kiriath-arba (that is, Hebron) in the hill country of Judah. † 8 Across the Jordan east of Jericho, they selected Bezer on the wilderness plateau from Reuben's tribe, Ramoth in Gilead from Gad's tribe, and Golan in Bashan from Manasseh's tribe.
9 These are the cities appointed for all the Israelites and the aliens residing among them, † so that anyone who kills a person unintentionally may flee there and not die at the hand of the avenger of blood until he stands before the assembly.

20:7-8 The designation of three cities of refuge west of the Jordan fulfilled Numbers 35:9-15 and Deuteronomy 19:2. Moses had already set aside Bezer, Ramoth, and Golan east of the Jordan (Dt 4:41-43).

CITIES OF THE LEVITES

21 The Levite family heads approached the priest Eleazar, Joshua son of Nun, and the family heads of the Israelite tribes. 2 At Shiloh, in the land of Canaan, they told them, "The LORD commanded through Moses that we be given cities to live in, with their pasturelands for our livestock." † 3 So the Israelites, by the LORD's command, gave the Levites these cities with their pasturelands from their inheritance.
4 The lot came out for the Kohathite clans: The Levites who were the descendants of the priest Aaron received thirteen cities by lot from the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin. 5 The remaining descendants of Kohath received ten cities by lot from the clans of the tribes of Ephraim, Dan, and half the tribe of Manasseh.
6 Gershon's descendants received thirteen cities by lot from the clans of the tribes of Issachar, Asher, Naphtali, and half the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan.
7 Merari's descendants received twelve cities for their clans from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulun.

8 The Israelites gave these cities with their pasturelands around them to the Levites by lot, as the LORD had commanded through Moses.

CITIES OF AARON'S DESCENDANTS

9 The Israelites gave these cities by name from the tribes of the descendants of Judah and Simeon 10 to the descendants of Aaron from the Kohathite clans of the Levites, because they received the first lot. 11 They gave them Kiriath-arba † (that is, Hebron; Arba was the father of Anak) with its surrounding pasturelands in the hill country of Judah. 12 But they gave the fields and settlements of the city to Caleb son of Jephunneh as his possession.

13 They gave to the descendants of the priest Aaron:
Hebron, the city of refuge for the one who commits manslaughter, with its pasturelands, Libnah with its pasturelands, 14 Jattir with its pasturelands, Eshtemoa with its pasturelands, 15 Holon with its pasturelands, Debir with its pasturelands, 16 Ain with its pasturelands, Juttah with its pasturelands, and Beth-shemesh with its pasturelands — nine cities from these two tribes.

17 From the tribe of Benjamin they gave:
Gibeon with its pasturelands, Geba with its pasturelands, 18 Anathoth with its pasturelands, and Almon with its pasturelands — four cities. 19 All thirteen cities with their pasturelands were for the priests, the descendants of Aaron.

CITIES OF KOHATH'S OTHER DESCENDANTS

20 The allotted cities to the remaining clans of Kohath's descendants, who were Levites, came from the tribe of Ephraim. 21 The Israelites gave them:

Shechem, † the city of refuge for the one who commits manslaughter, with its pasturelands in the hill country of Ephraim, Gezer with its pasturelands, 22 Kibzaim with its pasturelands, and Beth-horon with its pasturelands — four cities.

23 From the tribe of Dan they gave:

Elteke with its pasturelands, Gibbethon with its pasturelands, 24 Aijalon with its pasturelands, and Gath-rimmon with its pasturelands — four cities.

25 From half the tribe of Manasseh they gave:

Taanach with its pasturelands and Gath-rimmon † with its pasturelands — two cities.

26 All ten cities with their pasturelands were for the clans of Kohath's other descendants.

CITIES OF GERSHON'S DESCENDANTS

27 From half the tribe of Manasseh, they gave to the descendants of Gershon, † who were one of the Levite clans:
Golan, the city of refuge for the one who commits manslaughter, with its pasturelands in Bashan, and Beeshterah with its pasturelands — two cities.
28 From the tribe of Issachar they gave:
Kishion with its pasturelands, Daberath with its pasturelands, 29 Jarmuth with its pasturelands, and En-gannim with its pasturelands — four cities.
30 From the tribe of Asher they gave:
Mishal with its pasturelands, Abdon with its pasturelands, 31 Helkath with its pasturelands, and Rehob with its pasturelands — four cities.
32 From the tribe of Naphtali they gave:
Kedesh in Galilee, the city of refuge for the one who commits manslaughter, with its pasturelands, Hammoth-dor with its pasturelands, and Kartan with its pasturelands — three cities.
33 All thirteen cities with their pasturelands were for the Gershonites by their clans.

CITIES OF MERARI'S DESCENDANTS

34 From the tribe of Zebulun, they gave to the clans of the descendants of Merari, † who were the remaining Levites:
Jokneam with its pasturelands, Kartah with its pasturelands, 35 Dimnah with its pasturelands, and Nahalal with its pasturelands — four cities.
36 From the tribe of Reuben they gave:
Bezer † with its pasturelands, Jahzah † with its pasturelands, 37 Kedemoth with its pasturelands, and Mephaath with its pasturelands — four cities. † 38 From the tribe of Gad they gave:
Ramoth in Gilead, the city of refuge for the one who commits manslaughter, with its pasturelands, Mahanaim with its pasturelands, 39 Heshbon with its pasturelands, and Jazer with its pasturelands — four cities in all. 40 All twelve cities were allotted to the clans of Merari's descendants, the remaining Levite clans.

41 Within the Israelite possession there were forty-eight cities in all with their pasturelands for the Levites. † 42 Each of these cities had its own surrounding pasturelands; this was true for all the cities.

THE LORD'S PROMISES FULFILLED

43 So the LORD gave Israel all the land he had sworn to give their fathers, and they took possession of it and settled there. 44 The LORD gave them rest on every side according to all he had sworn to their fathers. None of their enemies were able to stand against them, for the LORD handed over all their enemies to them. 45 None of the good promises the LORD had made to the house of Israel failed. Everything was fulfilled. †

21:25 Or Ibleam 21:36 Or Jahaz 21:36-37 Some Hb mss omit these vv.
21:2 Nm 35:4-5 21:11 1Ch 6:55 21:21 Jos 20:7 21:27 1Ch 6:71 21:34 1Ch 6:77 21:36-38 Jos 20:8 21:41 Nm 35:7 21:45 Jos 23:14

21:2-3 The earlier command to give the Levites . . . cities and pasturelands from each tribal allotment of land was now being fulfilled (see vv. 41-42; 14:3-4; Nm 35:1-8).

21:43-45 After concluding the description of the division of the land, the biblical text emphasizes God's faithfulness to his good promises to Israel (see also 23:14-15). As he had sworn to give their fathers, God had given them both the land and rest on every side. He had fought for them so that none of their enemies were able to stand against them (see 1:5; 11:8). These statements, however, should not be taken to mean that the land had been entirely subdued (see 13:1; note on 13:13). Wherever they had fought enemies, they had been victorious through God's help, and the strength of their enemies had been broken. Nonetheless, many enemies had not been eradicated and remained in the land.

EASTERN TRIBES RETURN HOME

22 Joshua summoned the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh 2 and told them, "You have done everything Moses the LORD's servant commanded you † and have obeyed me in everything I commanded you. 3 You have not deserted your brothers even once this whole time but have carried out the requirement of the command of the LORD your God. 4 Now that he has given your brothers rest, just as he promised them, return to your homes in your own land that Moses the LORD's servant gave you across the Jordan. 5 Only carefully obey the command and instruction that Moses the LORD's servant gave you: to love the LORD your God, walk in all his ways, keep his commands, be loyal to him, and serve him with all your heart and all your soul." †

6 Joshua blessed them and sent them on their way, † and they went to their homes. 7 Moses had given territory to half the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, but Joshua had given territory to the other half, † with their brothers, on the west side of the Jordan. † When Joshua sent them to their homes and blessed them, 8 he said, “Return to your homes with great wealth: a huge number of cattle, and silver, gold, bronze, iron, and a large quantity of clothing. Share the spoil of your enemies with your brothers.” †

EASTERN TRIBES BUILD AN ALTAR

9 The Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh left the Israelites at Shiloh in the land of Canaan to return to their own land of Gilead, † which they took possession of according to the LORD’s command through Moses. 10 When they came to the region of † the Jordan in the land of Canaan, the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh built a large, impressive altar there by the Jordan.
11 Then the Israelites heard it said, “Look, the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh have built an altar on the frontier of the land of Canaan at the region of † the Jordan, on the Israelite side.” 12 When the Israelites heard this, the entire Israelite community assembled at Shiloh to go to war against them. †

EXPLANATION OF THE ALTAR

13 The Israelites sent Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest to the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, in the land of Gilead. † 14 They sent ten leaders with him — one family leader for each tribe of Israel. All of them were heads of their ancestral families † among the clans of Israel. † 15 They went to the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, in the land of Gilead, and told them, 16 “This is what the LORD’s entire community says: ‘What is this treachery you have committed today against the God of Israel by turning away from the LORD and building an altar for yourselves, so that you are in rebellion against the LORD today? 17 Wasn’t the iniquity of Peor, † which brought a plague on the LORD’s community, enough for us? We have not cleansed ourselves from it even to this day, † 18 and now would you turn away from the LORD? If you rebel against the LORD today, tomorrow he will be angry with the entire community of Israel. † 19 But if the land you possess is defiled, cross over to the land the LORD possesses where the LORD's tabernacle stands, and take possession of it among us. But don't rebel against the LORD or against us by building for yourselves an altar other than the altar of the LORD our God. 20 Wasn't Achan son of Zerah unfaithful regarding what was set apart for destruction, bringing wrath on the entire community of Israel? He was not the only one who perished because of his iniquity.' " †

21 The Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh answered the heads of the Israelite clans, 22 "The Mighty One, God, the LORD! The Mighty One, God, the LORD! † † He knows, † and may Israel also know. Do not spare us today, if it was in rebellion or treachery against the LORD 23 that we have built for ourselves an altar to turn away from him. May the LORD himself hold us accountable if we intended to offer burnt offerings and grain offerings on it, or to sacrifice fellowship offerings on it. 24 We actually did this from a specific concern that in the future your descendants might say to our descendants, 'What relationship do you have with the LORD, the God of Israel? 25 For the LORD has made the Jordan a border between us and you descendants of Reuben and Gad. You have no share in the LORD!' So your descendants may cause our descendants to stop fearing the LORD.

26 "Therefore we said: Let us take action and build an altar for ourselves, but not for burnt offering or sacrifice. 27 Instead, it is to be a witness between us and you, † and between the generations after us, so that we may carry out the worship of the LORD in his presence with our burnt offerings, sacrifices, and fellowship offerings. † Then in the future, your descendants will not be able to say to our descendants, 'You have no share in the LORD!' 28 We thought that if they said this to us or to our generations in the future, we would reply: Look at the replica of the LORD's altar that our fathers made, not for burnt offering or sacrifice, but as a witness between us and you. 29 We would never ever rebel against the LORD or turn away from him today by building an altar for burnt offering, grain offering, or sacrifice, other than the altar of the LORD our God, which is in front of his tabernacle."

CONFLICT RESOLVED

30 When the priest Phinehas and the community leaders, the heads of Israel's clans who were with him, heard what the descendants of Reuben, Gad, and

Manasseh had to say, they were pleased. 31 Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest said to the descendants of Reuben, Gad, and Manasseh, “Today we know that the LORD is among us, because you have not committed this treachery against him. † As a result, you have rescued the Israelites from the LORD’s power.” 32 Then the priest Phinehas son of Eleazar and the leaders returned from the Reubenites and Gadites in the land of Gilead to the Israelites in the land of Canaan and brought back a report to them. 33 The Israelites were pleased with the report, and they blessed God. † They spoke no more about going to war against them to ravage the land where the Reubenites and Gadites lived. 34 So the Reubenites and Gadites named the altar: It † is a witness between us that the LORD is God.

22:1-5 Having fulfilled their promise to fight alongside the other tribes, Reuben, Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh were released by Joshua to return to their land east of the Jordan (see also 1:12-18; Nm 32). His charge to them to keep the law of Moses resembles Moses’s previous charges (see Dt 6:5; 10:12-13; 11:1,13).

22:13-29 This is the second time Reuben, Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh were accused of major wrongdoing (see Nm 32:6-15). Once again, these tribes explained their actions and the purity of their motives (see Nm 32:16-19,25-27,31-32). They had not built the altar in rebellion or treachery against the LORD (v. 22) or for burnt offering or sacrifice (vv. 26,28) but as a witness (vv. 27-28,34) that they too had a share in the LORD (vv. 25, 27) and were worshipers of him (vv. 24-28). This explanation resolved the misunderstanding of the delegation and the other Israelites (vv. 30-34).

JOSHUA’S FAREWELL ADDRESS

23 A long time after the LORD had given Israel rest from all the enemies around them, † Joshua was old, advanced in age. † 2 So Joshua summoned all Israel, including its elders, leaders, judges, and officers, † and said to them, “I am old, advanced in age, 3 and you have seen for yourselves everything the LORD your God did to all these nations on your account, because it was the LORD your God who was fighting for you. † 4 See, I have allotted these remaining nations to you as an inheritance for your tribes, † including all the nations I have destroyed, from the Jordan westward to the Mediterranean Sea. 5 The LORD your God will force them back on your account and drive them out before you so that you can take possession of their land, † as the LORD your God promised you.

6 "Be very strong † and continue obeying all that is written in the book of the law of Moses, so that you do not turn from it to the right or left 7 and so that you do not associate with these nations remaining among you. Do not call on the names of their gods or make an oath to them; † do not serve them or bow in worship to them. 8 Instead, be loyal to the LORD your God, as you have been to this day. †

9 "The LORD has driven out great and powerful nations before you, † and no one is able to stand against you to this day. † 10 One of you routed a thousand † because the LORD your God was fighting for you, as he promised. † † 11 So diligently watch yourselves! Love the LORD your God! 12 If you ever turn away and become loyal to the rest of these nations remaining among you, † and if you intermarry or associate with them † and they with you, 13 know for certain that the LORD your God will not continue to drive these nations out before you. They will become a snare and a trap for you, † a sharp stick † for your sides and thorns in your eyes, until you disappear from this good land the LORD your God has given you.

14 "I am now going the way of the whole earth, † and you know with all your heart and all your soul that none of the good promises the LORD your God made to you has failed. Everything was fulfilled for you; not one promise has failed. †
15 Since every good thing the LORD your God promised you has come about, so he will bring on you every bad thing until he has annihilated you from this good land the LORD your God has given you. † 16 If you break the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and go and serve other gods, and bow in worship to them, the LORD's anger will burn against you, and you will quickly disappear from this good land he has given you."

23:1-8 Prior to his death, Moses reminded the Israelites of God's past works on their behalf and called them to future obedience (see Deuteronomy), and Joshua did the same prior to his death (see also v. 14). His confidence that God would drive out the remaining inhabitants of the land and his command to be very strong and keep the law of Moses closely resemble the charge he himself was given in 1:2-9.

23:12-16 The Lord had faithfully fulfilled all of the good promises that he had made to Israel (see also 21:45), but his threats of judgment would come true also if Israel disobeyed (Jdg 2:15). Moses had said earlier that Israel would indeed turn away from God and be exiled (see the note on Dt 31:16-22), and Joshua expected the same (v. 15; see the note on 24:14-24). If you break the covenant can also be translated literally: "When you break the covenant."

REVIEW OF ISRAEL'S HISTORY

24 Joshua assembled all the tribes of Israel at Shechem † and summoned Israel's elders, leaders, judges, and officers, and they presented themselves before God. † 2 Joshua said to all the people, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'Long ago your ancestors, including Terah, † the father of Abraham and Nahor, lived beyond the Euphrates River and worshiped other gods. 3 But I took your father Abraham from the region beyond the Euphrates River, led him throughout the land of Canaan, and multiplied his descendants. † I gave him Isaac, † 4 and to Isaac I gave Jacob and Esau. † I gave the hill country of Seir to Esau as a possession. †
" 'Jacob and his sons, however, went down to Egypt. † 5 I sent Moses and Aaron, † and I defeated Egypt by what I did within it, and afterward I brought you out. 6 When I brought your fathers out of Egypt and you reached the Red Sea, † the Egyptians pursued your fathers with chariots and horsemen as far as the sea. 7 Your fathers cried out to the LORD, so he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea over them, engulfing them. Your own eyes saw what I did to Egypt. After that, you lived in the wilderness a long time.
8 " 'Later, I brought you to the land of the Amorites who lived beyond the Jordan. † They fought against you, but I handed them over to you. You possessed their land, and I annihilated them before you. 9 Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, † set out to fight against Israel. He sent for Balaam son of Beor to curse you, 10 but I would not listen to Balaam. Instead, he repeatedly blessed you, and I rescued you from him.
11 " 'You then crossed the Jordan and came to Jericho. † Jericho's citizens — as well as the Amorites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hethites, Girgashites, Hivites, and Jebusites — fought against you, but I handed them over to you. 12 I sent hornets † † ahead of you, and they drove out the two Amorite kings † before you. It was not by your sword or bow. 13 I gave you a land you did not labor for, and cities you did not build, † though you live in them; you are eating from vineyards and olive groves you did not plant.'

THE COVENANT RENEWAL

14 "Therefore, fear the LORD and worship him in sincerity and truth. † Get rid of the gods your fathers worshiped † beyond the Euphrates River and in Egypt, and worship the LORD. 15 But if it doesn't please you to worship the LORD, choose for yourselves today: Which will you worship — the gods your fathers worshiped beyond the Euphrates River or the gods of the Amorites in whose land you are living? † As for me and my family, we will worship the LORD."
16 The people replied, "We will certainly not abandon the LORD to worship other gods! 17 For the LORD our God brought us and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, out of the place of slavery, † and performed these great signs before our eyes. He also protected us all along the way we went and among all the peoples whose lands we traveled through. 18 The LORD drove out before us all the peoples, including the Amorites who lived in the land. We too will worship the LORD, because he is our God."
19 But Joshua told the people, "You will not be able to worship the LORD, because he is a holy God. He is a jealous God; † he will not forgive your transgressions and sins. † 20 If you abandon the LORD and worship foreign gods, he will turn against you, harm you, and completely destroy † you, after he has been good to you."
21 "No! " the people answered Joshua. "We will worship the LORD."
22 Joshua then told the people, "You are witnesses against yourselves that you yourselves have chosen to worship the LORD."
"We are witnesses," they said.
23 "Then get rid of the foreign gods that are among you and turn your hearts to the LORD, the God of Israel."
24 So the people said to Joshua, "We will worship the LORD our God and obey him."

25 On that day Joshua made a covenant for the people at Shechem and established a statute and ordinance for them. 26 Joshua recorded these things in the book of the law of God; † he also took a large stone and set it up there under the oak at the sanctuary of the LORD. 27 And Joshua said to all the people, "You see this stone — it will be a witness against us, † for it has heard all the words the LORD said to us, and it will be a witness against you, so that you will not deny your God." 28 Then Joshua sent the people away, each to his own inheritance.

BURIAL OF THREE LEADERS

29 After these things, the LORD's servant, Joshua son of Nun, died at the age of 110. 30 They buried him in his allotted territory at Timnath-serah, in the hill country of Ephraim † north of Mount Gaash. 31 Israel worshiped the LORD throughout Joshua's lifetime and during the lifetimes of the elders who outlived Joshua † and who had experienced all the works the LORD had done for Israel.

32 Joseph's bones, which the Israelites had brought up from Egypt, † were buried at Shechem in the parcel of land Jacob had purchased from the sons of Hamor, Shechem's father, for a hundred pieces of silver. † † It was an inheritance for Joseph's descendants.

33 And Eleazar son of Aaron died, and they buried him at Gibeah, † which had been given to his son Phinehas † in the hill country of Ephraim.

24:2-13 As Moses had done before (e.g., Dt 1:6-3:29; 5:4-31; 8:2-4), Joshua reminded the Israelites of what God had done for them in the past until the present day when they had entered a land [they] did not labor for, lived in cities [they] did not build, and were eating from vineyards and olive groves [they] did not plant (v. 13).

24:14-25 In view of what God had done for Israel, Joshua charged the Israelites to choose to serve God instead of idols. He actually thought that Israel would not be able to worship the LORD, because he is a holy God and a jealous God, but Israel nevertheless pledged their obedience three times (vv. 16-18,21,24). Repeated pledges, however, did not keep an earlier generation of Israelites from rebelling against God (see the note on Ex 24:3). Joshua's words in verse 19 and 23:15 (see the note on 23:12-16)— along with the calling of witnesses in verses 22,27—do not inspire confidence in these pledges (see also the note on 1:16-18). In the end, Joshua still made a covenant for the people at Shechem.

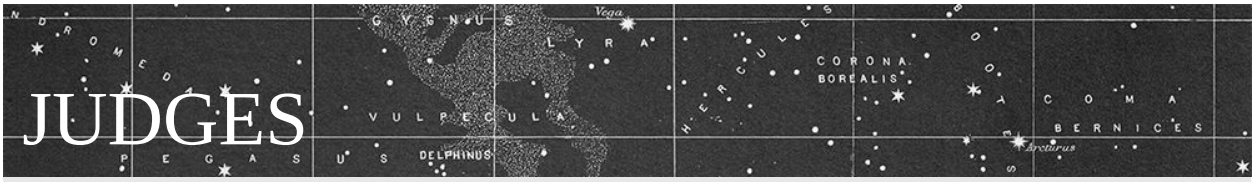
24:29-31 The Pentateuch ends with Moses's death, and the book of Joshua closes with Joshua's death at the age of 110. Israel indeed was faithful to God throughout Joshua's lifetime and during the lifetimes of the elders who outlived Joshua, but would turn away from God afterwards (see Jdg 2:7-10).

24:32 The mention of the burial of Joseph's bones in Shechem both related to the promise made long ago to this forefather (Gn 50:25) and served as a reminder of God's faithfulness to his promises (see also the note on Ex 13:19).



JUDGES

INTRODUCTION

The book of Judges is the second of the Historical Books in the OT (Joshua–Esther). In the Hebrew Bible, these books are called the Former Prophets; the theological and spiritual concerns found in the Pentateuch and the Prophets take precedence over simply recording historical facts. The book derives its name from the Hebrew designation of the principal characters, shophetim (2:18), which could also be translated as "governors." These judges were the Lord's agents of deliverance. The Lord is both the central character and the hero of Judges.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: No author is named in the book of Judges, nor is any indication given of the writer or writers who are responsible for it. The three divisions of the book are on a different footing regarding the sources from which they are drawn. The historical introduction presents a form of the traditional narrative of the conquest of Palestine that is parallel to the book of Joshua. The main portion of the book, comprising the narratives of the judges, appears to be based on oral or written traditions of a local observer.

BACKGROUND: The period of the Israelite judges lay between the conquest of the promised land under Joshua and the rise of the monarchy with Saul and David. The events described are thus to be dated from the end of the fifteenth century BC to the latter part of the eleventh century BC, a period of around three hundred years. This was a time of social and religious anarchy, characterized by the repeated refrain, "In those days there was no king in Israel; everyone did whatever seemed right to him" (17:6; 18:1; 19:1; 21:25).

We cannot ascertain exactly when the book of Judges was composed. The reference in 18:30 to the fate of Dan at "the time of the exile from the land" suggests a date of final editing after the exile of the northern kingdom by Assyria around 722 BC. Meanwhile, the suggestion that readers could visit the site of Gideon's altar at Ophrah in 6:24 suggests a date prior to the exile of the southern kingdom, Judah, in 586 BC Its message would have resonated strongly at several points of Israel's history, and it has been argued that it fits well during the dark days of Manasseh (686–642 BC; 2Kg 21:1-18). However, it is not possible to date Judges with precision.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The book of Judges shows us that the nation of Israel survived the dark days of the judges entirely by the grace of God. In mercy he sent oppressors as reminders of their rebellion. In mercy he responded to their cries and raised up deliverers. Judges also illustrates the fundamental problem of the human heart. When God's people forget his saving acts, they go after other gods. Judges also illustrates the link between spiritual commitments and ethical conduct. In the end the book of Judges illustrates the eternal truth: the Lord will build his kingdom, in spite of our sin and rebellion.

STRUCTURE

The book falls into three parts. There is a prologue (1:1–3:6) that deals with the failure of the second generation to press on with the conquest of Canaan. This is followed by a sixfold cycle of sin and salvation (3:7–16:31), which forms the bulk of the book. Finally, there is an appendix (chaps. 17–21) that shows the full effects of total depravity let loose upon the people. This structure demonstrates not only the repetition of patterns of sin and judgment but also negative progress. The midpoint of the narrative is the linked episode involving Gideon and Abimelech, which serves to highlight further the significance of the issue of kingship.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Judges shows the severity of God, who does not take it lightly when people claiming his name forsake his ways (2:11-15). It also shows the mercy of God, who is moved with pity when his children cry out to him, even when their troubles are caused by their own sins (2:16-18). The Spirit's power in enabling certain judges to perform mighty works is noteworthy in the book.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

This book paints an embarrassing picture of human fickleness. Israel was seemingly ready to turn away from God to serve idols at the drop of a hat. The shameful incident of the Levite's concubine (chap. 19) demonstrates how degraded the times of the judges were. Even the three most memorable judges (Gideon, Jephthah, and Samson) were seriously flawed.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Judges teaches that salvation involves more than just an individual's forgiveness from sin. Sin has consequences that are social and can affect an entire society. Therefore, when God brings salvation, he dramatically changes societies and nations as well as individuals. Further, this book teaches that salvation—deliverance—is always from the Lord and never because someone (or some group) deserves it.

JUDAH'S LEADERSHIP AGAINST THE CANAANITES

1 After the death of Joshua, † the Israelites inquired of the LORD, † "Who will be the first to fight for us against the Canaanites?"

2 The LORD answered, "Judah † is to go. † I have handed the land over to him." †

3 Judah said to his brother Simeon, "Come with me to my allotted territory, and let us fight against the Canaanites. I will also go with you to your allotted territory." So Simeon went with him.

4 When Judah attacked, the LORD handed the Canaanites and Perizzites † over to them. They struck down ten thousand men in Bezek. † 5 They found Adoni-bezek in Bezek, fought against him, and struck down the Canaanites and Perizzites.

6 When Adoni-bezek fled, they pursued him, caught him, and cut off his thumbs and big toes. † 7 Adoni-bezek said, “Seventy kings with their thumbs and big toes cut off used to pick up scraps † under my table. God has repaid me for what I have done.” They brought him to Jerusalem, and he died there.
8 The men of Judah fought against Jerusalem, captured it, put it to the sword, and set the city on fire. 9 Afterward, the men of Judah marched down to fight against the Canaanites who were living in the hill country, the Negev, and the Judean foothills. † 10 Judah also marched against the Canaanites who were living in Hebron † (Hebron was formerly named Kiriath-arba †). They struck down Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai. † 11 From there they marched against the residents of Debir † (Debir was formerly named Kiriath-sepher).
12 Caleb † said, “Whoever attacks and captures Kiriath-sepher, I will give my daughter Achsah † to him as a wife.” 13 So Othniel † son of Kenaz, Caleb’s youngest brother, captured it, and Caleb gave his daughter Achsah to him as his wife.
14 When she arrived, she persuaded Othniel to ask her father for a field. As she got off her donkey, Caleb asked her, “What do you want?” 15 She answered him, “Give me a blessing. Since you have given me land in the Negev, † give me springs also.” So Caleb gave her both the upper and lower springs. †
16 The descendants of the Kenite, Moses’s father-in-law, † had gone up with the men of Judah from the City of Palms † † to the Wilderness of Judah, which was in the Negev of Arad. † They went to live among the people.
17 Judah went with his brother Simeon, struck the Canaanites who were living in Zephath, and completely destroyed the town. So they named the town Hormah. † 18 Judah captured Gaza and its territory, Ashkelon and its territory, and Ekron and its territory. 19 The LORD was with † Judah and enabled them to take possession of the hill country, but they could not drive out † the people who were living in the valley because those people had iron chariots. † 20 Judah gave Hebron to Caleb, just as Moses had promised. † Then Caleb drove out the three sons of Anak † who lived there.

BENJAMIN’S FAILURE

21 At the same time the Benjaminites did not drive out the Jebusites who were living in Jerusalem. The Jebusites have lived among the Benjaminites in Jerusalem to this day. †

SUCCESS OF THE HOUSE OF JOSEPH

22 The house of Joseph also attacked Bethel, and the LORD was with † them. 23 They sent spies to Bethel (the town was formerly named Luz †). 24 The spies saw a man coming out of the town and said to him, “Please show us how to get into town, and we will show you kindness.” † 25 When he showed them the way into the town, they put the town to the sword but released the man and his entire family. 26 Then the man went to the land of the Hittites, built a town, and named it Luz. That is its name still today.

FAILURE OF THE OTHER TRIBES

27 At that time Manasseh failed to take possession of Beth-shean † and Taanach † and their surrounding villages, or the residents of Dor, † Ibleam, † and Megiddo † and their surrounding villages; the Canaanites were determined to stay in this land. † 28 When Israel became stronger, they made the Canaanites serve as forced labor but never drove them out completely. †

29 At that time Ephraim failed to drive out the Canaanites who were living in Gezer, so the Canaanites have lived among them in Gezer. †

30 Zebulun failed to drive out the residents of Kitron or the residents of Nahalol, † so the Canaanites lived among them and served as forced labor.

31 Asher failed to drive out the residents of Acco or of Sidon, or Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphik, or Rehob. 32 The Asherites lived among the Canaanites who were living in the land, because they failed to drive them out.

33 Naphtali did not drive out the residents of Beth-shemesh or the residents of Beth-anath. They lived among the Canaanites who were living in the land, but the residents of Beth-shemesh and Beth-anath served as their forced labor.

34 The Amorites † forced the Danites into the hill country and did not allow them to go down into the valley. 35 The Amorites were determined to stay in † Har-heres, Aijalon, † and Shaalbim. When the house of Joseph got the upper hand, † the Amorites † were made to serve as forced labor. 36 The territory of the Amorites extended from the Scorpions' Ascent, † that is from Sela † upward.

1:1 Like the book of Joshua, the book of Judges begins with Israel in transition because of the death of their leader (see Jos 1:1). This time, however, the transition would not be smooth (see 2:7-10). Joshua had said late in his life that "a great deal of the land remains to be possessed" (Jos 13:1; see also the note on 21:43-45), and Judges picks up the storyline from there. Many other such connections exist between Judges and Joshua (see notes below).

1:2-4 As he had done on many previous occasions (e.g., Jos 21:44; 24:8,11), God promised that he would give the Israelites victory and then did so. In view of God's instructions and help (vv. 2,19), the collaboration of Judah and Simeon may seem unexpected (vv. 3,17) and unnecessary, but Simeon's inheritance did lie within the boundary of Judah's (see the note on Jos 19:1,9).

1:6-7 This punishment on Adoni-Bezek rendered him unable to fight anymore. It was just recompense from God because the man had previously done the same thing to seventy kings (see also 8:18-19; 9:23-24).

1:10 It was Caleb who struck down Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai, who were sons of Anak (see the note on Jos 15:14).

1:11-15 This incident was also mentioned in Joshua 15:15-19. Othniel would later become a judge in Israel (see 3:9-11).

1:19-20 Judah failed to drive out the people who were living in the valley because those people had iron chariots. The Canaanite's technological superiority presented a challenge, but failure was ultimately unjustified because of God's promise to give Israel the land (v. 2; see also Jos 15:63). As Joshua 17:16-18 makes clear, iron chariots should not have prevented the Israelites from taking possession of the land. Caleb's defeat of three Anakites makes this even clearer (v. 20; see the note on Jos 15:14).

1:21-36 Just as Judah had not driven out the inhabitants of the land entirely, neither did Benjamin, Manasseh, Ephraim, Zebulun, Asher, Naphtali, or Dan. This failure had already been described in part in Joshua 13:13; 15:63; 16:10; and 17:12-13, but the concentrated mention of more tribes in the present passage makes Israel's disobedience unmistakable (see also 2:1-3). The result was that the Canaanites lived among the Israelites (vv. 21,28-30). To make matters worse, the biblical text suggests that Canaanites outnumbered the people of Asher and Naphtali in their territories (vv. 32-33), and Dan had difficulty taking possession of its territory (vv. 34-35; 18:1). Israel's coexistence with the Canaanites did not bode well for their future faithfulness to God (see 3:5-6; Dt 7:1-5).

PATTERN OF SIN AND JUDGMENT

2 The angel of the LORD † went up from Gilgal to Bochim and said, "I brought you out of Egypt and led you into the land † I had promised to your fathers. † I also said: I will never break my covenant with you.
2 You are not to make a covenant † with the inhabitants of this land. You are to tear down their altars. † But you have not obeyed me. What is this you have done? 3 Therefore, I now say: I will not drive out these people before you. †
They will be thorns † † in your sides, † and their gods will be a trap for you." † 4 When the angel of the LORD had spoken these words to all the Israelites, the people wept loudly. 5 So they named that place Bochim † and offered sacrifices there to the LORD.

JOSHUA'S DEATH

6 Previously, when Joshua had sent the people away, the Israelites had gone to take possession of the land, each to his own inheritance. † 7 The people worshiped the LORD throughout Joshua's lifetime and during the lifetimes of the elders who outlived † Joshua. They had seen all the LORD's great works † he had done for Israel.
8 Joshua son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died at the age of 110. 9 They buried him in the territory of his inheritance, in Timnath-heres, in the hill country of Ephraim, † north of Mount Gaash. 10 That whole generation was also gathered to their ancestors. After them another generation rose up who did not know the LORD † or the works he had done for Israel.
11 The Israelites did what was evil in the LORD's sight. † They worshiped the Baals † 12 and abandoned the LORD, the God of their fathers, who had brought them out of Egypt. They followed other gods from the surrounding peoples † and bowed down to them. They angered the LORD, † 13 for they abandoned him and worshiped Baal and the Ashtoreths. †

14 The LORD's anger burned against Israel, and he handed them over to marauders who raided them. He sold † them to † the enemies around them, and they could no longer resist their enemies. 15 Whenever the Israelites went out, the LORD † was against them † and brought disaster on them, just as he had promised and sworn to them. † So they suffered greatly.
16 The LORD raised up † judges, who saved them from the power of their marauders, 17 but they did not listen to their judges. Instead, they prostituted † themselves with other gods, bowing down to them. They quickly turned from the way † of their fathers, who had walked in obedience to the LORD's commands.
They did not do as their fathers did. 18 Whenever the LORD raised up a judge for the Israelites, the LORD was with † him and saved the people from the power of their enemies while the judge was still alive. † The LORD was moved to pity whenever they groaned because of those who were oppressing and afflicting them. 19 Whenever the judge died, the Israelites would act even more corruptly † than their fathers, following other gods to serve them and bow in worship to them. They did not turn from their evil practices or their obstinate † ways.
20 The LORD's anger burned against Israel, and he declared, "Because this nation has violated my covenant † that I made with their fathers † and disobeyed me, 21 I will no longer drive out before them any of the nations Joshua left † when he died. † 22 I did this to test Israel and to see whether or not they would keep the LORD's way † by walking in it, as their fathers had." † 23 The LORD left these nations and did not drive them out immediately. He did not hand them over to Joshua.

2:1-3 God was displeased with Israel's failure to drive out the inhabitants of the land. His words imply that Israel had indeed made covenants with them and had not torn down their altars (see 3:5-6; Jos 9:3-15). As a result, he would no longer help them drive out the Canaanites (see also v. 21).

2:7-10 Israel was faithful to God throughout Joshua's lifetime and during the lifetimes of the elders who outlived Joshua, but later another generation rose up who did not know the LORD (see also Ex 1:8). The predictions of Moses and Joshua that Israel would turn away from God were coming true (see Dt 31:16-29; Jos 23:12-16; 24:19). This is a negative example of the importance of parents passing down the truth of God's words and deeds to the next generation, as taught in Deuteronomy 6 and Joshua 4.

2:11-19 This passage explains the pattern of idolatry, divine anger, punishment through a foreign nation, a cry for help, deliverance through a judge, and a period of peace before further sin that is evidenced throughout the book of Judges. As a result of their failure to drive out the Canaanites (1:19–2:2; 3:5), Israel turned to other gods and angered God, who justly punished them severely through foreign enemies (vv. 14-15; see also Jos 23:15). Out of his mercy, the LORD raised up judges to deliver Israel. Nevertheless, Israel did not listen to their judges and would become even more corrupt and turned to idols after the judge died. This cycle repeats in 3:7–16:31. Regarding Baal and the Ashtoreths, see the note on 3:7-11.

2:20–3:6 As God had said in 2:3, he would no longer drive out the inhabitants of the land before Israel. They were left to test Israel to see if they would obey and to give military experience to those who lacked it (3:2). Israel's intermarriage with the Canaanites and worship of their gods clearly demonstrated that they failed this test of obedience (v. 6; Dt 7:1-5; see also Ex 15:25; 16:4; 20:20).

THE LORD TESTS ISRAEL

3 These are the nations the LORD left in order to test all those in Israel who had experienced † none of the wars in Canaan. † 2 This was to teach the future generations of the Israelites how to fight in battle, especially those who had not fought before. † 3 These nations included the five rulers † of the Philistines † and all of the Canaanites, the Sidonians, † and the Hivites † who lived in the Lebanese mountains from Mount Baal-hermon as far as the entrance to Hamath. † 4 The LORD left them to test Israel, to determine if they would keep the LORD's commands he had given their fathers through † Moses. † 5 But they settled among the Canaanites, Hethites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites. 6 The Israelites took their daughters as wives for themselves, gave their own daughters to their sons, and worshiped their gods. †

OTHNIEL, THE FIRST JUDGE

7 The Israelites did what was evil in the LORD's sight; they forgot the LORD their God † and worshiped the Baals and the Asherahs. 8 The LORD's anger burned against Israel, and he sold them to † King Cushan-rishathaim † of Aram-naharaim, † † and the Israelites served him eight years.
9 The Israelites cried out to the LORD. † So the LORD raised up Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's youngest brother, † as a deliverer † to save the Israelites. 10 The Spirit of the LORD came on him, and he judged Israel. Othniel went out to battle, and the LORD handed over King Cushan-rishathaim of Aram to him, so that Othniel overpowered him. 11 Then the land had peace for † forty years, and Othniel son of Kenaz died.

EHUD

12 The Israelites again did what was evil in the LORD's sight. He gave King Eglon of Moab † power over Israel, because they had done what was evil in the LORD's sight. 13 After Eglon convinced the Ammonites and the Amalekites to join forces with him, he attacked and defeated Israel and took possession of the City of Palms. † † 14 The Israelites served King Eglon of Moab eighteen years.
15 Then the Israelites cried out to the LORD, and he raised up Ehud son of Gera, a left-handed † Benjaminite, † as a deliverer for them. The Israelites sent him with the tribute † for King Eglon of Moab.
16 Ehud made himself a double-edged sword eighteen inches long. † He strapped it to his right thigh under his clothes 17 and brought the tribute to King Eglon of Moab, who was an extremely fat man. 18 When Ehud had finished presenting the tribute, he dismissed the people who had carried it. 19 At the carved images near Gilgal he returned and said, "King Eglon, I have a secret message for you." The king said, "Silence!" and all his attendants left him. 20 Then Ehud approached him while he was sitting alone in his upstairs room where it was cool. Ehud said, "I have a message from God for you," and the king stood up from his throne. 21 Ehud reached with his left hand, took the sword from his right thigh, and plunged it into Eglon's belly. 22 Even the handle went in after the blade, and Eglon's fat closed in over it, so that Ehud did not withdraw the sword from his belly. And the waste came out. † 23 Ehud escaped by way of the porch, closing and locking the doors of the upstairs room behind him.

24 Ehud was gone when Eglon's servants came in. They looked and found the doors of the upstairs room locked and thought he was relieving himself † in the cool room. 25 The servants waited until they became embarrassed and saw that he had still not opened the doors of the upstairs room. So they took the key and opened the doors — and there was their lord lying dead on the floor!
26 Ehud escaped while the servants waited. He passed the Jordan near the carved images and reached Seirah. 27 After he arrived, he sounded the ram's horn throughout the hill country of Ephraim. The Israelites came down with him from the hill country, and he became their leader. 28 He told them, "Follow me, because the LORD has handed over your enemies, the Moabites, to you." So they followed him, captured the fords of the Jordan leading to Moab, and did not allow anyone to cross over. † 29 At that time they struck down about ten thousand Moabites, all stout and able-bodied men. Not one of them escaped. 30 Moab became subject to Israel that day, and the land had peace for eighty years.

SHAMGAR

31 After Ehud, Shamgar son of Anath became judge. He also delivered Israel, striking down six hundred Philistines with a cattle prod.

3:7-11 This is the first example of the cycle of sin, salvation, deliverance, and further apostasy (see 2:11-19). Baal was the Canaanite god of storm and rain, and Asherah (also known as Ashtoreth) was his consort and the goddess of war and fertility. There seem to have been local variants of Baal (e.g., 9:4; Nm 25:3). The idolatrous worship of these two gods plagued Israel over the course of their history (e.g., 2:11-13; 6:25-30; 10:6; 1Sm 7:3-4; 1Kg 16:31-33; 18:19). Othniel had been mentioned earlier in 1:13-14 and was enabled by the Spirit of the LORD (see also 6:34; 11:29; 13:25; 14:6,19; 15:14).

3:12-15 As expected (see 2:19), Israel turned back to idolatry after Othniel's death and was punished by God—this time through Moab. In the midst of their servitude to the Moabites (v. 14), the Israelites cried out to the LORD, who graciously raised up Ehud as a deliverer. He used intrigue to kill Eglon, the king of Moab (vv. 18-26) and then defeated the Moabites with the help of reinforcements from the hill country of Ephraim (vv. 27-30).

DEBORAH AND BARAK

4 The Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of the LORD after Ehud had died. 2 So the LORD sold them to King Jabin † of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor. † The commander of his army was Sisera † who lived in Harosheth of the Nations. † 3 Then the Israelites cried out † to the LORD, because Jabin had nine hundred iron chariots, and he harshly oppressed them twenty years.

4 Deborah, a prophetess † and the wife of Lappidoth, was judging Israel at that time. 5 She would sit under the palm tree of Deborah between Ramah and Bethel in the hill country of Ephraim, and the Israelites went up to her to settle disputes. †

6 She summoned Barak son of Abinoam from Kedesh in Naphtali and said to him, "Hasn't the LORD, the God of Israel, † commanded you: 'Go, deploy the troops on Mount Tabor, † and take with you ten thousand men from the Naphtalites † and Zebulunites? † 7 Then I will lure Sisera commander of Jabin's army, his chariots, and his infantry at the Wadi Kishon † to fight against you, and I will hand him over to you.' " †

8 Barak said to her, "If you will go with me, I will go. But if you will not go with me, I will not go."

9 "I will gladly go with you," she said, "but you will receive no honor on the road you are about to take, because the LORD will sell Sisera to a woman." So Deborah got up and went with Barak to Kedesh. 10 Barak summoned Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; ten thousand men followed him, and Deborah also went with him.

11 Now Heber the Kenite had moved away from the Kenites, the sons of Hobab, † Moses's father-in-law, † and pitched his tent beside the oak tree of Zaanannim, † which was near Kedesh.

12 It was reported to Sisera that Barak son of Abinoam had gone up Mount Tabor. 13 Sisera summoned all his nine hundred iron chariots and all the troops who were with him from Harosheth of the Nations to the Wadi Kishon. 14 Then Deborah said to Barak, “Go! This is the day the LORD has handed Sisera over to you. Hasn’t the LORD gone before you?” So Barak came down from Mount Tabor with ten thousand men following him.

15 The LORD threw Sisera, all his charioteers, and all his army into a panic † before Barak’s assault. Sisera left his chariot and fled on foot. 16 Barak pursued the chariots and the army as far as Harosheth of the Nations, and the whole army of Sisera fell by the sword; not a single man was left.

17 Meanwhile, Sisera had fled on foot to the tent of Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, because there was peace between King Jabin of Hazor and the family of Heber the Kenite. 18 Jael went out to greet Sisera and said to him, “Come in, my lord. Come in with me. Don’t be afraid.” So he went into her tent, and she covered him with a blanket. 19 He said to her, “Please give me a little water to drink for I am thirsty.” She opened a container of milk, gave him a drink, and covered him again. 20 Then he said to her, “Stand at the entrance to the tent. If a man comes and asks you, ‘Is there a man here?’ say, ‘No.’” 21 While he was sleeping from exhaustion, Heber’s wife Jael took a tent peg, grabbed a hammer, and went silently to Sisera. She hammered the peg into his temple and drove it into the ground, and he died.

22 When Barak arrived in pursuit of Sisera, Jael went out to greet him and said to him, “Come and I will show you the man you are looking for.” So he went in with her, and there was Sisera lying dead with a tent peg through his temple!

23 That day God subdued King Jabin of Canaan before the Israelites. 24 The power of the Israelites continued to increase against King Jabin of Canaan until they destroyed him.

4:1-9 Israel again did what was evil in the sight of the LORD after their previous judge died (see also 2:19; 3:11-12) so that God judged them through King Jabin of Canaan, who harshly oppressed them twenty years. God’s intended means of deliverance was Barak, but he was unwilling go alone and asked that Deborah, who was a prophetess and was judging Israel, would accompany him.

4:14-22 In verse 14, for a second time, Deborah declared to Barak that God would hand Sisera over to him (cp. v. 7). Barak’s timidity had already been shown through his unwillingness to go to battle without Deborah (v. 8). As she had said, the LORD threw Sisera, all his charioteers, and all his army into confusion so that they all fell by the sword. Sisera himself was killed unsuspectingly by Jael while he was sleeping in her tent. His death at the hands of a woman fulfilled what Deborah had said earlier to Barak (vv. 8-9). The key roles of two women are thus highlighted in this battle (see also 5:6-7,24-27; 9:53-54).

DEBORAH'S SONG

5 On that day Deborah and Barak son of Abinoam sang:

2 When the leaders lead † in Israel, when the people volunteer, blessed be the LORD.
3 Listen, kings! Pay attention, princes!
I will sing to the LORD; I will sing praise to the LORD God of Israel.
4 LORD, when you came from Seir, † when you marched from the fields of Edom, the earth trembled, † the skies poured † rain, and the clouds poured water.
5 The mountains melted before the LORD, even Sinai, † before the LORD, the God of Israel. †

6 In the days of Shamgar † son of Anath, in the days of Jael, † the main roads were deserted because travelers kept to the side roads.
7 Villages were deserted, † they were deserted in Israel, until I, † Deborah, arose, a mother in Israel.
8 Israel chose new gods, then there was war in the city gates.
Not a shield or spear was seen among forty thousand in Israel.
9 My heart is with the leaders of Israel, with the volunteers of the people.
Blessed be the LORD!
10 You who ride on white † donkeys, who sit on saddle blankets, and who travel on the road, give praise!
11 Let them tell the righteous acts † of the LORD, the righteous deeds of his warriors in Israel, with the voices of the singers at the watering places. †

Then the LORD's people went down to the city gates.

12 “Awake! Awake, Deborah!
Awake! Awake, sing a song!
Arise, Barak,
and take your prisoners,
son of Abinoam! ”
13 Then the survivors † came down to the nobles; †
the LORD’s people came down to me † with the warriors.
14 Those with their roots in Amalek † came from Ephraim; Benjamin came with your people after you.
The leaders came down from Machir, † and those who carry a marshal’s staff came from Zebulun.
15 The princes of Issachar were with Deborah; Issachar was with Barak;
they were under his leadership † † in the valley.
There was great searching † of heart among the clans of Reuben.
16 Why did you sit among the sheep pens † listening to the playing of pipes for the flocks?
There was great searching of heart
among the clans of Reuben.
17 Gilead † remained beyond the Jordan.
Dan, why did you linger at the ships?
Asher remained at the seashore and stayed in his harbors.
18 The people of Zebulun defied death, Naphtali also, on the heights of the battlefield.

19 Kings came and fought.
Then the kings of Canaan fought at Taanach by the Waters of Megiddo, but they did not plunder the silver.
20 The stars fought from the heavens; the stars fought with Sisera from their paths.
21 The river Kishon swept them away, †
the ancient river, the river Kishon.
March on, my soul, in strength!

22 The horses' hooves then hammered — the galloping, galloping of his † stallions.
23 "Curse Meroz," says the angel of the LORD, "Bitterly curse her inhabitants, for they did not come to help the LORD, to help the LORD with the warriors."

24 Jael is most blessed of women, the wife of Heber the Kenite;
she is most blessed among tent-dwelling women.
25 He asked for water; she gave him milk.
She brought him cream † in a majestic bowl.
26 She reached for a tent peg, her right hand, for a workman's hammer.
Then she hammered Sisera — she crushed his head;
she shattered and pierced his temple.
27 He collapsed, he fell, he lay down between her feet; he collapsed, he fell between her feet;
where he collapsed, there he fell — dead.

28 Sisera's mother looked through the window; she peered through the lattice, crying out: "Why is his chariot so long in coming?
Why don't I hear the hoofbeats of his horses? " †
29 Her wisest princesses answer her; she even answers herself: †
30 "Are they not finding and dividing the spoil — a girl or two † for each warrior, the spoil of colored garments for Sisera, the spoil of an embroidered garment or two for my neck? " †

31 LORD, may all your enemies perish as Sisera did. †
But may those who love him be like the rising of the sun in its strength.

And the land had peace for forty years.

5:1-31 Deborah and Barak's song following the defeat of Sisera parallels Moses and Israel's song following the defeat of Pharaoh's army at the Red Sea (Ex 15:1-18).

5:13-18 The narrative had mentioned only Zebulun and Naphtali as following Barak into battle (4:6,10), whereas Ephraim, Benjamin, Manasseh (from the line of Machir; see Gn 50:23), and Issachar are also added here (vv. 14-15). Reuben, Dan, and Asher (and possibly Gad; see this tribe's association with Gilead in Jos 12:24-25) should have come to help (vv. 15-17).

5:23 The precise location of Meroz is uncertain, but its inhabitants were cursed for not helping Israel in this battle.

MIDIAN OPPRESSES ISRAEL

6 The Israelites did what was evil in the sight of the LORD. † So the LORD handed † them over to Midian seven years, 2 and they oppressed Israel. † Because of Midian, the Israelites made hiding places † for themselves in the mountains, caves, and strongholds. 3 Whenever the Israelites planted crops, the Midianites, Amalekites, and the Qedemites † came and attacked them. 4 They encamped against them and destroyed the produce of the land, even as far as Gaza. They left nothing for Israel to eat, as well as no sheep, ox, or donkey. 5 For the Midianites came with their cattle and their tents like a great swarm of locusts. † They and their camels were without number, and they entered the land to lay waste to it. 6 So Israel became poverty-stricken because of Midian, and the Israelites cried out to the LORD. †

7 When the Israelites cried out to him because of Midian, 8 the LORD sent a prophet † to them. He said to them, "This is what the LORD † God of Israel says: 'I brought you out of Egypt and out of the place of slavery. † 9 I rescued you from the power of Egypt and the power of all who oppressed † you. I drove them out before you and gave you their land. 10 I said to you: I am the LORD your God. Do not fear the gods of the Amorites whose land you live in. † But you did not obey me.' "

THE LORD CALLS GIDEON

11 The angel of the LORD † came, and he sat under the oak that was in Ophrah, † which belonged to Joash, the Abiezrite. His son Gideon was threshing wheat in the winepress in order to hide it from the Midianites. 12 Then the angel of the LORD appeared to him and said: “The LORD is with you, valiant warrior.” †

13 Gideon said to him, “Please, my lord, if the LORD is with us, why has all this happened? And where are all his wonders that our fathers told us about? They said, ‘Hasn’t the LORD brought us out of Egypt?’ But now the LORD has abandoned us and handed us over to Midian.”

14 The LORD turned to him and said, “Go in the strength you have and deliver Israel from the grasp of Midian. I am sending you! ” †

15 He said to him, “Please, Lord, how can I deliver Israel? Look, my family is the weakest in Manasseh, and I am the youngest in my father’s family.”

16 “But I will be with you,” † the LORD said to him. “You will strike Midian down as if it were one man.”

17 Then he said to him, “If I have found favor with you, † give me a sign † that you are speaking with me. 18 Please do not leave this place until I return to you. Let me bring my gift and set it before you.”

And he said, “I will stay until you return.”

19 So Gideon went and prepared a young goat and unleavened bread from a half bushel † of flour. He placed the meat in a basket and the broth in a pot. He brought them out and offered them to him under the oak.

20 The angel of God † said to him, “Take the meat with the unleavened bread, put it on this stone, and pour the broth on it.” So he did that.

21 The angel of the LORD extended the tip of the staff that was in his hand and touched the meat and the unleavened bread. Fire came up from the rock and consumed the meat and the unleavened bread. Then the angel of the LORD vanished from his sight.

22 When Gideon realized that he was the angel of the LORD, he said, “Oh no, Lord GOD! † I have seen the angel of the LORD face to face! ” †

23 But the LORD said to him, “Peace to you. Don’t be afraid, for you will not die.” 24 So Gideon built an altar to the LORD there and called it The LORD Is Peace. † It is still in Ophrah of the Abiezrites today.

GIDEON TEARS DOWN A BAAL ALTAR

25 On that very night the LORD said to him, “Take your father’s young bull and a second bull seven years old. Then tear down the altar of Baal † that belongs to your father and cut down the Asherah pole beside it. 26 Build a well-constructed altar to the LORD your God on the top of this mound. † Take the second bull and offer it as a burnt offering with the wood of the Asherah pole you cut down.”
27 So Gideon took ten of his male servants and did as the LORD had told him.
But because he was too afraid of his father’s family and the men of the city to do it in the daytime, he did it at night.
28 When the men of the city got up in the morning, they found Baal’s altar torn down, the Asherah pole beside it cut down, and the second bull offered up on the altar that had been built. 29 They said to each other, “Who did this? ” After they made a thorough investigation, they said, “Gideon son of Joash did it.” 30 Then the men of the city said to Joash, “Bring out your son. He must die, because he tore down Baal’s altar and cut down the Asherah pole beside it.” 31 But Joash said to all who stood against him, “Would you plead Baal’s case for him? Would you save him? Whoever pleads his case will be put to death by morning! If he is a god, let him plead his own case because someone tore down his altar.” 32 That day he was called Jerubbaal, since Joash said, “Let Baal contend with him,” because he tore down his altar.

THE SIGN OF THE FLEECE

33 All the Midianites, Amalekites, and Qedemites gathered together, crossed over the Jordan, and camped in the Jezreel Valley. † 34 The Spirit of the LORD enveloped † Gideon, † and he blew the ram’s horn and the Abiezrites rallied behind him. 35 He sent messengers throughout all of Manasseh, who rallied behind him. He also sent messengers throughout Asher, Zebulun, and Naphtali, who also came to meet him.
36 Then Gideon said to God, “If you will deliver Israel by my hand, as you said, 37 I will put a wool fleece here on the threshing floor. If dew is only on the fleece, and all the ground is dry, I will know that you will deliver Israel by my strength, as you said.” 38 And that is what happened. When he got up early in the morning, he squeezed the fleece and wrung dew out of it, filling a bowl with water.

39 Gideon then said to God, “Don’t be angry with me; let me speak one more time. Please allow me to make one more test with the fleece. Let it remain dry, and the dew be all over the ground.” 40 That night God did as Gideon requested:
only the fleece was dry, and dew was all over the ground.

6:1-10 A period of rest (5:31) was followed yet again by Israel’s turning away from God and his judging them through a foreign nation. Midian’s oppression of Israel is described in detail and involved the destruction of their crops so that they were without food (vv. 2-6,11). Israel’s cries to God would eventually result in deliverance but were first met with a rebuke from an unnamed prophet for their disobedience (see also 2:1-3; 4:4).

6:11-16 God’s instrument of deliverance from the Midianites was Gideon. Like Barak (see 4:8), he too was timid (vv. 11,15,27), and he would request several assurances that God would indeed save Israel through him (vv. 17-21,36-40; see also 7:9-14). Gideon asks the cynical question, If the LORD is with us, why has all this happened? and states that the LORD has abandoned us. Both statements are faulty. It is God’s continuing faithfulness that has motivated this very conversation so that Gideon can deliver Israel! Furthermore, it was not God’s abandonment of the covenant, but Israel’s, which led to the Midianite oppression. The alternation of the terms angel of the LORD and LORD in this passage suggests that they refer to the same person and that God appeared to Gideon in human form (v. 22; see also Gn 32:24-30 and the note on Ex 24:9-11).

6:25-32 Part of God’s calling of Gideon to deliver Israel included the destruction of his father’s altar to Baal and Asherah pole, and their replacement with an altar to the LORD. Gideon did these things at night because he was too afraid of his father’s family and the men of the city (see also the note on 6:11-16). The name Jerubbaal sounds like the Hebrew phrase translated Let Baal contend with him. The name, which contains the name of the deity, demonstrates the extent to which idolatry had found its way into Israelite society. Regarding Israel’s worship of Baal and Asherah, see the note on 3:7-11.

6:34 As had been the case with Othniel, Gideon was strengthened by the Spirit of the LORD (see the note on 3:7-11).

6:36-40 Though Gideon had already received a sign (vv. 17-21) and multiple assurances from God (vv. 12,14,16,23), he asked for two more confirmations, which God patiently granted (see also the note on 6:11-16).

GOD SELECTS GIDEON’S ARMY

7 Jerubbaal (that is, Gideon) and all the troops who were with him, got up early and camped beside the spring of Harod. The camp of Midian was north of them, below the hill of Moreh, in the valley. 2 The LORD said to Gideon, “You have too many troops for me to hand the Midianites over to them, or else Israel might elevate themselves over me and say, † ‘My own strength saved me.’ 3 Now announce to the troops: ‘Whoever is fearful and trembling may turn back and leave Mount Gilead.’ ” † So twenty-two thousand of the troops turned back, but ten thousand remained.
4 Then the LORD said to Gideon, “There are still too many troops. Take them down to the water, and I will test them for you there. If I say to you, ‘This one can go with you,’ he can go. But if I say about anyone, ‘This one cannot go with you,’ he cannot go.” 5 So he brought the troops down to the water, and the LORD said to Gideon, “Separate everyone who laps water with his tongue like a dog.
Do the same with everyone who kneels to drink.” 6 The number of those who lapped with their hands to their mouths was three hundred men, and all the rest of the troops knelt to drink water. 7 The LORD said to Gideon, “I will deliver you † with the three hundred men who lapped and hand the Midianites over to you. But everyone else is to go home.” 8 So Gideon sent all the Israelites to their tents but kept the three hundred troops, who took the provisions and their trumpets. The camp of Midian was below him in the valley.

GIDEON SPIES ON THE MIDIANITE CAMP

9 That night the LORD said to him, “Get up and attack the camp, for I have handed it over to you. † 10 But if you are afraid to attack the camp, go down with Purah your servant. 11 Listen to what they say, and then you will be encouraged † to attack the camp.” So he went down with Purah his servant to the outpost of the troops † who were in the camp.
12 Now the Midianites, Amalekites, and all the Qedemites had settled down in the valley like a swarm of locusts, and their camels were as innumerable as the sand on the seashore. 13 When Gideon arrived, there was a man telling his friend about a dream. He said, “Listen, I had a dream: † a loaf of barley bread came tumbling into the Midianite camp, struck a tent, and it fell. The loaf turned the tent upside down so that it collapsed.”

14 His friend answered: “This is nothing less than the sword of Gideon son of Joash, the Israelite. God has handed the entire Midianite camp over to him.”

GIDEON ATTACKS THE MIDIANITES

15 When Gideon heard the account of the dream and its interpretation, he bowed in worship. He returned to Israel’s camp and said, “Get up, for the LORD has handed the Midianite camp over to you.” 16 Then he divided the three hundred men into three companies and gave each of the men a trumpet in one hand and an empty pitcher with a torch inside it in the other hand.
17 “Watch me,” he said to them, “and do what I do. When I come to the outpost of the camp, do as I do. 18 When I and everyone with me blow our trumpets, you are also to blow your trumpets all around the camp. Then you will say, ‘For the LORD and for Gideon! ’ ”
19 Gideon and the hundred men who were with him went to the outpost of the camp at the beginning of the middle watch after the sentries had been stationed. They blew their trumpets and broke the pitchers that were in their hands. 20 The three companies blew their trumpets and shattered their pitchers. They held their torches in their left hands, their trumpets † in their right hands, and shouted, “A sword for the LORD and for Gideon! ” 21 Each Israelite took his position around the camp, and the entire Midianite army began to run, and they cried out as they fled. 22 When Gideon’s men blew their three hundred trumpets, the LORD caused the men in the whole army to turn on each other with their swords. † They fled to Acacia House † in the direction of Zererah as far as the border of Abel-meholah † near Tabbath. 23 Then the men of Israel were called from Naphtali, Asher, and Manasseh, and they pursued the Midianites.

THE MEN OF EPHRAIM JOIN THE BATTLE

24 Gideon sent messengers throughout the hill country of Ephraim with this message: “Come down to intercept the Midianites and take control of the watercourses ahead of them as far as Beth-barah and the Jordan.” So all the men of Ephraim † were called out, and they took control of the watercourses as far as Beth-barah and the Jordan. 25 They captured Oreb and Zeeb, the two princes of Midian; they killed Oreb at the rock of Oreb and Zeeb at the winepress of Zeeb, while they were pursuing the Midianites. They brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon across the Jordan.

7:1-7 The Lord deliberately shrunk the size of Gideon's army from twenty-two thousand to three hundred in order to clearly demonstrate that their victory was from him, not themselves. First the fearful and then those who knelt to drink water were sent home (vv. 3-7).

7:9-14 Gideon and his servant's eavesdropping reassured them of victory despite the enemy army's likeness to a swarm of locusts and their camels being as innumerable as the sand on the seashore (see also 8:10). The extreme numerical difference between their army and Gideon's would not matter because God would fight for Israel (vv. 2,4,7).

7:19-22 Gideon's victory with three hundred men armed only with trumpets, empty pitchers, and torches came about because the LORD caused the men in the whole army to turn on each other with their swords. Other instances of an Israelite victory over a self-destructing army are found in 1 Samuel 14:20-23 and 2 Chronicles 20:21-24. Trumpets were also used in the victory over Jericho (Jos 6).

8 The men of Ephraim said to him, "Why have you done this to us, not calling us when you went to fight against the Midianites?" And they argued with him violently.
2 So he said to them, "What have I done now compared to you? Is not the gleaning † of Ephraim better than the grape harvest † of Abiezer? 3 God handed over to you Oreb and Zeeb, the two princes of Midian. What was I able to do compared to you?" When he said this, their anger against him subsided.

GIDEON PURSUES THE KINGS OF MIDIAN

4 Gideon and the three hundred men came to the Jordan and crossed it. They were exhausted but still in pursuit. 5 He said to the men of Succoth, † "Please give some loaves of bread to the troops under my command, † because they are exhausted, for I am pursuing Zebah and Zalmunna, the kings of Midian."
6 But the princes of Succoth asked, "Are † Zebah and Zalmunna now in your hands that we should give bread to your army?"
7 Gideon replied, "Very well, when the LORD has handed Zebah and Zalmunna over to me, I will tear † your flesh with thorns and briers from the wilderness!"
8 He went from there to Penuel and asked the same thing from them. The men of Penuel † answered just as the men of Succoth had answered. 9 He also told the men of Penuel, "When I return safely, I will tear down this tower!"

10 Now Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and with them was their army of about fifteen thousand men, who were all those left of the entire army of the Qedemites. Those who had been killed were one hundred twenty thousand armed men. † 11 Gideon traveled on the caravan route † east of Nobah † and Jogbehah and attacked their army while the army felt secure. 12 Zebah and Zalmunna fled, and he pursued them. He captured these two kings of Midian and routed the entire army.
13 Gideon son of Joash returned from the battle by the Ascent of Heres. 14 He captured a youth from the men of Succoth and interrogated him. The youth wrote down for him the names of the seventy-seven leaders and elders of Succoth. 15 Then he went to the men of Succoth and said, "Here are Zebah and Zalmunna. You taunted me about them, saying, 'Are Zebah and Zalmunna now in your power that we should give bread to your exhausted men?' " 16 So he took the elders of the city, and he took some thorns and briers from the wilderness, and he disciplined the men of Succoth with them. 17 He also tore down the tower of Penuel and killed the men of the city.
18 He asked Zebah and Zalmunna, "What kind of men did you kill at Tabor? "
"They were like you," they said. "Each resembled the son of a king."
19 So he said, "They were my brothers, the sons of my mother! As the LORD lives, if you had let them live, I would not kill you." 20 Then he said to Jether, his firstborn, "Get up and kill them." The youth did not draw his sword, for he was afraid because he was still a youth.
21 Zebah and Zalmunna said, "Get up and strike us down yourself, for a man is judged by his strength." So Gideon got up, killed Zebah and Zalmunna, and took the crescent ornaments that were on the necks of their camels.

GIDEON'S LEGACY

22 Then the Israelites said to Gideon, "Rule over us, † you as well as your sons and your grandsons, for you delivered us from the power of Midian." 23 But Gideon said to them, "I will not rule over you, and my son will not rule over you; the LORD will rule over you." 24 Then he said to them, "Let me make a request of you: Everyone give me an earring from his plunder." Now the enemy had gold earrings because they were Ishmaelites.
25 They said, "We agree to give them." So they spread out a cloak, and everyone threw an earring from his plunder on it. 26 The weight of the gold earrings he requested was forty-three pounds † of gold, in addition to the crescent ornaments and ear pendants, the purple garments on the kings of Midian, and the chains on the necks of their camels. 27 Gideon made an ephod † from all this and put it in Ophrah, his hometown. Then all Israel prostituted themselves by worshiping it there, and it became a snare to Gideon and his household.

28 So Midian was subdued before the Israelites, and they were no longer a threat. † The land had peace for forty years † during the days of Gideon.
29 Jerubbaal (that is, Gideon) son of Joash went back to live at his house.
30 Gideon had seventy sons, his own offspring, since he had many wives. 31 His concubine who was in Shechem † also bore him a son, and he named him Abimelech. 32 Then Gideon son of Joash died at a good old age and was buried in the tomb of his father Joash in Ophrah of the Abiezrites.
33 When Gideon died, the Israelites turned and prostituted † themselves by worshiping the Baals and made Baal-berith † their god. 34 The Israelites did not remember the LORD their God † who had rescued them from the hand of the enemies around them. 35 They did not show kindness † to the house of Jerubbaal (that is, Gideon) for all the good he had done for Israel.

8:1 Ephraim had not been among the tribes initially summoned to fight with Gideon (6:35), and they argued with him violently about this. Ephraim would again be part of a similar, more serious conflict in 12:1-6.

8:18-21 Gideon did to these two kings what they had done to his own brothers (see also the notes on 1:6-7; 9:23-24). The killing of the two Midianite kings, Zebah and Zalmunna (see vv. 5,12), and two Midianite princes, Oreb and Zeeb (see 7:25), is referenced in Psalm 83:11.

8:22-32 Gideon appears to decline the opportunity to become a king and to begin a dynasty in Israel because God alone was the rightful ruler of Israel (see also the notes on Gn 49:8-12 and 1Sm 8:4-9). Nevertheless, his subsequent actions communicate just the opposite. First, he established a center of ritual worship with an idolatrous image (v. 27) and had seventy sons through many wives (v. 30). He even named his son Abimelech, which means in Hebrew, “My father is king.”

8:24-27 Gideon’s making of a golden idolatrous image from the collected gold earrings resembles

Aaron's making of the golden calf, which was made from similar materials (see Ex 32:2-4). Israel prostituted themselves with this ephod, and its characterization as a snare recalls earlier warnings (e.g., Ex 23:33; Dt 7:16; Jos 23:13; Jdg 2:3).

8:33-34 Once again, Israel turned to idols after the death of a judge (see 2:19; 3:11-12; 4:1) and did not remember the LORD their God.

ABIMELECH BECOMES KING

9 Abimelech son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem and spoke to his uncles and to his mother's whole clan, saying, 2 "Please speak in the hearing of all the citizens of Shechem, 'Is it better for you that seventy men, all the sons of Jerubbaal, † rule over you or that one man rule over you? ' Remember that I am your own flesh and blood." † 3 His mother's relatives spoke all these words about him in the hearing of all the citizens of Shechem, and they were favorable to Abimelech, for they said, "He is our brother." 4 So they gave him seventy pieces of silver from the temple of Baal-berith. † Abimelech used it to hire worthless and reckless men, and they followed him. 5 He went to his father's house in Ophrah and killed his seventy brothers, the sons of Jerubbaal, on top of a large stone. But Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubbaal, survived, because he hid. 6 Then all the citizens of Shechem and of Beth-millo gathered together and proceeded to make Abimelech king at the oak of the pillar in Shechem.

JOTHAM'S PARABLE

7 When they told Jotham, he climbed to the top of Mount Gerizim, † raised his voice, and called to them:

Listen to me, citizens of Shechem,
and may God listen to you:

8 The trees decided to anoint a king over themselves.
They said to the olive tree, "Reign over us."
9 But the olive tree said to them, "Should I stop giving my oil that people use to honor both God and men, and rule † over the trees? "

10 Then the trees said to the fig tree, "Come and reign over us."
11 But the fig tree said to them, "Should I stop giving my sweetness and my good fruit,

and rule over trees? ”

12 Later, the trees said to the grapevine, “Come and reign over us.”
13 But the grapevine said to them, “Should I stop giving my wine that cheers both God and man,
and rule over trees? ”

14 Finally, all the trees said to the bramble, “Come and reign over us.”
15 The bramble said to the trees, “If you really are anointing me as king over you, come and find refuge in my shade.
But if not,
may fire come out from the bramble and consume the cedars of Lebanon.”

16 “Now if you have acted faithfully † and honestly † in making Abimelech king, if you have done well by Jerubbaal and his family, and if you have rewarded him appropriately for what he did — 17 for my father fought for you, risked his life, and rescued you from Midian, 18 and now you have attacked my father’s family today, killed his seventy sons on top of a large stone, and made Abimelech, the son of his slave woman, king over the citizens of Shechem ‘because he is your brother’ — 19 so if you have acted faithfully and honestly with Jerubbaal and his house this day, rejoice in Abimelech and may he also rejoice in you. 20 But if not, may fire come from Abimelech and consume the citizens of Shechem and Beth-millo, and may fire come from the citizens of Shechem and Beth-millo and consume Abimelech.” 21 Then Jotham fled, escaping to Beer, and lived there because of his brother Abimelech.

ABIMELECH’S PUNISHMENT

22 When Abimelech had ruled over Israel three years, 23 God sent an evil spirit † between Abimelech and the citizens of Shechem. They treated Abimelech deceitfully, 24 so that the crime against the seventy sons of Jerubbaal might come to justice and their blood would be avenged on their brother Abimelech, who killed them, and on the citizens of Shechem, who had helped him † kill his brothers. 25 The citizens of Shechem rebelled against him by putting men in ambush † on the tops of the mountains, and they robbed everyone who passed by them on the road. So this was reported to Abimelech.

26 Gaal son of Ebed came with his brothers and crossed into Shechem, and the citizens of Shechem trusted him. 27 So they went out to the countryside and harvested grapes from their vineyards. They trampled the grapes and held a celebration. † Then they went to the house of their god, and as they ate and drank, they cursed Abimelech. 28 Gaal son of Ebed said, “Who is Abimelech and who is Shechem that we should serve him? Isn’t he the son of Jerubbaal, and isn’t Zebul his officer? You are to serve the men of Hamor, the father of Shechem. † Why should we serve Abimelech? 29 If only these people were in my power, I would remove Abimelech.” So he said † to Abimelech, “Gather your army and come out.”
30 When Zebul, the ruler of the city, heard the words of Gaal son of Ebed, he was angry. 31 So he secretly sent messengers to Abimelech, saying, “Beware! Gaal son of Ebed, with his brothers, have come to Shechem and are turning the city against you. † 32 Now tonight, you and the troops with you, come and wait in ambush in the countryside. 33 Then get up early, and at sunrise attack the city. When he and the troops who are with him come out against you, do to him whatever you can.” 34 So Abimelech and all the troops with him got up at night and waited in ambush for Shechem in four units.
35 Gaal son of Ebed went out and stood at the entrance of the city gate. Then Abimelech and the troops who were with him got up from their ambush. 36 When Gaal saw the troops, he said to Zebul, “Look, troops are coming down from the mountaintops! ” But Zebul said to him, “The shadows of the mountains look like men to you.”
37 Then Gaal spoke again, “Look, troops are coming down from the central part of the land, † and one unit is coming from the direction of the Diviners’ Oak.”
38 Zebul replied, “What do you have to say now? You said, ‘Who is Abimelech that we should serve him? ’ Aren’t these the troops you despised? Now go and fight them! ”
39 So Gaal went out leading the citizens of Shechem and fought against Abimelech, 40 but Abimelech pursued him, and Gaal fled before him. Numerous bodies were strewn † as far as the entrance of the city gate. 41 Abimelech stayed in Arumah, and Zebul drove Gaal and his brothers from Shechem.

42 The next day when the people of Shechem † went into the countryside, this was reported to Abimelech. 43 He took the troops, divided them into three companies, and waited in ambush in the countryside. He looked, and the people were coming out of the city, so he arose against them and struck them down.
44 Then Abimelech and the units that were with him rushed forward and took their stand at the entrance of the city gate. The other two units rushed against all who were in the countryside and struck them down. 45 So Abimelech fought against the city that entire day, captured it, and killed the people who were in it.
Then he tore down the city and sowed it with salt. † 46 When all the citizens of the Tower of Shechem heard, they entered the inner chamber † of the temple of El-berith. † 47 Then it was reported to Abimelech that all the citizens of the Tower of Shechem had gathered. 48 So Abimelech and all the troops who were with him went up to Mount Zalmon. Abimelech took his ax in his hand and cut a branch from the trees. He picked up the branch, put it on his shoulder, and said to the troops who were with him, “Hurry and do what you have seen me do.” 49 Each of the troops also cut his own branch and followed Abimelech. They put the branches against the inner chamber and set it on fire; about a thousand men and women died, including all the men of the Tower of Shechem.
50 Abimelech went to Thebez, † camped against it, and captured it. 51 There was a strong tower inside the city, † and all the men, women, and citizens of the city fled there. They locked themselves in and went up to the roof of the tower.
52 When Abimelech came to attack the tower, he approached its entrance to set it on fire. 53 But a woman threw the upper portion of a millstone on Abimelech’s head and fractured his skull. 54 He quickly called his armor-bearer and said to him, “Draw your sword and kill me, or they’ll say about me, ‘A woman killed him.’ ” So his armor-bearer ran him through, and he died. 55 When the Israelites saw that Abimelech was dead, they all went home.
56 In this way, God brought back Abimelech’s evil—the evil that Abimelech had done to his father when he killed his seventy brothers. 57 God also brought back to the men of Shechem all their evil. † So the curse of Jotham son of Jerubbaal came upon them. †

9:1-6 The unsuitability of Gideon's line for rule becomes even more apparent here (see 8:22-23). Gideon had led the Israelites into idolatry (8:24-27), and now one of his sons, Abimelech, killed all but one of his own seventy brothers. Abimelech had been born to Gideon through his concubine (8:31), and he secured the support of his relatives in Shechem to help him kill Gideon's other sons and make him king.

9:16-20 Jotham was the lone survivor from his brethren (v. 5), and he confronted the leaders of Shechem with a parable about trees seeking a ruler (see vv. 7-15). After being rebuffed by an olive tree, fig tree, and grapevine, they finally settled for an inferior bramble. Jotham's point was that Shechem had wronged the family of Gideon (8:35), supported an unworthy man, and ought to experience destruction as a result (vv. 15,20; see also vv. 56-57). The olive tree, fig tree, and grapevine may stand for worthier people in general or for Gideon and his line (8:22-23).

9:23-24 Abimelech's murderous actions had not gone unnoticed by God, who sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the citizens of Shechem so that his crime might come to justice (see also the note on 11:27). Jotham's curse would come true (vv. 20,56-57).

9:26-30 The lords of Shechem switched their allegiance to Gaal son of Ebed, who led them in cursing Abimelech and challenging him to a battle. With the help of Zebul, the ruler of the city (vv. 30-38), Abimelech was able to drive out Gaal (vv. 39-41). His destruction of the city and its tower (vv. 32-49) and his own death at Thebez fulfilled Jotham's curse (vv. 20,56-57).

9:53-54 This woman's role in Abimelech's death recalls Jael's killing of Sisera (4:17-22).

9:56-57 Like verses 23-24, these verses clearly demonstrate God's active involvement in bringing about justice on Abimelech's evil deed (see also 1:6-7). He was still at work, even during this dark period of Israelite history (see also 6:8-10).

TOLA AND JAIR

10 After Abimelech, Tola son of Puah, son of Dodo became judge and began to deliver Israel. He was from Issachar and lived in Shamir in the hill country of Ephraim. 2 Tola judged Israel twenty-three years and when he died, was buried in Shamir.

3 After him came Jair the Gileadite, † who judged Israel twenty-two years. 4 He had thirty sons who rode on thirty donkeys. They had thirty towns † in Gilead, which are still called Jair's Villages † today. 5 When Jair died, he was buried in Kamon.

ISRAEL'S REBELLION AND REPENTANCE

6 Then the Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of the LORD. † They worshiped the Baals and the Ashtoreths, the gods of Aram, Sidon, and Moab, and the gods of the Ammonites and the Philistines. † They abandoned the LORD and did not worship him. † 7 So the LORD's anger burned against Israel, and he sold them to † the Philistines and the Ammonites. † 8 They shattered and crushed the Israelites that year, and for eighteen years they did the same to all the Israelites who were on the other side of the Jordan † in the land of the Amorites † in Gilead. 9 The Ammonites also crossed the Jordan to fight against Judah, Benjamin, and the house of Ephraim. Israel was greatly oppressed, 10 so they cried out to the LORD, saying, "We have sinned against you. † We have abandoned our God and worshiped the Baals."

11 The LORD said to the Israelites, "When the Egyptians, † Amorites, Ammonites, Philistines, 12 Sidonians, Amalekites, and Maonites † † oppressed you, and you cried out to me, did I not deliver you from them? 13 But you have abandoned me and worshiped other gods. Therefore, I will not deliver you again. 14 Go and cry out to the gods you have chosen. † Let them deliver you whenever you are oppressed."

15 But the Israelites said, "We have sinned. Deal with us as you see fit; † only rescue us † today! " 16 So they got rid of the foreign gods † among them and worshiped the LORD, † and he became weary † of Israel's misery.

17 The Ammonites were called together, and they camped in Gilead. So the Israelites assembled and camped at Mizpah. † 18 The rulers † of Gilead said to one another, "Which man will begin the fight against the Ammonites? He will be the leader of all the inhabitants of Gilead."

10:6-16 Another round in the cycle of apostasy begins as Israel again did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, worshiped idols, and incurred his wrath (see 2:11-19). Israel's cry for help was initially refused by God, who said I will not deliver you again. Go and cry out to the gods you have chosen. But Israel persisted (v. 15) and got rid of the foreign gods among them so that the Lord was moved to help them yet again.

JEPHTHAH BECOMES ISRAEL'S LEADER

11 Jephthah † the Gileadite was a valiant warrior, † but he was the son of a prostitute, and Gilead was his father. 2 Gilead's wife bore him sons, and when they grew up, they drove Jephthah out and said to him, "You will have no inheritance in our father's family, because you are the son of another woman." 3 So Jephthah fled from his brothers and lived in the land of Tob. † Then some worthless men joined Jephthah and went on raids with him.

4 Some time later, the Ammonites fought against Israel. 5 When the Ammonites made war with Israel, the elders of Gilead went to get Jephthah from the land of Tob. 6 They said to him, "Come, be our commander, and let's fight the Ammonites."

7 Jephthah replied to the elders of Gilead, "Didn't you hate me and drive me out of my father's family? Why then have you come to me now when you're in trouble? "

8 They answered Jephthah, "That's true. But now we turn to you. Come with us, fight the Ammonites, and you will become leader of all the inhabitants of Gilead."

9 So Jephthah said to them, "If you are bringing me back to fight the Ammonites and the LORD gives them to me, I will be your leader."

10 The elders of Gilead said to Jephthah, "The LORD is our witness if we don't do as you say." 11 So Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead. The people made him their leader and commander, and Jephthah repeated all his terms in the presence of the LORD at Mizpah.

JEPHTHAH REJECTS AMMONITE CLAIMS

12 Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites, asking, "What do you have against me that you have come to fight me in my land? "

13 The king of the Ammonites said to Jephthah's messengers, "When Israel came from Egypt, they seized my land from the Arnon to the Jabbok † and the Jordan. Now restore it peaceably."
14 Jephthah again sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites 15 to tell him,
"This is what Jephthah says: Israel did not take away the land of Moab or the land of the Ammonites. 16 But when they came from Egypt, Israel traveled through the wilderness to the Red Sea and came to Kadesh. 17 Israel sent messengers to the king of Edom, saying, 'Please let us travel through your land,' but the king of Edom would not listen. They also sent messengers to the king of Moab, but he refused. So Israel stayed in Kadesh. † 18 "Then they traveled through the wilderness and around the lands of Edom and Moab. They came to the east side of the land of Moab and camped on the other side of the Arnon but did not enter into the territory of Moab, for the Arnon was the boundary of Moab.
19 "Then Israel sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, king of Heshbon. † Israel said to him, 'Please let us travel through your land to our country,' 20 but Sihon would not trust Israel to pass through his territory.
Instead, Sihon gathered all his troops, camped at Jahaz, and fought with Israel.
21 Then the LORD God of Israel handed over Sihon and all his troops to Israel, and they defeated them. So Israel took possession † of the entire land of the Amorites who lived in that country. 22 They took possession of all the territory of the Amorites from the Arnon to the Jabbok and from the wilderness to the Jordan.
23 "The LORD God of Israel has now driven out the Amorites before his people Israel, and will you now force us out? 24 Isn't it true that you can have whatever your god Chemosh conquers for you, and we can have whatever the LORD our God conquers for us? 25 Now are you any better than Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab? Did he ever contend with Israel or fight against them? 26 While Israel lived three hundred years in Heshbon and Aroer and their surrounding villages, and in all the cities that are on the banks of the Arnon, why didn't you take them back at that time? 27 I have not sinned against you, but you are doing me wrong by fighting against me. Let the LORD who is the judge † decide today between the Israelites and the Ammonites." 28 But the king of the Ammonites would not listen to Jephthah's message that he sent him.

JEPHTHAH'S VOW AND SACRIFICE

29 The Spirit of the LORD came on Jephthah, who traveled through Gilead and Manasseh, and then through Mizpah of Gilead. He crossed over to the Ammonites from Mizpah of Gilead. 30 Jephthah made this vow † to the LORD:
"If you in fact hand over the Ammonites to me, 31 whoever comes out the doors of my house to greet me when I return safely from the Ammonites will belong to the LORD, and I will offer that person as a burnt offering." † 32 Jephthah crossed over to the Ammonites to fight against them, and the LORD handed them over † to him. 33 He defeated twenty of their cities with a great slaughter from Aroer all the way to the entrance of Minnith and to Abelkeramim. So the Ammonites were subdued † before the Israelites.
34 When Jephthah went to his home in Mizpah, there was his daughter, coming out to meet him with tambourines and dancing! † She was his only child; he had no other son or daughter besides her. 35 When he saw her, he tore his clothes and said, "No! Not my daughter! You have devastated me! You have brought great misery on me. † I have given my word to the LORD and cannot take it back."
36 Then she said to him, "My father, you have given your word to the LORD. Do to me as you have said, for the LORD brought vengeance on your enemies, the Ammonites." 37 She also said to her father, "Let me do this one thing: Let me wander two months through the mountains with my friends and mourn my virginity."
38 "Go," he said. And he sent her away two months. So she left with her friends and mourned her virginity as she wandered through the mountains. 39 At the end of two months, she returned to her father, and he kept the vow he had made about her. And she had never been intimate with a man. Now it became a custom in Israel 40 that four days each year the young women of Israel would commemorate the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite.

11:1-6 Jephthah would be the one to deliver Israel from the Ammonites. As a son of a prostitute, he was denied social status and inheritance in his family. This probably led him to lawless behavior (v. 3) as a means of supporting himself.

11:13 The Ammonites contended that the Israelites had wrongly seized their land from the Arnon to the Jabbok and ought to restore it peaceably. As Jephthah explained, however, the Israelites had taken this land from the Amorites, not from the Ammonites (vv. 15, 21-22; see also Nm 22:21-24; Dt 2:19-37).

11:24 More typically associated with Moab (see Nm 11:29; 1Kg 11:7; Jr 48), the god Chemosh is associated with Ammon here.

11:27 Jephthah's appeal to the LORD who is the judge to decide this dispute was granted (see vv. 32-33). The theme of God's justice even during chaotic times surfaces here again (see the notes on 1:6-7; 2:11-19; 9:23-24).

11:29 Like Othniel, Gideon, and Samson (see 3:10; 6:34; 14:19; 15:14), Jephthah was also empowered by the Spirit of the LORD to deliver Israel.

11:39 Jephthah's rash vow to offer up "whoever comes out of the doors of my house to greet me . . . as a burnt offering" (v. 31) resulted in disaster because his daughter came out to meet him when he returned home (vv. 34-35). The emphasis on her permanent virginity (vv. 37-40) has led some to suggest that she was not sacrificed and merely was made to belong to the LORD (v. 31). If Jephthah did indeed offer her as a burnt offering, he did so contrary to several clear prohibitions against human sacrifice (see Lv 18:21; 20:2-4; Dt 12:31; 18:10). Because vows were binding (see Nm 30; Jos 9:15-20), rash vows are discouraged elsewhere in Scripture (see Dt 23:21-23; Pr 20:25; Ec 5:4-6). Jephthah had foolishly put himself into a dilemma.

CONFLICT WITH EPHRAIM

12 The men of Ephraim were called together and crossed the Jordan to Zaphon. † They said to Jephthah, "Why have you crossed over to fight against the Ammonites but didn't call us to go with you? We will burn your house with you in it! "
2 Then Jephthah said to them, "My people and I had a bitter conflict with the Ammonites. So I called for you, but you didn't deliver me from their power.
3 When I saw that you weren't going to deliver me, I took my life in my own hands and crossed over to the Ammonites, and the LORD handed them over to me. Why then have you come today to fight against me? "
4 Then Jephthah gathered all of the men of Gilead. They fought and defeated Ephraim, because Ephraim had said, "You Gileadites are Ephraimite fugitives in the territories of Ephraim and Manasseh." 5 The Gileadites captured the fords of the Jordan leading to Ephraim. Whenever a fugitive from Ephraim said, "Let me cross over," the Gileadites asked him, "Are you an Ephraimite? " If he answered, "No," 6 they told him, "Please say Shibboleth." If he said, "Sibboleth," because he could not pronounce it correctly, they seized him and executed him at the fords of the Jordan. At that time forty-two thousand from Ephraim died.

7 Jephthah judged Israel six years, and when he died, he was buried in one of the cities of Gilead. †

IBZAN, ELON, AND ABDON

8 Ibzan, who was from Bethlehem, † judged Israel after Jephthah 9 and had thirty sons. He gave his thirty daughters in marriage to men outside the tribe and brought back thirty wives for his sons from outside the tribe. Ibzan judged Israel seven years, 10 and when he died, he was buried in Bethlehem.
11 Elon, who was from Zebulun, judged Israel after Ibzan. He judged Israel ten years, 12 and when he died, he was buried in Aijalon in the land of Zebulun.
13 After Elon, Abdon son of Hillel, who was from Pirathon, † judged Israel. 14 He had forty sons and thirty grandsons, who rode on seventy donkeys. Abdon judged Israel eight years, 15 and when he died, he was buried in Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, in the hill country of the Amalekites. †

12:7 LXX reads in his city in Gilead
12:1 Jos 13:27 12:8 Gn 35:19; Ru 1:1-2; Mc 5:2 12:13 2Sm 23:30; 1Ch 11:31; 27:14 12:15 Gn 14:7; Nm 14:45; 2Sm 1:8,13

12:1-6 Whereas earlier Gideon had eased Ephraimite discontent for similar reasons (7:24–8:3), the present conflict with the Ephraimites escalated into violence. The softer, conciliatory response of Gideon in 8:2-3 and the harsher, defensive response of Jephthah in 12:2-3 well-illustrate the truth of Proverbs 15:1. The killing of forty-two thousand Ephraimites shows that Israel was self-destructing and foreshadows the near-destruction of the entire tribe of Benjamin (20:8-48).

BIRTH OF SAMSON

13 The Israelites again did what was evil in the LORD's sight, † so the LORD handed them over to the Philistines forty years. 2 There was a certain man from Zorah, † from the family of Dan, whose name was Manoah; his wife was unable to conceive and had no children. 3 The angel of the LORD appeared to the woman and said to her, "It is true that you are unable to conceive and have no children, but you will conceive and give birth to a son. 4 Now please be careful not to drink wine or beer, † or to eat anything unclean; † 5 for indeed, you will conceive and give birth to a son. You must never cut his hair, † because the boy will be a Nazirite † to God from birth, and he will begin to save Israel from the power of the Philistines."

6 Then the woman went and told her husband, “A man of God came to me. He looked like the awe-inspiring angel of God. I didn’t ask him where he came from, and he didn’t tell me his name. 7 He said to me, ‘You will conceive and give birth to a son. Therefore, do not drink wine or beer, and do not eat anything unclean, because the boy will be a Nazirite to God from birth until the day of his death.’ ”

8 Manoah prayed † to the LORD and said, “Please, Lord, let the man of God you sent come again to us and teach us what we should do for the boy who will be born.”

9 God listened † to † Manoah, and the angel of God came again to the woman. She was sitting in the field, and her husband Manoah was not with her. 10 The woman ran quickly to her husband and told him, “The man who came to me the other day has just come back! ”

11 So Manoah got up and followed his wife. When he came to the man, he asked, “Are you the man who spoke to my wife? ”

“I am,” he said.

12 Then Manoah asked, “When your words come true, what will be the boy’s responsibilities and work? ”

13 The angel of the LORD answered Manoah, “Your wife needs to do everything I told her. 14 She must not eat anything that comes from the grapevine or drink wine or beer. And she must not eat anything unclean. Your wife must do everything I have commanded her.”

15 “Please stay here,” Manoah told him, “and we will prepare a young goat † for you.”

16 The angel of the LORD said to him, “If I stay, I won’t eat your food. But if you want to prepare a burnt offering, offer it to the LORD.” (Manoah did not know he was the angel of the LORD.) 17 Then Manoah said to him, “What is your name, so that we may honor you when your words come true? ”

18 “Why do you ask my name,” the angel of the LORD asked him, “since it is beyond understanding.” †

19 Manoah took a young goat and a grain offering and offered them on a rock to the LORD, who did something miraculous † while Manoah and his wife were watching. 20 When the flame went up from the altar to the sky, the angel of the LORD went up in its flame. When Manoah and his wife saw this, they fell facedown on the ground. 21 The angel of the LORD did not appear again to Manoah and his wife. Then Manoah realized that it was the angel of the LORD.

22 "We're certainly going to die," he said to his wife, "because we have seen God! " †
23 But his wife said to him, "If the LORD had intended to kill us, he wouldn't have accepted the burnt offering and the grain offering from us, and he would not have shown us all these things or spoken to us like this."
24 So the woman gave birth to a son and named him Samson. † The boy grew, † and the LORD blessed him. 25 Then the Spirit of the LORD began to stir him in the Camp of Dan, † between Zorah and Eshtaol. †

13:4-7 The last cycle in 3:7–16:31 (see the notes on 2:11-19 and 3:7-11) centers around Samson, who was to be a Nazirite (vv. 5,7; see also v. 14). Such a person was especially consecrated to God and was to avoid drinking alcohol, becoming unclean, and cutting his hair (see also Nm 6:1-21). The narrative, however, will shortly reveal just how poor of a Nazirite Samson was. The name Samson means "little sun," which could be a vestige of honoring the sun god named Shemesh. If so, this is another indication of the extent to which idolatry was a part of the fabric of Israelite life (see the note on 6:25-32).

13:22 Manoah thought he had seen God but actually had seen "the angel of the LORD" (v. 21; cp. v. 13). Regarding seeing God, see also the notes on 6:11-16 and Exodus 24:9-11.

13:25 The activity of the Spirit of the LORD in connection with a judge is highlighted by the author yet again (see 3:10; 6:34; 11:29; 14:6,19; 15:14). Judges has seven references to the "Spirit of the LORD," more than any other book in the Bible. The second most is Isaiah with five, and 1 and 2 Samuel together also have five.

SAMSON'S RIDDLE

14 Samson went down to Timnah † and saw a young Philistine woman there. 2 He went back and told his father and his mother: "I have seen a young Philistine woman in Timnah. Now get her for me as a wife."
3 But his father and mother said to him, "Can't you find a young woman among your relatives or among any of our people? Must you go to the uncircumcised Philistines for a wife? "
But Samson told his father, "Get her for me. She's the right one for me." 4 Now his father and mother did not know this was from the LORD, † who wanted the Philistines to provide an opportunity for a confrontation. † At that time, the Philistines were ruling Israel.

5 Samson went down to Timnah with his father and mother and came to the vineyards of Timnah. Suddenly a young lion came roaring at him, 6 the Spirit of the LORD came powerfully on † him, and he tore the lion apart with his bare hands as he might have torn a young goat. But he did not tell his father or mother what he had done. 7 Then he went and spoke to the woman, because she seemed right to Samson.
8 After some time, when he returned to marry her, he left the road to see the lion's carcass, and there was a swarm of bees with honey in the carcass. 9 He scooped some honey into his hands and ate it as he went along. When he came to his father and mother, he gave some to them and they ate it. But he did not tell them that he had scooped the honey from the lion's carcass. †
10 His father went to visit the woman, and Samson prepared a feast there, as young men were accustomed to do. 11 When the Philistines saw him, they brought thirty men to accompany him.
12 "Let me tell you a riddle," † Samson said to them. "If you can explain it to me during the seven days of the feast and figure it out, I will give you thirty linen garments and thirty changes of clothes. 13 But if you can't explain it to me, you must give me thirty linen garments and thirty changes of clothes."
"Tell us your riddle," they replied. † "Let's hear it."
14 So he said to them:

Out of the eater came something to eat, and out of the strong came something sweet.

After three days, they were unable to explain the riddle. 15 On the fourth † day they said to Samson's wife, "Persuade your husband to explain the riddle to us, or we will burn you and your father's family to death. Did you invite us here to rob us? "
16 So Samson's wife came to him, weeping, and said, "You hate me and don't love me! † You told my people the riddle, but haven't explained it to me."
"Look," he said, † "I haven't even explained it to my father or mother, so why should I explain it to you? "

17 She wept the whole seven days of the feast, and at last, on the seventh day, he explained it to her, because she had nagged him so much. Then she explained it to her people. 18 On the seventh day, before sunset, the men of the city said to him:

What is sweeter than honey?
What is stronger than a lion?

So he said to them:

If you hadn't plowed with my young cow,
you wouldn't know my riddle now!

19 The Spirit of the LORD came powerfully on him, and he went down to Ashkelon and killed thirty of their men. He stripped them and gave their clothes to those who had explained the riddle. In a rage, Samson returned to his father's house, 20 and his wife was given to one of the men who had accompanied him.

14:1-9 A Nazirite was supposed to be someone who not only kept the laws applicable to all Israelites but would go a step further in personal dedication to God (see Nm 6:1-21). This passage, however, reveals that Samson violated both the general law and that of the Nazirite. First, he chose to marry a Philistine woman. This intermarriage was opposed by his parents (v. 3) and was almost certainly forbidden for all Israelites (see 3:1-6; 10:6; Ex 34:15-16; Dt 7:1-4). Samson's reason for disregarding the law was merely, "she is right in my eyes" (lit v. 3). Likewise, the Israelites as a whole had intermarried (3:6) and "did what was right in [their] own eyes" (lit 17:6; 21:25; see notes on both verses). These parallels suggest that Samson personifies Israel as a whole. Nevertheless, God was working through him to punish the Philistines (v. 4; see 14:19; 15:14). Second, Samson ate honey he had taken from an unclean lion's carcass (see the note on 13:4-7).

14:15-17 The successful manipulation of Samson through his wife foreshadows a similar turn of events involving Delilah (see the note on 16:16-17).

14:19 The Lord wanted Samson's marriage to a Philistine "to provide an opportunity for a confrontation" between that judge and the Philistines (v. 4). He thus empowered him to kill thirty men from Ashkelon, a Philistine city (see also 15:14,18).

SAMSON'S REVENGE

15 Later on, during the wheat harvest, † Samson took a young goat as a gift and visited his wife. "I want to go to my wife in her room," he said.

But her father would not let him enter.
2 “I was sure you hated her,” her father said, “so I gave her to one of the men who accompanied you. Isn’t her younger sister more beautiful than she is? Why not take her instead? ”
3 Samson said to them, “This time I will be blameless † when I harm the Philistines.” 4 So he went out and caught three hundred foxes. † He took torches, turned the foxes tail-to-tail, and put a torch between each pair of tails.
5 Then he ignited the torches and released the foxes into the standing grain of the Philistines. He burned the piles of grain and the standing grain as well as the vineyards and olive groves. †
6 Then the Philistines asked, “Who did this? ”
They were told, “It was Samson, the Timnite’s son-in-law, because he took Samson’s wife and gave her to his companion.” So the Philistines went to her and her father and burned them to death.
7 Then Samson told them, “Because you did this, I swear that I won’t rest until I have taken vengeance on you.” 8 He tore them limb from limb † and then went down and stayed in the cave at the rock of Etam.
9 The Philistines went up, camped in Judah, and raided Lehi. 10 So the men of Judah said, “Why have you attacked us? ” They replied, “We have come to tie Samson up and pay him back for what he did to us.”
11 Then three thousand men of Judah went to the cave at the rock of Etam, and they asked Samson, “Don’t you realize that the Philistines rule us? † What have you done to us? ”
“I have done to them what they did to me,” he answered. †
12 They said to him, “We’ve come to tie you up and hand you over to the Philistines.”
Then Samson told them, “Swear to me that you yourselves won’t kill me.” 13 “No,” they said, † “we won’t kill you, but we will tie you up securely and hand you over to them.” So they tied him up with two new ropes † and led him away from the rock.
14 When he came to Lehi, the Philistines came to meet him shouting. The Spirit of the LORD came powerfully on him, and the ropes that were on his arms and wrists became like burnt flax and fell off. 15 He found a fresh jawbone of a donkey, reached out his hand, took it, and killed a thousand men with it. 16 Then Samson said:

With the jawbone of a donkey
I have piled them in heaps.
With the jawbone of a donkey
I have killed a thousand men.

17 When he finished speaking, he threw away the jawbone and named that place Ramath-lehi. † 18 He became very thirsty and called out to the LORD: "You have accomplished this great victory through your servant. Must I now die of thirst and fall into the hands of the uncircumcised?" 19 So God split a hollow place in the ground at Lehi, and water came out of it. After Samson drank, his strength returned, and he revived. † That is why he named it En-hakkore, † which is still in Lehi today. 20 And he judged Israel twenty years in the days of the Philistines.

15:3-5 Samson's anger and impulsiveness resurface when he discovers that his wife had been given to someone else (14:19–15:2). Using foxes and torches, he burned the grain, vineyards, and olive groves of the Philistines.

15:14-16 The Philistines' retaliation (vv. 6-10) resulted in Samson killing a thousand more Philistines (see the note on 14:19). While this act fulfilled his God-given role as judge, he accomplished it with the help of the jawbone of a donkey. This contact with a carcass again violated his Nazirite vow.

SAMSON AND DELILAH

16 Samson went to Gaza, † where he saw a prostitute and went to bed with her. 2 When the Gazites heard that Samson was there, they surrounded the place and waited in ambush for him all that night at the city gate. They kept quiet all night, saying, "Let's wait until dawn; then we will kill him." 3 But Samson stayed in bed only until midnight. Then he got up, took hold of the doors of the city gate along with the two gateposts, and pulled them out, bar and all. He put them on his shoulders and took them to the top of the mountain overlooking Hebron.

4 Some time later, he fell in love with a woman named Delilah, who lived in the Sorek Valley. 5 The Philistine leaders † went to her and said, “Persuade him to tell you † where his great strength comes from, so we can overpower him, tie him up, and make him helpless. Each of us will then give you 1,100 pieces of silver.”
6 So Delilah said to Samson, “Please tell me, where does your great strength come from? How could someone tie you up and make you helpless? ” 7 Samson told her, “If they tie me up with seven fresh bowstrings that have not been dried, I will become weak and be like any other man.” 8 The Philistine leaders brought her seven fresh bowstrings that had not been dried, and she tied him up with them. 9 While the men in ambush were waiting in her room, she called out to him, “Samson, the Philistines are here! ” † But he snapped the bowstrings as a strand of yarn snaps when it touches fire. The secret of his strength remained unknown.
10 Then Delilah said to Samson, “You have mocked me and told me lies! Won’t you please tell me how you can be tied up? ” 11 He told her, “If they tie me up with new ropes that have never been used, †
I will become weak and be like any other man.”
12 Delilah took new ropes, tied him up with them, and shouted, “Samson, the Philistines are here! ” But while the men in ambush were waiting in her room, he snapped the ropes off his arms like a thread.
13 Then Delilah said to Samson, “You have mocked me all along and told me lies! Tell me how you can be tied up.”
He told her, “If you weave the seven braids on my head into the fabric on a loom
__ ” †
14 She fastened the braids with a pin and called to him, “Samson, the Philistines are here! ” He awoke from his sleep and pulled out the pin, with the loom and the web.
15 “How can you say, ‘I love you,’ ” † she told him, “when your heart is not with me? This is the third time you have mocked me and not told me what makes your strength so great! ” 16 Because she nagged him day after day and pleaded with him until she wore him out, † 17 he told her the whole truth and said to her, “My hair has never been cut, † because I am a Nazirite † to God from birth. If I am shaved, my strength will leave me, and I will become weak and be like any other man."

18 When Delilah realized that he had told her the whole truth, she sent this message to the Philistine leaders: "Come one more time, for he has told me the whole truth." The Philistine leaders came to her and brought the silver with them.
19 Then she let him fall asleep on her lap and called a man to shave off the seven braids on his head. In this way, she made him helpless, and his strength left him.
20 Then she cried, "Samson, the Philistines are here! " When he awoke from his sleep, he said, "I will escape as I did before and shake myself free." But he did not know that the LORD had left him. †

SAMSON'S DEFEAT AND DEATH

21 The Philistines seized him and gouged out his eyes. They brought him down to Gaza and bound him with bronze shackles, and he was forced to grind grain in the prison. 22 But his hair began to grow back after it had been shaved.
23 Now the Philistine leaders gathered together to offer a great sacrifice to their god Dagon. † They rejoiced and said:

Our god has handed over our enemy Samson to us.

24 When the people saw him, they praised their god † and said:

Our god has handed over to us our enemy who destroyed our land and who multiplied our dead.

25 When they were in good spirits, † they said, "Bring Samson here to entertain us." So they brought Samson from prison, and he entertained them. They had him stand between the pillars.
26 Samson said to the young man who was leading him by the hand, "Lead me where I can feel the pillars supporting the temple, so I can lean against them."
27 The temple was full of men and women; all the leaders of the Philistines were there, and about three thousand men and women were on the roof watching Samson entertain them. 28 He called out to the LORD: "Lord GOD, please remember me. † Strengthen me, God, just once more. With one act of vengeance, let me pay back the Philistines for my two eyes.” 29 Samson took hold of the two middle pillars supporting the temple and leaned against them, one on his right hand and the other on his left. 30 Samson said, “Let me die with the Philistines.” He pushed with all his might, and the temple fell on the leaders and all the people in it. And those he killed at his death were more than those he had killed in his life.

31 Then his brothers and all his father’s family came down, carried him back, and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol in the tomb of his father Manoah. So he judged Israel twenty years.

16:1 Samson’s serious moral flaws become apparent again when he goes to a prostitute.

16:16-17 Samson’s statement I am a Nazirite to God from birth is strikingly ironic. He had not cut his hair, but he had eaten unclean food (14:8-9) and may have consumed alcohol (14:10). He had also used an animal carcass (15:16) and slept with a prostitute (16:1). Despite his tremendous physical strength, he twice succumbed to the nagging of a woman (see 14:17; and the note on 4:14-22). He had the look of a Nazirite and of a mighty warrior, but he lacked both genuine dedication to God and self-control.

16:19-20 Samson’s strength was from God and not from his hair (see 14:6,19; 15:14; 16:28-30), which did not bear any magical power. His strength left him because the LORD had left him.

16:21-30 Samson spent the latter part of his life tragically in weakness, blindness, imprisonment, and humiliation under the Philistines (see the note on 16:16-17). As a result, his captors praised their god Dagon (see also 1Sm 5:2-7; 1Ch 10:10) for his supposed deliverance (vv. 23-24). Nevertheless, God answered Samson’s last prayer for strength to push over the central pillars of the temple as his final act of vengeance against the Philistines (see the note on 14:19).

MICAH’S PRIEST

17 There was a man from the hill country of Ephraim named Micah. 2 He said to his mother, “The 1,100 pieces of silver taken from you, and that I heard you place a curse on — here’s the silver. I took it.”

Then his mother said, “My son, may you be blessed by the LORD! ” †

3 He returned the 1,100 pieces of silver to his mother, and his mother said, “I personally consecrate † the silver to the LORD for my son’s benefit to make a carved image and a silver idol. † I will give it back to you.” 4 So he returned the silver to his mother, and she took five pounds of silver and gave it to a silversmith. He made it into a carved image and a silver idol, and it was in Micah's house.

5 This man Micah had a shrine, and he made an ephod and household idols, † and installed one of his sons to be his priest. 6 In those days there was no king in Israel; † everyone did whatever seemed right to him.

7 There was a young man, a Levite from Bethlehem in Judah, who was staying within the clan of Judah. † 8 The man left the town of Bethlehem in Judah to stay wherever he could find a place. On his way he came to Micah's home in the hill country of Ephraim.

9 "Where do you come from?" Micah asked him.

He answered him, "I am a Levite from Bethlehem in Judah, and I'm going to stay wherever I can find a place."

10 Micah replied, † "Stay with me and be my father † and priest, and I will give you four ounces of silver a year, along with your clothing and provisions." So the Levite went in 11 and agreed to stay with the man, and the young man became like one of his sons. 12 Micah consecrated the Levite, and the young man became his priest † and lived in Micah's house. 13 Then Micah said, "Now I know that the LORD will be good to me, because a Levite has become my priest."

17:1 The last five chapters of the book describe two incidents that further illustrate the depth of spiritual darkness in Israel during the period of the judges (see also the note on v. 6).

17:6 Repeated four times in Judges 17–21 is the statement that in those days there was no king in Israel (see also 18:1; 19:1; 21:25), and twice is added the point that everyone did whatever seemed right to him (see 21:25; note on 14:1-9). The statement "there was no king" probably has a double meaning. On the one hand, there was no human king over Israel. The biblical author is thus characterizing the period of the judges as lacking adequate leadership and as a free-for-all (see also Dt 12:8). But Israel had also rejected the Lord as King and was unwilling to submit to him. A parallel to postmodernism and its rejection of absolute truth has been suggested with regard to this passage. Apparently, verses 1-5 have already served to illustrate the author's point in the present verse.

17:13 Micah's confidence that the LORD will be good to him is utterly baseless. Like his mother, he has invoked the name of God and assumed his favor despite blatant idolatry (see vv. 2-5). The involvement of a Levite only adds to the travesty.

DAN'S INVASION AND IDOLATRY

DAN'S INVASION AND IDOLATRY

18 In those days, there was no king in Israel, † and the Danite tribe was looking for territory to occupy. † Up to that time no territory had been captured by them among the tribes of Israel. 2 So the Danites sent out five brave men † from all their clans, from Zorah and Eshtaol, † to scout † out the land and explore it. They told them, "Go and explore the land."
They came to the hill country of Ephraim as far as the home of Micah and spent the night there. 3 While they were near Micah's home, they recognized the accent of the young Levite. So they went over to him and asked, "Who brought you here? What are you doing in this place? What is keeping you here? " 4 He told them, "This is what Micah has done for me: He has hired me, and I became his priest."
5 Then they said to him, "Please inquire of God † for us to determine if we will have a successful journey."
6 The priest told them, "Go in peace. The LORD is watching over the journey you are going on."
7 The five men left and came to Laish. They saw that the people who were there were living securely, in the same way as the Sidonians, quiet and unsuspecting. There was nothing lacking † in the land and no oppressive ruler. They were far from the Sidonians, having no alliance with anyone. †
8 When the men went back to their relatives at Zorah and Eshtaol, † their relatives asked them, "What did you find out? "
9 They answered, "Come on, let's attack them, for we have seen the land, and it is very good. Why wait? Don't hesitate to go and invade and take possession of the land! 10 When you get there, you will come to an unsuspecting people and a spacious land, for God has handed it over to you. It is a place where nothing on earth is lacking." † 11 Six hundred Danites departed from Zorah and Eshtaol armed with weapons of war. 12 They went up and camped at Kiriath-jearim † in Judah. This is why the place is still called the Camp of Dan † today; it is west of Kiriath-jearim. 13 From there they traveled to the hill country of Ephraim and arrived at Micah's house.
14 The five men who had gone to scout out the land of Laish told their brothers, "Did you know that there are an ephod, household gods, and a carved image and a silver idol † in these houses? Now think about what you should do.” 15 So they detoured there and went to the house of the young Levite at the home of Micah and greeted him. 16 The six hundred Danite men were standing by the entrance of the city gate, armed with their weapons of war. 17 Then the five men who had gone to scout out the land went in and took the carved image, the ephod, the household idols, and the silver idol, † while the priest was standing by the entrance of the city gate with the six hundred men armed with weapons of war.

18 When they entered Micah’s house and took the carved image, the ephod, the household idols, and the silver idol, the priest said to them, “What are you doing? ” 19 They told him, “Be quiet. Keep your mouth shut. † † Come with us and be a father and a priest to us. Is it better for you to be a priest for the house of one person or for you to be a priest for a tribe and family in Israel? ” 20 So the priest was pleased and took his ephod, household idols, and carved image, and went with the people. 21 They prepared to leave, putting their dependents, livestock, and possessions in front of them.
22 After they were some distance from Micah’s house, the men who were in the houses near it were mustered and caught up with the Danites. 23 They called to the Danites, who turned to face them, and said to Micah, “What’s the matter with you that you mustered the men? ” 24 He said, “You took the gods I had made and the priest, and went away. What do I have left? How can you say to me, ‘What’s the matter with you? ’ ” 25 The Danites said to him, “Don’t raise your voice against us, or angry men will attack you, and you and your family will lose your lives.” 26 The Danites went on their way, and Micah turned to go back home, because he saw that they were stronger than he was.
27 After they had taken the gods Micah had made and the priest that belonged to him, they went to Laish, to a quiet and unsuspecting people. They killed them with their swords and burned the city. † 28 There was no one to rescue them † because it was far from Sidon and they had no alliance with anyone. It was in a valley that belonged to Beth-rehob. They rebuilt the city and lived in it. 29 They named the city Dan, after the name of their ancestor Dan, who was born to Israel. The city was formerly named Laish.

30 The Danites set up the carved image for themselves. Jonathan son of Gershom, son of Moses, † and his sons were priests for the Danite tribe until the time of the exile from the land. † 31 So they set up for themselves Micah's carved image that he had made, and it was there as long as the house of God was in Shiloh. †

18:1-2 The tribe of Dan was the slowest to take possession of their land (see the note on 1:21-36). Regarding the lack of a king in Israel, see the note on 17:6.

18:19-26 The idolatry of one household has now ensnared an entire tribe (see also vv. 30-31). This is in line with the wisdom of 1 Corinthians 5:6: "a little leaven leavens the whole batch of dough." Sadly, Micah cared deeply about his gods and tried to get them back but was turned back by the Danites' threats of violence.

OUTRAGE IN BENJAMIN

19 In those days, when there was no king in Israel, † a Levite staying in a remote part of the hill country of Ephraim acquired a woman from Bethlehem in Judah as his concubine. 2 But she was unfaithful to † him and left him for her father's house in Bethlehem in Judah. She was there for four months. 3 Then her husband got up and followed her to speak kindly to her † † and bring her back. He had his servant with him and a pair of donkeys. So she brought him to her father's house, and when the girl's father saw him, he gladly welcomed him. 4 His father-in-law, the girl's father, detained him, and he stayed with him for three days. They ate, drank, and spent the nights there.

5 On the fourth day, they got up early in the morning and prepared to go, but the girl's father said to his son-in-law, "Have something to eat to keep up your strength † and then you can go." 6 So they sat down and the two of them ate and drank together. Then the girl's father said to the man, "Please agree to stay overnight and enjoy yourself." † 7 The man got up to go, but his father-in-law persuaded him, so he stayed and spent the night there again. 8 He got up early in the morning of the fifth day to leave, but the girl's father said to him, "Please keep up your strength." So they waited until late afternoon and the two of them ate. 9 The man got up to go with his concubine and his servant, when his father-in-law, the girl's father, said to him, "Look, night is coming. Please spend the night. See, the day is almost over. Spend the night here, enjoy yourself, then you can get up early tomorrow for your journey and go home." 10 But the man was unwilling to spend the night. He got up, departed, and arrived opposite Jebus (that is, Jerusalem †). The man had his two saddled donkeys and his concubine with him. 11 When they were near Jebus and the day was almost gone, the servant † said to his master, "Please, why not let us stop at this Jebusite city and spend the night here?" 12 But his master replied to him, "We will not stop at a foreign city where there are no Israelites. Let's move on to Gibeah." † 13 "Come on," he said, † "let's try to reach one of these places and spend the night in Gibeah or Ramah." 14 So they continued on their journey, and the sun set as they neared Gibeah in Benjamin. 15 They stopped † to go in and spend the night in Gibeah. The Levite went in and sat down in the city square, but no one took them into their home to spend the night.

16 In the evening, an old man came in from his work in the field. He was from the hill country of Ephraim, † but he was residing in Gibeah where the people were Benjaminites. 17 When he looked up and saw the traveler in the city square, the old man asked, "Where are you going, and where do you come from?"
18 He answered him, "We're traveling from Bethlehem in Judah to the remote hill country of Ephraim, where I am from. I went to Bethlehem in Judah, and now I'm going to the house of the LORD. † No one has taken me into his home, 19 although there's straw and feed for the donkeys, and I have bread and wine for me, my concubine, and the servant † with us. There is nothing we lack." 20 "Welcome!" said the old man. "I'll take care of everything you need. Only don't spend the night in the square." 21 So he brought him to his house and fed the donkeys. Then they washed their feet and ate and drank. † 22 While they were enjoying themselves, all of a sudden, wicked men of the city † surrounded the house and beat on the door. They said to the old man who was the owner of the house, “Bring out the man who came to your house so we can have sex with him! ”

23 The owner of the house went out and said to them, “Please don’t do this evil, my brothers. After all, this man has come into my house. Don’t commit this horrible outrage. † 24 Here, let me bring out my virgin daughter † and the man’s concubine now. Abuse them † and do whatever you want † to them. But don’t commit this outrageous thing against this man.”
25 But the men would not listen to him, so the man seized his concubine and took her outside to them. They raped † her and abused her all night until morning. At daybreak they let her go. 26 Early that morning, the woman made her way back, and as it was getting light, she collapsed at the doorway of the man’s house where her master was.
27 When her master got up in the morning, opened the doors of the house, and went out to leave on his journey, there was the woman, his concubine, collapsed near the doorway of the house with her hands on the threshold. 28 “Get up,” he told her. “Let’s go.” But there was no response. † So the man put her on his donkey and set out for home.
29 When he entered his house, he picked up a knife, took hold of his concubine, cut her into twelve pieces, limb by limb, and then sent her throughout the territory of Israel. 30 Everyone who saw it said, “Nothing like this has ever happened or has been seen since the day the Israelites came out of the land of Egypt until now. † Think it over, discuss it, and speak up! ”

19:1 The second incident recounted in Judges 17–21 also involves a Levite (see the note on 17:13). His having a concubine seems questionable at best. Regarding the lack of a king in Israel, see the note on 17:6.

19:16-28 Significant parallels exist between this passage and Genesis 19: guests spending the night in a local host’s home (cp. Gn 19:1-3), other local men demanding homosexual relations with the male guest(s)

(cp. Gn 19:4-5), and an offer of women instead (cp. Gn 19:6-8). The implication is that Israel had become as depraved as Sodom and as such deserved the same just punishment (see Gn 19:24-25). Ironically, the Levite had actually passed by a Jebusite city earlier because he thought he would be better off in an Israelite one (vv. 10-13). See "Engaging LGBT Advocates," p. 1392.

WAR AGAINST BENJAMIN

20 All the Israelites from Dan to Beer-sheba † and from the land of Gilead came out, and the community assembled as one body before the LORD at Mizpah. † 2 The leaders † of all the people and of all the tribes of Israel presented themselves in the assembly of God's people: four hundred thousand armed † foot soldiers. 3 The Benjaminites heard that the Israelites had gone up to Mizpah.
The Israelites asked, "Tell us, how did this evil act happen? "
4 The Levite, the husband of the murdered woman, answered: "I went to Gibeah in Benjamin with my concubine to spend the night. 5 Citizens of Gibeah came to attack me and surrounded the house at night. They intended to kill me, but they raped my concubine, and she died. 6 Then I took my concubine and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout Israel's territory, because they have committed a wicked outrage in † Israel. 7 Look, all of you are Israelites. Give your judgment and verdict here and now."
8 Then all the people stood united and said, "None of us will go to his tent or return to his house. 9 Now this is what we will do to Gibeah: we will attack it. By lot 10 we will take ten men out of every hundred from all the tribes of Israel, and one hundred out of every thousand, and one thousand out of every ten thousand to get provisions for the troops when they go to Gibeah in Benjamin to punish them for all the outrage they committed in Israel."
11 So all the men of Israel † gathered united against the city. 12 Then the tribes of Israel sent men throughout the tribe of Benjamin, saying, "What is this evil act that has happened among you? 13 Hand over the wicked men † in Gibeah so we can put them to death and eradicate evil † from Israel." But the Benjaminites would not listen to their fellow Israelites. 14 Instead, the Benjaminites gathered together from their cities to Gibeah to go out and fight against the Israelites. 15 On that day the Benjaminites mobilized twenty-six thousand armed men † † from their cities, besides seven hundred fit young men rallied by the inhabitants of Gibeah. 16 There were seven hundred fit young men who were left-handed among all these troops; all could sling a stone at a hair and not miss.

17 The Israelites, apart from Benjamin, mobilized four hundred thousand armed men, every one an experienced warrior. 18 They set out, went to Bethel, and inquired of God. † The Israelites asked, “Who is to go first to fight for us against the Benjaminites? ”
And the LORD answered, “Judah will be first.”
19 In the morning, the Israelites set out and camped near Gibeah. 20 The men of Israel went out to fight against Benjamin and took their battle positions against Gibeah. 21 The Benjaminites came out of Gibeah and slaughtered twenty-two thousand men of Israel on the field that day. 22 But the Israelite troops rallied and again took their battle positions in the same place where they positioned themselves on the first day. 23 They went up, wept † before the LORD until evening, † and inquired of him: “Should we again attack our brothers the Benjaminites? ”
And the LORD answered: “Fight against them.” 24 On the second day the Israelites advanced against the Benjaminites. 25 That same day the Benjaminites came out from Gibeah to meet them and slaughtered an additional eighteen thousand Israelites on the field; all were armed. † 26 The whole Israelite army went to Bethel where they wept and sat before the LORD. † They fasted that day until evening and offered burnt offerings and fellowship offerings to the LORD. 27 Then the Israelites inquired of the LORD. In those days, the ark of the covenant † of God was there, 28 and Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, † was serving before it. The Israelites asked: “Should we again fight against our brothers the Benjaminites or should we stop? ”
The LORD answered: “Fight, because I will hand them over to you tomorrow.” † 29 So Israel set up an ambush † around Gibeah. 30 On the third day the Israelites fought against the Benjaminites and took their battle positions against Gibeah as before. 31 Then the Benjaminites came out against the troops and were drawn away from the city. † They began to attack the troops as before, killing about thirty men of Israel on the highways, one of which goes up to Bethel and the other to Gibeah through the open country. 32 The Benjaminites said, “We are defeating them as before.”

But the Israelites said, “Let’s flee and draw them away from the city to the highways.” 33 So all the men of Israel got up from their places and took their battle positions at Baal-tamar, while the Israelites in ambush charged out of their places west of † Geba. † 34 Then ten thousand fit young men from all Israel made a frontal assault against Gibeah, and the battle was fierce, but the Benjaminites did not know that disaster was about to strike them. 35 The LORD defeated Benjamin in the presence of Israel, and on that day the Israelites slaughtered 25,100 men of Benjamin; all were armed. 36 Then the Benjaminites realized they had been defeated.

The men of Israel had retreated before Benjamin, because they were confident in the ambush they had set against Gibeah. 37 The men in ambush had rushed quickly against Gibeah; they advanced and put the whole city to the sword. † 38 The men of Israel had a prearranged signal with the men in ambush: when they sent up a great cloud of smoke from the city, 39 the men of Israel would return to the battle. When Benjamin had begun to strike them down, killing about thirty men of Israel, they said, “They’re defeated before us, just as they were in the first battle.” † 40 But when the column of smoke began to go up from the city, Benjamin looked behind them, and the whole city was going up in smoke. † 41 Then the men of Israel returned, and the men of Benjamin were terrified when they realized that disaster had struck them. 42 They retreated before the men of Israel toward the wilderness, † but the battle overtook them, and those who came out of the cities † slaughtered those between them. 43 They surrounded the Benjaminites, pursued them, and easily overtook them near Gibeah toward the east. 44 There were eighteen thousand men who died from Benjamin; all were warriors. 45 Then Benjamin turned and fled toward the wilderness to Rimmon Rock, † and Israel killed five thousand men on the highways. They overtook them at Gidom and struck two thousand more dead.

46 All the Benjaminites who died that day were twenty-five thousand armed men; all were warriors. 47 But six hundred men escaped into the wilderness to Rimmon Rock and stayed there four months. 48 The men of Israel turned back against the other Benjaminites and killed them with their swords — the entire city, the animals, and everything that remained. They also burned all the cities that remained.

20:11-17 The Levite's tactics aroused the attention of the whole nation. After hearing his report, the Israelites determined to go to war against Gibeah (vv. 8-10). When Benjamin decided to stand alongside of this city of theirs (19:14,16), the stage was set for civil war. The theme of disunity and infighting within Israel has thus appeared again (see the note on 12:1-6).

20:18-28 The Israelites were humbled when Benjamin defeated them soundly twice (vv. 18-25). Although they inquired of the LORD prior to both of these occasions, their first inquiry assumed that they were supposed to fight (v. 18), and their second inquiry was not answered with an assurance of victory (v. 23). Their third inquiry clearly left every option open, including not fighting Benjamin anymore (v. 28). This time, God's response did include an assurance of victory, as in other passages (see 4:14; 7:9; Jos 6:2; 8:1; 10:8; 1Sm 23:4; 2Sm 5:19; 1Kg 20:13,28).

BRIDES FOR BENJAMIN

21 The men of Israel had sworn an oath at Mizpah: "None of us will give his daughter to a Benjaminite in marriage." † 2 So the people went to Bethel and sat there before God † until evening. They wept loudly and bitterly, 3 and cried out, "Why, LORD God of Israel, has it occurred † that one tribe is missing in Israel today?" 4 The next day the people got up early, built an altar there, † and offered burnt offerings and fellowship offerings. 5 The Israelites asked, "Who of all the tribes of Israel didn't come to the LORD with the assembly?" For a great oath had been taken that anyone who had not come to the LORD at Mizpah would certainly be put to death.
6 But the Israelites had compassion on their brothers, the Benjaminites, and said, "Today a tribe has been cut off from Israel. 7 What should we do about wives for the survivors? We've sworn to the LORD not to give them any of our daughters as wives." 8 They asked, "Which city among the tribes of Israel didn't come to the LORD at Mizpah?" It turned out that no one from Jabesh-gilead had come to the camp and the assembly. 9 For when the roll was called, no men were there from the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead.

10 The congregation sent twelve thousand brave warriors † there and commanded them: “Go and kill the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the sword, † including women and dependents. 11 This is what you should do:
Completely destroy every male, as well as every woman who has gone to bed with a man.” 12 They found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred young virgins, who had not gone to bed with a man, and they brought them to the camp at Shiloh in the land of Canaan.
13 The whole congregation sent a message of peace † to the Benjaminites who were at Rimmon Rock. 14 Benjamin returned at that time, and Israel gave them the women they had kept alive from Jabesh-gilead. But there were not enough for them.
15 The people had compassion on Benjamin, because the LORD had made this gap in the tribes of Israel. 16 The elders of the congregation said, “What should we do about wives for those who are left, since the women of Benjamin have been destroyed?” 17 They said, “There must be heirs for the survivors of Benjamin, so that a tribe of Israel will not be wiped out. 18 But we can’t give them our daughters as wives.” For the Israelites had sworn, “Anyone who gives a wife to a Benjaminite is cursed.” 19 They also said, “Look, there’s an annual festival to the LORD in Shiloh, † which is north of Bethel, east of the highway that goes up from Bethel to Shechem, and south of Lebonah.” 20 Then they commanded the Benjaminites: “Go and hide in the vineyards.
21 Watch, and when you see the young women of Shiloh come out to perform the dances, † each of you leave the vineyards and catch a wife for yourself from the young women of Shiloh, and go to the land of Benjamin. 22 When their fathers or brothers come to us and protest, we will tell them, ‘Show favor to them, since we did not get enough wives for each of them in the battle. You didn’t actually give the women to them, so † you are not guilty of breaking your oath.’ ”
23 The Benjaminites did this and took the number of women they needed from the dancers they caught. They went back to their own inheritance, rebuilt their cities, † and lived in them. 24 At that time, each of the Israelites returned from there to his own tribe and family. Each returned from there to his own inheritance.

25 In those days there was no king in Israel; † everyone did whatever seemed right to him.

21:3 Lit has this occurred in Israel 21:10 Lit twelve thousand of their sons of valor 21:22 Lit at this time 21:1 Jdg 21:7,18 21:2 Jdg 20:26 21:4 2Sm 24:25 21:10 Nm 31:17 21:13 Dt 20:10 21:19 Jos 18:1; Jdg 18:31; 1Sm 1:3 21:21 Ex 15:20; Jdg 11:34 21:23 Jdg 20:48 21:25 Jdg 17:6; 18:1; 19:1

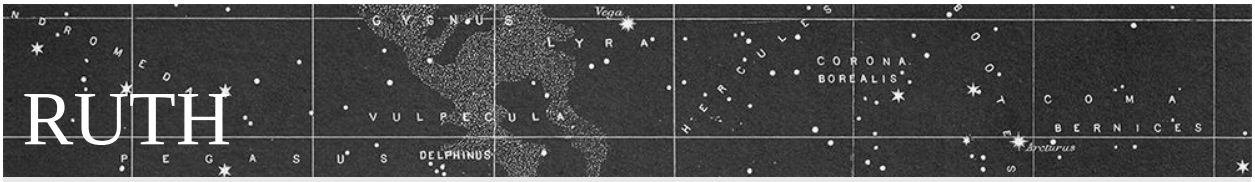
21:1-7 The battle against Benjamin had left only six hundred men from that tribe (20:47). To make matters worse, their Israelite brethren had sworn None of us will give his daughter to a Benjaminite in marriage so that the continued existence of Benjamin's tribe was threatened (see v. 17). The seizure of wives from Jabesh Gilead and Shiloh for these survivors punished Jabesh Gilead for not being present at the assembly (vv. 8-12) and absolved Shiloh from the oath that had been sworn (vv. 19-23). Ironically, Israel was under a similar curse if they intermarried with the Canaanites (see Dt 7:1-4; 27:26). They had broken this law of God to their own harm (see 3:6), but they carefully kept their self-imposed oath not to give their daughters to the men of Benjamin. They had not completely destroyed the inhabitants of the land (see 3:5), but they nearly obliterated one of their own tribes.

21:25 This final verse aptly characterizes Israelite life during the period of the judges (see also the note on 17:6).



RUTH

INTRODUCTION

The book of Ruth gets its name from one of its principle characters, a Moabite woman named Ruth who was the ancestor of David and Jesus. After reading the book of Judges, which paints a dark and depressing picture of Israel, the reader is relieved to encounter Ruth. Although the book is relatively short, it is rich in examples of kindness, faith, and patience. It is one of the five scrolls that was to be read during the Jewish festivals, in particular the Festival of Weeks.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The Talmud attributes the authorship of Ruth to Samuel, but the book itself offers no hint of the identity of its author. We can only speculate about who might have written the book of Ruth, and its provenance and date must be deduced from the internal evidence—language and style, historical allusions, and themes. The family records at the end and the explanation of archaic customs requires a date during or later than the reign of King David (1011–971 BC), though it could have been written as late as after the exile, when the issue of the inclusion of Gentiles once again became pressing.

BACKGROUND: The book of Ruth is set "during the time of the judges" (1:1), a period of social and religious disorder when "everyone did whatever seemed right to him" (Jdg 17:6). Historically, this era bridged the time between the conquest of the land under Joshua and the rise of King David, whose family records form the conclusion of the book. It is not clear exactly when during the time of the judges the book belongs, but it opens with a famine in the land, which may have been the result of Israel's idolatry.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Ruth's covenantal faithfulness to her mother-in-law Naomi and her God provided a model showing that those who were not ethnic Israelites could be incorporated into the people of God through faith. If Moabites who joined themselves to the Lord could be accepted, there was hope for other Gentiles as well (Is 56:3-7). The book also effectively answered questions that may have been raised over the legitimacy of the Davidic line, given his Moabite roots.

STRUCTURE

The book of Ruth is a delightful short story with a classical plot that moves from crisis to complication to resolution. The narrator draws the reader into the minds of the characters (successively Naomi, Ruth, and Boaz), inviting us to identify with their personal anxieties and joys and in the end to celebrate the movement from emptiness and frustration to fulfillment and joy.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

The sovereign hand of God in all circumstances is prominent throughout Ruth. The famine and the deaths of three husbands at the beginning of the book were not random acts that "just happened." They were the divinely arranged circumstances to incorporate Ruth into God's family and to bring her joy. God's bringing about Naomi's journey from emptiness to fullness parallels the way he brings all his people in the end to eternal fullness of joy. Many scholars recognize Boaz's role of family redeemer as a prefiguring of Jesus Christ.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

One of the virtues held up throughout the OT is chesed, "loving kindness" or "acts of loyal friendship." Ruth, Boaz, and Naomi did memorable deeds based on chesed. Further, although human life inevitably includes pain and loss, it becomes purposeful when people see themselves living under God's protective care. Also, people find great blessing when they live according to God's commands, illustrated by Boaz's blessing because he followed both the law of gleaning and the law concerning levirate marriage.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

In this story a most unlikely person was reached by God's grace and gained full membership in the community of God's people. This shows that, even in the OT, God's grace was not limited only to the descendants of Jacob. Further, Ruth's famous declaration of loyalty to Naomi (1:16-17) includes the concept that conversion and commitment to the Lord is a way of life, not just a point of decision.

NAOMI'S FAMILY IN MOAB

1 During the time † of the judges, † there was a famine in the land. † A man left Bethlehem † † in Judah with his wife and two sons to stay in the territory of Moab for a while. 2 The man's name was Elimelech, † and his wife's name was Naomi. † The names of his two sons were Mahlon † and Chilion. † They were Ephrathites † from Bethlehem in Judah. They entered the fields of Moab and settled there. 3 Naomi's husband Elimelech died, and she was left with her two sons. 4 Her sons took Moabite women as their wives: one was named Orpah and the second was named Ruth. After they lived in Moab about ten years, 5 both Mahlon and Chilion also died, and Naomi was left without her two children and without her husband.

RUTH'S LOYALTY TO NAOMI

6 She and her daughters-in-law set out to return from the territory of Moab, because she had heard in Moab that the LORD had paid attention to his people's need by providing them food. † 7 She left the place where she had been living, accompanied by her two daughters-in-law, and traveled along the road leading back to the land of Judah.

8 Naomi said to them, “Each of you go back to your mother’s home. † May the LORD show kindness to you as you have shown to the dead and to me. 9 May the LORD grant each of you rest † in the house of a new husband.” She kissed them, and they wept loudly.

10 They said to her, “We insist on returning with you to your people.”

11 But Naomi replied, “Return home, my daughters. Why do you want to go with me? Am I able to have any more sons who could become your husbands? †

12 Return home, my daughters. Go on, for I am too old to have another husband. Even if I thought there was still hope for me to have a husband tonight and to bear sons, 13 would you be willing to wait for them to grow up? Would you restrain yourselves from remarrying? † No, my daughters, my life is much too bitter for you to share, † because the LORD’s hand has turned against me.” †

14 Again they wept loudly, and Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth clung to her. 15 Naomi said, “Look, your sister-in-law has gone back to her people and to her gods. † Follow your sister-in-law.”

16 But Ruth replied:

Don’t plead with me to abandon you or to return and not follow you.
For wherever you go, I will go, and wherever you live, I will live; your people will be my people, and your God will be my God.
17 Where you die, I will die, and there I will be buried.
May the LORD punish me, † † and do so severely,
if anything but death separates you and me.

18 When Naomi saw that Ruth was determined to go with her, she stopped talking to her.

19 The two of them traveled until they came to Bethlehem. When they entered Bethlehem, the whole town was excited about their arrival † † and the local women exclaimed, “Can this be Naomi? ”

20 “Don’t call me Naomi. Call me Mara,” † she answered, “for the Almighty † has made me very bitter. † 21 I went away full, but the LORD has brought me back empty. † Why do you call me Naomi, since the LORD has opposed † me, and the Almighty has afflicted me? ”
22 So Naomi came back from the territory of Moab with her daughter-in-law Ruth the Moabitess. They arrived in Bethlehem at the beginning of the barley harvest. †

1:1 The events described in the book of Ruth took place during the time of the judges. The reference to King David in 4:22, however, shows that the book was actually written after the period of the judges had ended. Given difficulties that Israel experienced during that time, it is not difficult to imagine a family leaving the country (see also 2Kg 8:1-2).

1:2-5 The biblical text emphasizes Naomi’s bereavement. After her husband died, she was left with her two sons, and after her sons died, Naomi was left without her two children and without her husband. Widows in ancient times were very vulnerable since they lacked husbands to protect and provide for them and to represent their interests in society.

1:8-14 Naomi desired that God help her Moabite daughters-in-law (vv. 8-9), but her hopelessness and bitterness showed through her belief that his hand has turned against her (see also vv. 20-21).

1:14-17 Unlike her sister-in-law Orpah, Ruth insisted on returning to Israel with her mother-in-law. At stake were not only issues of family and nation but also of worship (see also 1Sm 26:19). Whereas Orpah went back to her people and to her gods, Ruth not only remained loyal to her mother-in-law but also to a foreign nation (Israel) and to the Lord (see 2:12). The syntax of the Hebrew text translated your people will be my people, and your God will be my God does not clearly refer to the future. This syntax differs from the syntax of Ruth’s related statements preceding and following, which do seem to speak of the future. The significance of this observation is that Ruth’s allegiance to God and to Israel may have already existed so that it is being reaffirmed rather than initially declared.

1:22 Though the reader already knows that Ruth is a Moabitess (see 1:4), the biblical author continues to emphasize Ruth’s foreign status (e.g., 2:2,6,10,21).

RUTH AND BOAZ MEET

2 Now Naomi had a relative on her husband’s side. He was a prominent man of noble character † from Elimelech’s family. His name was Boaz.

2 Ruth the Moabitess asked Naomi, “Will you let me go into the fields and gather fallen grain † behind someone with whom I find favor? ” Naomi answered her, “Go ahead, my daughter.” 3 So Ruth left and entered the field to gather grain behind the harvesters. She happened † to be in the portion of the field belonging to Boaz, who was from Elimelech’s family.
4 Later, when Boaz arrived from Bethlehem, he said to the harvesters, “The LORD be with you.” †
“The LORD bless you,” † they replied.
5 Boaz asked his servant who was in charge of the harvesters, “Whose young woman is this? ”
6 The servant answered, “She is the young Moabite woman who returned with Naomi from the territory of Moab. 7 She asked, ‘Will you let me gather fallen grain among the bundles behind the harvesters? ’ She came and has been on her feet since early morning, except that she rested a little in the shelter.” † 8 Then Boaz said to Ruth, “Listen, my daughter. † Don’t go and gather grain in another field, and don’t leave this one, but stay here close to my female servants.
9 See which field they are harvesting, and follow them. Haven’t I ordered the young men not to touch you? † When you are thirsty, go and drink from the jars the young men have filled.”
10 She fell facedown, bowed to the ground, † and said to him, “Why have I found favor with you, so that you notice me, although I am a foreigner? ” 11 Boaz answered her, “Everything you have done for your mother-in-law since your husband’s death has been fully reported to me: how you left your father and mother and your native land, and how you came to a people you didn’t previously know. 12 May the LORD reward you for what you have done, † and may you receive a full reward from the LORD God of Israel, under whose wings you have come for refuge.” † 13 “My lord,” she said, “I have found favor with you, for you have comforted and encouraged † your servant, although I am not like one of your female servants.”
14 At mealtime Boaz told her, “Come over here and have some bread and dip it in the vinegar sauce.” So she sat beside the harvesters, and he offered her roasted grain. She ate and was satisfied and had some left over.

15 When she got up to gather grain, Boaz ordered his young men, “Let her even gather grain among the bundles, and don’t humiliate her. 16 Pull out some stalks from the bundles for her and leave them for her to gather. Don’t rebuke her.” 17 So Ruth gathered grain in the field until evening. She beat out what she had gathered, and it was about twenty-six quarts † of barley. 18 She picked up the grain and went into the town, where her mother-in-law saw what she had gleaned. She brought out what she had left over from her meal and gave it to her.
19 Her mother-in-law said to her, “Where did you gather barley today, and where did you work? May the LORD bless the man who noticed you.” † Ruth told her mother-in-law whom she had worked with and said, “The name of the man I worked with today is Boaz.” 20 Then Naomi said to her daughter-in-law, “May the LORD † bless him because he has not abandoned his kindness to the living or the dead.” † Naomi continued, “The man is a close relative. He is one of our family redeemers.” † 21 Ruth the Moabitess said, “He also told me, ‘Stay with my young men until they have finished all of my harvest.’ ” 22 So Naomi said to her daughter-in-law Ruth, “My daughter, it is good for you to work † with his female servants, so that nothing will happen to you in another field.” 23 Ruth stayed close to Boaz’s female servants and gathered grain until the barley and the wheat harvests were finished. † And she lived with † her mother-in-law.

2:2 Deuteronomy 24:19-22 instructed Israelites not to go through their fields or vineyards a second time during the harvest. Instead of taking every last part of the crop, they were to allow the poor to gather in their fields from what had been left behind.

2:3 That Ruth happened to be in the portion of the land belonging to Boaz was providential. Working in the field could be dangerous—especially for a lone woman away from the protection of the town. The narrator will soon show that God is working out much more than simply a welcoming place for Ruth to find food.

2:4 This brief conversation between Boaz and his harvesters reveals his kindness and good relationship with them. His kindness is also shown through his generosity and protection of Ruth (see vv. 8-9,14-18,21; 3:15).

2:11 Ruth's leaving behind her father and mother and [her] native land and her coming to a people [she] didn't previously know resembles Abram's act of faith in Genesis 12:1-7.

2:20 As a relative to the women (see also v. 1), Boaz was one of their family redeemers (see also 3:9). Such a person would assist in some way. This might include avenging a relative who had been murdered (Nm 35:12,19-27), assisting a poor relation who could not support himself (Lv 25:25-30), or redeeming a relative from slavery (Lv 25:47-49). The role of a "redeemer" is not explicitly linked to marrying a deceased relative's widow in order to continue his family line (Dt 25:5-6; sometimes called "Levirate marriage"), but the two roles may have overlapped.

RUTH'S APPEAL TO BOAZ

3 Ruth's mother-in-law Naomi said to her, "My daughter, shouldn't I find rest for you, so that you will be taken care of? 2 Now isn't Boaz our relative? † Haven't you been working with his female servants? This evening he will be winnowing barley on the threshing floor. 3 Wash, put on perfumed oil, and wear your best clothes. Go down to the threshing floor, but don't let the man know you are there until he has finished eating and drinking.
4 When he lies down, notice the place where he's lying, go in and uncover his feet, and lie down. Then he will explain to you what you should do." 5 So Ruth said to her, "I will do everything you say." † 6 She went down to the threshing floor and did everything her mother-in-law had charged her to do.
7 After Boaz ate, drank, and was in good spirits, † he went to lie down at the end of the pile of barley, and she came secretly, uncovered his feet, and lay down.
8 At midnight, Boaz was startled, turned over, and there lying at his feet was a woman! 9 So he asked, "Who are you? "
"I am Ruth, your servant," she replied. "Take me under your wing, † † for you are a family redeemer." † 10 Then he said, "May the LORD bless you, † my daughter. You have shown more kindness now than before, † because you have not pursued younger men, whether rich or poor. 11 Now don't be afraid, my daughter. I will do for you whatever you say, † since all the people in my town † know that you are a woman of noble character. † 12 Yes, it is true that I am a family redeemer, but there is a redeemer closer than I am. 13 Stay here tonight, and in the morning, if he wants to redeem you, that's good. † Let him redeem you. But if he doesn't want to redeem you, as the LORD lives, † I will. Now lie down until morning."

14 So she lay down at his feet until morning but got up while it was still dark. †
Then Boaz said, "Don't let it be known that a † woman came to the threshing floor." 15 And he told Ruth, "Bring the shawl you're wearing and hold it out."
When she held it out, he shoveled six measures of barley into her shawl, and she † went into the town.
16 She went to her mother-in-law, Naomi, who asked her, "What happened, † my daughter? "
Then Ruth told her everything the man had done for her. 17 She said, "He gave me these six measures of barley, because he said, † 'Don't go back to your mother-in-law empty-handed.' "
18 Naomi said, "My daughter, wait until you find out how things go, for he won't rest unless he resolves this today."

3:1-4 Naomi devised a plan for Ruth to marry Boaz. The reason behind the instruction to uncover his feet is unclear, but the Hebrew word for "feet" is sometimes used as a euphemism for genitals. It may be that the author intends this as a double entendre. He has emphasized that Ruth is a Moabitess; she descends from a people known for sexual immorality (see Gn 19; Nm 25:1-3). It is late at night, at a threshing floor (also known to be a place of sexual immorality), and Boaz "ate, drank, and was in good spirits" (v. 7). It is possible that the author is setting up a situation that makes the reader nervous and uncomfortable, wondering whether the Moabite girl will seduce the upstanding Israelite man. In the end, she does not: Boaz and Ruth are people of great character, only interested in what is best for others. If this interpretation is correct, the author is playing on a stereotype in order to raise the reader's estimation of Ruth and of the goodness of God's values and character.

3:8-12 Despite Boaz's initial surprise, he not only did not see anything inappropriate about Ruth's request for marriage but even considered it an act of kindness. Evidently, although Boaz is a wealthy and significant man in the town, Ruth's request for marriage is seen as a sacrifice for the sake of Naomi. His statement you have not pursued younger men implies that Boaz is an older man. On Boaz being a family redeemer, see the note on 2:20.

3:11-13 Boaz knew that Ruth was a woman of noble character. Since Boaz himself was "a prominent man of noble character," the two are a good match. The Hebrew phrase used to describe Ruth here is also used more famously in Proverbs 31:10 of a noble wife (see also Pr 12:10). Boaz wanted to marry Ruth, but there was a closer relative who rightfully had the first opportunity to do so (vv. 12-13).

RUTH AND BOAZ MARRY

4 Boaz went to the gate of the town † and sat down there. Soon the family redeemer Boaz had spoken about came by. Boaz said, “Come over here † and sit down.” So he went over and sat down. 2 Then Boaz took ten men of the town’s elders † and said, “Sit here.” And they sat down. 3 He said to the redeemer, “Naomi, who has returned from the territory of Moab, is selling the portion of the field that belonged to our brother Elimelech. † 4 I thought I should inform you: † Buy it back in the presence of those seated here and in the presence of the elders of my people. If you want to redeem it, do it.
But if you do † not want to redeem it, tell me so that I will know, because there isn’t anyone other than you to redeem it, and I am next after you.”
“I want to redeem it,” he answered.
5 Then Boaz said, “On the day you buy the field from Naomi, you will acquire † Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the deceased man, to perpetuate the man’s name on his property.” † † 6 The redeemer replied, “I can’t redeem it myself, or I will ruin my own inheritance. Take my right of redemption, because I can’t redeem it.” 7 At an earlier period in Israel, a man removed his sandal † and gave it to the other party in order to make any matter legally binding concerning the right of redemption or the exchange of property. This was the method of legally binding a transaction in Israel.
8 So the redeemer removed his sandal and said to Boaz, “Buy back the property yourself.”
9 Boaz said to the elders and all the people, “You are witnesses today that I am buying from Naomi everything that belonged to Elimelech, Chilion, and Mahlon. 10 I have also acquired Ruth the Moabitess, Mahlon’s widow, as my wife, to perpetuate the deceased man’s name on his property, so that his name will not disappear among his relatives or from the gate of his hometown. You are witnesses today.” 11 All the people who were at the city gate, including the elders, said, “We are witnesses. May the LORD make the woman who is entering your house like Rachel and Leah, † who together built the house of Israel. May you be powerful in Ephrathah and your name well known in Bethlehem. 12 May your house become like the house of Perez, the son Tamar bore to Judah, † because of the offspring the LORD will give you by this young woman."

13 Boaz took Ruth and she became his wife. He slept with her, and the LORD granted conception to her, and she gave birth to a son. 14 The women said to Naomi, "Blessed be the LORD, who has not left you without a family redeemer today. May his name become well known in Israel. 15 He will renew your life and sustain you in your old age. Indeed, your daughter-in-law, who loves you and is better to you than seven sons, † has given birth to him." 16 Naomi took the child, placed him on her lap, and became his nanny. 17 The neighbor women said, "A son has been born to Naomi," and they named him Obed. † He was the father of Jesse, the father of David.

4:6-10 The act of redemption involved both the acquisition of Elimelech's property and marrying Ruth (vv. 2-5). When the closer relative learned of the latter, he declined because of the problems for his own inheritance presumably to arise if he were to marry Ruth. The text itself explains the sandal ritual (vv. 7-8). Boaz acquired both the property and a wife.

4:11-12 This blessing of Ruth would come true. Just as Rachel and Leah together built the house of Israel through bearing sons, so Ruth would bear a son who later became the grandfather of King David (vv. 13-22) and ancestor of Jesus Christ. As in the case of Tamar (see Gn 38), Ruth's marriage and inclusion in this line were unconventional.

4:14-17 Naomi's life had come full circle. At the beginning of the book, she had thought that God was against her (1:13,20). Indeed, she had been bereaved (1:2-5), but she had never been without Ruth (1:21-22; 4:15). Ruth's marriage and now the birth of Obed completed Naomi's restoration.

1 SAMUEL

INTRODUCTION

The books of 1 and 2 Samuel highlight a significant transition time in Israel's history. As 1 Samuel begins, Israel is a loosely organized tribal league living under poor spiritual leadership. God's plan for his people nonetheless continued as he raised up Samuel to guide Israel's transition from a theocracy to a monarchy. Saul's kingship constitutes the remainder of 1 Samuel, while David's kingship is largely the focus of 2 Samuel.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Early tradition suggests 1 and 2 Samuel were originally one book. Some scholars believe Samuel was largely responsible for the material up to 1 Samuel 25, and that the prophets Nathan and Gad gave significant input to the rest (based on 1Ch 29:29). This proposal, however, must remain speculative because the books name no authors. First Samuel 27:6 suggests the book was not completed until perhaps a few generations after the division of the kingdom around 930 BC.

BACKGROUND: After Israel's conquest of the land during the days of Joshua, Israel entered a time of apostasy. The book of Judges describes recurrences of a cycle with predictable phases. First, the people sinned against the Lord and fell into idolatry. Second, the Lord raised up an adversary to afflict them and turn them back to him. Third, the people cried out to the Lord in repentance. Fourth, the Lord brought deliverance for them through a judge whom he raised up. The book of Judges' famous verse, "In those days there was no king in Israel; everyone did whatever seemed right to him" (Jdg 21:25), aptly describes the period. The book of 1 Samuel picks up the historical record toward the end of those stormy days.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The books of 1 and 2 Samuel describe Israel's transition from a loosely organized tribal league under God (a theocracy) to centralized leadership under a king who answered to God (a monarchy). Samuel's life and ministry greatly shaped this period of restructuring as he consistently pointed people back to God.

Saul's rule highlighted the dangers to which the Israelites fell victim as they clamored for a king to lead them. Samuel's warnings fell on deaf ears (1Sm 8:10-20) because God's people were intent on becoming like the nations around them. In the end, they got exactly what they asked for, but they paid a terrible price. Saul's life stands as a warning to trust God's timing for life's provisions.

David's rule testified to the amazing works the Lord could and would do through a life yielded to him. Israel's second king seemed quite aware of God's blessing on his life and displayed a tender heart toward the things of God (2Sm 5:12; 7:1-2; 22:1-51; 23:1-7). Later generations would receive blessing because of David's life (Is 37:35). God's special covenant with David (2Sm 7:1-29) found its ultimate fulfillment in Jesus, the son of David (Lk 1:32-33). The consequences of David's sin with Bathsheba, however, stand as a warning to all who experience sin's attraction. God holds his children accountable for their actions, and even forgiven sin can have terrible consequences.

STRUCTURE

The first seven chapters of 1 Samuel describe Samuel's birth, call, and initial ministry among the Israelites. Chapter 8 is a major turning point as the people ask for a king to rule them "the same as all the other nations have" (1Sm 8:5). Chapters 9–12 then describe Saul's selection—at God's direction, yet not his perfect will for the time (1Sm 12:16-18).

First Samuel 13–31 describes Saul's victories and failures. Saul was a king with great physical stature and military skill (1Sm 14:47-52), but his heart was not one with the Lord (1Sm 13:14). His unwillingness to obey the Lord's commands ultimately outweighed his accomplishments, and chapters 16–31 describe his reign's downward spiral. During this time God raised up David and was preparing him for the day he would succeed Saul—a fact Saul gradually realized (1Sm 15:28; 24:20-21; 28:17).

Second Samuel 1–4 describes the struggle for Israel's throne that began with Saul's death. David was anointed king by the men of Judah (2Sm 2:4), but Abner anointed Ish-bosheth, Saul's oldest surviving son, as king over Israel (2Sm 2:8-9). A two-year civil war resulted in Ish-bosheth's death and in David's becoming king over all Israel.

Second Samuel 5–24 presents highlights of David's reign. God established a special covenant with David, promising to establish the throne of his kingdom forever (2Sm 7:1-29). David's sin with Bathsheba, however, brought disastrous consequences to his reign and became a turning point in 2 Samuel. In the end, David's repentance confirmed his designation as a man after God's heart, but his sin showed that even the king is not above breaking God's laws.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God was responsible for shaping Israel's destiny. He allowed Israel's choice of Saul to stand, but he judged Saul for his disobedience. He chose David, who by the end of 1 Samuel was not yet secure in his position as king. The Spirit of God is seen as the divine enabler: he came upon both Saul and David to empower their service.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

This book teaches about humankind through telling the stories of three heroes: Samuel, Saul, and David. Samuel was a dedicated servant of God who nevertheless failed as a parent. Saul was a handsome, talented leader who failed in his primary task: glad obedience to God's revealed will. David's life (in 1 Samuel) demonstrates that those whom God chooses may come as a surprise to other humans, and that they may face great difficulties and yet serve God wholeheartedly.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

This book shows that a right relationship with God inevitably brings with it obedience from the heart and that God values heart obedience much more than external conformity to religious rituals: "Then Samuel said: Does the LORD take pleasure in burnt offerings and sacrifices as much as in obeying the LORD? Look: to obey is better than sacrifice, to pay attention is better than the fat of rams" (15:22).

HANNAH'S VOW

1 There was a man from Ramathaim-zophim † in † the hill country of Ephraim. † His name was Elkanah † son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephraimite. 2 He had two wives, † the first named Hannah † and the second Peninnah. Peninnah had children, but Hannah was childless. 3 This man would go up from his town every year † to worship and to sacrifice † to the LORD of Armies at Shiloh, † where Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, were the LORD's priests.

4 Whenever Elkanah offered a sacrifice, he always gave portions of the meat † to his wife Peninnah and to each of her sons and daughters. 5 But he gave a double † portion † to Hannah, for he loved her even though the LORD had kept her from conceiving. 6 Her rival would taunt her severely just to provoke her, because the LORD had kept Hannah from conceiving. 7 Year after year, when she went up to the LORD's house, † her rival taunted her in this way. Hannah would weep and would not eat. 8 "Hannah, why are you crying? " her husband Elkanah would ask. "Why won't you eat? Why are you troubled? Am I not better to you than ten sons? " †

9 On one occasion, Hannah got up after they ate and drank at Shiloh. † The priest Eli was sitting on a chair by the doorpost of the LORD's temple. †

10 Deeply hurt, Hannah prayed to the LORD and wept with many tears. †

11 Making a vow, † she pleaded, "LORD of Armies, if you will take notice of your servant's affliction, † remember and not forget me, and give your servant a son, † I will give him to the LORD all the days of his life, and his hair will never be cut." † †

12 While she continued praying in the LORD's presence, Eli watched her mouth. 13 Hannah was praying silently, † † and though her lips were moving, her voice could not be heard. Eli thought she was drunk 14 and said to her, "How long are you going to be drunk? † Get rid of your wine! "

15 "No, my lord," Hannah replied. "I am a woman with a broken heart. I haven't had any wine or beer; I've been pouring out my heart before the LORD. †

16 Don't think of me as a wicked woman; † I've been praying from the depth of my anguish and resentment." †
17 Eli responded, "Go in peace, † and may the God of Israel grant the request you've made of him." †
18 "May your servant find favor with you," † she replied. Then Hannah went on her way; she ate and no longer looked despondent. † †

SAMUEL'S BIRTH AND DEDICATION

19 The next morning Elkanah and Hannah got up early to worship before the LORD. Afterward, they returned home to Ramah. † Then Elkanah was intimate with his wife Hannah, and the LORD remembered her. † 20 After some time, † Hannah conceived and gave birth to a son. She named him Samuel, † because she said, "I requested him from the LORD."
21 When Elkanah and all his household went up to make the annual sacrifice † and his vow offering to the LORD, 22 Hannah did not go and explained to her husband, "After the child is weaned, I'll take him to appear in the LORD's presence † and to stay there permanently." †
23 Her husband Elkanah replied, "Do what you think is best, † † and stay here until you've weaned him. May the LORD confirm your † word." † So Hannah stayed there and nursed her son until she weaned him. 24 When she had weaned him, she took him with her to Shiloh, as well as a three-year-old bull, † half a bushel † of flour, and a clay jar of wine. † Though the boy was still young, † she took him to the LORD's house at Shiloh. † 25 Then they slaughtered the bull and brought the boy to Eli.
26 "Please, my lord," she said, "as surely as you live, † my lord, I am the woman who stood here beside you praying to the LORD. 27 I prayed for this boy, † and since the LORD gave me what I asked him for, † 28 I now give the boy to the LORD. For as long as he lives, he is given to the LORD." † Then he † worshiped the LORD there. †

1:1 1 Samuel continues where Judges left off. There had been no king in Israel (see the note on Jdg 17:6), and both Eli and Samuel “judged Israel” (4:18; 7:15,17), like the judges before them (e.g., Jdg 3:10; 10:2-3; 12:7-14; 16:31). This book also describes the institution of the monarchy with Saul and then David reigning as king (see the notes on 8:4-9 and 8:19-20). Even the birth of Samuel is related to these first two Israelite kings and to the theme of kingship (see the note on 2:10).

1:9-11 Once again, God’s plan is to be advanced through a barren woman (e.g., Gn 11:30; 25:21; 29:31; Jdg 13:2-3). Hannah not only suffered her barrenness but also the taunts of her husband’s other wife (regarding polygamy, see the note on Gn 2:24). Though loved by her husband (vv. 4-5), Hannah may not always have been comforted by him (v. 8). She was also mistaken by Eli to be drunk (vv. 12-16). Nevertheless, she vowed to God that if he were to give her a son, the boy would be dedicated to him as a lifelong Nazirite (v. 11; see Nm 6:1-21).

1:26-28 The birth of Samuel was an answer to Hannah’s prayer (vv. 11-20). True to her vow, she gave him back to God after he was weaned (see vv. 22-24; 2:11).

HANNAH’S TRIUMPHANT PRAYER

2 Hannah prayed: †

My heart rejoices in the LORD; †
my horn is lifted up by the LORD.
My mouth boasts over my enemies, because I rejoice in your salvation. †
2 There is no one holy like the LORD. †
There is no one besides you! †
And there is no rock like our God. †
3 Do not boast so proudly, or let arrogant words come out of your mouth, for the LORD is a God of knowledge, and actions are weighed by him. †
4 The bows of the warriors are broken, † but the feeble are clothed with strength. †

5 Those who are full hire themselves out for food, but those who are starving hunger no more.
The woman who is childless gives birth to seven, † but the woman with many sons pines away. † 6 The LORD brings death and gives life; †
he sends some down to Sheol, and he raises others up. † 7 The LORD brings poverty and gives wealth; † he humbles and he exalts. † 8 He raises the poor from the dust † and lifts the needy from the trash heap. †
He seats them with noblemen † and gives them a throne of honor. † For the foundations of the earth are the LORD's; † he has set the world on them. † 9 He guards the steps † of his faithful ones, † but the wicked perish in darkness, † for a person does not prevail by his own strength. † 10 Those who oppose the LORD will be shattered; † † he will thunder in the heavens against them. †
The LORD will judge the ends of the earth. †
He will give power to his king;
he will lift up the horn of his anointed. † †

11 Elkanah went home to Ramah, † but the boy served the LORD in the presence of the priest Eli. †

ELI'S FAMILY JUDGED

12 Eli's sons were wicked men; † they did not respect the LORD † 13 or the priests' share of the sacrifices from the people. When anyone offered a sacrifice, the priest's servant would come with a three-pronged meat fork while the meat was boiling 14 and plunge it into the container, kettle, cauldron, or cooking

pot. † The priest would claim for himself whatever the meat fork brought up. This is the way they treated all the Israelites who came there to Shiloh. 15 Even before the fat was burned, † the priest's servant would come and say to the one who was sacrificing, "Give the priest some meat to roast, because he won't accept boiled meat from you — only raw." 16 If that person said to him, "The fat must be burned first; then you can take whatever you want for yourself," † the servant would reply, "No, I insist that you hand it over right now. If you don't, I'll take it by force!" 17 So the servants' sin was very severe in the presence of the LORD, because the men treated the LORD's offering with contempt. †

18 Samuel served in the LORD's presence † —this mere boy was dressed in the linen ephod. † 19 Each year his mother made him a little robe † and took it to him when she went with her husband to offer the annual sacrifice. † 20 Eli would bless Elkanah and his wife: † "May the LORD give you children by this woman in place of the one she † has given to the LORD." † Then they would go home.

21 The LORD paid attention to Hannah's need, † and she conceived and gave birth to three sons and two daughters. Meanwhile, the boy Samuel grew up in the presence of the LORD. †

22 Now Eli was very old. He heard about everything his sons were doing to all Israel † and how they were sleeping with the women who served at the entrance to the tent of meeting. † 23 He said to them, "Why are you doing these things? I have heard about your evil actions from all these people. 24 No, my sons, the news I hear the LORD's people spreading is not good. 25 If one person sins against another, God can intercede for him, but if a person sins against the LORD, who can intercede for him?" † But they would not listen to their father, since the LORD intended to kill them. † 26 By contrast, the boy Samuel grew in stature and in favor with the LORD and with people. †

27 A man of God came to Eli and said to him, † "This is what the LORD says: 'Didn't I reveal myself to your forefather's family † when they were in Egypt and belonged to Pharaoh's palace? † 28 Out of all the tribes of Israel, I chose your house † to be my priests, to offer sacrifices on my altar, to burn incense, and to wear an ephod in my presence. † I also gave your forefather's family all the Israelite fire offerings. 29 Why, then, do all of you despise my sacrifices and offerings that I require at the place of worship? † You have honored your sons more than me, † by making yourselves fat with the best part of all of the offerings of my people Israel.'

30 "Therefore, this is the declaration of the LORD, the God of Israel: 'I did say that your family and your forefather's family would walk before me forever. † But now,' this is the LORD's declaration, 'no longer! For those who honor me I will honor, † but those who despise me will be disgraced. † 31 Look, the days are coming when I will cut off your strength and the strength of your forefather's house, so that none in your family will reach old age. † 32 You will see distress in the place of worship, † in spite of all that is good in Israel, and no one in your family will ever again reach old age. † 33 Any man from your family I do not cut off from my altar will bring grief † and sadness to you. All your descendants will die violently. † † 34 This will be the sign that will come to you concerning your two sons Hophni and Phinehas: † both of them will die on the same day. †
35 " 'Then I will raise up a faithful priest † for myself. He will do whatever is in my heart and mind. I will establish a lasting dynasty for him, † and he will walk before my anointed one for all time. † 36 Anyone who is left in your family will come and bow down to him for a piece of silver or a loaf of bread. He will say: Please appoint me to some priestly office so I can have a piece of bread to eat.' "

2:1-10 Hannah's poetic prayer celebrates God's action on her behalf. She especially emphasizes his salvation of the weak and needy and his humbling of the self-sufficient and proud (vv. 3-8). These verses emphasize a theme, seen throughout the OT, that God reverses fortunes. Truly a person does not prevail by his own strength. This theme is seen again in Mary's song in Luke 1:46-55. Another significant part of Hannah's prayer is her mention of God's king and anointed. This not only ties the birth of Samuel to the theme of kingship in 1 and 2 Samuel (see the note on 1:1) but also shows that Hannah herself expected the coming of a king (see the note on Gn 49:8-12). Furthermore, these two words, along with the reference to the ends of the earth, link this passage to Psalm 2 (see vv. 2,8), which is interpreted as messianic prophecy in the NT (see Ac 13:33; Heb 1:5; 5:5).

2:17 Contrary to Leviticus 7:23-25, Eli's sons took meat portions before the fat had been burned (vv. 12-16) and as such treated the LORD's offering with contempt. They were also "sleeping with the women who served at the entrance to the tent of meeting" (v. 22). Indeed, "the LORD intended to kill them" (v. 25). By contrast, "Samuel grew in stature and in favor with the LORD and with men" (v. 26; see also 3:19-4:1).

2:27-36 Despite Eli's high position, he was confronted by a man of God because he had honored [his] sons more than [God]. Eli knew about their sins but did not stop them (3:13). Consequently, the descendants of the house of Eli would die violently (see also 1Kg 2:26-27), and his two sons would both die on the same day (see 4:11).

SAMUEL'S CALL

3 The boy Samuel served the LORD in Eli's presence. † In those days the word of the LORD was rare and prophetic visions were not widespread. † 2 One day Eli, whose eyesight was failing, † was lying in his usual place. 3 Before the lamp of God had gone out, † Samuel was lying down in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was located.
4 Then the LORD called Samuel, † and he answered, "Here I am." 5 He ran to Eli and said, "Here I am; you called me."
"I didn't call," Eli replied. "Go back and lie down." So he went and lay down.
6 Once again the LORD called, "Samuel! "
Samuel got up, went to Eli, and said, "Here I am; you called me."
"I didn't call, my son," he replied. "Go back and lie down."
7 Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD, because the word of the LORD had not yet been revealed to him. 8 Once again, for the third time, the LORD called Samuel. He got up, went to Eli, and said, "Here I am; you called me."
Then Eli understood that the LORD was calling the boy. 9 He told Samuel, "Go and lie down. If he calls you, say, 'Speak, LORD, for your servant is listening.' "
So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10 The LORD came, stood there, and called as before, “Samuel, Samuel! ”
Samuel responded, “Speak, for your servant is listening.”
11 The LORD said to Samuel, “I am about to do something in Israel that everyone who hears about it will shudder. † † 12 On that day I will carry out against Eli everything I said about his family, from beginning to end. † 13 I told him that I am going to judge his family forever because of the iniquity he knows about: his sons are cursing God, † and he has not stopped them. † 14 Therefore, I have sworn to Eli’s family: The iniquity of Eli’s family will never be wiped out by either sacrifice or offering.” † 15 Samuel lay down until the morning; then he opened the doors of the LORD’s house. He was afraid to tell Eli the vision, 16 but Eli called him and said, “Samuel, my son.”
“Here I am,” answered Samuel.
17 “What was the message he gave you? ” Eli asked. “Don’t hide it from me.
May God punish you and do so severely if you hide anything from me that he told you.” † 18 So Samuel told him everything and did not hide anything from him. Eli responded, “He is the LORD. Let him do what he thinks is good.” † † 19 Samuel grew, † and the LORD was with him, † and he fulfilled everything Samuel prophesied. † † 20 All Israel from Dan to Beer-sheba knew that Samuel was a confirmed prophet of the LORD. † 21 The LORD continued to appear in Shiloh, because there he revealed himself to Samuel by his word. †

3:1-2 The infrequency of prophetic messages and visions highlights the spiritual darkness of those days. Eli’s failing eyesight contributes symbolically to this motif as well (see also 4:15).

3:7-14 The Lord apparently called young Samuel with an audible voice. Although the boy did not recognize God’s voice at first, God persisted (vv. 4-7). With Eli’s help (vv. 8-9), Samuel responded to God properly on the fourth try (v. 10) and heard his message of judgment against Eli’s family for their serious sins (see the notes on 2:17 and 2:27-36).

3:19–4:1 The Lord continued to bless Samuel and fulfilled everything Samuel prophesied so that all Israel recognized him as a prophet of the LORD (see also 2:26).

And Samuel's words came to all Israel.

4 THE ARK CAPTURED BY THE PHILISTINES

Israel went out to meet the Philistines in battle and † camped at Ebenezer † while the Philistines camped at Aphek. † 2 The Philistines lined up in battle formation against Israel, and as the battle intensified, Israel was defeated by the Philistines, who struck down about four thousand men on the battlefield.

3 When the troops returned to the camp, the elders of Israel asked, "Why did the LORD defeat us today before the Philistines? † Let's bring the ark of the LORD's covenant from Shiloh. Then it † will go with us and save us from our enemies." † 4 So the people sent men to Shiloh to bring back the ark of the covenant of the LORD of Armies, who is enthroned between the cherubim. † Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God. 5 When the ark of the covenant of the LORD entered the camp, all the Israelites raised such a loud shout that the ground shook. †

6 The Philistines heard the sound of the war cry and asked, "What's this loud shout in the Hebrews' camp? " When the Philistines discovered that the ark of the LORD had entered the camp, 7 they panicked. "A god has entered their camp! " they said. "Woe to us, nothing like this has happened before. † 8 Woe to us, who will rescue us from these magnificent gods? These are the gods that slaughtered the Egyptians with all kinds of plagues in the wilderness. 9 Show some courage and be men, Philistines! † Otherwise, you'll serve the Hebrews just as they served you. † Now be men and fight! "

10 So the Philistines fought, and Israel was defeated, † and each man fled to his tent. † The slaughter was severe — thirty thousand of the Israelite foot soldiers fell. 11 The ark of God was captured, and Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, died. †

ELI'S DEATH AND ICHABOD'S BIRTH

12 That same day, a Benjaminite man ran † from the battle and came to Shiloh. His clothes were torn, † and there was dirt on his head. 13 When he arrived, there was Eli sitting on his chair beside the road watching, † because he was anxious about the ark of God. When the man entered the city to give a report, the entire city cried out.

14 Eli heard the outcry and asked, "Why this commotion?" The man quickly came and reported to Eli. 15 At that time Eli was ninety-eight years old, and his eyes didn't move † because he couldn't see. †

16 The man said to Eli, "I'm the one who came from the battle. † I fled from there today."

"What happened, my son?" † Eli asked.

17 The messenger answered, "Israel has fled from the Philistines, and also there was a great slaughter among the people. Your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, are both dead, and the ark of God has been captured." 18 When he mentioned the ark of God, Eli fell backward off the chair by the city gate, † and since he was old and heavy, his neck broke and he died. Eli had judged Israel forty years.

19 Eli's daughter-in-law, the wife of Phinehas, was pregnant and about to give birth. When she heard the news about the capture of God's ark and the deaths of her father-in-law and her husband, she collapsed and gave birth because her labor pains came on her. 20 As she was dying, † the women taking care of her said, "Don't be afraid. You've given birth to a son!" † But she did not respond or pay attention. 21 She named the boy Ichabod, † saying, "The glory has departed from Israel," † referring to the capture of the ark of God † and to the deaths of her father-in-law and her husband. 22 "The glory has departed from Israel," she said, "because the ark of God has been captured."

4:3-5 The decision to bring the ark of the LORD's covenant into the next battle was both superstitious and a tacit attempt to manipulate God into giving them victory. This tactic proved futile as Israel was defeated and the ark was captured (vv. 10-11).

4:17-21 The news of his sons' death and the capture of God's ark brought about Eli's own death. The ark was the centerpiece of the tabernacle (see Ex 25:10-22) and the epicenter of God's presence and glory. Eli's daughter-in-law named her newborn son Ichabod, knowing the glory [had] departed from Israel.

THE ARK IN PHILISTINE HANDS

5 After the Philistines had captured the ark of God, they took it from Ebenezer † to Ashdod, † 2 brought it into the temple of Dagon † † and placed it next to his statue. † 3 When the people of Ashdod got up early the next morning, there was Dagon, fallen with his face to the ground before the ark of the LORD. † So they took Dagon and returned him to his place. 4 But when they got up early the next morning, there was Dagon, fallen with his face to the ground before the ark of the LORD. This time, Dagon's head and both of his hands were broken off and lying on the threshold. Only Dagon's torso remained. † 5 That is why, still today, the priests of Dagon and everyone who enters the temple of Dagon in Ashdod do not step on Dagon's threshold.

6 The LORD's hand was heavy on the people of Ashdod. † He terrified † the people of Ashdod and its territory and afflicted them with tumors. † † †

7 When the people of Ashdod saw what was happening, they said, "The ark of Israel's God must not stay here with us, because his hand is strongly against us and our god Dagon." 8 So they called all the Philistine rulers together † and asked, "What should we do with the ark of Israel's God? "

"The ark of Israel's God should be moved to Gath," they replied. So they moved the ark of Israel's God. 9 After they had moved it, the LORD's hand was against the city of Gath, † causing a great panic. He afflicted the people of the city, from the youngest to the oldest, with an outbreak of tumors. †

10 The people of Gath then sent the ark of God to Ekron, but when it got there, the Ekronites cried out, "They've moved the ark of Israel's God to us to kill us and our people! " †

11 The Ekronites called all the Philistine rulers together. † They said, "Send the ark of Israel's God away. Let it return to its place so it won't kill us and our people! " † For the fear of death pervaded the city; God's hand was oppressing them. † 12 Those who did not die were afflicted with tumors, and the outcry of the city went up to heaven. †

5:1-5 The Israelites were mistaken in thinking that taking the ark of the covenant into battle would give them victory, as this was attempted manipulation (4:3). Although the Philistines had defeated Israel and captured the ark, they had not defeated God (see 4:8). Moreover, God clearly demonstrated that he was greater than their god Dagon (vv. 2,7), who twice was found fallen with his face to the ground before the ark (see also the note on Ex 12:12). His head and both of his hands were broken off. Decapitation of enemies after a battle showed their unmistakable defeat; here the same action shows that Dagon is powerless before the Lord. This Philistine god is also mentioned in Judges 16:23 and 1 Chronicles 10:10.

5:6-12 Although the ark itself did not bear magical powers (see the note on 4:3-5), God continued to use it to demonstrate his power to the Philistines (see vv. 1-5). Wherever the ark would go, the residents of that city would be afflicted with tumors and apparently some deaths (see v. 12). The Lord had taught both the Israelites and the Philistines a lesson.

THE RETURN OF THE ARK

6 When the ark of the LORD had been in Philistine territory for seven months, 2 the Philistines summoned the priests and the diviners † and pleaded, "What should we do with the ark of the LORD? Tell us how we can send it back to its place."
3 They replied, "If you send the ark of Israel's God away, do not send it without an offering. † Send back a guilt offering to him, † and you will be healed. Then the reason his hand hasn't been removed from you will be revealed." † 4 They asked, "What guilt offering should we send back to him? "
And they answered, "Five gold tumors and five gold mice † corresponding to the number of Philistine rulers, † since there was one plague for both you † and your rulers. 5 Make images of your tumors and of your mice that are destroying the land. Give glory to Israel's God, † and perhaps he will stop oppressing you, † † your gods, and your land. † 6 Why harden your hearts as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened theirs? † When he afflicted them, didn't they send Israel away, and Israel left? † 7 "Now then, prepare one new cart and two milk cows that have never been yoked. † Hitch the cows to the cart, but take their calves away and pen them up.
8 Take the ark of the LORD, place it on the cart, and put the gold objects that you’re sending him as a guilt offering in a box † beside the ark. † Send it off and let it go its way. 9 Then watch: If it goes up the road to its homeland toward Beth-shemesh, † it is the LORD who has made this terrible trouble for us. However, if it doesn’t, we will know that it was not his hand that punished † us — it was just something that happened to us by chance.”

10 The men did this: They took two milk cows, hitched them to the cart, and confined their calves in the pen. 11 Then they put the ark of the LORD on the cart, along with the box containing the gold mice and the images of their tumors. 12 The cows went straight up the road to Beth-shemesh. † They stayed on that one highway, † lowing as they went; they never strayed to the right or to the left. The Philistine rulers were walking behind them to the territory of Beth-shemesh.
13 The people of Beth-shemesh were harvesting wheat in the valley, and when they looked up and saw the ark, they were overjoyed to see it. 14 The cart came to the field of Joshua of Beth-shemesh and stopped there near a large rock. The people of the city chopped up the cart and offered the cows as a burnt offering to the LORD. † 15 The Levites † removed the ark of the LORD, along with the box containing the gold objects, and placed them on the large rock. That day the people of Beth-shemesh offered burnt offerings and made sacrifices to the LORD.
16 When the five Philistine rulers † observed this, they returned to Ekron that same day.
17 As a guilt offering to the LORD, the Philistines had sent back one gold tumor for each city: † Ashdod, Gaza, Ashkelon, Gath, and Ekron. 18 The number of gold mice also corresponded to the number of Philistine cities of the five rulers, the fortified cities and the outlying villages. † The large rock † † on which the ark of the LORD was placed is still in the field of Joshua of Beth-shemesh today.
19 God struck down the people of Beth-shemesh because they looked inside the ark of the LORD. † † He struck down seventy persons. † The people mourned because the LORD struck them with a great slaughter. 20 The people of Beth-shemesh asked, “Who is able to stand in the presence of the LORD this holy God? † To whom should the ark go from here? ”

21 They sent messengers to the residents of Kiriath-jearim, † saying, “The Philistines have returned the ark of the LORD. Come down and get it.” †

6:5-6 The Philistines were aware of what God had done to the Egyptians centuries ago (see also 4:8), and they took care not to send the ark of the covenant back to Israel “without an offering” (v. 3), lest they subject themselves to further judgment from God (see the note on Ex 12:12). This offering corresponded to both “the number of Philistine rulers” and to the plague itself (v. 4). Despite Israel’s sins and inadequacies, God was ensuring that the Philistines would indeed give glory to Israel’s God.

6:7-12 The cows’ direct route to Beth-shemesh removed any remaining doubt about God’s involvement in all of this (see 5:6,9,11).

6:19-20 By looking inside the ark (see Nm 3:27-32; 4:15-20), the Israelites showed that they still lacked proper respect for this holy God (see also note on 2Sm 6:3-9).

7 So the people of Kiriath-jearim came for the ark of the LORD and took it to Abinadab’s house on the hill. † They consecrated his son Eleazar to take care of it.

VICTORY AT MIZPAH

2 Time went by until twenty years had passed since the ark had been taken to Kiriath-jearim. Then the whole house of Israel longed for the LORD. 3 Samuel told them, “If you † are returning to the LORD † with all your heart, † get rid of the foreign gods † and the Ashtoreths that are among you, dedicate yourselves to † the LORD, and worship only him. † Then he will rescue you from the Philistines.” 4 So the Israelites removed the Baals and the Ashtoreths † and only worshiped the LORD.

5 Samuel said, “Gather all Israel at Mizpah, † and I will pray to the LORD on your behalf.” † 6 When they gathered at Mizpah, they drew water and poured it out in the LORD’s presence. † They fasted that day, † and there they confessed,

“We have sinned against the LORD.” † And Samuel judged the Israelites at Mizpah.
7 When the Philistines heard that the Israelites had gathered at Mizpah, their rulers marched up toward Israel. When the Israelites heard about it, they were afraid because of the Philistines. 8 The Israelites said to Samuel, “Don’t stop crying out to the LORD our God for us, so that he will save us from the Philistines.”
9 Then Samuel took a young lamb † and offered it as a whole burnt offering to the LORD. He cried out to the LORD on behalf of Israel, and the LORD answered him. † 10 Samuel was offering the burnt offering as the Philistines approached to fight against Israel. The LORD thundered loudly † against the Philistines that day and threw them into such confusion that they were defeated by Israel. †
11 Then the men of Israel charged out of Mizpah and pursued the Philistines striking them down all the way to a place below Beth-car.
12 Afterward, Samuel took a stone and set it upright † between Mizpah and Shen. He named it Ebenezer, † explaining, “The LORD has helped us to this point.” 13 So the Philistines were subdued † and † did not invade Israel’s territory again. † The LORD’s hand was against the Philistines all of Samuel’s life. 14 The cities from Ekron to Gath, which they had taken from Israel, were restored; Israel even rescued their surrounding territories from Philistine control. There was also peace between Israel and the Amorites.
15 Samuel judged Israel throughout his life. † 16 Every year he would go on a circuit to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpah and would judge Israel at all these locations. 17 Then he would return to Ramah † because his home was there, he judged Israel there, and he built an altar to the LORD there.

7:2-4 Though Israel longed for the LORD and wanted to return to him, Samuel made sure that they got rid of the foreign gods to worship only him. Since God requires exclusive worship (see Ex 20:3), genuinely seeking him entails forsaking all other gods. Regarding the Baals and the Ashtoreths, see the note on Judges 3:7-11.

7:7-11 In addition to confessing sin (v. 6), the Israelites also needed deliverance from the Philistines (see v. 3). When the Philistines attacked at Mizpah, the Israelites asked Samuel to pray to God on their behalf (vv. 7-8). The LORD answered him and thundered loudly against the Philistines and routed them.

7:15-17 Regarding Samuel as a judge, see the note on 1:1.

ISRAEL'S DEMAND FOR A KING

8 When Samuel grew old, he appointed his sons as judges over Israel. † 2 His firstborn son's name was Joel and his second was Abijah. They were judges in Beer-sheba. † 3 However, his sons did not walk in his ways — they turned toward dishonest profit, took bribes, and perverted justice. †
4 So all the elders of Israel gathered together and went to Samuel at Ramah. †
5 They said to him, "Look, you are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways.
Therefore, appoint a king to judge us the same as all the other nations have." † 6 When they said, "Give us a king to judge us," Samuel considered their demand wrong, so he prayed to the LORD. 7 But the LORD told him, "Listen to the people and everything they say to you. They have not rejected you; they have rejected me as their king. † 8 They are doing the same thing to you that they have done to me, † since the day I brought them out of Egypt until this day, abandoning me and worshiping other gods. 9 Listen to them, but solemnly warn them † and tell them about the customary rights of the king who will reign over them." 10 Samuel told all the LORD's words to the people who were asking him for a king. 11 He said, "These are the rights of the king who will reign over you: He will take your sons and put them to his use in his chariots, on his horses, or running in front of his chariots. 12 He can appoint them for his use as commanders of thousands or commanders of fifties, † to plow his ground and reap his harvest, or to make his weapons of war and the equipment for his chariots. 13 He can take your daughters to become perfumers, cooks, and bakers.
14 He can take your best fields, vineyards, and olive orchards and give them to his servants. † 15 He can take a tenth of your grain and your vineyards and give them to his officials and servants. 16 He can take your male servants, your female servants, your best young men, † and your donkeys and use them for his work. 17 He can take a tenth of your flocks, and you yourselves can become his servants. 18 When that day comes, you will cry out because of the king you've chosen for yourselves, † but the LORD won't answer you on that day." †

19 The people refused to listen to Samuel. "No!" they said. "We must have a king over us. 20 Then we'll be like all the other nations: our king will judge us, go out before us, † and fight our battles."

A HISTORY OF CHRISTIANITY'S IMPACT ON GOVERNMENTS

The NT does not present an elaborate manifesto for the direct impact of Christianity on government. Christ indicates that the payment of taxes by his disciples is a legitimate imperative (Mt 22:15-22). Paul indicates that the civil magistrate is to be obeyed and respected as one established by God (Rm 13:1-7) and that the church is to pray for those in civil authority (1Tm 2:2). Elsewhere, Paul is happy to appeal to his Roman citizenship as a means of obtaining legal privileges (Ac 25).

THE ANCIENT CHURCH

In the late first century, the earliest portion of the post-apostolic period, the Roman government features not so much as something to be principally opposed by the church but as a source of martyrdom, as seen in the various letters of Ignatius, Bishop of Antioch (ca AD 107). Then, in the second century, the Greek apologists spent much time arguing that Christians actually make the best citizens and should therefore be tolerated within the empire. In short, they did not present Christianity as an idiom of protest but as something that was compatible with living as obedient citizens and subjects of Rome.

Sporadic persecution of the church was supplanted by more pan-imperial campaigns in the third and the beginning of the fourth centuries. The requirement to pledge allegiance to the emperor and to sacrifice to him as to a god precipitated widespread Christian opposition and apostasy. Eventually, at the start of the fourth century, Emperor Constantine converted to Christianity and a new era of church-state relations commenced.

Though often criticized, the world of Constantine and beyond brought many benefits to the church, including the end of formal persecution in the West. By the end of the fourth century, the rapprochement between church and state was such that Ambrose, having served as a regional governor, was called as Bishop of Milan before he was even baptized. The skills needed to rule the church were apparently thought to be the same as those needed to run the empire. In addition, in the case of Priscillian, an ascetic teacher of the late fourth century, we have the first example of a heretic being prosecuted by the civil authority. Right doctrine had become a concern of state enforcement, not just church discipline.

THE MIDDLE AGES

The Middle Ages (ca 500–1500) saw major struggles between church and state in both the West and East. In the East, Caesaropapism (the practice of combining church and state powers under the rulership of the governmental head) was not an official dogma. Nevertheless, it was the practical position for the Byzantine Church, as the emperor exerted the right to appoint Patriarchs. This was also the practical position of the Russian Orthodox Church under the Tsars.

In the West, the pope's crowning of Charlemagne as Holy Roman Emperor in AD 800 and then the various so-called Investiture Controversies of the eleventh and twelfth centuries helped to define church and state relations in terms of an often uneasy standoff, with the church exhibiting military and political ambitions outside of the strictly ecclesiastical sphere.

THE REFORMATION

Magisterial Reformers like Martin Luther, Huldrych Zwingli, John Calvin, and Thomas Cranmer worked in coordination with the civil magistrate to effect reform of the church. This took different localized forms: Zwingli and Calvin were reforming in cities with moderately representative governments; Luther worked under a medieval feudal system; Cranmer labored under a monarch. This somewhat shaped their respective attitudes to church and state. Luther generally counseled nonresistance, seeing church and state as operating in two different spheres with different tools. Zwingli saw church and state as closely identified, especially on matters of discipline. Calvin sought to free the church in terms of its ministry from state interference, although he was never able to achieve this quite as he wished in Geneva. Cranmer laid the foundations for an English church that was essentially Erastian in concept, with the head of state functioning as the supreme governor of the church. Thus, the church was essentially an arm of the state, a position sketched out in the writings of the medieval English theologian, John Wycliffe.

Radical groups were initially associated with the Magisterial Reformers but came to advocate models of reformation that pressed beyond that which the civil magistrate was prepared to tolerate. The results were the Peasants' Rebellion in Germany in 1525 and later the violent seizure of the city of Munster by radicals in 1534–1535. After the Munster siege ended in a bloodbath, Anabaptism, under the influence of Menno Simons whose brother had perished in the siege, moved in a strongly pacifist and social separatist direction. It formed alternative, peaceful communities.

John Knox and Christopher Goodman radicalized the position of both Luther and Calvin and extended the right of rebellion to subjects if the head of state committed idolatry, specifically in the form of the promotion, tolerance, or practice of Roman Catholicism. This notion bore fruit in the seventeenth century in the covenanting political theology of Samuel Rutherford and others. It also provided the ideological conditions for the English Civil War.

THE MODERN ERA

The last two hundred years have seen a great diversity in the approaches of Christians to the church and to politics. In the Eastern Bloc during the Cold War, both Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy provided idioms of protest against the avowedly atheist totalitarian regimes.

Some have argued on both the Left and the Right that the Bible calls for the church to be an agent of fundamental social transformation. Thus, in South America, Roman Catholic liberation theology involved a basic synthesis of Christian and Marxist themes. Protestant Theonomists have looked more to premodern models of social organization and OT case law as having perennial biblical sanction; thus, they wish to establish Mosaic law and OT case laws as the laws of the land. (Some go so far as to say non-Christians should not vote or hold office.) In the United States, the Reagan era saw the appropriation of biblical rhetoric for political purposes in the dying years of the Cold War. This appears to have left a lasting legacy of a connection between conservative Christianity and conservative politics. This position has been intensified in recent decades by the partisan alignment on the issue of abortion and also by the increasing role played by the politics of sexual identity in public political discourse.

There are alternatives to the close identification of church and society that one finds in liberation theology, theonomy, and Christian America movements. A strand of Presbyterian thinking has emphasized the fundamentally spiritual nature of the church whereby on principle the church does not speak directly to the political issues of the day but is careful to allow for Christian freedom on such matters. The church simply preaches the Word as it culminates in Christ and administers sacraments and discipline. In recent years this has sharpened into what is known as Two Kingdom Theology, which sees its roots in the Reformation, especially in the thought of Martin Luther. This is in some ways akin to certain forms of Anabaptist thinking which see the church as an alternative community to the world and as fulfilling its task not by directly transforming political institutions but by modeling an alternative way of life.

21 Samuel listened to all the people's words and then repeated them to the LORD. † 22 "Listen to them," the LORD told Samuel. "Appoint a king for them." †

8:4-9 God was not opposed to a human king over Israel and had said in Deuteronomy that they could have one (see Dt 17:15). The problem with the Israelites' request for a king here was their desire to be like all the other nations (vv. 5,19; see also Dt 17:14). This motive was at odds with God's will for them to be "a holy nation" (Ex 19:6), set apart from the others (Ex 19:5; Lv 20:24,26; Dt 7:6). Furthermore, it was a rejection of God as their King (v. 7; 10:19; see also the notes on vv. 19-20 and Jdg 8:22-23).

8:19-20 Though Samuel warned that their king would take their children, property, crops, servants, and even their freedom for his own purposes (vv. 11-17; see 14:52), the Israelites insisted that they wanted a king to judge [them], go out before [them], and fight [their] battles (see also the note on vv. 4-9). This king, however, was subject to God and to his law (12:13-15; Dt 17:14-20). The eventual institution of the kingship had been implicitly assumed in passages such as Genesis 17:16 and 49:8-12. The messianic king described in the latter passage, however, would not come until "the last days" (see the note on Gn 49:8-12).

SAUL ANOINTED KING

9 There was a prominent man of Benjamin named Kish † son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Becorath, son of Aphiah, son of a Benjaminite. 2 He had a son named Saul, an impressive young man. † There was no one more impressive among the Israelites than he. He stood a head taller than anyone else. † †

3 One day the donkeys of Saul's father Kish wandered off. Kish said to his son Saul, "Take one of the servants with you and go look for the donkeys." 4 Saul and his servant went through the hill country of Ephraim † and then through the region of Shalishah, † but they didn't find them. They went through the region of Shaalim † — nothing. Then they went through the Benjaminite region but still didn't find them.

5 When they came to the land of Zuph, † Saul said to the servant who was with him, "Come on, let's go back, or my father will stop worrying about the donkeys and start worrying about us." †

6 "Look," the servant said, "there's a man of God † in this city who is highly respected; everything he says is sure to come true. † Let's go there now. Maybe he'll tell us which way we should go." †

7 "Suppose we do go," Saul said to his servant, "what do we take the man? The food from our packs is gone, and there's no gift to take to the man of God. † What do we have? "

8 The servant answered Saul: "Here, I have a little † silver. I'll give it to the man of God, and he will tell us which way we should go."

9 Formerly in Israel, a man who was going to inquire of God would say, "Come, let's go to the seer," for the prophet of today was formerly called the seer. †

10 "Good," Saul replied to his servant. "Come on, let's go." So they went to the city where the man of God was. 11 As they were climbing the hill to the city, they found some young women coming out to draw water † and asked, "Is the seer here? "

12 The women answered, "Yes, he is ahead of you. Hurry, he just now entered the city, because there's a sacrifice † for the people at the high place † today. 13 As soon as you enter the city, you will find him before he goes to the high place to eat. The people won't eat until he comes because he must bless the sacrifice; after that, the guests can eat. Go up immediately — you can find him now." 14 So they went up toward the city.

Saul and his servant were entering the city when they saw Samuel coming toward them on his way to the high place. 15 Now the day before Saul's arrival, the LORD had informed Samuel, † † 16 "At this time tomorrow I will send you a man from the land of Benjamin. Anoint him ruler over my people Israel. † He will save them from the Philistines because I have seen the affliction of my people, † for their cry has come to me." 17 When Samuel saw Saul, the LORD told him, "Here is the man I told you about; † he will govern my people."

18 Saul approached Samuel in the city gate and asked, “Would you please tell me where the seer’s house is? ” 19 “I am the seer,” Samuel answered. † “Go up ahead of me to the high place and eat with me today. When I send you off in the morning, I’ll tell you everything that’s in your heart. 20 As for the donkeys that wandered away from you three days ago, † don’t worry about them because they’ve been found. And who does all Israel desire † but you and all your father’s family? ” 21 Saul responded, “Am I not a Benjaminite † from the smallest of Israel’s tribes and isn’t my clan the least important of all the clans of the Benjaminite tribe? † So why have you said something like this to me? ” 22 Samuel took Saul and his servant, brought them to the banquet hall, and gave them a place at the head of the thirty † or so men who had been invited. 23 Then Samuel said to the cook, “Get the portion of meat that I gave you and told you to set aside.”
24 The cook picked up the thigh † and what was attached to it and set it before Saul. Then Samuel said, “Notice that the reserved piece is set before you. Eat it because it was saved for you for this solemn event at the time I said, ‘I’ve invited the people.’ ” So Saul ate with Samuel that day. 25 Afterward, they went down from the high place to the city, and Samuel spoke with Saul on the roof. † †
26 They got up early, and just before dawn, Samuel called to Saul on the roof, “Get up, and I’ll send you on your way! ” Saul got up, and both he and Samuel went outside. 27 As they were going down to the edge of the city, Samuel said to Saul, “Tell the servant to go on ahead of us, but you stay for a while, and I’ll reveal the word of God to you.” So the servant went on.

9:1-17 Saul would become the first king of Israel, but his lineage from the tribe of Benjamin clearly distinguished him from the king promised in Genesis 49:8-12 who would come from the line of Judah. He was not the only tall man in 1 Samuel who would prove a failure (v. 2; see also 16:7; 17:4).

10 Samuel took the flask of oil, † poured it out on Saul's head, † kissed him, and said, "Hasn't the LORD anointed you † ruler over his inheritance? † † 2 Today when you leave me, you'll find two men at Rachel's Grave † at Zelzah in the territory of Benjamin. They will say to you, 'The donkeys you went looking for have been found, † and now your father has stopped being concerned about the donkeys and is worried about you, asking: What should I do about my son? '

3 "You will proceed from there until you come to the oak of Tabor. † Three men going up to God at Bethel † will meet you there, one bringing three goats, one bringing three loaves of bread, and one bringing a clay jar of wine. 4 They will ask how you are and give you two loaves † of bread, which you will accept from them.

5 "After that you will come to Gibeah of God † where there are Philistine garrisons. † When you arrive at the city, you will meet a group of prophets † coming down from the high place prophesying. † They will be preceded by harps, tambourines, flutes, and lyres. 6 The Spirit of the LORD will come powerfully on you, † you will prophesy with them, † and you will be transformed. † 7 When these signs have happened to you, do whatever your circumstances require † † because God is with you. 8 Afterward, go ahead of me to Gilgal. I will come to you to offer burnt offerings and to sacrifice fellowship offerings. Wait seven days until I come to you and show you what to do."

9 When Saul turned around † to leave Samuel, God changed his heart, † and all the signs came about that day. 10 When Saul and his servant arrived at Gibeah, a group of prophets met him. Then the Spirit of God came powerfully on him, and he prophesied along with them.

11 Everyone who knew him previously and saw him prophesy with the prophets asked each other, "What has happened to the son of Kish? Is Saul also among the prophets? " †

12 Then a man who was from there asked, "And who is their father? " †

As a result, “Is Saul also among the prophets?” became a popular saying.
13 Then Saul finished prophesying and went to the high place.
14 Saul’s uncle † asked him and his servant, “Where did you go?”
“To look for the donkeys,” Saul answered. “When we saw they weren’t there, we went to Samuel.” †
15 “Tell me,” Saul’s uncle asked, “what did Samuel say to you?”
16 Saul told him, “He assured us the donkeys had been found.” However, Saul did not tell him what Samuel had said about the matter of kingship.

SAUL RECEIVED AS KING

17 Samuel summoned the people to the LORD at Mizpah † 18 and said to the Israelites, “This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: † ‘I brought Israel out of Egypt, and I rescued you from the power of the Egyptians and all the kingdoms that were oppressing you.’ 19 But today you have rejected your God, † who saves you from all your troubles and afflictions. You said to him, ‘You † must set a king over us.’ † Now therefore present yourselves before the LORD by your tribes and clans.” †
20 Samuel had all the tribes of Israel come forward, and the tribe of Benjamin was selected. 21 Then he had the tribe of Benjamin come forward by its clans, and the Matrite clan was selected. † Finally, Saul son of Kish was selected. †
But when they searched for him, they could not find him. 22 They again inquired of the LORD, † “Has the man come here yet?”
The LORD replied, “There he is, hidden among the supplies.”
23 They ran and got him from there. When he stood among the people, he stood a head taller than anyone else. † † 24 Samuel said to all the people, “Do you see the one the LORD has chosen? † There is no one like him among the entire population.”
And all the people shouted, † “Long live the king!” †
25 Samuel proclaimed to the people the rights of kingship. † He wrote them on a scroll, which he placed in the presence of the LORD. † Then Samuel sent all the people home.

26 Saul also went to his home in Gibeah, † and brave men whose hearts God had touched went with him. 27 But some wicked men said, “How can this guy save us?” They despised him and did not bring him a gift, † but Saul said nothing. † †

10:1-2 Samuel’s anointing of Saul marked the beginning of monarchy in Israel (see also v. 24).

10:8 Samuel instructed Saul to wait for him at Gilgal where Samuel himself would offer sacrifices. Sadly, Saul would fail to do this, and these initial instructions are thus linked to one of Saul’s major personal failings (see the note on 13:8-14).

10:9-13 As Samuel predicted (vv. 2-6), all the signs came about that day. Most notably, Saul met a group of prophets at Gibeah and prophesied with them because “the Spirit of God” came upon him (vv. 5-6,10). His divine transformation (v. 6) surprised those who had known Saul previously (vv. 11-13; see also 19:18-24).

10:21-24 Saul’s hesitance to be king was demonstrated again (see 10:16). After being selected, he could not be found because he was hidden among the supplies. His height only added to the ridiculous situation (v. 23). Samuel’s statement that there was no one like him among the entire population does not reflect well on Israel (see also 9:2).

10:27 Saul’s lack of response to these wicked men who despised him suggest weakness, though he does show mercy to these same men later (see 11:12-13).

SAUL’S DELIVERANCE OF JABESH-GILEAD

11 Nahash † † the Ammonite came up and laid siege to Jabesh-gilead. †
All the men of Jabesh said to him, “Make a treaty † with us, and we will serve you.”

2 Nahash the Ammonite replied, “I’ll make one with you on this condition: that I gouge out everyone’s right eye † and humiliate all Israel.” †
3 “Don’t do anything to us for seven days,” the elders of Jabesh said to him, “and let us send messengers throughout the territory of Israel. If no one saves us, we will surrender to you.”
4 When the messengers came to Gibeah, † Saul’s hometown, and told the terms to † the people, all wept aloud. † 5 Just then Saul was coming in from the field behind his oxen. “What’s the matter with the people? Why are they weeping?”
Saul inquired, and they repeated to him the words of the men from Jabesh.
6 When Saul heard these words, the Spirit of God suddenly came powerfully on him, † and his anger burned furiously. 7 He took a team of oxen, cut them in pieces, † and sent them throughout the territory of Israel by messengers who said, “This is what will be done to the ox of anyone who doesn’t march behind Saul and Samuel.” † As a result, the terror of the LORD fell on the people, and they went out united. † 8 Saul counted them at Bezek. † There were three hundred thousand † † Israelites and thirty thousand † men from Judah. 9 He told the messengers who had come, “Tell this to the men of Jabesh-gilead: ‘Deliverance will be yours tomorrow by the time the sun is hot.’ ” So the messengers told the men of Jabesh, and they rejoiced.
10 Then the men of Jabesh said to Nahash, “Tomorrow we will come out, and you can do whatever you want † to us.” 11 The next day Saul organized the troops into three divisions. † During the morning watch, they invaded the Ammonite camp and slaughtered them until the heat of the day. There were survivors, but they were so scattered that no two of them were left together.

SAUL’S CONFIRMATION AS KING

12 Afterward, the people said to Samuel, “Who said that Saul should not † reign over us? † Give us those men so we can kill them!” † 13 But Saul ordered, “No one will be executed this day, for today the LORD has provided deliverance in Israel.” †

14 Then Samuel said to the people, “Come, let’s go to Gilgal, so we can renew the kingship there.” 15 So all the people went to Gilgal, and there in the LORD’s presence † they made Saul king. There they sacrificed fellowship offerings † in the LORD’s presence, and Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

11:1-11 The Lord had said that Saul would deliver Israel from the Philistines (9:16), and he also defeated the Ammonites at Jabesh-gilead (see also 14:47). His empowerment by the Spirit of God prior to battle recalls the judges (v. 6; see the notes on Jdg 3:7-11 and 13:25).

SAMUEL’S FINAL PUBLIC SPEECH

12 Then Samuel said to all Israel, “I have carefully listened to everything you said to me and placed a king over you. † 2 Now you can see that the king is leading you. As for me, I’m old and gray, and my sons are here with you. I have led you from my youth until now. 3 Here I am. Bring charges against me before the LORD and his anointed: Whose ox or donkey have I taken? † Whom have I wronged or mistreated? From whom have I accepted a bribe to overlook something? † † † I will return it to you.” 4 “You haven’t wronged us, you haven’t mistreated us, and you haven’t taken anything from anyone,” they responded.
5 He said to them, “The LORD is a witness against you, and his anointed is a witness today that you haven’t found anything † in my hand.” †
“He is a witness,” they said.
6 Then Samuel said to the people, “The LORD, who appointed Moses and Aaron † and who brought your ancestors up from the land of Egypt, is a witness. † 7 Now present yourselves, so I may confront you before the LORD about all the righteous acts he has done for you and your ancestors.
8 “When Jacob went to Egypt, † your ancestors cried out to the LORD, † and he sent them Moses and Aaron, who led your ancestors out of Egypt and settled them in this place. † 9 But they forgot the LORD their God, so he handed them over to Sisera † commander of the army of Hazor, to the Philistines, and to the king of Moab. † These enemies fought against them. 10 Then they cried out to the LORD and said, ‘We have sinned, for we abandoned the LORD and worshiped the Baals and the Ashtoreths. Now rescue us from the power of our enemies, † and we will serve you.’ 11 So the LORD sent Jerubbaal, † Barak, † † Jephthah, † and Samuel. † He rescued you from the power of the enemies around you, and you lived securely. 12 But when you saw that Nahash king of the Ammonites was coming against you, you said to me, ‘No, we must have a king reign over us’ — even though the LORD your God is your king.

13 “Now here is the king you’ve chosen, † the one you requested. † Look, this is the king the LORD has placed over you. 14 If you fear the LORD, † worship and obey him, and if you don’t rebel against the LORD’s command, then both you and the king who reigns over you will follow the LORD your God. 15 However, if you disobey the LORD † and rebel against his command, the LORD’s hand will be against you † as it was against your ancestors. † †

16 “Now, therefore, present yourselves and see this great thing that the LORD will do before your eyes. † 17 Isn’t the wheat harvest today? † I will call on the LORD, and he will send thunder and rain so that you will recognize † what an immense evil you committed in the LORD’s sight by requesting a king for yourselves.” † 18 Samuel called on the LORD, and on that day the LORD sent thunder and rain. As a result, all the people greatly feared the LORD and Samuel. †

19 They pleaded with Samuel, “Pray to the LORD your God for your servants † so we won’t die! For we have added to all our sins the evil of requesting a king for ourselves.” †

20 Samuel replied, “Don’t be afraid. Even though you have committed all this evil, don’t turn away from following the LORD. † Instead, worship the LORD with all your heart. 21 Don’t turn away to follow worthless † things that can’t profit or rescue you; they are worthless. † 22 The LORD will not abandon his people, † because of his great name and because he has determined to make you his own people. †

23 “As for me, I vow that I will not sin against the Lord by ceasing to pray for you. † I will teach you the good and right way. 24 Above all, fear the Lord and worship him faithfully with all your heart; consider the great things he has done for you. † 25 However, if you continue to do what is evil, both you and your king will be swept away.” †

12:1-5 After leading Israel to reaffirm Saul’s kingship at Gilgal (11:14-15), Samuel speaks to the Israelites at length in this chapter. Now old, he had faithfully served them throughout his whole life.

12:6-25 Samuel’s emphases in this lengthy speech are God’s bringing Israel out of Egypt into this land (vv. 6-8), their rebellion against God and his gracious deliverance of them through judges (vv. 9-11), and their request for a king (vv. 12-17). As stated twice earlier (8:7; 10:19), this request was an implicit rejection of God as King (v. 12) and as such was an immense evil. Much like Moses had done long ago (see Lv 26; Dt 28), Samuel also charged Israel and their new king to obey God (v. 14; see also vv. 20-21,24), lest the Lord’s hand . . . be against [them] (v. 15) and they be swept away (v. 25). Also like Moses, Samuel assured the Israelites that the Lord will not abandon his people (v. 22; see Dt 30:1-14) and that he would continue to pray for and teach them.

SAUL’S FAILURE

13 Saul was thirty years † old when he became king, and he reigned forty-two years † over Israel. † 2 He chose three thousand men from Israel for himself: two thousand were with Saul at Michmash † and in Bethel’s hill country, and one thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah † of Benjamin. He sent the rest of the troops away, each to his own tent.
3 Jonathan attacked the Philistine garrison † † that was in Geba, † and the Philistines heard about it. So Saul blew the ram’s horn throughout the land † saying, “Let the Hebrews hear! ” † † 4 And all Israel heard the news, “Saul has attacked the Philistine garrison, and Israel is now repulsive to the Philistines.”
Then the troops were summoned to join Saul at Gilgal.

5 The Philistines also gathered to fight against Israel: three thousand † chariots, six thousand horsemen, and troops as numerous as the sand on the seashore. †
They went up and camped at Michmash, east of Beth-aven. † † 6 The men of Israel saw that they were in trouble because the troops were in a difficult situation. They hid in caves, in thickets, among rocks, and in holes and cisterns. † 7 Some Hebrews even crossed the Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead.
Saul, however, was still at Gilgal, and all his troops were gripped with fear. 8 He waited seven days for the appointed time that Samuel had set, † but Samuel didn't come to Gilgal, and the troops were deserting him. 9 So Saul said, "Bring me the burnt offering and the fellowship offerings." Then he offered the burnt offering.
10 Just as he finished offering the burnt offering, Samuel arrived. So Saul went out to greet him, 11 and Samuel asked, "What have you done? " Saul answered, "When I saw that the troops were deserting me and you didn't come within the appointed days and the Philistines were gathering at Michmash, 12 I thought, 'The Philistines will now descend on me at Gilgal, and I haven't sought the LORD's favor.' So I forced myself to offer the burnt offering." 13 Samuel said to Saul, "You have been foolish. † You have not kept the command the LORD your God gave you. † It was at this time that the LORD would have permanently established your reign over Israel, † 14 but now your reign will not endure. † The LORD has found a man after his own heart, † † and the LORD has appointed him as ruler over his people, because you have not done what the LORD commanded." 15 Then Samuel went † from Gilgal to Gibeah in Benjamin. Saul registered the troops who were with him, about six hundred men.
16 Saul, his son Jonathan, and the troops who were with them were staying in Geba † of Benjamin, and the Philistines were camped at Michmash. 17 Raiding parties † went out from the Philistine camp in three divisions. One division headed toward the Ophrah † road leading to the land of Shual. 18 The next division headed toward the Beth-horon † road, and the last division headed down the border road that looks out over the Zeboim Valley † toward the wilderness.

19 No blacksmith could be found in all the land of Israel † because the Philistines had said, “Otherwise, the Hebrews will make swords or spears.” 20 So all the Israelites went to the Philistines to sharpen their plows, mattocks, axes, and sickles. † 21 The price was two-thirds of a shekel † for plows and mattocks, and one-third of a shekel for pitchforks and axes, and for putting a point on a cattle prod. 22 So on the day of battle not a sword or spear could be found in the hand of any of the troops who were with Saul † and Jonathan; only Saul and his son Jonathan had weapons.

JONATHAN’S VICTORY OVER THE PHILISTINES

23 Now a Philistine garrison † took control of the pass at Michmash.

13:8-14 The Philistines’ preparation for battle put Saul and his troops under great distress at Gilgal (vv. 5-7). When Samuel had not arrived by the appointed time and Saul’s troops were deserting (see the note on 10:8), Saul took matters into his own hands and offered the burnt offering—contrary to Samuel’s earlier instructions. Saul made excuses when confronted by Samuel, but Samuel insisted that Saul had been foolish and disobedient. Consequently, God would not establish his reign (lit “kingdom”) and had found instead a man after his own heart. Israel’s first king was thus a failure because of his disobedience to the prophetic word (see also the notes on 8:19-20; 12:6-17; and 15:22-23).

13:19-22 The lack of swords or spears in Israel showed both the extent of Philistine oppression and the pathetic state of the Israelite army.

14 That same day Saul’s son Jonathan said to the attendant who carried his weapons, “Come on, let’s cross over to the Philistine garrison on the other side.” However, he did not tell his father.

2 Saul was staying under the pomegranate tree in Migron † on the outskirts of Gibeah. † † The troops with him numbered about six hundred. † 3 Ahijah, † who was wearing an ephod, † was also there. He was the son of Ahitub, the brother of Ichabod † son of Phinehas, son of Eli the LORD's priest at Shiloh. †

But the troops did not know that Jonathan had left.
4 There were sharp columns † of rock on both sides of the pass † that Jonathan intended to cross to reach the Philistine garrison. One was named Bozez and the other Seneh; 5 one stood to the north in front of Michmash and the other to the south in front of Geba. 6 Jonathan said to the attendant who carried his weapons,
"Come on, let's cross over to the garrison of these uncircumcised men. † Perhaps the LORD will help us. Nothing can keep the LORD from saving, whether by many or by few." † 7 His armor-bearer responded, "Do what is in your heart. You choose. I'm right here with you whatever you decide."
8 "All right," Jonathan replied, "we'll cross over to the men and then let them see us. 9 If they say, 'Wait until we reach you,' then we will stay where we are and not go up to them. 10 But if they say, 'Come on up,' then we'll go up, because the LORD has handed them over to us — that will be our sign." 11 They let themselves be seen by the Philistine garrison, and the Philistines said, "Look, the Hebrews are coming out of the holes where they've been hiding!" 12 The men of the garrison called to Jonathan and his armor-bearer.
"Come on up, and we'll teach you a lesson!" they said.
"Follow me," Jonathan told his armor-bearer, "for the LORD has handed them over to Israel." † 13 Jonathan climbed up using his hands and feet, with his armor-bearer behind him. Jonathan cut them down, and his armor-bearer followed and finished them off. 14 In that first assault Jonathan and his armor-bearer struck down about twenty men in a half-acre field.

A DEFEAT FOR THE PHILISTINES

15 Terror spread through the Philistine camp and the open fields to all the troops.
Even the garrison and the raiding parties † were terrified. The earth shook, † and terror spread from God. † † 16 When Saul's watchmen in Gibeah of Benjamin looked, they saw the panicking troops scattering in every direction.
17 So Saul said to the troops with him, "Call the roll and determine who has left us." They called the roll and saw that Jonathan and his armor-bearer were gone.

18 Saul told Ahijah, “Bring the ark of God,” for it was with the Israelites † at that time. 19 While Saul spoke to the priest, † the panic in the Philistine camp increased in intensity. So Saul said to the priest, “Stop what you’re doing.” † 20 Saul and all the troops with him assembled and marched to the battle, and there the Philistines were, fighting against each other in great confusion! † 21 There were Hebrews from the area who had gone earlier into the camp to join the Philistines, but even they joined the Israelites † who were with Saul and Jonathan. 22 When all the Israelite men who had been hiding in the hill country of Ephraim † heard that the Philistines were fleeing, they also joined Saul and Jonathan in the battle. 23 So the LORD saved Israel that day. †

SAUL’S RASH OATH

The battle extended beyond Beth-aven, 24 and the men of Israel were worn out that day, for Saul had † placed the troops under an oath: † “The man who eats food before evening, before I have taken vengeance on my enemies is cursed.”
So none of the troops tasted any food.
25 Everyone † went into the forest, and there was honey on the ground.
26 When the troops entered the forest, they saw the flow of honey, but none of them ate any of it † because they feared the oath. 27 However, Jonathan had not heard his father make the troops swear the oath. He reached out with the end of the staff he was carrying and dipped it into the honeycomb. † When he ate the honey, † he had renewed energy. † † 28 Then one of the troops said, “Your father made the troops solemnly swear, ‘The man who eats food today is cursed,’ and the troops are exhausted.” 29 Jonathan replied, “My father has brought trouble to the land. † Just look at how I have renewed energy † because I tasted a little of this honey. 30 How much better if the troops had eaten freely today from the plunder they took from their enemies! Then the slaughter of the Philistines would have been much greater.”
31 The Israelites struck down the Philistines that day from Michmash † all the way to Aijalon. † Since the Israelites were completely exhausted, 32 they rushed to the plunder, † took sheep, goats, cattle, and calves, slaughtered them on the ground, and ate meat with the blood still in it. 33 Some reported to Saul: “Look, the troops are sinning against the LORD by eating meat with the blood still in it.” †

Saul said, “You have been unfaithful. Roll a large stone over here at once.” 34 He then said, “Go among the troops and say to them, ‘Let each man bring me his ox or his sheep. Do the slaughtering here and then you can eat. Don’t sin against the LORD by eating meat with the blood in it.’ ” So every one of the troops brought his ox that night and slaughtered it there. 35 Then Saul built an altar to the LORD; it was the first time he had built an altar to the LORD. †
36 Saul said, “Let’s go down after the Philistines tonight and plunder them until morning. Don’t let even one remain! ”
“Do whatever you want,” † the troops replied.
But the priest † said, “Let’s approach God here.” †
37 So Saul inquired of God, † “Should I go after the Philistines? Will you hand them over to Israel? ” But God did not answer him that day. †
38 Saul said, “All you leaders of the troops, come here. Let us investigate † how this sin has occurred today. 39 As surely as the LORD lives who saves Israel, even if it is because of my son Jonathan, he must die! ” Not one of the troops answered him.
40 So he said to all Israel, “You will be on one side, and I and my son Jonathan will be on the other side.”
And the troops replied, “Do whatever you want.”
41 So Saul said to the LORD, “God of Israel, why have you not answered your servant today? If the unrighteousness is in me or in my son Jonathan, LORD God of Israel, give Urim; but if the fault is in your people Israel, give Thummim.” † † Jonathan and Saul were selected, and the troops were cleared of the charge.
42 Then Saul said, “Cast the lot between me and my son Jonathan,” and Jonathan was selected. 43 Saul commanded him, “Tell me what you did.” † Jonathan told him, “I tasted a little honey † with the end of the staff I was carrying. I am ready to die! ”
44 Saul declared to him, “May God punish me and do so severely † if you do not die, Jonathan! ”

45 But the people said to Saul, “Must Jonathan die, who accomplished such a great deliverance for Israel? No, as the LORD lives, not a hair of his head will fall to the ground, † for he worked with God’s help today.” † So the people redeemed Jonathan, and he did not die. 46 Then Saul gave up the pursuit of the Philistines, and the Philistines returned to their own territory.

SUMMARY OF SAUL’S KINGSHIP

47 When Saul assumed the kingship over Israel, he fought against all his enemies in every direction: against Moab, the Ammonites, † Edom, the kings of Zobah, † and the Philistines. Wherever he turned, he caused havoc. † 48 He fought bravely, defeated the Amalekites, † and rescued Israel from those who plundered them.

49 Saul’s sons † were Jonathan, Ishvi, and Malchishua. The names of his two daughters were Merab, † his firstborn, and Michal, † the younger. 50 The name of Saul’s wife was Ahinoam daughter of Ahimaaz. The name of the commander of his army was Abner son of Saul’s uncle Ner. † 51 Saul’s father was Kish. † Abner’s father was Ner son of Abiel.

52 The conflict with the Philistines was fierce all of Saul’s days, so whenever Saul noticed any strong or valiant man, he enlisted him. †

14:6-14 Jonathan’s faith that God could save by many or by few was rewarded when he and his armor-bearer struck down twenty Philistines. The rationale behind the sign is not entirely clear (v. 10). Jonathan apparently saw the potential Philistine responses as a way for the sovereign Lord to show his will.

14:17 Saul finally discovered that Jonathan and his armor-bearer had left (see vv. 1,3).

14:18-19 Saul's request for the ark of God would seem to be for the purpose of seeking divine guidance, but the biblical text mentions no such request or any guidance given. Perhaps he abandoned the attempt once it became obvious that the fighting would begin.

14:20-23 Despite Saul's failures, God faithfully delivered Israel from the Philistines through him (see 9:16; 14:47-48). The self-destruction of the Philistines recalls Gideon's victory over the Midianites (see the note on Jdg 7:19-22).

14:29-30 The latent disunity between Saul and Jonathan is now clearly manifested (see vv. 1,3, 17,38-44). Although Jonathan's violation of his father's command was inadvertent (vv. 24-27), his response upon being confronted was to question the king's decision.

14:31-35 In placing his troops under oath not to eat (v. 24), Saul had put his men in a difficult position. Unable to take it anymore, they ended up taking from the plunder and eating meat with the blood still in it, which was forbidden (vv. 33-34; see also the note on Lv 3:17).

14:38-46 Saul once again spoke rashly in ordering the death penalty of the person responsible (see previous note). When Jonathan was revealed to be the one, Saul was prepared to put to death his own son (vv. 43-44) but was prevented from doing so by the people (v. 45). Thus, the disunity between Saul and Jonathan is shown again (see the note on 14:29-30). The people did not follow Saul in that instance either (see also vv. 31-33; 13:8).

SAUL REJECTED AS KING

15 Samuel told Saul, "The LORD sent me to anoint you as king over his people Israel. † Now, listen to the words of the LORD. 2 This is what the LORD of Armies says: 'I witnessed † what the Amalekites did to the Israelites when they opposed them along the way as they were coming out of Egypt. † 3 Now go and attack the Amalekites and completely destroy everything they have. † Do not spare them. Kill men and women, infants and nursing babies, oxen and sheep, camels and donkeys.' " † 4 Then Saul summoned the troops and counted them at Telaim: two hundred thousand foot soldiers and ten thousand men from Judah. 5 Saul came to the city of Amalek and set up an ambush in the wadi. 6 He warned the Kenites, † "Since you showed kindness to all the Israelites when they came out of Egypt, † go on and leave! Get away from the Amalekites, or I'll sweep you away with them."
So the Kenites withdrew from the Amalekites.
7 Then Saul struck down the Amalekites † from Havilah † all the way to Shur, † which is next to Egypt. 8 He captured King Agag † of Amalek alive, but he completely destroyed all the rest of the people with the sword. † 9 Saul and the troops spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, goats, cattle, and choice animals, † as well as the young rams and the best of everything else. They were not willing to destroy them, but they did destroy all the worthless and unwanted things.

10 Then the word of the LORD came to Samuel, 11 "I regret that I made Saul king, † for he has turned away from following me and has not carried out my instructions." † So Samuel became angry and cried out to the LORD all night. †
12 Early in the morning Samuel got up to confront Saul, but it was reported to Samuel, "Saul went to Carmel † where he set up a monument for himself. Then he turned around and went down to Gilgal." † 13 When Samuel came to him, Saul said, "May the LORD bless you. † I have carried out the LORD's instructions."
14 Samuel replied, "Then what is this sound of sheep, goats, † and cattle I hear? "
15 Saul answered, "The troops brought them from the Amalekites and spared the best sheep, goats, and cattle in order to offer a sacrifice to the LORD your God, † but the rest we destroyed." † 16 "Stop! " exclaimed Samuel. "Let me tell you what the LORD said to me last night."
"Tell me," he replied.
17 Samuel continued, "Although you once considered yourself unimportant, † have you not become the leader of the tribes of Israel? The LORD anointed you king over Israel 18 and then sent you on a mission and said: 'Go and completely destroy the sinful Amalekites. Fight against them until you have annihilated them.' 19 So why didn't you obey the LORD? Why did you rush on the plunder † and do what was evil in the LORD's sight? "
20 "But I did obey the LORD! " Saul answered. † "I went on the mission the LORD gave me: I brought back King Agag of Amalek, and I completely destroyed the Amalekites. 21 The troops took sheep, goats, and cattle from the plunder — the best of what was set apart for destruction — to sacrifice to the LORD your God at Gilgal." †
22 Then Samuel said:

Does the LORD † take pleasure in burnt offerings and sacrifices as much as in obeying the LORD?

Look: to obey is better than sacrifice, to pay attention is better than the fat of rams. † 23 For rebellion is like the sin of divination, † and defiance is like wickedness † and idolatry.
Because you have rejected the word of the LORD, he has rejected you as king. †

24 Saul answered Samuel, "I have sinned. † I have transgressed the LORD's command † and your words. Because I was afraid of the people, I obeyed them.
25 Now therefore, please forgive my sin † and return with me so I can worship the LORD."
26 Samuel replied to Saul, "I will not return with you. Because you rejected the word of the LORD, † the LORD has rejected you from being king over Israel."
27 When Samuel turned to go, Saul grabbed the corner of his robe, and it tore.
28 Samuel said to him, "The LORD has torn the kingship of Israel away from you today † and has given it to your neighbor who is better than you. †
29 Furthermore, the Eternal One of Israel † does not lie or change his mind, for he is not man who changes his mind." †
30 Saul said, "I have sinned. Please honor me † now before the elders of my people and before Israel. Come back with me so I can bow in worship to the LORD your God." † 31 Then Samuel went back, following Saul, and Saul bowed down to the LORD.
32 Samuel said, "Bring me King Agag of Amalek."
Agag came to him trembling, † for he thought, "Certainly the bitterness of death has come." † † 33 Samuel declared:

As your sword has made women childless,
so your mother will be childless among women. †

Then he hacked Agag to pieces before the LORD at Gilgal.

34 Samuel went to Ramah, † and Saul went up to his home in Gibeah † of Saul.
35 Even to the day of his death, Samuel never saw Saul again. † Samuel mourned for Saul, † and the LORD regretted he had made Saul king over Israel.

15:1-3 The occasion for Saul's second major failure was this command to completely destroy the Amalekites and their livestock (see the note on 13:8-14). The Amalekites had fought against Israel shortly after the exodus from Egypt, and at that time God had said that he would completely blot out the memory of Amalek from under heaven (Ex 17:14,16). Likewise, Balaam had prophesied that Amalek's "future is destruction" (Nm 24:20). Saul was supposed to carry out this plan of God. For a parallel to such utter destruction, see the note on Deuteronomy 7:1-6. Amalek was also connected with the land of Canaan (see Nm 13:29; Jdg 5:14; 12:15).

15:22-23 Saul was supposed to destroy all the Amalekites and their livestock (v. 3), but he spared their king and their best animals (v. 9). When confronted by Samuel, he once again made excuses (vv. 12-15,20-21; see 13:11-12). As Samuel explained, to obey is better than sacrifice (see vv. 15,21). For a second time, Saul had rejected the word of the LORD, and as a result, God rejected [him] as king (see the note on 13:8-14).

15:24 Saul finally admitted that he sinned because he was afraid of the people. As Proverbs 29:25 says, "The fear of mankind is a snare."

15:28-29 In 13:13-14, Samuel had warned that Saul's "reign" (lit "kingdom") would not be "permanently established" and would "not endure." Here Samuel said that Saul's kingship (lit "kingdom") was being torn . . . away . . . today. The Lord regretted making Saul king because of his repeated disobedience (vv. 11,35) and had decidedly rejected him as king.

SAMUEL ANOINTS DAVID

16 The LORD said to Samuel, "How long are you going to mourn for Saul, † since I have rejected him as king over Israel? † Fill your horn with oil † and go. I am sending you to Jesse of Bethlehem † because I have selected a king from his sons."
2 Samuel asked, "How can I go? Saul will hear about it and kill me! "

The LORD answered, “Take a young cow with you and say, ‘I have come to sacrifice to the LORD.’ † 3 Then invite Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will let you know what you are to do. † You are to anoint for me the one I indicate to you.” †

4 Samuel did what the LORD directed and went to Bethlehem. † When the elders of the town met him, they trembled † and asked, “Do † you come in peace? ” †

5 “In peace,” he replied. “I’ve come to sacrifice to the LORD. Consecrate yourselves † and come with me to the sacrifice.” † Then he consecrated Jesse and his sons and invited them to the sacrifice. 6 When they arrived, Samuel saw Eliab † and said, “Certainly the LORD’s anointed one is here before him.”

7 But the LORD said to Samuel, “Do not look at his appearance or his stature because I have rejected him. Humans do not see what the LORD sees, † for humans see what is visible, † but the LORD sees the heart.” †

8 Jesse called Abinadab † and presented him to Samuel. “The LORD hasn’t chosen this one either,” Samuel said. 9 Then Jesse presented Shammah, † but Samuel said, “The LORD hasn’t chosen this one either.” 10 After Jesse presented seven of his sons to him, Samuel told Jesse, “The LORD hasn’t chosen any of these.” 11 Samuel asked him, “Are these all the sons you have? ”

“There is still the youngest,” † he answered, “but right now he’s tending the sheep.” Samuel told Jesse, “Send for him. We won’t sit down to eat until he gets here.” 12 So Jesse sent for him. He had beautiful eyes and a healthy, † handsome appearance. †

Then the LORD said, “Anoint him, for he is the one.” † 13 So Samuel took the horn of oil and anointed him † in the presence of his brothers, and the Spirit of the LORD came powerfully on David from that day forward. † Then Samuel set out and went to Ramah.

DAVID IN SAUL’S COURT

14 Now the Spirit of the LORD had left Saul, † and an evil spirit sent from the LORD began to torment him, 15 so Saul’s servants said to him, “You see that an evil spirit from God is tormenting you. 16 Let our lord command your servants here in your presence to look for someone who knows how to play the lyre. Whenever the evil spirit from God comes on you, that person can play the lyre, and you will feel better." † 17 Then Saul commanded his servants, "Find me someone who plays well and bring him to me."

18 One of the young men answered, "I have seen a son of Jesse of Bethlehem who knows how to play the lyre. He is also a valiant man, † a warrior, eloquent, handsome, and the LORD is with him." †
19 Then Saul dispatched messengers to Jesse and said, "Send me your son David, who is with the sheep." 20 So Jesse took a donkey loaded with bread, a wineskin, and one young goat and sent them by his son David to Saul. †
21 When David came to Saul † and entered his service, Saul loved him very much, and David became his armor-bearer. 22 Then Saul sent word to Jesse: "Let David remain in my service, for he has found favor with me." 23 Whenever the spirit from God came on Saul, † David would pick up his lyre and play, and Saul would then be relieved, feel better, and the evil spirit would leave him.

16:6-13 Samuel's grief over Saul was interrupted when God sent him to anoint a new king (15:35–16:1). At first Samuel thought Jesse's firstborn son Eliab was the one (see 17:13), but he had mistakenly based his impression on Eliab's appearance or his stature. The Lord had rejected him because he saw not only what is visible but also the heart. After seven of Jesse's sons were passed over, his youngest, David, was sent for and anointed as king. The Spirit of the LORD was upon him henceforth.

16:19-23 The Spirit of God was upon David (v. 13) but had left Saul, and an evil spirit tormented him (vv. 14-15). Saul's need for relief resulted in David entering his service to play the lyre and be his armor-bearer. David's musical ministry brought relief to Saul's distress brought about by the evil spirit (see also 18:10-11; note on 2Kg 3:15; see "A Biblical View of Music," p. 727).

DAVID VERSUS GOLIATH

17 The Philistines † gathered their forces for war at Socoh in Judah and camped between Socoh † and Azekah † in Ephes-dammim. † 2 Saul and the men of Israel gathered and camped in the Valley of Elah; † then they lined up in battle formation to face the Philistines.
3 The Philistines were standing on one hill, and the Israelites were standing on another hill with a ravine between them. 4 Then a champion named Goliath, from Gath, † came out from the Philistine camp. He was nine feet, nine inches † † tall 5 and wore a bronze helmet † and bronze scale armor that weighed one hundred twenty-five pounds. † 6 There was bronze armor on his shins, and a bronze javelin † was slung between his shoulders. 7 His spear shaft † was like a weaver's beam, and the iron point of his spear weighed fifteen pounds. † In addition, a shield-bearer † was walking in front of him.
8 He stood and shouted to the Israelite battle formations: "Why do you come out to line up in battle formation? " He asked them, "Am I not a Philistine and are you not servants of Saul? † Choose one of your men and have him come down against me. 9 If he wins in a fight against me and kills me, we will be your servants. But if I win against him and kill him, then you will be our servants and serve us." † 10 Then the Philistine said, "I defy the ranks of Israel today. † Send me a man so we can fight each other! " 11 When Saul and all Israel heard these words from the Philistine, they lost their courage and were terrified.
12 Now David was the son of the Ephrathite † from Bethlehem of Judah named Jesse. Jesse had eight sons † and during Saul's reign was already an old man.
13 Jesse's three oldest sons had followed Saul to the war, and their names † were Eliab, the firstborn, Abinadab, the next, and Shammah, the third, 14 and David was the youngest. † The three oldest had followed Saul, 15 but David kept going back and forth from Saul † to tend his father's flock in Bethlehem.
16 Every morning and evening for forty days the Philistine came forward and took his stand. 17 One day Jesse had told his son David: "Take this half-bushel † of roasted grain along with these ten loaves of bread † for your brothers and hurry to their camp. 18 Also take these ten portions of cheese to the field commander. † Check on the well-being of your brothers † and bring a confirmation from them. 19 They are with Saul and all the men of Israel in the Valley of Elah fighting with the Philistines."

20 So David got up early in the morning, left the flock with someone to keep it, loaded up, and set out as Jesse had charged him.
He arrived at the perimeter of the camp † as the army was marching out to its battle formation shouting their battle cry. 21 Israel and the Philistines lined up in battle formation facing each other. 22 David left his supplies in the care of the quartermaster † and ran to the battle line. When he arrived, he asked his brothers how they were. 23 While he was speaking with them, suddenly the champion named Goliath, the Philistine from Gath, came forward from the Philistine battle line and shouted his usual words, † which David heard. 24 When all the Israelite men saw Goliath, they retreated from him terrified.
25 Previously, an Israelite man had declared: "Do you see this man who keeps coming out? He comes to defy Israel. The king will make the man who kills him very rich and will give him his daughter. † The king will also make the family of that man's father exempt from paying taxes in Israel." †
26 David spoke to the men who were standing with him: "What will be done for the man who kills that Philistine and removes this disgrace from Israel? † Just who is this uncircumcised Philistine † that he should defy the armies † of the living God? " †
27 The troops told him about the offer, concluding, "That is what will be done for the man who kills him." †
28 David's oldest brother Eliab listened as he spoke to the men, and he became angry with him. † "Why did you come down here? " he asked. "Who did you leave those few sheep with in the wilderness? I know your arrogance and your evil heart — you came down to see the battle! "
29 "What have I done now? " protested David. "It was just a question." 30 Then he turned from those beside him to others in front of him and asked about the offer. The people gave him the same answer as before. †
31 What David said was overheard and reported to Saul, so he had David brought to him. 32 David said to Saul, "Don't let anyone be discouraged by † him; † your servant will go † and fight this Philistine! "

33 But Saul replied, “You can’t go fight this Philistine. You’re just a youth, and he’s been a warrior since he was young.”
34 David answered Saul: “Your servant has been tending his father’s sheep.
Whenever a lion or a bear came and carried off a lamb from the flock, 35 I went after it, struck it down, and rescued the lamb from its mouth. † If it reared up against me, I would grab it by its fur, † strike it down, and kill it. 36 Your servant has killed lions and bears; this uncircumcised Philistine will be like one of them, for he has defied the armies of the living God.” 37 Then David said, “The LORD who rescued me from the paw of the lion and the paw of the bear will rescue me from the hand of this Philistine.” †
Saul said to David, “Go, and may the LORD be with you.” † 38 Then Saul had his own military clothes put on David. He put a bronze helmet on David’s head and had him put on armor. 39 David strapped his sword on over the military clothes and tried to walk, but he was not used to them. “I can’t walk in these,” David said to Saul, “I’m not used to them.” So David took them off.
40 Instead, he took his staff in his hand † and chose five smooth stones from the wadi and put them in the pouch, in his shepherd’s bag. Then, with his sling in his hand, he approached the Philistine.
41 The Philistine came closer and closer to David, with the shield-bearer in front of him. 42 When the Philistine looked and saw David, he despised him † because he was just a youth, healthy † † and handsome. 43 He said to David, “Am I a dog † that you come against me with sticks? ” † Then he cursed David by his gods. † 44 “Come here,” the Philistine called to David, “and I’ll give your flesh to the birds of the sky and the wild beasts! ” † 45 David said to the Philistine: “You come against me with a sword, spear, and javelin, but I come against you in the name of the LORD of Armies, the God of the ranks of Israel — you have defied him. † 46 Today, the LORD will hand you over to me. Today, I’ll strike you down, remove your head, and give the corpses † of the Philistine camp to the birds of the sky and the wild creatures of the earth. Then all the world will know that Israel has a God, † 47 and this whole assembly will know that it is not by sword or by spear that the LORD saves, † for the battle is the LORD’s. † He will hand you over to us.”

48 When the Philistine started forward to attack him, David ran quickly to the battle line to meet the Philistine. † 49 David put his hand in the bag, took out a stone, slung it, and hit the Philistine on his forehead. The stone sank into his forehead, and he fell facedown to the ground. 50 David defeated the Philistine with a sling and a stone. David overpowered the Philistine and killed him without having a sword. 51 David ran and stood over him. He grabbed the Philistine's sword, † pulled it from its sheath, and used it to kill him. Then he cut off his head. When the Philistines saw that their hero was dead, they fled. † 52 The men of Israel and Judah rallied, shouting their battle cry, and chased the Philistines to the entrance of the valley and to the gates of Ekron. † † Philistine bodies were strewn all along the Shaaraim road † to Gath and Ekron.
53 When the Israelites returned from the pursuit of the Philistines, they plundered their camps. 54 David took Goliath's † head and brought it to Jerusalem, but he put Goliath's weapons in his own tent.
55 † When Saul had seen David going out to confront the Philistine, he asked Abner the commander of the army, "Whose son is this youth, Abner? " †
"Your Majesty, as surely as you live, I don't know," Abner replied.
56 The king said, "Find out whose son this young man is! " 57 When David returned from killing the Philistine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul with the Philistine's head still in his hand. † 58 Saul said to him, "Whose son are you, young man? "
"The son of your servant Jesse of Bethlehem," † David answered.

17:1-11 The Israelites' struggles with the Philistines continued (see also 9:16; 14:52). The Philistines had a champion named Goliath who was over nine feet tall and heavily armed. It was decided that he would be their representative in a single combat challenge (v. 8). The winner of this fight between two soldiers would determine the outcome of the battle, avoiding a general conflict involving all.

17:26 David saw Goliath's taunts (vv. 8-10,16,23) as a disgrace to Israel and defiance of the armies of the living God (see also v. 36).

17:31-40 David's courage and faith contrasted with Israel's fear (see vv. 11,24). Despite the opposition of his oldest brother Eliab and of Saul (vv. 28,33), David persisted in his intention to fight Goliath. As a shepherd, he had defeated lions and bears, and he knew that God, who had rescued him from such animals, would rescue [him] from the hand of this Philistine. David did not go to battle with conventional military attire (vv. 38-39) but simply with his staff, five smooth stones, his bag, and his sling—not to be confused with a slingshot.

17:45-47 This contest was not merely between David and Goliath or Israel and Philistia but between the Lord and the gods of the Philistines. Goliath had not only defied "the armies of the living God" (vv. 26,36) but also God himself. Goliath and his weaponry were far inferior to the Lord, who would give him over to David so that all the world will know that Israel has a God. The outcome of universal knowledge of God is also found in Exodus 9:16; Joshua 4:23-24; 1 Kings 8:41-43; and Psalm 67:1-2. Moreover, this whole assembly will know that the battle is not won by sword or by spear but is the LORD's (see also Zch 4:6).

17:52-53 David's defeat of Goliath (vv. 48-51) encouraged the Israelites, who struck down many more Philistines and plundered their camps.

DAVID'S SUCCESS

18 When David had finished speaking with Saul, Jonathan was bound to David in close friendship, † and loved him as much as he loved himself. † 2 Saul kept David with him from that day on and did not let him return to his father's house.
3 Jonathan made a covenant with David † because he loved him as much as himself. 4 Then Jonathan removed the robe he was wearing and gave it to David, † along with his military tunic, his sword, his bow, and his belt.
5 David marched out with the army and was successful in everything Saul sent him to do. Saul put him in command of the fighting men, which pleased all the people and Saul's servants as well.
6 As the troops were coming back, when David was returning from killing the Philistine, the women came out from all the cities of Israel to meet King Saul, † singing and dancing with tambourines, with shouts of joy, and with three-stringed instruments. 7 As they danced, the women sang:

Saul has killed his thousands,

but David his tens of thousands. †

8 Saul was furious and resented this song. † "They credited tens of thousands to David," he complained, "but they only credited me with thousands. What more can he have but the kingdom?" † 9 So Saul watched David jealously from that day forward.

SAUL ATTEMPTS TO KILL DAVID

10 The next day an evil spirit sent from God came powerfully on Saul, † and he began to rave † inside the palace. David was playing the lyre as usual, † but Saul was holding a spear, † 11 and he threw it, thinking, "I'll pin David to the wall." † But David got away from him twice.

12 Saul was afraid of David, † because the LORD was with David † but had left Saul. † 13 Therefore, Saul sent David away from him and made him commander over a thousand men. David led the troops † 14 and continued to be successful in all his activities because the LORD was with him. † 15 When Saul observed that David was very successful, he dreaded him. 16 But all Israel and Judah loved David † because he was leading their troops. 17 Saul told David, "Here is my oldest daughter Merab. I'll give her to you as a wife, † if you will be a warrior for me and fight the LORD's battles." † But Saul was thinking, "I don't need to raise a hand against him; let the hand of the Philistines be against him." †

18 Then David responded, "Who am I, † and what is my family or my father's clan in Israel that I should become the king's son-in-law?" 19 When it was time to give Saul's daughter Merab to David, she was given to Adriel the Meholathite as a wife. †

DAVID'S MARRIAGE TO MICHAL

20 Now Saul's daughter Michal † loved David, and when it was reported to Saul, it pleased him. † 21 "I'll give her to him," Saul thought. "She'll be a trap for him, and the hand of the Philistines will be against him." † So Saul said to David a second time, "You can now be my son-in-law." †

22 Saul then ordered his servants, “Speak to David in private and tell him, ‘Look, the king is pleased with you, and all his servants love you. Therefore, you should become the king’s son-in-law.’ ” 23 Saul’s servants reported these words directly to David, † but he replied, “Is it trivial in your sight to become the king’s son-in-law? I am a poor commoner.” † 24 The servants reported back to Saul, “These are the words David spoke.”
25 Then Saul replied, “Say this to David: ‘The king desires no other brideprice † except a hundred Philistine foreskins, to take revenge on his enemies.’ ” † Actually, Saul intended to cause David’s death at the hands of the Philistines. †
26 When the servants reported these terms to David, he was pleased † to become the king’s son-in-law. Before the wedding day arrived, † 27 David and his men went out and killed two hundred † Philistines. He brought their foreskins and presented them as full payment to the king to become his son-in-law. Then Saul gave his daughter Michal to David as his wife. † 28 Saul realized † that the LORD was with David and that his daughter Michal loved him, 29 and he became even more afraid of David. As a result, Saul was David’s enemy from then on.
30 Every time the Philistine commanders came out to fight, † David was more successful than all of Saul’s officers. † So his name became well known.

18:1-9 Saul continued to lose power as David gained it. Saul had already been rejected by God as king (15:23,26-29) and was being tormented by an evil spirit (v. 10; 16:14). Jonathan, who had already challenged his father’s authority (14:29-30), became David’s close friend and pledged his loyalty through making a covenant with him (see also 20:16; 23:18). For more on covenants, see the note on Genesis 9:8-17. Furthermore, David was having success and increasing in popularity at Saul’s expense (vv. 5-7), much to the latter’s dismay (vv. 8-9).

18:10-11 Saul's troubles with an evil spirit continued (16:14) and were likely exacerbated by his insecurity and jealousy (vv. 8-9,12-15). He tried to pin David to the wall with a spear while the latter was trying to bring him relief by playing the lyre as usual (see 16:16-23). Saul would try to kill him again in 19:9-10.

18:25-29 Saul also attempted to harm David indirectly through offering one of his daughters in marriage if David would fight the Philistines (vv. 17,21,25). His first attempt failed when David declined to marry Merab (vv. 17-19), as did his second attempt when David successfully acquired double the original bride-price of a hundred Philistine foreskins in order to marry Michal (vv. 20-27). As before (16:18; 18:12,14), David prospered because the LORD was with him.

DAVID DELIVERED FROM SAUL

19 Saul ordered his son Jonathan and all his servants to kill David. † But Saul's son Jonathan liked David very much, † 2 so he told him: "My father Saul intends to kill you. Be on your guard in the morning and hide in a secret place and stay there. 3 I'll go out and stand beside my father in the field where you are and talk to him about you. When I see what he says, I'll tell you." †
4 Jonathan spoke well of David to his father Saul. He said to him: "The king should not sin against his servant David. † He hasn't sinned against you; in fact, his actions have been a great advantage to you. 5 He took his life in his hands when he struck down the Philistine, † and the LORD brought about a great victory for all Israel. † You saw it and rejoiced, so why would you sin against innocent blood by killing David for no reason? " † 6 Saul listened to Jonathan's advice and swore an oath: "As surely as the LORD lives, David will not be killed." 7 So Jonathan summoned David and told him all these words. Then Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he served him as he did before. †
8 When war broke out again, David went out and fought against the Philistines.
He defeated them with such great force that they fled from him.
9 Now an evil spirit sent from the LORD † came on Saul as he was sitting in his palace holding a spear. † David was playing the lyre, † 10 and Saul tried to pin David to the wall with the spear. † As the spear struck the wall, David eluded Saul, ran away, and escaped that night. 11 Saul sent agents to David's house to watch for him and kill him in the morning. † But his wife Michal † warned

David, “If you don’t escape tonight, you will be dead tomorrow!” 12 So she lowered David from the window, and he fled and escaped. † 13 Then Michal took the household idol and put it on the bed, placed some goat hair on its head, and covered it with a garment. 14 When Saul sent agents to seize David, Michal said, “He’s sick.” † 15 Saul sent the agents back to see David and said, “Bring him on his bed so I can kill him.” 16 When the agents arrived, to their surprise, the household idol was on the bed with some goat hair on its head.
17 Saul asked Michal, “Why did you deceive me like this? You sent my enemy away, and he has escaped!”
She answered him, “He said to me, ‘Let me go! Why should I kill you?’” 18 So David fled and escaped and went to Samuel at Ramah † and told him everything Saul had done to him. Then he and Samuel left and stayed at Naioth. †
19 When it was reported to Saul that David was at Naioth in Ramah, 20 he sent agents to seize David. † However, when they saw the group of prophets prophesying † with Samuel leading them, the Spirit of God came on Saul’s agents, and they also started prophesying. 21 When they reported to Saul, he sent other agents, and they also began prophesying. † So Saul tried again and sent a third group of agents, and even they began prophesying. 22 Then Saul himself went to Ramah. He came to the large cistern at Secu and asked, “Where are Samuel and David?”
“At Naioth in Ramah,” someone said.
23 So he went to Naioth in Ramah. The Spirit of God also came on him, † and as he walked along, he prophesied until he entered Naioth in Ramah. 24 Saul then removed his clothes and also prophesied before Samuel; he collapsed and lay naked † all that day and all that night. That is why they say, “Is Saul also among the prophets?” †

19:1-7 His own attempts having failed so far, Saul ordered Jonathan and all his servants to help him kill

David. The loyal Jonathan (see 18:1-4), however, informed David and also pleaded with his father on his friend's behalf. Saul swore an oath that David would not be killed, but quickly went back on his word (vv. 9-20).

19:20-24 As had happened earlier as a sign of Saul's installation as king (see 10:5-13), the coming of the Spirit of God upon those seeking to capture David both thwarted Saul's plans and humiliated Saul.

JONATHAN PROTECTS DAVID

20 David fled from Naioth in Ramah and came to Jonathan and asked, "What have I done? † What did I do wrong? How have I sinned against your father so that he wants to take my life? "

2 Jonathan said to him, "No, you won't die. Listen, my father doesn't do anything, great or small, without telling me. † So why would he hide this matter from me? This can't be true."

3 But David said, "Your father certainly knows that I have found favor with you. He has said, 'Jonathan must not know of this, or else he will be grieved.' " David also swore, "As surely as the LORD lives and as you yourself live, there is but a step between me and death." †

4 Jonathan said to David, "Whatever you say, I will do for you."

5 So David told him, "Look, tomorrow is the New Moon, † and I'm supposed to sit down and eat with the king. † Instead, let me go, and I'll hide in the countryside for the next two nights. † † 6 If your father misses me at all, say, 'David urgently requested my permission to go quickly to his hometown Bethlehem † for an annual sacrifice † there involving the whole clan.' 7 If he says, 'Good,' then your servant is safe, but if he becomes angry, you will know he has evil intentions. 8 Deal kindly with † your servant, for you have brought me into a covenant with you before the LORD. † If I have done anything wrong, † then kill me yourself; why take me to your father? "

9 "No! " Jonathan responded. "If I ever find out my father has evil intentions against you, wouldn't I tell you about it? "

10 So David asked Jonathan, "Who will tell me if your father answers you harshly? "

11 He answered David, "Come on, let's go out to the countryside." So both of them went out to the countryside. 12 "By the LORD, the God of Israel, I will sound out my father by this time tomorrow or the next day. If I find out that he is favorable toward you, will I not send for you and tell you? † 13 If my father intends to bring evil on you, may God punish Jonathan and do so severely † if I do not tell you † and send you away so you may leave safely. May the LORD be with you, † just as he was with my father. 14 If I continue to live, show me kindness † from the LORD, but if I die, 15 don't ever withdraw your kindness from my household — not even when the LORD cuts off every one of David's enemies from the face of the earth." † 16 Then Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, † saying, "May the LORD hold David's enemies accountable." † † 17 Jonathan once again swore to David † in his love for him, because he loved him as he loved himself. †

18 Then Jonathan said to him, "Tomorrow is the New Moon; † you'll be missed because your seat will be empty. 19 The following day hurry down and go to the place where you hid on the day this incident began and stay beside the rock Ezel.
20 I will shoot three arrows beside it as if I'm aiming at a target. 21 Then I will send a servant and say, 'Go and find the arrows! ' Now, if I expressly say to the servant, 'Look, the arrows are on this side of you — get them,' then come, because as the LORD lives, it is safe for you and there is no problem. 22 But if I say this to the youth, 'Look, the arrows are beyond you! ' † then go, for the LORD is sending you away. 23 As for the matter you and I have spoken about, † the LORD will be a witness † between you and me forever." † 24 So David hid in the countryside.

At the New Moon, the king sat down to eat the meal. 25 He sat at his usual place on the seat by the wall. Jonathan sat facing him † and Abner took his place beside Saul, but David's place was empty. † 26 Saul did not say anything that day because he thought, "Something unexpected has happened; he must be ceremonially unclean — yes, that's it, he is unclean." †

27 However, the day after the New Moon, the second day, David's place was still empty, and Saul asked his son Jonathan, "Why didn't Jesse's son come to the meal either yesterday or today? "

28 Jonathan answered, "David asked for my permission to go to Bethlehem. † 29 He said, 'Please let me go because our clan is holding a sacrifice in the town, and my brother has told me to be there. So now, if I have found favor with you, let me go so I can see my brothers.' That's why he didn't come to the king's table."

30 Then Saul became angry with Jonathan and shouted, "You son of a perverse and rebellious woman! Don't I know that you are siding with Jesse's son to your own shame and to the disgrace of your mother? † 31 Every day Jesse's son lives on earth you and your kingship are not secure. Now send for him and bring him to me — he must die! " †
32 Jonathan answered his father back: "Why is he to be killed? What has he done? " †
33 Then Saul threw his spear at Jonathan to kill him, † so he knew that his father was determined to kill David. † 34 He got up from the table fiercely angry and did not eat any food that second day of the New Moon, for he was grieved because of his father's shameful behavior toward David.
35 In the morning Jonathan went out to the countryside for the appointed meeting with David. A young servant was with him. 36 He said to the servant, "Run and find the arrows I'm shooting." † As the servant ran, Jonathan shot an arrow beyond him. 37 He came to the location of the arrow that Jonathan had shot, but Jonathan called to him and said, "The arrow is beyond you, isn't it? " †
38 Then Jonathan called to him, "Hurry up and don't stop! " Jonathan's servant picked up the arrow and returned to his master. 39 He did not know anything; only Jonathan and David knew the arrangement. 40 Then Jonathan gave his equipment to the servant who was with him and said, "Go, take it back to the city."
41 When the servant had gone, David got up from the south side of the stone Ezel, fell facedown to the ground, and paid homage three times. † Then he and Jonathan kissed each other and wept with each other, though David wept more. †
42 Jonathan then said to David, "Go in the assurance the two of us pledged in the name of the LORD when we said: The LORD will be a witness between you and me and between my offspring and your offspring forever." † Then David left, and Jonathan went into the city.

20:1-17 Jonathan earlier had spoken to his father on David's behalf and secured a promise of safety (19:1-7). Saul's reneging on his word led David to come back to Jonathan a second time to ask what was going on. Jonathan agreed to notify David of Saul's intentions.

20:30-42 Saul's angry reaction after learning of David's absence confirmed David's fears (vv. 30-33; see also vv. 1-7). The arrangement between Jonathan and David involving shooting arrows had been agreed upon earlier (see vv. 19-22) and provided a cover for the two men to meet secretly (vv. 35-42). David had to flee, and the two friends tearfully parted.

DAVID FLEES TO NOB

21 David went to the priest Ahimelech † at Nob. † Ahimelech was afraid to meet David, so he said to him, "Why are you alone and no one is with you? "
2 David answered the priest Ahimelech, "The king gave me a mission, but he told me, 'Don't let anyone know anything about the mission I'm sending you on or what I have ordered you to do.' I have stationed my young men at a certain place. 3 Now what do you have on hand? Give me five loaves of bread or whatever can be found."
4 The priest told him, "There is no ordinary bread on hand. However, there is consecrated bread, † but the young men may eat it † only if they have kept themselves from women." † 5 David answered him, "I swear that women are being kept from us, as always when I go out to battle. † The young men's bodies † are consecrated † even on an ordinary mission, so of course their bodies are consecrated today." 6 So the priest gave him the consecrated bread, † for there was no bread there except the Bread of the Presence † that had been removed from the presence of the LORD.
When the bread was removed, it had been replaced with warm bread.
7 One of Saul's servants, detained before the LORD, was there that day. His name was Doeg the Edomite, † chief of Saul's shepherds.

8 David said to Ahimelech, “Do you have a spear or sword on hand? I didn’t even bring my sword or my weapons since the king’s mission was urgent.”

9 The priest replied, “The sword of Goliath the Philistine, † whom you killed in the Valley of Elah, is here, wrapped in a cloth behind the ephod. If you want to take it for yourself, then take it, for there isn’t another one here.”
“There’s none like it! ” David said. “Give it to me.”

DAVID FLEES TO GATH

10 David fled that day from Saul’s presence and went to King Achish of Gath. † 11 But Achish’s servants said to him, “Isn’t this David, the king of the land? Don’t they sing about him during their dances:

Saul has killed his thousands,
but David his tens of thousands? ” †

12 David took this to heart † and became very afraid of King Achish of Gath, 13 so he pretended to be insane in their presence. † He acted like a madman around them, † scribbling † on the doors of the city gate and letting saliva run down his beard.
14 “Look! You can see the man is crazy,” Achish said to his servants. “Why did you bring him to me? 15 Do I have such a shortage of crazy people that you brought this one to act crazy around me? Is this one going to come into my house? ” †

21:3-6 The Bread of the Presence was set out on the table within the holy place of the tabernacle (Ex 25:30). As such, it was consecrated and was only to be eaten by the priests (see Lv 24:5-9). The consumption of this bread by David and his men here is referenced by Jesus to support prioritizing love for others over rigid application of Sabbath law (see Mt 12:1-13; Mk 2:23-28; Lk 6:1-11). He recognized that such bread was only to be eaten by priests, but he also implied that the basic physical needs of David and his men took precedence and hence justified an exception (see also the notes on Lv 10:16-20 and Nm 9:6-13).

21:10-15 The servants of the king of Gath knew about David’s many victories, and David’s resulting fear led him to act like a madman so that he would be perceived as less of a threat.

SAUL’S INCREASING PARANOIA

22 So David left Gath and took refuge in the cave of Adullam. † When David's brothers and his father's whole family heard, they went down and joined him there. 2 In addition, every man who was desperate, in debt, or discontented rallied around him, and he became their leader. About four hundred men were with him. †
3 From there David went to Mizpeh of Moab where he said to the king of Moab,
"Please let my father and mother stay with you until I know what God will do for me." 4 So he left them in the care of the king of Moab, and they stayed with him the whole time David was in the stronghold.
5 Then the prophet Gad † said to David, "Don't stay in the stronghold. Leave and return to the land of Judah." So David left and went to the forest of Hereth.
6 Saul heard that David and his men had been discovered. At that time Saul was in Gibeah, sitting under the tamarisk tree † at the high place. His spear was in his hand, and all his servants were standing around him. 7 Saul said to his servants, "Listen, men of Benjamin: Is Jesse's son going to give all of you fields and vineyards? Do you think he'll make all of you commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds? † 8 That's why all of you have conspired against me! Nobody tells me † when my own son makes a covenant with Jesse's son. † None of you cares about me † or tells me † that my son has stirred up my own servant to wait in ambush for me, as is the case today." 9 Then Doeg the Edomite, † who was in charge of Saul's servants, answered: "I saw Jesse's son come to Ahimelech son of Ahitub at Nob. † 10 Ahimelech inquired of the LORD for him † and gave him provisions. † He also gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine." †

SLAUGHTER OF THE PRIESTS

11 The king sent messengers to summon the priest Ahimelech son of Ahitub, and his father's whole family, who were priests in Nob. All of them came to the king. 12 Then Saul said, "Listen, son of Ahitub! "
"I'm at your service, † my lord," he said.
13 Saul asked him, "Why did you and Jesse's son conspire against me? You gave him bread and a sword and inquired of God for him, so he could rise up against me and wait in ambush, as is the case today.” † 14 Ahimelech replied to the king: “Who among all your servants is as faithful as David? † He is the king’s son-in-law, captain of your bodyguard, and honored in your house. 15 Was today the first time I inquired of God for him? † Of course not! Please don’t let the king make an accusation against your servant or any of my father’s family, for your servant didn’t have any idea † about all this.”

16 But the king said, “You will die, Ahimelech — you and your father’s whole family! ”
17 Then the king ordered the guards standing by him, “Turn and kill the priests of the LORD † because they sided with David. For they knew he was fleeing, but they didn’t tell me.” † But the king’s servants would not lift a hand to execute the priests of the LORD.
18 So the king said to Doeg, “Go and execute the priests! ” So Doeg the Edomite went and executed the priests himself. On that day, he killed eighty-five men † who wore linen ephods. † 19 He also struck down Nob, the city of the priests, with the sword — both men and women, infants and nursing babies, oxen, donkeys, and sheep. †
20 However, one of the sons of Ahimelech son of Ahitub escaped. His name was Abiathar, † and he fled to David. † 21 Abiathar told David that Saul had killed the priests of the LORD. 22 Then David said to Abiathar, “I knew that Doeg the Edomite † was there that day and that he was sure to report to Saul. I myself am responsible for † the lives of everyone in your father’s family. 23 Stay with me. Don’t be afraid, for the one who wants to take my life wants to take your life. † You will be safe with me.”

22:5 Even as David hid from Saul, God watched over him (see also the note on 23:7-14). Here he guided him to leave the stronghold and return to the land of Judah.

22:6-10 When Saul learned of David's whereabouts, he accused his servants of conspiracy and of not caring about him. The report of Doeg the Edomite, who had seen David and his men earlier (21:7), led to the slaughter of the priests of Nob (vv. 11-19).

22:18-23 Despite Ahimelech's honest testimony that he did not know David's business earlier (vv. 14-15; see 21:1-2), Saul believed Ahimelech had conspired against him (vv. 13,17; see also v. 8) and had Doeg execute the priests of Nob. David acknowledged to Abiathar that he had seen Doeg at Nob (see 21:7) and took responsibility for the lives of everyone in [his] father's family. Henceforth, Abiathar was to stay with David (see 23:6,9).

DELIVERANCE AT KEILAH

23 It was reported to David: "Look, the Philistines are fighting against Keilah † and raiding the threshing floors."

2 So David inquired of the LORD: † "Should I launch an attack against these Philistines? "

The LORD answered David, "Launch an attack against the Philistines and rescue Keilah."

3 But David's men said to him, "Look, we're afraid here in Judah; how much more if we go to Keilah against the Philistine forces! "

4 Once again, David inquired of the LORD, and the LORD answered him: "Go at once to Keilah, for I will hand the Philistines over to you." † 5 Then David and his men went to Keilah, fought against the Philistines, drove their livestock away, and inflicted heavy losses on them. So David rescued the inhabitants of Keilah. 6 Abiathar son of Ahimelech fled to David at Keilah, and he brought an ephod with him.

7 When it was reported to Saul that David had gone to Keilah, he said, "God has handed him over to me, for he has trapped himself by entering a town with barred gates." 8 Then Saul summoned all the troops to go to war at Keilah and besiege David and his men.

9 When David learned that Saul was plotting evil against him, he said to the priest Abiathar, † "Bring the ephod." †

10 Then David said, "LORD God of Israel, your servant has reliable information that Saul intends to come to Keilah and destroy the town because of me. 11 Will the citizens of Keilah hand me over to him? Will Saul come down as your servant has heard? LORD God of Israel, please tell your servant."

The LORD answered, "He will come down."

12 Then David asked, “Will the citizens of Keilah hand me and my men over to Saul? ”

“They will,” † the LORD responded.

13 So David and his men, numbering about six hundred, † left Keilah at once and moved from place to place. † When it was reported to Saul that David had escaped from Keilah, he called off the expedition. 14 David then stayed in the wilderness strongholds and in the hill country of the Wilderness of Ziph. † Saul searched for him every day, but God did not hand David over to him. †

A RENEWED COVENANT

15 David was in the Wilderness of Ziph in Horesh when he saw that Saul had come out to take his life. 16 Then Saul’s son Jonathan came to David in Horesh and encouraged him in his faith † in God, † 17 saying, “Don’t be afraid, for my father Saul will never lay a hand on you. You yourself will be king over Israel, † and I’ll be your second-in-command. Even my father Saul knows it is true.” † 18 Then the two of them made a covenant in the LORD’s presence. † Afterward, David remained in Horesh, while Jonathan went home.

DAVID’S NARROW ESCAPE

19 Some Ziphites † came up to Saul at Gibeah and said, “David is † hiding among us in the strongholds in Horesh on the hill of Hachilah south of Jeshimon. 20 Now, whenever the king wants to come down, let him come down. Our part will be to hand him over to the king.” †

21 “May you be blessed by the LORD,” replied Saul, “for you have shown concern for me. † 22 Go and check again. Investigate † where he goes † and who has seen him there; they tell me he is extremely cunning. 23 Investigate † all the places where he hides. Then come back to me with accurate information, and I’ll go with you. If it turns out he really is in the region, I’ll search for him among all the clans † of Judah.” 24 So they went to Ziph ahead of Saul.

Now David and his men were in the wilderness near Maon † in the Arabah south of Jeshimon, 25 and Saul and his men went to look for him. When David was told about it, he went down to the rock and stayed in the Wilderness of Maon. Saul heard of this and pursued David there.

26 Saul went along one side of the mountain and David and his men went along the other side. Even though David was hurrying to get away from Saul, Saul and his men were closing in on David and his men to capture them. † 27 Then a messenger came to Saul saying, “Come quickly, because the Philistines have raided the land! ” 28 So Saul broke off his pursuit of David and went to engage the Philistines. Therefore, that place was named the Rock of Separation. 29 From there David went up and stayed in the strongholds of En-gedi. †

23:1-4 Though Keilah had been allotted to Judah (Jos 15:44), its location apparently made it susceptible to Philistine raids. In answer to David’s inquiries, God instructed him to fight the Philistines at Keilah.

23:7-14 News of Saul’s intent to trap David at Keilah led David to seek God again. The Lord confirmed that Saul would indeed come and that Keilah would hand David over. Truly God was protecting David (v. 14; see also 22:5), and he and his men left Keilah at once and moved from place to place.

23:15-18 David and Jonathan met again, and for a third time they made a covenant (see also 18:3; 20:16). Sadly, although Jonathan was right about David becoming king, he was wrong about becoming David’s second-in-command (see 31:2).

23:21-29 Saul continued his pursuit of David upon hearing a report from the Ziphites that David was nearby (vv. 19-20,25; see also 26:1). Saul’s initial response to the Ziphites (May you be blessed by the LORD, v. 21) shows yet again how twisted his thinking had become that he would say such a thing in connection with his desire to kill David. When Saul had drawn very close to David (v. 26), news of a Philistine raid forced him to call off his pursuit (vv. 27-28; see also note on 22:5).

DAVID SPARES SAUL

24 When Saul returned from pursuing the Philistines, † he was told, “David is in the wilderness near En-gedi.” † 2 So Saul took three thousand of Israel’s fit young men † and went to look for David and his men in front of the Rocks of the Wild Goats. 3 When Saul came to the sheep pens along the road, a cave was there, and he went in to relieve himself. † † David and his men were staying in the recesses of the cave, † 4 so they said to him, “Look, this is the day the LORD told you about: ‘I will hand your enemy over to you so you can do to him whatever you desire.’ ” Then David got up and secretly cut off the corner of Saul’s robe.

5 Afterward, David's conscience bothered † † him because he had cut off the corner of Saul's robe. † 6 He said to his men, "I swear before the LORD: I would never do such a thing to my lord, the LORD's anointed. † I will never lift my hand against him, since he is the LORD's anointed." † 7 With these words David persuaded † his men, and he did not let them rise up against Saul.
Then Saul left the cave and went on his way. 8 After that, David got up, went out of the cave, and called to Saul, "My lord the king!" When Saul looked behind him, David knelt low with his face to the ground and paid homage. † 9 David said to Saul, "Why do you listen to the words of people who say, 'Look, David intends to harm you'? 10 You can see with your own eyes that the LORD handed you over to me today in the cave. † Someone advised me to kill you, † but I † † took pity on you and said: I won't lift my hand against my lord, since he is the LORD's anointed. 11 Look, my father! † Look at the corner of your robe in my hand, for I cut it off, but I didn't kill you. Recognize † that I've committed no crime or rebellion. I haven't sinned against you even though you are hunting me down to take my life. † 12 "May the LORD judge between me and you, and may the LORD take vengeance on you for me, but my hand will never be against you. † 13 As the old proverb says, 'Wickedness comes from wicked people.' † My hand will never be against you. 14 Who has the king of Israel come after? What are you chasing after? A dead dog? A single flea? † 15 May the LORD be judge and decide between you and me. May he take notice and plead my case and deliver † me from you." † 16 When David finished saying these things to him, Saul replied, "Is that your voice, David my son?" † Then Saul wept aloud 17 and said to David, "You are more righteous than I, for you have done what is good to me though I have done what is evil to you. † 18 You yourself have told me today what good you did for me: when the LORD handed me over to you, you didn't kill me. † 19 When a man finds his enemy, does he let him go unharmed? † † May the LORD repay you with good for what you've done for me today.

20 “Now I know for certain you will be king, and the kingdom of Israel will be established † in your hand. † 21 Therefore swear to me by the LORD that you will not cut off my descendants or wipe out my name from my father’s family.” † 22 So David swore to Saul. Then Saul went back home, and David and his men went up to the stronghold. †

24:1-7 After resuming his pursuit of David, Saul unwittingly relieved himself in the same cave in which David and his men were hiding. Despite his men’s declaration that this is the day the LORD told you about, David merely cut off the corner of Saul’s robe. David had spared Saul’s life but, because of the symbolic importance of robes, the act may have symbolized taking the kingdom from Saul. David’s conscience bothered him for doing this to the LORD’s anointed (see also 26:7-12).

24:12 David’s restraint was rooted in both respect for “the LORD’s anointed” (vv. 6,10) and trust in God’s justice. He prayed, may the LORD take vengeance on you for me, but my hand will never be against you (see also vv. 13,15).

24:16-22 Saul recognized that David had mercifully spared his life and had repaid him good for evil. Nevertheless, Saul’s appreciation here would not prevent him for seeking David’s life again in the future.

DAVID, NABAL, AND ABIGAIL

25 Samuel died, † and all Israel assembled to mourn for him, † and they buried him by his home in Ramah. † David then went down to the Wilderness of Paran. † †

2 A man in Maon † had a business in Carmel; † he was a very rich man with three thousand sheep and one thousand goats and was shearing his sheep in Carmel. 3 The man’s name was Nabal, and his wife’s name, Abigail. The woman was intelligent and beautiful, but the man, a Calebite, † was harsh and evil in his dealings.
4 While David was in the wilderness, he heard that Nabal was shearing sheep, 5 so David sent ten young men instructing them, “Go up to Carmel, and when you come to Nabal, greet him † in my name. 6 Then say this: ‘Long life to you, † and peace to you, peace to your family, and peace to all that is yours. †

7 I hear that you are shearing. † When your shepherds were with us, we did not harass them, and nothing of theirs was missing the whole time they were in Carmel. † 8 Ask your young men, and they will tell you. So let my young men find favor with you, for we have come on a feast † day. † Please give whatever you have on hand to your servants and to your son David.’ ”
9 David’s young men went and said all these things to Nabal on David’s behalf, † and they waited. † 10 Nabal asked them, “Who is David? † Who is Jesse’s son? Many slaves these days are running away from their masters. 11 Am I supposed to take my bread, my water, and my meat that I butchered for my shearers and give them to these men? I don’t know where they are from.”
12 David’s young men retraced their steps. When they returned to him, they reported all these words. 13 He said to his men, “All of you, put on your swords! ” So each man put on his sword, and David also put on his sword. About four hundred men followed David while two hundred stayed with the supplies. †
14 One of Nabal’s young men informed Abigail, Nabal’s wife: “Look, David sent messengers from the wilderness to greet our master, † but he screamed at them. 15 The men treated us very well. When we were in the field, we weren’t harassed † and nothing of ours was missing the whole time we were living among them. 16 They were a wall around us, both day and night, † the entire time we were with them herding the sheep. 17 Now consider carefully † what you should do, because there is certain to be trouble for our master and his entire family. He is such a worthless fool nobody can talk to him! ”
18 Abigail hurried, taking two hundred loaves of bread, two clay jars of wine, five butchered sheep, a bushel † of roasted grain, one hundred clusters of raisins, and two hundred cakes of pressed figs, and loaded them on donkeys. †
19 Then she said to her male servants, “Go ahead of me. I will be right behind you.” † But she did not tell her husband Nabal.
20 As she rode the donkey down a mountain pass hidden from view, she saw David and his men coming toward her and met them. 21 David had just said, “I guarded everything that belonged to this man in the wilderness for nothing. He was not missing anything, yet he paid me back evil for good. 22 May God punish me † and do so severely † if I let any of his males † survive until morning.” †

23 When Abigail saw David, she quickly got off the donkey and knelt down with her face to the ground and paid homage to David. † 24 She knelt at his feet and said, “The guilt is mine, my lord, but please let your servant speak to you directly. Listen to the words of your servant. 25 My lord should pay no attention to this worthless fool Nabal, for he lives up to his name: † His name means ‘stupid,’ and stupidity is all he knows. † I, your servant, didn’t see my lord’s young men whom you sent. 26 Now my lord, as surely as the Lord lives and as you yourself live— it is the Lord who kept you from participating in bloodshed and avenging yourself † by your own hand—may your enemies and those who intend to harm my lord be like Nabal. † 27 Let this gift † your servant has brought to my lord be given to the young men who follow my lord. 28 Please forgive your servant’s offense, † for the Lord is certain to make a lasting dynasty for my lord † because he fights the Lord’s battles. † Throughout your life, may evil † not be found in you. †
29 “Someone is pursuing you and intends to take your life. My lord’s life is tucked safely in the place † where the Lord your God protects the living, but he is flinging away your enemies’ lives like stones from a sling. † 30 When the Lord does for my lord all the good he promised you and appoints you ruler over Israel, † 31 there will not be remorse or a troubled conscience for my lord because of needless bloodshed or my lord’s revenge. And when the Lord does good things for my lord, may you remember me your servant.” †
32 Then David said to Abigail, “Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, † who sent you to meet me today! 33 May your discernment be blessed, and may you be blessed. Today you kept me from participating in bloodshed and avenging myself by my own hand. † 34 Otherwise, as surely as the Lord God of Israel lives, who prevented me from harming you, if you had not come quickly to meet me, Nabal wouldn’t have had any males † left by morning light.” 35 Then David accepted what she had brought him and said, “Go home in peace. † See, I have heard what you said and have granted your request.” †

36 Then Abigail went to Nabal, and there he was in his house, holding a feast fit for a king. † Nabal's heart was cheerful, † and he was very drunk, so she didn't say anything † to him † until morning light.
37 In the morning when Nabal sobered up, † his wife told him about these events. His heart died † and he became a stone. 38 About ten days later, the LORD struck Nabal dead. †
39 When David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Blessed be the LORD who championed my cause against Nabal's insults † and restrained his servant from doing evil. † The LORD brought Nabal's evil deeds back on his own head." †
Then David sent messengers to speak to Abigail about marrying him. 40 When David's servants came to Abigail at Carmel, they said to her, "David sent us to bring you to him as a wife."
41 She stood up, paid homage with her face to the ground, † and said, "Here I am, your servant, a slave to wash the feet of my lord's servants." † 42 Then Abigail got up quickly, and with her five female servants accompanying her, rode on the donkey following David's messengers. † And so she became his wife.
43 David also married Ahinoam of Jezreel, † and the two of them became his wives. 44 But Saul gave his daughter Michal, David's wife, to Palti † son of Laish, who was from Gallim. †

25:1 Samuel had described himself as "old and gray" in 12:2, and the death of his great prophet is narrated here. Samuel's death also related to the events described in 28:3-19.

25:10-16 David and his men had treated Nabal's men well and protected them (vv. 15-16), so Nabal's disrespectful and selfish response to a reasonable request (v. 8) provoked David. He prepared to attack. Indeed, Nabal was a worthless fool, as befits the meaning of his name (v. 25; see footnote I).

25:23-31 Abigail was a wise woman (v. 3; v. 33) and took immediate action upon hearing of her husband's harsh and foolish response. Bringing supplies of food with her (vv. 18-19; see vv. 8-11), she met David on the road as he approached to attack Nabal (vv. 20-23). She pleaded with him not to listen to Nabal but to restrain himself from bloodshed and to receive the provisions of food he had originally requested.

25:32-35 David wisely listened to Abigail and did not carry out his plan to destroy Nabal's men (v. 22). Although the present chapter is preceded and followed by instances in which David of his own volition spared Saul's life (24:3-7; 26:5-12), this incident involving Nabal shows that David was not immune to wanting to take matters into his own hands.

25:39-44 Nabal's death was followed by Abigail's remarriage to David. Regarding polygamy (vv. 43-44), see the note on Genesis 2:24.

DAVID AGAIN SPARES SAUL

26 Then the Ziphites came to Saul at Gibeah saying, "David is hiding on the hill of Hachilah opposite Jeshimon." † 2 So Saul, accompanied by three thousand of the fit young men of Israel, † went immediately to the Wilderness of Ziph to search for David there. 3 Saul camped beside the road at the hill of Hachilah † opposite Jeshimon. David was living in the wilderness and discovered Saul had come there after him. † 4 So David sent out spies and knew for certain that Saul had come. 5 Immediately, David went to the place where Saul had camped. He saw the place where Saul and Abner son of Ner, † the commander of his army, were lying down. Saul was lying inside the inner circle of the camp with the troops camped around him. 6 Then David asked Ahimelech the Hethite † and Joab's brother Abishai † son of Zeruiah, "Who will go with me into the camp † to Saul? "
"I'll go with you," answered Abishai.
7 That night, David and Abishai came to the troops, and Saul was lying there asleep in the inner circle of the camp with his spear stuck in the ground by his head. Abner and the troops were lying around him. 8 Then Abishai said to David, "Today God has delivered your enemy to you. Let me thrust the spear through him into the ground just once. I won't have to strike him twice! " 9 But David said to Abishai, "Don't destroy him, for who can lift a hand against the LORD's anointed and be innocent? " † 10 David added, "As the LORD lives, the LORD will certainly strike him down: † either his day will come and he will die, or he will go into battle and perish. 11 However, because of the LORD, I will never lift my hand against the LORD's anointed. † Instead, take the spear and the water jug by his head, and let's go." 12 So David took the spear and the water jug by Saul's head, and they went their way. No one saw them, no one knew, and no one woke up; they all remained asleep because a deep sleep from the LORD † came over them. 13 David crossed to the other side and stood on top of the mountain at a distance; there was a considerable space between them. 14 Then David shouted to the troops and to Abner son of Ner: "Aren't you going to answer, Abner? "

"Who are you who calls to the king? " Abner asked.
15 David called to Abner, "You're a man, aren't you? Who in Israel is your equal? So why didn't you protect your lord the king when one of the people came to destroy him? 16 What you have done is not good. As the LORD lives, all of you deserve to die † since you didn't protect your lord, the LORD's anointed. † Now look around; where are the king's spear and water jug that were by his head? "
17 Saul recognized David's voice and asked, "Is that your voice, my son David? " †
"It is my voice, my lord and king," David said. 18 Then he continued, "Why is my lord pursuing his servant? What have I done? What crime have I committed? † 19 Now, may my lord the king please hear the words of his servant: If it is the LORD who has incited you against me, † then may he accept an offering. † But if it is people, † may they be cursed in the presence of the LORD, for today they have banished me from sharing in the inheritance of the LORD saying, † 'Go and worship other gods.' 20 So don't let my blood fall to the ground far from the LORD's presence, for the king of Israel has come out to search for a single flea, † like one who pursues a partridge in the mountains."
21 Saul responded, "I have sinned. † Come back, my son David, I will never harm you again because today you considered my life precious. I have been a fool! I've committed a grave error."

22 David answered, “Here is the king’s spear; have one of the young men come over and get it. 23 The Lord will repay every man for his righteousness † and his loyalty. I wasn’t willing to lift my hand against the Lord’s anointed, even though the Lord handed you over to me today. † 24 Just as I considered your life valuable today, so may the Lord consider my life valuable † and rescue me from all trouble.” † 25 Saul said to him, “You are blessed, my son David. You will certainly do great things and will also prevail.” † Then David went on his way, and Saul returned home. †

26:1 Once again, the Ziphites reported David’s whereabouts to Saul (see 23:19-20).

26:7-12 For a second time, David spared Saul’s life (see 24:3-7). Once again, David was told that Saul’s vulnerability was from God, who had delivered David’s enemy over to him (see also 24:4). David refused to approve killing Saul out of respect for the Lord’s anointed and in confidence that God would act on his behalf (vv. 9-11,23-24; see also 24:6-15).

26:16 David’s possession of the spear and jug proved he was telling the truth (see also 24:11).

26:19 This association between a land and its gods is also found in the book of Ruth (see the note on Ru 1:14-17).

DAVID FLEES TO ZIKLAG

27 David said to himself, “One of these days I’ll be swept away by Saul.
There is nothing better for me than to escape immediately to the land of the Philistines. † Then Saul will give up searching for me everywhere in Israel, and I’ll escape from him.” 2 So David set out with his six hundred men † and went over to Achish son of Maoch, † the king of Gath. 3 David and his men stayed with Achish in Gath. Each man had his family with him, † and David had his two wives: Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail of Carmel, † Nabal’s widow. 4 When it was reported to Saul that David had fled to Gath, he no longer searched for him.

5 Now David said to Achish, “If I have found favor with you, let me be given a place in one of the outlying towns, so I can live there. Why should your servant live in the royal city with you?” 6 That day Achish gave Ziklag † to him, and it still belongs to the kings of Judah today. 7 The length of time that David stayed in Philistine territory amounted to a year and four months. † 8 David and his men went up and raided the Geshurites, † the Girzites, † and the Amalekites. † From ancient times they had been the inhabitants of the region through Shur † as far as the land of Egypt. 9 Whenever David attacked the land, he did not leave a single person alive, either man or woman, but he took flocks, herds, donkeys, camels, and clothing. † Then he came back to Achish, 10 who inquired, “Where did you raid today?” † † David replied, “The south country of Judah,” “The south country of the Jerahmeelites,” † or “The south country of the Kenites.” † 11 David did not let a man or woman live to be brought to Gath, for he said, “Or they will inform on us and say, ‘This is what David did.’ ” This was David’s custom during the whole time he stayed in the Philistine territory. 12 So Achish trusted David, thinking, “Since he has made himself repulsive to his people Israel, he will be my servant forever.”

27:8 Alt Hb tradition reads Gezerites 27:10 Some Hb mss, Syr, Tg; LXX, Vg, DSS read “Against whom did you raid today? ”

27:1-4 David again fled to the Philistine city of Gath (see 21:10-15). Achish, the king of Gath, had also been mentioned during David’s previous stay there.

27:8-12 David raided the Geshurites, the Girizites, and the Amalekites, but he told Achish that he had raided Judah, the Jerahmeelites, or the Kenites so that he would appear to have turned against Israel (v. 12). Last time he was in Gath, David pretended to be insane (21:13). Both of his stays in Philistine Gath were thus marked by deception.

SAUL AND THE MEDIUM

28 At that time, the Philistines † gathered their military units into one army to fight against Israel. So Achish said to David, “You know, of course, that you and your men must march out in the army † with me.”
2 David replied to Achish, “Good, you will find out what your servant can do.”

So Achish said to David, “Very well, I will appoint you as my permanent bodyguard.” †

SPIRITUALISM

Spiritualism is the belief that an individual can exert control on one’s world through worship of spirits. Spiritualism believes that the world consists of two interconnected realms: the spiritual realm and the material realm. Events in the material realm can be explained through a system of good and evil spirits at work. Spirits, ancestors, ghosts, witches, and other supernatural beings are believed to interfere with and interact with human life. Thus, they must be appeased or coerced in exchange for prosperity and a good life.

At its core, spiritualism is a human attempt to understand the misfortunes of life and to exert a semblance of authority over life. It seeks to effectively answer these questions: What is the meaning of life on earth, and how can death be explained? How can one attain a good life? How does one explain accidents and calamities? How does one plan for the future in the midst of many unknowns? How does a community of people maintain a moral order and deal with violations of community ethics?

Scripture clearly forbids human attempts at divination through the spirit world. Necromancy, defined as attempts to predict the future through contact with the dead, is forbidden in the OT (Lv 2:5-8; 19:31) and is considered detestable (Dt 18:9-14). King Saul, frustrated because the Lord did not answer his prayers, went to a medium and asked her to bring up a ghost in order for Saul to learn about his future. This act was noted as an example of his disobedience to God (1Ch 10:13).

SPIRITUALISM TODAY

In today’s Majority World context, spiritualism has been syncretized with various world religions. In many Southeast Asian countries, spiritualism is interwoven with formal religions as a result of the interaction between indigenous beliefs and established systems of religion. In Indonesia, spirit houses can often be found outside a home or a store to appease the local spirits. In Cambodia, the spirit houses hold offerings given to the neak ta, or the spirits of the deceased village founders. The people of Laos revere the nak spirit, a serpent-like creature, who is seen as the protector of the nation. Two practices—ancestor veneration and witchcraft—deserve a closer look.

Ancestor veneration has been historically understood by Western missionaries as worship of ancestral spirits, and therefore, forbidden. But it is important for Christians to comprehend the worldview of those who venerate ancestors in order to develop a proper response to it.

African and Asian religious beliefs recognize only one Supreme Being and several mediatory spirits. Unlike the Supreme Being, the mediatory spirits—such as ancestors—only have derived power. Although they are dead, they are considered “living-dead.” They are perceived to be present and active as mediators for members of their family and clans. As Kwame Bediako noted, there is a strong sense of mutual obligations, affection, and respect between the “living-dead” and the “living-living.”

An ancestor is one who has lived a virtuous and long life in the community. Such a pristine life cannot wish evil even after one has died. Therefore, ancestors are perceived to bestow blessings like good harvest, protection, fertility, and success in the present life. Because they lived a virtuous aged life and will continue with their good works in death, they are considered worthy of veneration (not worship). Furthermore, some ancestors are “glorified” and thus “serve” families outside of their own family and clan.

Another worldview issue commonly associated with Africa involves belief in witches and witchcraft accusation. These matters are pervasive and complex. The word witch, for instance, can have positive or negative usage. In the Hausa language, Maye could mean exceptional ability. Nonetheless, the popular understanding of a witch is one who is oriented toward evil. Witches are malevolent cannibals.

In the religious consciousness of an average African, nothing simply happens. People want to know who, and not simply what, caused death, sickness, barrenness, lack of promotion, or poverty. Just who or what is behind all perceived misfortune? The need to name an agency becomes imminent. Unfortunately, it is the vulnerable and weak in society who usually become the victims of witchcraft accusation. Perceptions regarding who a witch is and what that witch can do need to be transformed by a God-centered view of reality.

SPIRITUALISM AND CHRISTIANITY

Engaging spiritualism from a Christian worldview means engaging questions of ultimate reality. Developing a theology of the spirit world is critical for our engagement both in the Western world and in the Majority World, if we are to engage converts from other religions or those people whose cultural practices revolve around the worship of spirits. Harold Netland, an authority in the field of religious pluralism, cautions against seeing spiritualism as a sign that a culture is premodern or primitive in spite of the fact that its often considered a folk religion since forms of spiritualism can also be observed in modern culture alongside formal religions.

Missiological anthropologist Paul Hiebert observes that many Western missionaries often deny the existence of the spirit world, thus causing new converts to revert back to their old beliefs or to return to diviners who give them familiar answers for their present problems. Hiebert suggests that a key to developing a theology of the spirit world is to correct the flaw of “the excluded middle” in Western Christian thought. Western science has primarily focused on the immanent empirical world of human existence (that which can be confirmed by our senses), while Western Christian thought on the spirit world has primarily focused on the transcendent theistic world (heaven, hell, and eternity). Western missionaries, therefore, have traditionally not had robust understandings of the “middle world,” a world for which other religions and other cultures have developed complex systems which include beings like spirits, trolls, pixies, gnomes, and fairies that cannot be observed by our senses but are thought to occupy the human world nevertheless. Thus, historically, when Western missionaries encounter various forms of spirit worship, the tendency is to dismiss the reality of these spirits.

Following Paul’s example set at the Areopagus (Ac 17), Christians ought to respond to claims of spiritualism by affirming a God-centered view of reality rather than simply dismissing the presence of the spirit world. God created the world (Gn 1:1; Jn 1:3; Rv 4:11), and he continues to act in it through his providence, presence, and power (Jb 37:6-13; Ps 135:6; Col 1:17; Heb 1:3). The triune God is in active and direct relationship with humans, through his Son Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit, who lives in us. Jesus Christ is supreme over all of creation, and “everything was created by him, in heaven and on earth, the visible and the invisible” (Col 1:16). Our relationship with God is mediated through Christ—not through any other created beings. Individuals are therefore accountable for their own actions. As a result, our focus must be on God, on his divinely ordained principles for his creation, on our submission and obedience to him, and on our faith in his plan for our lives. We should not focus on how we might control our futures by manipulating God into doing our bidding. Instead, we worship God the Creator. Our trust must be in the Lord (Ps 37:3; Pr 3:5; Is 26:4).

FELIX THEONUGRAHA
ZACHS GAIYA

3 By this time Samuel had died, † all Israel had mourned for him and buried him in Ramah, his city, † and Saul had removed the mediums and spiritists from the land. † 4 The Philistines gathered and camped at Shunem. So Saul gathered all Israel, and they camped at Gilboa. 5 When Saul saw the Philistine camp, he was afraid and his heart pounded. 6 He inquired of the LORD, but the LORD did not answer him in dreams or by the Urim or by the prophets. † 7 Saul then said to his servants, "Find me a woman who is a medium, so I can go and consult her."

His servants replied, "There is a woman at En-dor † who is a medium." †

8 Saul disguised himself † by putting on different clothes and set out with two of his men. They came to the woman at night, and Saul said, "Consult a spirit for me. † Bring up for me the one I tell you." †

9 But the woman said to him, "You surely know what Saul has done, † how he has cut off the mediums and spiritists from the land. Why are you setting a trap for me to get me killed? "

10 Then Saul swore to her by the LORD: "As surely as the LORD lives, no punishment will come to you † from this."

11 "Who is it that you want me to bring up for you? " the woman asked.

"Bring up Samuel for me," he answered.

12 When the woman saw Samuel, she screamed, and then she asked Saul, "Why did you deceive me? You are Saul! "

13 But the king said to her, "Don't be afraid. What do you see? "

"I see a spirit form † coming up out of the earth," the woman answered.

14 Then Saul asked her, "What does he look like? "

"An old man is coming up," she replied. "He's wearing a robe." † Then Saul knew that it was Samuel, and he knelt low with his face to the ground and paid homage. †

15 "Why have you disturbed me by bringing me up? " Samuel asked Saul.

"I'm in serious trouble," replied Saul. "The Philistines are fighting against me and God has turned away from me. † He doesn't answer me anymore, † either through the prophets or in dreams. So I've called on you to tell me what I should do."

16 Samuel answered, “Since the LORD has turned away from you and has become your enemy, why are you asking me? 17 The LORD has done † exactly what he said through me: The LORD has torn the kingship out of your hand and given it to your neighbor David. † 18 You did not obey the LORD and did not carry out his burning anger against Amalek; † therefore the LORD has done this to you today. 19 The LORD will also hand Israel over to the Philistines along with you. Tomorrow you and your sons will be with me, † † and the LORD will hand Israel’s army over to the Philistines.”
20 Immediately, Saul fell flat on the ground. He was terrified by Samuel’s words and was also weak because he had not eaten anything all day and all night.
21 The woman came over to Saul, and she saw that he was terrified and said to him, “Look, your servant has obeyed you. I took my life in my hands † and did what you told me to do. 22 Now please listen to your servant. Let me set some food in front of you. Eat and it will give you strength so you can go on your way.”
23 He refused, saying, “I won’t eat,” but when his servants and the woman urged him, he listened to them. † He got up off the ground and sat on the bed. † 24 The woman had a fattened calf at her house, and she quickly slaughtered it. †
She also took flour, kneaded it, and baked unleavened bread. 25 She served it to Saul and his servants, and they ate. Afterward, they got up and left that night.

28:1-2 David’s stay in Gath became even more awkward when he agreed to march against Israel with Achish’s army (see also the previous note and 29:1-11).

28:7-19 Saul’s wickedness found further expression through his consulting a medium, which was repeatedly forbidden in the Pentateuch (Lv 19:31; 20:6,27; Deuteronomy 18:10-11; see “Spiritism, Animism, and Cynicism in Biblical Times,” p. 237). The main function of a medium was to communicate with the spirit world, especially with the dead. As before (13:8-10; 15:24), a high-pressure situation revealed the true condition of his heart. Saul was afraid of the Philistines, and God was not answering him (vv. 5-6). Although he had banned all mediums and spiritists from the land (vv. 3,8), the king went against his own decree in covertly seeking a medium at En-dor. This again demonstrates the difference between prophecy in which God speaks in his own time and religious structures that attempt to force deities to provide information and help. The appearance of the spirit of a deceased person is unparalleled in Scripture and should probably be considered exceptional, as perhaps is suggested by the woman's surprise (vv. 11-15). Apparently Saul could not see Samuel (vv. 12-14), but the two did converse (vv. 15-19). Ironically, Samuel only reinforced what God had said earlier (cp. 15:22-29) and informed Saul of his impending defeat and death.

PHILISTINES REJECT DAVID

29 The Philistines † brought all their military units together at Aphek † while Israel was camped by the spring in Jezreel. † 2 As the Philistine leaders were passing in review with their units of hundreds and thousands, David and his men † were passing in review behind them with Achish. 3 Then the Philistine commanders asked, "What are these Hebrews doing here?"
Achish answered the Philistine commanders, "That is David, servant of King Saul of Israel. He has been with me a considerable period of time. † From the day he defected until today, I've found no fault with him." †
4 The Philistine commanders, however, were enraged with Achish and told him, "Send that man back and let him return to the place you assigned him. † He must not go down with us into battle only to become our adversary during the battle. † What better way could he ingratiate himself with his master than with the heads of our men? 5 Isn't this the David they sing about during their dances:

Saul has killed his thousands,
but David his tens of thousands?" †

6 So Achish summoned David and told him, "As the LORD lives, you are an honorable man. I think it is good † to have you fighting † in this unit with me, because I have found no fault in you from the day you came to me until today. †
But the leaders don't think you are reliable. 7 Now go back quietly and you won't be doing anything the Philistine leaders think is wrong."
8 "But what have I done?" † David replied to Achish. "From the first day I entered your service until today, what have you found against your servant to keep me from going to fight against the enemies of my lord the king?"
9 Achish answered David, "I'm convinced that you are as reliable as an angel of God. † But the Philistine commanders have said, 'He must not go into battle with us.' † 10 So get up early in the morning, you and your masters' servants who came with you. † † When you've all gotten up early, go as soon as it's light." 11 So David and his men got up early in the morning to return to the land of the Philistines. And the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

29:1-7 David had agreed to fight with Achish (see the note on 28:1-2), but the other Philistine leaders objected to his serving alongside them. Achish eventually agreed with their concerns, sparing David from the awkward position of needing to fight against Israel (v. 11).

DAVID'S DEFEAT OF THE AMALEKITES

30 David and his men † arrived in Ziklag † on the third day. The Amalekites † had raided the Negev and attacked and burned Ziklag. 2 They also had kidnapped the women and everyone † in it from youngest to oldest. They had killed no one but had carried them off † as they went on their way.

3 When David and his men arrived at the town, they found it burned. Their wives, sons, and daughters had been kidnapped. 4 David and the troops with him wept loudly until they had no strength left to weep. 5 David's two wives, † Ahinoam the Jezreelite and Abigail the widow of Nabal the Carmelite, had also been kidnapped. 6 David was in an extremely difficult position because the troops talked about stoning him, † for they were all very bitter over the loss of their sons and daughters. But David found strength in the LORD his God. †

7 David said to the priest Abiathar son of Ahimelech, "Bring me the ephod." † So Abiathar brought it to him, 8 and David asked the LORD: † "Should I pursue these raiders? Will I overtake them? " †

The LORD replied to him, "Pursue them, for you will certainly overtake them and rescue the people." †

9 So David and the six hundred men with him † went. They came to the Wadi Besor, where some stayed behind. † 10 David and four hundred of the men continued the pursuit, while two hundred stopped because they were too exhausted to cross the Wadi Besor.

11 David's men found an Egyptian in the open country and brought him to David. They gave him some bread to eat and water to drink. 12 Then they gave him some pressed figs and two clusters of raisins. After he ate he revived, †ate for he hadn't eaten food or drunk water for three days and three nights.
13 Then David said to him, "Who do you belong to? Where are you from? "
"I'm an Egyptian, the slave of an Amalekite man," he said. "My master abandoned me when I got sick three days ago. 14 We raided the south country of the Cherethites, † the territory of Judah, and the south country of Caleb, † and we burned Ziklag." †
15 David then asked him, "Will you lead me to these raiders? "
He said, "Swear to me by God that you won't kill me or turn me over to my master, and I will lead you to them."
16 So he led him, and there were the Amalekites, spread out over the entire area, eating, drinking, and celebrating because of the great amount of plunder † they had taken from the land of the Philistines and the land of Judah. 17 David slaughtered them from twilight until the evening of the next day. † None of them escaped, except four hundred young men who got on camels and fled. † 18 David recovered everything the Amalekites had taken; he also rescued his two wives. 19 Nothing of theirs was missing from the youngest to the oldest, including the sons and daughters, and all the plunder the Amalekites had taken.
David got everything back. † 20 He took all the flocks and herds, which were driven ahead of the other livestock, and the people shouted, "This is David's plunder! " †
21 When David came to the two hundred men who had been too exhausted to go with him and had been left at the Wadi Besor, † they came out to meet him and to meet the troops with him. When David approached the men, he greeted them, 22 but all the corrupt and worthless men among those who had gone with David argued, "Because they didn't go with us, we will not give any of the plunder we recovered to them except for each man's wife and children. They may take them and go."
23 But David said, "My brothers, you must not do this with what the LORD has given us. He protected us and handed over to us the raiders who came against us.
24 Who can agree to your proposal? The share of the one who goes into battle is to be the same as the share of the one who remains with the supplies. They will share equally." † 25 And it has been so from that day forward. David established this policy † as a law and an ordinance for Israel and it still continues today.

26 When David came to Ziklag, he sent some of the plunder to his friends, the elders of Judah, saying, "Here is a gift for you † from the plunder of the LORD's enemies." † 27 He sent gifts † to those in Bethel, † in Ramoth of the Negev, † and in Jattir; † 28 to those in Aroer, † in Siphmoth, † and in Eshtemoa; † 29 to those in Racal, in the towns of the Jerahmeelites, † and in the towns of the Kenites; † 30 to those in Hormah, † in Bor-ashan, † and in Athach; 31 to those in Hebron, † and to those in all the places where David and his men had roamed. †
